Tuesday school elections for elementary, high school boards

By Tracey Labovitz

Board of Education elections will be held in several local school districts Tuesday, November 2.

DISTRICT 63

Incumbent Joan Futterman has been a member of the District 63 Board of Education since 1978 and has assumed the roles of president, vice president and member of various committees. She has also assumed those roles for Mark Twain PTA from 1971-86, among many other activities and school groups.

"My experience as a member of the Board of Education and my continued interest in education will be an asset to the future planning for District 63," she said.

If re-elected, Futterman will focus on the entire educational program before minimizing or

Site at 6150 Touhy protested by Chicago residents

Home Depot, Target stores OK'd for Niles

By Tracey Labovitz

The Niles Village Board voted unanimously in favor of the construction of a new Target Store and Home Depot Store to be located at 6150 Touhy Avenue, subject to several conditions.

These two stores have been the topic of heated debate over the last month, with many Chicago residents directly east of the site protesting the construction. The conditions given to the developers were made in hopes of satisfying some of the resident's complaints.

"We have had these public hearings because we are con-

On the Other Hand

by Diane Miller

Last weekend Niles park commissioner Rick Sheridan and his wife, Jane took advantage of a unique opportunity. They flew to Norfolk, Virginia and were guests of their son, Ricky aboard the U. S. S. Theodore Roosevelt, a nuclear aircraft carrier.

Ricky, an enlistee, is part of the rescue squad whose job it is, in the event of a plane crash, to rescue the pilot and extinguish the fire.

As part of the Dependents Day cruise, families of the crew of the U. S. S. Roosevelt were invited for a 12 hour cruise into the Atlantic. Along with about 1,000 guests, Rick and Jane sailed at 6 a.m. Saturday morning. Jane noted she was impressed with the size of the flight deck which she was told covered 4 1/2 acres on the ship which is 1,092 ft. long. She was very unimpressed with the sleeping quarters of the crew which were extremely small and narrow. The beds are six feet long and if a sailor is tall, he's out of luck. The rest of the ship was just a maze of corridors and every inch of space is utilized, she noted.

Rick was impressed with being on an aircraft carrier again since he served on one during the VietNam conflict. He was aboard the U.S.S. Hornet from 1965 to 1967. Naval service runs in the Sheridan family and Rick's two brothers were also Navy men.

Niles Fire Department earns state recognition

The Niles Fire Department received a recognition award for its efforts in promoting fire safety education to the residents and school children in the village.

The award was given by the Illinois Fire Inspectors Association and the Fire Safety Alliance in its annual Fire Safety Activity Yearbook contest. The contest is open to all departments in the state and awards are classified by the population that the department serves.

Niles was awarded in the Class III Division along with Buffalo Grove and Elk Grove Village. The grand prize went to Downers Grove.

The awards were given out at the 52nd Annual Fire Prevention Luncheon held at The White Eagle.

Keynote speakers were Tom Armstead, Illinois State Fire Marshall, Raymond Orozco, Fire Commissioner of Chicago and the featured speaker was George Miller, President of the National Fire Protection Association.

The yearbook is now on display at the Fire Administration Offices located at 8360 Dempster.

Community relations committee to meet

The Community Relations Committee of Niles Township High School District 219 will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 3 in the Board Room of the District Administrative Offices, 7700 Gross Point Road, Skokie. The meeting is an opportunity for community members to discuss school district matters informally with the Board of Education.

St. John Lutheran School first graders, Crystal Hansen (left) and Laura Rznewski lead the "Mile of Pennies" walk from the school to the First National Bank of Niles where the pennies collected by the children were counted.

The tally was $862.99 in pennies, 1,829 pennies more than the goal of 84,460 pennies, the number necessary to extend 1 mile.

District 71 Task Force report accepted by board

by Ben Rieck

After more than one year of effort, members of the Strategic Planning Task Force delivered their report and recommendations at the last School District 71 Board of Education Meeting held Oct. 19.

The project was led and organized by Dr. Al Bertani, Director of Leadership Development for the Center of School Improvement at the University of Chicago. The task force was comprised of a student, parents, teachers, administrators, board members and community representatives.

The planning process for the results of the report took place from November 1992 through September 1993, but actually was more than a year long process including preliminary discussions, Bertani said.

Bertani reviewed the results a a preview of the district's future.

"What the board asked for was a plan that would provide direction for the future, that both creates and anticipates the future," he said.

The final report was a plan divided into a mission statement, belief statements, and an action plan and schedule to carry out the report's recommendations.

"The plan itself is designed so that the priorities roll out in effect over a three-year period," Bertani said.

Board informed of need for older adult education

Oakton trustees inspect Skokie campus construction

by Susan Klingman

Prior to the meeting October 19, Oakton Community College (OCC) Board of Trustees toured the Ray Hartstein campus in Skokie and were apprised of the ongoing construction.

President Thomas TenHoeve then spoke about two letters he recently received. An elderly student made a donation to Oakton's Educational Foundation in appreciation of the many courses she has enjoyed through MONNA-CEP. Another student wrote to commend the college on the fine opera education tours she has been taking for six years.

President TenHoeve also welcomed many international visitors including Board members, faculty, and administrators from Ireland, Korea, and England.

Oakton will be one of the sights for a live, national interactive video conference on Wednesday, Nov. 3. The Career Planning and Tech Prep departments are co-sponsoring the forum Where Have All the Jobs Gone? Career Planning for the Twentieth Century.

The faculty of the Critical Literacy Program presented excerpts from their series in conjunction with PBS. Secretary, Amilda Mader, spoke and noted that the series has brought Oakton international recognition. The contract with PBS and the Agreement with the Critical Literacy Group was ratified.

In her education report, Mader also spoke about the need for education for older adults. As funds for community colleges shrink, and the need to serve high school graduates and displaced workers grows, the resources for this important population diminish. Mader stated that their are many mutual benefits that go along with older adult programs. These students are a source of volunteers and financial support that greatly benefit the college.

Founding trustee Ray Hartstein attended the scholarship

Set clocks back on Sunday

Daylight Saving Time is about to end.

Across the country, people will be turning clocks back one hour at 2 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31 (or before they go to bed on Saturdya, Oct. 30).

In addition, this is the perfect time of year to consider other important time- and safety-related factors.

1. Set clocks, watches, and VCRs back one hour.
2. Remember to change timers on lights in homes or offices.
3. Change the batteries in home smoke detectors.
4. Check all outside lights to be sure they're functioning.
5. Because it gets dark earlier now, talk with children about early evening curfews and outdoor safety.

Seeking candidates for State Representative

Democratic Committeemen from the 55th legislative district, which includes a large part of Park Ridge and Des Plaines, will be interviewing candidates for the position of State Representative for the March 15, 1994 primary.

Anyone intersted, call committeeman Andrew Przybylo at (708) 692-3388.

Culver students named contest winners

Christopher Ciaccio, Sarah Klein, and Gwen Zoldan, the top sellers in Culver Middle School's magazine drive, were honored with a limousine ride recently. The winners were picked up from Culver and driven to the McDonalds at Milwaukee and Oakton, where franchise owners Debbie McCorkel and Don Conley provided them with a free lunch. Later, they rode around Niles, enjoying the prestige of being in a limo.

Each student sold over 20 orders in the magazine drive, a fundraiser for the student activity fund. Student activity monies are used to support special events that recognize student achievement or improvement, reward positive student behavior, or provide fun activities for the student body.

Ballard hosts Haunted House

Children up to age 12, accompanied by parents, are invited to Ballard at 9300 Ballard Road (at Potter Road) in Des Plaines for a safe Halloween on Sunday, Oct. 31, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The children will follow what the residents have named the "Trick-or-Treat-Trail," visiting more than a dozen Halloween booths designed and manned by Ballard residents. The residents, who have been planning the event for weeks, will be dressed up as witches, gypsies, ghosts and other Halloween characters. At the trick-or-treat booths, children can pick up small gifts as well as traditional Halloween candies.

Ballard's Halloween party will also include a Haunted House, complete with ghoulish ghosts, goblins and Frankenstein and his "Mummy." Refreshments will be provided to rejuvenate the children and their parents after a busy afternoon of booth visits and a hauntingly fun tour through Ballard's Haunted House.

"Halloween will be an all-day affair for Ballard residents as they carve pumpkins, ready their trick-or-treat booths and put the finishing touches on their costumes," said Eli Pick, Ballard's Executive Director. "Frankly, I don't know who will have more fun, Ballard residents or the kids!"

Pick pointed out that Ballard's annual Halloween event "keeps everyone inside on a day which could be cold, rainy, or snowy. All of the things we have planned should keep everyone happily busy for an hour or two," he said. "By the time the kids have made stops at the Haunted House and the many trick-or-treat booths, they should be ready to go home with broad smiles on their faces."

Ballard is a licensed healthcare residence that has been providing services since 1975 for clients who require either temporary or continuous care. It is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations and holds a 6-Star QUIP Award from the state of Illinois.

Rehabilitative Therapy at Ballard Returns Clients to the Independence of their Own Homes

Rehabilitation at Ballard is aimed at making the world outside a friendlier place. Our emphasis is on the practical.

We stress the physical skills needed for living - grocery shopping, banking, doing the dishes, dealing with heavy doors and different ground surfaces, handling yourself in a car.

This is the type of rehabilitative therapy that helped Sara, an active woman of 65, after she broke her hip. Upon completion of therapy, Sara was able to work in the garden, take walks with her husband, go to dinner and the theater and even make flying visits to Seattle to visit her daughter.

Eli Pick
Executive Director

Because our focus is on relearning the skills necessary for daily living, we are now remodeling our rehabilitative therapy suite to make learning these practical skills easier.

With the addition of a unique simulated community, the OUR TOWN Rehabilitation Center, developed by Guynes Designs, Inc., creators of EASY STREET Environments for hospitals, rehabilitation clients at Ballard will be able to practice daily living activities in a familiar community setting.

Each aspect of everyday life can be mastered in the safe and unencumbered confines of Ballard, so that our clients can return to the independence of their own homes.

Messiah Lutheran holds Global Mission Festival

On Friday evening, Oct. 29, Messiah Lutheran Church, 1605 Vernon, will hold an Ethnic Pot Luck Dinner at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. Participants are asked to bring their favorite ethnic dish to share.

At 7:30 p.m., there will be a Worship Service in the church sanctuary. The Bethel New Life Church Choir from the west side of Chicago will sing. Wynetta Bullock, part-time assistant pastor at Bethel and student at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago will be the guest speaker. She accompanied the choir on a tour of South Africa in July of this year, and she will tell about their trip to Africa.

The Global Mission theme will continue into the Sunday morning worship services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Guest speakers will be Suzy Macon and her 15 year old son, Jahari, also from Bethel New Life Lutheran Church. They will also speak at the Adult Forum at 9:45 a.m.

Visitors are welcome at all of these events. Call the church office, (708) 823-6984, for additional information.

Niles church celebrates Reformation Sunday

Niles Community Church, 7401 W. Oakton Street, invites everyone to worship on Sunday, Oct. 31 at 10 a.m. As they gather on Reformation Sunday, members of Niles Community Church will share what Niles Community Church means to them and what hopes they have for the congregation.

Worship will begin with a HymnSing, include prayers and hymns by Martin Luther and John Calvin, as well as the Hymn of the month for October: "The Church of Christ in Every Age."

Also, this Sunday, will be the first Family Worship in which children and youth are encouraged to worship with their parents.

St. David's Episcopal to host workshop

On Saturday, November 6, beginning at 8:30 a.m., St. David's Episcopal Church in Glenview (2410 Glenview Road) will host a workshop open to the public entitled "Christian Ethics in End of Life Decisions." The leader and facilitator of the workshop is the Rev. David Scott, an Episcopal priest and Professor of Ethics at Virginia Theological Seminary (Episcopal) in Alexandria, Virginia.

The focus of the morning session from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., is "Death With Dignity." Factors making death with dignity an urgent issue will be discussed along with some current responses by Christians. This session is intended for a general audience.

The afternoon session, from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m., on "What is Futile Treatment?" - will examine questions related to the withdrawal of food and hydration and other end of life decisions. This session is directed to primary care physicians, nurses, administrators, chaplains, and other professionals with any connection to health care.

To register for the workshop, call St. David's church at (708) 724-1341. There is no registration fee, but a $5 donation is suggested for the lunch, which will be provided between the two sessions.

Author to discuss 'How to Reclaim the Meaning of Life's Celebrations'

"Putting God on the Guest List: How to Reclaim the Spiritual Meaning of Your Child's Bar or Bat Mitzvah," will be the theme of a presentation and discussion open to the community led by guest speaker Rabbi Jeffrey K. Salkin, author of a popular book on the subject, at Temple Beth-El, 3610 Dundee Road, Northbrook on Sunday, Nov. 7 and Monday, Nov. 8.

Rabbi Salkin, an author and teacher, will discuss the ideas shared in his book with area residents at the Temple Beth-El Book Fair on Sunday, Nov. 7 at 9 and 11 a.m. and on Monday, Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. His visit is being sponsored by the Temple Beth-El Religious School Parents Organization and the Beth-El Parenting Center.

For more information or to register, contact Temple Beth-El at (708) 205-9982, weekdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

St. Paul Lutheran to sponsor craft show

On Saturday, Nov. 6, St. Paul Lutheran Church and School of Skokie will sponsor "The Gingerbread House," a juried craft show. Over sixty exhibitors will be displayed at the show.

Also featured that day will be a luncheon, bake sale, "Gourmet Galley," pictures with Santa, and a free one hour nursery for children under five years old.

In addition to the regular raffle, this year Christmas trees decorated by Oprah Winfrey and by former Bears football star Gary Fencik, will also be raffled off.

St. Paul is located at 5201 Galitz Street (one block south of Oakton at Lincoln), in Skokie. The craft show will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information, contact Nancy Stephans at (708) 675-2249, Joanie McKinney at (708) 675-4450, or Sue Carey at (708) 676-1760.

Women's Club presents Arts, crafts fair

St. Monica Women's Club present 60 talented craftsmen and women who will display their workmanship for your shopping pleasure. The annual Arts and Crafts Fair is at St. Monica School, 5115 N. Mont Clare, Chicago, on Saturday, November 6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Shoppers will find unique Christmas gifts and one-of-a-kind home decorations. Again this year, antique linens will appeal to treasure hunters. Hourly raffles will be held and prizes will be some of the artists' creations.

The youngsters will enjoy the Kid's Korner with games and prizes from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. A snack shop will offer a variety of treats. Plan to browse for several hours and get a head start on the holiday spirit.

Area woman honored as Volunteer of the Year

The Evangelical Lutheran Church in American held its 5th annual Volunteer Luncheon at its headquarters in Rosemont and honored Marian Erickson as Volunteer of the Year. Erickson received the honor for her many contributions at the ELCA Center, particularly for working with their library, cataloging all their art work.

Besides her volunteer work at the Center, Erickson volunteers at Edison Park Lutheran Church when there is a call for help with congregational mailings. She also helps get the Sunday bulletins ready and plans and coordinates trips for the seniors at Church and also is active in the Altar Guild.

She and her husband Harold (a former court reporter) have two children - son, Alan (wife Barbara) and daughter Lynn (husband Bill) Cook. They have four grandsons - Ryan and David Erickson and Russell and Ian Cook.

When not busy volunteering, Erickson loves to travel and enjoys making minatures of rooms.

Lecture focuses on sprituality

Social Spirituality: Finding God in Society, a lecture by Sister Mary Elsbernd, OSF, STD, Ph.D., assistant professor of pastoral studies and social ethics at Loyola University Chicago, will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 3, at Loyola's Mallinckrodt Campus, 1041 Ridge Rd., Wilmette. One Day Diabetes Education Seminar will be presented by several healthcare professionals including a registered dietitian, an exercise physiologist, a psychotherapist, a pharmacist and a physician. It is designed to give diabetics the knowledege to live a healthy life. The program is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 13 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The fee is $50.

Prepare for the Great American Smoke Out with a registered nurse who will teach participants how to prepare and achieve a smoke-free day and give suggestions to stop smoking permanently.

The program is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 17 at 5 and 6 p.m.

CPR-American Heart Association Course includes all levels of cardiopulmonary resuscitation for adults, infants and children. Classes will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 9 from 5 to 10 p.m.; Tuesday, Nov. 30 from 5 to 10 p.m. and Tuesday, Dec. 14 from 5 to 10 p.m. The fee is $80.

For more information and class locations for these programs, call (312) 792-5022, and press #1. Advance registration is required.

Ballard offers physical therapy program

Physical Therapy for All Ages is this year's theme for physical therapy (PT) month which is being celebrated in October. The purpose of PT month is to increase community awareness about the role of the physical therapist in people's lives.

Ballard, a healthcare residence in Des Plaines, offers the elderly a comprehensive physical therapy progarm complete with six licensed physical therapy staff members. "As America grays, the physical needs of the aging population will continue to grow; physical therapists are uniquely equipped and specifically trained to meet these needs," says Tamara Chapman, PT, Director of Physical Therapy for Ballard.

Common difficulties encountered with aging include increasing difficulty getting out of bed and standing up, getting in and out of the bathtub, climbing stairs, walking long distances, getting in and out of a car, managing meals and doing the laundry. The elderly often face these difficulties due to weakening muscle strength, which occurs even in normal aging. A strengthening program developed by a physical therapist will help older adults maintain stronger muscles, leading to an increased active life expectancy.

The elderly also have a heightened fear of falling. Visual deficits, chronic illness, medications, dangers in the home environment, pain, weaknesses and dizziness are all factors that realistically increase the risk for falling. The following are common ways to prevent falls, prepared by the physical therapy department at Ballard:

- Use night lights to improve vision at night;
- Remove throw rugs;
- Keep walkways clear (keep telephone cords, newspapers and small objects out of the way);
- Use stair railings when possible;
- Avoid walking on wet floors;
- Avoid changing positions quickly. When getting out of a bed or chair, stand for a moment to make sure you're not dizzy;
- Use bath mats with a rubber-ized, non-slip backing;
- Use proper footwear. Avoid open toed shoes and slippers which tend to get caught on the floor;
- Use an assistive device, such as a walker or cane, if necessary; and
- Watch out for small pets.

The physical therapists at Ballard specialize in meeting the physical needs of the elderly. Whether their clients come from home or from the hospital, the goal remains the same. They work with a team of clinicians to maximize their clients' physical strength and independence and do whatever it takes to return them to safe living in their own home.

Those who are having difficulty with any of the activities mentioned above, suffering from pain, weakness or dizziness or is at high risk for falling because of a chronic illness or recent hospitalization, contact their doctor and ask for a referral to a local physical therapist.

For more information, call (708) 294-2300 or write Tamara Chapman, PT, Director of Physical Therapy at Ballard, 9300 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines 60016.

Women's memorial displayed in Lincolnwood

The Vietnam Women's Memorial, a bronze multifigure sculpture, touring the United States, was recently exhibited at Lincolnwood Town Center, its only Chicago area location. This war memorial was the first to honor those women who served in Vietnam. The memorial will be placed in the grounds of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Park in Washington, D.C. on Veteran's Day, November 11.

Hospitals host motherhood lecture

In today's world, more career-oriented women are deciding to have children late in life. For many couples, the time isn't right to begin a family until the woman reaches her late thirties or early forties. Although the risk of complications increases with age, much of the success in after-30 pregnancies depends on the overall health status of the mother.

For women who are concerned about the benefits and risks of delaying pregnancy, The Evanston and Glenbrook Hospitals are sponsoring a free lecture on Monday, Nov. 8, beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the Enclosed Lobby of The Glenbrook Hospital, 2100 Pfingsten Road, Glenview.

Kim Moloney, M.D., obstetrician/gynecologist, and Richard Silver, M.D., perinatologist, will help women separate the myths from reality about childbirth for women in their thirties and forties.

For more information or to register, call (708) 570-5020.

Charity Ball assists needy at Christmas

Learn what to take with and what to leave behind, and how to pack everything so it all fits.

Preceding the presentation, will be cocktails and networking at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Cost for dinner and presentation is $20--presentaion only is $10.

For reservations, contact Sharron Klopp at (708) 374-6120.

eliminating anything from the curriculum and will attempt to curb any financial difficulties in a way that has the least negative impact on the students.

Newcomer Hilia Galvez is a full-time mother, part-time medical microbiologist and a bilingual teacher. She has been a member of the Apollo School PTA, and she has participated in Hispanic Parents in Action. She was chairman of the committee last year. She feels her experience as a foreign professional who has had to adjust to a new society makes her a desirable candidate.

"(I would like) to see education directed to our multicultural community and to consider special needs due to language and specific 'cultural needs' in general," she said.

Sheldon Holzman became a member of the District 63 Board of Education in 1992. He is a CPA and has been a North Cook Illinois Association of School Boards representative.

Holzman thinks the role of a board member is to assure that the children of the district get the very best education. He has had years of experience as an advisor to municipalities and other organziations which enable him to provide financial understanding in today's complex world.

"Providing top education to the children of the District with resources that continue to dwindle and shrink because of economic conditions is the greatest issue facing the District," he said.

DISTRICT 64

No new candidates have filed for District 64 School Board elections except last spring's selections endorsed by the district's General Caucus.

The caucus, which represents clubs, churches, community service organizations and schools, chose four candidates to fill the vacated spots on the board by Board President Terry Krahl, Bob Wilkening, Judith Bunzol and Janice Hunsader.

Eight candidates, including Hunsader, attended a candidates' night to present their views on district policy. The caucus endorsed four candidates, John Pierce, Jane Curry, Martin Joyce and Robert Ryan, who have been elected for District 64 School Board before elections. All that is left for these candidates is the swearing-in. The candidates discussed in detail the present board's lack of communication with parents and the community at the caucus forum.

DISTRICT 71

Incumbent Robert Bianchi has been a District 71 School Board member for 24 years. A 30-year Niles resident, Bianchi is married and has four adult children who attended District 71 and 219 schools.

Bianchi, a retired G.D. Searle pharmacologist, said his strongest asset is his background and experience as a board member. He believes in fiscal responsibility and, while he supports the district's interest in new technology and stresses that computers cannot replace the standard learning of reading, writing, math and social studies.

Bianchi seeks more input from parents and wants to offer free child care during PTA and school board meetings.

"Education is a life-long process," Bianchi said. "I would like to be part of the Board of Education to instill this idea in District 71 children."

Incumbent Desta Elliott was appointed in January 1992 when James DiMaria resigned. A parent of a District 71 student, Elliott has lived in Niles for six years and has been an elementary teacher in the Chicago Public School system for 12 years. She also has an MBA and 12 years of business experience.

Elliott, a chairperson on the Technology Committee, is a microcomputer specialist with John Crane, Inc. in Morton Grove. Elliott initiated the new technology program in District 71 and is responsible for the remodeling of Culver School's computer lab and the implementation of Maine South High School's new computer lab.

She is against a tax cap and thinks there is a better solution. She feels strongly about the gender equity issue and made certain females were fairly represented in District 71's language arts curriculum.

Incumbent John Lombardi became a board member in September 1992 when Barbara Hedrich resigned. A six-year Niles resident, Lombardi is an assistant state's attorney and a parent of a District 71 student.

He favors the district's technology program and says it should give students an advantage when it comes to higher education and jobs.

Lombardi said his interest in education and knowledge of public administration are assets as a board member. He looks at the taxpayers' money as he would his own and does not favor a tax cap.

Richard Tomoleoni is currently serving as President of the District 71 School Board and has been a board member since 1987. He has lived in Niles for 30 years and has six children, two in District 71.

A physical education teacher for 30 years at Roberto Clemente High School, Tomoleoni is also a real estate professional and a professional baseball scout.

He recently received state certification preparing him for administrative work in the schools, and said this certification has taught him what he needs to know to be an effective board member.

Tomoleoni initiated more parental involvement and the implementation of a gifted program. He does not see gender equity as a problem in District 71; he favors new technology in the schools and opposes a tax cap.

Incumbent Eileen Varisco is finishing a four-year term in District 71 and has been secretary of the board for three years. The 13-year Niles resident, who has a child at Culver Middle School, says she's well educated in school board matters through experience and home study efforts.

Varisco is interested in influencing the curriculum and other programs so District 71 students can enter the work force with the best qualifications. She favors the technology program, stating we must be computer literate in this world, and the Regular Education Initiative, a program which mainstreams children with handicapped students, instead of separating them from their peers.

Newcomer Barney Namovic has been a resident of District 71 for 36 years and serves on the District 71 Strategic Planning Task Force, a committee set up a year ago to develop a plan for the future. He and his wife, Margaret, have been married for 38 years and have six adult children.

"I am running for membership," he said. "Because I have concern for children: your children, my children and grandchildren, all of our children. After all, they are our future."

Namovic said he believes that if children succeed in the classroom, they will be better prepared to succeed throughout life. He envisions District 71 becoming Schools of Excellence and said a well educated adult will make a positive contribution to her or his community. He wants to ensure that District 71 students are learning the basics, and he is not as positive as the other candidates about new technology, stating that technology is only good for teaching the basics.

He is concerned for the taxpayer and has a special interest in how increasing taxes will affect senior citizens.

Clifford Drexler has lived in Niles for 32 years and has four adult children, some of whom attended District 71 schools. He has recently retired as a letter carrier for the U.S. Postal Service.

Drexler said he wants the best for all children and that new ideas and methods to enhance education should be explored and used.

"I am deeply concerned about all life, health, safety and education, therefore would like the opportunity to serve a four-year board term for the children and citizens of District 71," he said.

Drexler said the board should reinforce teaching the students the basics, as well as courtesy and respect. He also said the board should take more responsibility regarding expenditures. He sees the gender equity issue as more of a social problem and questions whether all handicapped students would benefit from being in the mainstream of regular classes.

Gunter Drachenberg is running for the unexpired two-year term. He, with Namovic, is an active member of the District 71 Strategic Planning Committee.

Drachenberg, an auto technician, has been a Niles resident for 10 years. He and his wife, Barbara, have been married for 15 years and have three District 71 children. Barbara was PTA president from 1990-1992 and presently serves on the PTA executive board for District 71.

Drachenberg favors the new technology program, as long as it does not interfere with other programs. He advocates physical education and cultural arts programs for a well-rounded education, and feels more should be done to assist foreign students in adjusting.

He favors the Regular Education Initiative and said gender equity should be studied. He feels the home is a child's strongest foundation; however, school becomes the next largest building block on that foundation.

"We must all be careful... parents, educators, and Board members...as to the building blocks that will be used," he said.

Newcomer Edmund Habryl is director of administrative systems at the College of American Pathologists in Northfield.

A 14-year Niles resident, Habryl said he became interested in running for the school board when his children realized they were not as prepared for the working world as he thought they would be. His business experience, he said, would translate well onto the school board.

He favors the new technology program and the Regular Education Initiative and said students have a need for a strong physical education program.

Locker thefts at YMCA

On October 22, 15 lockers were broken into at the YMCA, 6300 Touhy. In the thefts a 43-year-old Chicago man had $500, a watch and a beeper stolen; a 60-year-old Chicago man had $50 and a credit card stolen; and a 37-year-old man had his wallet, five credit cards, and $45 stolen.

The other victims either did not want reports taken or had nothing removed from their lockers. To gain entry, padlocks were broken in both the men's locker room and the men's executive locker room.

Bartender charged for over-serving customer

On October 20, a bartender working at 8006 Oakton was charged with a liquor violation. The 41-year-old Niles man over-served a 67-year-old Niles man who was involved in an accident after leaving the tavern. The patron was charged with leaving the scene of the accident, failure to give aid or information, failure to yield and was arrested at his home.

Later, the patron's blood level was found to be a full point over the legal limit and he said he was served approximately five drinks in an hour at the tavern. The patron paid 10 percent of his $1,000 bond to be released.

Trespasser warned

A 19-year-old Chicago man was charged with criminal trespass at Golf Mill on October 22. Police responded to the scene and were briefed by security. The man had been advised in the past to stay off the property because of past incidents and was told he would be arrested if he returned. He paid a $75 fine for the violation.

Construction site theft

On October 20, a superintendent noticed a trailer door open with the lock missing at a local construction site. Approximately $500 worth of items were reported missing from the site, 6845 Milwaukee.

The missing items include a gas powered pump, four radios and chargers, a calculator, a power regulator, six cans of spray paint, batteries, electrical tape and a garbage can.

DUI driver charged after ignoring cop-flashers

Police observed a 30-year-old Chicago woman driving without her headlights on October 21. Police flashed their headlights to remind her to turn hers on. She did not respond and police followed her as she straddled the lane line. She was stopped at 8278 Ozark and police then noticed the odor of alcohol on her breath.

She failed three sobriety tests and was charged with DUI, driving with a blood alcohol level, driving without headlights and improper lane usage. She paid $100 to be released.

Accident causes power outage

On October 22, unknown witnesses said a power outage occurred when a mobile crane on a flatbed truck struck a telephone pole. In the collision, a power line broke from the pole. The information was collected by the Niles Fire Department, which is still trying to determine what happened.

'Well Groomed' shoplifter

A 54-year-old Niles man was caught stealing merchandise from a grocery store on October 22. He was trying to steal approximately $57 in hair care products from the store at 8900 Greenwood. He paid a $50 fine and received a "P"-ticket at the scene.

Water pump stolen

The owner of a Lincolnwood service company reported a water pump weighing over 400 pounds stolen from a local construction site on October 22. The company had been using the pump, which was leased at 5701 Touhy. There were no drag marks, leading police to believe it must have been lifted and carried away.

DUI arrest

On October 23, a 21-year-old Glenview man was caught driving 51 miles per hour in a 35 zone. When stopped at Seward and Milwaukee for speeding, police noticed his red eyes and a strong odor of alcohol on his breath. He failed three field sobriety tests and was also charged with DUI, having a high blood alcohol level, driving without insurance and failure to notify S.O.S.

Gas theft

A service station had gas stolen on October 20. An unknown male in a dark blue four door car pumped $10 worth of gas into his car and drove away without paying. The service station manager's only wish was to be reimbursed for the gas.

Car seat safety tips

Midas offers the following safety tips and points out some of the common mistakes made when using a car seat:

Car seats, when used correctly, reduce the risk of death or serious injury due to automobile crashes by up to 70 percent. The following are several safety tips to remember:

• Make sure the harness is snug and the straps stay high on the shoulders, and always adjust the harness to accommodate seasonal clothing, leaving no slack.

• During the first three months, your baby's head and body may need extra support. Use a rolled blanket or cloth diaper placed on each side of the head.

• When putting your baby in a car seat, place your baby's bottom and back flat against the seat. If you leave a gap, you may not be able to properly adjust the harness straps.

Common mistakes in car seat usage:

One out of every four car seats in the United States is used incorrectly. The following are examples of frequent mistakes made when using a child car seat:

• Infant is placed in rear-facing safety seat that is facing the front of the vehicle, instead of the rear.

• The car seat is not secured by the safety belt in the vehicle, but is simply sitting loose on the vehicle seat.

• A rear-facing safety seat is used in an air bag equipped seating position.

Halloween safety tips offered

When the ghosts, goblins and other creatures of the night come to haunt the neighborhood on Halloween night, several simple safety tips could help prevent a fun night of trick-or-treating from becoming a night of horror.

"When kids go trick-or-treating, they should wear light or bright colored costumes that are visible at night so others can spot them easily," says Debbie Everett, ambulatory care director at Holy Family Hospital. "Make sure costumers and masks fit properly, and do not block their vision or hearing. This could be very dangerous, especially near busy streets or highways," Everett adds.

The following are some tips Everett suggests to ensure a safe and fun Halloween:

1. Don't let children go out alone.
2. Carry a flashlight to add to visibility.
3. Only visit people known, and stay in the neighborhood.
4. Don't let children eat treats until they are checked.
5. Advise children not to talk to strangers or get into strangers' cars.
6. Obey trick-or-treat hours set by the community.
7. Discard all unwrapped or loosely wrapped items.

Some safe (and simple) treat ideas include non-edible treats like stickers, money, pencils or gift certificates. Make sure the doorway is uncluttered for trick-or-treaters' safety.

Call the local police department or Holy Family Hospital's poison control center at (708) 297-1800, ext. 1017 with any questions about suspicious looking treats. Be safety smart and have a Happy Halloween. Holy Family Hospital is a Level II designated trauma center located at the corner of Golf & River Roads in DesPlaines and is affiliated with Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center.

Laws govern funeral processions

Many motorists are unaware of the Illinois traffic law regarding funeral processions. All motorists, whether driving in or approaching a funeral procession, must obey the law.

Q. What does the law say?

A. A funeral procession has the right-of-way at intersections when the vehicles in the procession have their headlights on.

Q. Must the lead vehicle stop at traffic lights?

A. Yes. The driver of the lead vehicle must comply with all stop signs and traffic control signals. But other drivers in the procession may proceed cautiously through the signals without stopping. Drivers in the procesession also need to be aware of other drivers who may ignore the fureral procession.

Q. Can drivers not in the funeral procession pass vehicles in the procession?

A. Yes. They may overtake and pass funeral procession vehicles if they do not create a traffic hazard or interfere with the procession.

Q. What else does the law say?

A. Other motorists may not drive in the procession unless authorized by a traffic officer. In addition, it is unlawful for other motorists to turn on their lights and join the procession in an attempt to secure funeral procession right-of-way privileges.

Some Shocking Information You Should Know.

A downed power line can kill if it's live. And that's just the problem. You can't always tell if it's live. Sometimes it simply lies there, still. Even worse, it can be hidden under a fallen tree or be touching a neighboring fence, you just don't know.

You cannot afford the risk of finding out. A downed power line can carry 12,500 volts of electricity.

So keep away. If you suspect you have a downed line, report it to Commonwealth Edison at 1-800-Edison-1. (1-800-334-7661)

Psychic Fair to be held

J & M Psychic fairs will return to the Harlem-Foster Shopping Center after five years for its Halloween Psychic Fair. According to folklore, Halloween (the eve of all Hallow (holy)) is the time when the "veil" between worlds is the thinnest. It is the time when spirits walk the earth and disguise themselves to walk among the people unseen.

The psychic fair kicks off Friday, Oct. 29. Tickets for consultations will be sold between the hours of 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30 and 31, tickets will be sold between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Bill Monroe, medium and ghostbuster, will tell true stories of spirits and hauntings. Other psychics will share their experiences during their lectures.

Marlena Rock Lady will bring her lucky charms and crystal skulls.

Anyone wearing costumes Saturday and Sunday will receive $1 off consultation. The center is located about a mile south of the Kennedy on Harlem at the intersection of Foster Ave. Follow the signs to the community room.

Call (708) 885-1177 for information.

Native American artist featured in series

As part of the Who is Chicago? series on the arts in Chicago, Robert Wapahi, a native American artist from the Santee tribe, talks about the beginning of his life and art on the Santee Indian Reservation, located in the northeast corner of Nebraska. The lecture is held on Monday, Nov. 1, at 1 p.m. at Oakton Community College's Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

Wapahi, who was surrounded by musically talented uncles and cousins, pursued a career in music and at age 33, discovered the world of graphic arts. Wapahi has been successful in combining both music and graphic arts as a channel to teach others, especially native American children.

Paul Bombe, an artist from Angola, Africa, concludes the Who is Chicago? series on Nov. 8. The Who is Chicago? series, which runs for six weeks, is sponsored by Oakton's Emeritus Program for Older Adults. It brings Chicago artists to campus to informally speak about their experiences in the arts. Each presentation is followed by a question-and-answer session. All presentations are held at the Ray Hartstein Campus from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The fee for individual presentaions is $5; the complete series is offered at a reduced fee of $20.

Circus features exotic animal acts

In grand circus tradition, a mammoth menagerie of exotic animal performers, from chimpanzees to buffalos, lions and elephants, takes to the rings in this year's Special Celebration Edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, opening November 2 through 14 at the Rosemont Horizon, then moving to the Chicago Stadium, November 16 through 28.

Highlighting the roster of world-class animal trainers is Mark Oliver Gebel, son to circus legend Gunther Gebel-Williams, presenting a rare combination of natural enemies - elephants and zebras.

Young Gebel and his sister Tina present another audience favorite, two full rings of graceful Lipizzaner horses and Arabian stallions. Free of riders and reins, these animals respond to their trainer's voice alone.

Making his American debut, England's daring Graham Thomas Chipperfield presents a spine-tingling display in the lions' den, spotlighting the majestic beauty as well as the ferocity of 10 felines.

The Bogers of Arkansas borrow a page from the Wild West as husband and wife Steve and Kathy and their three children present an unlikely combination of buffalos and mountain lions.

Sue and Rudi Lenz and the antics of their mischievous chimpanzees have become an international sensation and a long-time favorite among Circus-goers. The Lenzes are veteran animal trainers whose appearances the world over include several command performances for the Royal Family of Great Britain.

In addition to an unrivaled showcase of four-legged performers, this Special Celebration Edition of The Greatest Show On Earth commemorates 200 years of Circus in America with the largest collection of children's acts ever assembled in three rings, including the hometown Chicago Kidz, an off-shoot of the city's own Jessie White Tumblers. And Clown of Clowns David Larible wins the hearts of young and old alike with his trademark performance style that draws unsuspecting members of the audience into his hilarious world of whimsey.

Tickets can be purchased at the Rosemont Horizon and Chicago Stadium box offices and all TicketMaster outlets. Prices are $14.50, $12.50, $10.50 and $8.50, with children's discounts available for certain performances. To charge tickets by phone, call (312) 559-1212. For general information, call the Rosemont Horizon at (708) 635-6600 or the Chicago Stadium at (312) 733-5300.

Pheasant Run hosts holiday market

Ring in the Holiday season October 29-31, as Art Plus presents the 7th Annual Holiday Art, Craft & Homespun Market at the Pheasant Run Megacenter.

This holiday event features the variety and mastery of skills of over 195 artists from 17 states.

Observe the subtlety of fine art in watercolor, oils, acrylics, blown glass and marble etchings. Return to the past as Americana folk artists display their skill in weaving, wood carvings, quilting, and tole painting. Their unique crafts will add warmth to any room in the house. Even the kids will enjoy the exhibits of wood toys, puppets, and carry-all baskets, all especially designed for children.

The entire family will enjoy this preview to the Holiday season and rekindle that holiday cheer. This event will be held at the Pheasant Run Megacenter October 29-31. Friday noon to 9 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Adult admission is $5 and children under 12 are free. Strollers are only allowed on Friday. Ample free parking. Pheasant Run is located on Route 64, two miles west of Route 59.

For more information call Art Plus at (708) 325-8080.

DesPlaines Theatre Guild stages 'Stepping Out'

A cast of nine women and one man has been chosen for the Des Plaines Theatre Guild production of "Stepping Out," Richard Harris' London and Off-Broadway hit, to be presented in November on the Guild stage at the Prairie Lakes Community Center in Des Plaines.

The show will be presented in a minimum of 12 performances on Friday and Saturday evenings (at 8 p.m.) and Sunday afternoons (at 2:30 p.m.) for four weekends, November 5 through 28.

All of the Des Plaines Theatre Guild's shows are performed in the 298-seat, state-of-the-art theatre built as part of the Prairie Lakes community Center, the Des Plaines Park District's newest facility, just west of Wolf Road on Thacker (also known as Dempster west of Mt. Prospect Road). The theatre guild, now in its 48th consecutive season, is the Chicago area's oldest community theatre group.

The rest of the DPTG's season will include the musical Romance, Romance, the drama A Streeetcar Named Desire, and the Rogers & Hammerstein classic, Oklahoma.

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild offers discount seating for students and seniors on Fridays and Sundays, and all seats are reserved. Up-to-date information on auditions and performances, as well as information about ticket reservations, is available 24 hours a day from the DPTG's box office at (708) 391-5720.

SJB preschoolers attend fall field trip

Recently the St. John Brebeuf preschoolers went on a fall field trip to Bell's Apple Orchard and Plane View Pumpkin Farm. Parents were invited to come along too. This year, 60 children and 45 adults participated in the field trip. Visiting the orchard culminated the school's study of trees.

During the field trip preschoolers painted pictures of trees, sorted leaves, and made a fruit cup. They also heard stories about trees.

When at the orchard, each child was able to pick six apples from their dwarf trees. All got a chance to taste apple cider and an apple donut before leaving.

Since Halloween is coming up, the next unit of study will be about pumpkins and seeds. So in preparation for that study, the next stop was Plane View Pumpkin Farm where each child was able to pick a small pumpkin to take home. Everyone got a chance to go on a hay ride.

ND holds holiday festival

The Notre Dame High School Parents' Association are gearing up for the 9th annual Holiday Festival of Arts and Crafts. This will again be a two-day event, scheduled for November 6 (Saturday) and 7 (Sunday).

This popular and important fund-raiser will feature the handcrafted articles of more than 150 exhibitors, the giant raffale, the Notre Dame Bakery and more. A variety of refreshments will be available throughout the day.

The Holiday Festival of Arts and Crafts will be held at Notre Dame High School for Boys, 7655 W. Dempster St., Niles, on Saturday, Nov. 6 and Sunday, Nov. 7 from 10-4 p.m.

The admission fee is $1 and ample parking is available.

Rosary hosts visiting day

The Rosary College Office of Admissions is hosting a Visiting Day on Thursday, November 11. The Visiting Day program begins at 9 a.m. in Lewis Hall, 7900 W. Division St., River Forest.

Representatives from the admissions and financial aid offices will be available to answer questions regarding academic programs, scholarships, financial aid and life on Rosary's campus. A tour of Rosary's 30-acre campus will include the College Center which houses the student grill, bookstore, gymnasium and other recreational facilities. Prospective students are also invited for lunch in the student dining hall.

Rosary College is a four-year, liberal arts college for men and women. Rosary offers more than 40 programs including corporate communication, international business, pre-med, pre-law, and psychology. In addition, students have the opportunity to study overseas through one of Rosary's study abroad programs in England, France, Germany, Italy and Spain. For more information about Rosary's Visiting Day, call (708) 524-6800.

Nelson celebrates "School Spirit Week"

Nelson School's successful "School Spirit Week" took place recently. In an effort to promote students' self-esteem and to encourage pride in being a Nelson student, teachers and parents planned an eventful roster of activities.

Activities for the week included "Blue and White Day", where students and faculty alike dressed in the school colors, and "Dress Up Day" during which students were encouraged to look and act their best. Another day featured an exciting softball game between teachers and Nelson sixth graders.

One highlight the children especially enjoyed was meeting Northwestern University wide receiver Chris Gamble, who visited the school on September 27. During an assembly, Mr. Gamble spoke to the students about having confidence and believing in themselves.

Mrs. Linda Rageb, Principal, feels the shared good times and team activities will benefit everyone in the Nelson "family" as they successfully launch a new school year.

Nelson School is located at 8901 N. Ozanam in Niles, and is one of four elementary schools in East Maine District 63.

Niles West students make a difference

Twenty Niles West High School students were honored October 13 at a "You Made A Difference" breakfast, which is held periodically by Principal Jean Rutherford to recognize students who make significant contributions to the school.

The students, who are recommended for the honor by faculty members, are Josh Byer, Khaled Daghestani, Katie Danzinger, Freddy Gabriel, Ryan Geslani, Mike Glick, Eric Gurewitz, Su Jin Hwang, Veena Kerry, Maria Masalis, Michelle Matsunaga, Yasmin Mar-Yohana, Kalpna Patel, Joshua Poticha, Sonia Rihani, Lila Schallart-Wygal, Caroline Shamoun, Guin Tiffin, Vasiliki Vourvakis and Jason Whittinghill.

Molloy plans rummage sale

Oakton holds national videoconference

Those who are wondering what the job market will be like in the future are invited to attend a national live interactive videoconference "Where Have All the Jobs Gone?" co-sponsored by Career Services and Tech Prep of Oakton Community College on Wednesday, Nov. 3 from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The viceoconference will be held in Room 1540 of Oakton's Des Plaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road.

The videoconference is designed for administrators, deans, counselors, human resource specialists and consultants, as well as CEO's, supervisors, managers and entrepreneurs. Through this program participants will learn where all the jobs have gone, about the 21st century organization, the 10 rules for living in the age of joblessness, what organizations, states and the federal government will have to do and how to make the transition to the new way of living and working.

Immediately following the telecasts, a panel of representatives from local businesses will respond and comment on questions on the program.

The cost is $15 and includes lunch, handouts and a panel discussion, or participants may pay $10 for handouts and panel discussion only.

For more information call (708) 635-1735.

UW-La Crosse's freshman class of 1,704 is the university's brightest ever with an average high school ranking at the 73rd percentile.

Local students participate in safety program

Students at Niles North High School and Niles West High School in Skokie are learning about an automobile safety feature that may become just as important as seatbelts and airbags - cellular phones.

The National Cellular SafeTalk Center, in cooperation with the National Safety Council and Ameritech Cellular Services, has developed a public education program designed to teach new drivers how to use cellular phones correctly, and how they can be important tools for personal safety and emergencies on the road.

The innovative curriculum is designed to be integrated into existing driver education programs. It includes hands-on instruction in the operation of cellular phones so students can become familiar with and comfortable using the equipment.

All curriculum materials, including teacher manuals, student workbooks, instructional video and four-color overhead transparencies, are provided free of charge by Ameritech to participating schools. Ameritech also provides limited cellular service, and cellular phones are provided by Ameritech Mobile Sales and Service in Niles.

The National Safety Council, acknowledging the need for a public awarness campaign for cellular phone safety, joined with Ameritech to assist in the development of this driver education program.

The SafeTalk curriculum is available free of charge to high schools within Ameritech's service area in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri.

Interested schools can call the SafeTalk Center at 1-800-37-SAFE-T.

ME recognizes national merit scholars

Six students from the three Maine high schools have been named National Merit Scholarship semifinalists for 1993 compared to 18 who were named last year according to Suzanne Millies, assistant superintendent for instruction for Maine Township High School District 207. Thirty-five students were commended for their performance on the exam compared to 29 who were named last year.

Students are chosen on the basis of results of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test which spotlights intellectual distinction. Less than one percent of seniors nationwide become semifinalists.

Maine East had one semifinalist compared to nine who were named semifinalists last year. She is Eunice Park.

Maine East had 11 commended students compared to nine who were commended last year. They are David Y. Chen, Raymond W. Chen, Stephen Y. Choi, Erika J. Dakoff, Ji Mee Hwang, Robert J. Jericho, Sun S. Lee, Rhutav J. Parikh, Mary T. Peter, Grace K. Suh, and William M. Suh.

Niles student commended in Merit Program

Notre Dame High School For Boys, Niles, announces that senior Sean Anderson, has been named a Commended Student in the 1994 National Merit Scholarship Program. A Letter of Commendation from National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented by the school to this outstanding senior.

Letters To The Editor

Fire protection district trustee to be elected

Dear Editor:

I would like the citizens of the unincorporated area of Maine Township to know that there is an election for North Maine Fire Protection District Trustee on November 2, 1993.

North Maine Firefighters Local 2224-I.A.F.F. is supporting Don Neil for the position of Trustee. We feel that Don would be a great asset to the Fire District due to his experience as a Firefighter and as a Lieutenant. He is currently employed as a Lieutenant for the Glenview Fire Department. He started over 20 years ago with the Glenbrook Fire Protection District. He has lived in Maine Township for over 20 years. He also has run his own business for 10 years.

We have not been involved in supporting any candidates for 10 years. Why now? It is not often that a candidate with this much knowledge, experience, and commitment to community comes along. Don has assured us that, if elected, he would do everything in his power to keep our Fire District from being annexed away. He will keep the same high quality fire and ambulance protection that our citizens deserve. He will treat the Firefighters with respect and meet with them to discuss their concerns.

We hope that everyone gets out to vote on November 2, 1993 and that you vote for Don Neil for North Maine Fire Protection District Trustee.

Sincerely,
James Reid

Local caucuses announce endorsements

Dear Editor:

The General Caucuses of School Districts 62, 63 and 64 proudly announce their endorsement of Dolores Grazian, Iris Friedlieb, Mary Ann Moller-Gunderson and Ralph M. Johnson for the four open seats on the Board of Education of Maine Township High School District 207.

Each caucus has carefully and thoroughly interviewed candidates interested in serving on the high school board and is presenting what we feel are the most highly qualified and competent individuals from our communities for these important positions.

Each caucus is composed of delegates from local service clubs, philanthropic and social organizations, parent-teacher groups, churches and other civic groups from the communities they serve. The three caucuses each operate within their own elementary district to seek out and endorse qualified candidates for their local Boards of Education. In addition, the caucuses work cooperatively to endorse candidates from the Maine Township High School District 207 Board of Education to see that qualified candidates are elected as well as to maintain a geographically balanced board.

The caucus system has operated in Maine Township for nearly 40 years and provides a mechanism which helps ensure voters that a cross-section of each community has scrutinized the thoughts, ideas and plans individual candidates may have before they are elected to office. The caucuses also act to screen out those who seek office for personal aggrandizement or who are single-issue candidates.

As high quality schools are important to all of us, we urge every citizen to vote on Tuesday, Nov. 2 for the caucus endorsed candidates for all school board elections.

Dr. Daniel E. Hogan, General Caucus of District 64
Ms. Laura Bercovitz, General Caucus of District 63
Ms. Nikki Skarbek, General Caucus of District 62

City of Hope offers tribute cards

Tribute Cards benefiting cancer and AIDS research at City of Hope National Medical Center are available through City of Hope's Chicago National Development Office.

For a minimum contribution of $5, the office will send an acknowledgement card to the person or family being honored or remembered. Tribute cards are available for every occasion. The amount of the gift to City of Hope will not be disclosed to the recipient.

Founded in 1913 and located in Duarte, California, the City of Hope is renowned for its advanced research and treatment of cancer including leukemia, diabetes, as well as its research in AIDS, Alzheimer's, and many hereditary and genetic disorders.

To send a tribute card, or for more information, call City of Hope at (708) 699-0100.

River Trails offers nature courses

Learn a little about the critters that live in the Cook County forest preserve by joining naturalists at River Trail Nature Center, 3120 Milwaukee, Northbrook, for fall walks and programs.

Programs for November will be Harvesters and Hibernators, about how animals prepare for winter, at 1 p.m. on Nov. 7; and Reading the Landscape at 1 p.m. on Nov. 20.

Programs will continue through the winter. Join us for Winter Birds, Dec. 4 at 9:30 a.m., and a Winter Solstice Evening Walk beginning at 7 p.m. Dec. 17. Please pre-register for this evening walk.

All programs are free for families and individuals, but are not designed for organized groups. Call (708) 824-8360 for registration and information.

Once out to sea, guests were permitted to stand on the flight deck while an air show was performed. Ear plugs were furnished because of the roar of the F14 and F18 jets as they were catapulted off the deck of the carrier. The planes roared overhead in precision formations and did a 'touch and go' landing procedure where they came down to the deck and immediately took off again. Another plane broke the sound barrier over the ship. Jane said, "you don't even hear them coming, they break the sound barrier, the ship shakes and they just disappear." Planes also dropped bombs into the ocean which looked like 'balls of fire' as they dropped, then you saw the smoke and water and felt the concussion on the ship, according to the Sheridans.

After the air show the planes came in for a landing. Each plane has a long bar with a hook on it which catches a huge cable on the flight deck and stops abruptly. "If the plane misses, they just climb and make a second attempt, but they don't miss often," noted Jane.

Approximately 65 planes are on an aircraft carrier with 30 to 40 stored on the hangar deck below. A huge elevator brings the planes up as they are needed and they learned there are 8 levels below the flight deck on the U. S. S. Roosevelt.

Jane and Rick returned to their home in Niles Sunday afternoon. Both of them felt the trip was a "great experience, really exciting and informative," and added, "we're glad we went. We wouldn't have missed it for the world."

An Owl for Halloween

I saw one! How surprised and fascinated I was, sitting at my picnic table at twilight, as I looked up. There he landed on a lower bare branch of Oak south of my Cottage roof. Just a silhouette picture against the West sky memory of a sunset. The Owl began his chant, not hooting, I'd say the sound was more like a warble. And if I didn't actually know where this bird was perched, I'd believe the chant came from blocks away. He stayed a long time as I marveled.

Never, in my 48 years, had I even seen an Owl! But there were perhaps 5 times in 18 years here at the Cottage, I did hear their varied compositions in the night. Some of my friends are Owl lovers.

Same say Owls are wise; others say they are good luck! I don't know, only I was thrilled having one visit my tree on Halloween '92.

And double was my pleasure while sitting out on Saturday, Nov. 7 for the Owl's encore! Same time and station.

trict for 15 years.

"I have a degree in accouting so I feel I can help with finances and interpreting budget," she said. "I am a parent so I have a great deal of knowledge of what's going on in the schools."

Friedlieb said she has been very involved in school activities such as PTA and Fine Arts Booster, a parent's club.

"I have time to give because I don't work. I feel education is very important. My older two have gotten a wonderful education at Maine and I want that for my youngest."

Board President Ralph Johnson has had 38 years of experience in the education field as a teacher on the junior high and graduate school levels, and as an administrator. Presently, he is semiretired as an educational facilities consultant.

"207 is an extremely fine school district," he said. "Our biggest concern is to maintain the quality of programs that we offer in a comprehensive high school, and to be sure that we get the kind of results that we want which match with our goals for the students in the school district."

Also running for District 207 School Board are incumbent Dolores Grazian, of Morton Grove, and newcomers Marian Moellar-Gunderson, of Park Ridge, and Helen Nichols, of Des Plaines.

DISTRICT 219

Incumbent Gail Stone has been a District 219 Board member for eight years and said her past performances should speak for themselves.

"I feel I helped create an atmosphere easier to work in," she said. "Working conditions have been better and the board has general feelings of good will."

Stone said the district will have a balanced budget this year and the board had to reduce expenditures to accomplish that. In addition, Niles West recently added a new science wing with 15 additional classrooms for the school's expanding enrollment.

"The eight years I've spent on the board have been learning experiences," Stone said. "Good or bad, it has been extremely educational for me. I know I can do so much more on the board."

Newcomer William Novelo is the parent of a sophomore at Niles West. Novelo is the Treasurer of Nutra Sweet Company, as well as an attorney and CPA.

Novelo has been actively attending District 219 Board meetings for the past year. He stands for basic issues such as maintaining the quality of education the district already has. He feels the district should not increase the tax rate and should not think about a referendum at this time. However, he does feel the board should continue to work towards a balanced budget.

"I feel I could bring some broad based financial experience that the board needs," he said.

Robert Silverman was appointed last year to fill a position that Karen Weinstock vacated.

Silverman is married with two children, ages 3 and six months, and has lived in Skokie all his life. He is a CPA and has audited school finances for several other districts before. As a graduate of Niles East, Silverman says he has invested his life into the district and knows what the curriculum is all about.

Silverman said he has certain philosophies that will benefit the District 219 School Board, and said it was his voice that got the district to where it is in terms of demanding a balanced budget. And, although he believes in a balanced budget, he said the district should not spend more than it has.

"I am deeply interested in reserving the excellent curriculum the district has, but not at the expense of cutting programs," he said.

Silverman favors increasing technology in the classroom which will get the teachers and students more interested, as well as introduce the students to something they will see in the work place.

"The school will become more efficient and save money and that is how schools will be able to balance budgets in the future," he said.

Newcomer Jack Purtell owns 71 units of individual apartments as well as some cabs. He said he runs these businesses with common sense which he would bring to the board.

The parent of a student at Niles West, Purtell got involved in the district with his son, who has dyslexia, and said he became in tune to what the school needs. When he realized that District 219 salaries double most state salaries, he wrote a series of letters. After that, people asked him to run for school board.

"I've done stuff besides money," he said. "About six months ago, I went through the school and described a teacher in negative terms. She is gone now. I like to think I had something to do with that."

Lawyer Sam Borek is running for the first time for school board. He has lived in Morton Grove for 10 years and has a child at Niles North. He has been involved with education since he was a college student at the University of Illinois and said his professional expertise and community background are assets.

"I feel I can provide the board with someone who can deal with problems and solve them, such as the computer problem," he said.

Borek is the president and owner of real estate, construction and developing companies, as well as a 180-bed nursing facility in Chicago.

I believe the school district should have full-time college and career counselors," he said. "Travel reimbursement expenses have been cut and there's no way that college guidence counselors can do their job if they don't go to the college."

He quoted the Illinois Association of School Boards by saying "a balanced budget is not exactly a healthy budget". He said it is most important to provide programs and materials so students get the quality education that they need.

Also running for District 219 School Board is Michael McCabe.

Oakton Community College

Incumbent Board President Jody Wadhwa and incumbent Board Secretary Amilda Mader are up for re-election to the Oakton Community College Board of Trustees.

Wadhwa, a Northbrook resident, is a successful businessman. Mader, a Morton Grove resident, is a community leader, volunteer worker and homemaker.

Newcomer Bill Handzel, a Skokie resident, is also running for the Board. He is the audiovisual coordinator at Niles West High School.

cerned about our neighbors," said Village Board President Nicholas Blase. "We will try to do everything possible to accommodate those residents."

Delivery trucks entering and leaving the site is one of the main concerns of nearby residents. Vince Getzendanner, attorney for the applicant, assured that there would be minimal truck deliveries, about eight to 10 per week for the Target Store and a bit more for Home Depot, and trucks would come before noon and rarely on weekends.

In addition, the Village Board requested that a masonry wall be installed at the full width of the truck wall to act as a sound barrier and that all truck traffic be limited to Melvina Avenue, the street west of the project. The Chicago neighborhood of Edgebrook, where most of the protestors reside, is located east of the site.

The Board also added the condition that an 8-foot precast concrete wall be installed along that east side of the site. The Village ordinance says that only a 6-foot wall need to be provided, local residents requested a 12-foot wall, the Village thought 8-feet was sufficient.

The entrances into the site on Touhy Avenue, the street south of the site, will be made 'exit only' and 'right turn only' areas, and the developers might look into banana-shaped exits to completely prevent entrance into the site off Touhy.

In addition, low vision lights will be installed in the parking lot and a dense opaque hedge will be provided along Touhy Avenue.

A committee will be put together of homowner association representatives, Village Board members and developers to try and make the project as safe and convenient for everyone.

The site is the former location of the Wilson-Jones plant and has been vacant since 1991. Getzendanner said the applicants will be owners and operators of the site.

Getzendanner estimated that sales tax revenue from the first full year of sales will be $1 million from the two stores.

"You can get picky about what's in the center or not in the center," Getzendanner said. "But what's clear is the center would constitute an economic boom to Niles. No matter how you view the cost-benefit analysis you are going to come far out ahead of the game."

Getzendanner also stated that many jobs will be available from the construction of these two stores.

In other news, the Village signed a new contract with Central Telephone company for the west part of Niles that will allow the Village to attach cable TV lines to Central telephone poles. This is a 10-year contract that will bring $2,090 a month in revenue for the Village.

The Village Board amended the meaning of a Licensee of Alcoholic Beverages to say; "Licensee is hereby defined to mean the person, natural or artificial, to whom or which the license is issued and includes any officer, director, associate, member representative or employee of said Licensee." The ordinance was changed because its former meaning limited ability of an employee of stores and taverns to get a ticket.

The Village voted in favor of upgrading its present Wang computer hardware with Hewlett-Packard equipment. The upgrade will cost $65,970, but the data processing budget only allowed $52,450 for these items. The extra will be made up by the deferral of other expenses in data processing and finance.

Additional training on the computer system is available at a rate of $900 per day, which is the going rate. At this time the Village will not seek this expensive training.

The Village Board also voted favorably to purchase 10 new Village squad cars through the State of Illinois contract. This purchase, in the amount of $162,000, is much lower than market value. The squad cars presently being used are in their third year of use and need to be replaced.

Finally, the week of November 7-13, 1993 has been designated United Way week in honor of the United Way and its outstanding record of service to people in this community.

District 71 ...

The mission statement includes statements of the district's commitment to the unique needs of its students, its purpose of preparing children to be life long learners and acknowledges the partnership between students, families, professionals and the community.

Bertani highlighted in the statement the role of education as a foundation in the elementary district.

Belief statements in the report acknowledge all the major stake holders in the educational system, as Bertaini termed them. They inlcude the partners from the mission statement and included the board of education and the educational program.

The inclusion of all groups in the statement was a reminder that, "everybody has a responsibility associated with what happens in the educational process," Bertani said.

Educational goals and a schedule for their completion were also presented. Goals most directly related to students were included in the educational program and human resources section.

Bertani said that the district's curriculum cycle used to be based on choosing new materials. With the goals new direction, "this is not just about choosing materials, this is about choosing what the learning experience is going to be as it relates to the curriculum," he said.

Instead of relying on standardized and IGAP state tests only, the task force favored the goal of testing methods that "offer a broader range of reliable and valid data" about students, Bertani said.

The goals section also suggest new ways for the district to fund its projects. Bertani said such suggestions break new ground, but are not as unusual, as foundations and private funding have become more popular.

After the report was given, the board discussed whether it should be approved, in light of an upcoming school board election.

"I really hate to saddle a new board or new members of the board with decisions we're going to make 14 days before the election," board member John Lombardi said.

Board member Carolyn Kosiba did not want to start from ground zero if there are four new board members after the election.

Following the discussion, Lombardi moved to accept the report, subject to review by the standing committees and the full board. The motion was unanimously approved.

banquet where over 70 scholarships were presented. He also attended the Board of Higher Education Meeting and shared Oakton's many successful cost containment efforts.

Trustee Marvin Walker asked about whether Oakton is receiving enough state funding. President TenHoeve said that Oakton applies for all funding for which it is eligible. However, the state's formulas give priority to lower income districts.

Bill Handzel, Skokie, who is running in the upcoming election for a seat on the Oakton Board of Trustees, addressed the Board and inquired why they do not begin their meetings with the Pledge of Allegiance. He also suggested a public question and answer period at the close of each meeting.

A student who missed the deadline for filing for "chargebacks," the funds Oakton pays another school when members of its district must attend programs there, addressed the Board and asked for assistance. Vice-President for Student Affairs, Mary Olson, stated it would be unfair to other students to assist in this case. There were a number of questions about why he missed the deadline, so the Board agreed to take the matter under advisement and discuss it privately with administrators.

Payment of bills for the month was approved. The Treasurer's Report, quarterly investment report, and Comprehensive Annual Financial Report were accepted.

Purchases of long distance telephone service, soil testing, the architect's contract, and engineering services were authorized. There was a long discussion about whether carpeting should be purchased for areas on the Ray Hartstein Campus that will eventually be demolished. Chairperson Jody Wadhwa voted against the purchase, however, it was approved.

An addendum to a joint agreement with Elgin Community College was approved.

The actions of the MONNACEP Board were ratified.

A grant from OPTIONS, a university outreach project in international security was accepted. The grant will be used to establish a speakers bureau to provide programs that will increase the public's understanding of complex foreign policy issues and global communication.

A revised policy regarding paying full-time administrators who choose to teach or other direct services during their vacations or other personal time was adopted. They will now be paid at a part-time rate for these services.

The next meeting will take place on Thursday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Des Plaines campus. The schedule change was made to accommodate a state mandate.
