Niles ponders changes in PUD ordinance

The Niles Plan Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended numerous changes and amendments to the 1971 Planned Unit Development (PUD) ordinance in addition to increases in application fees. The recommendations made by the Commission at the Oct. 9 hearing will go to village trustees for consideration at a future board meeting.

Initiating the proposal of changes to the village code, Building and Zoning Director Joseph Salerno said corrections had been in the "talking stages for the past 4 years." The changes were necessary, he noted, to provide guidelines for land development, needed clarification in areas of the code and to provide latitude for discussion by zoning commissioners and the owner-developer.

The purpose of a PUD with minimum footage of 1 acre according to Salerno is to get the most use out of limited land areas and to build developments that are creative in design and aesthetically pleasing.

Salerno said the current zoning code provides payment by the petitioner of a filing fee ranging from $750 up to $1,750 depending on acreage involved to appear before the Plan Commission. The fee is non-refundable if the application is rejected.

He said the fee costs include salaries of zoning board member at $50 each per meeting, costs of notification to adjacent property owners, media publication costs, the secretary's salary, time used by the Zoning Director and extra time involving 9 departmental

Unofficial tally shows Mikva ahead by 403 votes

Another squeaker for Mikva

by Diane Miller

Once again Abner Mikva whose forte has become "too close to call" campaigns has claimed victory in the 10th Congressional District. Unofficial results Wednesday morning gave Mikva a 403 vote lead over challenger John Porter.

Porter who has not conceded the election due to the closeness of the vote told his workers at the North Shore Hilton Tuesday night that he was very grateful for their efforts and hard work in his behalf and he was not ready to quit yet. He complimented his opponent when he stated, "Mikva is a hard worker and a good campaigner, an intelligent and articulate man." He also stated it was a very clean race based on issues and thanked the individuals who had worked and organized his campaign.

As in the past, Mikva supporters and workers were in a jubilant and optimistic mood from the time the earliest returns began filtering into his election night headquarters at the White Eagle Restaurant in Niles.

At 10:15 p.m. Tuesday night, with 503 out of 543 precincts reported in, Mikva was leading Porter 81,819 to 81,115, a margin of 704 votes. But at 11:30 p.m. when a beaming Abner Mikva

Oakton's potential for serving students at Niles North

Acquisition of the Niles North High School building is an advantage to the Oakton Community College district not only because of its convenience to a large part of the district but because it would add to the comprehensiveness of college programs, according to William A. Koehnline, president.

The Niles North building would provide facilities for athletics and the performing arts which Oakton does not have at its interim campus or plans for the Des Plaines campus, Koehnline noted.

Dr. Koehnline pointed out that approximately 60% of current and potential students have homes closer to Niles North than to the campus site in Des Plaines. "We have every reason to expect attendance at Niles North would continue to be a large part of the total enrollment," he said.

College officials anticipate that having a substantial eastern physical plant with excellent teaching and public service facilities will increase the total number of persons served by college programs. This would include not only Niles and New Trier Township residents but also Evanston Township residents.

They estimate that, if Niles North is acquired, attendance there in 1980 would equal attendance at the Des Plaines Campus.

"Projections indicate that Oakton would have about 4,400 college-credit students at each location in 1980. Also, in three of the following four years attendance at the Niles North location would be greater than at the Des Plaines campus, enabling Oakton to service over 12,000 by 1984," Koehnline added.

Oakton plans to offer all components of its baccalaureate transfer curricula at Niles North, including the liberal arts, business, pre-engineering and science majors.

In addition, all but two of Oakton's 30 vocational-technical programs could be offered at Niles North.

"Even without additions to our career curricula, Oakton will be able to offer courses in 28 vocational-technical curricula at Niles North," Dr. Koehnline said.

Oakton will also expect to make extensive use of the Niles North building for adult and continuing education (MONNACEP), educational service to business, industry and government (in cooperation with the Oakton Educational Foundation) and cooperative offerings of upper level undergraduate and beginning level graduate courses with as many as five senior institutions.

In the area of community service, Oakton expects to provide workshops and seminars for the general public as well as certification and competitive examinations in the areas of high school graduation, credit for life experience, and specific occupational specialties such as real estate and auto servicing excellence.

When Oakton moves to the Des Plaines campus (Phase I), there will be space for only about one-half of the student body and college operations. Under state guidelines, Oakton's campus in Des Plaines is being constructed in several phases. Funds for the Phase II building were voted by the governor this summer.

President Koehnline said that

Niles resident Andy Ciabattari dead at 48

Services for Niles resident Andrew J. Ciabattari were held Saturday morning, Nov. 4 at St. John Brebeuf Church in Niles with burial at St. Joseph Cemetery.

Andy Ciabattari died Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, at Lutheran General Hospital, stricken earlier during the day in his Olcott home by an apparent heart attack.

Family members said he had come home from a workday at the Niles Park District showing no signs of illness but later complained of a pain in his arm around 5:30 p.m. When the pain spread to his chest the Niles Paramedics were summoned who took him to the hospital, where he died several hours later on the eve of his younger daughter's 17th birthday.

Surviving are his wife, Rosemarie; three children, Janet, 22, Andrew, 20 and Joanne; his brothers Angelo, Eugene and John and a sister Ida.

Andy Ciabattari came to Niles with his family 16 years ago from Chicago. A veteran of the Korean War from 1951 to 1953, he was active in the growth of his community as a member and past president of the Northwest Italian-American Society during which time he received the Society "Man of the Year" award in 1974; a parish member of St. John Brebeuf Church; delegate member of Niles Days; active in the Maine Township Democratic Organization; and a member since 1964 of a Chicago Italian Association, Maria Lauretana.

"There were so many things

Andy intended to do," said his widow. The Ciabattaris would have observed their 24th wedding anniversary next June 25.

News of the Nilesite's sudden death brought comment and condolences from community citizens and leaders throughout the area.

Bill Hughes, Director of the Niles Park District, said Andy's death came as a "total shock to everyone in the District," that "it will be difficult if not impossible to replace him.

"As an employee of the park for the past seven years," observed the Director, "he was a most dedicated individual... I personally have never before met a man who had so many capabilities and was willing to put them to use." Andy's main concern he noted had been at the Ballard Sports Complex where he "put in innumerable hours."

Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase commented, "He was just a wonderful person. He did everything 110% all the time and was totally dedicated to whatever he was doing. That kind of sincerity and willingness to give, which you know is real and not duplicity, is something you don't find in too many people."

Fellow member of the Northwest Italian-American Society Michael Provenzano noted, "We lost a man whom we all admired and respected." Andy's enthusiasm and abilities will be sorely missed by Niles residents and by his many friends throughout the area.

A close friend from childhood, Tom Imburgia, of Morton Grove, said, "Andy was the best fellow you'd want to meet. We grew up together in the same Chicago neighborhood, near Chicago ave. and Hamlin. We fished together, hunted together, socialized together. He was the type of person who, if you needed help, would drop everything to help you."

Niles Days co-chairman June Haas said, "He was a gentle man admired by everyone." She noted he had been asked to become a director in the village organization for the coming year, that he had been "very honored by the request."

On Oct. 29, the St. Isaac Jogues Parish Hall was jumping with the Pot Luck Halloween Party sponsored by the St. Isaac Jogues 55 Plus Club. 115 members attended and the costumes were many Hobo (Jo Glazer), Cleopatra and Caesar (Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ohio). Adagio Dances (Rozella and Frank Gioriana) were our costume winners. It was very hard to judge as all the costumes were very pretty and original. We had Hawaiian Girls, A Flapper from the 50's, Mexican Seniors and Senoretas, Martha Washington, a big pumpkin, and our Sack Lady with her bright yellow hair, an Indian Maiden, etc., etc.

The main thing is that everyone, but everyone had a grand time. The food and wine were great, the cake, cookies, candy, and jello molds were delicious. Highlight was the Adagio Dance by Frank and Rozella Gioriana and the Solo sung by Mario Arquilla (Look out Hollywood! The 55 Plus Club members are giving you a run for your money)... Our Accordionist Nicky May kept us dancing and singing to his fine music.

Our door prize winners were Edna Johnson who won the beautiful Fruit Basket donated by Minelli Bros. and Leonard Kledzik won the Blooming Plant donated by Forever Green. Even our Pastor Rev. Objectors win spot zoning argument

Homeowner claims infringement of Rights

by Alice M. Bobala
A Milwaukee ave. homeowner claimed infringement of his democratic rights Monday, Nov. 6 following denial by the Plan Commission and Zoning Board of his petition to convert a single family home into a two-flat.

Unanimous denial by the Zoning Board was based on "spot" zoning.

Bernardino Costantini told zoning commissioners he had purchased the single family home at 8213 Milwaukee ave. approximately 2 years ago with "expandable" privileges for resulting conversion.

He said he had chosen to live in a democratic country and now he was told he could not exercise democratic rights to do what he wanted with his home.

Zone Comr. Kenneth Cohen explained "expandable" permitted expansion of rooms, but that the area was zoned for single family residences and did not permit two flat buildings.

"Zoning is a matter of laws, laws govern property and we (Zoning Board) look to what is advantageous to the community as a whole and not to the individual..."

"If you feel you have been wronged," said the Zoning Commissioner, "you may take us to court but I would advise you to first seek a legal opinion."

He added the petitioner had the right of appeal to the Village Board of Trustees.

Comr. Charles O'Grady noted the rezoning petition from R2 single residential to R3 two family was a definite case of "spot" zoning.

"The entire area consists of single family homes. To change this one parcel of property to two flat zoning would open the whole block to speculation, with (what he termed) 'quick bunny' people seeking to convert property for speculative purposes."

O'Grady had earlier indicated Board opposition to the spot rezoning but Director of Building and Zoning Joseph Salerno said the petitioner had insisted on a Commission Hearing despite the knowledge the village did not approve of spot zoning.

Area residents brought out neighborhood opposition citing projected traffic hazards, increased density and parking problems.

Richard Walsh, a 20-year resident at 8228 Milwaukee ave. presented to the Board a 30-signature petition objecting to the rezoning which would "set a precedent for more 2 family homes in the area."

Calling the area particularly bad for any use that would generate more traffic, 22-year resident Marion Burns, 8226 Milwaukee ave., said there "were enough traffic problems now on Milwaukee ave."

Edward Neumayer of 7612 Monroe noted parking is "terrible in front of my house now" because of a nearby eatery. Also, he asked, what would prevent the owner from selling the house if conversion was granted?

Comr. Cohen noted objectors to the rezoning had "very ably stated their case...spot zoning would be detrimental to others in the area."

In other action the Zoning Board continued to Dec. 4 a petition by Chicago Title and Trust Co. for Planned Unit Development (PUD) conversion to condominiums of the Kingston Apartments at 8801-8815 Golf rd.

Delay in action provides time to property owners for presentation of required documentation and clearly specified amenities to the Zoning Board at the next Commission Hearing.

The highly-controversial hi-rise multi complex had been petitioned in 1977 for conversion to condos by former owner-developer Morris Suson.

Sale of the 11 acre property to new owners prompted a new condo plan offered by Arthur Nordenberg, attorney for Americo-Invesco as beneficiary under the CTT land agreement.

New plans for converting the three 12-story buildings, each containing 109 apartments, called for increased landscaping, a "visually improved environmental" parking area and added amenities of a play area, "passive" recreation area (for older residents) and a picnic area.

Atty. Joseph B. Denenberg, representing 40 of the original 70 tenants offered options to buy their units under Suson ownership, requested that the options be honored by the new owners.

Robert Phillips of 5535 Western ave., representing 72 homeowners of the Golf Garden Improvement Assoc., objected to the Western ave. exit from the property, citing traffic problems and safety hazards.

Phillips also read a letter from the 60-member Ballard Homeowners Assoc. who objected to a projected increase in traffic.

In final action zoners recommended approval of an R2 variation of required 50-foot frontage to 45-foot frontage at 8250 Oleander predicated on construction of a 2 car garage.

Atty. James Dolan said the owner of the property at Kedzie and Oleander had died recently and his widow desired to sell the property predicated on zoning for construction of a single family home.

Morton Grove ready for Winter

Morton Grove Public Works Director Jim Dahm inspects some of the Village's snow plows which are ready to be painted in preparation for service for this winter's storms.

Morton Grove's Public Works department has been preparing to combat this winter's snowfall. During the past few years the Village has been inspecting, repairing and painting the 14 pieces of snow removal equipment.

Public Works Director Jim Dahm said 350 tons of salt are on hand with more on the way. This year, he explained, the Village ordered 1,200 tons of salt through a purchasing arrangement with the State of Illinois.

This procedure will help lower the cost of the salt, whose price has risen since last year's shortage. Dahm said he does not expect a repetition of last winter's shortage which affected most municipalities in the area.

Dahm reminds residents that in the effort to plow as close to curbs as possible, driveways are sometimes fill with snow. It is virtually impossible to avoid this and still do an effective job of clearing each street to the widest possible extent.

To minimize having to shovel more snow than is necessary, he suggests you wait until snow removal equipment clears your street before shoveling your driveway approach.

Or, if you must clear your complete driveway before Village plows reach your street, pile the snow only on the side of the driveway which will insure the passing plow will not push it back where it came from. Also on the subject of snow, residents can assist the Fire Department by always clearing snow from buried or partially obscured fire hydrants on or near their property.

By assuring immediate access to hydrants by firefighter-paramedics you will be saving those few minutes of extra effort which may save a life or property.

Strong arm robbery of gas station

An aggressive man reclaimed an alleged $20 overpayment of a gas purchase, then took the remaining cash of approximately $130 "for his trouble" from the manager of Keane Bros. Service Station at 6747 Touhy on Nov. 1, later striking the attendant across the face.

The service manager said a man in his late twenties entered the gas station shortly before 10 a.m. Wednesday stating he overpaid $20 in an Oct. 21 purchase of gas.

When the manager refused to return the money, the alleged customer telephoned the main office and getting no action from the secretary turned to the station manager threatening to beat him. Fearing violence the employee offered to return the $20 which the man took. Then said he, "For my trouble I'll take the rest", and grabbed the remaining money from the manager's hand and struck him across the right cheek. The thief backed away and left the station on foot eastbound on Touhy.

A nearby service attendant said he did not witness the incident because he was pumping gas but that he did see the offender walk past him from the service station.

The man was described as 5 ft. 10 to six ft. in height, weighing 160 lbs., with wavy hair and wearing a red pullover sweater.

Nilehi Awards night

Oakton Raiders open basketball season against Harper

The Niles East Booster Club will hold its annual Fall Awards Night on Sunday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. in the Niles East Auditorium.

All of the athletes who participated in the fall schedule will be honored by both the Booster Club and the school. Sports to be recognized will include football, cross country, golf and soccer as well as girls tennis, archery and volleyball. Conference and state recognition will also be acknowledged at that time.

All participants and their parents are invited and refreshments will be served by the Booster Club in the cafeteria immediately following the ceremony.

Girls' Tennis

Maine East's Randi Rosen had a fifth place finish in singles in the Illinois State Tennis Tournament series this past weekend. Randi finished the 1978 tennis season with a 25-1 record.

OC's Basketball Team will play its first game of the 1978-79 season at Harper College on Nov. 21.

The Team, coached by Tom Jorndt, plays within the Skyway Conference. Though the Harper game is a non-conference match, Oakton and Harper have always had a heated rivalry.

Coach Jorndt has three returning lettermen to build this year's team. Returning lettermen include Gil Vargas, Dennis Jahnke and Jeff Fougereousse. Vargas, a starting guard last year, is more experienced and stronger this year. Jahnke is a strong forward who will dominate the boards while Fougereousse is playmaking guard who was a starter in the latter part of last season, according to Jorndt.

Freshman forwards include: Dave Areen a fine shooter and rebounder from Maine South, Nick Balaban, an outstanding jumper and rebounder from Gordon Tech, Chris Laden and Steve James, both promising forwards from Evanston and Glenbrook South respectively. Freshman guards include Michael Dickens, an experienced guard from Oak Park, Randy Miller from Glenbrook North, noted for his quickness, and Barry Brodsky from Niles North High School, Jorndt said.

Conference competition begins January 3 against Truman. Teams participating in the Skyway Conference besides Oakton and Truman include: Waubesa, McHenry, Morton, Elgin, and Lake County.

If successful in regular season Conference competition, Oakton would enter in post-season play in the Sectional Tourney held at Malcomb X College on February 19-24. The Region IV State Tourney is the next step and is being held in Danville, March 1-3. The NJCAA Tourney among the nations top teams is scheduled for March 20-24 in Hutchinson, Kansas.

Marillac volleyball team wins title

Tuning up for the Girls Catholic Athletic Conference playoffs, Marillac High School's volleyball team posted two victories this past week, and captured their second consecutive North Division title.

"We played our best game thus far," commented Coach Carol Hoag-O'Brien, following the Northfield school's victory over arch-rival Regina of Wilmette. The victories over Regina and Woodlands of Lake Forest enabled the school not only to repeat as divisional champions but also to move into the conference's playoffs, which begin Tuesday at Good Counsel High School in Chicago. Marillac's foe in the first round will be Regina. The victory over Regina was gained by back to back victories by the score of 20-5 and 20-7.

In the 1977 playoffs Marillac dropped their semi final game to Alvernia High School of Chicago. A win over Regina in the first round will pit Marillac against the winner of the conference's Southwest Division champs and the division includes the deten-ding state champs, Mother McAuley High School of Chicago. But even without the defending champs in their path, Marillac must also face top teams from all divisions of the conference.

This year's district tournament will include teams from Highland Park, New Trier West and Glenbrook North, along with Marillac. The site for the district has yet to be announced.

Game tournament

Old champions and new challengers are invited to compete in a game tournament at the Lincolnwood Library, 4100 W. Pratt, on Saturday, Nov. 11 from 1-3 p.m.

Chess, checkers, and backgammon are the featured attractions for all those from Grade 5 and up who are interested in participating. Prizes will be awarded.

Advance registration is requested. Please call the library at 677-5277.

MODEL RCM-10

Enjoy an extra measure of microwave cooking convenience and versatility. Right at your fingertips! Model RCM-10 features contemporary solid-state Touch-N-Cook controls. When you touch in your instructions, it not only remembers what you want it to do, but when to do it.

It can even remember to do first one thing, then another. For example, you can program the oven to defrost your Thanksgiving turkey, then begin cooking it at a higher setting. Or you can program it to start a cake on a low Cook Selector setting, then finish it on High. It can even cook, then switch to Warm, to keep your dinner on hold until you're ready to serve.

MODEL RCM-6

Here's microwave oven magic from Frigidaire! You can save up to 75% of the time required for conventional cooking and cook most foods with 50-75% less energy. What's more, you don't waste energy preheating a microwave oven. It doesn't need it!

Even your after dinner cleanup chores will seem to disappear. You'll have fewer pots and pans to wash, because you can often mix, cook, and serve in the same dish.

The federal government requires that most microwave ovens carry a warning label. The Frigidaire deep, thick door design is so effective in sealing microwave energy that all three models with this swing down door are exempt from this requirement.

Niles

A Hit in Niles
The Niles Park District's annual Halloween Parade, Party and Spook House were a big hit with Niles residents. On Oct. 28, 350 ghosts, goblins, witches and ghouls came out in daylight to celebrate Halloween-festivities at the Grennan Heights Recreation Center.

This year the Poster Making Contest attracted numerous creative young artists. Though the posters were many and the choice of winners was truly difficult to pick, the judges finally came to the following decisions in each group category:

Pre School and Kindergarten: Timothy O'Grady 1st, Brian O'Grady 2nd, Maureen O'Grady 3rd; 1st and 2nd grade— Steve Kuhr 1st, Sherri Brown 2nd, Colleen O'Grady 3rd; 3rd and 4th grade—Gail Weith 1st Joanne Bellazzina 2nd, Janet Pefkret 3rd; 5th and 6th grade—Debra Bellazzini 1st, Jim Mastri 2nd, Kara Paull 3rd.

Again, all the posters received were excellent and the Niles Park District wishes good luck to all in next year's contest.

In the Costume Contest, the judges were stunned by the many and fantastic outfits worn. This year's most popular costumes were from the space age featuring characters from the movie "Star Wars." The unusual crowd consisted of ballerinas, ghosts, pumpkins, gypsies, a pair of dice, clowns, peaceful cowboys and Indians, witches, variety of animals, a pink panther; and even an appearance from Wonder Woman! Judges really had their work cut out to decide the winners in the Costume Contest. Winners are as follows:

Pre School and Kindergarten—1st Donna Sanno as a Pumpkin, 2nd Greg Keelogg as a Spaceman, 3rd Nicole DePaolis as a Scarecrow; 1st and 2nd grade—1st Wayne Cofke as Mr. Peanut, 2nd Jonathon Frawley as Hulk, 3rd Gina Mirandola as a Clown; 3rd and 4th grade—1st Karen Sanno as Raggedy Ann, 2nd Ann Fisher as Woody Wood Pecker; 5th and 6th grade—1st Louis Argyrakas as a Tube of Toothpaste, 2nd Karyn Wirkus as a Cake, 3rd Lisa Argyrakas as an Indian.

The Niles Park District would like to thank all participants, Mrs. Judy Binacalana and the Girl Scout Troop #791, The Grennan Heights Recreation Center Staff with special thanks to the Athletic and Center Supervisor Mr. Ken Cox.

Look for winners of the Niles Park District Turkey Trot in next week's newspaper.

Home Search Center provides free information Illinois Association of Realtors installs 1979 officers

In order to help consumers, with the serious business of finding a new or used home, apartment, or condominium in the Chicago area, a second new Home-Search Center is now open at One Crossroads of Commerce at Route 53 & Algonquin rd. in Rolling Meadows. The center will provide free information on the 300 communities in the greater Chicago Area and counseling services at a nominal fee of $50. Which is refundable at time of closing or rental, announced Ruth Spiker, executive director, Home Search Inc.

The first Home Search Center in the greater Chicago area opened in May at 2625 Butterfield rd., Oak Brook.

"Home Search Center is designed to make a move in or to Chicago more of a pleasure, and less of a trauma. Visitors to the center will be provided with a Chicago area overview through a nine minute audio visual presentation, followed by comprehensive visuals of various areas, builders' displays, oversized wall maps, and complete books of data on 300 different communities," said Hentry A. Porterfield, President of Home Search, Inc.

Experienced brokers and counselors are available at Home Search Center to provide detailed information on schools and colleges in various areas. Complete data on market value of homes and taxes, both real estate and user, will be furnished.

Counselors will give briefings on shopping facilities, services, churches, health and medical facilities.

After one brief visit to the center, families will have a complete overview of the greater Chicago area and specific information on the communities of their choice.

According to Bob Rauschenberg and Hal London, co-owners of Realty World, Key Realtors, "Because Home Search Center is directly connected to a network of more than 200 real estate offices, apartment rental firms, and condominium sales offices throughout the Chicago land for families or corporate transferees to be picked up and delivered directly to these real estate or sales offices."

"For families and corporate transferees moving to the Chicago area, affiliated brokers across the country and in Canada can arrange for the sale of the families' former home before they move to Chicago," London said.

Bob Rauschenberg and Hal London, co-owners of Realty World, Key Realtors went on to say, "If you'd like to know more about this new Home Search Service, stop in to our office at 8148 Milwaukee, Niles, or call us at 692-7000 and we'll be glad to give you information concerning the new Home Search Center."

LETTERS to EDITOR

Director clarifies Oakton's interest in Niles North

Dear Editor:

It is my impression that background information about Oakton's interest in facilities at Niles North High School has been lacking and that much of the discussion is based on misunderstanding.

For several years Oakton has been searching for suitable educational facilities in the eastern part of the college district in view of the following factors:

1. When the colleges move to the Des Plaines campus next year only Phase I will be ready. Phase I can accommodate only about half of the student body and programs.
2. Leases on the interim campus buildings in Morton Grove are expiring in the next two years.
3. The college must also pay property taxes on these leased industrial buildings.

Some have suggested that Oakton should have been interested in educational facilities available at Niles East. This was and is not an acceptable alternative for the following reasons:

1. Criteria established by community colleges across the country emphasize central location, access to highways and availability of parking.

2. Niles East High School is on the far southern edge of Oakton's district. The northern boundary of District 535 is Lake Cook Road. Oakton must consider the needs of the greatest number of its students.

3. Traffic congestion in the vicinity of Niles East High School is a problem at present and poses an overwhelming obstacle for Oakton's use. Access to major highways is seriously lacking at the Niles East location.

4. Shortage of parking space at Niles East is even worse than the very limited parking at Oakton's interim campus.

While the closing of any high school is understandably distressing, Oakton has the prime responsibility of providing suitable facilities for its students including over 5,000 Niles Township residents this semester.

Sincerely,
Arthur Klem
Director of Information Services

A Golden Ager's 'Thank You'

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my feelings on two recent events that happened in our "Little All American City".

Our Club wishes to thank Terry Shevelenko and all the officers and members of the Niles Days Festival organizations for their generosity in fulfilling our request for social, cultural and educational activities. It has given us all an "incentive" to participate in all activities and also has made the Golden Years of our lives very fruitful.

The Niles Days will always have our club in the forthcoming years, our help because it has been voted on and passed by our membership.

Our other appreciation and heart-felt gratitude is to all of our wonderful merchants and organizations who were very instrumental in making our first card and bunco party a rousing success. The smiles and happiness on our Senior Citizens' faces was a joy to behold. They all want to say a big "thank you" to all who contributed in making their lives happier. I have been in contact with our merchants and all I can say, they all are "super people".

It sure is a distinct and honored pleasure to live in our wonderful village because of all the people who make this a happy and prosperous community.

I also wish to thank Daye Besser, Diane Miller and the staff of the Niles Bugle for all they have done to help make our seniors' lives much more pleasant and fun-filled. The better part of one's life consists of his or her friendships. A warm-hearted "thanks" to these people that have made my life an exciting and enjoyable one.

ANOTHER GREAT RUN FOR YOUR MONEY.

NORTRAN is back!

While RTA's NORTRAN service was suspended, some area residents might have forgotten how easy and economical it was to get around by bus.

Area commuters have long used the bus during rush hours to get to many North Western and Milwaukee Road train stations. Shoppers have traveled via the NORTRAN buses to the regional shopping centers throughout the north and northwest suburbs. Meanwhile students have often depended on buses as the smart way to get to school.

The system remains a viable and attractive alternative to driving.

Through the use of the RTA Universal Transfer, NORTRAN riders even have a low cost way to get around the metropolitan area. The transfer, which is available to riders for a small additional charge, is accepted on most RTA buses throughout Cook, Lake, Kane, DuPage, McHenry and Will counties. Many NORTRAN riders use the transfer on buses and rapid transit upon reaching downtown Chicago.

Bank remodeling reflects growth

Glenview State Bank is currently undergoing major interior remodeling due to the bank's growth and resulting increase in the number of employees. Cummins-Allison Corporation, which had occupied approximately 40% of the building, has moved to new quarters in Elk Grove, Illinois. This newly acquired floor space will be utilized by the bank and tenants, including Glenview Insurance Agency; the law firms of Karm & Winand and Miller, Forest, Rodman & Huszagh, Ltd.; Daniel Bonyhadi, wine importer and Loch Rhoades-Hornblower & Company, stockbrokers.

Even with many of the banking departments changing locations, walls going up and coming down, business is transacted without interruption. The bank apologizes for any temporary delay in telephone connections as the new lines are being installed. The bank moved into its present quarters in February, 1973. Since that time, assets have increased over $110 million. The banking complex, located at 800 Waukegan rd., won an award for excellence in the office building classification of the National Honors Award Program of the Society of American Registered Architects.

1st Nat'l of Morton Grove assets top $90 million

Record highs in total assets and deposits have been posted by the First National Bank of Morton Grove, announced chairman and president Marvin von Aswege. Assets rose to $90,196,288 as of September 30, 1978, topping $85,000. Deposits reached $90,828,186 on that date, an increase of more than $186,000.

The bank's total operating income, net earnings and earnings per share for the third quarter also showed substantial gains compared to the same period last year. "These new highs indicate we are right on target in our efforts to provide the community with the most attractive banking services, facilities and conveniences available," said Von Aswege.

ED HANSON

Solved: the smile of Mona Lisa

This is the conclusion of last week's story about the solution to the mystery of the Mona Lisa. My artist friend, the late Dave Campbell, told me his long study of the life and works of the artist, Leonardo da Vinci revealed the secret.

"The answer was so simple," he said as he finished his third cup of coffee. "It has been overlooked for centuries."

"In what way?", I asked, puzzled.

"The answer was not to be found in the picture of the Mona Lisa, but rather in the other works of Leonardo and in the life of the man himself," he replied.

Campbell stated that when Leonardo, as a 15 year old youth, first painted the "Dragon's Head" he forever after created composites from memory. In "The Last Supper", hailed by many as his greatest, the faces of the disciples were of necessity composites created from the marvelous memory and ingenious imagination of Leonardo da Vinci.

Once when he was chided for being slow in completing this great work his answer to the Duke of Milan, Lodovico Sforza, was:

"Your excellency is aware that Judas is missing. So far I cannot find features fit for so abandoned a character. I have been going morning and evening for more than a year to the criminal quarter sketching the scum of humanity; but I have not yet found what I want. If I continue to search in vain I shall have to use the Prior's head. It would serve well for the purpose. I have hesitated only out of consideration for the feeling of the Prior of the Monastery."

This legend lived on: that the Prior of the Monastery, Vincenzo Bandello, had unwittingly served for the model of Judas. The "Study For The Head Of Judas" is now part of the Windsor collection. Campbell pointed out how this bit of historical fact reveals how exhaustively Leonardo strove for perfection for his composite faces of the 12 disciples.

When it came to painting female faces, Campbell explained, Leonardo always portrayed the same face and similar expression to that of the Mona Lisa.

Even his paintings of males, such as Saint John the Baptist and Bacchus bear a striking resemblance to the famous Mona Lisa.

The first oil portrait painted by Leonardo from life was that of Cecilia Gallerani. She came of a good Milanese family, spoke Latin fluently, composed poetry in Italian and was the pampered pet of court nobility.

Leonardo painted Cecilia when he was a very young man and she was 17. The portrait is titled "Lady With The Weasel" now in the Czartorski gallery. Campbell said, "They appear to be twin sisters altho Mona Lisa was not yet born when Leonardo painted Cecilia."

History records Cecilia's remark touched with melancholy, "that the painting was so unlike her, nobody would take it for her portrait."

Campbell claims this was further proof Leonardo always painted as the guided by some unseen force to create from his imagination and memory.

As the artist himself stated in his own words from his "Treatise On Painting" - "The Artist's soul guides the painter's arm and makes him reproduce himself, since it appears to the soul that this is the best way to represent a human being..."

"I ask you to observe the faces of the women and many of the men Leonardo painted," Campbell said, as he placed prints of these masterpieces before me - "The Annunciation," "Virgin Of The Rocks," "Adoration Of The Magi," "Saint Anne," "Leda," "Saint John The Baptist," and "Bacchus". The striking similarity is surprising when studied.

Campbell then produced a large print of the Mona Lisa. "Imagine his shock," Campbell exclaimed, "when he first met Mona Lisa. Here was the living woman with all the familiar features of his imaginary composites. Perhaps," said Campbell slowly, "this may account for the six years it took him to complete the portrait of Mona Lisa. And why he painted her amid music and the chant of professional readers of verse. Was it stimuli for his own inspiration?"

"Thus," I said, "he created something which did not exist in the face of Mona Lisa."

"Exactly," replied Campbell. "Only this time Leonardo carried it to a greater degree than he had ever achieved previously. He painted into the Mona Lisa the wisdom within his own eyes. The artistic shape of his own hands and..."

"His own smile," I interrupted. "The expression of his own smile," intoned Campbell. "That slight suggestion of a haughty smile of superior knowledge which he alone possessed. Thus, he created an artistic mystery by imbuing the physiognomy of a plain peasant woman with the innate wisdom he himself possessed."

"An interesting theory," I conceded, "that da Vinci always painted himself."

"Not theory - fact," corrected Campbell. "This copy of a document I came into possession of, written in Leonardo's own hand shortly before his death in Cloux, France on May 2, 1519, proves it! I'll read you the Latin translation:

"As I have written before in my 'Treatise On Painting' I have known painters who made every figure they created an exact copy of themselves, giving their subject their own gestures and movements. I carried out this tendency not subconsciously as in the case of previous works but consciously in the creation of the portrait of the Mona Lisa. The expression of my own eyes, the shape of my own hands, and the nature of my own smile is imprinted upon the portrait of del Giocondo's wife - the Mona Lisa."

"Do you have the original of this document?", I asked excitedly.

Campbell shook his head sadly. "I did, but it was destroyed. The parchment was withered and yellowed with age; the writing barely decipherable. I left it on my desk while doing some work on my manuscript. When I returned, my little Siamese cat - the one we call Misty - had clawed and chewed it beyond recognition. Strange, wasn't it?"

I looked at my old friend appraisingly. I thought I detected a mischievous twinkle in his eyes.

Want to meet the Mona Lisa?

by Ed Hanson

In person? Well, just drop into the new gift shop, 7562 Milwaukee ave. and see the proprietor, Ms. Shirley Youkhana.

She bears a striking resemblance to the lady who posed for this world famous 16th century Renaissance portrait. She also seems to possess that strange old-world mystique and ancient wisdom deep in the iris of the dark eyes, reminiscent of the famous Lisa.

Perhaps, it's because Shirley Youkhana herself comes from a very ancient civilization and culture - Assyria. A civilization which had its present known beginnings almost 3,000 B.C. For Shirley Youkhana was born in Bagdad, Iraq, formerly Babylon, 40 years ago.

She came to this country in 1960, at age 21, barely able to speak the language, along with hardly any funds, in a strange land with a culture (if you can call it that) and a super-charged economic pace completely foreign to her.

And, when you consider that very few people in this country are familiar with the Assyrians as a people, let alone their ancient cultural achievements, and language, provided an even greater barrier to achieve success than from almost any other country.

But in their history classes in Bagdad, Ms. Youkhana learned as a child about their formidable ancient middle eastern civilizations, the Assyro-Babylonians, whose culture was later inherited by Western nations through the Greeks. Some of the products of this culture being the art of writing their alphabet, i.e., ALAP-BET-GAMAL-DALAT which is still pronounced thus. This brings to our cognizance the ALPHA-BETA-GAMMA, etc., which was passed on to European culture by the Greeks which is currently used in scientific terminology such as: ALPHA, BETA or GAMMA RAYS.

And in the Assyrian language every alphabet letter is the name of a known object to which the outline of the letter has a similarity.

Among the arts and sciences the Assyrians of pre-Christian era developed their talents to an astounding degree of perfection. For example, recording historical events upon baked clay tablets. And who has not heard of Gilgamesh or the Hanging Gardens of Babylon? Their achievements in sculpture were epic. A visit to the Oriental Institute of Chicago adjacent to the University of Chicago will confirm this statement. For the first thing that catches the eye on entering the museum is the 16 ft. high Assyrian statue of the man-headed, winged-bull sculptured in Alabaster (white stone). This achievement alone reveals what majestic heights these people achieved in the realm of art.

This combination of man, bird and animal represented the wisdom of man, the speed of the eagle, and the powerful strength of the bull. But that ancient Assyrian sculpture gave the bull five legs. Thus the impression of two sensations by this statue is created. If seen from the front and the back, the Bull is standing still. But if seen from the side it gives the impression of motion. A really remarkable artistic feat, indeed.

So you could say that Shirley Youkhana possesses in her genes some of the wisdom, patience, desire and strength that her ancient ancestors had. For she managed to secure 3 years of college at Kolly-Community College, Arkansas City, Kansas. And from the Mary Lane Beauty School she gained a degree as a licensed beauty shop operator.

She is currently studying real estate with a view toward ultimately entering this field. She recently purchased a modern 15-unit apartment building, California style, in a very desirable location. And she opened her Mona Lisa Gift Shop, 7562 Milwaukee ave., last month just in time for the big, gift buying season for the Christmas holidays. She offers gifts from the four corners of the world... and beyond. Shirley is also an expert seamstress (as all Assyrians are) and plans to incorporate this service into her gift shop.

Who said this is a man's world?

"Knowledge City" model on display at Niles Library

Any citizen, be he parent, child or educator, who is concerned with our harrowing traffic statistics and is hopeful of revamping the tragic picture they paint, should be interested in the latest exhibit at the Niles Public Library. It consists of a visual display plus take-home materials that outline an innovative new program whose purpose is to instill the importance of traffic safety into the consciousness of school children by making it a part of their daily lives. Entitled "Knowledge City" the concept was devised and developed by Niles Police Sergeant Jim Gerhardt and was successfully employed at the East Main School District 63 Woodrow Wilson School, until that building was closed. Presently the program thrives at the Washington School to where it was transferred. Gerhardt's approach combines inventiveness with practicality by implanting a traffic environment right in the school building! This he does by the painting of traffic lines in the halls; the installation of traffic signs and lights at strategic points in the building and the like. Children are expected to observe the "traffic laws" of the school corridors just as their elders (and they themselves) must do in the street. It is hoped their observations soon become habit forming.

According to the flier's Preface, the goals of "Knowledge City" are: "to teach young children to understand basic street signs and directions by recognition and daily practice; enlighten children regarding the necessity of laws; provide a sense of community within a school building; (enlighten children) regarding the role of the police officer..."

The results at Wilson are an encouraging sign that the program may soon benefit children in other schools, perhaps yours. Already over a hundred schools across the country have requested it. Materials are reasonably obtainable and the format is easy to understand and implement. Why not stop in at the Main Library, 6960 Oakton and look them over? Some day, somewhere, a child may be glad you did!

Continuing at the Library are the Thursday screenings of the Illinois football games. Slated for Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. is the game between the Illinois and Michigan State.

was ushered into the room amid deafening cheers and applause from his supporters, he reported totals from 542 out of the 543 precincts in the 10th Congressional District were in and he was claiming victory on the basis of a minimum of 403 votes. The one remaining unreported Niles Township precinct was considered to be a strong one for Mikva.

In proclaiming his victory to the crowd, Mikva said he felt this was a "landslide" victory compared to two years ago when he defeated Sam Young by 201 votes. "I've done twice as well in this election."

When asked by reporters his philosophy of campaigning, he replied, "You have to contact the voters in a one-on-one basis, tell them your record and your plans for the future, and then let them make their decision."

It was interesting to note that in Evanston's 3rd precinct, which is the home precinct shared by both Mikva and Porter, Mikva took the precinct with a vote of 235 to 123.

In the race for state Senator in the 4th Legislative District, incumbent Senator John Nimrod proclaimed victory Tuesday night when he was 8,000 votes ahead of his most formidable challenger yet, Sam Berger. Berger, in his concession speech, stated he was grateful for the support he had received and thanked his workers for their efforts in his behalf.

In his bid for State Representative in the 4th Legislative District John P. Goggin was unsuccessful and victory was claimed by incumbent Republicans Penny Pullen and Eugene Schlickman and Democrat Aaron Jaffe.

Although there were few complaints of voting irregularities in the Niles area, several phone calls were received by The Bugle from residents who had not voted on the Blue Ballot because they had neglected to see it in the front of the ballot booklet. Most of them were very irate and felt the election judges should have called it to their attention when they were handed their voting cards. The Blue Ballot was for the proposed amendments to the Constitution regarding the abolition of the personal property tax now imposed on corporations, partnerships and trusts and also for the exemption of Veterans Organizations Post Homes.

In the final tally for the Blue Ballot, the "Yes" votes totalled 1,022 to 634 "No" votes, thereby keeping the personal property tax on corporations. The Veterans Post tax amendment passed by a vote of 1,019 to 723, thereby allowing veterans posts to be exempt from property taxes.

staff members in discussion of each application.

Under a procedure change in the ordinance, Salerno asked for a Pre-application Conference on a proposed PUD, to be held prior to the Zoning hearing, with a filing fee of $250, not refundable but which would be applied toward formal application charges. Should the pre-application request be rejected by the Commission, the petitioner would lose only the $250.

Salerno said the following proposed increases in filing fees would also cover the village planner's fee, previously paid by the applicant: one acre but less than 5 - $1,250 (from $750); 5 acres but less than 10 - $1,700 (from $1,000); 10 acres but less than 15 - $2,050 (from $1,250); 15 acres but less than 20 - $2,400 (from $1,500); and 20 acres or more - $2,750 (from $1,750).

A proposed change in the Schedule clause of the PUD code spells out time schedules of final plats submitted for approval: 12 months for single-family and two-family use; 18 months for multi-family use; 24 months for commercial use; 36 months for industrial use and 12 months for all other uses.

Construction must begin within one year of filing of the final plat with provisions for one-year extensions in the building schedule to be approved by village officials.

Presently the code provides for construction to begin within 5 years from approval of the preliminary plat. A proposed addition to the PUD ordinance stipulates that a "certificate of occupancy" be issued upon completion, a portion or individual buildings of a PUD in contrast to present requirement that the project be completed as a whole prior to issuance of the permit.

Salerno further stressed the importance of proposed-required additional data, to be furnished by the petitioner in preliminary plans, of landscape planning; school impact study; tax impact study and a traffic analysis.

Under the current code said the Zoning Director the owner-developer had no guidelines to prepare his petition to the Zoning Commission, necessitating numerous returns to the Board for presentation of required data.

Two new paragraphs recommended for addition to the ordinance requested submission of a final construction schedule and detailed construction plans for site amenities and landscaping.

An additional change provides for latitude by commissioners in requirement of 2 parking spaces per unit, dependent upon individual PUD circumstances.

Finally, said Salerno, the new standards for PUD leave open for discussion density, building height, yard requirements, engineering standards, landscaping, traffic flow and side amenities so the overall design resulting from PUD approval can uniquely benefit the village and the owner-developer.

Further, he noted, the Plan Commission reviewing plans of the proposed PUD state the following standards are to be used as a general guide in determining the permitted density of the development: land use, type, size and location of amenities and the facilities allowed. These standards, he noted, are not intended to be limiting, but are to be used as a general rule.

Niles presently has five Planned Unit Developments ranging from one acre up to 58 acres (the largest at the Greenlakes Complex in north Niles).

chard Center to have both the support and the understanding of governmental bodies in the area it serves", Greenstein explained.

"The Village of Morton Grove has demonstrated both its understanding and its support through this allocation," he added, in accepting the check.

the leases on several of the industrial buildings on the Interim Campus in Morton Grove will expire in 1980.

He emphasized that Oakton's prime need is for adequate classrooms and laboratories in the east-central part of the college district.

"Faculty and students have had to endure many hardships during the past nine years at the Interim Campus - inadequate parking, makeshift classrooms, leaking roofs, heating or air conditioning breakdowns. The College has not only had to spend taxpayers' money on the maintenance and repairs of these buildings but was required to pay the taxes on the property as well. The thousands of dollars spent on maintenance and taxes will be saved if Oakton can buy or lease Niles North," he said.

A lifesaving opportunity

A motion picture has just been completed recently involving the Norwood Park/Edison Park communities. The film, entitled "Lifesaver", is a public awareness and educational film depicting a day in the life of a Chicago Fire Department paramedic. The film was written and directed by Ronald F. Karl who is a Chicago Fire Dept. Paramedic.

"Lifesaver" is presented in conjunction with a course of the same name which not only includes viewing of the film, but also a lecture/discussion of paramedic services. Included in the discussion is a demonstration of CPR and the Heimlich Maneuver as well as receiving numerous handouts. Emphasis during the course is placed on the services available to the community through its paramedic program.

This course is available to church and social organizations by calling 763-0192, or call 299-8020.

The course's instructor, Ronald F. Karl, also is the Midwest Zone Correspondent for Paramedics International, an international professional publication. He is an American Heart Assn. certified CPR instructor and certified Red Cross Multi-Media instructor. He is currently completing his Bachelor's degree in Health Administration at a nearby university. Karl has also designed and instructs health education classes at Oakton Community College.

Living facilities for mentally ill

Because the majority of the mentally ill cannot successfully live with relatives, alternative living facilities must be found. To date all that is available are substandard boarding houses, questionable nursing homes, and halfway houses where they are not motivated to reach whatever potential they might have.

The number one priority of The Society for Schizophrenia and Related Illnesses is to establish parent operated group homes where our adult children and other relatives can live in dignity and where they can be encouraged to function to the best of their ability.

With this goal in mind, Mr. Sherman Carter, Administrative

Up, up and away

Two Niles teenagers, William Raucci, 13, 7909 N. Harlem ave., and Michael Hewel, 16, 7919 N. Harlem, decided to experiment with a balloon during the recent warm fall weather. They launched a helium-filled balloon and attached a postcard asking the finder to return it to them.

Four days later they received a letter from Carlon Dawson of Washington C.H., Ohio telling them the balloon was found 8 miles west of Frankfort, Ohio, approximately 400 miles from Niles, Ill.

Halloween costume winners

Celia Hansen, Assistant Cashier, on behalf of the Bank expressed "Thanks to all the employees who dressed in costume for helping to make Halloween a festive day for our customers."

Crossword puzzle winner

Elephants and armadillo can be symbols of luck. They were for Victor Wu, a sophomore student at Niles West High School, who used the two words to win a $10 prize and instant fame.

Wu accepted the challenge issued by Science World magazine to submit an original crossword puzzle for publication and a prize. Puzzles have to be built around one topic of science. The grid was supplied by the magazine, complete with two nine-letter holes and about 80 others, to be filled with words.

The sophomore from Morton Grove chose Zoology as his topic and the two lucky words as his beginning. From then on, it was a matter of "seeing what words fit, then checking to see if they exist," said Wu. He used the dictionary as his primary resource and his free time at school and at home to build the puzzle. Altogether, it took about a week to complete. Although he's been doing the puzzles in Science World "for about half a year,"

Wu said that this was his first attempt at building one.

Wu earned a straight A academic average at Niles West last semester and is currently enrolled in Honors English and Geometry, in regular Biology and Western Civilization and in second year German. He intends to go out for interscholastic track next spring.

Dance contest winners

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Niles Township Council of School Boards and the Illinois Association of School Boards. Some of the questions that will be addressed are: What is a School Board? What Does a Board Member Do? What Legal Responsibilities Would I Have as a Board Member? In addition, participants will have the opportunity to have some of their own questions answered.

The second annual workshop is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 14, 7:30-10 p.m. and will be held in the Skokie Public Library. There is no charge to participate. For further information, please phone 966-3800, ext. 447.

The workshop will be oriented toward giving the children a working knowledge of the piano keyboard, the names of the piano keys, the musical alphabet both backward and forward, and rhythmic concepts.

The class will be limited to eight children. Please call the library, 677-5477, to register for the program or for any further information.

Scholarship competition winner

Robert J. Levy has won the Century III Leaders Scholarship Competition at Niles West high school, according to Dr. Nicholas T. Mannos, principal.

The 17-year old senior is now eligible to compete with other high school seniors throughout Illinois for two $1,500 scholarships, two $500 scholarships, and also for a $10,000 national scholarship that will be awarded in a conference of state winners in colonial Williamsburg.

The Century III Leaders program is a scholarship competition which emphasizes the future concerns of America. Students were judged by Niles West staff members on the basis of their leadership abilities, community involvement and score on a current events examination. To compete at the state level, Levy must now write a brief projection outlining what he thinks is one of America's future challenges and how it should be met. Levy's projection states his views about future Soviet-U.S. relationships.

He's active on the school newspaper and in the theatre department, where he's currently on the student variety show steering committee.
