Library adopts $1.2 million tax levy; no tax hike 1987

by Sandra Zarembki

In its meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 10, the Niles Public Library Board adopted a levy of $1,209,173. This involves no tax increase for fiscal year 1987.

The tax referendum, which will be on the ballot on November 4, will be needed to offset the eroding tax base and shrinking funds the Library will have for its use in future years. Board President Harry Pestine stressed the referendum, if passed, will

Public property prohibits statues without voters' consent

Park denies request for Pulaski statue

by Sylvia Dalrymple

A request from a Niles resident to erect a statue of Revolutionary War hero General Casimir Pulaski on park district property was turned down by the Park District Board at Tuesday's meeting.

The request was presented at last month's meeting but the subject was tabled because of the absence of several board members.

John Izykowski, 8657 Ozanam, presented the board with a petition signed by 800 Niles residents asking the Niles Park District to donate space for the statue "to honor the man who shed his blood for freedom in America," he said.

He added that no public funds would be used for the project.

by Bud Besser

When we contemplate writing this column we're tempted to write about Joe Kennedy II, who is favored to win his race in a Congressional election back east. We want to write out loud about overages preppies who ride their family names into office. Or we think about spies and terrorists and Chernobyl and want to stick our two cents in to the fray. But we quickly put the brakes on because that's not what community news is all about. We're the local boy in town and local news is what the community newspapering covers. So, comments and reports are mostly between Central and Devon Avenues and from the tollway named 294 to the province east of Edens...

Our Milwaukee Avenue correspondent, Diane Miller, alerted us to a dangerous, much too high, divider at the south end of the Golf Mill Shopping Center across from Millbrook Center on Milwaukee Avenue. Driving south in the left hand lane, car tracks have been scarring the divider ever since it was placed there. It juts into the south lane and unless it's filed or carved down, it will be at the center of an accident in the coming days. A driver bouncing off the juttied-out median strip will veer into the right-hand lanes which will cause innumerable fender benders or worse.

School Districts 67 and 34 swap territories

Glenview Elementary School District 34 and School District 67 recently agreed to swap lands which will allow Glenview residents to attend either school under provisions agreed upon by both districts.

The pact transfers a small residential part of Glenview (north of Central Park) that lies in District 67 to District 34. District 67, in turn, will receive the northern part of commercial land now in District 34.

The North Cook County school reorganization committee initially made the compromise move in July apparently in response to the remaining residents in District 67, who claimed the residential detachment would mean a loss of about 45 students and an estimated loss of $5.8 million in assessed valuation. Those residents carried picket signs which asked "Leave District 67 alone."

The issue was the subject of four meetings and at one time was revived after being dropped by the North Cook panel. It later came up with the land exchange idea as a compromise to three other options that were under study.

The area transferred to District 34 now contains 35 students (some moved out of the area) and has an equalized assessed valuation of approximately $5.6 million. The

Niles Beautification Winners

The winners of the Niles Beautification Contest, which started in the Spring of 1986 and ended in August, were recently honored at a Niles Village Board Meeting. The gift certificates were presented by Niles Mayor Nicholas Biase and the coordinator of the Beautification Contest, Trustee Peter Pesole. This is the third year that Niles has sponsored such a contest in order to give residents the opportunity to display the beauty of their property which, in turn, enhances neighborhoods and the village itself.

Stated Trustee Pesole, "We are again pleased with those who entered the contest and we congratulate the winners on making their property the most attractive in the village."

New addition to Niles Door County Historical Museum Trip

Marge Berles, museum chairman of the Niles Historical Society, proudly shows off a covered wagon (circa 1886) recently donated by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Horath of Arlington Heights, who found it on a Wisconsin farm. The couple spent two years restoring the wagon to its former frontier days look, complete with a new canvas cover.

Maine Township senior citizens can still register for a three-day trip to Door County, WI, Saturday through Monday, Sept. 27-29 by calling the Maine Township Seniors office at 297-2510.

Price of the trip is $258 per person double occupancy, which includes round trip motorcoach transportation, deluxe hotel accommodations for two nights, two dinners, three lunches, two breakfasts and all sightseeing and admissions charges.

The trip begins with a scenic drive through the Kettle Moraine Forest with a stop for lunch at the rustic Woolen Mill in Cedarburg and then wends its way north with a visit to Old Wade House in Greenbush and a drive along Lake Winnebago.

Both nights' lodging will be at the Ramada Inn Green Bay. Sunday, guests will explore the Door County Peninsula in all its fall splendor with a traditional Door County fish boil for lunch and a visit to the unique Bjorklund Chapel.

Monday's plans feature a stop at DePere, WI, with a river boat tour of the historic Fox River and lunch before returning to Maine Township.

The Door County trip is open to Maine Township Seniors members and their guests. Space is limited, so seniors are urged to make their reservations as soon as possible.

Volunteers needed to deliver meals

Older Adult Services' Home Delivered Meals Program needs volunteer drivers to help deliver meals to homebound senior citizens in the Park Ridge and Des Plaines areas. Volunteer drivers can donate as few as one hour each week. Drivers pick up the meals at the Nathanson School, 9375 Church St. in Des Plaines (at the corner of Church St. and Potter St.), then make the deliveries. Meals are packaged in easy-to-carry, lightweight, thermal containers.

If you cannot volunteer every week, you can still volunteer on an "on-call" basis. Please call Gwynne George-Chovanez at 696-5573 for more information about becoming a volunteer driver for the Home Delivered Meals Program.

Older Adult Services is a division of Parkside Human Services Corporation.

Statistics show people with pets live longer

To stay young at heart, and live much longer, get up, go out and purchase a pet (dog, cat, bird, small animal or fish). It is common knowledge that people with one or more pets to care for will usually live longer, be happier, worry less, and care more about others. A pet needs us so much that it give us a reason to go on living. Minor aches and pains vanish. Simply walking a dog, stroking a cat, or talking to a bird (they only say what we teach them) is an experience only a pet owner can relate to. Fish are so relaxing that high blood pressure will be lower and what could be more interesting or cuter than a small animal. Nursing homes, retirement complexes, day care centers, schools, and other care facilities are all finding how good it is to have small pets or birds around. So get up, go out, and purchase, adopt or save a pet. You'll have a friend for life and the creature you pick will help your life last longer.

Niles youth earns highest Scouting award

It is often said that you can accomplish anything as long as you put your mind to it. This certainly holds true for an exceptional young man named Kurt Kozeny. On September 28, 1986, Kurt will be awarded the highest rank in Scouting, the EAGLE. But what makes this so extraordinary is that Kurt was born with Downs Syndrome.

At the time of his birth, Kurt's loving parents disregarded the advice of placing him in a special facility and elected to raise him in their home located in Niles, Illinois. In 1984, Kurt was determined to live a normal, active life and desired to participate in the same activities as his sister and three brothers, which was Scouting.

When he reached the age of eight, Kurt had the opportunity to join Cub Scout Pack 175, which is affiliated with St. John Brebeuf parish in Niles. He knew it would be difficult for him and realized that he might not be accepted by the other boys; however, he refused to let his disability prevent him from participating in the various scouting activities such as swimming, hiking, and camping. With the guidance of some very outstanding leaders, Kurt was able to accomplish what all the other "normal" boys did and slowly, he progressed through the various ranks of Cub Scouts.

Burriss will discuss the topic "A Look at the Financial Health and Future of Illinois."

State requires report cards from school districts

The educational process is getting a new twist with area elementary schools and high schools being required to turn in "report cards" to state officials under the Better School Accountability (BSA) program.

The BSA is part of the Education Reform Act passed by legislators early this year (Senate Bill 730). Information required by the state's Board of Education includes student test scores, class size, school population, per-pupil cost, salaries of faculty and administrators, and other financial data.

According to Gene Zalewski, superintendent of School District 71, the district report card is expected to be released by the end of this month. "I think the state feels this program will stimulate academic growth through competition among school in the state," he said. "However, I'm a little concerned about misinterpretation of facts where definitions are not clear in certain areas."

He explained there is a potential for comparing academic performance among school districts without considering demographics and socioeconomic levels that could have an impact on public opinion.

There are many factors involved in judging the difference among school districts, such as type programs offered and the number of new students coming into the district at the beginning of school term. "For example, some schools have special education programs which would bring test scores down or five new students with academic ability would enroll the year and test scores would go up."

Test scores should not be the sole criteria in comparing school districts in the state since they don't use the same tests and are not conducted at the same time of year," he noted, adding the report card will include test scores from the 1985-86 school year.

Consideration should also be given to economic aspects that could cloud the overall picture of academic performance. "A more affluent community can provide a better education because of a viable tax structure compared to

First and second graders of Niles Elementary School South had fun trying out the equipment last week at the opening of the new playground at the school. Construction costs and equipment were split between District 71 and the Niles Park District which also supplied the labor. In attendance were (l-r) Mary Marusek, park district commissioner; Bill Hughes, park director and Glenn Grieshaber, school principal. Kneeling are park district workers (l-r): Tom Slack and Mike Rea who constructed the playground. Equipment includes a clutter bridge, trolley ride, chain ladder and snake and spiral slides.

MEDICAL DIFFERENCES OF OLDER AND YOUNGER PEOPLE

Some changes occur naturally as people grow older. For instance, there is a decrease in lean body mass (muscles and bones) as opposed to fat in total body weight, muscles lose elasticity, blood pressure tends to increase, and the ability to metabolize sugar decreases. Older people tend to have several disease or disabilities at the same time, thus treatment is complex. Some diseases behave differently in the elderly; for example, an older person may have a heart attack without pain or appendicitis without abdominal tenderness. Other diseases which are common in the elderly, such as cancer of the prostate and osteoporosis, rarely affect younger people. Seniors respond differently to medications, take longer to recuperate from illness, and must be closely monitored during recuperation to prevent further complications, as opposed to younger people. The Morton Grove Health Department's Better Health Clinic provides free counseling and health monitoring for senior citizens. For an appointment any Tuesday, call the Senior Hot Line at 965-4658.

WHEN IS NOISE DANGEROUS?

People differ in their sensitivity to noise. As a general rule, noise may damage hearing if: 1) the noise hurts the ears, 2) it makes the ears ring, or 3) slightly more deafness occurs for several hours after exposure to the noise. SHHH, the Self Help for Hard of Hearing People, Inc., meets the third Saturday of each month (10 a.m. Sept. 20) in the Skokie Public Library, all are welcome.

QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR INSURANCE AGENT

The most valuable part of your jewelry collection is the pleasure you get in wearing each piece. It is important, though, that you consider insuring your jewelry so that if you suffer a loss you are able to replace the items and the pleasure they bring you.

The first step is to obtain detailed documentation of the value of the jewelry. The years may have brought changes in the value of the gems, the design, or the metals. It is our business to know those changes.

This column and a later one offer you some questions to ask your insurance agent to be sure you have the coverage you want and need. These questions were compiled by the American Gem Society, my professional group, which prides itself on serving to protect jewelry customers since 1934.

1. Is an appraisal necessary for full coverage?
 2. Will my claim - and the replacement value - be more readily accepted if the appraisal is performed by an American Gem Society jeweler?
 3. What is the difference between scheduled and unscheduled coverage?
 4. Is there a deductible? If so, how much? Do I have the option to increase the deductible and lower the premium?
 5. Is my policy all-risk (damage, mysterious disappearance, etc.)?
- In a future column, I will continue these questions. But stop by earlier if you are ready for an appraisal prior to insuring your jewelry.

Police observed the offender driving east in the 8300 block of Dempster traveling 52 mph in a posted 35 mph zone. She then crossed double yellow lanes into the northbound lane of Greenwood continuing north until a stop was initiated at Park St. She was released on $1,000 bond pending an Oct. court date.

The wallet which was worth $10 contained several charge cards, a company card and a money card.

Several weeks later, the bank notified the store there was no record of the deposit. The police will follow up by interviewing the security agent and alleged offender.

The manager of Designer Dept. reported Sept. 9 that an employee saw a couple with a baby shopping in the store. The offenders then ran to the front door setting off sensors indicating that items of $20 or more were removed without being paid for.

Security agents chased the couple, who entered a car with another companion and fled through the parking lot. The manager will submit a list of missing items after it is determined what was taken.

When the victim said "No," the offender asked her to forget her boyfriend. He reached through the open window of the car, touched the victim's breasts and then ran. She chased the offender through the parking lot but lost him near a nursing home.

She can identify the offender and will press charges if he is apprehended.

Police observed the offender on a motorcycle traveling south on Milwaukee Ave. and turning east on Oakton. He struck the raised median at the intersection. He then proceeded on Oakton at 70 mph with police in pursuit.

He stopped momentarily in the 7000 block of Oakton and then proceeded through a rear parking lot, traveling east on Howard to Caldwell to Gross Point Rd. Morton Grove and Niles police units followed the offender to Lehigh where they lost sight of him. A computer check led police to a Chicago residence where he was found and arrested.

He was released after posting $3,000 bond and assigned an Oct. court date.

Overexposed?

The manager of a store in the 8200 block of Golf Rd. told police Sept. 8 that she and an employee observed a man standing in front of the store wearing only a T-shirt and exposing himself. The offender then fled the area.

Traffic Safety Hints

by Secretary of State Jim Edgar

Flashing red lights on a stopped school bus signal all motorists to stop. Always stop before meeting or overtaking a school bus that has stopped to load or unload passengers.

Bus drivers alert other motorists of an approaching stop by flashing the red and amber lights on the front and rear of the bus at least 100 feet in advance of the stop (200 feet in rural areas). The stop signal arm is extended after the bus has come to a complete stop.

After stopping, do not proceed until the school bus resumes motion, the bus driver signals you to go ahead, or the flashing lights are turned off and the stop signal arm is no longer extended.

When driving on a highway with at least two lanes of traffic in each direction, you are not required to stop when approaching a stopped school bus from the opposite direction.

If you are convicted of illegally passing a stopped school bus, your driving privileges will be suspended for 30 days. If you receive two convictions within three years, your driving privileges will be suspended for 60 days.

According to the Department of Right turns on red lights

by Secretary of State Jim Edgar

The Illinois law permitting right turns on red lights can enable motorists to proceed through intersections rapidly. Unfortunately, many drivers risk causing accidents by turning right on red without stopping and yielding the right of way.

The Illinois right-turn-on-red law permits a right turn at a red light only after you come to a complete stop. Look for traffic on the street you are entering, and yield the right of way to any approaching vehicles or pedestrians in the adjacent cross walk. Then make the right turn cautiously. Before turning right at a red light, stop sign or uncontrolled intersection, take a few seconds to look down the sidewalks and past parked cars for pedestrians and cyclists.

Watch for and obey "no turn on red" signs at intersections where making a turn at a red light is prohibited.

Making a left turn at a red light is permitted from a one-way street to a one-way street heading left.

UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings

Here's one of the strangest things that ever happened in a major college football game. A football once exploded during a game and caused a team to lose. It happened in the 1929 Rose Bowl. Benny Lom of California punted from his own 9-yard line but his kick punctured the ball, all the air came out, and the ball collapsed on the 9. Georgia Tech took over there, scored a touchdown, and won the game 8-7.

Although Dan Marino has been one of the most valuable quarterbacks in pro football, incredibly, 5 other quarterbacks were picked ahead of him in the 1983 National Football League draft. Can you name the 5 QBs picked ahead of Marino in that draft? They are John Elway, Tony Eason, Jim Kelly, Ken O'Brien, and Todd Blackledge.

Here's an oddity. In the National Conference of the National Football League, Dallas is in the Eastern Division while Atlanta is in the Western Division—yet Atlanta is more than 700 miles east of Dallas!

OCC cross country team wins first meet

The Oakton Community College Raiders trounced their opposition September 5 in the first official cross country meet of the season.

The men took five of the first seven places, and the women took three of the top four. Conference champions last year, Coach Patrick Savage said, "I'm happy with the way we performed. Even our sophomores who were all-conference last year are running faster this year." Savage added that the freshmen on this year's team are very fast and challenging the other runners.

Freshmen Jeff Gallagher (Des Plaines), Rick Newman (Glenview), and John Beatty (Schamburg) placed first, second and third respectively. Sophomores Hasan Syed (Des Plaines) and Bruce Bower (Skokie) placed sixth and seventh, but improved their times.

In the women's division, freshman Edie Garcia (Des Plaines) placed second, sophomore Lisa Vogt (Wheeling) placed third, and freshman Brenda O'Conner (Park Ridge) finished fourth.

Oakton is preparing for its 13th annual Raider Invitational to be run September 27 at Niles West. According to Savage, 10 to 15 colleges in Illinois and Wisconsin usually participate. Oakton won the competition three out of the last four years, including last year.

Interesting Facts From John Jennings

One of history's most forgotten men is the person who chose the name "America" for this continent. He was an obscure German map maker, Martin Waldseemüller. He should be famous, but he isn't.

The U.S. state that gets the least amount of rain annually is Nevada.

One of the greatest scientists of all-time, Albert Einstein, failed his college entrance exam the first time he took it.

What year came between 1 B.C. and 1 A.D.? The answer is none. There was no year known as zero.

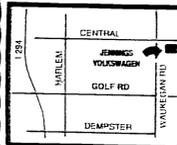

The reason America chose the 21-gun salute to honor people is because the figures of the nation's birth year—1776—add up to 21.

And, here's another interesting fact...

Skokian chides Marcus for placing politics first

Dear Editor:
During the past months, I have watched the campaign for state representative for my district, the 56th. I cannot help but be shocked to see that a sitting member of the Niles Township Board of Education, Sheldon Marcus, is running for that office. Since our community has always taken pride in the fact that partisan politics has no place in education, I question the intent and integrity of Marcus in having sought a position on the 219 Board of Education.
It is interesting that Marcus' first effort to be on the 219 school board was from the safety of his position on District 67 Board of Education. He applied for the 219 vacancy with a little more than a year left of his term on the elementary board. Marcus is pulling the same stunt once again! With a little more than a year left of his term on the 219 board, he is seeking another office without finishing his term or, at the very least, resigning from his present position so that someone who really cares about the education of our high school children could take his place.

How much attention can Marcus be giving to his responsibilities as a school board member while running for another office? Aren't the children of 219 more important than Marcus' political ambitions? Marcus is merely repeating his actions of four years ago when he obviously decided that being on the high school board would give him a larger political base from which to further his own interests and ambitions. The children of 67 were of secondary concern to him at that time, just as the children of 219 are today.

Marcus' past and present performance is a good indication of how he will act in the future. He has never fulfilled his responsibilities and there is no reason to think he would if elected to the office he is now seeking. The people of this legislative district deserve a more committed representative than Marcus could ever be. He has proved his lack of dedication to the people of this community. He has never finished anything he has undertaken. The voters of the 56th Legislative District cannot settle for someone who places personal status above those he is supposed to represent.

Skokie Veterans Memorial a must

Dear Readers:
As you know, Skokie does not have a public memorial on public land to honor veterans who have served and died in the service of our land.
Recently, I completed a 2,200 mile tour through the midlands of England. During the trip I was able to continue my study of how communities honor their service dead and veterans. Also, I was able to continue adding to my 35mm slide collection on monuments and locations.
Overall, memorials are located in the center of communities and/or next to municipal buildings.
Since the Skokie village fathers have already allocated the Village Green to a past Caucus party worker; an article of modern art, and the Holocaust memorial, I would like to suggest the plaza on the southeast corner of Lincoln and Oakton for the location of a veterans' memorial at public expense.

I appeal to the following to join with me in the development of a memorial:
Leroy Krier - Erna Gans - Holocaust Society; Dan Brown - Kiwanis; General Superintendent Park Districts; Bob Eppley - Retiring Village Manager; Hon. Morris Topel - Judge of the Circuit Court; Phyllis Sutker; Kari Schmidt - Skokie Chamber of Commerce; Diana Hunter - Pres., Skokie Library; Suzanne Schwartz; Isadore Fradin - Chrm., Skokie Zoning Board of Appeals; Representative - 1st National Bank of Skokie and Verna Beaver - Skokie Historical Society.
The memorial would be located at the plaza at Lincoln and Oakton.

Organizations interested in seeing and hearing my presentation on Skokie Memorials should call me at 866-3243.

Maine Township Clerk seeks voter outreach aides

Maine Township Clerk Stephen J. Stolton is seeking certified volunteer deputy registrars to assist with outreach voter registration.
Stolton said persons who have completed the deputy registrar certification course offered by the Cook County Clerk's Office and would like to volunteer for Maine Township's outreach program should contact his office immediately at 297-2510.
Volunteers will be assigned to convenient locations within the township on dates prior to the Sept. 29 registration deadline.
Stolton said, "Since I became clerk in 1981, I have made every effort to increase registration through outreach programs as well as convenient in-office registration hours."
"I hope qualified volunteers will come forward to help us with this effort so that we can provide an opportunity for every eligible resident to register."

HOME IMPROVEMENT GUIDE

Fall Home Improvement Home and Energy show opens 3-day run

The ever-popular Fall Home and Energy Show opens Friday, Sept. 19, 1986, at the Harper College Field House (Bldg. M) in Palatine, offering thousands of products and ideas on home building, maintenance, remodeling, and energy conservation during its three-day run through Sunday, Sept. 21.

Show hours are 4 to 10 p.m., Friday; 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday; and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Sunday. Adult admission is $5; children six to 12 years, $1; children under six admitted free. Ample free parking is available on the campus.

More than 200 displays will fill the exhibit area and national and local celebrities will greet show visitors daily.

A broad range of products and services for the home, condo and apartment will be showcased to help show visitors improve their lifestyles. Many exhibitors will offer special discounts available only during the show, and scores of drawings for valuable merchandise, materials or services also will be conducted throughout the display areas.

Visitors with specific questions on remodeling or relabbing will find answers presented by Norm Abram, master carpenter from PBS-TV's Emmy Award-winning "This Old House" series. Abram's appearances are scheduled on Sunday at Noon, 2 and 4 p.m. His formal slide presentations and lectures will precede open forums where he fields questions from the audience in the same easygoing style he maintains on the TV program.

Another equally popular personality, Ms. Fix-It, Beverly DeJulio from WBBM radio will make daily appearances. In addition to her formal presentations Ms. Fix-It will be available throughout the show to answer specific questions and discuss individual projects with the show visitors.

Bernie Szewczyk, Chicago Sun-Times' home improvement columnist will also appear daily. He will be available during all three days of the show to talk "one-on-one" with visitors who have specific questions and projects.

Many of the area's realtors and builders will offer their expertise to show visitors, providing factual information on home costs, financing plans and other details involved with building.

All exhibitors will be ready to present ideas and suggestions on products, materials and techniques for improving the home or condo. Information will be available on vacation homes, furnishings, new appliances and remodeling materials required in exterior and interior projects.

Local institutions will explain many options available for financing home improvements as well. Discount admission tickets are available from Chicago-area hardware stores, home centers, grocery stores and leading area financial institutions.

For additional information, telephone (312) 668-8100.

Professional how-to advice for amateur remodelers

You're in the middle of a rehab or remodeling project, and suddenly you are faced with the decision of doing an unfamiliar part of the work yourself, or calling in a professional.

If you are in that particular dilemma, visit the Fall Home and Energy Show at Harper College in Palatine, Sept. 19-21, 1986, and get a savvy answer from Norm Abram, master carpenter on the PBS "This Old House" series.

Abram appears Sunday, Sept. 21 at Noon, 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. He will present a special slide program on his TV experiences, followed by an open forum to answer specific questions from the audience.

"We get more done away from the lecture," says Abram. "People have specific problems and projects that are rarely covered by the general remarks in a speech."

Unique computer sales show

Computer Central, a unique computer sales show geared to Personal Computer users and offering an enormous variety of merchandise, will be held Sunday, Sept. 28 at the Holiday Inn Itasca, 860 Irving Park rd., Itasca, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"There's probably more new equipment and software for sale here at bargain prices than in any one store or location between Chicago and Silicon Valley, California," says Jay Robinson, co-founder of Secondary Market Associates, organizers of the show.

Vendors bring all varieties of computer hardware, printers, modems and software, plus furniture, paper goods and hard-to-find parts. Instead of using booths, vendors display their merchandise on some 70 tables and racks, " flea-market" style.

Admission is $4. Holiday Inn Itasca is a mile east of Rollingwood rd. (Old 53) on Irving Park rd. More information is available from the Show's office, 940-7547.

Tips for better insulating

Energy matters still matter a lot to most consumers, especially with the U.S. Department of Energy predicting that the cost of residual oil will more than double and the cost of natural gas will more than triple by the year 2000. And when consumers ask questions about energy efficiency, they often have insulation at the top of their list.

The CertainTeed Home Institute offers do-it-yourselfers considering insulation projects the following helpful hints:

- Wear protective clothing such as a long sleeve shirt, gloves, hat and face mask.

- Only attempt to add insulation yourself where wood framing is exposed — as in the joists of an attic floor, the flooring under the living space, the flooring or walls in the crawl space, or along an unfinished garage wall.

- Use unfaced insulation when upgrading a home that already has some insulation installed in it.

- Use insulation with a vapor barrier in new homes or in homes with no previously installed insulation.

- Install vapor barriers toward the warm-in-winter side of your home.
- When applying two or more layers of insulation, a vapor barrier should only be installed on the bottom layer. Additional layers should be unfaced.

- When insulating an attic floor, work from the outside toward the middle, fitting material between wood joists and cutting off excess length.

- When insulating an unfinished wall, begin at the top and work down, again, fitting the insulation between wood frame studs, cutting off excess length where necessary and securing by stapling or taping to wood.

- Don't hand pack insulation around electrical fixtures, motors or any other heat producing equipment; leave at least a 3" space.
- Don't cover attic eaves or vents with insulation.

- If a crawl space contains heating equipment or heating or water pipes and is well enclosed, insulate the walls.

- If a crawl space is open to the weather, or if there is no reason to heat the crawl space, insulate the floor under the living quarters.

For more information, write for the free brochure: Insulation Facts, CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

Stop wasteful loss of heat

Carefully check the exterior of your house for cracks that can cause considerable loss of heated air. Examine existing caulk around doors, windows, pipes and in places where wood meets brick or other masonry.

Run a putty knife around where the window frame is sunk into the wall. If it brings out crumbled caulk, the time has come for fitting a strip of Elmer's Place & Seal Caulk around the whole frame and pressing into place. This white butyl rubber caulk comes in 3/4- and 1/2-inch widths and does not require a caulking gun. It is ready for painting immediately.

Fall Home Improvement

Time's running out

Federal energy tax credit will expire December 31

If you're thinking of adding additional insulation to your home, the CertainTeed Home Institute recommends that you do it now so you can still take advantage of the federal energy tax credit. The credit, offering up to 15 percent of the first $2,000 invested to a maximum of $300, expires December 31, 1985! The credit applies to fiber glass insulation as well as caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows and doors, modified flue openings, automatic furnace ignition systems, clock thermostats and other home energy conservation products. To qualify, products must have been purchased and installed in a principal place of residence built prior to Learn the facts about insulation

With colder weather on its way, many homeowners are thinking about ways to keep their homes warmer and more comfortable this winter. Some are considering caulking and weatherstripping — others are contemplating upgrading the insulation in their attic.

There are several types of insulations available today, primarily batts, blankets, loose-fill and blown-in varieties.

What is a blown-in insulation? An insulation material that is conditioned by a pneumatic blowing machine and is blown under high pressure through a long flexible hose into attics and walls by a professional contractor.

What are the benefits of blown-in insulation? The major benefit of blown-in insulation materials is that they offer complete uniform coverage in hard to reach or move around areas such as attics and sidewalls. Because coverage is so complete, blown-in materials become an excellent thermal blanket helping to save energy and make a home more comfortable. In addition, blown-in insulations can be installed in any thickness and density to achieve practically any desired R-value. Make sure you think in R-values not just thickness when considering insulation materials. The higher the R-value the greater the insulating power.

How many types of blown-in insulations are available today and what are they? There are several types of insulation that can be blown into attics and walls. By far the most common is fiber glass. It is spun from molten glass into thin fibers and is an extremely effective insulating material because it contains millions of tiny pockets to resist the flow of heat.

Which blown-in insulation should I install in my home? One never product contractors are recommending more and more is Insul Safe III® fiber glass insulation. Pure white in color, the insulation offers outstanding thermal performance. In addition, it is noncombustible, noncorrosive to wires and pipes, will not rot or decay and contains no hazardous chemicals.

Since contractors must install blown-in insulations in most cases, what are some hints for finding a qualified one? To select a home insulation contractor, look in the Yellow Pages of the telephone book under "Insulation Contractors" or ask your friends and neighbors for referrals. Once identified, ask the contractors for credentials, references, written estimates and high-quality products.

To check credentials, contact the Better Business Bureau or your local contractor's association. For more information about blown-in insulation, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 for a free booklet: "The Facts About Blown-In Insulations."

Is your house suffocating?

If you're like most homeowners, you've conscientiously insulated and weatherproofed your house to conserve energy. But you may not realize that there are some areas of a house that need to breathe, and sealing them up tight can result not only in your discomfort, but in damage to your home.

The most important of these areas is the attic, which requires adequate ventilation year-round in order to fight the effects of heat and humidity. In summer, for instance, a poorly ventilated attic may reach temperatures as high as 150°F, which can shorten the life of the roof. Too much humidity can cause the insulation to mildew and lose its effectiveness.

There are a number of methods of attic ventilation, and the right one for your home depends on the roof shape and total attic space. The American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI), a non-profit organization that sets standards for the home inspection profession, offers a brochure with tips on how to properly ventilate your home.

It is available for $1.00 by sending a stamped, self-addressed business-sized envelope to Ventilation, American Society of Home Inspectors, P.O. Box 1769-B, Rockville, MD 20850.

What Goes Up Comes Down Easily

Strippable wallcoverings can be the ideal wall treatment for those who are tired of painting every few years. They not only go up easily, but come down the same way. This makes strippable wallcoverings popular with apartment dwellers and do-it-yourselfers, says the Wallcovering Information Bureau.

Use rugs to decorate and insulate walls

The Fiber Information Center offers ideas that, with a little imagination, will add extra insulation and beauty to your walls.

For a contemporary home, cover existing walls with fabric stapled to wood lathes nailed vertically at equal intervals around the walls. Add an inner layer of non-woven batting of polyester, olefin or rayon between the lathes to hold the heat inside in winter and retain cool air in summer. For a finishing touch, trim baseboards and other outer edges with matching fabric cording.

If you're an antique lover, compliment American country style furniture by hanging bright quilts made of polyester-and-cotton blended calicos or luxurious velvets of high-performance rayon on walls. Stitch a 2-inch or 3-inch-wide piece of muslin to the top of the quilt back and run a curtain rod through the openings at each end. Then, hang on the wall with decorative hooks for attractive, efficiency, and practical energy efficiency!

Another way to "insulate" walls is with colorful rugs. Search local craft fairs for rag rugs made of soft acrylic blend flannels or brightly colored nylon jerseys and other easily washed fabrics. Or, look for attractive area rugs made of durable olefin fibers that duplicate the rich look of higher-priced Oriental carpets.

There are also many beautifully patterned nylon, acrylic and polyester carpets that, when bought as remnants, give added interest and warmth to a stairwell or hallway wall. Again, stitch a strip of fabric across one end to hold a sturdy curtain rod and hang on the wall with hooks.

Experts provide ten most wanted answers to home energy and insulation questions

Despite growing interest in energy and energy saving, homeowners continue to be troubled by such questions as the amount of insulation they need and the proper material to install.

In response to these kinds of questions, experts from the CertainTeed Home Institute have compiled their own version of the "Ten Most Wanted List." From questions asked most frequently by concerned homeowners, here are the Home Institute's Ten Most Wanted Answers:

How does insulation work?
Heat naturally flows from warmer to cooler spaces. During the winter heating season, warmth is flowing from your heated living areas — attics, garages, basements and then directly outdoors. In the summer, warmth from outdoors flows into the rooms you are trying to keep cool. Insulation guards against this heat transfer by providing a barrier to block the flow of heat. The end result — warmer in winter, cooler in summer.

Does my house need insulation?
If your home was built before 1980, chances are it is one of the millions in the United States that are underinsulated. Most likely, energy was cheap and abundant when your home was built, and the amount of insulation installed in it was minimal. Thus, it is probably not adequate by today's energy standards. In fact, even if you have already added some insulation, you may find this is inadequate in view of the rapid rate at which energy costs are rising. Anything less than 10 inches (R-30) of fiber glass insulation in the attic is inadequate regardless of where you live. For many parts of the country, 12 inches or more is recommended.

Why should I insulate?
As a homeowner, there are four basic reasons to add insulation: to save money, to save energy, to increase the resale value of your home and to increase personal comfort. Adequate amounts of insulation will

Wood Panel Doors Add Character
Wood panel doors grace the entrance to many a home, but they needn't be restricted to the exterior. They can be used indoors as well and add an elegant touch to any room. Like good furniture, says the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, they bring character to a room.

Aluminum roofing booklet available
Homeowners tired of replacing conventional shingle roofs every 10 years or so are opting for Rustic Shingles that look like wood but offer long-life durability, energy savings and fire protection.

A new booklet answers the questions most frequently asked about Rustic Shingles, such as "can it be installed over my old roof?" and "will it fit the architectural style of my home?" For a free copy, write Dept. S-5, Classic Products, Inc., P.O. 701, Piqua, OH 45356.

enable you to use less energy to heat and cool your home so you will be saving year after year. (Savings vary. Find out why in the Seller's Fact Sheet on R-values. The higher the R-value the greater the insulating power.) In addition, you will be conserving energy, a valuable and limited resource. Also, in the eyes of a mortgage lender, installing increased levels of insulation not only adds to the resale value of your property, but to its equity financing value. In addition, proper amounts of insulation help to maintain uniform temperatures throughout a house, thereby increasing personal comfort.

What is an R-value?
An R-value is the measure of an insulating material's resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power. Specific thicknesses of insulation are recommended to achieve certain R-values.

How much insulation do I need?
If your attic has six inches or less of insulation, at least the equivalent of six-inch-thick R-19 fiber glass insulation should be added, according to government recommendations. If your attic has no insulation, up to 12-inch-thick R-38 fiber glass insulation may be required. For specific amounts recommended in your geographic area, consult your local utility company, home center or a professional insulation contractor.

What kind of insulation should I use?
The most popular kind of insulation among homeowners today is fiber glass, which is available in rolls and batts for easy installation. Fiber glass is an extremely effective insulating material, because it contains millions of tiny pockets which resist the flow of heat. In addition, fiber glass insulation won't deteriorate with age and, unlike some other kinds of insulating materials, it is noncombustible.

Can I make my home overly airtight?
Not if you remember to use vapor barriers (when appropriate) and provide adequate ventilation. As a guide, try to leave at least one square foot of free vent opening for each 150 square feet of attic floor area. If you've installed vapor barriers, leave

Do I need insulation with a vapor barrier?
Insulation with a vapor barrier should only be installed in new homes or in homes with no previously installed insulation. When upgrading a home which already has some insulation installed in it, use unfaced insulation. Remember when using vapor barrier, they should be installed towards the warm-in-winter side of your home.

Where can I add insulation myself?
Wherever wood framing is exposed as in the joists of an attic floor, under the flooring in the living space, the finished walls in a crawl space, the flooring in the crawl space, or along an unfinished garage wall. Adding insulation is a job you can do yourself.

How much will I save by adding insulation?
Although the amount of energy you will save depends on where you live, the size of your home and its construction, the Department of Energy estimates that insulation can be expected to pay for itself through fuel savings in three to five years, sometimes even more quickly. Also, as a guide, if you add $1,200 worth of insulation to your home it will add $1,000 (or 83 percent of cost) to the resale value of your property and $900 (75 percent of cost) to its equity financing value. Checklist For Choosing An Insulation Contractor

- Look for someone who's been in business in the same area for at least five years.
- Try to obtain referrals from friends and neighbors.
- Find out if your state requires licensing; if so, make sure the contractors you're considering have valid licenses.
- Check credentials by calling the Better Business Bureau. They will report any complaints that have been made against a firm.
- Ask contractors for references. If they're well established in the community, they'll have a list of satisfied customers for you to contact.
- Ask what professional organizations they belong to.
- Check their credit with suppliers.
- Obtain firm estimates in writing of the work that is to be done and the materials to be used. Make sure that estimates are for comparable jobs, using the same materials, quality of workmanship, and R-values.
- Look for quality products. One material that more and more contractors are recommending is CertainTeed's INSUL SAFE III* fiber glass blown-in insulation. Pure white in color, the insulation offers outstanding thermal performance and is noncombustible.
- Double check the quality of work of the contractors you're considering by looking at jobs they've done in the past that are similar to yours.

Gas Heating Outlasts Electric Heat Pump

Natural gas heating systems last longer than electric heat pumps according to a survey of heating contractors.

The nation-wide survey by Faxon Consultants, Inc., of about 500 contractors reveals natural gas furnaces last an estimated average of 18 years while electric heat pumps last only 12 years.

"The Survey of Residential Heat Pump Service Life and Maintenance Issues," also shows electric heat pumps break down more often and cost more to repair.

The survey, conducted for the American Gas Association, also reveals that electric heat pump compressors have a service life of only eight years and that a replacement compressor costs 40 to 45 percent of a total new unit, while natural gas heating systems have no comparable high-cost parts to replace.

Keep Fresh Batteries Ready Repair wood

Most homeowners keep one or more flashlights on hand for possible emergency use. However, all too often when the need does arise, the batteries are dead or nearly so. Keeping spare batteries on hand in a drawer or closet is not always the answer since batteries deteriorate with age, even when not used. However, one way to prolong their life is by storing them in a refrigerator. Colder temperatures slow up the aging process. They can be preserved almost indefinitely if stored in a freezer, but they will have to warm up above freezing before they will return to full strength.

Be sure the surface is clean, dry and free of grease, oil and loose particles. Using a putty knife, apply Elmer's Professional Carpenter's Wood Filler generously.

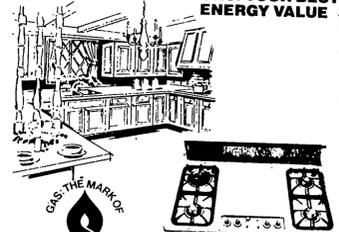

Remove excess with the knife, leaving just enough to allow for sanding the surface flush after it dries.

Sand surface of shallow repairs 15 minutes or so after application. Wait one to eight hours for deeper ones. †

Nifty ways to use your vacuum

Today's vacuum cleaners are so much more versatile than those of the past that we sometimes need reminding of all they can do. Here are a few examples, compiled by The Eureka Company for busy housecleaners:

Clean up your shack, Jack — or your house, apartment or condominium. If you have a large ranch-style house with wall to wall carpeting, your vacuum cleaner needs are different than if you have a one bedroom apartment with wood floors and area rugs. An upright is the vac to use for large expanses of carpeting, while a compact canister vac, such as a Mighty Mite, cleans both rugs and bare floors and then stores handily in a small apartment closet.

Make it look new, Sue — The average 9' x 12' rug can hold its weight in dirt and still look clean. The hidden grime, grit and gunk eats away at carpet pile, weakening the tufts at their base. To keep your carpeting looking new, vacuum at least once a week to prevent matting and damage.

Find the dirt, Burt — Thanks to extension hoses and a wide variety of attachments, there's no place in your home where dirt can hide from the vacuum. Special nozzles and brushes are available for upholstery, curtains, blinds, radiators and vents, crevices, baseboards, lampshades and pictures.

Cat's too hairy, Mary? — Keeping up with shedding pet hair is a seemingly never ending battle. Regular cleaning of furniture with a hand-held vac like the Mini Mite minimizes unsightly pet hair that can stick to your clothes.

Clean on the fly, Di — Today's modern homemaker usually has two jobs, one at the office and one at home being a wife and mother. Since your time is valuable, consider owning two different vacuum cleaners — a canister and an upright. While you're vacuuming the floors with the upright, your spouse can use the canister attachments for above-the-floor dusting. With two workers, the entire job can be completed in half the time. †

Understand Energy Jargon

R-value: R-values measure resistance to heat flow. With insulation, the higher the R-value the greater insulating power. Generally, R-19 is the suggested R-value for side-walls in the average home, and R-30 is advised for the attic floor.

U-value: This is the opposite of R-value. It measures the ability of a material to conduct rather than resist heat flow. Hence, the lower the U-value, the higher the resistance. U-values are used to measure the energy efficiency of windows, for example.

BTU: BTU means British Thermal Unit and is a measure of heat. A BTU is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree F. One BTU is the equivalent of the heat generated by burning a single wooden kitchen match.

KWH: This stands for kilowatt hour and is a measure of electric energy equal to 1000 watts of electricity used steadily for one hour.

Golf Mill jeweler optimistic over mall modernization

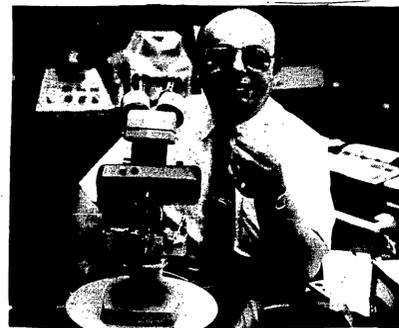

Michael Doerner, proprietor of Doerner Jewelers in Golf Mill Mall carries the title of Registered Jeweler of the American Gem Society. This title is earned each year through conferences, classes and jewelry design. He also serves on the Board of Directors of Golf Mill Merchants Association.

He became fascinated with the jewelry business at the early age of fourteen. During his teens, he attended school in Austria. At 18, he graduated from school as a gemologist, handcrafts, and appraiser. After graduation, he immigrated to the United States and settled in Chicago. He also served in the United States Army for two years.

During his six years in the Chicago area, he was employed by various jewelers. When he was 24 years old, he was able to invest in his own jewelry shop on North Avenue in Chicago.

With the opening of the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles 1960, he sold his jewelry store in Chicago to the Woolworth store chain. Shortly after the mall opened, he established Doerner Jewelers. He decided upon this move because he had the foresight to see the suburbs were expanding at a very fast rate. Mr. Doerner has now been serving his customers in Golf Mill for 23 years.

Doerner Jewelers does not cut stones or jewels. Their major investment is designing and creating jewelry. Doerner does considerable traveling in order to obtain precious stones and gems that are needed for the specially designed jewelry. For customers desiring something out of the ordinary, sketches will be made for their approval before the jewelry is handcrafted. Doerner's son and daughter assist him in his business. His daughter is a graduate gemologist and now designs and handcrafts most of the jewelry. She also assists in appraising antique jewelry.

Since jewelry business is a personal service type of business, it was not affected by the renovations currently nearing completion in the Golf Mill Mall. Neither did his customers complain about the construction inconveniences.

As one of the directors of the Board of Golf Mill Mall, and an owner of a jewelry shop, he believes the new concept of the mall is one of the most modern in the surrounding area. The closed innovative idea of the shopping center should influence businesses to settle in the mall. Also, since the mall is completely enclosed, it should encourage art shows and other forms of entertainment to use the shopping center. All of this will bring more customers to the mall, Doerner noted.

Doerner, who strives to be a perfectionist in everything he does, is eagerly looking forward to the Grand Opening of Golf Mill Mall on Oct. 29 so that he can present his innovative jewelry designs to many new customers.

Today, at 54, Doerner also enjoys flying immensely. He has a pilot's license and flies his own plane. While residing near an airfield in Austria during his youth, he became involved in flying. He's very optimistic about the jewelry business and believes it is a business for spreading happiness. Customers purchase gifts for such happy occasions as engagements, weddings, birthdays, and anniversaries.

Doerner Jewelers are making plans for an expansion of their jewelry business in the very near future. It will encompass more stores and several other phases of the jewelry business.

Piano instruction at Loyola

Music educators in recent years have discovered that small group music lessons are much more effective particularly with piano instruction. Each student gains peer support as well as the realization that other students have the same pianistic hurdles to surmount. This class piano method also appeals to adults who often need encouragement more than youngsters.

Loyola has found that this form of competitive motivation results in more enthusiasm and consistency for learning to play the piano. The piano classes on the Water Tower Campus are scheduled on days and hours to permit adults who work an opportunity to pursue what might have been curtailed in their youth.

Classes meet once a week for ten weeks on Monday or Thursday evenings as well as Saturday afternoons. Classes begin the week of September 22 and end of week of November 30.

The course involves observing and listening to others, which facilitates and motivates learning the skills as programmed in the text Oxford Piano Course (used in class and available at the University bookstore).

Call 670-3012 for information.

MG MAACO suggests maintenance of older cars

This could be a year of decision for millions of people who own aging cars—should they buy a new car or keep and maintain their old cars.

To the thousands of people in the vicinity of the MAACO Auto Painting and Bodyworks center at 6408 Main St., Morton Grove, IL, owned by Elliot Bolotin, suggests that you can save upwards of $7200 over the next three years by maintaining your present car mechanically, and by having a new paint job and body repairs.

The Morton Grove center is one of over 400 in the continental franchise chain, which has painted and repaired over 3,500,000 vehicles since the company was founded in 1972.

Bolotin who is observing his fourth anniversary this month, must be doing something right, "because we have painted and repaired over 5,000 vehicles since we opened for business."

MAACO's automotive specialists point out with the costs of new cars soaring each year, the average car today is between $8-$10,000— with increased financing charges, higher insurance premiums, increased gasoline prices, more and more people are considering the option of keeping their present car.

"If you spend a few hundred dollars on mechanical repairs, and a few hundred more to repaint and refurbish the exterior, you're way ahead of the game, and will have more money for other necessities of life," said Bolotin.

Interested residents of the area are invited to stop in to the MAACO center, ask for a free consumer retail brochure and/or a free estimate on their cars. MAACO was founded on quality work at reasonable prices and has paint services to suit every car, every pocketbook.

St. Andrew residents win honors in Golden Arts Fair

The Museum of Science and Industry in cooperation with the Archdiocese Catholic Charities is exhibiting the 12th Annual Golden Arts Fair.

The Arts & Crafts of various nursing and homes of the aged will be displayed during September as this is Senior Citizens Month.

Residents of St. Andrew Home participated in the opening of the Golden Arts Fair, Sept. 4, and they were awarded 12 ribbons for their entries.

The coveted prize, "Best of Show" received a Gold Ribbon. It was a group project. The hand-sewn quilt was made by Ann Baranowski, Theresa Feltes, Nellie Kott, Lida Nitto, Adeline Nork and Adelaide O'Brien.

For individual handicrafts the following received:

Blue Ribbons: (First Place), Malvina Chamberland, Theresa Masching, Ann Pemberton and Helene Wagner.

White Ribbons: (Second Place) Frances Runge and Bertha Veselits.

Green Ribbons: (Third Place) Malvina Chamberland, Adeline Nork and Frances Scardato.

Another group project merited a Blue Ribbon for hand-sewn place mats and napkins. Those who worked on this Ann Baranowski, Theresa Feltes, Nellie Kott, Lida Nitto, Adeline Nork, Josephine Sachman and Mary Sobczak.

The Arts and Crafts sessions at St. Andrew Home are held twice a week under the direction of Mrs. Jane Wood who has been in charge of the Occupational Therapy for 22 years.

Lower non-summer electricity rates to begin

Commonwealth Edison reminds its residential customers that lower non-summer electricity rates will be phased back into effect between September 15 and October 15, depending on when the customer's meter is read. A customer can determine the approximate beginning of his or her non-summer rate period by looking at the time covered by the September bill. If the period ends September 15 or later, that ending date will mark the start of the first month of the non-summer rate billing. All residential customers will be billed at the lower non-summer rate for eight full billing months.

Edison last March proposed to the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) that the summer rate be reduced and a more level year-round rate structure implemented. Although the ICC did not act on the proposal in time for use during this summer, Edison is hopeful that lower summer rates will be in place for 1987.

The Illinois Commerce Commission in 1979 directed Edison to charge seasonal rates that more accurately reflect the company's generating costs, in the belief that the higher summer rate would reduce the summer peak demand for electricity. The lower summer peak, in turn, would reduce the need for generating equipment and allow lower rates over the long term. However, summer rates have reduced only the average electrical load, not the peak load, because customers continue to use cooling devices during the hottest weather. In fact, a heat wave in July produced the highest peak load in Edison's history.

In addition to being ineffective as a conservation measure, seasonal rates have been shown in company surveys to be confusing and highly objectionable to customers.

The current non-summer rate is 7.4¢ cents per kilowatt-hour for the first 400 kilowatt-hours of use in each month, and is reduced to 4.5¢ cents per kilowatt-hour for usage over that amount. This year, the summer rate has been 12.5¢ cents per kwh for all kwh used.

Morton Grove Bank changes name to Affiliated Bank/Morton Grove

The Morton Grove Bank has changed its name to Affiliated Bank/Morton Grove to reflect its association with the Affiliated Bank Group, Inc. It was announced today by bank president, John S. Corneliuson. Corneliuson said that three other local Affiliated Banks, including Affiliated Bank/Franklin Park; Affiliated Bank/North Shore National (Chicago); and Affiliated Bank/Western National, Cicero have also changed their names. A fifth area bank, First Security Bank of Addison, acquired by the holding company in November, 1985 has already changed its name to Affiliated Bank/DuPage. "This name change reflects a continued and expanded commitment to our community and customers. It also signifies a stronger, unified image which will allow us to attain higher visibility and recognition within the entire Chicagoland marketplace. The name change will also enable us to achieve certain internal economies of scale," said Corneliuson. Affiliated Bank/Morton Grove will continue to be independently operated and managed, said Corneliuson. "One of the added benefits for our bank's customers will be the ability to use their personal banking cards to make transactions at all other Affiliated automated teller machine (ATM) locations, as well as at all YES and MasterTeller ATM locations," he said.

Edison offers rate help to create jobs

An additional 1,000 existing industrial electricity customers would be potentially eligible for rate discounts under a proposal filed by Commonwealth Edison with the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC). Edison has petitioned the ICC to lower the level at which new or existing industrial customers can qualify for Rider 19, the company's industrial development rate, which provides discounts ranging from 20 to 100 percent of demand charges to companies which qualify. Most industrial customers pay a demand charge in addition to a charge for kilowatt-hours consumed. Edison is proposing to reduce the eligibility requirement from 1,000 kilowatts to 500 KW. The change would increase the current number of customers potentially eligible for Rider 19 from about 600 to approximately 1,600. To date, 29 customers, most of them major employers, have been approved for service under the rider. Edison first proposed the industrial development rate in September 1985, in an effort to preserve jobs as well as stimulate employment growth and investment in its northern Illinois service territory. Rider 19 went into effect in November 1985, following ICC approval. Discounts to industrial customers apply only to increased electricity usage over historical levels, the company stressed. Even with the discounts, the additional kilowatt-hour sales eventually will result in everyone paying less toward the fixed costs of supplying electricity, Edison noted.

NWREB Opposes City 'For-Sale Sign' Ordinance

A spokesman for Chicago's Northwest Real Estate Board has reaffirmed his organization's opposition to the current City of Chicago ordinance regulating outdoor commercial advertising in those areas zoned R1-thru-R8. The real estate industry looks upon the current law as another attempt by the Chicago City Council to effectively prohibit 'For-Sale' signs in area neighborhoods. Three previous city ordinances, which were struck down by the higher courts, banned such signs completely. The current law - a zoning regulation - places strict limitations upon such advertising, including measures limiting signs to a maximum size of 18-inches-by-18-inches; two colors, including background; the words "For Sale"; an address, and a telephone number. Lawn signs are no longer allowed; the sign must be affixed to the building, unless the parcel is empty. And, under the provisions of this current new ordinance, realty companies are not allowed to include the firm's name on such signs. Yet - under provisions of Section 450.90(a) of the Illinois Real Estate Statutes - realty companies and their agents may not use any advertising without also including the realty firm's name. Although the Northwest Real Estate Board leadership has notified its membership of the new law and encouraged compliance, representatives from the NWREB recently met with officials from the Real Estate Enforcement Division of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education - the state agency which licenses and monitors realty firms, brokers, and agents - to protest the contradiction between local ordinance and state law. The DRE, in turn, notified the city corporation council's office of the discrepancy in requirements and allowed language.

Physicians Center opens Skokie office

Physicians Centers, responsible for helping thousands of patients stop smoking - a stay stopped - has opened a new medical office at 64 Old Orchard Center in Skokie.

With great success at Chicago's 500 N. Michigan Ave. office and the Professional Building at Oakbrook Center, Oak Brook, now Skokie provides another convenient location where help is available to end the cigarette habit forever.

"Nicotine in cigarettes, like other drugs, has both a physiological and psychological phase in its addiction," says Eunice Bailey of Physicians Centers. "That's why our patients are seen by both a licensed medical doctor and a Ph.D., or counselor so all aspects of cigarette smoking are dealt with," said Bailey.

The one and one-half hour treatment takes effect within minutes. Many immediately experience a diminished desire to smoke and the majority do not experience the side effects of nicotine withdrawal as do those who try to quit on their own. You can leave Physicians Centers with a comfortable ex-smoker, who can stay stopped for the rest of your life.

The fee for treatment is tax deductible and many insurance companies reimburse Physicians Centers patients. Call the Skokie office for more information and to make an appointment to stop smoking for good. Call 679-5300.

President of Oakton College, Tom TenHoeve, dropped by Tuesday. Tom has been making personal calls at local schools, churches and newspapers just to get acquainted. Unlike his predecessor, he's much more public relations aware, which scores lots of points with our team. Tom will be hosting a bread-breaking breakfast with The Buglers next month as part of his campaign to keep the natives acquainted with what's going on at our local college.

When first talking with Tom we pulled the gaffe of the day (week? month?) After welcoming him, we asked him how long he's been at the school. When he told us "two years" we hunched through the next minute with a few non-sequiturs which made no sense at all.

A couple of weeks ago we howled as loud as a typewriter can howl in commenting about the huge tax increases in Maine Township. Subsequently, we had breakfast with Tom Hynes, the County Assessor. We asked him a how come. "How come, Mr. Hynes, while the troops in Maine Township are paying many hundreds of dollars more in their tax bills, the leading condo converter in Chicago, was able to save thousands when his classy Lake Shore Drive Point Towers was under-assessed?" Mr. Hynes told us it was an error and it is being corrected.

We also talked to East Maine school District 63 officials. One of them told us school teachers in the district received a contract last year which allows them three annual salary increases of 9.75%, 9% and 9%. An interested reader called and told us the Bureau of Labor reported the union wages through the country increased by less than 4% annually. If his figure is accurate it would indicate the District 63 school board caved in to union demands unnecessarily. In two previous confrontations with the union, the teachers took a walk when they were dissatisfied with District 63's salary policies. While The Bugle supported the initial union action, we were promised by the president of the union the teachers would not take a walk the second time around. When negotiations took place the second time with the union, despite the previous promise, they walked again. It caused us to look more cautiously at the union. Now, the third time around, the school board obviously did not want another confrontation. They gave much too high a salary increase and subsequently, homeowners got socked $600 to $800 more in their real estate bills. One very hard-working businessman we know told us his taxes went up three-fold and he's now paying $93,000 annually. The teachers and the school boards should be whacked across the knuckles for these last hikes.

The J Birds softball team bested 60 other teams from all over the country in a national tournament in Muncie, Indiana this past weekend. Mike Callero and his uncle, Bob, were front and center during the seven game elimination. The J Birds won a 13 inning 10 to 9 game Sunday to go undefeated during the double elimination tourney. Mike, formerly a Notre Dame High standout and Bob, whose been a pucky hockey coach over at Notre Dame, wear the pin-stripe colors of Milwaukee Avenue's Callero and Callero accountants during weekdays. A third Callero, Jim, retired from the softball wars last year, after he claimed the years were "slowing him down". If he only knew how "fast" 40 years old is.

Scouts. These leaders exemplified the true spirit of Scouting, allowing Kurt the chance to grow, learn, and achieve, even if it meant spending extra time, and exercising considerable patience.

Kurt was now ready for Boy Scouts. With slower movement and delayed speech, would he be allowed to enter the Boy Scout Troop 175? The Troop held a committee meeting and permitted Kurt, who was already talking of being an Eagle Scout like his oldest brother, to try. Kurt had a burning desire to reach the pinnacle of Scouting, but it would require the successful completion of seven ranks, eight skill awards, twenty one merit badges, active service in leadership positions, and participation in several service projects. The merit badges required memorization with coordination and auditory memory.

A highlight for Kurt in Scouting was being "tapped out" for the Order of the Arrow which is a national leadership award bestowed on a Scout by the members of his troop when he has proven himself as an outstanding Scout and an unselfish camper. The Order of the Arrow is an honor which few area transferred to District 67 contains no students and has an equalized assessed valuation of approximately $1.5 million.

Harry Trumfo, superintendent of School District 67, said the land swap in District 67 "Out of 15 students at that level, seven have already transferred to District 34 and 26 other students have made the move there," he said, adding nine students have elected to complete their programs in District 67.

Both districts will appear before the Cook County Board of School Trustees at a meeting in October for approval of the governmental agreement.

There were three options linked to economics and we chose the lesser of three evils," he continued. "More importantly, it was not fair to keep these kids dangling between the two districts, since there was an obvious chasm in District 34."

Conditions for children in the Central Park area who want to attend District 34 include obtaining transfers from District 67. Current enrollees may have the prerogative to complete their programs in District 67, and parents currently living in the area will have only one opportunity for change, once they leave District 67, they may not enroll. a financially-troubled town like Cairo," he said.

To alleviate any problems or concerns, District 71 will send the report to parents along with an explanation of the program. "We will hold a public meeting at the end of October to explain or clarify any issue that may come up," Zalewski said, adding he is looking forward to the opportunity to pass "good" information on viability of the district to the parents.

Lenore Page, School District 63's assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction agreed unfair comparisons of school districts could be made through misinterpretation of data and limited information.

"We don't know what the future holds regarding the report card system. We will just adopt a wait-and-see attitude," she said.

According to Page, the state requires each school district to submit test scores from 3, 6, 8 and 10th grades. "My concern is the state will eventually have one test for all children in the school which could cause a problem," she said.

School districts in the state currently use as many as 200 tests.

She explained test scores can be misleading because of factors that play a part in comparing achievement of students within a district. "For example, the rate of transits coming into a school would impact on test scores."

She added different tests are given at different times of the year. "A student can achieve a score within a certain percentile. However, the same test by another publisher can result in a higher score because of the subject matter," she said. "It's important to judge a school district's performance on a fair basis."

Page noted there is good communication between the district and parents regarding progress of their children. "They know how well their child is doing and we have parent-teacher conferences. Some questions are likely to come up and we will do our best to explain what the state-mandated program is all about," she said. "I don't contemplate any serious problems coming out of the report card system, but you never know."

Skokie Chamber Manager, Karl Schmidt said, "our Chamber is now in its 61st year of service to the community, has over 400 member-firms, and represents the total Commercial, Industrial and Professional community. All reputable firms are invited to become a supportive part of our strong organization."

Governor Thompson noted that chambers of commerce have contributed to the civic and economic life in Illinois since 1983 when a chamber was formed in Galena, according to the earliest historical records. Today there are more than 300 local chambers of commerce in Illinois.

Board president Jim Pierski said that park district policy prohibits statues or monuments honoring individuals. "The park district is public-funded property supported by Niles taxpayers," he said. "Any major change from policy would be up to the voters via a referendum."

Commissioner Walter Buesse noted a statue of General Pulaski would set a precedent, which would encourage other groups to seek statues.

Commissioner Elaine Heinen suggested Izykowski approach village officials or the Niles Historical Society to solicit interest in putting up the statue.

Commissioner Mary Marusek thought the Niles Library District might be interested in donating space on land adjacent to the main library (Oakton and Waukegan) purchased by the district last year. Another suggested location was the House of White Eagle. Richard Haczak, co-chairman in the drive for the statue, said he understood the board's position and advised Izykowski to bring the petitions to other governmental agencies which might be interested in the project.

In other business, the board approved splitting the cost of $1,322.65 with Haack Builders for replacing a broken coil on an air conditioning unit at Grennan Heights.

In a related matter, the board turned down a request by Haack for an additional charge of $500 for heating duct work in the bus garage at the Sports Complex.

In other board actions, members agreed to meet with A.A. Cardilli to discuss change-over from the existing Goliath computer to IBM.

Transit meeting in Lincolnwood

With appropriate timing, the Board of Trustees of the North Suburban Mass Transit District will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 24, in Lincolnwood, a member community now commemorating its 75th anniversary.

William B. Galliani, Lincolnwood's Trustee to the Transit District Board since 1979, stated he hoped the meeting, which begins at 8 p.m. in the Village Hall, 6918 Keeler ave., will serve as a celebration of the Village's achievements throughout its 75 year history. Public transportation has played an important role in the community's past, just as Lincolnwood has played an important role in the District since its inception in 1972.

The Village's stalwart support of the District and its NORTHRAN bus system is well exemplified by the loan it extended to maintain operations during the transit financial crisis of 1981. At the time this initiative and that of other communities, enabled NORTHRAN to be one of the only suburban carriers to retain full service in its area.

During those difficult times for public transportation, Trustee Galliani served as Chairman of the District's Bus Operations Committee. He is currently Secretary-Treasurer of the District, which is a public, municipal corporation composed of 25 north and northwest suburbs.

Even though Fall is here, flowers are still in bloom and need care. The particular care of "Perennials" is the topic for discussion.

Don Schmitt, well known authority, and owner of Schmitt Nursery, 2528 Schoenbeck Road, Prospect Heights, will present the program.

For information call 966-4837. The public is invited to attend and will be welcomed by Zeria Miller, President of the Club. Refreshments will be offered after the lecture and discussion. Parking is available.

cannot be estimated. Flu is especially serious for the elderly, persons with diabetes or heart, or lung or kidney disease.

The vaccine is made from killed viruses and includes the strains A/Chile, A/Mississippi and B/Ann Arbor as selected by the U.S. Public Health Services. Most people will experience no harmful side effects as a result of the vaccination. A few may have tenderness at the injection site. Some may have fever, chills, not believed in 1987. The Niles Library wishes to upgrade its rating from Class C to Class A. Without passage of the tax referendum, the Board feels such an upgrade would be impossible.

The erosion of the tax base will be partially caused by the annexation of the Zenith property into the village of Glenview next year. Other causes include the fact the district's tax base in Niles and Northfield has gone down.

Members of the board are discussing making themselves available to the public for questions about the referendum.

Morton Grove library news

Even though Fall is here, flowers are still in bloom and need care. The particular care of "PERENNIALS" will be discussed at the Morton Grove Public Library by Don Schmitt of Schmitt Nursery on Tues. Sept. 23 at 7:30.

The Morton Grove Garden Club will attend the program and will offer refreshments after the lecture and discussion. Admission is free.

A slide lecture on common spinal problems and their treatment will be presented by Dr. Nancy Elliott from the Oakton Chiropractic Clinic on Wed. Sept. 24 at 7:30.

Niles Historical Society meeting

The Niles Historical Society will hold its next meeting on Monday, Sept. 22 at the Niles Historical Museum, 8970 Milwaukee Ave., (the former county police station), at 8 p.m. The feature of the evening will be the slide program "Theatres of Chicago" presented by Mr. Robert Brubaker of the Chicago Historical Society. Pictures of the interiors and exteriors of theatres in the Chicago area from 1894 to the present, plus, Marquee posters, photos of old time stars such as Chaplin, Gaynor and Pickford, and even excerpts from the old Essanes studios on Clark Street in Chicago will embrace the screen.

Mr. Brubaker recently presented his program at the national convention of the Theatre Historical Society of America, and the Society administrator William Benedict commented that this top notch presentation will be enjoyed by all, so bring a friend, enjoy the show, and get a peek at the new museum before it's completion.

Everyone is welcome to attend. Light refreshments will be served after the program, and as always, there is no charge.
