District 71 seeks to recover lost tax $$

School District 71 is following in the footsteps of a local high school district in a request for a tax break from Niles regarding the Lawrencewood Tax Increment Financing District (TIF).

According to Eugene Zalewski, District 71 superintendent, school officials will approach the village to work out an intergovernmental agreement that will reimburse the school district for tax revenue lost if a municipal complex is built in Lawrencewood.

Zalewski said the pact would be similar to Niles Township High School District 219, in which the village will pay for lost revenue. The agreement with District 219 was passed last spring as an amendment to the TIF ordinance.

The village filed a condemnation suit in April against the

Mayor's poll to residents runs 8 to 1 in favor of ban

Nilesites back ban on X-rated videos

by Sylvia Dalrymple

A survey of Niles residents via an opinion poll on a question of whether the village should or should not prohibit the sale or rental of obscene material shows that residents who responded overwhelmingly support the village's anti-obscenity ordinance.

Mayor Nicholas Blase said Tuesday, he has received about 600 responses in the mail from residents thus far. "The ratio was 8 to 1 favoring not selling or renting obscene material. It indicates they don't want this type business operation in this town," he said.

At issue is the ongoing battle between Niles and West Coast Video, 8808 Dempster St. over the

by Bud Besser

When Niles village trustees laid down the law: public employees must live inside the village, there was a hue and cry from some Nilesites the ruling was unfair. The "under 35" crowd was telling village officials Niles homes were too expensive for the younger people's pocketbooks. By living in the outside perimeter of suburbia, exurbia, they were able to purchase a home which was within their means. In other words, since their income was primarily from the village, that amount of dollars could only purchase a home in less expensive areas outside of town.

Village officials were adamant about the "living inside" policy. Either the young folk would reside inside the borders or else they would have to find other employment.

The reason village officials used was by living inside Niles, the employees were part of the community, would be more accessible, and would have greater care and interest in the village. Basically, "inside people" would be better employees for the village than those living outside.

While the argument might have been specious, that was the law of the land and it was upheld.

Niles 'record setting' pilot dies in air crash

Amos Babb, 61, of Niles, died Friday, Sept. 25 as a result of a plane crash in Williamsport, Pa.

Babb, an electrical engineer and longtime pilot, was attempting an instrument landing in Williamsport early in the morning after having been diverted from another airport.

He was given instructions to make a sharp right turn but apparently turned left, according to a friend. His wing hit the side of a mountain and the plane crashed. He was able to crawl away for 50 feet, but died shortly afterwards.

Babb had flown a small plane to all 48 contiguous states three weeks ago, touching down in each and doing it in a record four days. He owned the Commanche airplane in which Max Conrad flew around the world twice, and used the plane in setting the 48-state

Skokian honored for theatre production

Sandra Perkins, Director of Communications at the National Easter Seal Society, was recently honored by The WHOLE PERSON, Inc., of Kansas City for the production of "Doin' the Realty Rag," an Easter Seal-commissioned comedy revue which deals with disability issues. The show was a joint production of the National Easter Seal Society and the fully-accessible Unicorn Theatre in Kansas City. The award was presented at the 1987 Annual Dinner of the WHOLE PERSON, Inc., an independent-living center in Kansas City.

According to Gina McDonald, Executive Director of The WHOLE PERSON, Inc., "Doin' the Realty Rag" was a wonderful vehicle to educate the community, and we would like to recognize Easter Seals' contribution to the independent living movement through its production of the show." The revue was a joint production of Easter Seals and the full-accessible Unicorn Theatre of Kansas City.

"We are especially pleased to receive this award from The WHOLE PERSON, Inc.," said Sandra Perkins, Communications Director of the National Easter Seal Society, who developed the idea and coordinated the production.

"Eliminating attitudinal barriers has been a major concern of Easter Seals for many years, and we believe that humor provides a fresh, innovative way to make that point."

"Realty Rag", a social commentary on disability, was written by comedy writer Lawrence Perkins, also of Skokie, whose credits include the Second City and "Starting Back." The cast was composed of five actors with disabilities and three able bodied actors.

The opening night audience included Marlee Matlin, winner of an Oscar for her performance in "Children of a Lesser God," special guest of cast member Liz Tannebaum. Playing to full houses, the original run was extended for an additional two weeks.

New productions of "Realty Rag" have already been scheduled by theatres in Portland, Oregon, and Cocoa Beach, Florida. A number of organizations around the country are also considering mounting their own local productions. Information about "Doin' the Realty Rag" can be obtained by calling Sandra Perkins, Director of Communications, National Easter Seal Society, 312/243-8400.

AUSTRALIAN GEMS

Koala bears and Crocodile Dundee may come to mind first when you think about Australia. But Australian gems are also well worthy of thought.

Best known are Australian opals. Opal, that gem full of play-of-color, flashes of reds or greens against a light or dark background, is valuable for its beauty and its scarcity. Many gems occur in predictable veins or clusters. Not so with opal. Because the location of opal cannot be predicted with success so far, in Australia seven of every ten opal mines produce no stones, two produce enough to break even, and one is successful. Opal's scarcity has added to its appeal.

Another Australian gem which may prove very desirable, especially in men's jewelry, will be diamonds. Australia produces the kinds of diamonds you think of when you think of diamond jewelry. They also produce spectacular pink diamonds, which are quite rare, and an abundance of brown diamonds. Since diamonds for men have proven to be a big seller internationally, Australia's brown diamonds will also be attractive to that market.

Cultured pearls are also produced in Australia. A South Seas Australian cultured pearl is grown differently than a Japanese pearl. Cultivation time is longer and only one pearl is grown in each oyster. If "Down Under" calls to you, "come on down" to see some Australian gems.

Caution urged when buying a water damaged car

Car buyers should be cautious when purchasing a vehicle that was damaged by flood waters, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

"Cars that insurance companies considered 'totaled' because of flood damage are sold as salvage," said Gene Nykaza, a field operations manager for the Chicago Motor Club Insurance Company. "The salvage buyer either will restore the vehicle for resale as a flood car, designated as such on the title by law, or sell it for parts."

Some flooded cars can be restored successfully for resale, but others can't, according to Phil Arendt, manager of member services.

"During the five-day flood period in August, we responded to 3,800 calls. 'Most of those cars had to be towed due to high water levels. In areas where access was restricted due to flooding, cars sat in the water for several days,' Butka said.

Caution urged when buying a water damaged car

Car buyers should be cautious when purchasing a vehicle that was damaged by flood waters, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

"Cars that insurance companies considered 'totaled' because of flood damage are sold as salvage," said Gene Nykaza, a field operations manager for the Chicago Motor Club Insurance Company.

"The salvage buyer either will restore the vehicle for resale as a flood car, designated as such on the title by law, or sell it for parts."

Some flooded cars can be restored successfully for resale, but others can't, according to Phil Arendt, manager of member services.

"During the five-day flood period in August, we responded to 3,800 calls. 'Most of those cars had to be towed due to high water levels. In areas where access was restricted due to flooding, cars sat in the water for several days,' Butka said.

1. Use your nose to detect mildew or heavy perfume odors.
2. Check underneath the carpet for moisture. A poor fitting carpet could be the result of shrinkage.
3. Inspect under the rear seat and in the trunk for dampness, mildew or water marks.
4. Search for water marks in hard to reach places such as the battery compartment, the back

Bocce League champions

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings

Which was the last college football team to go through an entire regular season and NOT allow ANY points to be scored against them all year? ... The last unscorred-on team for a whole year was Tennessee in 1938. ... Here's Tennessee's complete regular-season record that year ... They beat North Carolina State 13-0, Sewanee 46-0, Chattanooga 28-0, Alabama 21-0, Wake Forest 17-0, LSU 20-0, Citadel 34-0, Vanderbilt 13-0, Kentucky 18-0, and Auburn 7-0.

Surprisingly, only one head football coach in history won more than 100 games as a college coach AND more than 100 games as a pro coach. ... The only man ever to do that is Don Coryell. ... He won 127 games as a college coach at San Diego State and Whittier. ... Then he won 111 games as a pro coach with St. Louis and San Diego in the NFL.

Try this sports quiz. ... Name the 2 National Football League teams that have the same nicknames as 2 big league baseball teams. ... Answer is the Giants and Cardinals. ... In the NFL, there are the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals. ... In big league baseball, there are the San Francisco Giants and also the St. Louis Cardinals.

letters to the editor

Nilesite irritated over Com-Ed outage and repair service

Dear editor:

Enclosed please find a copy of a letter I sent to Commonwealth Edison regarding their service.

After living in Chicago for thirteen years and then moving to Niles last October, I have found that electric service is far poorer in the suburbs (even with their underground cables) than it is in Chicago (with its above ground cables). I find it difficult to believe that in the thirteen years I lived in Chicago, I experienced far fewer outages than I have experienced during my eleven months as a Niles resident.

In regard to the problem discussed in the attached letter, I am appalled to discover that Commonwealth Edison corrected the problem by running a temporary cable in the cemetery behind the homes on Monroe. Today, Monday, September 21, that temporary cable is still there no Commonwealth Edison employee has touched it since Friday. Yet, it is within easy access of the small children residing on Monroe Street and within distance of the grounds cut by employees of Maryhill Cemetery.

Not only am I concerned about this, but I am also puzzled as to why a temporary cable was not run earlier in the day on Friday (noon, perhaps?).

I would appreciate any advice as to whom else to contact in regards to this matter. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mary Jo Waller

To Commonwealth Edison:

I am writing this letter to voice a complaint against Commonwealth Edison and its service. Yesterday, September 18, 1987, our power went off at 6:35 a.m. As of 8:30 p.m. (power resumed at 8:45 p.m.), we still did not have power. I can understand and accept the fact that there are certain times when everyone experiences a power failure, however, I think it is unfair to expect customers to do without service for such a prolonged period of time (fourteen and a half hours).

Today, the power failure and its duration accentuated an already difficult situation. Our six year old son, was operated on for a cyst over his thyroid. It was to have been an outpatient procedure, and we planned to take him home shortly after surgery. Needless to say, the surgery was a bit more extensive than was originally expected. Still, however, the doctor allowed him to go home. Unfortunately, we had to bring him home to a house without lights and washroom facilities (our sump pump is run on electric power). To make matters worse, he had a drain in his incision and the dressing covering that drain had to be changed every two hours. This had to be done by candlelight or flashlight. Because I anticipated being homebound for several days, I had a well-stocked freezer and refrigerator. Now, in spite of the fact that we kept the doors closed, most of that food is ruined. All in all, the day has been an aggravating and expensive day.

I am, therefore, requesting that the charge for my electrical service for today be subtracted from my bill and that I be reimbursed by Commonwealth Edison for the spoiled food and any hospital expenses incurred by my son should the lack of electrical power hamper his recuperation and my ability to care for him in his present condition under the adverse conditions brought on by Commonwealth Edison equipment. I am also requesting that Commonwealth Edison equip the area with a generator to recover in a hospital.

In the light of Commonwealth Edison's rates, I would expect service to be uninterrupted and efficient. What I saw today was total incompetence.

I realize that today was a difficult day for those employed by Commonwealth Edison as well. While most of the people I spoke with were gracious and accommodating, I do feel that some of the workers on the crews should be reminded that empathy should be shown toward people who have sick children, filled sump pumps, electrical cooking appliances, darkened houses, and empty promises about the return of service. And while some of them may occasionally tell their wives to "shut up", they should never say that to a customer, no matter how tired they are. To do so, is not only rude, but it puts doubt in the customer's mind about how believable Commonwealth Edison's TV ads really are, and it makes an already intolerable situation worse. And please, instruct them not to tell us to buy battery operated sump pumps and generators or to go to our neighbor's house because "that's why you have neighbors" (direct quote from Robert Anton truck #6569). We do own them, but after a few hours, batteries die and generators can only run so much equipment. Our neighbors are wonderful and we have a wonderful rapport with them, but they don't have power either. Quite frankly, our electrical power should not be contingent upon our acquisition and maintenance of auxiliary power sources. Any system which requires this on a regular basis, such as the system serving this section of Niles, needs a thorough examination and rehabilitation.

In closing, let me again state how thoroughly aggravated I am. Be assured that, in the future, when I learn of a public hearing regarding a rate increase for Commonwealth Edison, I will make it a point to be in attendance and to voice my objections. It takes over fourteen hours to locate and repair a broken cable. I shutter to think how adept the company would be at repairing any malfunction at a nuclear power plant. I would hope that whatever caused today's situation can be corrected as soon as possible. The frequent interruption of electrical service has become a very costly and annoying part of life for the residents of Monroe Street and our patience is wearing thin.

Sincerely,
Mary Jo Waller
Niles, Ill.

Editor's note:

Commonwealth Edison's district superintendent Mario Fontana, said Monday a letter was sent to Mrs. Waller regarding the 14 1/2 hour power outage in her area.

"We conveyed our regrets for the length of time it took to restore power in light of the problems incurred," he said.

Fontana explained the failure in the underground cable occurred about 6:30 a.m. and work crews had difficulty in locating the site of the break.

Once located, it was a lengthy procedure to dig six feet to the cable. "The cable was spliced and connected to a transformer and energized," he said.

However, another section of underground cable failed in the same area at about 3 p.m. Because of the lengthy procedure for repairs, workmen put a temporary insulated cable against a cemetery fence behind the homes on Monroe St. "It was taken down Monday, (Sept. 21) and a permanent one put up in the area," Fontana said. "Workcrews did the best they could in an extraordinary situation."

On the question of compensation to Waller, the superintendent said adjustments will be made on her bill based on the actual meter count. "The company has indicated it will not compensate for the spoiled food and other problems incurred during the power outage."

He explained Com-Ed follows certain to determine criteria whether the company was responsible, and whether it could reasonably avoid the length of time to restore power because of complications incurred during repairs.

Greenwood Avenue reconstruction inconvenient

Dear editor:

While I totally support the reconstruction and up grading of Greenwood Ave, I have been a little surprised at some of the inconveniences we have had to endure.

Apparently, because of the construction, residents west of Greenwood Ave. (Ransom Ridge Subdivision of Niles) have had at least 4 electrical power outages in the last 2 months. One power outage lasted for over 10 hours! How much longer are we to suffer repeated interruption in electrical services. Fortunately none of these interruptions in electrical service have come during the recent deluge of rain so sump pumps continued to function. Work on Greenwood Ave., though much needed, will not be completed soon enough for me.

Sincerely,
Robert B. Johnson

Mother challenges Niles on censorship

Dear Editor,

On Fri., Sept. 11, my son, who is 22 and employed at West Coast Video, was arrested along with the manager of the store. He had been employed there less than two weeks, but enjoyed his job. He is knowledgeable about film as it is his chosen field and was working to save so he could go back to school. He is in his second year at Columbia College and really wanted to go back. He is a good person and has never been in trouble but the way some of the newspaper articles are handling this it might make people wonder.

We are angry at the village for having him arrested. It should be between the Video store and the Village of Niles. Personally, we do not feel West Coast Video has done anything so wrong. Perhaps we need to rethink some ordinances and this one should be that material of this nature be presented in a certain way and the licensing contingent upon that. It could be monitored

Lawrence House honors flood volunteers

Fire Commissioner Louis Galante, Streets and Sanitation Commissioner John Halpin, 48th Ward Alderman Kathy Osterman and about 100 other city workers and volunteers were honored at a garden party hosted by the Lawrence House, 1020 W. Lawrence Ave., for their hard work during a recent flooding crisis at the senior citizen hotel. The public was invited to attend the awards ceremony held Tuesday, September 29 in the Lawrence House garden.

Also recognized was the staff of the Area One Office of the Department of Human Services and the DHS Emergency Services Division plus the staff of the Water, Police, Fire and Streets and Sanitation Departments.

Included in the "thank you" festivities were all organizations, corporations and individuals who came to the Lawrence House's rescue when seven feet of water took out all mechanical and electrical systems.

These persons tended to the needs of the residents, ran errands and carried three meals a day up 14 flights of stairs to feed the seniors. They entertained the seniors with music, games and other amusements as city workers endeavored to pump the building dry.

"We want to express our thanks to these wonderful men and women," says Judy Doty, administrator of the Lawrence House. "They were with us 24 hours a day, literally. Our residents were completely taken care of, and nothing ever missed a beat."

Niles survey to residents "Misleads the residents"

Dear Editor:

The Mayor is asking the people of Niles to commit an illegal act by selectively handing out a card asking the people to vote if they want obscene material in Niles. Obscene material is illegal - R-rated or X-rated material is not.

The question should have been, "Do adults have the right to watch or read what they want in the privacy of their own home?" X-rated material has been sold in Niles for years by Sound Video Unlimited and never has there been an arrest for it. X-rated material is also being shown on cable TV. The Village of Niles has financially benefitted in both of these cases.

Anti-pornography statutes are unconstitutional. Such laws are nothing more than an effort to control what people choose to see, read, or think. All videocassettes are protected under the Constitution. For a movie to be found obscene it must be judged obscene in a court of law, by a judge or jury using community standards as a guideline.

A local newspaper reported recently that Trustee Joan Hall of the Oakton Community College board expressed concern about plans for building a Northwest Municipal Conference facility on OCC property at a cost of $278,000. I applaud her for questioning this plan.

I, too, am concerned, very concerned, about the construction of a facility with tax dollars that may not be in the best interests of the students or taxpayers. Does OCC need this facility?

Also, I have another concern - a greater concern. This property is in a flood plain. How can any responsible government body approve a permit to construct yet another building in a flood plain in view of the floods this area has experienced in the past year?

I request the OCC School Board to respond to the 2 questions raised in this letter. Thank you.

T.M. Frayn

The approach by the Village of Niles, in misleading the people, disturbs me. They would be far better off if they would treat the adults in Niles like intelligent adults, and tell them the truth.

Niles lost the first court decision, and will continue to lose, because their laws and enforcement of these laws are unconstitutional.

Niles would be far better off admitting the constitutionality of these videocassettes, and sitting down with the owners of the stores to come up with decisions as to how to handle and display this material.

Robert Murray, President-Video Software Dealers Association-Chicago Chapter, Resident of Niles 28 years

Editor's note: In response to several statements made by letter writer Murray, Niles Police Chief Clarence Emrickson took issue with the fact that Niles residents may be committing an illegal act by responding to the village's poll. "It was not a vote, but an opinion poll which is legal," he said.

He disputed an allegation that X-rated material has been sold in Niles by businesses without arrests being made. Emrickson noted Sound Video Unlimited is not a retail outlet, "It's a wholesale distributorship, and does not sell videotapes to Niles residents."

"Also, I doubt whether cable TV shows X-rated films containing specific sexual acts that courts have held to be obscene", Emrickson said.

He stated that all videotapes have never been protected by the Constitution as Murray contends because X-rated films have found their way into the courts on legal challenges. "It's up to the courts to decide if the material is obscene, which is a difficult area to define."

The police chief commented, "you have community standards, or you don't. Obscenity is obscenity when you get to basics. Village officials set community standards and police enforce village ordinances."

Emrickson went on to say it is not the intention of the village to put West Coast Video out of business noting that police view certain X-rated films objectively. "If deemed obscene, we are advised by the village attorney (Richard Troy) as to whether an arrest is in order."

The police chief concluded with, "he (Murray), is entitled to his opinion and a court can decide who is right or wrong."

Nilesite stirs up success story at baking company

CHICAGO, IL—Like the bread they have been baking for a combined total of 44 years, Houston Bickhem and Roy Dajani of Niles started from scratch and have risen to the top of Alpha Baking Company in Chicago.

Forty-nine-year-old Bickhem, with 31 years of experience in baking, entered the business during high school when Alpha Baking was known as Mary Ann Bakery. He worked his way up from sanitation, shipping clerk, dough mixer and bun machine operator to vice president, general manager today.

Dajani, 36, who has 13 years of experience, started as a dough mixer and today he is assistant plant manager to Bickhem, working the night shift from 6:30 p.m. to 3:30 a.m.

As part of management at Alpha Baking Company, Bickhem and Dajani are responsible for overseeing the production of roughly 300 different bakery products, ensuring that schedules are met and quality maintained. They supervise 250 employees in production, sanitation and maintenance. Both Bickhem and Dajani attribute their success at Alpha to their belief in old-fashioned hard work.

"I knew that if I worked hard enough and prepared myself, I could attain my goals," Bickhem said. "I always set high goals for myself, and I always reset them."

Dajani, who came to America in 1970 from Jerusalem as a student, says he discovered that "the food business is the right business, 'cause everybody has to eat." He channeled his energy and enthusiasm into baking, deriving great satisfaction in mixing dough and watching it turn into delicious bread.

"It's become like a hobby to me," Dajani says. "It's fun. I love to mix doughs, to trouble shoot. I like a challenge, and the bakery business provides a challenge to maintain quality."

Both Bickhem and Dajani also take pride in seeing their bakery products on display in Chicago-area supermarket and grocery stores. In fact, Dajani says, whenever he is in a grocery store he can't resist stopping by the bread department to see what he has produced.

"I feel good that the products we make are right there; I'm proud of it," he says. "My kids always say, 'We can't leave yet, daddy has to go look at the bread.'"

Illinois Bell cuts 800 service down to size

Illinois Bell's toll-free 800 telephone service, which always has cut the price down to size for businesses in the Chicago area, now is cutting down the cost of advertising 800 numbers in the Yellow Pages.

Businesses signing up for Illinois Bell's Chicago Area 800 Service, as well as current subscribers, can receive a 10 percent discount on Yellow Pages advertising space rates - worth up to $500.

"The discount makes Chicago Area 800 Service, already priced 15 percent below statewide rates, an even better bargain," Illinois

Bell Product Manager Patrick Herron said.

"When a business's Chicago Area 800 number appears in a Yellow Pages advertisement, it tells customers that their business is special - important enough for a company to pay for that customer's calls," Herron said.

"Illinois Bell's Chicago Area 800 Service reaches more than 100 communities. It allows customers to call a business toll-free within the 312 area code," he said.

Rates for Chicago Area 800 Service start at $36.38 per month for one line. Volume discounts for usage rates automatically take effect the more often a Chicago Area 800 Service line is used.

Business currently subscribing to statewide 800 service can convert to Chicago Area 800 Service and keep the numbers they have.

Herron said Chicago Area 800 Service is ideal for small- and medium-sized Chicago based businesses, such as contractors, manufacturers, printers, auto sales and service, trucking and delivery firms, retailers, banks, Realtors, travel agencies and livery services.

Customers can use the 800 service for orders, applications, reservations, financial transactions, inquiries about products and services, or for any use pertinent to a company's line of business - without having their customer's pay for the call.

Business owners and managers also can use the line to allow their fleet drivers or sales and service representatives stay in touch with the home office.

For more information - or to order - customers can call Illinois Bell toll-free at 1-800-428-5111.

Taxpayers can appeal IRS examination

The Internal Revenue Service examines about 1.5 percent of the tax returns filed by individuals each year. According to the IRS, 80 percent of the returns examined result in the taxpayer owing additional taxes, while the remaining 20 percent result in either no changes made to the tax return or with the taxpayer receiving a refund.

According to the IRS, most of the returns examined involve honest mistakes that taxpayers are bound to make. In many instances taxpayers will find IRS in a position of having to disallow certain claims made on a return because of inadequate supporting records and receipts. On the other hand, IRS said, some taxpayers will risk an audit by failing to report all taxable income, or will claim deductions, adjustments, or credits that are excessive or non-qualifying.

Regardless of the tax issue involved during the examination, when there is disagreement between the taxpayer and the examiner, the taxpayer has the right to appeal the examiner's findings.

The IRS is required to inform taxpayers of their appeal rights and the procedures for filing an appeal. The first informal step in starting an appeal is to request a meeting with the examiner's supervisor. The supervisor will review the issue and discuss the findings with the taxpayer. If the supervisor's findings support that of the examiner's the taxpayer can then make a formal appeal to the service by requesting a conference with the Appeals Office.

Taxpayers have 30 days to request a conference with the Appeals Office. This office is separate from the Examination Division, and its role is to bring an unprejudiced and unbiased point of view to the issue.

Generally, at this level a settlement is reached avoiding the necessity for a taxpayer of having to go through the expense and time consuming process of a court trial. If a taxpayer still disagrees with the Appeals Office decision, or if this level of appeal is skipped, taxpayers can take their case to the United States Tax Court, the United States Claims Court, or United States District Court. These courts are independent judicial bodies and have no connection with the Internal Revenue Service.

A free copy of Publication 556, Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund, is available from the IRS and can be ordered by calling toll free 800-424-FORM.

Oakton presents outstanding faculty award

Adele LeGere, professor of Math, was the winner of the 1987 Ray Hartstein Faculty Award for Academic Excellence at Oakton Community College. Clifford D. Siedler of the Oakton Educational Foundation presented an honorary medallion, and a check for $1,000 (contributed by Brunswick Corporation) to LeGere, a Chicago resident.

A 14-year veteran teacher at Oakton, LeGere is not new to winning awards. She was among the 10 faculty members chosen for the Outstanding Teaching Effectiveness Award in 1980 and in 1983-'84. But the Hartstein award, named after the Oakton Board Chairman, has a special meaning. It is presented to a single teacher, and the winner is chosen by students whereas in previous years the faculty made the selection.

"It is every bit satisfying then and it is now," remarked LeGere. "While she is proud to be the winner, LeGere recognizes the excellence of Oakton faculty, their high competence and strong commitment to teaching."

Picture Person Program at Stevenson School

Dr. Stewart R. Liechti, Principal of the Stevenson School in Des Plaines, announced a new program designed to give students increased opportunities in their cultural education entitled the "Picture Person Program." He said that the program would involve a number of volunteer parents from the PTA organization who would visit classrooms every month and give a presentation on a famous painting or work of art. A reproduction of the art work would be left in the classroom for the month giving students the opportunity to do research on it, learn more about the artist who produced it and write compositions.

The program was initially organized through Mrs. Susan Chemler, former art teacher at Stevenson School who is now a designer for a major corporation in the Chicago area. Mrs. Elizabeth Kile, current art teacher, is not directing the program.

Parent volunteers for the Picture Person Program include Mrs. Sandy Weinberg who will discuss Van Gogh, Mrs. Debbie Jorbin whose will speak about Toulouse-Lautrec, Mrs. Pat Davis who will have a painting by Monet. Also, Mrs. Heather Anderson will be one of the volunteer parents but the artist she will speak about has not yet been decided upon. She will be speaking to the Kindergarten classes. Mrs. Weinberg will address the 1st and 2nd graders, Mrs. Jorbin will be with the 3rd and 4th graders and Mrs. Davis will share her information with the 5th and 6th graders.

Dr. Liechti noted that he was pleased to see this additional dimension added to the children's cultural education experiences. Stevenson School is one of four elementary schools in the East Main School District No. 63, Des Plaines, Illinois.

District 207 ACT/SAT results

Maine Township High School District 207 continues to rank above national and Illinois averages in both ACT and SAT scores. Both ACT and SAT scores provide one of several measures of a student's readiness to do college work, according to Joel W. Morris, Director of Instruction for District 207.

Physician honored by Holy Family Hospital

"I still practice medicine the same way I did 30 years ago with each patient getting my full and undivided attention," said Jeremiah N. Pruc, M.D. Dr. Pruc has been chosen by Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines' Medical/Dental staff to receive the prestigious Mother Frances Award.

This annual award pays tribute to an outstanding member of Holy Family's Medical/Dental Staff who emulates the qualities of the founders of the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth, Mother Frances Siedliska. Mother Frances provided direct health services to the sick, poor and helpless by bringing healing and hope to the less fortunate.

Sympathy for those less fortunate comes naturally to a man who overcame great odds to achieve his dream of becoming a doctor. Born in the Ukraine, Jeremiah Pruc attended his first twelve years of school in four cities and two countries. After graduation, he spent three years in Russia and was imprisoned by the KGB for six months. Leaving his homeland, Pruc attended medical school in Austria under a full scholarship. Beginning his studies after imprisonment, in a strange country and having to learn a new language was one more challenging to overcome. Again in 1944, because of the War, his education was interrupted and Pruc was forced to go into hiding for two years.

"It was a question of survival," he explained. "If you have to do something, you do it." After graduation from medical school in 1949, Dr. Pruc immigrated to the United States with the help of relatives. Once again, he was in a strange country with a new language to learn. "It took me a year," Pruc remembers. "But I learned on my own, mostly from watching television and interviewing patients."

Dr. Pruc has been in Family Practice in the Des Plaines and Glenview areas for 31 years. According to one of his long-time patients, Galina Petik, Des Plaines, "He's a warm and caring person who always makes you feel comfortable. Not only is he a wonderful doctor but he gives his patients a personal touch—being on time and returning phone calls." Until five years ago, Dr. Pruc even made house calls. A respected member of Holy Family's Medical/Dental Staff, Dr. Pruc served as their president from 1979 to 1981. He currently is a member of the Board of Directors of the Holy Family Health Care System, Inc., and has been a counselor to the Chicago Medical Society for the past ten years. Dr. Pruc and his wife, Claire, live in Northbrook and have raised a medical family. Son Eugene is a radiologist/CT technician at Holy Family; Gene's wife, Donna, is a nurse. Nicholas Pruc is a medical student at Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine, and his wife, Elizabeth is a physician specializing in pulmonary medicine. The 1987 Mother Frances Award will be presented to Dr. Pruc at Holy Family's Renaissance Dinner/Dance, Oct. 17 at the Westin Hotel, O'Hare. Anyone interested in joining Dr. Pruc may call 297-1800, Ext. 1118 for ticket information.

Kids tackle the fight against cystic fibrosis

Children attending the Chatterbox Pre-School in Des Plaines, Cradles, Cris and Crayons in Skokie, the Mayflower Childcare Center in Northbrook and the St. Mary Merry-Go-Round in Park Ridge will raise funds to tackle cystic fibrosis when they participate in the Mini-March during October. Last September, thousands of preschoolers raised over $47,000 participating in this annual program sponsored by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

In the weeks before the event, Mini-Marchers will solicit pledges from friends, neighbors and relatives. On the specified day, they will walk, hop, skip or jump around their schools' recreation area for a designated time period. Funds will be collected based on the amount pledged and the number of laps completed.

The children will be raising funds to help children afflicted with cystic fibrosis. CF is the leading genetic killer of America's youth. In CF, the lungs and digestive system are clogged by a thick mucus causing breathing and digestive problems. However, recent research discoveries now offer hope for a cure.

For their efforts, the tots will be awarded with certificates, buttons, t-shirts, and a variety of toys. To sponsor a tot or find out how to get involved, contact Audrey Shane of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at (312)236-4491.

New federal law may affect you

Beginning on October 1, a new federal law may impact you and everyone you know. The law, "Required Request," calls for every hospital which receives Medicare funding to offer the option of organ and tissue donation to the next-of-kin when a family member has died.

The law was passed in order to alleviate the critical shortage of organs and tissues available for transplantation. Experts have found that most families would donate their loved one's organs if they were asked. The law ensures families will be approached, although they have the right to refuse the request.

The legislation, technically called the 8th Omnibus Reconciliation Act of October, 1987, says hospitals must develop and implement organ/tissue donation policies to include recognizing potential organ/tissue donors, approaching the family, and contacting the appropriate organ procurement agency.

In Illinois, the Regional Organ Bank of Illinois Inc. (ROBI) is assisting hospitals in fulfilling their legal obligation. ROBI has highly skilled organ procurement coordinators who are traveling statewide educating hospital personnel in how to approach the family with sensitivity to the situation. According to the coordinators, it is important to allow the family to say "no" without incurring guilt later on. However, they stress, most families will readily agree to donate.

ROBI was granted an Illinois not-for-profit charter in July of 1986 and became fully operational on July 1, 1987. The organization comes as the natural evolution of the Illinois Transplant Society, Inc. (ITS) which had provided organ recovery, distribution and transplantation in Illinois and Northwestern Indiana since the 1970s.

At the nucleus of ROBI, and forming the Medical Advisory Committee, are two transplant surgeons from each Illinois university-affiliated medical center which performs organ transplantation. These centers include Loyola University (Foster McGaw and Hines Hospital), Northwestern University (Northwestern Memorial, Children's Memorial and Evanston Hospitals), Rush Medical College (Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center), Southern Illinois University (Memorial Medical Center-Springfield), University of Chicago (University of Chicago Hospital) and the University of Illinois (University of Illinois Hospital).

October courses for health professionals

School tuition reimbursement endorsed

The concept of tuition reimbursement "is one whose time is approaching." That was the conclusion of Charles Brady, Associate Director, Catholic Conference of Illinois and leadoff witness at State Senator Walter W. Dudyzy's (R-7, Chicago) hearing into the matter last Tuesday night. Brady said he thought it to be constitutional citing similar laws already in effect in Minnesota and Iowa.

Dudyzy introduced SB 1237, the Parental Property Tax Relief Act, in the General Assembly last April. It would allow for partial tuition reimbursement to parents sending their youngsters to private and parochial schools. Senate Minority Leader, James "Pate" Philip (R-23, Wood Dale) appointed Dudyzy chairman of a special Parental Property Tax Relief Task Force to further explore the feasibility of a tuition reimbursement plan.

In an effort to obtain the views of school officials and parents, Dudyzy held the first of several hearings at Resurrection High School on Chicago's Northwest side. Most witnesses echoed each other in calling for some type of tuition tax credit or direct reimbursement. They argued that parents, on the one hand, pay to support public education through their taxes and, on the other hand, pay tuition to provide a quality education for their children in private and parochial schools.

Robert Morris, Director of Development, Gordon Tech High School, Chicago and a parent of two sons in elementary parochial school, said that parochial education provides his boys with a "clean, safe, nonthreatening environment" and "a solid education." Witnesses generally favored a decentralized school system allowing greater autonomy on the part of individual school administrators. Most private and parochial systems operate in this manner. Most witnesses favor an income tax credit to a direct reimbursement.

Other scheduled witnesses included Roger Schmohe, Principal, Luther High North, Chicago and Hugh LeVoy, Board Member, St. John Brebeuf School, Niles. They, too, endorsed the concept of tuition reimbursement and described the financial sacrifice borne by parents who make that choice.

Comments from the audience were largely in favor of the measure and included remarks by Dr. Hans A. Schieser, Professor, DePaul University. Several Women representing the Taft High School PTA (a Chicago Public High School) spoke in opposition. They said that Taft is

Since the argument was so fiercely defended, we can't understand why officials are now considering going outside Niles to select a police chief. If the people who have lived here in Niles are more caring and more interested in the community than outsiders, why is it necessary to go outside the village in seeking a new police chief? Following the previous logic, the most caring and interested policemen in the entire country must now be living here.

The censorship battle allowing X-rated videos to be sold or rented in Niles is silly. From our vantage point it looks like a bit of grandstanding by Niles officials.

Recently residents received postcards asking their viewpoint about such censorship. Obviously, a show of support for censorship will aid officials in contending this is the standard of the community which they are supporting. But it is not likely to stand up in court.

Years ago, we fought the censoring of books on newstands. When the Niles police chief and his men began taking Henry Miller books out of the stores, we decided letting the police chief set the reading standards of the community. The ACLU quickly stepped in and the situation was reversed.

In later years, Niles began censoring movies. Marlon Brando's "Last Tango in Paris" and an animated picture satirizing Flash Gordon were at the center of Niles restrictions. Since the "Gordon" film was a minor film it was banned from Lawrencewood. But "Tango" went on to play at Golf Mill. Today, it would be considered no big deal.

Censoring might make the public officials look good with certain groups in town but it is a false and pretentious effort. The free market place of ideas is not dissimilar to the free market place in the world of economics. Demand will determine the market place and supply will fill the demand.

The prurient, lasciviousness of the daytime soap operas makes this censoring a mockery. The garbage that's on T.V. during the daytime is there because the daytime T.V. watchers demand such trash. How hypocritical to allow such junk to appear without any protest, and then turn around and censor films and tapes.

It is a conundrum to expect politicians to set a standard of ethics for a community.

Conf'd from Skokie-L'wood P.1 volunteers and office for their help in making homemaker service well known. Describing homemaker service he said it includes child care, household budgeting, housekeeping, and parenting skills. When elderly persons are involved it may also include helping with personal needs.

He pointed out that in a time of crises or emergency such as the illness of a mother with small children a homemaker may be placed in the home for as much as eight hours a day. In other cases where such intensive care is not required, such as service to an aged person needing minimal assistance, it may mean a four hour service period once or twice a week.

Family Care Services-North District receives support from a number of United Ways in the northshore suburbs including the United Way of Skokie Valley. Anyone who feels they might need homemaker service or who wishes additional information, should call Mr. Racette at 864-6360.

No major changes were enacted. It was a time of interdepartmental sharing, evaluating, and suggesting possible changes. In the next few years more research will be done to realize Oakton's goal "to provide learning experiences that will result in transfer to other colleges, that will prepare the learner for work, and will enable to learner to adapt to technological and social change."

Major changes are not expected to be voted upon or instituted until 1989. Then the Comprehensive Curriculum Review Committee, begun last January by Dr. Margaret Lee, Vice President of Curriculum and Instruction, will revise the general education-core curriculum.

Present changes in Liberal Arts are shifts from "tandems, triads," and other disciplinary packages to more concentration on subject specific matter and the incorporation of related skills rather than "the addition of separate course content."

Richard Storing, Dean of Communications and co-chairperson of the Curriculum Revision program said, "There are 20 people revising the course syllabi for as many as 30 classes." These revisions are be-scene gave the proceedings an extra fillip when they formed an arch over the pair with their golf clubs.

According to park district officials, Lynn plays Tam three or four times a week and got her wish to get married on the greens. In an emotional presentation, resident Kathryn Peters, who lives in the 9100 block of Menard, appealed to the Board of Trustees to have a four-way stop sign erected at the intersection of Menard and Davis. She told of an accident that occurred near her home involving her brother and sister-in-law who were pinned in their car as a result. Peters explained since this is one of the only intersections in that area without a stop sign, it is heavily traveled and one can hear the squeal of brakes constantly. The general opinion of the board was there are entirely too many stop signs in that particular area as expressed by Trustee Henry Szachowicz. Don Sneider and Dick Hobs both expressed their opinions that residents with strong feelings on the need for stop signs in their particular areas should be accommodated at the present time. Sneider went one step further in asking for the traffic committee to do a study on the area between Church and Dempster, and Austin to Central, to see if some sort of uniform traffic pattern can be established. This motion was tabled for further study. Both Village Administrator Larry Arft and Trustee Dick Hobs pointed out in their respective reports that the Leak Location System has already paid for itself by locating as many as 43 leaks involving over 269,000 gallons per day, draining into the storm sewer system. Installation financing for the above system was approved by the board. Arft also corrected a mistake on the cost to have a private or business alarm connected to the police department. It is approximately $95 as opposed to the previously mentioned $65.

District 71...

Continued from Niles-E. Malne P.1 shopping center with plans to use part of the property for a municipal complex. "Anything that happens with Lawrencewood will affect the school district in the future," Zaleski said. "The tax burden would shift from shopping center owners to District 71 taxpayers."

Zaleski explained if commercial property is converted to tax-free public use, the school district will lose about $6,100 annually, which would result in an increase in the district's tax rate.

Lawrencewood covers about 2.2 percent of District 71's total equalized assessed valuation, or $37,615 a year based on 1986 tax roles, Zaleski said.

A tax increment financing district provides an incentive to developers to improve an area. Under TIF, a special tax district is formed in which property assessments are frozen during the development period.

In addition to being the oldest, Amplings Haunted House is one of the largest in the Chicago area and the most professionally conducted.

The Melrose Park Amplings once again is being transformed into a Halloween paradise for children and grown-ups. A spooky Haunted House facade goes up, thousands of pumpkins are rolled out, and the parking lot becomes an amusement park with carnival rides, refreshments, and games of skill and chance.

Dimly-lit by black lights, the interior of the Haunted House is a series of rooms and maze-like hallways inhabited by life-like mechanical monsters and live actors. Cobwebs, eerie music and sounds, flashing lights, and wind complete the scary picture. The Haunted House combines the fine art of fright (blacked-out tunnels, leaping live spooks, masterfully-created monsters and props) with the high tech (special effect lighting, realistic sound effects, and video film clips which transform the ordinary into the weird at a switch's flick) successfully to make for a chilling, thrilling, evening out.

New attractions this year include a floating witch whose very human eyes will scare even the bravest of adults.

"We make changes each year to continually surprise our return customers," says Wentland. "We hear parents telling their children in line just how frightened they were of the Amplings House when they were kids. This spurs us on to create new frightful things - so everyone is entertained."

Amplings Flowers & Gifts is headquartered at 540 W. Ogden Avenue, Hinsdale, IL 60521, 654-8820.
