Weary firemen take a break

Lt. Tom Sweeney and Lt. Gerald Hirmler (sitting, right) of the Niles Fire Department, along with other suburban firemen take a rest break to prevent heat exhaustion in the rehabilitation sector while fighting the blaze at the Coca Cola Bottling plant in Niles. Seven area fire departments respond to 3-11 alarm

Fire officials investigating Coca-Cola explosion-fire

by Sylvia Dalrumple
Officials of the Niles Fire Department are investigating the cause of an explosion and fire that occurred about 2 p.m. at the Coca Cola Bottling Co. at 7400 Oak Park Ave., Niles, on Wednesday, June 1. Damage was estimated at $40,000-$50,000.
A tank truck driver suffered second and third-degree burns in the explosion that occurred as he finished pumping liquid propane from a truck into a storage tank at the Coca Cola plant which then resulted in a fire. He is recovering at the burn unit at Loyola University Medical Center, according to Niles Fire Chief Harry Kinowski.
Fire departments from Niles, Morton Grove, Skokie, Park Ridge, Northbrook, Glenbrook and Des Plaines responded to the 3-11 alarm.
Kinowski said only fumes from the propane tank and not the tank truck itself exploded, which reduced the damage and possible injuries. "If the tank had exploded it would have blown the Coca Cola building apart," Kinowski said. He added the fuel leaked out of the tank or valve and a spark or some other ignition source caused the explosion.
The fire chief explained the

St. Anselm's Lobster Sale

A Father's Day tradition at St. Anselm's Episcopal church will be repeated for the 11th time Sat., June 18, as parishioners hold their Lobster Sale.

Fresh or cooked lobsters will be available from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 18, on the church grounds, 1600 N. Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge.

In addition to the lobsters, clams will be sold, a repeat from last year's first time offering. In addition large shrimp and fresh corn will be sold to round out a Father's Day dinner said Polly Giangreco, Park Ridge, sale chairman.

The lobsters will be flown in live from Maine and weigh approximately 1 1/4 pounds each. The lobsters and soft-shell steamer clams will arrive the day of the sale.

Donations will be $9.95 for either fresh or cooked lobster; $2.60 a dozen or 25 cents each for the clams; $7.99 a dozen or 70 cents each for the large shrimp; and 20 cents for an ear of corn.

Instructions for cooking the lobsters will be available. All donations are tax deductible.

A special "Lobster Hotline" will be manned at the church to take orders at 825-5811 between 6 and 9 p.m. June 6 through June Lobster ready to go is a scene about to be repeated as soon as St. Anselm's Episcopal Church, 1600 N. Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge, holds its annual Lobster Sale Sat., June 18. Lorene Koppe, Niles, and John Richardson, formerly of Park Ridge, fill an order during last year's sale. Phone orders will be taken June 6-15 at 825-5811. Live lobsters will be flown in from Maine. Steamer clams, shrimp and fresh corn will also be available.

"The first year of the sale we sold 65 lobsters and last year we sold nearly 1,500," said Ron Faibe, Niles, spokesman for the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, church sponsor for the sale.

Lyle Strauss, Des Plaines, is serving as finance chairman; Lorene Koppe, Niles, and Elsie Strauss, Des Plaines, are chief chefs; Ken Zeiman, Park Ridge, is chief stoker, in charge of keeping the kettles boiling. Paul Koppe, Niles, is promotions chairman. Fran Baumann, Marion Young, both of Park Ridge and Beverly Faibe, Niles, are the crew in charge of serving food to the workers.

Proceeds are used to support church and outreach programs. "We look forward to the sale as a way to reach out to the larger community and to renew friendships of those who have moved out of the St. Anselm parish, but who come back for this event," said the Rev. Gregory Hinton, vicar.

PEARLS HAVE FACE VALUE

Pearls are a beautiful gift for any woman. From the young teen who receives an add-a-pearl necklace to the elegant woman whose pearls are a matter of course, the beauty of each woman is enhanced with pearls.

For the woman whose facial shape is round, an opera length strand of pearls with a pendant enhancer adds pleasing visual length. Baroque pearl earrings break the round line with another satisfying shape.

For the woman whose facial shape is rectangular, a pearl choker shortens and softens the visual line. Maybe pearl earrings add width and rounding.

For the woman whose face is heart-shaped, adding width at the jawline with clustered pearl earrings lends visual impact. This facial shape is especially well suited to long strands of twisted rice krispy pearls or to the classic lines of opera length pearl strands.

For the oval shaped face, pearls in any arrangement are a delight. Princess, matinee, and opera length strands are all well-suited to the oval shape.

Host families needed for exchange students

You can help to make a dream come true and create memories to last a lifetime. Local host families are needed for a summer friendship and cultural exchange program.

You can extend the hand of friendship around the world as a host family for a teenager from France or Spain.

These homestays are always interesting and educational. They are often the beginning of lasting friendships. The students will always remember their American host family and their summer in Illinois.

Most students come for 4 weeks. A few come for longer homestays. They range in age from 14 to 19. All will speak English well enough to communicate with their new family and friends.

The exchange students live as fully participating members of the family, not as guests in the home. It is an opportunity for local families to share their home and life with someone from a different culture and learn something of the language and customs of the homeland of their new family member.

Your participation in this intercultural exchange could be one of the most interesting things you will ever do. Families interested in hosting a student should contact the local program coordinator. She is Mrs. Monica Larson (312) 256-2137. Help bring the world closer together, one friendship at a time.

Vandalism...

A resident in the 8000 block of Lyons reported she saw a man smash the triple track window on her house and then flee the area when the victim confronted him.

The victim told police the offender is only known by his first name and frequents the store where she works. He keeps asking her for a date, but she refuses, according to police reports. Damage to the window is undetermined.

He is described as 17 years of age, 5' 11", 150 pounds and wearing a blue tee shirt and jeans.

An official at the Niles Park District reported someone removed an outside water fountain in Jozwiak Park on May 24.

Someone used a hard object May 27 to crack the fiberglass on the front grill on a car in the Golf Mill shopping center on May 27.

DUI arrest...

An Evanston man was arrested for drunk driving, speeding, improper lane use, no driver's license and open alcohol on May 20.

According to police reports, the offender was stopped for various violations at Dempster and Oriole. During questioning, police found an open beer bottle on the floor of the car.

After the offender was taken into custody, a check of the car revealed three open beer bottles and three that were sealed. A packet of white powder was found in the glove compartment and a small cartridge case with a bullet was found in the back seat. The items were inventoried and sent to the crime lab for analysis.

Bond was set at $3,000 pending a June court date.

Niles woman accosted and threatened

A Niles resident told police she has received 75 handwritten notes since July, 1987 which say in general the alleged male offender is "going to get her."

On May 24, the victim stated she parked her car in the driveway and was going toward a gate when a male subject approached from behind placing a handkerchief in her mouth and some kind of sharp object to her throat. He then dropped her on the ground where a struggle ensued and said "the bastard's next" and fled the area.

The victim said the offender may have been referring to her boyfriend and she requested a followup.

He was described as 28 years old, 6' 0", wearing a black tee shirt, blue jeans and sneakers.

Thefts...

The manager will sign a complaint if the offender is apprehended.

A 1980 Cutlass worth $5,000 was stolen May 29 in the Golf Mill shopping center. The vehicle contained twin strollers and two baby seats totalling $400.

A Cam-Corder was found missing in a store in the 8300 block of Golf on May 29.

Witnesses told police they saw a man carrying out of Cam-Corder and leaving the area. He was described as 35 years old, 6' 0", 170 pounds and wearing a tee shirt and white shorts.

An Evanston woman told police she noticed a woman near her sitting area in a restaurant-bar in the Dempster Plaza shopping center and subsequently discovered several items were missing from her purse.

Missing from the purse were $300 in currency, check cashing cards and driver's license.

The manager of a music box store at the Golf Mill shopping center reported May 27 someone stole three porcelain dolls worth a total of $255.

Two bank pouches, one containing $1,500 and the other $200, were discovered missing from two locked metal drawers behind a prescription counter in a Milwaukee Ave. drug store on May 27.

The drawers were not forced open and two other pouches in the drawers had cash in them, according to police reports.

Someone removed a portable computer worth $5,799 from a stockroom leaving behind the empty box on May 27 at a computer store in the 8500 block of Golf.

Persons unknown smashed the window of a car in the parking area of an apartment complex in the 8800 block of Golf Rd. on May 24.

Taken from the car were a set of golf clubs, camera and a police uniform worth a total of $1,250.

Four hubcaps totaling $280 were removed from a car in the 8000 block of Oriole on May 20.

Driving violations...

A Chicago man was arrested for speeding and suspended license May 30 after police spotted the offender driving 60 mph on Dempster. A stop was initiated at Dempster and Elm.

He was released on $1,000 bond pending a June court date.

A Mt. Prospect man was charged with driving with a suspended license and following too closely after he was involved in an accident on May 28.

The offender was traveling on Oakton and struck the rear of the car which stopped for a traffic signal in the 6900 block of Oakton.

He was released after posting $1,000 bond and assigned a June court date.

A Robbins man was arrested for a revoked driver's license, failure to give aid or information, improper lane use and no seat belt on May 23.

According to police reports, the offender was traveling northbound on Touhy attempting to cut in from a right turn lane into the curb lane and struck a car going westbound.

After the incident, the offender fled the area on Touhy and was subsequently taken into custody at Touhy and Caldwell.

Bond was set at $3,000 pending a June court date.

Warnings on railroad crossings

Approximately 70 percent of the railroad grade crossing accidents in Illinois last year occurred at crossings with active warning devices. Of the 356 accidents, 130 occurred at crossings with gates and 120 occurred at crossings with flashing signals.

Most of the accidents were caused by motorists who had been drinking, were not paying attention to their driving, or tried to beat the train to the crossing. The following safety tips are provided in conjunction with Railroad Grade Crossing Safety Week:

1. Never drive through, around or under gates, and never race a train. A 100-car freight train moving at 60 miles per hour may take as much as one and one-half miles to stop after the engineer has applied the train's emergency brakes.

2. Expect a train on any track at any time. If you must stop for a train, watch for a possible second train. Do not cross the tracks until you are sure no train is coming.

3. Never get trapped on a crossing. When following other cars, be sure there is room for your car on the other side of the tracks before entering the crossing.

4. Never shift gears on the crossing. Your vehicle could stall on the tracks.

Observe and heed every railroad grade crossing sign. Fifty-four persons were killed needlessly at Illinois grade crossings last year.

Traffic Safety Hints

by Secretary of State Jim Edgar

A new, three-part youth highway safety program is available from the Secretary of State's office this summer to teach good traffic safety habits to children and teenagers. The program's goal is to reduce highway injuries and fatalities.

"Pandy" teaches young children safety rules. With the beginning of summer vacation, now is a good time to remind your youngsters of the basic do's and don'ts of pedestrian and bicycle safety:

- Obey all traffic signs and signals.
- When crossing the street at an intersection, stop and look for vehicles coming from the left and the right.
- Do not cross the street from between parked cars.
- Do not follow pets and balls into the street.
- Do not play in or too near the street.
- Cyclists of any age should wear helmets.

Information about any part of the youth highway safety program may be obtained by writing to the Secretary of State's office, Community Events, 27J S. Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, IL 62723, or by calling 217/785-1444.

Service adjustments ahead for NORTTRAN

Riders of the NORTTRAN bus system should be aware of upcoming service adjustments beginning Sun., June 12.

There will be a new schedule for Rt. 221 (Cumberland Circle - River Rd. Station via Wolf Rd.) that will provide smoother connections with other NORTTRAN routes. Both the north and south-bound trips on Route 221 will leave five minutes later than presently shown on the schedule.

Also being revised is the weekend service on Rt. 250 (Evanston - Des Plaines via Dempster). Saturday and Sunday westbound trips only will now depart five minutes earlier to assure schedule accuracy. In addition, the first morning trip on Rt. 250 weekdays will be slightly modified.

Other minor changes include: Rt. 223 (Elk Grove) The 7:15 a.m. trip from the River Rd. Station will complete its route back to the station instead of terminating at Touhy and Elmhurst.

Rt. 228 (Harlem Ave.) All trips will operate between the Harlem CTA Station and Glenview.

Revised schedules for the Tax information for student workers

Students who are starting a summer job and can still be claimed as a dependent on their parent's tax return should take extra care when they are filing out the Form W-4 for their employer.

In the past, these students often claimed exempt status on their Form W-4 which resulted in no tax being withheld during the year since students with minimal income generally didn't have to pay tax.

Under the new tax law, a student cannot claim an exemption from withholding if they can be claimed as a dependent on another person's tax return, if they have any investment income (such as interest on savings) and if the investment income plus wages totals more than $500.

Generally, students whose wages for the year are $3,000 or less and who have no investment income can be exempt from withholding; however, they can claim exemption from tax withholding on their Form W-4 only if they had to pay no federal income tax (all federal tax withheld was refunded) last year and they expect to pay no federal income tax this year.

The IRS advises students to carefully review their situation before completing the Form W-4. If they have questions they can call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-1040.

SOME OF THE GREATEST INNOVATIONS HAVE SUFFERED FROM A LACK OF VISION.

Lots of great ideas come and go. Among them, what was described as the "future of filmmaking" and "the most revolutionary advance since the talkies".

Pretty one-dimensional, to say the least. But, as it turns out, the introduction of 3-D did teach us all something. Like, no matter how much fanfare an idea gets, it still has to be a good one.

Which is why, at First of America, we're committed to the Satisfied Customer Guarantee.

And, what that means is that if you have a problem, we'll solve it.

Or, if you have a question about any facet of our service, we'll answer it. And if for any reason you're not satisfied with us, we'll do everything we can to reach a solution.

The point being, we want you to be happy with your banking. No ifs, ands or buts.

So stop by any First of America Bank location and pick up a copy of the Satisfied Customer Guarantee.

Because, while some ideas look great at the time, it's much better to put them in the proper perspective.

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings

Surprisingly, a member of the U.S. House of Representatives does NOT have to be a resident of the district he or she represents. The Constitution says only that members must be a resident of the state—and not the district—represented.

The famous poem on the Statue of Liberty that includes the lines: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free" was written in 1883 by 34-year old Emma Lazarus—but after she wrote it, it was forgotten for 20 years. It was not attached to the Statue until 1903, and Miss Lazarus, who died at 38, never knew it became part of the Statue of Liberty.

Amazingly, in each human kidney there are over 1-MILLION tubes.

Which U.S. First Lady was once a professional dancer? Answer is Betty Ford, wife of President Gerald Ford.

Interesting Facts From John Jennings

Of all the men who've ever played big league baseball, which one played in the most games in history? . . . Answer is Pete Rose . . . Rose played in 3,562 major league games-and no other player has ever topped that.

One of the most amazing trades ever made in baseball happened when the New York Yankees traded almost half their team to the Baltimore Orioles on ONE DAY! . . . On Nov. 18, 1954 the Yanks sent 10 players to the Orioles in exchange for 7 Baltimore players. . . Those 17 players represented the biggest trade in baseball history.

Here's an unbelievable baseball fact. . . When the 1916 Giants set the all-time big league record by winning 26 games in a row, they started that streak in 4th place-and then at the end of the greatest winning streak in major league history, they were still in 4th place! . . . Despite winning 26 straight games, they didn't move up even one notch in the league standings! . . . Unbelievable, but true.

And, here's another interesting fact. . .

SC INFO

by Walter E. Kramer, Ph. D.

BRAIN MALFUNCTIONS AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Extensive neurological research has begun to unlock the secrets of how the human brain operates. While our brain cannot compete with the speed and accuracy of computers and calculators, neither can these machines think for themselves. In attempting to create machines capable of self-thought, research has been launched to see if the brain's operation can be duplicated by machines. Even though much astounding knowledge has been discovered, scientists realize they haven't even begun to scratch the surface. Many physical problems, diseases, and behavioural attitudes that were thought to be self-inflicted are now believed to result from improper DNA coding of critical cells and from chemical imbalances.

Homosexuality, which all societies abhor, is actually a brain disorder. Studies have shown when "normal people" of the opposite sex are attracted to each other, certain areas of their brains "light up". Thus, they are programmed to respond to the opposite sex. When homosexuals were subjected to the same tests, these areas remained inactive. Involuntary chemical changes can slowly or suddenly cause a normal heterosexual person to become homosexual at almost any stage in life. Chemical shifts in the brain also account for the phenomenon of "late bloomers", people who unexpectedly become smart.

Many are afflicted with manias, phobias, shyness, aggressiveness, and diseases like Alzheimer's and Parkinson's. All result from brain malfunctions. Until recently, these people were punished by society and made to feel guilty for something they couldn't control. As medical research advances and more becomes known about brain operations, we may be able to prescribe medicines and therapy to correct these defects. Many who felt guilty about their problems now know they are the involuntary victims of malfunctioning brains or chemical imbalances. Hopefully, relief is on the way.

THE SHROUD OF TURIN

The Shroud of Turin is a controversial burial cloth imprinted with the image of a crucified man. Many devout Christians believe this is the actual shroud that covered Jesus and the image is his. The Shroud is often exhibited over the main altar of the Turin cathedral and is viewed with awe by the faithful.

The Shroud attracted worldwide interest when modern photographic techniques revealed hidden details. As knowledge of the details spread, so did the controversy about its authenticity. Father Leo Filas of Loyola University was one of its greatest proponents. I heard many of his lectures. He was a very persuasive proponent.

Inasmuch as the controversy surrounding its authenticity grew, everloder, the archdiocese of Turin agreed to allow a number of world-renowned laboratories and scientists to examine it in the late 1970's. Dr. Walter McCrone of McCrone Associates of Chicago was a participant in these tests. He examined samples of the "blood stains" and found they were an ordinary red pigment, hematite (red iron oxide). Although red blood cells contain iron in their hemoglobin, the decomposition of hemoglobin does not yield hematite crystals. Hematite has been used for centuries as a red pigment. He also revealed the techniques for producing the hidden image found in the cloth were well-known to 14th century artists. Dr. McCrone concluded the Shroud was a fraud. Despite the fact that he was a man of impeccable scientific reputation, he was denounced for his statements.

A new set of tests is scheduled for this month to determine the actual age of the Shroud fabric by carbon-14 dating with an accuracy of 80-100 years/1,000 years.

Considering how the tests will be run, the controversy about the Shroud's authenticity will not be laid to rest.

OSTEOPOROSIS

Among my mementos is a snapshot taken of me and my mother when I was 14. She was then almost 6' tall. When she died 33 years later, she was a shrunken, shriveled woman less than 5'4. No one thought this was unusual. All people start to shrink when they reach middle age, particularly women. Four years ago, the National Institute of Health made the public aware of osteoporosis. Osteoporosis means porous bones.

Osteoporosis affects women after menopause and men after age of 55. Based upon unit body weight, women lose bone calcium seven times as much as men. Body structure and hormone differences account for this. The failure to eat sufficient calcium-rich foods is a big contributor. Milk is the best source of calcium, but is considered a kid's drink. Many who drink after the age of 12 are often ridiculed. The only cheese many eat comes in ham and cheese sandwiches. There is nothing infantile about osteoporosis. While the exact nature of this problem is not completely understood, it is believed to be a hormone problem. In controlled tests, women given estrogen after menopause and no calcium, suffered no calcium losses. Those given only calcium-enriched food exhibited calcium losses. Because of its severe side effects, the administration of estrogen is not the real answer. From all sides we are now bombarded to take and eat calcium supplements and calcium-enriched foods. Studies have revealed that most of these highly-advertised items are worthless.

Genetics, heredity, and exercise are very important factors. Negroes have a lower incidence than whites and orientals. The tendency for osteoporosis can be transmitted from mother to daughter. Exercise is essential to maintain muscular strength and bone density. Couch potatoes are good candidates for the disease. To minimize osteoporosis in your children, teach them the importance of drinking milk and exercising throughout their entire lives. If you start worrying about calcium in middle age, it is already too late.

"Punctuating Parents" Guide

Children should be protected from harsh summer sun

Parents, beware of summer's blistering ultraviolet rays. Beneath your child's sunburn could be potential skin cancer, warns a Chicago dermatologist. Children who take cover from the harmful rays of the summer sun could reduce the incidence of skin cancer in later years, notes Dr. Denise Rubenstein of Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center.

"If parents can instill in their children the dangers of overexposure to the sun, it may begin a lifetime habit of sun avoidance," says Dr. Rubenstein. The ultraviolet rays that cause skin cancer are the same rays that produce sunburn. Fair-skinned, fair-haired, and blue-eyed children are most vulnerable to sun-caused skin cancer because they burn more frequently. This is because, as Dr. Rubenstein explains, fair people have less pigment in their skin. The pigment acts as a natural sunscreen against damaging ultraviolet rays. The less pigment, the more a person burns. "People who tan easily produce a high concentration of pigmentation, she adds."

Dr. Rubenstein advises parents to keep their children out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., when the sun is strongest. If they are outside at this time and if they will tolerate it, dress them in long sleeves, long pants, and a hat. Otherwise, a good sunscreen of 15 SPF (sun protection factor), should be applied to all areas of exposed skin. The sun block is most effective when applied before going outside and reapplied after excessive perspiration or swimming, says Dr. Rubenstein.

"Oddly, ultraviolet rays are not necessarily most severe on bright, sunny days. A partly cloudy, overcast day can also produce a bad sunburn," Dr. Rubenstein warns. Ultraviolet rays can find you under a beach umbrella or through a T-shirt worn over a bathing suit, she adds. For city dwellers, air pollution can be an ally against the sun: it helps absorb ultraviolet rays. If an adult has a childhood history of sunburn, he or she has a better chance of getting one of the two types of skin cancer related to sun exposure - melanoma or non-melanoma skin cancer. The most common is non-melanoma which is recognized by scaly lesions or growths on exposed areas of the skin. Some of the more common areas are the nose, (as President Reagan's case), cheeks, arms, and hands. This form is easily treated and not life threatening. Melanoma is much more serious. Melanoma skin cancer first grows superficially in the skin-discoloration or sudden growth spurts of moles. When detected at this early stage, melanoma is curable. If neglected, it can invade deeper layers of the skin, spread throughout the body, and eventually be fatal. Dr. Rubenstein says the incidence of melanoma skin cancer is rising at a faster rate than almost any other type of cancer. The highest incidence of melanoma in this country is found in Arizona, and in the world in Australia. In addition to cancer, prolonged exposure to the sun for children can have other long-term effects - aging, wrinkles, blotchy pigmentation, thickening of the skin, and freckling. Also, certain types of medication, perfumes, or some types of antibacterial soaps can give children and adults a rash when exposed to the sun. "Parents have to teach their children, that a deep tan is not necessarily desirable," Dr. Rubenstein concludes.

Our kids are going home.

What's really important about children's medical care? Ask any parent or kid. They'll tell you it comes down to two things: Getting well. And going home.

"I had confidence in the skills of Jenny's specialists. But I saw more than skills here - I saw people who really cared about kids. That's when I knew that Jenny would be coming home."
- Mary, Jenny's mom

At Lutheran General Children's Medical Center, we send dozens of kids home well or with the best possible chance to get well each day. But it doesn't just happen. We have the resources to make it work: A complete staff of pediatric specialists. Not only our doctors but our nurses, therapists, technicians - even our pharmacists are specially trained to care for children's special needs. They're people who like working with kids... and our kids know it.

"The twins were so tiny at first, I was almost afraid to take them home. But look at them now! Did you ever see more healthy, active children?"

Loyola opens Learning Clinic to access gifted child

Genius IQ...precocious...remarkable...top performer...these are some of the labels used to describe the gifted child.

Because gifted children are difficult to assess and can't be grouped in consistently confining guidelines, these "labels" are a disservice and become arbitrary or abstract descriptions.

A 1972 Department of Health, Education and Welfare study defines gifted and talented children as those identified by professionally qualified persons as having outstanding abilities and who are capable of high performance. These are children who require differentiated educational programs and services beyond those normally provided by the regular school system in order to realize their contribution to self and society.

Children capable of high performance include those with demonstrated achievement and/or potential ability in any of the following areas: general intellectual ability as determined by IQ testing, specific academic aptitude, creative or productive thinking, leadership ability, visual and performing arts and psycho-motor ability.

Currently, Illinois law provides that each school district within the state may decide whether or not to include a gifted program within its curriculum. A majority of school districts in the metropolitan Chicago area do not provide the battery of tests needed to uncover and identify the gifted child, leaving that responsibility to private learning centers. However, newly revised laws say that by the 1990-91 school year, states must make available for implementation appropriate programs in fundamental areas of learning (including the gifted) for children of all grade levels.

One private clinic which offers a comprehensive evaluation for children from pre-school through high school is the new Learning Evaluation Center at Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood. The center, which opened in February, 1988, assesses children for a range of learning difficulties including questions of giftedness.

The Learning Evaluation Center uses a multidisciplinary approach with children. Experts in psychology, education, and medicine (pediatrics, neurology) assess the students through vision and audiological screenings; parent interviews; school observations and staff recommendations; teacher consultations; and neurological and psychological evaluations.

"Our team approach permits us to solve many areas of a problem simultaneously. For example, a child with problems in visual motor processing and an attention deficit may have strengths in short term oral memory which could result in a combination of recommendations. Advice may include medication for the attention deficit, a referral for learning resource services plus extra-curricular activity in drama to bolster self-esteem," says Lenore Weissmann, Ph.D., coordinator of Loyola's Learning Evaluation Center.

Gifted children are indeed different. Often, they are perceived by adults and their peers as non-conforming individuals and sometimes as behavior problems. Often, they are misunderstood and not accepted as those with exceptional potential.

Frequently, they achieve developmental milestones sooner than their peers. As pre-schoolers they appear to be more involved than usual in what is going on around them; they are very alert and observant. As they grow older, they are able to see past the obvious answer, often giving sophisticated responses to questions. Their colorful speech is filled with adjectives. They tend to understand more words than most children their age. Sometimes this elaboration causes them problems since they may give more information than the questioner intended or desired.

Some gifted children appear almost driven to explore their environment. They are involved in so many activities that their parents fear they may collapse from exhaustion.

Many gifted children seem to possess remarkable memories. This learning asset is exemplified in "long-term retrieval" of isolated facts and complex information. They remember who invented what and the inventor's middle name as well.

Because the gifted child is curious, he or she may ask many questions in class and repeatedly interrupt the teacher. Classmates may feel this child is monopolizing the teacher's time and is seeking additional attention when in reality he or she wants to express all the facts or his or her own ideas. The result may be social ostracism by the peer group.

It is these qualities - great curiosity, an abundance of energy, full-blown answers to questions, precise memory, and sometimes apparent boredom with the pace of learning taking place in the classroom - that can cause problems for the gifted child in school.

Unfortunately, these qualities and this behavior become the tools used by teachers and peers to view the gifted child as a unique yet difficult personality type. Actually, it is a temperament style they are seeing and not the signs of a difficult or emotionally unstable child.

The stereotyped image of a gifted child as a quiz-kid type with horn-rimmed glasses, a book under his arm and a physique that is small and underdeveloped is gone. Today, a gifted child might be the adult professional athlete who was a Rhodes Scholar prior to a career in sports. In other words, high intellectual ability and physical talent can and often do go together.

Gifted children may excel at one skill and not perform particularly well in another; a child may be outstanding in math and not care much for reading. Just as they vary greatly in terms of their intellectual profiles, so they vary in terms of physical traits and athletic abilities.

"It is essential that educators avoid setting up stereotypes of gifted and talented children if they are to start a realistic approach to identifying them," states Weissmann. "It is important that parents of gifted children try to understand them more thoroughly and stimulate them at home without pushing their academic limits until they are ready emotionally and mentally."

Twenty-one preschoolers from the National Park Preschool Class of the Morton Grove Park District brought their teddy bears and other stuffed animals for health checkups.

Resurrection Immediate Care Center physician Dr. Michael Duffin and Linda McConville, R.N., Health Services Field Representative, conducted a tour of the immediate care center and explained the reasons for visiting the doctor to the local preschool class.

Traveling with Kids

Some parents may look forward to vacations with their kids as a pleasant break in everyday routine; others may dread the thought of packing up the kids and leaving home. Before making those summer vacation plans with small children, the most important thing to do is plan ahead and anticipate what the vacation will be like for your child, says Dr. Victoria Lavigne, a child psychologist and co-founder of Tuesday's Child, a parenting program for parents of preschool children.

"A break in routine is disorienting for small kids," says LaVigne. "Little children have no sense of time and they rely on routine to keep order in their lives."

LaVigne advises gearing vacation time around the child's needs and schedule. "For example, it may be better to have a pizza in your hotel room around 5 p.m., rather than a family outing to a restaurant at 7."

If parents have visions of relaxing and having free time on a vacation, that time must be anticipated and planned for. LaVigne says to pick vacation spots where there is either dependable babysitting provided or where a family can depend on friends or relatives. Or, if possible, bring a teenage relative or a sitter from home.

"Punctuating Parents" Guide

A new generation begins

by Mel Orman
Skokie Resident

On Friday evening, March 20, I left Congregation Kol Emeth Friday Night Services at approximately 10:15 p.m. When I arrived home at approximately 10:30 p.m., I noticed a concerned look on my wife's face. She told me that our daughter, Lynn, had called from Woman's Prentice Hospital in Chicago. My wife, Ruth, had spoken to Lynn at her home in Skokie at 10:00 p.m., and here she and husband Earl, were at the hospital.

Shortly after I returned home we received an additional call from Earl advising that Lynn was in a hospital room awaiting the arrival of her doctor.

Just that morning, the doctor had advised Lynn he would see her on June 2, and at that time she would have her baby delivered by "C" section. Lynn's baby was breeched and a birth by Cesarean was the most advisable way to go.

When Lynn had talked to her mother earlier in the evening, it was still assumed that delivery would be on June 2, so you can imagine the surprising turn of events and concern to all of us.

At approximately 1:00 a.m., Saturday morning, Ruth and I were in the lobby of Prentice Hospital, found that Lynn was on her way to the third floor of the hospital, that a doctor who was to operate and handle the delivery was there and that the operation would be performed later that morning. We did, however, get a chance to see Lynn and talk to her doctor.

Although we did return home, we did not sleep, and at 4:00 a.m., received a call from Earl. He gave us the good news that Lynn had given birth to a baby girl and all was well. We, of course, returned to the hospital.

May 21 wasn't just another day. It was a beautiful Spring day. It was a birthday, a day that gave birth to a new hope - a new beginning.

I have held different titles in my years: senior examiner with the Government, Chief Petty Officer with the U.S. Navy, but to me, "Grandfather" is the most rewarding title of all.

So, my congratulations to the proud parents, and also to the proud grandparents, Ruth and myself, and the paternal grandparents, Etie and Selwyn Weiss, of Lincolnwood.

Earl, an attorney, and a Tae Kwon Do expert, and Lynn, in public relations, who has been involved with many of the great names in entertainment, has just delivered her greatest production.

Good health and "nachos" to all the participants. May they enjoy good health and many beautiful moments with Stefan.

Life has been good to me and blessed me with three wonderful women...Ruth, Lynn and now Stefan.

Ruth and I now belong to the "Grandparents Club," and it is a new and exciting feeling.

I can now put another bumper sticker on my car. In addition to the bumper sticker that reads "Fly Navy," I will place another sticker that reads "Happiness Is Being A Grandparent," thanks to Stefan, born on the morning of May 21. A young lady, 7 pounds, 3 ounces, and 20 inches long, does make a difference. Her cry is like sweet music and her presence is like hope.

Although I have attended a Naval Meeting with Admiral Zumwalt, and have been invited to the White House while assigned to the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., next to my marriage in 1951, and Lynn's birth in November of 1955, this has to be another of my greatest moments - meeting my granddaughter, just a few hours old.

Although I realize that being a grandfather is nothing new, it has been going on since time began, to me and to Ruth, it is a new and exciting beginning.

Dinosaurs descend upon Chicago

For the first time in millions of years, lunging, roaring dinosaurs will descend upon Chicago. Ten dinosaurs plus two prehistoric creatures will be on display during "Dino-Rama!", a dinosaur extravaganza sponsored by the Chicago Academy of Sciences, 871-DINO, 2001 North Clark Street, from Saturday, June 11 to Monday, September 5.

Dino-Rama! will feature twelve real-life looking creatures, produced by Dinamation International Corporation, that will actually move, roar, claw, and bite. Unlike the standard dinosaur skeletons normally on display in museums, "Dino-Rama!" creatures are "fleshed-out" computer-controlled replicas of the extinct animals. From Stegosaurus to Tyrannosaurus they have been recreated to match their ancestors. They range from full to half-scale of their actual size, with babies (five feet high) to full-size adults (15 feet high), and reach up to 75 feet in length.

Although we cannot verify what sounds dinosaurs made, scientists believe they sounded similar to modern day reptiles. Using this information, the staff at Dinamation program sounds from a digital recording to synchronize with special mouth movements which are then "heard" by exhibit attendees.

And for those who wish to spend a day in the Academy and the surrounding area, the museum can provide food packages to fit any group size or budget. "Dining among the Dinosaurs" can be a reality and top caterer George L. Jewell Catering Services, Ltd., has menus ranging from picnic boxes to cocktail receptions to formal dinners. The Academy also can provide facilities for meetings and special events during Dino-Rama. For more information about delicious dining at the Academy, please call Kimberly at Jewell Catering 933-6316.

Tickets, $4 for adults, $2.50 for children and seniors (with special discounts for museum members) are available to the general public through TICKET-MASTER Chicago: 559-1212. The Academy strongly recommends purchasing tickets in advance. The Academy's Dino Hotline, 871-DINO, provides 24-hour program and exhibit information.

Friendly Visiting thru Senior's Outreach Program

Do you know of a lonely senior citizen in the Niles Township area in need of a Friendly Visitor? Leaning Tower Senior Adult Center, 6300 W. Touhy Ave., Niles, has an Outreach Program of Friendly Visitors that has been in existence for 11 years. The purpose of this program is to visit with lonely residents in the area. Nursing Homes and to provide companionship on a weekly basis to isolated or handicapped seniors in their own homes.

A Friendly Visitor can mean a great deal in the life of a shut-in senior citizen with no family or friends. Funding from the Niles Township Administration has made it possible for Leaning Tower Senior Center to continue this worthwhile program.

In addition to the weekly visits, the list of seniors who are helped by the Outreach Program is endless. In one month alone more than 2000 people are provided with some form of service through case management and information & referral. One of the main goals is to provide supportive services to help the elderly so that they can function in their own homes. Leaning Tower Senior Center is very proud to be able to bring some sunshine into the lives of many seniors in the Niles Township area who are lonely. At holiday times of the year, especially, the Friendly Visitors play an important part in helping to make the life of a shut-in a little brighter.

The visitor shows great concern for these elderly people and often put in many extra hours fulfilling the needs of the homebound. For example, if a shut-in needs to go to the hospital, they are visited there and also cards are sent to help cheer them. Birthdays and holidays are always remembered with small gifts and cards. Between visits, telephone calls are made. The Friendly Visitors are kept very busy, but they always seem to find that "little extra time" whenever needed and that makes the Leaning Tower Senior Center's Outreach Program so successful.

If you would like a Friendly Visitor or know of anyone in the Niles Township area who would benefit from the Outreach Program, please contact Rose Wahlburg, Outreach Supervisor or Lois Dieker, Director, at 647-9222, Ext. 2237.

The game was called after 3 innings and will try to be played later.

Golf Mill'ing Around The Mall

by Linda Zachow

Greetings from Golf Mill. As the trees and flowers began blooming weeks ago, so did two new stores at the mall. We'd like to introduce you to Au Coton and Attivo. Both stores specialize in the ever popular European fashions and feature their own unique styles.

What they do have in common is that same excitement and enthusiasm we have witnessed at the opening of each Golf Mill business. A sense of anticipation permeates the atmosphere in these shops. The air is literally charged with energy.

Au Coton was started up in Montreal by Monsieur Pierre Lefebvre less than five years ago. Anyone who has a drive to succeed can live the Horatio Alger ideal with this company. There are already 150 stores in three countries.

We spoke with Patricia Giancola, district manager, who was in from Montreal. She has the most beautiful French accent. Patricia raved about the company, its products, her quick ascent to a managerial position and also what her job means to her personally. "I really love this company," Patricia told us. "It really comes from the heart. Pierre Lefebvre, the only owner, cares about his employees so much it's like family. Our work is more like fun."

Patricia told us about their company president, Mari-Josée, whose attractive face adorns their catalog and a huge poster in the store. Mari-Josée began as a salesgirl several years ago and worked her way up. Her big dream to open a store in Paris has come true. Several weeks ago Au Coton opened their store in Paris.

Stephany Stamadianos, a native of Montreal and overseer of Canadian Au Coton stores, was also on hand. We met Laura Sebastian and Jo Anne Egan from our local area who will hold down the fort when the French Canadians depart. They are just as enthusiastic.

You couldn't find better free advertising for Au Coton's product than seeing how snappy and casually comfortable Laura and Jo Anne looked in their mix 'n matches. Another wall poster sports an ad run in some of the most prestigious magazines—Seventeen, Elle, and Montreal-based Clin D'oeil. All the models in this ad wearing Au Coton clothes are company employees. They not only promote from within because the talent is there. They also model from within because the beauty is there. For a comfortable, cool, and carefree feeling and fashion forward styles, cotton is tops. Let the Au Coton people treat you like their company treats them—like family.

Attivo is a tres trendy business whose parent company, MGRE Enterprises, also owns DJ's in the mall. Both stores specialize in the latest men's fashions. Attivo concentrates on clothing with a European flair. We spoke with assistant manager, Angie Zunado in manager Sandy Staas's absence.

Angie informed us their sale—buy two items and get one free—will continue indefinitely. Attivo's styles are so originally European that when Europeans have a layover at the airport, they frequently come in to shop. It's like the ethnic restaurant which the nationals frequent. You know the business has captured the essence of what these overseas visitors miss about home, whether it's food or clothing.

Attivo clothing bears the labels of some of the world's most famous name designers and manufacturers. Girbaud, a husband/wife world-renowned designing team, is one example. Attivo carries labels from Code Blue, Z. Cavarricci, and their own line—O.U., to name a few.

From casual shirts with silk screen prints of European posters to the newest men's look of shorts with a sport jacket, Attivo's collection is magnifique. Suave suits in the latest styles adorn the racks. The newest look, a waiter's jacketed suit in white satiny material will take the breath away from any mademoiselle. If you are a young man of the eighties, discriminating and fashion conscious, Attivo has the wardrobe you need from the casual to the dressy.

Until next time. See you at the mall.

Edison: Still time for lower summer electricity rates

Commonwealth Edison's 2.8 million residential customers still can obtain the benefits of lower summer electricity rates if the Illinois Commerce Commission acts favorably on a reconsideration petition filed today by the company. Edison is asking the Commission to lift its suspension of a summer rate reduction plan filed by the company March 21. Under the plan, summer electricity rates would be reduced immediately by about 12 percent below current rates and by about 24 percent over the next two years.

Existing summer rates, at least 86 percent higher than non-summer rates, began to be phased in May 16. If approved by the ICC, however, Edison's reduction plan would be retroactive to that date, so that all electricity consumed since that date would be billed at the lower rate. The first bills reflecting the summer rate will be issued June 15.

Under Edison's proposal, non-summer rates would be increased to make the change revenue neutral to the company for 1988. The seasonal rate differential approved by the Commission April 27 would have caused substantial revenue losses to the company in 1988. It also would have increased costs substantially to large users of electricity in the non-summer, particularly electric heating customers and farmers who require large amounts of power for the fall harvest.

Edison appealed to the Illinois Appellate Court that such a revenue reduction, imposed without due process, would be unlawful. The court ordered a stay of the Commission's action. During the first year of Edison's proposed realignment, the total summer bill for the average single family residence would decrease approximately $45. The average apartment bill would be reduced by about $20. During the second year, summer bills would be reduced by a total of $84 and $38 respectively.

In 1979, the ICC mandated that summer rates be set significantly higher than non-summer rates, then increased the size of the differential at various times over the succeeding years. The ICC imposed the highest summer rates on Edison customers. Edison opposed the introduction of higher summer rates in 1979 and since then has sought their reduction and the introduction of a more level year-round rate structure.

Until very recently, the ICC believed that higher summer rates would discourage electrical demand on peak air conditioning days, and over time, reduce the need for additional generating units, minimizing rates over the long term. In spite of summer rates, the demand for electricity continues to grow on hot, humid days, leading to continuing record demands by customers.

The Marjorie Beile Dancing School

The Students of the Marjorie Beile Dancing School present their annual Spring Recital, Friday, June 17 at Center East (For The Arts), 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

This event marks the thirty-sixth year of operation of the dancing school at 5319 West Devon Ave., in Edgebrook. Among the thousands who have passed through the doors over the years are several who have made successful careers in the entertainment business. Others have made their careers in teaching, as airline stewardesses, in business and as mothers and homemakers. Many return from time to time to say hello, and they never get away without a hug and a kiss, and they leave behind them a feeling of pride.

An important objective of the dancing school is to make that initial contact with group learning a successful and pleasant experience for the very young child. Maintaining a friendly atmosphere within the class and the fun of moving to music, also helps the child develop good relationships with peers.

Majorie Beile is a Life Member and Vice President of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists. The Association provides annual conventions at which Master Classes for the teachers help them keep their material up to date and maintain high standards of teaching.

It is always a special pleasure when a mother brings her child into the dancing school and says to her, "This is Mrs. Beile. She was my dancing teacher too."

said her mother, Grazyna, 28, after flying 14 hours with Julita from Poland. She spoke through an interpreter.

The reunion ended a long separation that began when Edith and her father left Poland, so the youngster could undergo medical treatment here.

"It was something to see. Grazyna took Edith in her arms in a long embrace, with tears running down their faces. The four-year old Julita held on to her father and would not let go...chattering in Polish non-stop. There were no dry eyes among the St. John Brebeuf group who came to welcome them," said Midge Tranchita who, along with other mothers and first graders, engineered the campaign to reunite the family.

The family was escorted to the VIP lounge arranged by Robert James Thompson of Pan American Airlines (which flew the mother and daughter from Poland) to meet a welcome party of 42 Brebeuf parents and first graders, who participated in the crusade to help Edith.

"The family speaks Polish and we had a parent, Jane Morawa from St. John Brebeuf acting as interpreter," Tranchita said. "We told them how happy we were they were in this country...then Grazyna put her arms around me and said 'thank you from the bottom of my heart.'"

Edith's classmates presented Mrs. Perkowska with a bouquet of red, white and blue carnations, with each giving a brief welcome speech. The first graders also gave a large stuffed rabbit to Julita, who held it tightly in her arms. She also received a small teddy bear from Teddy Tranchita, son of Midge Tranchita.

Transportation for the Brebeuf group was provided by the Niles Park District motor coaches. "A call was made to Elaine Heinen, park district board president, about the need for transportation. She contacted other board members and use of the motor coach was approved," Tranchita said. "Everyone has been so wonderful and have done so much helping Edith."

Also present in the VIP lounge were Edith's grandmother, Donna Perkowska, a Des Plaines resident, Aloysius A. Mazewski, head of the Polish National Alliance and Valerie White, a representative of Pan Am.

Tranchita said everyone was very moved by the reunion. "Sharing in the experience made us realize how great this country is making this reunion possible."

Now that the family is together, Brebeuf parents in the Share the Spirit group organized to help the Perkowska family, will take another step...petitioning the federal government to issue permanent visas for the family. Grazyna and Julita have temporary visas which expire in December. Edith and her father received a one year extension on their visas last April.

The mother and daughter acquired their visas after the Brebeuf group conducted a letter writing campaign to Governor James J. Thompson and other organizations, congressmen and the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw, Poland. First graders were responsible for the visa extension by writing letters to Governor Thompson after they learned Edith and her father would have to return home because their visas had expired. Representatives from the governor's office and immigration officials worked together to extend the visa for another year.

The extension allows Edith to visit her medical treatment for Alopecia/totalis, a disease which has almost left her hairless under the wig she wears.

"At our request, immigration officials are looking into the possibility of getting a work permit for the father. We also want to find some kind of housing in Niles for the family," Tranchita said. "They are staying with the grandmother in a Des Plaines apartment, but they will be cramped for space."

In fundraising efforts to help the family, first graders recently gathered aluminum cans for recycling and realized $175. They raised another $175 via a raffle on a Precious Moments statue called "God Bless America" donated by Anita Zorink, mother of a first grader at the school.

Tranchita had these final words: "you reach out to people for help and you find them."

Evanston woman killed on Golf Road

A Glenview man driving on Golf Road in Niles struck an Evanston woman early Sunday morning, May 29. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Lutheran General Hospital.

Eric Friedman, 33, was charged with failure to yield to a pedestrian after he was questioned on the scene by an assistant state's attorney. Additional charges were not filed according to a Niles police official.

Police said Friedman was east-bound in the 8200 block of Golf Rd. about 4 a.m. and pulled into a gas station to report to a Cook County Sheriff's Police squad that he had hit "something." When police retraced Friedman's route, they found the body of Diane Jacklyn, 30, of Evanston, in the street.

Niles police gave Friedman a breathalyzer test that registered .08, lower than the .10 that would have constituted a drunk driving charge.

Police found a pillow case at the scene belonging to the victim, containing make-up, a hair dryer and personal papers. They believe that Jacklyn may have been hitchhiking when she was struck by the car.

in the local tax base is expected until the 1989 quadrennial reassessment.

The lion's share of annual funding in educational budgets is usually routed to two major funds—the Educational Fund and Operations, Building, and Maintenance Fund. District 207's Educational Fund continues to make up the largest part of the 1988-89 budget with $42,397,89, an increase of approximately 7.7 percent over last year's budget.

In the report Kenney expressed concern over the financial state of the Operations, Building, and Maintenance Fund. "This is the first time in recent years expenses in this fund exceed available revenues," he stated. With the closing of the Bond and Interest Fund, a shortfall of $940,000 exists this year.

To maintain and operate our facilities in the future, we must control expenses, retain earned interest, and consider transferring at least a portion of the Working Cash Fund to operations at the end of the 1988-89 school year," Kenney concluded.

Mention was made at the meeting by Superintendent James Elliott of a bill that is before the Illinois State Senate to transfer educational responsibility for Nipper School to another source. The bill was recently introduced by State Senator Phil Rock at the instigation of Maryville Academy. The bill would affect students at Nipper School, a special education facility providing education for out-of-district students who live at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines and the Edison Park Home in Chicago.

District 207 and 214, which have been providing educational direction and resources for Nipper, were taken by surprise when the bill was brought before the Senate. The official position of District 207 is that they are happy to help this program or let it go. If they do not have the full cooperation (from Maryville), it does not benefit the children involved.

driver was rewinding the hose and saw a spark. He then dropped the hose and ran. "He was going to attempt to shut off the emergency valve, but he never got it. He's lucky he wasn't killed by the explosion," he said.

The Niles Fire Department on Jarvis, located about a half a block away, helped minimize the damage. Firefighters used a heavy hose, dispensing 250 gallons of water per minute and cooled the tank truck to keep it from exploding. The fire was confined to wood pellets and plastic cases in the outside storage area.

About 200 Coca Cola employees were evacuated from the building and were allowed to return about 6 p.m. Occupants from the nearby Chicago Tribune Distribution Center were also evacuated.

A Niles fireman, Tim Neubauer, suffered minor injuries after he was apparently struck in the face during the blaze. After being examined at Lutheran General Hospital, Neubauer went back to the scene to fight the blaze, according to Kinowski.

He noted the 94 degree temperature made it difficult for firemen. "They suffered from heat exhaustion because of the protective clothing they wear and breathing apparatus. They did a good job."

Fire investigators want to determine where the leak occurred and the chain of events that caused the explosion and fire, Kinowski said.

At Troy's direction, the board approved an ordinance authorizing execution of the redevelopment agreement paving the way for a new shopping center that will be called Civic Center Plaza.

Bielh, who was present at the meeting, estimated the construction cost for the project would be in the neighborhood of $25 million-$30 million, with plans for about 60 stores. "If it all comes together, it will be a great development," he said.

The personal developer, who witnessed a barrage of questions from reporters, said he would like to retain three of the existing stores at Lawrencewood...the dry cleaners, car wash and the bank. "They will have to temporarily re-locate, but they have expressed interest in coming back to the center," he said.

Other plans include three more discount stores, soft goods shops and a restaurant, as well as another anchor store.

Bielh feels the Civic Center Plaza will draw people from other suburbs, saying Chicago is a great metropolitan area. "I was interested in purchasing Lawrencewood when I heard about the condemnation proceedings," he said.

Bielh noted he once lived on the south side of Chicago. "I plan to move from Denver and will have offices here at the Lawrencewood site," he said.

Mayor Nicholas Blase said he was happy about acquiring Lawrencewood which will pave the way for a new shopping center.

In discussing plans for the village's portion of the property, Blase said, "we will look into needs of the village in September, and then come up with a conceptual plan to develop the property," he said.

Lawrencewood is a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) district. It was proposed the village will issue $3,650,000 in tax increment bonds, with Bielh selling the bonds to a bank or other financial institutions to help defray the cost of improvements in the shopping center. The TIF district allows that money to be repaid and supplemented through future growth of real estate property value and sales tax revenue from the shopping center. The agreement calls for the developer to receive 50 percent of accrued TIF money to retire the bonds, and 50 percent to the village to use for public improvements.

redevelopment agreement with Niles, Bielh will give 7.9 acres of property to the village which plans to use the land for an administration complex and community theater.

According to Village Attorney Richard Troy, the judgment order calls for an escrow agreement for deposit of funds by Bielh (for purchase of the property) with a deadline of June 23.

Troy said under the redevelopment agreement, demolition of existing buildings at the shopping center will take place in August, with construction to begin Sept. 1. "All leases of existing tenants will be terminated with the exception of the post office," he said.

He added an 80,000 square foot OMNI operation of Dominick's Finer Foods (a new concept of selling food and discount general merchandise) will be a major tenant in the new shopping center that should open no later than November, 1990. Landscaping and other amenities should be completed by April 1, 1992.

Zoners ok homes for Forest Flame property

Following two continuances, a planned unit development at the former Forest Flame Restaurant property at 8100 Caldwell Ave. was approved by the Niles Zoning Board at Monday's meeting.

Approval was given after developers presented a plan that would alleviate drainage problems which would adversely affect neighboring residents.

Abby Builders proposes to build 12 homes on the 2 1/2 acre site and had requested several variances under PUD. Price range of the homes will be between $239,000 and $279,000.

The board had hired consulting engineer Michael Drey of Donahue and Associates at the developer's expense to address the drainage problems. Engineers from the village and Abby also were involved in coming up with changes that would provide better control of water runoff on the property...a bone of contention among residents west of the site.

Attorney John Pikarski, representing Abby, noted storm sewers would be located at the rear of the property and would be tied into the main sewer on Seward (west of the site). "The improvements will benefit the new homes and existing homes in the area," he said.

Engineers were in agreement the changes would provide more proper drainage for the development.

Developers also agreed to erect a five-foot cyclone fence on the east property line that will

Dolack named to Niles Zoning Board

Dorothy Dolack has been appointed a member of the Niles Zoning and Plan Commission to fill a vacancy created by Andrea Izykowski who resigned last week to devote more time to her accounting firm in Niles.

The announcement was made at Monday's meeting of the zoning board. Dolack was not present because of illness.

Dolack is vice president of the DuPage Die Casting Co. in Niles and a member of the Niles Chamber of Commerce. "I feel very fortunate in being chosen to serve the community I have lived in for 24 years," Dolack said Tuesday with an official welcome.

She added Niles is a good community and she would like to serve the best interest of residents as a commissioner on the board. "As a new member, I will be in the learning process and will try to maintain the high standards set by the board," Dolack said.

Water restrictions. . .

Larry Arft, village administrator for Morton Grove, was instructed by the City of Chicago that lawn sprinkling will be restricted to 5 a.m. to 8 a.m., and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. If the dry spell continues, more restrictions will be imposed, he said. Morton Grove is supplied by Lake Michigan water.

The Village of Skokie has not placed a water use restriction thus far...a village spokesman said.

The North Maine Fire Protection District which serves the unincorporated area of Des Plaines, has suggested a restriction on outside water use that would include car washing and lawn sprinkling.

A fire official explained that due to low water pressure, people living in high rise buildings are experiencing difficulty in flushing toilets and obtaining

Niles church celebrates centennial

Belden Regular Baptist Church in Niles will be celebrating its 100th Birthday the weekend of June 10-12, 1988. Many folk are planning to be in attendance for the festivities of this historical church. Former members and friends traveling from as far away as California to the west and New Jersey to the east, will join us in this time of remembrance and sharing.

Belden Avenue Baptist Church began its ministry at the northeast corner of Belden Avenue and Halsted Street on January 3, 1888. From that small beginning rose a congregation who's love for the Lord and dedication to service in the ministry has been passed on from generation to generation.

The church received word from the Urban Renewal Board of Chicago that they must move in February, 1968. The cities plans for the future were to widen Halsted Street. Under the leadership of Pastor Gordon L. Shippen, the church purchased two buildings and lots in Niles, in 1970.

Belden Avenue Baptist Church held its first service at the new church in Niles on January 21, 1973. Shortly thereafter it was recommended by the late Dr. Robert T. Ketcham that the church change its name to Belden Regular Baptist Church, in recognizing our fellowship with the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches.

Rev. Gerald P. Safstrom, our pastor, began his ministry here at Belden in October, 1976. Under Pastor Safstrom's ministry the congregation voted to purchase the property and building just to the north of the church.

grass under the exterior of an air conditioning unit at the Lawrencewood shopping center was already extinguished when firefighters arrived. There was no significant damage.

An alarm at the Forest Villa Nursing Home at 6840 Touhy Ave. was attributed to dust getting into a smoke detector while a vacuum cleaner was being used in the room.

A system malfunction activated an alarm at St. Andrew Home, 7000 Newark Ave. on June 1. A check of the building revealed no fire hazard.

The celebrations will begin on Friday evening with former pastor Rev. Robert Dyer as guest speaker beginning at 7:30 PM. Following the service there will be a time of fellowship in Ketcham Hall with emphasis on renewing old friendships and meeting new friends.

A banquet will be held at Allgauer's in Northbrook on Saturday, June 11. Guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. Paul Tassell, National Representative of the General Association of Regular Baptist Church.

Services and activities to be held on Sunday include Sunday School at 9:30 with former assistant pastor, Truman Robertson as our teacher. The morning worship service at 10:45 AM will be ministered by our pastor, Rev. Gerald Safstrom. Following a dinner break, the afternoon program will begin at 3:00 PM.
