Nimrod bill on school pledge passes Senate

Senator John J. Nimrod, D-Glenview, announced today the Senate has overwhelmingly approved his bill which would require grade school children to pledge that they will not smoke.

"By having our school children begin each day by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance," said Senator Nimrod, "I believe their example will help them become better citizens as a result."

The original bill called for the no-smoking oath to be administered at the beginning of the school year. The amendment adopted by the Senate provides that it be administered at any time during the school year.

"In my opinion," said Senator Nimrod, "today's youngsters are to be denied only by grade school education."

Phone, Federal of Chicago office on your way

"It's nice to have friends about," added Senator Nimrod, "and friends are especially nice when they're about to be your friends."

Whether you're in the market for new and used vehicles, there's probably a First Federal of Chicago office near you. For more information, call your nearest First Federal of Chicago office.

Two Double Eagle Awards were presented to First Federal of Chicago at the annual awards banquet held in the Chicago Peninsula Hotel. The awards were presented by the Chicago Peninsula Eagle Awards Committee. The awards were presented to First Federal of Chicago in the category of "most outstanding bank advertising campaign." The award was for an advertising campaign that promoted First Federal's IRA/Keogh retirement plan. Accepting the award for First Federal was Marilyn R. Hopkins, vice president at the agency. First Federal was also presented with the Open Class for a branch advertising campaign entry, which was nominated by a Chicago firm. It all adds up to this effective annual yield* and it is an annual interest rate for personal savings accounts, which is paid on an annual basis.

Savings Account

In order to find the effective annual yield, one must look at the compound interest rate and annual interest rates. The savings account is the most popular type of savings account and is typically used to hold money for future use. The interest rate on a savings account is the percentage of the balance in the account that is paid as interest to the account holder. The annual interest rate is the percentage of the balance in the account that is paid as interest to the account holder on an annual basis.

Savings Account

The effects of interest rates on savings accounts can be significant. Higher interest rates can increase the amount of money saved over time, while lower interest rates can decrease the amount of money saved. Savings accounts are typically used to hold money for future use, such as retirement or college savings.
