Park Board ok's new non-resident fees

by Sylvia Dalrymple

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Niles Park Board, commissioners approved a new non-resident fee for use of the ice rink by S.P.I.N. members (Skating Partners in Niles) who are residents of the Golf Maine Park District. According to board president Mary Marusek, non-residents using the rink would pay $7 more for 10-week ice skating classes as well as season passes and $3 more for six-week classes. The approval came in the wake of a recent special meeting in which SPIN members, many of

Niles, video store reach agreement

by Sylvia Dalrymple

The Village of Niles and a video store that sells and rents X-rated video films reached an agreement on a consent decree that gives the village more control in enforcing one of the strongest anti-pronography ordinances in the state.

The agreement was presented last Thursday to a Cook County Circuit Court judge who approved the agreement reached by the two parties after certain revisions were made in the document.

Niles library leases lot for Christmas tree sale

by Eileen Hirschfeld

For the third consecutive year, the Niles Public Library District will lease to a private party parking lot space for the sale of Christmas trees, according to board approval Wednesday, November 11.

Board president Terri Carman said, "The final fees will be under negotiation by library personnel."

In other action, board members agreed that drains on the Niles Public Library roof be cleaned by a Park Ridge firm at a rate of $32.50. Gulden-Bittle Sewer Service was low bidder of five firms submitting prices to the library.

Library Administrator D.J. McKenzie said, "No one is able to give an exact price because they do not know what they are going to run into when they start cleaning the drains." However, the drains should be cleaned prior to replacing the roof as planned for this library's fiscal year, he said.

Water leaking from the library's ceiling is testimony to

by Sylvia Dalrymple

A SOLDIER REMEMBERED...The Trident Center was the scene of a poignant ceremony on Sunday, Nov. 8 when the Vietnam Veterans of America, Northwest Suburban Chapter 311 dedicated a memorial plaque to Walter Lang, who was killed in action in Vietnam in 1968. The Niles resident and Maine East High School graduate was only 20 years old when he was felled while on patrol at A Schau Valley. The memorial is in place at the Trident Center.

The ceremony, held in conjunction with Veterans Day observances, was held at the flagpole outside the center, attended by village officials, friends, the mother of Lang (who addressed the gathering honoring her son) two sisters, Kyra Landguth and Val Mazian, and a VVA color guard.

LOVE STORY...Sally Kaufman, 75, of Morton Grove, was in the glare of television lights and front page news in a major newspaper when she tied the knot at a synagogue in Highland Park with the families of both in attendance. For Harry, it was love at first sight and after a persistent pursuit of Sally, he got his gal. The couple will reside in Florida, where Harry has a job at a real estate office.

FOR GOLF BUFFS...a tape showing Lew Worsham sinking the birdie in the last hole (104 average) in the last round in the World Championship of Golf at Tam O'Shanter Golf Course in 1958, is now available at the Tam clubhouse, according to Bill Hughes, Niles park director.

Hughes said there used to be a plaque honoring the famous Wedge shot, but was stolen during the two-year reconstruction period converting part of the property to the nine-hole golf course at Tam.

AROUND THE NEIGHBORHOOD...congrats to Nancy Kozanecki, 19, of Niles who was recently selected a semi-finalist in the 1988 Miss Illinois-USA pageant that will be held at the end of November at the Woodfield Hilton Hotel. The winner will represent Illinois in the Miss USA Pageant in February and will receive $100,000 in cash and more than $75,000 in prizes and awards. Nancy is a junior

Warrant issued in Grennan Heights burglary

Niles police have put out a warrant for a woman who failed to appear in Niles Third District Court last week. The woman was to appear in connection with a Nov. 2 burglary of a home in the Grennan Heights area that also involved her husband and another man.

According to Niles Detective Dennis McEnerney, Joi Ann Moscatello, 30, who was charged with possession of stolen property had been free on $1,000 bond and was to appear in court on Friday, Nov. 13, along with the other two offenders. "She never showed, so a warrant was issued for her arrest," McEnerney said. "The court continued the case for the other two offenders to sometime in December at the Des Plaines court because of the felony charges."

Frank Varney, Jr., 19, of Chicago was charged with four felony counts of residential burglary. Varney is being held on $300,000 bond at Cook County Jail.

Joseph Moscatello, 30, of Chicago was charged with one felony count of residential burglary, driving with a suspended license and failure to have a front license plate. He is being held on $200,000 bond at Cook County Jail.

Police were alerted to a possible burglary on Nov. 2 when

Leaking truck causes suds problem

Niles firemen were called to Touhy and Harlem last Thursday after a delivery truck developed a leak. Most of the material which appeared to be some type of detergent spilled on the Chicago side with some falling on Touhy at Harlem (Niles).

Niles public works spread sand on the spill at the intersection, but Chicago firefighters chose to open several hydrants to wash down the substance on their side. Niles firefighters then had no choice but to lay a hydrant line to remove soap suds from the street which were causing a traffic hazard.

It was determined the spilled substance fell into the environment at hazard class and the Metropolitan Sanitary District was called, which will determine whether the truck driver will be cited.

Niles Fire Dept. calls

The Niles Fire Department responded to 27 fire alarms and 33 ambulance calls from Nov. 6 to Nov. 13.

Firefighters on Nov. 6 responded to the Four Flags shopping center to investigate a possible fire. It was determined the alarm apparently went off due to building demolition in that area.

A fire alarm apparently malfunctioned at Wag's Restaurant, 7840 Milwaukee Ave. on Nov. 6.

A smell of smoke was reported in a residence, 9272 Maryland on Nov. 6. Cause was traced to a pot burning on the stove.

Firemen on Nov. 6 went to 7300 Crain to investigate a smoke odor in the house. They found an electrical problem in the washing machine and the unit was disconnected.

A car fire at 8300 Octavia caused $800 damage on Nov. 6. The fire started in the engine compartment.

Firemen on Nov. 7 extinguished a dumpster fire behind the Jewel Store, 8730 Dempster St.

A power failure in the area caused a stuck elevator at the Goldman Home, 6601 Touhy Ave. on Nov. 7. The occupant in the Bonnie Lindquist, a Des Plaines Democrat will challenge Republican legislator Penny Pullen of Park Ridge in the November 1988 election for state representative of the 55th district.

That was the word from Democratic Committeeman Nicholas Blase at a press conference last Friday held at Democratic headquarters in Niles.

Blase also introduced Marshall Belgrad of Skokie, attorney, who will run against Illinois Senator Robert Kustra (R-28th). Both Pullen and Kustra's district includes Park Ridge, Des Plaines and parts of Niles, Morton Grove and Skokie.

Lindquist works as a therapist at St. Matthew's Home for the elderly in Park Ridge and has a business background in marketing. A member of the Democratic Women's Club of Des Plaines and the Maine Township Regular Democratic Organization, she has participated as an election judge and was involved in the Abner Mikva campaign (1972) in the 10th Congressional District race.

Lindquist said issues in her campaign would focus on upgrading programs for the elderly and education. "I feel Governor Thompson spends too much time in attracting businesses to the state, which is fine, but not at the expense of cutting educational bills to the bone," she said. "Young people should have the best possible education because they are the hope of the future."

Lindquist noted legislative bills, such as circuit breakers, have helped the elderly, but more is needed in the way of tax breaks. "Their benefits should be protected, and there should be upgrading of programs for senior citizens."

On the issue of abortion, Lindquist said she believes a person has the right to make their own decision, but would not comment on her personal views on the matter. In referring to Pullen's back election judge and was involved

Anonymous AIDS testing still available

Anonymous testing for antibodies to the AIDS virus is still available. After January 1, 1988, anonymous testing may no longer be available if Governor Thompson signs legislation requiring the reporting of all positive tests. Therefore, the Cook County Department of Public Health is recommending that high risk persons who have ever considered testing and who are concerned about anonymity be tested before pending legislation goes into effect.

"Recent evidence and developments support the voluntary testing of high risk individuals for antibody to the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV)," said Dr. Ralph Cordell, director of the Communicable Disease Control Division. "Knowledge of one's status enables the individual to make truly informed decisions regarding his/her health and behavior."

It is suggested that persons who test positive for the antibody that causes AIDS attempt to maintain the best possible state of physical and mental health. Eating well, exercising, getting adequate rest, managing stress, eliminating recreational drugs, alcohol and smoking may help to reduce the risk of developing AIDS.

In the future, drugs may become available that will help the body fight this infection and potentially reduce the risk of AIDS developing in people who do not have the full-blown disease. The Cook County Department of Public Health will be increasing testing sites to accommodate as many people as possible before the end of the year.

To schedule an appointment for FREE and ANONYMOUS testing, call the Cook County Department of Public Health AIDS Program at 865-4857.

Gift idea that's a lifesaver

This holiday season you can give a gift for life to someone on your list who has an allergy to penicillin, a chronic illness such as heart disease or asthma, or who suffers from memory loss.

The nonprofit Medic Alert Foundation encourages calls to its toll-free number - 1-800-ID-ALERT -- to register gift memberships in the Medic Alert emergency medical identification system. Medic Alert will send a gift card along with the Medic Alert emblem to all those enrolled during this holiday season. The Chicago Medic Alert office at 840 N. Lake Shore Drive, Chicago 60611, will be registering gift memberships from calls to (312) 280-6366.

Medic Alert is an identification system that consists of an emblem, either on a bracelet or necklace, engraved with the medical insignia on one side and the member's medical information on the other. Also engraved is Medic Alert's emergency hot line phone number that medical personnel can call collect, 24 hours a day from anywhere in the world, to receive details about the member's medical condition. Each member also carries a wallet card that carries additional information and is updated annually.

Medic Alert Foundation suggests that its membership is a good idea not only for persons with serious diseases like diabetes, epilepsy, and heart disease, but also as protection for those sensitive to insect stings, or who have allergic reactions to certain drugs or take daily medications. It is valuable as identification for joggers, travelers and the elderly, even if they don't have any specific medical disorders. A lifetime membership costs $20. Sterling silver and 14K gold emblems are available at higher prices.

To order Medic Alert as a gift, or for your own needs, call 1-800-ID-ALERT or write to Medic Alert Foundation, Turlock, California 95381-1009 and request the special holiday gift card along with the lifetime membership.

Bone Marrow Transplant Program off to good start

The Bone Marrow Transplant Program at Loyola University Medical Center has had a high success rate since its implementation in January, 1986, by Dr. Patrick J. Stiff, assistant professor of medicine and director of the program. Indeed, innovation and advanced experimental programs have been the hallmarks of his operation.

There have been 81 patients treated since launching the program. According to Dr. Stiff, 24 were allogeneic patients. These are patients whose bone marrow is obtained from a brother or sister. Most of these patients suffer from leukemia, bone marrow failure due to either aplastic anemia where the body develops lymphocytes which severely suppress the bone marrow, or to myelodysplastic syndrome which can be spontaneous or caused by treatment for cancer.

As of August 1 of this year, 17 of the first 20 are alive and well for an 85% recovery rate.

In the sub-group, which is considered a standard risk group, Loyola does very well. Fifteen out of 15 patients are alive and well, giving the program a 100% success rate compared to a 70% success rate nationally. In the high risk group, two out of five are alive and well, and this comparison is similar to the national average.

Dr. Stiff has also been doing a lymphoma study treating seven patients with Hodgkin's Lymphoma and six patients with non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma. The Hodgkin's patients are considered incurable while the non-Hodgkin's are patients who have failed conventional therapy and are ultimately also incurable by any conventional treatment.

They are part of the Autologous Group in which the patients' own bone marrow are used to treat them. For the treatment, the bone marrow is harvested and then frozen as the first step. The patients are then treated with chemotherapeutic agents given in high dosage form, destroying all of the bone marrow cells as well as, hopefully, the cancer. Five of the seven Hodgkin's patients are doing well while two died of late complications that were a result of their prior conventional therapy. In the non-Hodgkin's group, two are doing well and the other four died of recurring tumors. Dr. Stiff says this is akin to the national average.

Breast Center opens in Skokie

North Suburban Clinic, Ltd. in Skokie has developed The Breast Center to make it easy and convenient for a woman to make use to the best resources she has to protect herself against breast disease - herself, a physician, and mammography.

The program begins with a call to The Breast Center at 674-9800, Ext. 271 or 272. A nurse clinician discusses risk factors, answers questions, and explains the program. Depending on the individual situation, she will then personally coordinate the services that the caller may need, such as a mammogram, a physician's visit, and breast self-examination instruction. A physician's order is not required. The cost for the program is $95.

A mammogram is a safe, low-dose x-ray procedure which can detect small growths in the breast up to two years before they can be felt, and is the most sensitive and accurate method of screening for breast disease. A female technician performs the procedure, which lasts about 20 minutes. Afterwards, the mammogram is interpreted by a radiologist.

North Suburban Clinic, Ltd. is located at the corner of Church Street and Skokie Blvd. in Skokie. The medical group has physicians in 16 different specialties. In addition to the Breast Center, services in the facility include lab, x-ray, nutrition counseling, a pharmacy and an Immediate Care Center.

Call 674-9800, Ext. 271 or 272 for more information on The Breast Center.

ing of a bill regarding AID'S testing, she stated the legislator has received "max press" on the issue, but the bill will prove ineffective because of the problems involved.

Belgrad, who is 40 years old, said his campaign issues also will be directed to education. "School districts need funds to provide a good education because the children of today may be running the state in the future," he said.

Belgrad stated Kustra and other Republicans sided with Thompson in "ramming through" a decrease from the original $62 million for the educational package for elementary and secondary schools to $16 million.

"Kustra is against education. I want to work on a viable education program to allow competent people to teach schools," Belgrad said.

Calvin Sutker (D-56th) of Skokie, who was present at the meeting, said the money "was there" for education. "The governor has a hopscotch mentality on funding with priorities in other areas," he said. "There is so much money in the state and it should be channeled in areas to help people."

Both Lindquist and Belgrad believe the state budget should be prioritized for programs benefiting people, and are for flood control measures and a viable bill for disaster aid to flood victims. In reply to a question on the O'Hare Airport issue, Lindquist said people living near the airport should have input on noise abatement and expansion of O'Hare.

Lindquist said she intends to work hard on her campaign to wrest the legislative seat from Pullen. "I intend to win next November on my platform issues," she said.

Belgrad noted Republicans will be circling around their campaign wagons for the 1988 elections. "However, I feel that as the Indians begin circling near the wagon, it will turn out to be "Kustra's Last Stand," a slogan I will use in my campaign," Belgrad said.

an overdue need to replace the roof on the older portion of the library building, a move that will cost about $60,000, according to roofing estimates.

Roofing bids will begin a second time because the first set of specifications did not indicate that building materials should match the existing building.

In other action, board members agreed with the administrator's recommendation to have the library van tuned up and springs replaced at the cost of $100.

In his report to the board, McKenzie included an editorial from a library journal indicating that an average salary of a beginning librarian in the Midwest is $19,927 while a similar salary for Niles employees is only $15,000.

Due to other budget priorities this year, the board has been unable to raise employee salaries to amounts competitive with other area libraries.

Also, McKenzie said an October survey of data, as required by the state, revealed the "browser's fill rate" improved measurably to 90 percent from 83 percent last year. The "title fill rate" and "subject and author fill rate" remained about the same as last year at 78 percent and 78 percent, respectively.

Total circulation of library materials is 96,697, or a 53 percent increase from July 1 until November, according to library figures. The main library picked up all the circulation formerly held by the recently closed branch library plus an increase of 5 percent, said one staff member.

McKenzie said, "The total circulation continues to increase and patron satisfaction continues to improve."

whom live in unincorporated Des Plaines and in the small portion of Niles served by the Golf Maine Park District, and park district officials agreed that Golf Maine residents would not have to pay more than $30 extra for using the Ballard ice rink.

In other board matters, Commissioner Elaine Heinen reported the park district received a check in the amount of $85,884.56 from the insurance company for repairs to the Recreation Center which was damaged by a fire last summer.

The roof has been repaired, a larger concession stand is in place with a three-partition sink donated by Victoria Station. New ceiling lights are being installed, Heinen said. Work is expected to be completed in three weeks.

In a M-NASR report, Marusek said the organization will have to make a temporary move to Metzler School because of asbestos removal at Oak School. Marusek noted if the work takes longer than anticipated, or if Metzler becomes the permanent home for M-NASR, arrangements will have to be made for accessible ramps and washrooms that are presently at Oak.

In other reports, Commissioner Walter Buesch said because of the August flood, revenue decreased at Tam golf course. As of October, revenue totaled $310,019.33 compared to last year's $337,173.61. In addition, 3,600 fewer rounds of golf were played this year.

On the bright side, he said, the 1987 returns for the ice rink were $77,534.06 compared to $66,241.36 in 1986.

Park Director Bill Hughes said the purchase of natural gas through Texpar will result in a savings of $10,000 a year for the park district.

Heinen reported work is progressing at the new maintenance building after some delays regarding village inspections. She noted the new dock area is being completed. Also required is a new roof and doorways for trucks to enter.

"Looking at projected costs for what is needed, we have to start thinking about priorities," Heinen said.

Commissioner Dan Kosiba reported the park district's Halloween party and parade were a big success with 400 in attendance. He also requested a December committee meeting to discuss a soccer joint agreement with Morton Grove, in which participants from the individual towns would pay resident rates structured on spring-fall schedules.

Commissioner Jim Pierski reported the Niles Performing Arts Committee (composed of representatives from various school districts and governmental bodies) will hold a meeting at the Trident Center Thursday, Nov. 19 (today).

Pierski explained the village is looking at the possibility of bringing a Performing Arts Center to Niles and would like preliminary input on what type of theater concept would interest the general public, age level for programming and financial aspects for the operation.

At a previous meeting of the committee, Ralph Bast representing the village, said a possible location for the theater could be the present Lawrencewood theater or somewhere in the shopping center area if the condemnation suit by the village is resolved.

Ms. Jerit's work is well documented and receiving local and national recognition from institutions of higher learning such as The Milwaukee Area Technical College, University of Oklahoma, Sauk Valley College, etc. who have asked for help in these areas. "It's teachers watching and learning from other teachers," said Dr. Margaret Lee, Vice-President of Curriculum. "If doctors and lawyers can do this, teachers should be engaged in this as well."

Oakton's Nusing faculty and students joined forces to help defeat an Illinois House of Representatives bill that would have made a four year degree mandatory for licensed nurses.

According to Dr. Lee, "This bill, pushed by the American Nurses Association, was designed to create a barrier to people graduating from two year programs." Illinois was targeted as a pivotal state by the ANA who hoped passage of the bill here would set precedent for other states.

The sum of $2,649,150.31 was approved by the Board for payment of Oakton bills.

According to Treasurer David Hilquist's October report: Actual cash receipts for the month were not sufficient to meet operating expenses and $996,000 was transferred from investments. Revenue is slightly in excess of prorata budget due to interest on investments, tuition, and chargebacks running in excess of prorata budget. All categories of expenditures are within the prorata budget except Learning Resource Center (148%), Rent and Insurance (267%), and General Institutional (267%).

Hilquist stated in his report, "In general, the percentages of prorata budget are higher in some cases than in other months. This is due to the fact that the month of October had three payrolls."

Professor of English, Lynda Jerit gave this month's presentation of the work currently underway by the Strategic Planning Committee. The Committee has been engaged in an intensive long-term overhaul of curriculum, instructional philosophy, and restructuring of courses.

Professor Jerit shared her work with faculty members on redesigning course structure. Her objective is to develop curriculum with courses offering a sequential method of instruction taking into account the students' existing abilities, styles, and capabilities. According to Jerit, "Faculty has to be more perceptive about where a student is (in terms of capability) rather than just passing along material in the hope students learn it."

She meets with individual faculty members once a week to target places in curriculum that make it difficult for students to comprehend the development of subject matter as a whole.

Another objective on Jerit's agenda is to cut down on automatic thinking on the part of instructors who are long-term specialists. Ms. Jerit's mission is to encourage instructors to refamiliarize themselves with the initial thought components students need to progress from basic reasoning to higher order thinking.

The coalition incorporates Oakton Community College's successful VITA (Volunteers in Teaching Adults) program into the literacy initiative. It has launched a successful literacy awareness campaign and provides collections of high-interest easy to read material for adults at its members libraries. They include Des Plaines, Glenview, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Niles, Skokie, and Wilmette Libraries.

The Coalition currently serves approximately 250 adults with the help of over 100 volunteer tutors who instruct the Learn to Read students under the direction of master teachers at Oakton/East, and the Des Plaines and Niles Libraries. Learn to Read is a free program for any adult who wants to improve basic reading skills. Students attend 2 1/2 hour sessions twice a week, mornings or evenings, or one three-hour session on Saturday morning.

All the libraries have special book collections for persons with reading problems. The Coalition plans to augment these special collections which are geared to adult interests. Included are fiction and non-fiction books as well as audio and video tapes for self-directed learning. Each library has the materials in special sections marked with the Learn to Read logo.

POLITICAL TIDBITS...Edward Vrdolyak, who bolted the Dems for the GOP side, may be winning Republican leaders in Maine Township, but Dem chief Nicholas Blase believes the GOP ain't ready for "Fast Eddie" because of his rough approach to politics and popping off with provocative statements.

On the other hand, following a visit by Vrdolyak at Maine Township Republican Headquarters in Des Plaines, MT GOP Committeeman Phil Raffie called Ed's overtures sincere and said he has buried his bridges with the Dems.

Only time will tell if politics make strange bedfellows. SPARE THAT TREE...trees and bushes no longer screen residences near the Greenwood-Golf intersection from busy Golf Mill shopping center because of buzz saws that brought down more than a dozen large trees on three empty lots that were the subject of a recent county zoning case.

The developer, who lost the zoning battle, said a neighbor asked him to cut down the bushes edging his property, so several youths did the work and in the process, the trees went down, along with the bushes.

The developer is now in trouble with Maine Township officials because three and bushes were cut down on the right-of-way between Elm Dr. and Golf Rd., on property that belongs to Maine Township. Officials said they will sign a complaint if replanting is not done by the end of November. Woodman...you should have spared those trees.

with growing private sector involvement and news media coverage have contributed to the steady growth of literacy programs in Illinois in the past two years.

The state grant will fund the Oakton Coalition's literacy effort through June of 1988. Special attention during this period will be given to developing a networking system to increase student enrollment. The program seeks to help adults acquire the reading skills essential to getting or keeping a job.

Lincolnwood Library Director Ruth Whitney is the project coordinator for the Oakton District Public Library Literacy Coalition. "Jointly, the ten Coalition members have developed an effective response to the problem of adult functional illiteracy in the district," she notes.

The coalition incorporates Oakton Community College's successful VITA (Volunteers in Teaching Adults) program into the literacy initiative. It has launched a successful literacy awareness campaign and provides collections of high-interest easy to read material for

The agreement with West Coast Video, located in the Dempster Plaza shopping center, blocks the firm from selling or renting any videos that are declared obscene by any court in the country.

In other stipulations, if complaints are filed against other videos by the village or a citizen, West Coast will remove the film from the shelves, but has the option of seeking a ruling from an arbitration panel as to whether the material is obscene.

The three-member arbitration panel would consist of one person selected by Niles, one by West Coast and a third chosen by the other two arbitrators. The ruling would be binding and the loser would pay the arbitration fee.

West Coast also agreed to limit the adult video cassettes it sells or rents to 10 percent of its business, and its location in the adult section would remain as it is at present.

Village Attorney Richard Troy said he was happy with the settlement and added West Coast had been "very cooperative" in reaching an agreement with Niles. "This is the first agreement of its kind in the state that I am aware of."

The agreement also bars the firm from advertising the fact that adult videos are available for sale or rent and from allowing on-premises viewing of adult
