ILLINOIS YOUTH SURVEY

Legalization talk cited in teen pot use spike

By JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

A discussion of legalizing medical marijuana in Illinois is likely fueling an increase in the number of Park Ridge teenagers using the substance, the Maine Community Youth Assistance Foundation contends.

Margaret Polovchak, executive director of MCYAF, said increased dialogue about marijuana legislation in the state leads to a greater public perception that the substance is not harmful, resulting in a growing number of users.

"It has impacted our students' use rate, as we anticipated," Polovchak said.

Results from the Illinois Youth Survey taken by students in Maine Township High School District 207 earlier this year show that like alcohol use, marijuana and other illicit drug use is higher among Maine South upperclassmen in comparison with Maine East upperclassmen. According to the survey 29 percent of Maine South sophomores, 43 percent of juniors and 42 percent of seniors admitted to smoking marijuana in the past year. At Maine East High School, 22 percent of sophomores, 23 percent of juniors and 29 percent of seniors said they smoked marijuana in the past year, according to the survey.

Freshmen at both schools reported similar usage rates. The survey also shows that the number of Maine South and Maine East sophomores who admitted to using marijuana within the 30 days prior to the survey was nearly triple the number of freshmen who admitted usage.

Eight percent of seniors at both Maine South and Maine East said they used marijuana on school property in the month prior to the survey, the findings show.

Polovchak said MCYAF, which works to discourage the use of alcohol, drugs and tobacco among local teenagers, has begun discussing how to address marijuana usage among Maine Township teenagers.

"We are looking at what can be our best strategy," she said. "We know part of it is education."

At the state level a bill to create a pilot program for the legalization of medical marijuana for those with debilitating medical conditions is awaiting a vote from the Illinois House. On May 28, the bill, originally introduced in the state Senate in February 2009, was sent back to the House's Rules Committee.

During recent meetings MCYAF has been encouraging members to contact state legislators to express their opposition to the bill.

The Park Ridge Police Department has also had to combat local marijuana distribution. In February, Park Ridge police seized nearly 22 pounds of marijuana and $8,000 from a home on Berry Parkway, one of the biggest drug busts reported by the department.

Police Chief Frank Kaminski said the department works to gather intelligence to shut down local suppliers and, in cooperation with School District 207, uses drug-sniffing dogs at the high schools as a deterrent. A recent check of Maine South's school parking lot with a K-9 unit resulted in charges for a 17-year-old student after a small amount of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were allegedly found in his car.

The Illinois Youth Survey also polled high school students on their usage of inhalants, ecstasy, LSD, cocaine/crack, methamphetamine and heroin within the past year. The survey found that Maine South upperclassmen reported higher overall usage rates of illicit substances than upperclassmen at Maine East. The drug with the highest reported usage rate other than marijuana was LSD, which 10 percent of Maine South juniors claimed to have used in the past year, survey results showed. Following closely behind were inhalants, with 9 percent of Maine South juniors admitting to usage, according to the survey.

Maine South upperclassmen also reported a higher rate of misuse of prescription drugs, the survey indicated.

Polovchak said MCYAF is looking at ways to prevent the abuse or misuse of prescription drugs. One idea is making it easier for people to dispose of unused medications.

"It's something we're watching because, of course, we want to stay ahead of the game," Polovchak said.

Park Ridge's police chief has also expressed concerns about prescription drug abuse, telling the Park Ridge City Council in March that this type of drug use "is the next big thing we are going to be hit with."

High school drug use

Results from the Illinois Youth Survey taken this spring by students in Maine Township High School District 207 show higher rates of marijuana use at Maine South and Maine East high schools compared to use of other illicit drugs. The highest rate of marijuana usage was reported by Maine South juniors and seniors where over 40 percent in each grade admitted to smoking marijuana in the last year, according to the survey.

RESURRECTION COLLEGE PREP

School takes Blue Ribbon in Health Education

Resurrection College Prep High School has been selected as the first private school in Illinois to receive a Blue Ribbon in Health Education.

The Blue Ribbon Award in Health Education was developed as a joint effort between Illinois School Health Association (ISHA) and Illinois Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (IAHPERD). The goal of the health education curriculum at Resurrection College Prep High School is the development of attitudes, values and skills necessary for students to lead physically, socially, and emotionally healthy lives.

Resurrection strives to educate students to respond thoughtfully to the many situations they may encounter in their lives. The Health Education curriculum at Resurrection addresses the following: a person's physical, emotional, intellectual, social and spiritual growth and well being; the understanding that health is an individual right and responsibility; the knowledge that many health problems can be prevented through positive health behaviors; the skills to access valid health information and health-promoting products and services; the ability to be able to recognize potential health risks; the practice of goal setting, decision making and communication skills to enhance health; an analysis of the influence of culture, media, technology and other factors on health; and advocacy for personal, family and community health.

In order to qualify for the award Resurrection completed a self-study of the school's health curriculum and reviewed the school's curriculum goals and objectives, content and instructional strategies. The completed self-study was then submitted to the Blue Ribbon Committee for further review and a team from the ISHA and IAHPERD visited Resurrection for an in-depth look at the program. The award was developed using guidelines established by the Illinois Learning Standards, the Illinois School Code and the National Health Education Standards.

At Resurrection, health and wellness are promoted through various programs and practices. Fitness, disease prevention, character development and mental health are all addressed at Resurrection. The school also offers clubs which focus on wellness, including Yoga Club, Stress Busters Club, Health Careers Club, Go Green Club and Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD). The student newspaper, the Res Banner, regularly features stories on health, nutrition and wellness; and Resurrection partners with community members each year to offer Wellness Week. Guest speakers are regularly invited for parents and students on health-related topics, such as bullying, drug and alcohol prevention, and dating violence. The school offers opportunities for students to learn about careers in health care and wellness with the Resurrection Practicum Program, a job-shadowing program for students.

"This award validates the support that our health curriculum has from other disciplines in the school community," said Marcia Berke, chair of the Resurrection Physical Education Department. The Blue Ribbon Award recognizes high quality high school health programs in Illinois. Resurrection is only the seventh high school in Illinois to receive the award.

Resurrection College Prep High School is a Catholic Christian college preparatory high school for young women, at 7500 W. Talcott Ave., Chicago. For more information call (773) 775-6616, ext. 129, or go to www.reshs.org.

Taxpayers owe big for retirements of others

By KAREN BERKOWITZ
kberkowitz@pioneerlocal.com

Never mind that your 401(k) is looking a bit anemic and needs a transfusion.

Everywhere taxpayers turn these days, they're being told they owe a bundle to pay for other people's retirements.

In some suburbs, the accumulated pension debt for police officers and firefighters tops $2,000 per resident.

But that's just a fraction of what suburbanites will need to pony up if their police and fire plans are to be fully funded in a little more than two decades, as required by state law.

And did we mention the state's impending pension implosion for teachers and other public employees?

The state — through a lethal combination of fiscal shortsightedness, political expediency and, dare we say it, greed — has amassed a pension shortage of more than $7,000 for every resident.

And a pension expert at Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management says that figure is based on inflated assumptions about earnings. By Joshua Rauh's calculations, taxpayers are really behind by about $166 billion in the state funds. That equates to $13,000 per Illinois resident or about $34,000 per household.

Worse yet, experts are predicting Illinois' biggest plans will run out of money in the next decade. Illinois, known for having the worst funded pension plans in the nation, could become the harbinger for a wave of insolvencies across the country.

If the state shifts to a pay-as-you-go system — appropriating just enough each year to pay current retirees — the state would need to cut pension checks to the tune of about $14 billion in 2019, the year after the funds run dry. That would be more than 40 percent of the state's revenues, based on 2008 figures.

With guaranteed increases of 3 percent a year, and retirees coming on with higher pensions than those of the people dying off, the $14 billion can only head north.

The tax increase needed to pay that bill would be so large it would surely spur a taxpayer revolt.

State faces staggering pension debt

By KAREN BERKOWITZ
kberkowitz@pioneerlocal.com

Search pension payouts
How much is your kid's principal making in retirement? Find out on Pioneer Press' searchable database of 84,000-plus Illinois pension records: bit.ly/IllinoisPensions

For decades, the state of Illinois has put part of its pension tab on plastic, while charging up earlier and more costly retirements without socking away savings to cover the bill.

Lawmakers put off tough choices by making the minimum payments to fund these pensions artificially low, then skimped and skipped payments while the pension debt grew. A few times, the state even borrowed money just to pay the bare minimum.

"For the average family, that's a surefire recipe for personal bankruptcy," former Gov. Rod Blagojevich said in 2005, when the state's pension debt stood at $35 billion, less than half of what it is now. "But that's exactly what the state has been doing year in and year out."

This year, the Illinois House voted to borrow $3.7 million to make the minimum payment, while the Senate did not agree to the plan before leaving Springfield May 28.

Like a maxed-out credit card binger, the state is now staring at a staggering bill for that political expediency, the sobering consequence of putting aside too little for pensions while promising too much. The state's pension debt is compounding at an alarming speed.

Consider this: It took three decades for the state to accumulate $15 billion in pension debt, just nine more years for that debt to soar to $78 billion. Add what the state has borrowed to prop up the plans, and the figure is really $89 billion and likely to grow to $95 billion this year. That's nearly $7,000 for each resident of the state.

Some experts say that debt is really closer to $166 billion.

The Civic Committee of the Commercial Club of Chicago is leading an Illinois Is Broke campaign to relieve the pressure on the state's budget. The civic committee is trying to persuade lawmakers that pension benefits can and must be scaled back for current school teachers and administrators, state employees, state university employees, legislators and judges.

Earlier this year legislators scaled back pension benefits for eligible employees hired after Jan. 1, 2011.

Illinois' labor groups have long fought any pension reform, arguing persuasively that any reduction in benefits violates a guarantee in the state's 1970s constitution. The clause states that pensions are a contractual right that "cannot be diminished or impaired."

"Teachers and state workers are entitled to reasonable pensions and access to health care; no one is denying that," said Miles White, chairman of the Civic Committee of the Commercial Club of Chicago. "But the fact of the matter is, the private sector reformed its retirement plans in order to survive, and it is time for the public sector to do the same. If we don't reform the system going forward, we risk a financial implosion."

The civic committee contends the state is fast approaching a "tipping point beyond which it will be impossible to reverse the fiscal slide into bankruptcy." The radical cost-cutting and huge tax increases that will be needed to make up for the past will drive employers and jobs out of Illinois, they say, setting off a vicious cycle of tax increases and a shrinking tax base.

Moreover, the group says it's unfair to ask Illinois citizens to bankroll a level of benefit that far surpasses what most employees in the private sector receive.

MAINE EAST

Pressler named principal

Michael Pressler, who has served for five years as an assistant principal at Maine East High School in Park Ridge, has been named the school's new principal.

Pressler will step into the position July 1, succeeding Principal Steven Isoye, who has been named superintendent of Oak Park and River Forest Consolidated High School District 200.

The Maine Township District 207 Board of Education approved Pressler's appointment during a special meeting May 28. The action followed a national search that drew more than 50 applicants, the district reported.

Pressler joined District 207 in 1992 as Maine South High School's Fine Art Department chair and director of the school's band. In 2005 he moved to Maine East High School, where he was promoted to assistant principal for instruction. In this position he worked closely with Isoye on the school's Integrated Freshman Literacy program, which is aimed at improving the reading and writing abilities of freshmen selected for the program.

A member of District 207's Leadership and Staff Development councils, Pressler was involved with the Schuler Scholars Program, a privately funded program that selects students based on academic achievement, leadership potential and financial need, and prepares them for acceptance to and success in some of the nation's top universities.

"Mike Pressler is a proven leader in this district who has made a clear difference in teaching and learning during his tenure, and he will bring those skills to position of Principal at Maine East High School," said Board of Education President Sean Sullivan in a news release issued by the district.

In the same release Pressler said, "I am extremely happy and honored to have the opportunity to serve as Principal for Maine East, a very special school that makes a real difference in the lives of students.

"Along with our faculty and staff, I look forward to working with our students and their families to continue to develop rigorous curriculum and innovative programs that have been, and will continue to be, a hallmark of a Maine Township High School education."

NILES PUBLIC LIBRARY

Interlibrary loans to continue for now

By ALEX MCLEESE
Contributor

For the next three months at least, the Niles Public Library will have access to a delivery service that circulates books requested via interlibrary loan between the locations in the 49-member North Suburban Library System.

But the future looks bleak as the state government is behind in payments and has made no assurances of funding going forward.

The North Suburban Library System locations have each contributed a portion of the payment for continued delivery service, with the Niles branch paying $12,000. Now the libraries are looking to other states for models and scheduling meetings with possible vendors for delivery. Niles patrons use interlibrary loan heavily, and the library branch both sends and receives about 5,000 books each month.

"We would like to maintain unity with all the other libraries," said Niles District Library Director Linda Weiss. "It's handy to be able to share collections. Not every library can own everything."

But the absence of state funding has placed extreme stress on regional library networks across the state, including the North Suburban Library System.

"The North Suburban Library System has basically shut down," said Illinois State Library Manager of Communications Pat McGuckin, adding that about 20 jobs were eliminated.

The funding is not likely to appear soon. McGuckin said vouchers for the libraries — about $24 million — are sitting along with $4.5 billion in other funding in the Controller's Office, without money to pay them. He said the first payments are not likely to be made until December.

To reduce strain on its delivery service the Niles District Library has changed its policy regarding holds. In the past someone placing a hold using the Niles branch would have access to the first copy available in any of about two-dozen locations. Now, Weiss said, the Niles branch plans to buy more copies and limit holds placed at its location to its own collection.

For the next three months Weiss said she will be monitoring the results of the change, hoping to see a reduction in required deliveries.

State debt

Pubic employees receive "defined benefit" pensions that can be as much as 75 percent of salary for life. Because of early retirement plans, many retirees can expect to draw benefits for as many years as they worked. Pensioners also are guaranteed annual pay raises of 3 percent, compounded.

Teachers and some other state employees don't receive Social Security and fall under state retiree health insurance plans, as they aren't eligible for Medicare.

Teachers' groups say what's unfair is to penalize them for the sins of the legislature.

After all they've dutifully paid their employee contributions from their paychecks (about 9 percent), while the state has shirked its responsibilities.

Teachers contend the state is jeopardizing its future because high-quality teachers — sorely needed to produce an educated workforce — will choose to teach in other states or opt for other professions.

Signs of distress

Earlier this year, Illinois' plans were flagged as the worst-funded in the nation by the Pew Center for the States, based on a combined funding ratio of 54 percent in 2008. The market downturn further battered the funds, which ended 2009 with only 38 percent of the assets needed to pay what was promised.

The Teachers' Retirement System, the pension fund for school teachers and administrators outside Chicago, finished last year with just $28 billion in assets after a decade of market volatility and a surge in retirees drawing ever-larger pension checks from the system. In the past five years, the number of retirees with pensions of $150,000 or more soared from 19 to 162; the number of retirees with pensions of $100,000 or more catapulted from 453 to 2,041.

Meanwhile, the fund grew by just $4 billion in nine years, despite an infusion of $4.3 billion of borrowed money from a bond issue. At the same time, annual payouts to pensioners soared by more than 160 percent, to $3.6 billion while the number of pensioners grew by 52 percent.

State labor groups still contend the state constitution guarantees their benefits.

But the Civic Committee of the Commercial Club of Chicago has a legal opinion that says benefits can be changed for current employees going forward — that is, for the years not yet worked. Three other law firms have concurred with that opinion.

Critics say that any legislation testing the constitutionality of a rollback in pension benefits for current employees would be mired in court challenges for years to come.

Funds to pay police, fire retirements eroding

By KAREN BERKOWITZ
kberkowitz@pioneerlocal.com

Suburban officials thought they were making some headway in funding their police and fire pension funds just about the time funding levels shifted into reverse even as local taxpayers' contributions were doubling and tripling. The setbacks have occurred in large suburbs like Evanston and Oak Park that have never come close to full funding. They've also hit places like Wilmette, Park Ridge and Northbrook that at one time could boast of funding levels above 90 percent.

The erosion has been felt in cash-strapped towns like Maywood, where the police fund was only 33 percent funded in 2008. The slide has also been seen in tony suburbs like Lake Forest, where the police funding ratio dipped to 53 percent, according to the Illinois Department of Insurance.

A plan is fully funded if it has enough in assets to pay the benefits already earned by retirees and current employees, assuming a reasonable rate of investment return.

A number of suburbs are far enough behind in their pension funding that the combined debt owed to the police and fire funds exceeds $2,000 per resident, using the insurance department's figures, which often put the funds' condition in a more negative light than the numbers from the towns' actuaries. The list of suburbs with debt topping $2,000 per resident includes Oak Park, Evanston, Highland Park and Morton Grove.

"Many towns in the Northwest Municipal Conference were (fully funded) in 2000," said Larry Bury, policy director for the Northwest Municipal Conference. "By the end of the decade, they have lost ground despite the fact that they have doubled their contributions."

This spring, scores of towns joined forces under the banner, Pension Fairness for Illinois Communities, to call on lawmakers to rein in public safety pension costs by scaling back benefits for police officers and firefighters hired in the future. They first sat down with lawmakers and union leaders in hopes of striking a deal that could be submitted to the legislature with municipal and union backing.

But those talks collapsed when municipal negotiators balked at a measure to force towns with funding levels below 50 percent to step up their contributions. If the towns failed to hike their contributions, the pension boards could ask the state to deduct the money for the town's share of income and sales tax revenues and redirect it to the pension funds.

"All the Pension Fairness movement is designed to do is create a public backlash for police and fire benefits," said Jim McNamee, president of the Illinois Public Pension Fund Association, who believes opportunists are taking advantage of the economic downturn. "Any envy or backlash at police and fire personnel, that is a hell of a monster you are releasing."

Municipalities file separate tax levies each year to cover the required contributions to their pension plans, as determined by their actuaries. The levies cover normal costs and some portion of the accumulated liability that hasn't yet been funded.

Police and fire personnel contribute 9.9 and 9.6 percent, respectively, of their salaries through payroll deductions.

Who is covered by state plans

A broad range of public sector workers falls under Illinois' five troubled pension plans, from the counter clerk at a drivers license facility to a suburban school teacher to a Cook County Circuit Court judge.

The state plans cover suburban and Downstate teachers and school administrators, state employees, state university employees, county and state judges and members of the Illinois General Assembly. Collectively, the five plans cover 279,000 active employees and 168,000 current retirees.

Pension income is guaranteed based on a percentage of salary that is tied to the number of years of service. Though benefit formulas vary by plan, most workers are eligible for 75 percent of salary after 35 years of service. Pension checks increase each year by 3 percent compounded, regardless of the actual change in the cost of living index. The employer — in this case, the state — bears the risk of ensuring that funds are sufficient to pay benefits.

Many private sector workers have 401(k) plans that accumulate savings that a worker can draw upon at retirement.

The Teachers' Retirement System is by far the largest state plan, accounting for about half of all retirees and current workers and nearly three-fifths of the state's pension payout obligations.

Employees covered by the Teachers' Retirement System and the State University Retirement System don't receive Social Security, while some employees in the State Employees Retirement System also are eligible for Social Security.

Who's covered by local pensions

While public school teachers outside Chicago all participate in a single state pension system, that is not the case for the police officers, firefighters and paramedics employed by hundreds of local departments.

State law requires any city or village with more than 5,000 residents to operate separate police and fire pension funds to provide benefits to those personnel when they retire. The pension mandate also applies to joint fire departments and fire protection districts with more than one full-time employee.

As a result, there are more than 700 public safety pension funds operating in Illinois, some fiscally robust, others struggling. Benefits are prescribed by state law. Police and fire personnel can retire at age 50 with 20 years of service and receive 50 percent of their salary. They can earn maximum benefits, 75 percent of salary, after 30 years.

The pension funds are financed from a combination of property taxes, payroll deductions and investment earnings.

Police and fire personnel don't receive Social Security.

VILLAGE OF NILES

9.8-percent tax hike to shore up pension funds

By ALEX MCLEESE
Contributor

The village of Niles' new budget for fiscal year 2011 includes $3.8 million in payments to local fire and police pensions.

In an unusual move the village has drawn on reserves to add $1.9 million in spending to last year's pension payment of $1.9 million.

The fire pension fund is now funded at 62 percent, with an unfunded liability of $17.97 million. The police pension fund is now funded at 53 percent, with an unfunded liability of $23.8 million.

Village Manager George Van Geem reported that the funds were funded at higher levels in 2004, but declining investment income in recent years forced the village to contribute less than what was calculated by actuaries.

This fiscal year the village has set aside more money to meet its payments: 75 percent of what actuaries say is necessary to meet the pension liability fully at 100 percent by 2033. To do so, Finance Director Scot Neukirch said, the village has decided to levy what amounts to a 9.8-percent increase in property taxes, or about $30 per household, by abating less of its debt service.

Previously, he said, the payments could be met by water-service sales or tax increment financing, but those incomes have declined in value, forcing the tax increase. For the coming fiscal year 75 percent of property taxes levied by the village are used to fund the combined fire and police pensions.

Van Geem said the maximum pension firemen and police officers can be awarded is 75 percent of pensionable salary, which usually amounts to $60,000 to $65,000.

"The village is moving in the right direction by recognizing pension obligations, and the board has made the commitment to do what's necessary to fund appropriately," said Van Geem.

He added that the pensions are guaranteed by the state, and that the village will meet the funding obligations "one way or another."

Local pensions

The health of a pension plan can be summed up by its funding ratio, which reflects the percentage of benefits to current and future retirees that could be paid with available funds. The "debt per person" is the dollar amount of the unfunded benefits divided by each resident. Full funding is considered 90 percent.

tions have been rising sharply because of a perfect storm of events, including a decade of poor investment returns, a backloaded payment schedule and benefit improvements, courtesy of the state legislature.

"Some of the cities 'gamed' the assumptions," said McNamee, speaking of locales that pegged their tax contributions to assumptions the funds would earn 8.5 percent, unlikely given legal restrictions on their investments.

McNamee says contribution levels were destined to rise sharply this decade under a new payment timetable sought by municipal officials in 1993, when the target date for "full funding," really 90 percent, was pushed off until 2033. It was previously 2020.

The new schedule was designed with artificially low payments in the early years and larger increases over time.

Municipal officials attribute some of the funding shortfalls to benefit improvements approved by the Illinois General Assembly. In two separate actions, the legislature lowered the number of years required for full benefits — that is, 75 percent of salary — from 35 to 30 years. The change meant more workers would retire sooner and be on the pension rolls a longer period of time. Longer life expectancies also are adding to their costs.

McNamee and other leaders point out they don't receive Social Security and must finance their own retiree health insurance, which takes a huge bite from the pension checks.

"People say they don't get these kind of pension benefits in the private sector, but (the municipalities) argued strenuously to keep us out of Social Security years ago when it went into effect," said McNamee.

"In our mind, this is being used to try to roll back benefits," he said. "In 10 years, people will revisit this time and see that this was political opportunism from people who think that police and fire pensions are too high," he said.

"It is reverse class warfare by wealthy individuals."

DISTRICT 64

New supe's costs covered

By JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 will cover the moving expenses for new superintendent Philip Bender to relocate to Park Ridge from Northern Indiana.

According to Bender's three-year contract the district will pay as much as $10,000 in expenses related to Bender's move. That is dependent upon Bender getting three bids for moving services and selecting the lowest bid, according to the contract.

Bender, who begins his new position as superintendent of District 64 on July 1, said he is in the process of purchasing a home in Park Ridge where he will live with his wife and three daughters. Two of his daughters will attend Emerson Middle School in the fall and one daughter will attend Maine South, he said.

Bender is the current superintendent of New Prairie United School Corp. in New Carlisle, Ind., about 90 miles south and east of Park Ridge. The school district serves students in kindergarten through 12th grade.

Bender said he plans to meet with members of the District 64 community and do "a lot of listening" to ideas they have for the district before proposing any new initiatives.

He said he and his family are excited about coming to Park Ridge.

According to Bender's contract he will receive an annual base salary of $185,000. He will also receive a stipend of $800 a month for travel reimbursement; 20 paid vacation days a year; three personal days; and an additional 196 days of sick leave in recognition of sick leave he accumulated during his previous employment, according to the contract. The superintendent can accumulate a maximum of 340 unused sick days, the contract states.

Bender will also receive family health-and-dental insurance that is the same as provided to members of the teachers union, as well as long-term-disability insurance coverage. The school district also makes contributions for the superintendent to the Illinois Teachers' Retirement System and Health Insurance Security Fund.

Schools seek uniform finance policies

By ALEX MCLEESE
Contributor

The business managers of School Districts 62, 63, 64 and 207 planned to meet with Maine Township School Treasurer Thomas Ahlbeck, of Ahlbeck & Co., to discuss standardizing their financial policies.

The codes need to be similar for the sake of efficiency.

"We need a consistent investment policy so that we are all invested in the same instruments," said Maine High School District 207 Business Manager Mary Kalou. "If he's investing, there can't be five sets of rules he has to follow."

At a recent District 207 board meeting, members said they wanted to be better able to track the performance of their investments.

"One of the things the finance committee will ask for is benchmarking against some standard set of return, which could be one-year treasury bonds or the consumer price index," said Kalou. "At the meeting, what I stressed is that the benchmark has to resemble both types of instruments, whether private or government agencies, for three months or for one year."

Rebecca Allard ,Park Ridge-Niles Elementary District 64 business manager, said the differences in current codes were small and could be easily corrected.

"Words like 'that' and 'but' can change the meaning of a sentence," she said. "The verbiage in policies has to be the same, and nothing more than that."

DISTRICT 64 BRIEFS

Rotary Club names scholarship winner

The Rotary Club of Park Ridge has named Andrea Hetzke the recipient of the 2010 Raymond E. Hendee Rotary Scholarship. Hetzke is the director of the Learning Resource Center at Franklin Elementary School in Park Ridge.

According to Park Ridge-Niles School District 64, Hetzke will use the $1,000 scholarship to travel to Kenya to study community-based conservation concepts and practices at the African Conservation Centre which focuses on the coexistence between humans and wildlife. Hetzke accepted her award at the May 25 Rotary Club meeting.

"Ms. Hetzke's proposal for an international study experience was selected because it would be closely in keeping with Dr. Hendee's interest in supporting professional development for teachers as well as Rotary's international interest," according to Rotarian Anna Rybak, who chaired the review committee.

The Rotary Club of Park Ridge presents the scholarship annually in memory of the late Raymond Hendee who was superintendent of School District 64 from 1970 until his retirement in 1990. Applicants must be teachers in District 64 and their course work must directly relate to their teaching assignment.

Education grants worth $37K announced

The Elementary Learning Foundation (ELF) of Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 announced the recipients of education grants for the coming school year at the May 24 Board of Education meeting. In all, six projects were selected to share $36,700 of funding, according to ELF Trustee Kendra Griffin, chairman of the Grants Committee.

Proceeds of ELF's third successful "Oceans 64" casino night fund-raiser in January helped finance the current grant cycle, according to ELF Chairman Carolyn Uhlig.

Students throughout District 64 will benefit from "Study Island," a Web-based instructional program, which ELF will fund for one year. The program is used to assess and provide differentiated instruction, and for practice of key skills in reading and math for students in grades 3-8.

Two other grants will help expand students' horizons in the fine arts. "The Sideways Stories from Wayside School" will come to life for grade 3 students at all five elementary schools with the help of students from Maine South High School. The high schoolers will present a performance and workshops for District 64 students.

Music students at all elementary and middle schools will be able to use two new electric instruments: a 5-stringed violin/viola and a cello. This grant is a follow-up to an ELF grant last year that introduced students to these unique instruments demonstrated by musician Mark Wood, an original member of the symphonic rock group Trans-Siberian Orchestra.

Many children at Roosevelt School will also utilize 10 iPads to enhance their classroom experiences. Three different projects will touch most grade levels, including enriching the social studies curriculum in grades 2 and 4; establishing an e-Reading Club; and expanding book buddy groups that unite students in grades 1 and 5.

Two final grants are directed to Lincoln Middle School: the fitness center will be upgraded with innovative cardiovascular equipment used in the physical education curriculum and students with special needs in reading will use MP3 players to listen to new, downloaded books, in partnership with the Park Ridge Public Library.

ELF is an independent, tax-exempt organization guided by community volunteers who serve as trustees. Celebrating its 15th year, ELF has provided almost $500,000 in grants for more than 190 projects.

The well-known Przybylo family, owners and operators of the popular White Eagle Banquet Hall, have won this year's Polish Spirit Award from the Polish Museum of America for their commitment to serving the Polish community.

The Polish Spirit Award was initiated in 1987 by the Polish Museum's board of directors to recognize individuals or groups that have shown consistent and outstanding support of and service to the Polish community in America, or Polonia, as it is called.

Ted Przybylo, the family patriarch, helped save the Polish Welfare Association, an important charity, and his six children have continued his legacy of restaurant hospitality, philanthropy and political activity.

Chris Hanusiak, who serves on the Niles Board of Trustees with Andrew Przybylo, said the award is well-deserved.

"The family has a long, steady tradition of giving to the Polish community," he said. "The award recognizes that the family has been here so many generations."

The Przybylo tradition of service to the Polish community is decades old. Ted Przybylo, a second-generation American, won a Silver Star and numerous other commendations in World War II. He opened his first tavern in 1938 and, with his new wife Alice, his second in 1949. By 1966 the business had expanded to include off-site catering, and the Przybylos decided to move everything to Niles, where they built their landmark 66,000-square-foot banquet hall, restaurant and gift shop at 6845 Milwaukee Ave.

Once he had achieved success Ted Przybylo turned to focus on benefiting others in the Polish community. In the 1970s he founded the United Polish American Councils, bringing together businessmen to provide support and guidance to young Polish entrepreneurs. Later in that decade he served as president of the Polish Welfare Association. In this capacity he was instrumental in finding jobs and shelter for many of the refugees that arrived in Chicago from Poland during the Solidarity movement of the early 1980s.

Andrew Przybylo said his father's involvement with the Polish Welfare Association was one of his finest moments.

"Way back in 1970s, the question was whether or not the Polish Welfare Association had the resources to continue social welfare work," Andrew Przybylo said. "He got together with a lot of people, and made sure that the only social welfare association for Polish Americans was not going to go out of business. He revitalized it."

Upon her husband's death in 1992, Alice continued his efforts with the T.S.P. Foundation, focusing on providing financial aid and support for needy villages in Poland, including an orphanage, Lubzina (the parish of Ted's mother, Karolina Paruch Przybylo); an institute for mentally disabled men in Debica; and a children's hospital and orphanage in Tarnow, which, in gratitude for their support, planted a tree in Ted and Alice's honor.

Ted and Alice left a lasting legacy of service to their children.

"We were always taught that we had to give back, so that's what we always tried to do," said Andrew Przybylo. "You should leave your society just a little bit better than it was initially."

All six siblings have been busy with service, and most have continued the business of running the White Eagle. Althea Kroger served as Vermont state senator and now runs a charitable institute in Poland, where she lives. Vivian Kolpak is a co-general manager of the White Eagle and a veteran fund-raiser. Andrew Przybylo is a co-general manager of the White Eagle, a Niles village trustee, a former president of the Polish Welfare Association and the secretary for the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. Alice Pawlicki is the office manager and human resources executive for the White Eagle and past director of the Liponi Foundation for the Physically Handicapped. Vicki Pindras is the dining and customer-relations manager at the White Eagle. Ted Przybylo is the executive chef at the White Eagle and a former president of the Niles Public Library District.

Andrew Przybylo said he and his family are receiving the Polish Spirit award with mixed feelings.

"We took it with some pride and some trepidation. We felt that we are not really that worthy of it, but then we thought of our father, and decided, we'll do it," he said. "Our father was a workaholic, and when the award started, it was one of the only things that he would leave his work and attend. He would usually buy a table and take his family."

The Przybylo family will be honored with the award on Friday at the Polish Museum of America's 30th annual fundraiser, the 2010 Summer Ball. Tickets to the event, which will be at the Rosemont Hotel at O'Hare, are available for $165 per person through the museum, (773) 384-3352, and include dinner and dancing.

NILES TOWNSHIP DISTRICT 219

District considers eliminating class ranking

By NATALIE HAYES
Contributor

High schools have traditionally used a class ranking system to measure a student's academic performance against their peers.

But increasingly, school districts nationwide are deciding that this age-old ranking system does more harm than good. Niles Township District 219 may soon join that list and scrap class rankings.

School board officials grappled with the issue at the May 31 school board meeting, with some members of the board arguing in its favor and others claiming the system is outdated and unhealthy for students when applying to colleges.

Niles North PTSA President Renee DeWald and District 219 College Consultant Jerry Pope argued in favor of its elimination, claiming it would give students in the lower 50 percent of the class better chances of being considered by colleges who would have otherwise discounted them based on their rank.

"The driving reason (to eliminate the system) is because most colleges don't consider the kids who aren't in the top 50 percent of their class," DeWald said. "If you picture the entire senior class of Niles North in one room, half of those kids are limited on where they can go to school because they're not in the top half."

"We're better than that," DeWald added.

If discontinued, only grade point averages would appear on student report cards and transcripts. District 219 officials will take action on the issue within the next few months, and if it is discontinued, the graduating class of 2014 will be the first students affected.

By eliminating class rankings, District 219 would join Township High School District 113 (Highland Park and Deerfield high schools) and New Trier High School locally.

Board President Robert Silverman a class rank system can be useful to parents as a way to see how their child is performing compared to their peers.

"As a parent, looking at (grade point average) doesn't really help me — it's just a number. So (without class rank) there are no other benchmarks on how to evaluate (a) student."

Silverman suggested a type of "internal class rank system" that would allow parents to call the school and get their student's class rank given to them privately. Pope said that type of system would defeat the purpose of eliminating rankings because most parents would retrieve the information if it were available.

As far as the parents are concerned, many of them seem to be in support of eliminating the ranking system, according to DeWald.

"The issue has been discussed at numerous PTA meetings, and the response from parents has been overwhelmingly positive," DeWald said.

Other reasons given at the board meeting in favor of eliminating rank included the pursuit of a less academically stressful environment, and the possibility that colleges will take a closer look at the applicant more as a student and less as a number.

"We'll really be forcing college admission representatives to do their jobs well," Pope said. "They'll have to take a harder look at essays and other application materials."

More discussion on the issue is scheduled for next month's board meeting June 28.

MAINE EAST HIGH SCHOOL

Student's arrest closes file on thefts dating back 2 years

A Maine East High School student is suspected of stealing multiple wallets from her classmates during a period of about two years, according to Park Ridge police.

Five wallets belonging to other students were found inside the book bag of Rasheada Hamilton, 18, of the 8800 block of North Dee Road, unincorporated Maine Township, when she was questioned by Maine East's school resource officer during an investigation of a stolen iPod, said Park Ridge Police Cmdr. Lou Jogmen.

According to the police report a student told the school resource officer May 19 that her iPod was stolen and she believed she saw it inside Hamilton's book bag, Jogmen said. When questioned Hamilton denied taking the iPod, but a search of her book bag by revealed an iPod and five wallets Hamilton claimed she had borrowed from family members, Jogmen said.

An investigation by police determined the wallets had been stolen from students, and additional stolen wallets were found at Hamilton's home as well, Jogmen said. The wallets still contained identification of the students they belonged to, he said.

Hamilton was charged with one count of theft for the iPod, though about 10 theft cases dating back two years have been closed with the discovery of the wallets, Jogmen said.

Hamilton was released on her own recognizance and had a Monday court date.

POLICE BLOTTER

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Niles Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

DUI

Amparo Herrera, 32, of 9122 Lincoln St., Des Plaines, was charged June 3 with felony driving under the influence of alcohol. He was allegedly speeding near the intersection of Dempster Street and Milwaukee Avenue with a blood alcohol content of .217. His court date is Monday.

Alfredo Vazquez-Ramirez, 25, of 3451 W. Berteau, Chicago, was charged May 31 with felony driving under the influence of alcohol. He was allegedly speeding near the intersection of Milwaukee Avenue and Main Street with a blood alcohol content of .088. His court date is Monday.

BATTERY

Dhahabu Owens, 34, of 6678 W. Harts Road, was charged Saturday with battery. He allegedly grabbed a woman by the buttocks twice at the Fresh Farms store, 5740 Touhy Ave. His court date is July 13.

THEFT

Munkhsaikhan Munkhbolor, 21, of 6140 N. Campbell Ave., Chicago, was charged June 2 with retail theft. She allegedly stole a $3.93 Revlon Eye Liner from Walmart, 5630 Touhy Ave. Her court date is June 21.

PARK RIDGE POLICE

Teen drinking suspect caught with his pants down — literally

By JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

An 18-year-old Chicago man surrendered his shoes and his pants but was allegedly less willing to surrender himself to Park Ridge Police when he was stopped on suspicion of underage drinking.

Garrett Weiberg, 18, of the 5400 block of East River Road, was naked from the waist down, barefoot and climbing a tree when he was taken into custody after running from several police officers the morning of May 30, said Park Ridge Police Cmdr. Lou Jogmen.

According to the police report an officer who was accompanied by two members of the Police Department's just-launched Parent Party Patrol observed a person later identified as Weiberg walking south on Crescent Avenue approaching Arthur Street with what appeared to be a can of beer in his hand, Jogmen said. Weiberg was walking with two other people and reportedly placed the can he was carrying in his pants, Jogmen said.

When the officer approached the group he detected an odor of alcohol and ordered Weiberg to place his hands in the air and turn around, Jogmen said. Weiberg allegedly ignored this command and after the officer asked him a second time to place his hands in the air, Weiberg ran away, according to the police report.

The officer who had stopped Weiberg pursued him on foot but was reportedly unable to catch up. Other officers were called to assist, and a police sergeant in the area reported seeing a man running without pants through an alley on Vine Avenue. After seeing Weiberg cut through a back yard two officers took him into custody at 12:43 a.m. on the 1000 block of Vine Avenue as he became entangled in a tree, Jogmen said.

Weiberg was observed by the police officers to be "in an intoxicated state," Jogmen said. Weiberg was charged with zero tolerance under Park Ridge's underage-drinking ordinance and with three counts of resisting a police officer. The people initially seen walking with Weiberg were not charged.

There were no other reports of underage drinking that involved the Parent Party Patrol during the weekend, Jogmen said.

The patrol is a pilot program of the Police Department in which community volunteers ride with police officers and respond to calls where underage consumption of alcohol is suspected.

The volunteers act as observers but also assist police in explaining procedures to parents and provide an extra set of eyes and ears to the responding officers.

Patrol volunteers will be riding with police officers during the next weekend.

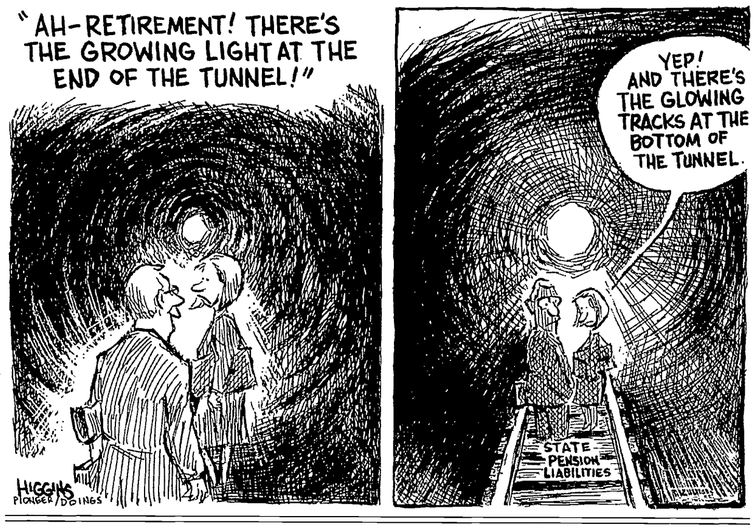
1000 WORDS BY JACK HIGGINS



WE SAY

Train wreck coming

The state pension fund is quickly running out of money and something needs to be done. Soon.

As a special report in this week's issue shows, the state and many local governments are being pushed to the financial brink as they try to keep up with required payments to the five state pension funds and the two local funds, fire and police pension.

Many experts predict the state pension funds will run out of money within this decade, meaning pension obligations that trump all other state bills would have to come out of general revenues or be financed through additional taxes. And since pension obligations equal about 40 percent of today's state revenues, the state budget would require drastic cuts to other areas such as education and roads.

The pension debt of $15 billion in 1999 swelled to $89 billion at the end of 2009 and is expected to be at least $95 billion at the end of this year.

Things aren't much better on the local front. One town already is paying nearly 20 percent of its budget to pension funds. In others, staff is being cut to pay for pension obligations.

Public sector employees receive generous pensions. Workers can retire after 30 or so years, often with 65 percent to 75 percent of their salary, based on the last day they worked. Most are not eligible for Social Security or Medicare.

By contrast, many workers in the private sector have nothing close to these benefits as businesses have eliminated pensions. Social Security benefits top out at $29,000 per year; the average public pension can easily double that.

And public pensions automatically increase 3 percent annually, interest that is compounded.

Earlier this year the state scaled back the pensions for employees hired after Jan. 1, 2011. Retirement ages rise, increases are linked to COLA and salaries used to compute pensions are topped at the Social Security wage base. That will certainly help the state's future problem. But it won't solve it.

Illinois' labor groups have argued that any reduction in benefits violates the 1971 constitution which states that pensions "cannot be diminished or impaired."

But the reality is the state risks a financial implosion if reforms aren't instituted. Businesses will leave the state like crazy as radical budget cuts and increased taxes are implemented to pay the pension debt.

The Commercial Club of Chicago has legal opinions that the benefits for current employees can be reduced for years not yet worked. What these employees have earned is sacrosanct, but what they are eligible to receive needs to be tightened.

A solution to funding the pension fund, at both the state and local levels, needs to come from our politicians fast. Without a solution, our budgets won't survive.

Running into jersey barriers

CHERYL O'DONOVAN

VAN MOM STRIKES AGAIN

My son stews in the passenger seat.

He's mad because I yelled about the price of something he wants.

I don't even know who Niemi is, but we went looking for him last night. All over. For his jersey, that is.

We drove to four different sporting goods stores and searched. Tons of Patrick Kane jerseys, but nary a Niemi. Things got so desperate, I almost commandeered a Zamboni to crash into the Blackhawks locker room and swipe a real one.

I went online and gasped at the prices. Dad being out of work for 15 months made all of us value a dollar.

"Don't go on eBay!" my husband shouts. "We'll have to second-mortgage the house!"

"A signed jersey would cost a lot," my son muses.

"Yeah, and we could afford it — if you're adopted by Daddy Warbucks."

I click around sites. My son won't recall me schlepping us over northern Cook County or cyberspace for this Niemi jersey, but he will remember watching the Stanley Cup championship with Dad.

I drop him off at school for his final day before summer break. I chew my lip. I don't want him to be spoiled and entitled. So far, my sons are pretty good. They never demand toys or gadgets. They'll ask for computer games for their birthdays.

En route home, I see a young mother on a bike, her baby in a netted carrier behind her. Peddling furiously in front is her toddler son.

That was me 10 years ago.

My youngest son approaches adolescence, where he wants cool jerseys instead of baking warm cookies. He won't let me hug him in public. I feel wistful as I clean the house. He used to be my snuggly bear, openly affectionate.

I find an old birthday card in my drawer, a message from my youngest.

"Mom: I love you more than all my stuffed animals."

And I know I can debate endlessly if I'm spoiling him, angst if he gets too many trans fats, or worry about bullying when he gets to junior high.

But I'm going to buy him that jersey.

Mendilow Band fosters unity with music

By DOROTHY ANDRIES
Contributor

The Guy Mendilow Band will bring music from around the world to the Jewish Folk Arts Festival on June 13. Doing so will not be a stretch for the band leader, who had an international upbringing.

"My dad was a jazz musician in Israel," Guy Mendilow said when reached by telephone in the Jamaica Plain area of Boston. "He was also an academic, and in the mid-1980s we left Israel and moved at least once a year. I started first grade in Israel and finished it in Los Angeles."

The family also lived in South Africa during the height of apartheid in one of the very few integrated communities in Johannesburg. Eventually the Mendilows found their way to New Jersey. Music was a part of their lives, wherever they lived.

Mendilow started performing at age 10, singing and touring for three years with the prestigious American Boy Choir based in Princeton, N.J.

"We did between 150 to 200 concerts a year," he said. "We sang in tiny churches and in Carnegie Hall.

By the time he graduated in 2002 from Oberlin College in Ohio, the enterprising musician had formed a trio that was doing pretty well.

"Everyone was trying to figure out what they should do after graduation and I was already doing it," he said, with obvious satisfaction.

Mendilow's group is now a quintet with musicians from Japan, Israel, Great Britain and the United States.

"Some of us live in Boston and some in New York City," he said, "but our music is international. We play Israeli music and Brazilian music, like the bossa nova, which was popular in Israel in the late 1960s and early '80s."

The band also plays home-grown American-style blues and a type of Jewish secular music called Sephardic, developed by the Jews of southern Spain, which they carried with them when they were expelled from the country in 1492. Through the centuries that music has taken on cultural characteristics from the countries where they settled, such as Morocco, Turkey and Greece.

"I've stopped trying to define what we play," Mendilow said. "We just call it world music and we hope that it can bring people together."

The band has toured the United States, Canada, Mexico, Israel and Brazil. Its last Chicago area appearance was at the Chicago World Music Festival in September 2009.

This is the first time the Guy Mendilow Band will play at the Jewish Folk Arts Festival, which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year.

"We are very honored," Mendilow said, "especially to be on the bill with David Broza, who is an icon of Israeli music."

Among the other nearly two dozen entertainers on four stages will be the Maxwell Street Klezmer Band, Ed Holstein, Aaron Freeman, Ballet Entre Nous, Jessica Carleton, Beth Tikvah Choir and Shining Lights.

"It's held every two years and is the oldest running folk festival of its kind," Mendilow said. "Admission is free. There are crafts, activities for children and families, music, food, all kinds of entertainment. How could anyone not come?"

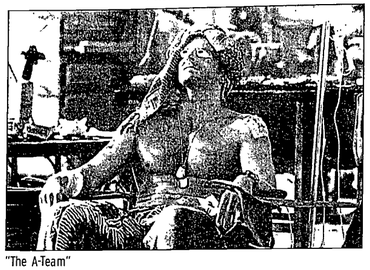
Unrelentingly raunchy, thoroughly morally dishonest, yet still often very funny. Russell Brand returns as the charmingly debauched, self-destructive, sex-mad narcissistic rock star Aldous Snow, in this sort-of sequel to the Judd Apatow-produced 2008 comedy "Forgetting Sarah Marshall." In "Forgetting," Aldous had been on the wagon for years, but that's all over now, after a disastrous album and a marital breakup send his career into a drug-fueled career death-spiral. Enter somewhat dorky record-label junior exec Aaron Green (Jonah Hill, more than usually funny here), who's been ordered by his psychotic boss (hip-hop superstar P. Diddy Combs, who steals every scene) to get Aldous to L.A.'s Greek Theatre on time for a big live album – or else. And the stage is set for a crazed and exceedingly unwholesome 72-hour trans-Atlantic/cross-country buddy movie (Hunter S. Thompson could have been their tour guide) crossed with "The Lost Weekend." Director/co-writer Nicholas Stoller has a light touch that provides unexpectedly funny moments and the whole thing has an almost offhand, casual quality that works well, for the most part. Though the non-stop sleaze eventually gets wearisome and the 11th-hour mock dramatics are regrettable. But the only thing that really rankles is the film's bogus approach to both Aldous's various addictions and his eventual, inevitable, rehabilitation. It's one thing to play self-destructiveness as a lifestyle choice for laughs; it's another to milk that for all it's worth, and then grab for just-say-no points at the last minute. (BI) (109 min.) Rated R for strong sexual content and drug use throughout, and pervasive language.

FILM CLIPS



"The A-Team"

KILLERS

The blissful suburban life of a couple of happy young marrieds (Ashton Kutcher, Katherine Heigl) is rudely interrupted when she learns he was previously an international super-assassin – and now a couple of hit men are trying to carry out a contract on him. Robert Luketic ("The Ugly Truth") directed the comedy. Rated PG-13 for violent action, sexual material and language.

MARMADUKE

A great Dane (voiced by Owen Wilson) wreaks havoc in a previously peaceful neighborhood. Tom Dey ("Failure to Launch") directed the comic-strip-based family comedy, featuring the voices of Emma Stone, Christopher Mintz-Plasse, Kiefer Sutherland, Sam Elliott, Steve Coogan and more. Rated PG for some rude humor and language.

MICMACS

A lonely video store clerk (Dany Boon), whose life has been severely affected – twice – by bullets manufactured by rival munitions factories, decides to take elaborate revenge on them with the help of a group of eccentric friends. Jean-Pierre Jeunet ("Amelie") wrote and directed the whimsical comedy. In French with subtitles. (105 min.) Rated R for some sexuality and brief violence.

SPLICE

The old reliable horror-movie theme about scientists sticking their noses into mother nature's business (and coming away without a nose) gets a dark, suspenseful, thoroughly creepy and surprisingly sexy (make that creepily sexy) workout in "Splice" Adrien Brody (exhibiting a certain moral queasiness) and Sarah Polley (with a mad-scientist gleam in her eye) play Clive and Elsa (pretty clear references to monster-maker and creature in "The Bride of Frankenstein"), a couple of bio-technology whiz kids creating revolting new life forms in the lab. Then they just have to take it one step further and incorporate human DNA into their next "offspring" – and all manner of trouble ensues. With the assistance of subtle makeup and CGI effects, French actress Delphine Chaneac is particularly good as the emotionally vulnerable yet exceedingly deadly creature, who's full of surprises and even a couple of mutations. Co-writer/director Vincenzo Natali ("Cube") keeps things tense, fast-paced and always at least a little disturbing (the body-horror movies of David Cronenberg quickly come to mind), but he also lightens the mood from time to time with a bit of twisted humor. At least for anyone who's ever spent a few long nights trying to cope with a cranky baby. All in all, "Splice" is pretty much a must for horror/sci-fi fans. (BI) (104 min.) Rated R for disturbing elements including strong sexuality, nudity, sci-fi violence and language.

PRINCE OF PERSIA: THE SANDS OF TIME

A rogue prince (Jake Gyllenhaal) and a mysterious princess (Gemma Arterton) join forces to prevent a magical sandstorm from destroying the world. Mike Newell ("Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire") directed the action fantasy. (116 min.) Rated PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and action.

SEX AND THE CITY 2

Those Manhattan gal pals (Sarah Jessica Parker, Kristin Davis, Cynthia Nixon, Kim Cattrall) are back for more, including a luxury (you expected otherwise?) trip to Arabia. Michael Patrick King also returns as writer/director. (144 min.) Rated R for some strong sexual content and language.

SURVIVAL OF THE DEAD

The sixth installment in George Romero's ongoing zombie saga (beginning, of course, with "Night of the Living Dead") involves his rambling dead folk in a power struggle between two families. (90 min.) Rated R for strong zombie gore/violence, language and brief sexuality.

SHREK FOREVER AFTER

It may not be entirely wonderful – this effort to enliven the billion-dollar "Shrek" franchise by siphoning off the plot of "It's a Wonderful Life" – but it's far better than the last "Shrek" and it'll do nicely until the next one comes along. Even if the hype is true and that turns out to be never. After a meltdown at a birthday party for his three little children, Shrek wanders through the woods, nursing a midlife crisis and generally feeling sorry for himself. In short, he doesn't appreciate his wonderful life and is badly in need of a moral. Fortunately, an evil little dwarf named Rumpelstiltskin is on hand to provide one, duping our hero with a magic wish that leaves him unborn and the little "curly toed weirdo" free to wreak havoc on the kingdom. Things move along briskly and always entertainingly, with plenty of action as Shrek eventually winds up battling Rumpel and his witch army with the aid of an underground resistance army of ogres. But the best thing about "Forever After" is its return to the high level of humor that so enlivened the original "Shrek" and "Shrek 2," and was almost entirely absent in the second sequel. (93 min.) Rated PG for mild action, some rude humor and brief language.

All you really need to know about "Just Wright" is that Queen Latifah plays a physical therapist and Common plays an NBA superstar with a potentially career-ending knee injury. See any romantic possibilities? In the meantime, Latifah suffers cheerfully as the down-to-earth homegirl who's always overlooked in favor of fine, slim, foxes like her no-good, gold-digging godsister Morgan (Paula Patton). How can men be so blind! There may not be many surprises here, despite the secret room that Common keeps locked in his mansion ("It's the brothers with the secret rooms that you've got to worry about," says Morgan, apparently from experience), which, sadly, does not turn out to be a sex dungeon, but it's not unpleasant. Latifah and Common even contrive to do a little duet together. Rated PG for some suggestive material and brief language.

ROBIN HOOD

Russell Crowe stars as the legendary bandit, defending the crown of Richard the Lionheart, by harassing the usurping Prince John. Ridley Scott ("American Gangster") directed the historical adventure. (140 min.) Rated PG-13 for violence including intense sequences of warfare, and some sexual content.

FAMILY FRIENDLY

Creating community with family campout

By MYRNA PETLICKI
Contributor

Families can spend a night in the great outdoors for Lincolnwood Parks and Recreation Department's Family Campout in the Park.

Your family can enjoy an overnight adventure at Lincolnwood Parks and Recreation Department's Family Campout in the Park from 5 p.m. June 26 to 11 a.m. June 27 at Proesel Park, Lincoln, Kostner and Morse avenues.

"We thought we could bring the community together through an event like this," said Dan Malartsik, superintendent of parks and facilities. "A lot of families want to do campouts but they've never done them before. This might be an opportunity for them to experience what it's like to campout close to home."

Families are invited to set up their tents, sleeping bags and other camping supplies at 5 p.m. Saturday. At 7 p.m. there will be a hot dog and hamburger barbecue, followed by a night swim at the Aquatic Center. Then you can watch the family movie "Astro Boy" and later make s'mores around a bonfire.

Following Sunday breakfast (bring your own), the event ends with a 9:30 a.m. scavenger hunt. The cost is $22 per campsite for up to seven family members for residents or $28 for nonresidents, which includes everything mentioned above except Sunday breakfast.

For details, call (847) 677-9740 or visit www.lincolnwoodil.org/RecreationDepartmentDescription.cfm.

Inner beauty

Crack open a geode and you may be dazzled by the crystals inside. Watching that happen will be one of the treats at the free Geodefest 2010, 1 to 5 p.m. June 12 at St. Peter's United Church of Christ, 8013 Laramie Ave., Skokie. There will be educational exhibits, plus geodes and food to purchase at this third annual event run by the Chicago Rocks and Minerals Society.

For details, call (773) 774-2054 or visit www.chicagorocks.org.

They'll tickle your fancy

The delightful husband and wife duo known as Flute Sweet & Tickletoon will share a wacky fairy tale when they present "I Hopped Out of Bed & Jumped for Joy" at 6:30 p.m. June 14 at Niles Public Library, 6960 W. Oakton St. Young audience members will take part in the surprise ending.

For details, call (847) 663-1234 or visit www.nileslibrary.org.

Favorable forecast

Swim in the Centennial Park Pool, 100 S. Western Ave., Park Ridge, and then hang around for a movie starting at dusk on June 16. You'll see the animated film "Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs," about an invention that goes wrong. Bring blankets or lawn chairs. Pizza, hot dogs, ice cream and popcorn will be sold.

For details, call (847) 692-5127 or visit www.parkridgeparkdistrict.com.

'Yeomen' colorful, but sad

'The Yeomen of the Guard'
by Light Opera Works 8 p.m. June 11-12 and 2 p.m. June 13 at Cahn Auditorium, 600 Emerson St., Evanston. (847) 869-6300 or www.lightoperaworks.com.

Light Opera Works' latest production is Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Yeomen of the Guard."

Light Opera Works' production of Gilbert and Sullivan's enigmatic operetta "The Yeomen of the Guard" opened Friday at Northwestern University's Cahn Auditorium.

It is quite unlike the most popular of Gilbert & Sullivan works. There are no fairies or pirates or imaginary kingdoms. Neither is the story, set in medieval England, exactly a comedy and, most disappointing, it has only a marginally happy ending.

What it does have, however, is careful direction by Rudy Hogenmiller, Light Opera Works' artistic director, beautiful music, with a full orchestra conducted by Roger L. Bingaman, and a sparkling cast, all of which does compensate for the less than hilarious plot.

George Andrew Wolff plays Jack Point, the jester and he was born for this role. His skillful antics, his comic timing and physical comedy steal the show every minute he is on stage. Plus he has a lovely singing voice and a winning presence.

In "Yeomen" he is part of a traveling comedy couple, the other being Elsie, sung by Alicia Berneche. The soprano is a perennial favorite, having appeared at Light Opera Works in major roles such as Mabel in "The Pirates of Penzance" and Marian in "The Music Man."

The convoluted story includes Col. Fairfax, an innocent man condemned to die in the Tower of London; Sergeant Meryll, who wishes to save him as Fairfax once saved his life; Meryll's daughter Phoebe, who is in love with Fairfax; Wilfred Shadbolt, an assistant torturer in the Tower, who is in love with Phoebe; and the prison matron Dame Curruthers, who is pursuing Sgt. Meryll, who does not want to marry.

There's more. Fairfax wishes to marry before he is executed, because he does not wish his wicked cousin who falsely accused him of sorcery, to inherit his estate of 100 crowns. Elsie, with the consent of Jack Point, agrees to marry Fairfax since he is due to die in an hour and she will then receive the crowns. She wears a blindfold during the marriage ceremony.

Dennis Kelly portrays a distinguished Meryll and Sahara Glasener-Boles makes a vivacious and sympathetic Phoebe. Alex Honzen has a booming bass-baritone voice and is the source of much of the humor in the tale, and Yvonne Strumecki plays the comical Curruthers. Colm Fitzmaurice is Fairfax, the romantic lead, essentially a dull role, which he does little to bring to life.

Three things are paramount for a Gilbert & Sullivan show to succeed without supertitles — diction, diction, diction, and the soloists are outstanding in their articulation, allowing us to get almost all of the jokes. Choral numbers, however, remain a problem.

The show is ably directed and choreographed by Rudy Hogenmiller, artistic director of Light Opera works, and costumes by Jill Van Brussel include the Tower guards in vivid red and gold Beefeater attire.

'Low Down Dirty Blues' a sweet, sizzling romp

Low Down Dirty Blues
to July 3 at Northlight Theatre, 9501 N. Skokie Blvd., Skokie. $39-$54. (847) 673-6300 or www.northlight.org.

Welcome home Felicia P. Fields. Except for the brief stop "The Color Purple" made at the Arie Crown in 2009, it's been years since the vocal powerhouse graced a local stage with her show-stopping pipes. With Northlight Theatre's "Low Down Dirty Blues," Fields is in sassy fine form with a revue that showcases a quartet of blues greats backed by a tight, four-piece band.

The conceit is that the audience is listening in on an after-hours jam session somewhere on the South Side, an idea delivered with gritty authenticity by Jack Magaw's Checkerboard Lounge-inspired set design. Over the course of 80 minutes, the ensemble motors through 22 songs, punctuating the music with brief snippets of storytelling.

There's no real plot to the blues revue; director Randal Myler and music director Dan Wheetman (the duo also wrote the show) wisely let the music weave its spell without the artifice of an outside storyline imposed on it. The music does provide a gentle dramatic arc, moving from bump-n-grind celebrations of the carnal, to songs of heartache, to woeful tales of injustice and finally, to rousing anthems of survival.

Sex permeates the set, especially when Big Mama (Sandra Reaves-Phillips) lets loose, opening with a salty ode to the man who "creams my wheat, greases my griddle, churns my butter and chops my meat." Phillips gets her sultry growl on but good in several additional numbers — the show isn't called down and dirty for nothing. Reaves was in rough voice opening night, hoarse almost to the point of speaking some of her songs, but that didn't stop her from vamping up a storm and capturing the spirit of the blues.

As something of a devil's advocate, Fields brings on the attitude by advising Big Mama to stop putting all her business out in public with "Woman Be Wise," and then turns witchy woman for the smoldering "I Got My Mojo Workin'." Fields shines the fiercest on songs of irreparable loss: With the haunting "Good Morning Heartache," she conjures a thousand shades of longing.

The ladies are well matched by Mississippi Charles Bevel and Gregory Porter; both musical storytellers who can evoke entire worlds with just a bit of deft phrasing. Bevel has a fine range, playing the bawdy sinner undulating his way through "Jelly Roll Baker" and a contemplative saint issuing a mournful warning in "Grapes of Wrath." The latter, all hushed, raw acoustics, is one of the best numbers in the production. There's no dancing, no harmonies, no patter — just Bevel sitting in a chair, plucking his guitar and paying witness to generations of sorrow.

Porter plays the young(ish) pup to Bevel's wise elder, but that doesn't mean he's any less resonant. He brings a sensual rhythmic undertow to "Born Under a Bad Sign," and a stirring intensity to "Change is Gonna Come." He also, oddly, has the thankless job of telling a compelling story about how, as a child, he escaped a jail sentence thanks to his prowess on a silver harmonica. It's odd and thankless because Myler and Wheetman don't include any kind of harmonica performance in the production. The story is a perplexing tease and the one real quibble we have with the show's structure.

Missing harmonica aside, "Low Down Dirty Blues" is a sweet, sizzling romp, from Big Mama's opening exhortation that the band "gimme somethin' I can work with" to her closing shimmy as she struts off to "get me some breakfast."

It also makes several pointed comments about how the blues have been co-opted over the years and watered down to the point where some folks don't know the difference between Howlin' Wolf and Jimmy Buffett. The commentary is barbed, but the music is down, dirty, hot and luscious.

HOROSCOPES

For the week of June 14 - June 20

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A plan you've kept on hold for a long time finally could be greenlighted. But in typical Aries form, you'll need to be sure that everything is in place before you hit the "start" button.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Others might urge you to act more quickly on your ideas. But you'd be wise to follow your Bovine instincts and get more facts to bolster your position when you finally present it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might be tempted to accept the well-meaning offer of a friend to act as an intermediary in a dispute. But you know best what it's about, and you can handle the challenge. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Entertainment can play an important role this week. Enjoy some well-earned diversion with people you care about. Something especially wonderful might come from this well-spent time.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Catnaps and playtime are in order for Leos and Leonas who need to take some time off from their hectic schedules to restore their energies and rebuild their mental muscles. Have fun.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Virgos will need to keep an open mind this week about choices that seem improbable. A closer study might well reveal possibilities that might have been overlooked. Stay with it.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A disappointing outcome of a well-intentioned effort should be seen as a lesson in how to do it right the next time. Note all your changes and have your new plan set up by week's end.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Travel plans might need readjusting because of changes in the costs previously agreed to. Deal with the problem as quickly as possible to minimize any delays that might result.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your honest approach to an unsettling experience draws admiration from others. Use their positive feedback to build support for your program to introduce needed changes.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Travel is strong in your aspect this week, and so is nostalgia! You might want to consider planning a trip to a place that holds some very special meaning for you. Bon voyage.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A job-related situation could provide an opportunity you hadn't considered before. Look it over carefully and see where and how you can tailor it to fit your needs.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Showing strength as well as sympathy helps you deal with a difficult personal matter. It also helps you set an example for others when it's their turn to get involved in the situation.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of making people feel comfortable without losing one whit of your own dignity in the process.

BMW 3 Series delivers power, agility and style

BY IRA SIEGEL
SearchChicago-Autos Correspondent

It's been a few years since BMW revamped its highly acclaimed 3 Series, yet no other machine in this segment provides nearly as much driving enjoyment. Those who choose to buy, or lease, the 3 Series know what they want – a car that is simply the most fun to drive in its class.

Others in this segment may have a bit more power, a few more standard amenities or more room for rear passengers, but none offer the unique combination of handling, agility, power and braking that the 3 Series delivers.

You really have to drive this car with a passion to realize its full potential. Yes, there are some weaknesses inside the cabin, but nothing that detracts from how wonderful the car behaves on the road.

BMW offers the 3 Series as a sedan, wagon, coupe or hardtop convertible. I recently tested two versions of the coupe.

The base coupe (328i) is powered by a strong 3.0-liter inline-six that produces 230 horsepower and 200 pound-feet of torque. The 335i adds a much more powerful 3.0-liter inline-six that features twin turbochargers to produce 300 horsepower and 300 pound-feet of torque.

The 3 Series Coupe, regardless of which model you choose, comes standard with a six-speed manual gearbox. A six-speed automatic with paddle shifters is available. Power is transmitted to the rear wheels, or all four wheels, when

Woods of S. Barrington hosts 'Taste and Tour'

The second annual Taste and Tour of the stores and restaurants of The Arboretum and the homes of The Woods of South Barrington will be held on Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. The event will begin at the clubhouse at 1 Regency Boulevard in South Barrington.

Sponsored by Toll Brothers, the popular event provides an opportunity for the public to sample the restaurants and preview the offerings of the many boutiques and stores of the area's newest premier shopping and entertainment destination, The Arboretum, all under one roof.

Guests also are invited to tour the builder's model homes and homes under construction in its planned community of homes located adjacent to The Arboretum. All visitors will receive a goody bag filled with discount coupons and will have the opportunity to win some exciting door prizes.

The event takes place in Toll Brothers' new clubhouse at its community for residents age 55 and older, Regency at The Woods of South Barrington, located behind The Arboretum.

Real drivers will like BMW's 3 Series

selecting a model with xDrive.

My 335i Coupe tester had the optional ($1,375) automatic while my 335i xDrive Coupe tester had the manual gearbox. I did prefer the manual gearbox, which lets the driver have more control. It features a nice shift feel and likable clutch pedal with hill-holding capability.

The automatic with paddle shifters is fun, too, and more likable if you frequently get stuck in stop-and-go traffic. Both test models were a blast to drive, but I liked the 335i xDrive better for its manual gearbox and all-wheel drive.

I was impressed with how smoothly and how quickly the power gets to the wheels and propels this car from a dead stop and for passing.

The 3 Series carves up twisty roads better than anything in the segment and both of my test models felt as well behaved at triple-digit speeds as most cars feel at 60 mph.

Steering is precise and the brakes are quite powerful. The 3 Series is so much fun to drive I found myself taking detours on my commutes to and from work, and I was quick to offer my driving services for any errands.

Regardless of which 3 Series you opt for, the car looks as good as it drives. The Coupe is sexy and features traditional Bimmer styling cues with a sleek, contemporary theme.

Inside, the seats are comfortable and supportive. I especially liked the highly supportive sport seats in my 335i Coupe tester, which came with the optional ($1,550) sport package, adding sport seats, 18-inch wheels and specific exterior trim.

The 3 Series Coupe is a four seater; the back seats offer little leg and head room. BMW does make it easier for passengers to get to the rear seats by keeping the front seat belts out of the way. But this requires the addition of an automatic device that features an extendable arm to present the seat belt to the driver and front passenger.

I'm glad BMW reworked the iDrive system, which is noticeably better than in the past, but I do have a problem with the center console. First, there are no console cup holders. There are two cup holders up front, but they are small and pop out from above the glove compartment on the passenger side.

Another complaint I have is that the center consoles lid can't be closed if you want to have a cord extending out from the console-mounted power outlet. This was a problem for me when I was charging my cell phone. I had to leave my cell phone inside the console to close the lid or leave the lid open.

Taking it all into consideration, and the fact that the base audio system isn't all that great, the 3 Series is what "drivers" truly want.

Ford improves Sync 911 app for 2011 models

DEARBORN, Mich. – As thousands of emergency communication professionals gather in Indianapolis through today for the National Emergency Number Association 2010 conference, Ford has announced a new capability for the Sync 911 Assist application: the communication of a vehicle's location using GPS coordinates provided to emergency responders.

The nonsubscription-based app remains available to customers at no additional cost and provides emergency operators access to GPS coordinates of a vehicle, another important tool that could help first responders reach the scene of an accident faster.

"Ford is committed to continuously enhancing the owner experience, and SYNC is a key part of that strategy," said Doug VanDagens, director of Ford Connected Services. "Sync 911 Assist is free for the life of the vehicle, and now we're making it perform even better. That adds unexpected value and peace of mind for the customer."

The GPS coordinates are generated by the vehicle's onboard GPS receiver for additional accuracy.

"Sync 911 Assist calls already come in on priority emergency lines due to the call being placed from the customer's personal cell phone versus an intermediary call center," said Dave Hatton, global product leader/electrical engineer with Ford Connected Services. "Currently, 911 Assist is designed to provide location information to emergency service providers through assisted GPS or signal triangulation – the same system providers rely on when dispatching help to mobile phone user emergency calls.

"The new system is designed to provide coordinates through the onboard GPS receiver in addition to assisted GPS, which adds an even greater level of location accuracy."

Unlike competitive offerings that require customers to subscribe and pay a monthly fee for such accident assistance, Ford 911 Assist remains a nonsubscription-based, no-cost feature of the Sync system that uses a customer's existing mobile phone. The fee-free service is available in both the United States and Canada.

When the feature is turned on and a phone is Bluetooth-paired to Sync, 911 Assist can make a call directly to a local emergency operator in the event of an accident involving the activation of an airbag or emergency fuel pump shutoff. With the GPS capabilities, the system is designed to not only alert the operator that a crash has occurred in a Ford vehicle, but to give the operator the option to retrieve the vehicle's GPS coordinates.

The call is fast, direct and doesn't involve a separate call center or intermediary.

"Integrated GPS is a logical next step for 911 Assist, leveraging the GPS hardware that is now included with SYNC," said Gary Jablonski, manager for the Ford Infotainment Product Development Team. "That's the beauty of the SYNC platform – it can quickly adapt to and accommodate new technologies, features and services that provide great value to customers without great additional costs."

The app will be available on most Sync-equipped 2011 vehicles, including the Ford Taurus, Focus, Flex, Fusion, Escape and F-150, as well as the Lincoln MKS, MKZ and MKT.

Vehicles featuring the new MyFord or MyLincoln Touch driver connect technology also will have the updated 911 Assist GPS capabilities and offer customers a number of other emergency service options. A priority emergency screen, for example, will contain location information and quick-touch access to emergency contacts at the completion of a 911 Assist call.

TOLL BROTHERS

Woods of South Barrington hosts second annual 'Taste and Tour'

Shops, restaurants, arboretum and model homes star in June 13 event

The second annual Taste and Tour of the stores and restaurants of The Arboretum and the homes of The Woods of South Barrington will be held on Sunday, June 13, from noon to 4 p.m. The event will begin at the clubhouse at 1 Regency Boulevard in South Barrington.

Sponsored by Toll Brothers, the popular event provides an opportunity for the public to sample the restaurants and preview the offerings of the many boutiques and stores of the area's newest premier shopping and entertainment destination, The Arboretum, all under one roof.

Guests also are invited to tour the builder's model homes and homes under construction in its planned community of homes located adjacent to The Arboretum. All visitors will receive a goody bag filled with discount coupons and will have the opportunity to win some exciting door prizes.

The list of participating businesses include L.L. Bean, Chicos, Taylor Loft, Coldwater Creek, Joseph A. Banks, L'Eiffel Bistro, Cooper's Hawk Winery & Restaurant, Noodles & Co., Anna Shea Chocolates & Lounge. Acquisitions for the Home, Mega Gymnastics, Xsport Fitness, Spa Bleu, Arhaus Furniture, and Gold Class Cinema.

The Second Annual Taste & Tour Event will be held on Sunday, June 13, at the Regency Clubhouse at the Woods of South Barrington.

The event takes place in Toll Brothers' new clubhouse at its community for residents age 55 and older, Regency at The Woods of South Barrington, located behind The Arboretum.

"We are honored to host this event and give South Barrington residents a chance to chat with local business owners and staff and learn more about the world-class shopping, dining,

Magellan-sponsored race raises money for brain cancer awareness

A lakefront race sponsored by Magellan Development Group has helped raise $250,000 to support the fight against brain cancer.

The funds were donated to this year's designated charity partner, Northwestern Brain Tumor Institute and its various programs, reported Robin Loewenberg Berger, Magellan's chief marketing officer.

"Magellan chose to support NBTI when my husband was diagnosed at the hospital," Berger said. "We want to help increase awareness of brain cancer and help raise funds to support life-saving research and clinical trials that can lead to better treatment and ultimately a cure."

Berger, who is an NBTI Advisory Council member and co-chair of the event, also participated in her first 10-kilometer race in honor of her husband. She noted that the race provided runners with the opportunity to dedicate their race experience to the fight against brain cancer.

How did she do?

"I started running for the first time in my life in November. I became committed to the cause and trained every week. I am so proud that I finished the 10K race and we were able to raise so much for research," she said.

According to Magellan President David Carlins, race co-chairman and a seasoned runner, some 3,000 runners and as many spectators participated in Magellan's second annual Spring Marathon and 10K race May 16 (May was brain tumor awareness month). The race was held in partnership with CAPRI Events, a race and events manager. Carlins also participated in the half-marathon as a guide to a blind Iraq veteran.

The race started and ended in the botanic garden at Lakeshore East, Magellan's 28-acre lakeside community just north of Millennium Park.

Hospital staff and support group members also participated in the race, including institute co-director Dr. Jeffrey Raizer, who said, "I looked forward to participating on behalf of my patients as we have to support those who support us."

NBTI is a collaboration of the Robert H. Lurie Comprehensive Cancer Center of Northwestern University, Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine and Northwestern Memorial Hospital. The institute merges clinical research with medical and surgical treatment for brain and spinal tumor patients.

To learn more about the institute, visit www.braintumorinstitute.org. For information about Magellan and Lakeshore East, visit www.magellandevelopment.com.

Runners take off during the second annual Spring Marathon and 10K race, sponsored by Magellan Development Group. It raised $250,000 for the Northwestern Brain Tumor Institute.

Taste and Tour

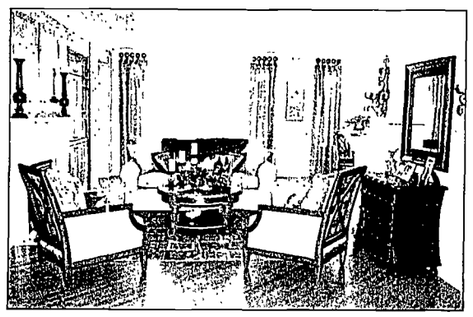
entertainment, and new homes available in their own back yard," said Chris Nickel, Senior Project Manager for Toll Brothers.

Attendees can preview the highly-anticipated new section of single-family homes north of Penny Road, slated to open in the coming months, and sneak a peek of the new decorated model. The builder will be collecting an interest list at the event, or you can e-mail your contact information to MarcInfo@TollBrothers.com. Details will be shared as they become available.

Those interested in learning more about the builder's custom home capabilities will want to take a look at a series of three homes under construction. These homes show a sample of the different types of structural options Toll Brothers offers that allow the buyer to truly customize and create a unique one-of-a-kind home.



As part of the Taste & Tour, the Bartlett model will be open for tours, showcasing a living room with a fireplace with built-in bookcases and a large picture window.

"We are excited to show off our ability to create a dream home for our buyers," said Nickel.

In the Regency at The Woods of South Barrington, guests will have a chance to tour the clubhouse, decorated model homes, and homes under construction and learn more about the exciting lifestyle offered at the resort-style community.

Regency has quickly developed into the area's most desirable address for adults age 55 and older. Priced from the low $500,000s, buyers can choose from six ranch home designs ranging from 2,100 to 2,500 square feet in this low-maintenance private, gated community. Surrounded by beautiful walking trails and preserved open space, this luxurious development has become "one of the most sought-after" 55-and-over communities in Chicagoland, said Nickel.

Regency homeowners enjoy an array of amenities including the new clubhouse with a fitness center, activity rooms, men's and women's locker rooms, a library, separate card rooms for men and women, and a multi-purpose party room. Impressive outdoor features include an outdoor heated swimming pool, a tennis court, two bocce ball courts, a shuffle board court, and a putting green.

Residents have access to a new village park and walking trails leading into the new 35-acre Village of South Barrington Nature Conservancy. The area's newest public park surrounds a lake and features a cultural center, outdoor auditorium, and lakeside park with picnic tables.

The Arboretum of South Barrington is a 600,000 square-foot retail town center in Chicago's affluent northwest suburbs that opened in September 2008. Among retailers at The Arboretum of South Barrington are three unique anchors, including L.L.Bean's first Midwest outdoor gear and apparel store; the country's first Village Roadshow Gold Class Cinemas, a luxury cinema experience; and Pinstripes, Chicago's own bowling, bocce and bistro concept. The center is a joint venture between The Jaffe Companies in Northbrook, and RREEF Alternative Investments, based in New York.

To attend the event, from Interstate 90, take Route 59 north for a mile. Turn right onto Woods Drive and travel a half mile. Turn right onto Regency Boulevard. The clubhouse is on the left at 1 Regency Boulevard. For more information, call 847-381-6600.

Thaddeus Wong (left) and Michael Golden, co-founders of @properties, celebrate the company's 10th anniversary at an event at the Chicago History Museum.

Broker @properties celebrates 10 years

Chicago real estate broker @properties, the No. 1 real estate brokerage firm in the city and one of the largest in Illinois, recently celebrated its 10th anniversary, capping a decade of growth and innovation.

Co-founders Michael Golden and Thaddeus Wong started @properties in 2000 after a multiyear run as the top-producing agents among the Chicago Association of Realtors' 15,000 members. Today the firm has more than 900 licensed agents, 60 employees and seven Chicago area offices.

In its 10th year in business @properties brokered more than 4,400 real estate transactions totaling approximately $1.8 billion. The company added more than 200 agents, grew its market share by 28 percent in the city and 18 percent in the region, opened its first office on Chicago's North Shore and acquired a property management firm. It also established a charitable foundation — the @properties Friends & Neighbors Community Fund — to coordinate and manage its extensive philanthropic activities.

"We're very grateful to the people of Chicago, the North Shore and the local brokerage community for the support we've received during our first 10 years in business," Wong said. "The story of @properties is one of hard work and innovation, and that will continue for a long time to come."

On the Web
www.atproperties.com

"Our intention never has been to grow for growth's sake but rather to continually address the needs of our clients and agents. Following that path has led us to where we are today," Golden added.

Golden and Wong's vision for a next-generation real estate company has been marked by a number of innovations in technology, marketing and agent education and training. The latest iteration of @properties' Web site contains innovations in interactive search and access to hyper-local content. Back-end Web site functionality gives agents more power to brand and market their listings. The company also holds frequent educational seminars and employs two full-time performance coaches to help agents set and achieve business-development goals.

The wealth of resources has resulted in market-leading sales performance. In 2009, @properties led the region's top 10 brokerage firms with the shortest average market time and the highest average percentage of selling price to original listing price according to BrokerMetrics.

Although the real estate market is decidedly different at the outset of @properties' second decade in business, Golden and Wong believe that today's challenging conditions give them ample opportunity to demonstrate their firm's advantages to clients.

"We're dealing from a position of strength, and that's important because home buyers and sellers need every available resource to have success in today's market," Golden said.

"We can't control the market, but fortunately we are in a position to control how we deal with it, and we're going to continue to be aggressive and do the things we've done to power our rapid growth," Wong added.

During the past 10 years, @properties and its principals have received numerous awards and honors including:

— Inc. 500 and Inc. 5000
— Crain's Chicago Business 40 Under 40
— Crain's Chicago Business Fast 50
— Crain's Chicago Business Largest Privately Held Companies
— University of Illinois at Chicago College of Business Administration Entrepreneurship Hall of Fame
— Lincoln Park Builders Club Impact Award
— Chicago Association of Realtors Golden Eagle Award
— Inman 100 Most Influential Real Estate Leaders
— Inman Innovator Award Finalist

Affordable, easy home upgrades

Living on a budget is the norm, rather than the exception, in the current economy. Whether you're trying to entice potential homebuyers or just want to give your living space a quick spruce up, here are a few tips for making a big impact in the look of your home without breaking the bank:

■ Start small. Small improvements — like a fresh coat of paint or an attractive new floor — truly update a home because people's eyes tend to notice surface areas first. Experts agree that these upgrades make all the difference to prospective buyers as well.

According to the International Association of Home Stagers, investing in small upgrades can increase a home's value as much as 7 percent, and a new floor has been proven to return nearly twice the value for every dollar spent.

■ Shop around. From mattresses and dining room sets to LCD televisions and sofas, you might be surprised to find the home decor items on your shopping list at budget-friendly spots like thrift stores, boutiques and warehouse clubs.

"More consumers are on the hunt for retail locations that offer premium home products at bargain prices," said Sherrie Tawne, assistant marketing manager of SimpleSolutions, LLC, which distributes Traditional Living.

■ Accessorize, accessorize, accessorize. If a new sofa or coffee table isn't in the budget, infuse a room with energy and color by adding simple finishing touches like pillows, artwork and rugs. Flea markets, estate auctions and garage sales are unexpected sources of one-of-a-kind — and often inexpensive — accessories that add color and personality.

In the bathroom or kitchen, swap out existing hardware on cabinets and drawers to quickly create a more up-to-date look.

■ Clear the clutter. Piles of papers, toys and books can detract attention from the unique items that make a house a home. If your space and your budget is tight, organize everyday items with furniture that pulls double duty such as a storage ottoman or a bookshelf with built-in compartments. And if you're putting your home on the market, professional home stagers suggest removing one-third of furniture from public areas like living and family rooms to create the illusion of extra space.

WILLIAM RYAN HOMES

New models spice up spring sales

Five new single-family models and exciting new designs open this spring at William Ryan Homes communities throughout the Chicago area.

Five new models representing exciting new single-family home designs will open this spring and early summer at five William Ryan Homes communities throughout Chicago's suburbs.

The Jovan II model recently opened at Maple Hill in Lockport. The Savannah model will open in late May in Autumn Grove in Volo and in late June at The Estates of Hidden Creek in Shorewood and Highland Woods in Elgin. In addition, the Jackson model will debut in mid-June at Sandy Creek Estates in Elgin. All of these communities offer family-oriented environments, convenient locations and attainable prices with no SSA assessments.

"These models represent the best-selling of our new home designs and are outstanding examples of the style, quality and attainable pricing that are hallmarks of William Ryan Homes," said Debbie Beaver, vice president of marketing.

"In addition, we are a green builder and use Energy Star guidelines to provide greater comfort and lower energy costs for our buyers while protecting the environment. Spring is a great time to buy with low interest rates and exciting new designs to choose from. We invite interested buyers to visit and get acquainted with all that William Ryan Homes new home communities have to offer."

Buyers can visit the recently opened Jovan II model at Maple Hill in the Lockport countryside. Maple Hill is near Interstate 355. The elegant homes feature full brick fronts with brick on the first floors of the other three sides. The picturesque environment features views of mature trees, a pond and a community park.

Two ranch plans and five two-story plans are offered, base-priced from $283,490. The homes include brick, and many personalizing options are available, including gourmet kitchens, signature morning rooms and full look-out and walk-out basements.

The Savannah is a new floor plan offered at three popular communities. The Savannah ranges from 2,503 to 2,671 square feet with four bedrooms, 2½ baths and three-car tandem garage.

The Savannah is base-priced from the $230,000s at Autumn Grove in Volo, a scenic community close to the Chain O'Lakes and the landmark Volo Bog. The community boasts open space, three ponds and rolling terrain, and is close to all conveniences. Prices for the 11 ranch and two-story designs start at $199,990.

Other highlights are a front porch and two-story foyer, formal living room and separate dining room, expansive informal living area, first-floor laundry with garage access, optional morning room and study instead of the third-car tandem bay. The second floor features large bedrooms with walk-in closets and his and hers walk-ins in the master bedroom as well as a tech center.

The William Ryan Homes philosophy of "Customer Driven by Design" has resulted in more than 8,000 satisfied customers since the company was founded in the Chicago area in 1992. The popularity of William Ryan Homes designs and construction has resulted in growth into Arizona, Wisconsin and Florida markets as well as Chicago's suburbs. Every home is built to Energy Star guidelines, guaranteed 10-year dry basements and includes the company's 1-2-10 Transferable Warranty.

Qualified buyers who act immediately can still take advantage of the $10,000 Lockport New Home Rebate before the June 30th contract deadline. Contact Marilyn at 847-769-1871.

RMK launches social media campaign

In the ever-changing and often complicated real estate market, finding a rental apartment can be daunting. To help make the search for an apartment easier for renters, Chicago-based apartment management firm RMK Management Corp. has launched a multifaceted social media campaign.

"When you compare the way people searched for apartments a couple of years ago to the way they search today, the changes are tremendous. Social media has changed the game," said Diana Pittro, executive vice president of RMK Management. "People have endless sources for information, which can be overwhelming. We saw a void in terms of a complete source for apartment-related information for consumers, and we are filling it."

The social media campaign includes Facebook pages, online videos hosted on an RMK-branded YouTube channel, Google business listings for each of its rental properties, and photos and floor plans showcased in a Flickr photo stream.

Also included in the social media program are a series of geographically targeted blogs, including blogs for Chicago neighborhoods like Streeterville and Uptown, as well as Chicago suburbs like Downers Grove, Oakbrook Terrace, Palatine, Schaumburg, Aurora, Naperville, Oswego, Round Lake and Waukegan. All of these online communication tools provide information and a means of communication for potential renters and current RMK residents.

According to Pittro, the neighborhood blogs supply renters with tips and insight regarding apartment hunting, apartment decorating and apartment living as well community-specific news for RMK's residents.

"People are very receptive to the information we're supplying and we're happy to be that resource," she added.

Flickr and YouTube provide floor plans, images and videos of each of the RMK properties.

"This allows potential renters to get a sneak peak at each property before they come to tour in person," she said.

"In our business, communication is key, and I think ultimately that is why social media is working for us. People can find everything they need online at their convenience. Plus, social networking creates a two-way street. We're able to have a conversation with our renters and prospects, sharing ideas and answering questions through Facebook and our blogs," Pittro said. "But, our opportunities for face-to-face contact are still what matters most. Keeping that human touch is critical."

Still buying into the 'American Dream'

Don DeBat
ON THE HOME FRONT

Most American homeowners are eternal optimists. They are always looking forward just beyond the cloudy horizon and hoping their humble abode will appraise for more money than it is worth today.

Thanks to the federal tax credit, an abundance of FHA-insured loan closings and other help from Uncle Sam, it appears that the nation has weathered the housing downturn and now is beginning a long recovery.

Existing-home sales data indicates that the tax credit brought tens of thousands of buyers into the marketplace, reduced inventories, and helped stabilize home prices around the country, according to the National Association of Realtors (NAR).

"We needed the tax credit to help normalize the market," said Vicki L. Cox Golder, 2010 NAR president. "Now it's time for the market to stand on its own legs."

There are strong indications that new-home construction also is coming back, economists say. U.S. housing starts increased for the second straight month in April to the highest level since October of 2008. Most of the revival came in the single-family home sector, where starts jumped 10.2 percent from the previous month to a seasonally-adjusted rate of 593,000 units.

Meanwhile, home-loan interest rates are near rock bottom. In late May, Freddie Mac reported that benchmark 30-year fixed mortgages dipped to an average of 4.78 percent, the lowest the average has been since early December when it hit 4.71 percent.

NAR believes now is the time for Realtors who specialize in residential sales to educate clients and help them "find a home they can afford in a neighborhood they love," Golder said.

Realtors also are lobbying hard in Washington D.C. to unfreeze the home-finance pipeline to ensure a steady flow of capital for mortgages, Golder said.

"It is still smart to buy a house or condominium ... not only because of attractive interest rates and homeowner tax deductions, but because home is where we make memories, build our future and feel secure," Golder noted.

"After all, we're still a nation of homeowners," Golder said. "Despite all the troubles we've been through as a nation, the homeownership rate in the first quarter of 2010 stood at 67.1 percent, according to the U.S. Census Bureau."

There's no doubt that most Americans still believe in the dream of homeownership. That's why every spring they mow the lawn, plant shrubs and flowers, and stain the deck. They water the lawn and tend those plants all summer long, then rake leaves and clean the gutters in autumn. And when winter comes they fill the backyard bird feeder and shovel snow off the driveway.

It's all about keeping the place up, enjoying those summer barbeques, birthday events, Little League championships, holiday parties and the laughter of children.

And hopefully, when the time comes, you'll find that happy buyer who is willing to pay more for your house than you did.

Heat your water with solar power

More homeowners are deciding solar power is the right thing to do, for the sake of the environment and their wallets. New technologies make it easier than ever to use the sun to heat water in our homes. And Congress is helping make going green a cash-smart move too, by extending the federal solar tax credit another eight years.

Thanks to the tax credit program, you can recoup 30 percent of the total installed cost of a solar water heating system.

"It's a great time to switch to solar power for your water heating needs," said Jim Cika, a solar water heating expert with Velux America.

But before you buy a solar water heater, do your homework, he urges. Learn about the technologies available and review just how solar-friendly your home can be.

"Homeowners need to factor in geographic location, orientation of the roof for solar collectors, costs and tax incentives and rebates that may be available to arrive at an economically sensible and environmentally-sensitive decision," Cika said.

While a solar water heating system usually costs more to purchase and install than a conventional water heating system, it can reduce energy costs in the long run and is much kinder to the planet.

Cika said that the cost of an installed Energy Star-qualified system, such as one from his company, will vary depending upon the volume of heated water required in a home. A packaged system consisting of one, two or three rooftop solar collector panels will usually be installed along with a 60, 80 or 120-gallon solar storage tank. An average installation is projected to cost $6,500 to $11,000, with some complex installations running as much as $12,000. Systems are available for gas, electric and boiler markets throughout the U.S., Cika said.

"On average, if you install a solar water heater, your water heating bills should drop 50 to 80 percent, not an insignificant sum when you consider that the Department of Energy says that water heating can account for 14 to 25 percent of the energy consumed in our homes," he said.

Low-profile solar roof collectors (rooftop at center) are unobtrusive and blend well with rooflines. ARACONTENT PHOTO

According to Cika, in the construction of a new home where the cost of the system is rolled into the mortgage, homeowners can save more on their monthly energy bills than the increase in their house payment.

"Solar water heating provides a positive cash flow from the day of move in, effectively giving an immediate payback," he said.

"In the case of an installation in an existing home in an area that has both federal and state rebates and incentives, the payback can vary from three to seven years," Cika said.

Two primary solar technologies are available in the market right now: solar photovoltaic (PV) and solar thermal. The photovoltaic process uses the sun to generate electricity and solar thermal uses the sun to heat water. Solar thermal often is the technology of choice for homeowners for a number of reasons. Kevin Hughes, a writer for GreenBuildingElements.com, who installed a solar thermal system in his San Francisco home, explains why.

"I prefer solar thermal, specifically solar hot water, a much older technology. It is much cheaper to install, much more efficient and has a much faster payback," he said.

For homeowners considering an installation, the Internet offers a number of Web sites that can be helpful with an analysis and then with locating products and installers. Findsolar.com and nalcep.org list certified installers by state. Solar-rating.org lists certified solar equipment manufacturers and certified installers for Velux units are listed at veluxusa.com.

Eere.energy.gov/consumer includes a link to a calculator for initial cost, annual operating costs and determining payback, as well as a consumer's guide to solar thermal, while nrel.gov offers a consumer's guide to photovoltaic. Federal and state tax credit information, by geographic area, is available at dsireusa.org.

Cika said that solar water heating represents a logical first step for homeowners who want to harness the power of the sun because it is relatively simple technology compared to generating electricity from the sun.

"The technologies accomplish different objectives, but they both will pay increasing dividends to homeowners who utilize them now and in the future," he said.

Ten ways to improve your home's curb appeal

If you think having great curb appeal is only important if you're trying to sell your home, think again.

Your house is one of your biggest investments and making a great first impression will leave everyone — not just potential buyers — wanting to see what's inside.

With 10 simple improvements, you can easily transform your home into the best looking house on the block.

In a day

There are a number of quick fixes you can complete in just one day that will make a big impact on your exterior.

■ Replace old hardware. It's the little things that make a big difference. Update your dated or dingy house numbers, entry door lockset and overhead light fixture. Each of these elements can add style and interest to your home's exterior, especially if you incorporate a great finish option like oil-rubbed bronze or brushed nickel.

■ Make over your mailbox. Your mailbox should complement the style and color of your house. Restore your existing mailbox with a fresh coat of paint or stain that matches the trim, color and woodwork of your house.

■ Tame planter beds and landscaping. If your beds are overrun with weeds and unsightly growth, you'll need to get them under control to give your home a well-manicured look. Prune, pull weeds and plant flowers to add color. Add a fresh layer of mulch and your yard will look as good as new.

■ Illuminate your walkway. Adding low-voltage solar lighting to your front walkway can have a big impact on your home's curb appeal. It also provides added safety and security. If you don't have a walkway, string accent lighting in the trees for a whimsical-looking effect.

■ Freshen up the front door. The front entry is the focal point of your home's curb appeal. To keep it looking free of abuse from the elements and use, clean off any dirty spots and remove any loose paint. If your door is beyond repair, install a new version that reflects the design of your house. Once you're all set, be sure to add a piece of decorative flair, like a wreath or door knocker that showcases your personality to the outside world.

In a weekend

In just a couple of days, you can boost the beauty of your home with easy upgrades.

■ Renew paint and trim. Give your home an exterior facelift by adding a new coat of paint or stain. You'll automatically update the look of your home by fixing any obvious defects, like loose paint, fading colors or cracks in your trim and fence. Be sure to use high-quality painting tools to get a professional-looking finish, like the Pro-Extra brush from Purdy. The extra length and thickness of the filaments on these paintbrushes provide superior paint-holding capacity and are specially designed for all exterior paints and stains.

■ Replace gutters and downspouts. If your gutters are loose and worn out, not only do they look neglected, but they're also a danger to guests. To prevent any injuries, as well as improve the overall appearance, install a new, snap-fit gutter system that go together with a few tools for an easy and important upgrade.

■ Add shutters or accent trim. Everything on the exterior of your home should be a reflection of what's inside. To mirror the pulled-together appearance of your indoor rooms, install shutters and trim to provide an extra layer of interest on the exterior. Not only do shutters help control light and ventilation, but new materials such as PVC resins or polyurethane make them durable and low maintenance.

In a month

Using a little elbow grease and taking extra time on some projects can reap huge rewards for your home in the long run.

■ Upgrade railings. Porch and stoop railings deteriorate over time and can become loose. If yours are past their prime, look for quality wood or metal replacements. Make sure the color, scale, design and details coordinate with the rest of your home's main features.

■ Dress up the drive. If your driveway is cracked, stained or has weeds sprouting up from it, now may be time to show it some TLC. Upgrade it without completely starting over. Repair any cracks or stains and be sure to kill the weeds and then add some extra character by staining the concrete or affixing flagstone. For additional flair, add stone, bricks or pavers to the sides for a completely custom look.

With these easy curb appeal cures, your home will be the envy of all your neighbors. For more information about the Pro-Extra brush series or other Purdy painting products, visit purdycorp.com.

Job Outlook Healthy for Physical Therapists

While some sectors of the economy continue to shed jobs, the demand for physical therapists and physical therapist assistants. is expected to grow by 30 percent until 2018. much faster than the average for all occupations.

This recession-proof profession is driven in large part by aging baby boomers who are vulnerable to chronic and debilitating conditions that increase the demand for physical rehabilitation. And medical and technological developments that allow a higher percentage of trauma victims and newborns with birth defects to survive will create additional demand for rehabilitative care.

Expected changes in restrictions on reimbursement for physical therapy services by third-party payers will increase patient access to services. And under the Disabilities Education Act that guarantees students have access to therapeutic and rehabilitative services, the need for therapists in schools will continue to grow.

According to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, job opportunities for licensed physical therapists and physical therapists assistants will continue to grow in all settings, especially in acute hospital, skilled nursing and orthopedic facilities. Other areas where the demand will remain high include the home health care industry, outpatient care centers, adult daycare programs and health and fitness clubs.

A career as a physical therapist offers flexibility not found in other professions. Some PTs work part time and hold two or more jobs, creating their own schedule. Others are self-employed in private practice seeing patients and contracting to work for health care providers.

Wages in the field are increasing steadily. In 2008 the median annual wage of physical therapists was $72,790 but the median wage today has risen to $80,000 for a licensed PT and $48,000 for a PTA, according to Steve Sadowsky, Director of Professional Education for the Physical Therapy and Human Movement Sciences Department of Northwestern University's Feinberg School of Medicine.

Qualifications

Is a career as a physical therapist right for you? "On a personal level, it's a highly rewarding career," said Sadowsky. "You have to be able to think on your feet and solve multiple problems at once. You may be treating someone for a broken ankle but that person may also have diabetes or a heart condition," he said. The job can also be physically demanding with therapists required to lift patients or help them turn, stand or walk.

What does a physical therapist do? A PT works with patients to help restore function, improve mobility, relieve pain and prevent or limit permanent physical disabilities. Patients may include accident victims, individuals with disabling conditions such as fractures, head injuries, arthritis, heart disease and cerebral palsy.

PTs examine patients' medical histories, then test and measure their strength, range of motion, balance and coordination, muscle performance and motor function. They also determine the patient's ability to be independent and reintegrated into the community or workplace after injury or illness. Finally, they develop treatment plans including a treatment strategy and anticipated outcome.

A physical therapist assistant works under the direction and supervision of a physical therapist. PTAs help patients who have movement difficulties due to injury or disease by assisting the PT with therapies designed to improve mobility, relieve pain and prevent permanent physical disability.

Education

Today educational requirements to become a licensed physical therapist include an undergraduate B. S. degree plus a three-year post baccalaureate doctoral degree in physical therapy.

The accreditation agency for this degree is the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, an independent commission appointed by the American Physical Therapy Association. CAPTE has granted accreditation to 212 programs throughout the country including Northwestern University. University of Illinois at Chicago, Northern Illinois University, Governors State University and Bradley University.

After passing a licensure exam administered by the Federation of State Boards of Physical Therapy, candidates are then eligible to obtain a license from the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation.

Requirements to become a physical therapist assistant include a two-year associate degree from a community college program: Local schools offering a curriculum accredited by CAPTE include Oakton Community College. Morton College, Elgin Community College and the College of DuPage.

Upon completion of the program, candidates must pass a National Physical Therapy Exam (NPTE) before obtaining a license from the State of Illinois.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the following Resolution adopting the Prevailing Wage Rate for laborers. workers and mechanics employed on public works of Lincolnwood School District 74. Cook County. Illinois was adopted the 1st day of June. 2010 by the Lincolnwood Board of Education.
Such publication shall constitute notice that this is the determination of this public body.
DATED this June 10. 2010.
BOARD OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 74
Richard Ruderman
Secretary
A RESOLUTION ADOPTING THE PREVAILING WAGE RATES FOR LABORERS. WORKERS AND MECHANICS EMPLOYED ON PUBLIC WORKS OF LINCOLNWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT NUMBER 74. COOK COUNTY. ILLINOIS
WHEREAS. the State of Illinois has enacted "an Act regulating wages of laborers. mechanics and other workmen employed in any public works by the state. county. city or any public body or any political subdivision or by any one under contract for public works." approved June 26. 1941. as amended. being Section 39s-1 through 39s-12. ch. 48. Ill. Rev. Stat. 1985: and
WHEREAS. the aforesaid Act requires that the Board of Education of School District No. 74 investigate and ascertain the prevailing rate of wages as defined in said Act for laborers. mechanics and other workers in the locality of said School District employed in performing construction of public works for said School District:
NOW THEREFORE. Be It Resolved by the President and Board of Education of Lincolnwood School District No. 74. Cook County. Illinois. as follows:
Section 1: To the extent and as required by "an Act regulating wages of laborers. mechanics and other workers employed in any public works by the state. county. city or public body or any political subdivision or by anyone under contract for public works." approved June 26. 1941. as amended. the general prevailing rate of wages in this locality for laborers. mechanics and other workers engaged in the construction of public works coming under the jurisdiction of this District is hereby ascertained to be the same as the prevailing rate of wages for construction work in Cook County areas as determined by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois as of June. 1989. a copy of that determination being attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. The definition of any terms appearing in this Resolution which are also used in the aforesaid Act shall be the same as in said Act.
Section 2: Nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply said general prevailing rate of wages as herein ascertained to any work or employment except public works construction of this District to the extent required by the aforesaid Act.
Section 3: The Secretary of the Board of Education shall publicly post or keep available for inspection by any interested party in the main office of this District this determination of such prevailing rate of wage.
Section 4: The Secretary of the Board of Education shall mail a copy of this determination to any employer. and to any association of employers and to any person or association of employees who have filed. or file their name and addresses. requesting copies of any determination stating the particular rates and the particular class of workmen whose wages will be affected by such rates.
Section 5: The Secretary of the Board of Education shall promptly file a certified copy of this Resolution with both the Secretary of State and the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois.
Section 6: Within 30 days after the filing of a certified copy of this Resolution with the Secretary of State. the Secretary of the Board of Education shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the area a copy of this Resolution and such publication shall constitute notice that the determination is effective and that this is the determination of this public body.
Section 7: This Resolution shall be in full force and effect upon its passage and approval as required by law.
ADOPTED this 1st day of JUNE. 2010

Fine Arts Society announces its contest winners

Two students from Maine South High School and one student from Maine East High School are winners of the Park Ridge Fine Arts Society's art contest.

The students designed covers for the Fine Arts Society's 50th anniversary summer concert season ad booklet, and all three designs will be featured on the booklets.

Erica Bosco of Maine South won first place in the contest and received a $150 prize.

Taking second place and a $100 prize was Greg Blaszczuk of Maine East High School and taking third place and a $50 prize was Marco Malusa of Maine South.

Art instructors Michael Mastrolonardo of Maine East and Mary Lee Moore of Maine South helped coordinate the contest.

Concerts featuring the Park Ridge Fine Arts Symphony orchestra will be held on Friday nights at Hodges Park in Park Ridge beginning June 18 at 8 p.m.

SCHOOLS DIGEST

RESURRECTION

Resurrection College Prep High School junior Therese Casey '11 of Niles received the Kiwanis Leadership and Community Service Award for 2010. The honor was awarded by the Edison-Norwood-O'Hare Kiwanis Club for her leadership and community service.

Casey has been an active member of the Resurrection Key Club, which participates in the Greater Northwest Crop Walk, the Misericordia Candy Day and the annual pasta dinner to benefit St. Mary of Providence, a school for girls and women with disabilities. Casey was Key Club treasurer during her sophomore and junior years and she will be vice president during her senior year. At her parish, St. John Brebeuf in Niles, she assists with the St. Vincent DePaul Society's food drives and the religious education program for people with developmental disabilities.

At Resurrection, Casey is a member of the National Honor Society, a member of the Student Council board, a Student Ambassador and a member of the Celtic Club. She was treasurer of the junior class and will be treasurer of the senior class in the upcoming school year. She also runs on the cross country team and plays on the soccer team.

The Kiwanis Leadership and Community Service Award was presented to Casey at a luncheon at Norwood Crossing on May 13.

Resurrection College Prep High School student Meghan Casey '11 will attend a summer program, "Spiritual Leaders 2010: An Institute for Young Women of Faith," at St. Mary's College in Notre Dame, Ind., from July 11 to 16. The week-long summer program offers students an opportunity to grow as young women of faith and develop leadership skills for the 21st century.

Casey is a member of the National Honor Society, a member of the tennis team and an officer of the German Club.

Resurrection College Prep High School social studies teacher Marianne Boe participated in a launch ceremony of the McCormick Foundation's First Amendment exhibit, the "Freedom Express" on May 27. The 45-foot long mobile unit has 400-square feet of exhibit space pertaining to the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. The Freedom Express is the first mobile museum in the country dedicated to First Amendment and free speech issues. Beginning on Aug. 16, the Freedom Express will be visiting area schools as a mobile museum. In the fall, Resurrection will be hosting one of its first visits to Chicago area schools.

Boe has been teaching social studies at Resurrection for nine years, including world history, law and legal rights, sociology, and world issues. She holds a juris doctorate from the University of Illinois and a master's degree in education from Loyola University. She also works as a consultant with the Constitutional Rights Foundation's Civic Action Project. In 2007, Boe was one of 17 teachers nationwide invited to participate in the first program co-sponsored by the Bill of Rights Institute of Arlington, Virginia and the Liberty Fund of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Boe was invited to participate with the McCormick Foundation as an educator with a special focus on the Bill of Rights to launch the Freedom Express. According to Boe, "If students do not understand the freedoms that make our country

Web site instructs kids about healthier foods

By VERONICA HINKE
Contributor

Kids don't often rave about vegetables. But in a promotional video for an interactive Web site that was launched last November, www.Fooditude.TV, Ian Thauer expresses his enthusiasm for the site by comparing it to the thrill of eating a carrot..

Kid participants

"Fooditude is crunching on a carrot!" the Lake Forest boy exclaims on a 30-second video that was uploaded to the site as a teaser in advance of food videos that became a regular function of the site in May.

Thauer is one of nine children cast to appear in the videos, which encourage kids to make healthier food and lifestyle choices. Most of the videos will show cast members, like Thauer, visiting restaurants and other places, often watching how food is made.

Evanston Chef Joshua Grabowsky is one of the adults cast in the videos. He'll chaperone the children on outings that are recorded for viewing on the Web. "Kids respond well to media," Grabowsky said. "Food is a vehicle for teaching lessons about such subjects as healthy eating, culture, history, math, science and language."

Internet and food

Grabowsky, who likes to share his knowledge and love of food with others, particularly children, said the Internet has forever changed his ability to do that. "Chefs and farmers can reach more people through the Internet."

Grabowsky is connected to some 400 fellow chefs and farmers through the social networking site Facebook. "It's an unofficial way of getting news about what other chefs are up to."

And for Grabowsky, social networking Web sites provide a chance to share interesting news about food-related projects, such as his involvement in the first Fooditude.TV video. For that segment, which was recorded in May, he accompanied the cast to a Mexican restaurant, where they learned about ingredients used in many of his recipes and healthier ways to prepare Mexican dishes.

For instance, Grabowsky prefers corn tortillas to the more popular flour ones. "Corn tortillas are gluten-free," he said. He uses them to make hongodillas, his version of crispy quesadillas made with oyster mushrooms, rather than chicken, fish or beef. "You can substitute portobellos or baby portobellos," Grabowsky suggested.

He was inspired to develop his hongodillas recipe while relaxing on a beach in Mexico, where the "beach food" sells for $2. "When I first tried them, I ordered about three more," he recalled. "They're pretty easy to make — and they're really good!"

Evanston Chef Joshua Grabowsky, one of the adults cast in Fooditude.TV segments, stirs up a pan of hongodillas or oyster mushroom quesadillas.

Hongodillas (Mushroom Quesadillas)

1 (12-count) pack corn tortillas
10 oz. fresh oyster mushrooms (or use portobellos or baby portobellos)
2 medium tomatoes, small diced
1 jalapeño – small dice (include seeds)
1/2 medium red onion – small diced
1 lime
1/3 bunch cilantro (optional) – finely chopped
1/2 habenaro or scotch bonnet pepper (optional), minced
Sea salt (flaky preferred), to taste
Black pepper, to taste
Approx. 6 T olive oil (or canola)
1 C mozzarella or Chihuahua cheese

Spice condiment:
1 jalapeño – small diced (with seeds)
Juice of 1/2 a lime
1/8 tsp. sea salt
Freshly cracked pepper, to taste
1 tsp. olive oil

For the mushroom filling: On medium-high heat, warm sauté pan. Add 1 tablespoon oil and onion. Sauté until translucent and slightly browned. Add mushrooms, sauté 1 minute. Add tomatoes and hot peppers.

Turn heat to highest level, and stir pan often until the tomatoes have melted completely and no liquid is left in the pan.

Squeeze 1 lime over the pan, and add salt and pepper, to taste. Continue to reduce until all liquid is gone from the pan. Remove from heat.

To soften tortillas so they don't break, put in microwave for 30 seconds, until steamed.

To crisp the hongodillas: Heat second sauté pan on medium-low heat. Add 1 tablespoon oil.

Begin filling the tortillas. Add one heaping tablespoon mushroom filling into each tortilla. Add heaping tablespoon of cheese. Fold tortilla in half, and place in pan.

Brown and crisp tortilla, 2 minutes per side. Transfer to paper towels to catch excess grease.

Each time you refill your pan add 1 tablespoon oil for frying. Sprinkle cilantro over hongodillas, if desired.

For the spice condiment: Combine ingredients in a small bowl. Serve with hongodillas.

EMERSON MIDDLE SCHOOL

Students go to 'boot camp' to learn about Vietnam War

Eighth-graders on May 13 at Emerson Middle School participated in "boot camp" during gym class.

This activity integrates a unit on Vietnam. As part of a unit on Vietnam, students had to write a letter from "boot camp" after seeing a recruiting movie for the U.S. Marines.

Their letter had to state several activities done during boot camp, as well as a general feeling of the '60s era during the Vietnam War. A second letter was written "from Vietnam" as if they were really fighting. This letter was written after viewing the movie, "Dear America — Letters Home from Vietnam."

The third activity was a postcard from Vietnam right before they were to be returning to the United States.

Students also had the opportunity to see photos taken two years ago from language-arts teacher Abigail Sloan's travels to Vietnam.

The reason for implementing this activity was to integrate informal letter writing, a physical activity and social studies to further enhance the understanding of this tumultuous period in our history.

PARK RIDGE GARDEN CLUB

Memorial bench honors Condon's quarter-century of dedicated work

A memorial bench was installed at the east end of Hodges Park (facing Park Ridge City Hall) in memory of Patricia "Pat" Condon.

Condon was a member of the Park Ridge Garden Club for 25 years. She served in every office of the Garden Club and was chairman of many club committees.

She originated the Residential Beautification Award program, in partnership with the city of Park Ridge, 19 years ago and headed that program from its inception.

Condon passed away in April 2009.

Donations for the bench were made from friends and family to the Park Ridge Garden Club.

Fundraisers

Our Lady of Ransom Parish in Niles is celebrating its 50th year as a parish. The parish's "Fabulous Fifty Raffle" offers $70,000 in cash prizes with a $50,000 grand prize to one lucky winner. Tickets are $100. Only 2,000 tickets will be sold. Raffle drawing is July 11, with a $500 Early Bird drawing on June 25. Call (847) 823-2550 for "tickets by mail."

Benny Costes of Niles is helping out those in need by sending clothing to people of Dagupan City, Philippines, his birthplace. Costes has been actively soliciting clothing and scouting equipment for the Filipino people and Boy Scouts from that town. Costes, an Eagle Scout from the Philippines, continues to help the people in his hometown and his Old Boy scout troop. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and assists many people as a member. Again, this year, he has collected clothing and equipment from generous people in the area. He has been able to accumulate enough items to fill many large boxes. The items include anything Girl or Boy Scout-related (manuals, merit badge books, etc.). He is in need of monetary donations to arrange shipment to the Philippines. Donations of clothing, scouting/camping equipment or monetary donations may be made to: Benny Costes, 8232 N. Octavia Ave. Niles IL 60714-2625. He may be contacted by calling (847) 966-2052.

Christopher Vick, a Life Scout and Eagle Scout candidate from Troop 175, St. John Brebeuf, has chosen as his Eagle/Community Project to be the construction of wooden collection boxes to assist the Lions Club of Niles in their goals to acquire used eyeglasses and hearing aids. These normally disposed items are collected and recycled to needy community members through these on-site collection boxes. To get the work started, he requires lumber and hardware as well as food and refreshments for the Scouts and others in the community who will assist in the construction. As specifically sized lumber and hardware are needed, he asks members of

Advertorial

What should I do after I get my new puppy?

Countless dogs end up in shelters because of behavioral issues. I believe many of these issues arise from events that happen very early in their lives. I also believe that many of these problems can be prevented early in a dog's life. There are a number of things we, as guardians of our dogs, can do to help them grow up to be responsible adults, just as we do with our children. Here are some suggestions:

Never bring a puppy home before the age of eight weeks. Most breeders will not allow pups to leave before this age, but there are some that insist they can leave the litter at six weeks. A puppy that leaves the litter before eight weeks misses a very critical learning period in their life. Not only do they learn from siblings during play, they also learn from their mother.

One of the first and most important steps you should take with your new puppy is to bring them to the Vet for a check up. Because your pup is no longer receiving immunities from mom and they haven't yet started their shots, the Vet will advise you on what shots your pup needs. I would suggest they spend the first two weeks at home socializing, as this time is very important for them to meet as many new people as possible. I usually suggest that they meet the mailman, the UPS or FedEx driver, men with beards, people with hats, coats and gloves, people wearing sunglasses, and people of all sizes and ages. In this case, I believe the more the better. The more situations you can place your pup in, the more comfortable they will be when the situation arises again.

During these first two weeks, I suggest researching puppy classes. Puppy classes are important for socialization with other puppies. The best way to research puppy classes is to talk with the trainer and ask if you can observe one of their classes. Ask about the trainer's philosophy or what training method they use. When observing, watch how the trainer interacts with the class and deals with questions. Do the puppy's just play or are they taught certain commands? In my opinion, puppy classes should teach more than socialization. Puppies should learn to come when called and learn that it's okay for someone to touch and hold their collar. Commands such as Sit, Down and Stay should be taught, as well.

Once you have chosen a trainer and class, it's important to enroll your pup. Training helps build a bond with you and your dog; and what better time to start than when they are still puppies? A good puppy class can start you on your way to one of the greatest friendships a person can have! There is no bond more loyal than that of a dog and his guardian.

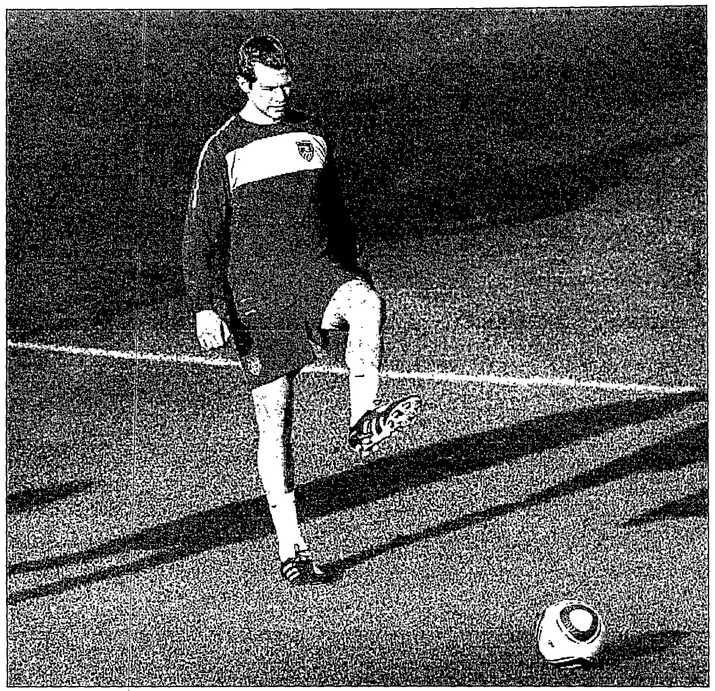
Q&A with Team USA's Jonathan Spector

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com



U.S. national soccer defender Jonathan Spector trains at Pilditch Stadium in Pretoria, South Africa Friday. The U.S. team plays their first game of Group C competition against England Saturday at 1:30 p.m. (AP Photo/Elise Amendola)

Jonathan Spector is about to begin the most important few weeks of his soccer life.

The former St. Viator Lion is a right/left back on the U.S. National Soccer Team, and could be on the field Saturday when the Yanks face England in their 2010 World Cup Group C opener in Rustenburg, South Africa (1:30 p.m.).

The 24-year-old Arlington Heights native started every game for the U.S. during its improbable run to the Confederations Cup final last summer, which included an upset over top-ranked Spain. The U.S. ultimately lost the final 3-2 to Brazil after leading 2-0.

After helping his club team, London's West Ham United, narrowly avoid relegation to the lower division, Spector returned home to the Chicago area briefly last month and he spoke to Pioneer Press about the World Cup.

PP: What are your emotions ahead of the tournament in South Africa?

JS: I'm excited and looking forward to the opportunity ahead of me. I had some disappointment missing the 2006 World Cup and the 2008 Olympics because of injury. So, I'm keeping my fingers crossed that for this one I'll be injury-free."

PP: What are the expectations inside the U.S. camp?

JS: The main objective is to get out of the group (the top two among the U.S., England, Slovenia and Algeria advance). We were a little fortunate with the draw and once you get out, it is single elimination from there and anything is possible. I think after beating Spain (last year) we know we can compete with the best teams on any given day."

PP: The England game is getting a lot of attention, but win or lose, it's just one of three important games, right?

JS: The media has been focusing on that game and I certainly can understand that. The other games are just as important, but you want to get off to a good start. It's important to get a result — win or draw — and show you can compete with one of the favorites in the opening game. It's always a big benefit to get off to a good start."

PP: You are one of eight players on the U.S. team who played in the English Premier League last season. That must give you a certain level of comfort against England and other top-level teams?

JS: Yes, it's going to be comfortable and there is no intimidation. But something that we've been able to exploit has been teams underestimating us, and I'm not entirely sure that will be the case this time around. A lot of our guys regularly play against the best players in the world, in the best leagues in the world. There is a correlation between that and the success the national team has had.

PP: Last June, you were in South Africa for the Confederations Cup. How much do you think that experience will help in your preparation for the World Cup?

JS: I think as a team in general it's a big advantage over other teams who are there for the first time and will have to acclimatize and get used to the altitude. We have experienced that and the atmosphere, we've played in front of the crowds and know what to expect because fields are different everywhere you go. We'll try to use that advantage to the best of our ability. But what it comes down to is taking care of business. That is the most important thing.

Last summer, we showed we could compete with the best in the world by beating Spain and going down to the wire with Brazil. But that game left a bitter taste and it's not something we want to repeat. That gives us that incentive and the drive.

PP: While the midfield and goalkeeping seem to be strengths, injuries have led to some questions being asked about the strikers and the defense on this U.S. team. Can this team score goals? Defend?

JS: Recently, (our ability to score) has been about how quickly we can counterattack. We've defended well as a group for long periods, and when we get the ball back we've been successful going forward quickly, which is one of our strengths. We know that when we play teams like England, Brazil and Spain, they will be keeping the ball for vast amounts of time. The question is can we defend well and concentrate on our ability to go forward quickly?

PP: What are this team's other strengths?

JS: We are a tight group. I think that's one of our strengths. We're tight-knit and when we come back together for training (after being with our club teams), we pick up right where we left off. We may be playing against better players individually. But I think the U.S has been better as a team. Typically, it's the better team that wins, not the team with one individual superstar.

Former Viator teammates map trip to World Cup

Lions coach serves as guide for 3-week trip

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

St. Viator boys soccer coach Mike Taylor (from left), former players T.J. King, Brian Cavers, Bennett Dilly, Ray Krawzak, Jimmy DeBlasio, Michael Cavers, and dad Tom King have spent two years planning their trip to South Africa for the 2010 World Cup this month. (Eric Davis/For STM)

Several members of St. Viator's 2003 Class A state champion soccer team have remained close friends, and often talked about taking a trip together to celebrate their college graduations.

Initially, the plan was to go on a cruise.

But for a group of soccer junkies, whose high school coach Mike Taylor is from Zimbabwe and former teammate Jonathan Spector is a fixture on the U.S. National Soccer Team, there really was only one logical destination for their special journey — the 2010 World Cup in South Africa.

On Friday, Taylor and four former Lions jet to Johannesburg for what is truly a once-in-a-lifetime excursion. Five other former classmates will join them a few days later.

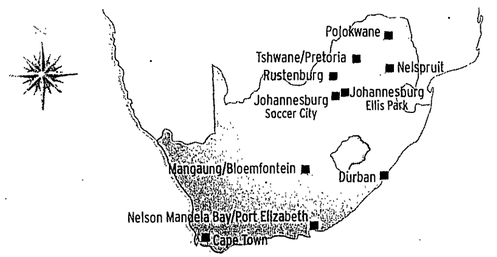
On the trip, which has been in the planning for about two years, the group is scheduled to see at least nine, and perhaps as many as 12 matches, including games featuring the U.S., Brazil, Argentina and Holland.

As the three-week itinerary comes to a close, the group will spend three days observing the exotic wildlife at Pilanesberg Game Reserve in the country's North West Province. Then, they'll fly to Taylor's native Zimbabwe, which borders South Africa, to go whitewater rafting at Victoria Falls, considered one of the Seven Natural Wonders of the World. During another side trip, they will head to a game park to walk with lions.

T.J. King, an Arlington Heights native who played club soccer at the University of Illinois and is an assistant soccer coach at Viator, said he was excited about seeing the games, as well as the wild game.

"My whole life soccer has been one of the things I'm truly passionate about, and to be able to sit in a World Cup stadium and to be part of the atmosphere, the excitement and the passion ... I can't wait to experience that," he said. "Also, we'll have the opportunity to see great teams like Brazil and great players like (Argentina's) Lionel Messi.

"I'm also looking forward to experiencing a part of the world I've never been to and may never be back to again."



The 64 World Cup games will be played at 10 stadium sites in South Africa. The championship matches are in Johannesburg, at Soccer City, which is the largest stadium on the continent with a capacity of 94,700. It was the site of Nelson Mandela's first speech in Johannesburg following his release from prison.

Taylor, who has coached at St. Viator for 23 years and collected his second state title last fall, said he was looking forward to introducing his former players to Africa, splendor and squalor alike.

"I can't wait to have great conversations with the boys and get their reaction to Africa," said Taylor, who was born and raised in Zimbabwe capital Harare and has family in Johannesburg. "Africa is a gorgeous place. There is no place like it in the world. Africa is Africa. It's a slower pace, but it's really friendly. When you get into the local communities, (strangers) want to chat and have a beer. Not a lot of that happens here.

"But we'll make sure to see the good and the bad. We'll take a tour of Soweto (Johannesburg's sprawling and impoverished township). We'll do cultural things besides soccer."

The St. Viator group will base in Johannesburg because it's convenient to most matches. Two of the 10 World Cup stadiums are in that city, and venues in Pretoria and Rustenburg are within a few hours drive.

As for lodging, the group caught a break when Taylor's sister, who lives in Johannesburg, encountered a woman who will be out of the country for several weeks this summer visiting her new grandchild in France. Taylor and the Viator alums offered to pay the woman and her husband to go to Europe, in exchange for access to their home and two cars.

King, one of the major organizers of the trip, said getting tickets was his biggest frustration, but he appears to have worked it out as well. Everyone on the tour put his name into an online ticket lottery run by soccer's governing body FIFA, and seven hit the jackpot. The group also is hoping to scoop up more tickets once in Africa.

King, whose father Tom also will participate on the trip, said he's looking forward most to seeing lions — former St. Viator Lions.

"We've all remained good friends and have a great time when we're together. Having 10 guys in the house, there will be practical jokes and we'll have contests for this and that," he said. "We don't get to see each other a lot now and we're all doing different things in the city or suburbs. We all have work and different schedules. But when we meet up it's like nothing has changed. I'll be excited to see these guys on a daily basis again, at least for a couple of weeks."

Members of the St. Viator group will blog about their experiences at acrossthepitch.blogspot.com.

The day the World Cup came to Hinsdale

German Team treated well during stay

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

Helicopters hovered above and the sirens screamed in the distance.

Fans seated in the visiting bleachers cheered, sang and waved flags bearing names of cities like Munich and Dortmund, while others just looked on curiously. Members of the German National Soccer Team, the defending World Champions, finally stepped off the bus and headed to the field where they would practice for an entire month.

Jurgen Klinsmann

In the summer of '94, the World Cup came to Hinsdale.

"It was an event. It was really unlike anything we could imagine in the soccer world at the time," said Hinsdale Central boys soccer coach Mike Wiggins, the sophomore coach back then. "Suddenly, these guys are here and people are just trying to get a glimpse of them and get autographs. You were right up front and close to really some of the greatest players in the world."

With two of its group games at Soldier Field, the German Team based in the western suburbs and stayed at Oak Brook Hills Resort.

At least 10 of the team's training sessions were open to the public, which included supporters from Germany.

Wiggins was quite familiar with the faces of Jurgen Klinsmann, Thomas Hasler, Lothar Matthaus and Andreas Moller.

"I had just gotten done moving a goal into place and had two or three balls at my feet. Andy Moller is standing some distance away and he signals for me to (kick) the balls to him and then he signaled for me to stay where I was. I didn't know what was coming," Wiggins said.

"Suddenly I realized he was messing with me and I had become the goalkeeper. He laughed and ripped a shot from 35 yards out and put it in. Then he put another one in the upper 90. It dawned on me that I was out on the field kidding around with one of the best free-kick-takers in the world. It's a moment I'll never forget."

Longtime Hinsdale Central soccer coach Dick Flesher spearheaded the invitation.

Flesher, who retired from coaching in 1995, said he first contacted the U.S. Soccer Federation about two years before the tournament. Representatives from the German Soccer Federation flew in to inspect the site.

Flesher said he felt a sense satisfaction and relief when the World Cup eventually left town.

"There were times when (German coach) Berti (Vogts) would come by, look at the field and give a thumbs up, which was kind of a 'job well done,' " Flesher said.

Sixteen years later, one member of that German team still holds fond recollections of his visit. Reached in Bristol, Conn., where he was preparing for ESPN's coverage of the 2010 World Cup, Klinsmann replied by e-mail:

"My memories of World Cup 1994 and our headquarters based in Chicago were really, really positive and wonderful," said the coach of Germany at the 2006 World Cup. "It was a great place to train. We had a really great time in the Windy City between our training sessions and trips into the city."

Bustamante puts Cup in best light for ESPN

Maine S. grad picked for plum assignment

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

Jorge Bustamante is no different from many participants at the World Cup in South Africa, which kicks off at 9 a.m. Friday when the hosts face Mexico.

The Park Ridge native realizes that a good performance there will deliver a huge boost to his professional ambitions.

While that may describe an emerging U.S National Soccer Team member hoping to catch the eye of a Premier League club, Bustamante, who turns 24 this month, will not be on the pitch.

When the U.S. faces England in Rustenburg on Saturday, the University of Missouri School of Journalism graduate will be working at the International Broadcast Center in Johannesburg.

Bustamante serves as a production assistant for ESPN, which will broadcast every game and cover the world's biggest sporting event with pre- and post-game shows, nightly wrap-ups and live SportsCenter segments all emanating from the network's custom-built South African studio.

More than 40 production assistants asked to be part of the ESPN crew — seven were selected. Bustamante, a soccer fanatic who has worked at the station for two years, was the newest hire of the bunch.

Similar to his duties back at network headquarters in Bristol, Conn., Bustamante expects to spend the World Cup watching game telecasts, logging key moments in the action, editing highlights packages, helping create graphics and working with the on-air personalities, including soccer greats Jurgen Klinsmann and Ruud Gullit.

Bustamante realizes his work might be scrutinized a little closer than, say, a highlights package he puts together for a Tuesday night baseball game between the Royals and Mariners.

"I plan on working here for a while, and how I perform during the World Cup and how (ESPN executives) respond to the work I do could impact where my career goes next," said the former Maine South soccer player before leaving for South Africa. "I guess it's kind of similar to (U.S. forward Jozy) Altidore. I'm lucky to have an opportunity and I'm hoping I can prove to people that I can do great work while I'm out there and get myself moving on the fast track."

ESPN senior coordinating producer Bill Graff who will be in charge of the network's studio coverage.

"Jorge has shown a great aptitude for soccer in his time at ESPN," he said. "He has a great love of the sport and it shows in his work. We look forward to great things from him in South Africa. He's very versatile and will work in many different roles for our studio production team."

Bustamante found out in December he was selected for Team ESPN. He departed for South Africa last weekend and will work right up until the week before the end of the Cup, July 4.

He'll stay until July 13, allowing time to experience the passion and pageantry of the World Cup and get a feel for South Africa. He hopes to attend matches on his days off and travel to another part of the country, likely Cape Town, during his last week.

"I really can't wait," Bustamante said. "The International Broadcast Center is right by Soccer City (the site of the championship) and I'm sure I'll see the fans from all different countries and all different cultures. I'll have a good chance to experience all that."

Dons a hit — on field and in classroom

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

BASEBALL – Sure, it was just a meal at a local diner. But Notre Dame High School team members did not want their breakfast at Kappy's Pancake House in Morton Grove to end on June 3.

The No. 4 seeded-Dons were knocked out of the IHSA Class 4A playoffs the day before, losing to No. 1 seed Maine South 2-1 in a Niles West Sectional semifinal.

So the next morning, ND's players met in the baseball clubhouse to return their uniforms. They then enjoyed one last breakfast together.

"It was good spending a little more time with the guys and extending the season a little bit more. It was a good time," said ND senior first baseman Matt Moser. "Over the course of 37 games, you become a family. So we just wanted to spend that little extra time with everybody."

The Dons finished 26-10 overall and 13-5 in the ESCC, where they placed second, two games behind Carmel.

But batting averages and ERAs were hardly ND's most impressive statistics of the season. The group excelled in the classroom as well. Moser, who had a 4.59 grade-point average on a 4.0 scale, was the valedictorian of the 175-student senior class. Sammy Bungum, with a batting average over .500, was the class salutatorian. Fellow seniors Danny Fries, Phil Kerber and Drew Diaz were also in — or near — the top 10 in their class.

"We certainly didn't have any problems with eligibility," said Bungum, who's planning to study accounting at the University of Notre Dame, where he will also play trumpet in a band and may try to walk on to the baseball team.

Notre Dame head coach Bob Kostuch said that his players also played intelligent baseball.

"With the smart kids we had, we had to play smart: put the ball down on a hit-and- run, get the bunts down, steal bases. That's what we took advantage of," Kostuch said. "We got teams to throw the ball around."

A two-sport athlete, Moser, who's planning to major in actuarial science at the University of Illinois, said proper time management was the key to his academic excellence. He also said Kostuch and basketball coach Tom Les were stressed studies.

"The coaches always told us that school comes first," he said. "If there was some schoolwork to finish, we were always allowed to finish that first and then get to the field or the court second."

Demons dream of bright future

Losing streak now in rearview mirror

By MATT HARNESS
mharness@pioneerlocal.com

Maine East head coach Gabe Corey is looking forward to next week's summer football camp. (Joel Lerner/Staff Photographer)

FOOTBALL – Now is the time for the Demons to dream.

After putting its 39-game losing streak to bed last season, Maine East enters 2010 summer camp with reason to believe that more good things lie ahead.

"The kids always ask me how we are going to do," said East coach Gabe Corey, entering the second season of his second stretch at the helm. "I always tell them it's about how hungry, how dedicated and how much you work for it. We have a good shot at picking up some more wins this season."

Maine East finished 2-7 last season, beating both Schurz and Maine West. The Demons return most of their starters, and can at least start thinking about the chance to contend for the program's first trip to the playoffs since coach Al Eck's 1977 crew. That team finished 9-0 during the regular season before losing in the postseason's first round.

"Last year, it was about getting that losing streak off our back," Corey said. "We did that, and we were competitive in three or four other games."

During Corey's first stint with the Demons, he coached Maine East to four wins on two different occasions.

"That's always my goal — the elusive winning season," he said. "We are hoping."

After spending last summer installing new offensive and defensive systems, Corey and his staff now can concentrate on improving fundamentals. The return of starting quarterback Andrew Lee, along with several offensive linemen, are big pluses for the Demons, who struggled at times to score points.

"This is going to be a fun year," he said. "Last year, we had so much overview that we ran out of time for the other things."

Corey expects around 100 players for all levels when practice starts next week. The Demons will train Monday through Thursday afternoons, for six weeks. Teams are allowed 25 contact days, with shoulder pads and helmets, for the summer session. Maine East plans to wrap up practice at the end of July.

"Now we get to work on the technical aspects of each play, the blocking, the footwork," the coach said. "We are going to push it to the next level. I don't want them to be happy with where they are at."

Kontos one reason for NU resurgence

By DAN SHALIN
dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

BASEBALL– Niles West graduate Chris Kontos said he had never played outfield before in his life.

But last fall, Northwestern coach Paul Stevens tried the former shortstop/third baseman in the outfield and liked what he saw.

The sophomore spent this past spring as the starting right fielder for the young Wildcats, who finished 24-31 overall, 13-11 in the Big Ten, qualifying for the six-team conference tournament for the first time in four years.

"(Stevens) threw me out in the outfield during fall ball. He said he liked me and told me I would be more of an asset to the team out there," said the 6-foot-3, 195-pound Kontos. "I worked on it throughout the fall and winter. At first, it took some getting used to. But coach said I would get better and better and it would eventually come naturally."

Early in the season, Kontos said his focus on defense might have been responsible for some struggles at the plate. But he eventually picked it up and turned in a solid campaign, hitting .292 with five home runs and 23 RBI.

"It was not a bad season (offensively)," Kontos said. "It could have been better, but it was my first year (playing every day). In high school, you can get by on pure talent. But in college it's about making adjustments.

"College ball is all about matchups and what pitchers are trying to do to the hitter. You have to have different approaches at the plate."

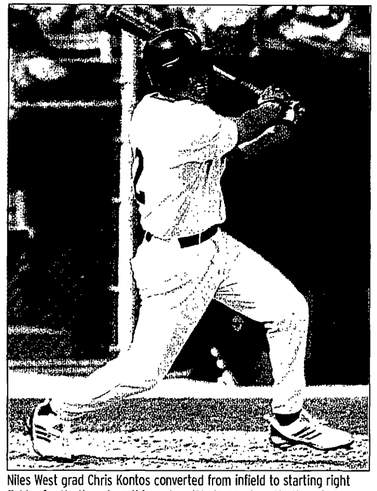
Kontos said he is expecting bigger and better things next spring from a Wildcats team that loses just two of its regulars.

This summer, Kontos will be playing for the Kauai Menehunes of the Hawaii Collegiate Baseball League.

Comeback Trail

Kontos' older brother George is on schedule to make his return to the minor leagues 11 months after having Tommy John surgery on his elbow.

The former Northwestern Wildcat, who turns 25 this week, was considered a top New York Yankees pitching prospect last season before he was injured while at Class AAA Scranton Wilkes/Barre.



Niles West grad Chris Kontos converted from infield to starting right fielder for Northwestern this spring. (Photo courtesy Northwestern University)

Nick Kontos, the boys' father, said George started throwing again last November. Recently, he had two outings at the Yankees' extended Spring Training in Tampa, Fla., throwing 25 pitches the first time out and 35 the second.

According to the elder Kontos, George was reaching between 89 and 92 mph on the radar gun and throwing all of his pitches. He said the Yankees expect George to return to full strength next season, but said his velocity should be at about 95 percent this summer.

Sikaras in Italy

Kontos is not the only former Niles West pitcher in professional ball. Pete Sikaras, 32, is pitching overseas for the De Angelis God Knights of the eight-team Italian Baseball League. Sikaras previously pitched in the minor leagues for the Milwaukee Brewers, Arizona Diamondbacks and Philadelphia Phillies.

College Recap

Several other former Wolves played college baseball this past season.

At Oakton Community College, sophomore catcher Nikko Tountas batted .341, with five home runs and 30 RBIs. Freshman Ryan Smith was 2-2 in 20 innings pitched. Freshmen Alex Gould and Danny Duran redshirted for the Raiders.

Last season's fine Niles West pitching duo of John Nasshan and Jon Rashid, both had up-and-down freshman seasons on the college level.

Nasshan, the big right-hander who was drafted in the 48th round by the Cubs, pitched 12 2/3 innings, all in relief, at Bradley. Left-handed Rashid (1-0) made five appearances, including a pair of starts, for St. Joseph's College (Ind.).

Adonis Tountas, a freshman, saw some playing time in the infield for Chandler-Gilbert Community College (Ariz.). His former Niles West double-play partner, Tom Endres, was a redshirt freshman at Fullerton (Calif.) Community College.

Former Niles West catcher Brendan Ryan was a freshman catcher at North Central this past spring and appeared in seven games, starting one.

Future Stars

Tyler Pazik, a 2010 Niles West graduate, will pitch at Indiana State next season. Classmates Dan Kluss and Eric Jensen will play at Concordia.

Bender named Maine East athletic director

Post is 'dream come true' for new boss

By MATT HARNESS
mharness@pioneerlocal.com

There perhaps is no one better suited as Maine East's new athletic director than Mike Bender.

The 1987 East graduate exudes a passion for the school's team matched by maybe a cheerleader or school mascot: Very simply, Bender lives and breathes Demons athletics

Bender was approved by District 207 on May 28 to take over for Pat Ryan, who resigned after three school years on the job.

"I can't begin to tell you how excited I am about this opportunity," said Bender, who officially assumes his duties July 1. "This is a dream come true. To serve my own neighborhood, words cannot begin to explain what it means to me. People know how much I care about the school and the community. People who know Mike Bender know I possess the enthusiasm and passion for this."

Among Bender's first tasks will be hiring eight new varsity coaches, including one to replace him on the softball team. The Demons' coach the past two seasons, Bender guided the squad to an 11-23 record this spring, nearly doubling the win total of the previous two seasons combined.

Maine Coaching turnover at Maine East

Baseball	Dan Dolney	8
Boys swim	Megan Kamarchevakul	4
Girls swim	Andrew Kittrell	1
Boys water polo	Andrew Kittrell	1
Girls water polo	Scott Guilfoil	1
Badminton	Jackie Arvidson	4
Boys gymnastics	Erick Noriega	2

Pioneer Press

Bender must also find coaches for all the aquatic sports, which include boys and girls swimming and boys and girls water polo. High-profile jobs such as baseball coach and boys basketball coach must also be filled.

"We are presently screening candidates," he said.

Bender, a special education teacher, has experience in athletic administration. He was the assistant athletic director in 2008-09 before becoming coordinator of the attendance review board in 2009-10.

"I have to give up being the softball coach, but I love Maine East athletics," he said. "Now I will be the biggest fan of all the sports."

With the district suffering budget deficits and job cuts, Bender considered exploring other education opportunities outside of Maine East. But that all changed when he was picked for the position of athletic director.

"This was one of my future goals, something that I was working toward," he said. "There's no place I'd rather be. The exciting part for me is that this is not a stepping stone. I want to be here."

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

BOYS VOLLEYBALL

Jim Leyden, St. Patrick
Senior middle wrapped up his career with his second consecutive trip to the state tournament. Leyden finished with 11 kills in the team's three-set loss to Minooka in Friday's quarterfinals.

Eric Butch, Maine South
Senior outside hitter had 30 kills Saturday, including a season-best 21 in a three-set semifinal loss to eventual state champion Marist, to help the Hawks finish third at the state tournament.

BASEBALL

Mike McGrath, Maine South
Senior's squeeze bunt in the fifth inning Saturday broke a tie and sent the Hawks to an 8-3 win over Glenbrook South and their first sectional title since 1966.

SOFTBALL

Kelsey Lee, New Trier
It's becoming a broken record, but it's sweet music to the Trevians. The senior drove in the first run of the game and also pitched the team to a 4-1 win over Glenbrook North in the title game at the Niles North Sectional.

GIRLS SOCCER

Jessica Blair, Glenbrook South
Senior forward had to assume a bigger offensive role Friday when Jannelle Flaws went down with a knee injury in the first half Friday of the team's 2-0 loss to Waubonsie Valley in the state semifinals.

BOYS LACROSSE

Chris Sweitzer, New Trier
His 54th goal of the season was the biggest as it lifted the Trevians to a 7-6 win over rival Loyola on Saturday. The state championship was the sixth in a row for New Trier.

GIRLS LACROSSE

Grace Dooley, Loyola
Notre-Dame bound senior All-American scored back-to-back goals in the second half to send the Ramblers to an 18-11 win over rival New Trier and the state championship.

WOMEN'S Track – Former Niles North star Flo Mafany did not take long to make a big impression on the collegiate level.

As a freshman this past spring at UW-Milwaukee, Mafany won the 400 hurdles at the Horizon League Outdoor Championship in early May. Mafany's time of 1:00.7 set a conference record and broke a school mark going back to 1986.

She also ran on the victorious 4x400 relay team as the Panthers captured the team title at conference.

Mafany, who finished second in the state in the 100 and 300 hurdles as a high school senior, said she had been limited by a sore hamstring at the indoor conference meet over the winter. But she was back to full fitness for the outdoor meet.

"Outdoor, I was ready. It was my best performance. It as amazing," Mafany said.

The performance earned Mafany an invite to last month's NCAA West Regionals in Austin, Texas, one of two regionals that feed into the NCAA Track & Field Championships.

Mafany went into the meet in the 400 hurdles ranked in the 40s and hoping to reach the top 24 and the semifinals. While she placed 44th in 1:03.16 in the prelims, the rookie said the experience would pay off in future years.

"To be a freshman, coming from high school and go to a regional against runners from the Big Ten, Pac-10 and Big 12, it was kind of intimidating," she said. "Also, it was really hot and I just died (toward the end of the race).

"But it was kind of like freshman year (of high school) at State. Just like it. It gets you pumped for next year. You know what mistakes you made and what you have do to. I'll be ready for next year."

Mafany said she remains happy about her decision to run for the Panthers. She was recruited by Florida and Nebraska, but felt she would be more valuable to a program like UW-Milwaukee, which is not loaded with elite athletes.

"I wanted to go to a school where I could help them out. All the other schools had great athletes and it didn't feel like they needed me," Mafany said. "I thought, Why not go to Milwaukee and help them get a conference championship? And that's what happened."

Mafany, who is studying business administration, said competing at Milwaukee also allowed those closest to her to witness her success.

"The most important thing to me is having my family see me do well and accomplishing my goals," she said. "If I had gone to Florida or Nebraska, I wouldn't have that support from my family."
