Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to express my concern regarding a recent outburst of service outages in our area caused by Commonwealth Edison. The incident occurred last week, and it was a particularly frustrating experience. The outages lasted for over 8 hours, and during that time, we were unable to use our electrical appliances, which included a refrigerator, a stove, and a washing machine.

I believe that it is unacceptable for a company to cause such inconvenience to its customers. Commonwealth Edison has a responsibility to ensure that their service is reliable and that outages are minimized. In this case, the company's negligence has led to a significant inconvenience for myself and my family.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Illinois Bell cuts 800 service down to size

Illinois Bell's Northern Illinois Area Representative, John LaMore, announced recently that the company's Chicago Area 800 service, which allowed businesses to call toll-free without incurring any cost, will be discontinued. LaMore said that the move is part of a nationwide effort to reduce costs and streamline operations.

LaMore explained that the elimination of the Chicago Area 800 service is part of a broader initiative by Illinois Bell to reduce its overhead costs. The company has identified several areas where it can make cuts, including the elimination of certain services and the reduction of staff. LaMore said that the company has been working closely with businesses to ensure that the transition to the new system is as smooth as possible.

LaMore emphasized that businesses will continue to enjoy the benefits of toll-free calling, but at a slightly higher cost. He said that Illinois Bell is committed to providing its customers with the best possible service and that the company will continue to invest in new technologies to ensure that customers have access to the latest in telecommunications.

Business owners and managers express concern over the move. They said that the elimination of the Chicago Area 800 service will result in higher costs and inconvenience for businesses. They also expressed concern that the new system may not be as user-friendly as the current system.

LaMore assured businesses that the company is committed to providing excellent customer service and that it will continue to work closely with customers to ensure that their needs are met. He encouraged businesses to contact Illinois Bell for more information about the new system and to ensure that they are prepared for the transition.
