The Village of Niles does not anticipate lifting the water sprinkling ban until the end of August, according to Keith Peck, Niles director of public services. Peck noted that with the exception of the July 16 rain, there has been little relief in the continuing dry spell. "We have no idea how long this will last and we want to conserve water as much as possible," Keith said. Residents are forbidden to

A proposed plan to construct two mausoleum structures near Niles College, 7101 Harlem Ave., were approved by the Niles Zoning Board despite some objections from neighboring residents at Tuesday's meeting. The request for special use zoning was made by the Rev. Patrick Pollard, director of Catholic Cemeteries, who said there was a need to provide other places for burials, such as special mausoleums. He explained the land where

by Bud Besser

Hot as it is, we should be writing about some cool summer fluff...about winging it down to the lakeshore, stripping and going skinny dipping in those nice cool 75-degree lake waters. But instead, to take your mind off the heat, we'd like to write about a bit of heavy government stuff which should be milled over by everyone who cares about their community.

This year, the Niles library district is raising taxes while the Village of Niles is lowering its rate. This is absurd. The same people who are being asked for more library money are getting a lessening of their taxes at the village level.

We called Niles village manager Jack Hodge who told us Illinois has the largest number of taxing districts in the country. There are 6,900 districts in Illinois compared to the second highest state, California, which has 3,800. He pointed out this number of districts breeds a great deal of inefficiency in government.

What prompted our call to Jack was our inquiry about the village contributing money to other districts. Jack said there are no restrictions

According to a court source,

Varney admitted to burglaries of residences in the 7500 block of Cleveland, 7500 block of Kedzie, 8200 block of Ozark, 8000 block of

O'Hare noise map may affect property values

George Gottlieb, Republican nominee for Congress in the 11th District, reacted to the announcement by Chicago Aviation Commission

John M. Dethloff

Cadet John M. Dethloff, son of Raymond P. and Donna M. Dethloff of 8712 Georgiana, Morton Grove, has been commissioned as a second lieutenant under the Army's Early Commissioning Program.

Dethloff is a student at Iowa State University, Ames.

missioner Howard Stanback that the city will file a map with the Federal Aviation Administration indicating jet noise levels around O'Hare airport. The release of the map for the noise study, called Part 150, is expected to cause some property values near O'Hare to drop by as much as 25%.

"I'm concerned about the affect that this study will have on property values in the areas around O'Hare," said Gottlieb. "Though no fault of their own, the people that worked hard to build equity in their homes now stand to lose considerable sums if this thing goes through. And I suspect that the FAA money will be used for home buyers to add another runway to O'Hare; that's the Chicago city administration's conception of noise abatement. In other words, I smell a rat."

Gottlieb was referring to the claim by the city to participate in the Part 150 noise study and secure Federal Aviation Administration funding for noise abatement programs. Stanback said he planned to file the noise map by August 5 because he has been told by the FAA that the validity of the 1986 data used to compile the map would expire after August 30.

Maine Beat

CONVENTION MEMOS...Nilestee Lillian White who recently served as a Paul Simon delegate at the Democratic Convention, will be remembered as the most photographed woman on the convention floor.

It was Lillian's hat that did it...that colorful hand-crocheted headpiece with beer can sides covered with political buttons, which has long been her trademark in Maine Township politics. However, little did she dream the hat would capture the attention of the foreign press and local television people. "People recognized me on the street from seeing me on television. It was an experience I will never forget," she said.

She was also photographed with media representatives from France, Sweden and Britain. Other photographs she treasures include pictures with John Madigan, Hugh Hill, U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, State Sen. Phil Rock and Mayor Eugene Sawyer.

Memories of the convention included seeing John Kennedy, Jr., who stirred up interest among the young Dem femmes, Joseph Kennedy, III, and Ted Kennedy. Also spotted on the convention floor were actress Morgan Fairchild and M.A.S.H. actor Mike Farrell.

Lillian had a chance encounter with Jimmy Carter and his wife, Roslyn, when they "popped out" from a door and into a hallway at the Omni. Although the Carters were willing to pose for a photograph, the Secret Service agents guarding the couple nixed the idea.

Stand-out parties she and her husband, Bill, attended included one at the Westin Hotel hosted by U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, where drinks and a sumptuous buffet were served as well as a train party given by Edward Rosewell, Cook County Collector, where guests took in the historic sights in a section of Atlanta. On their return, a catered luncheon was held in the depot accompanied by a Dixieland band.

Lillian noted at a party held at the Ramada Plaza, Edward Burke (Chicago alderman) and Phil Rock performed a duet of Irish songs. "Phil really has a good voice," she said.

Her memorabilia from the convention includes another 50 buttons, posters, autographs and other items. "It was all very exciting and I was happy to share this wonderful experience with my husband," she said.

Like Michael Dukakis, Lillian is looking forward to another big event...her first grandchild due in December. Parents-to-be are Bill White III (a Niles fireman) and his wife, Irena. "I guess I have something in common with Dukakis," she said.

Commends free bus as a 'terrific system'

Niles' first free bus driver retires after 15 years

by Sylvia Dairymple

Russ Reinke, supervisor of Niles Courtesy Bus System retired Friday, July 29, after 15 years of service to village residents.

Along with thoughts of moving to Florida with his wife, Alvina, to enjoy retirement years, Reinke reminisced about his years with the free transportation system which he termed "a terrific system" that services residents free of charge.

Reinke was the first bus driver hired by the village in 1973 after acquiring two buses from the Niles Park District in cooperative efforts to take over transportation operations from the park district. "Reinke was a bus driver at the park district and agreed to work for the village. He drove the bus for several years and was then made supervisor when the bus system started to expand," said Richard Albrecht, superintendent of public services.

Firefighters went to 9020 Washington Dr. on a report of smoke coming from an apartment. A check of the building showed no hazard.

A car fire on July 23 in front of East Coast Pizza, 9003 Milwaukee Ave. caused $2,000 damage. The fire started in the engine compartment.

Firemen extinguished a fire in a large outside container filled with burnt crackers at the Saleo-Megowen Biscuit Co., 7777 Caldwell Ave., on July 25.

Firefighters went to 8007 Foster Ln. to investigate a report of chlorine odor, but found no hazard. Possible cause was at-

Russ Reinke Albrecht added Reinke would fill in for drivers who were ill or on vacation. "He was very dedicated and everyone is going to miss him," he said. WHAT MAKES A GEM VALUABLE?

What makes a gem valuable? Gemstones are valued in part because of their beauty. The beauty of an apparently colorless diamond comes from the way it interacts with light, how it sparkles. For colored gems, beauty comes from color. Desirable color is a matter of taste. Some prefer the green of an emerald, for example, why others may prefer the green of peridot, sometimes described as lime-green. The goal for the cutter of peridot is obtaining the best color from the gem.

How durable a gem is also influences how valuable it is. Some gems need protection from blows and knocks. Peridot is such a gem, more likely to be set in a necklace or earrings, or if set in a ring, likely to be protected by metal. Just as fine silk is treated gently, so is this fine gem.

How much in demand a gem is affects its value too. Peridot, for instance, is a beautiful gem that has remained quite affordable because demand for it is not high. When people think of green gems, they think first of emeralds. Emeralds are generally much more costly than peridot.

The most important factor in determining the value of your gem is the pleasure it brings you. Try on a peridot and decide.

OUR EMPLOYEES WEAR THE SAME THING TO WORK EVERY DAY.

If you think about it, the photos in this ad could have been a little different.

It'd be quite natural to assume that our bankers wear the same grey pinstripes, white button-downs and yellow ties to work each day.

But while that may or may not be the case, the most important thing you'll notice about us has little to do with apparel. And more to do with our attitude.

That's why we've introduced the Satisfied Customer Guarantee.

True, it's not a new idea. We've been treating people right for years. Except now we're backing it up. Putting it in writing, as they say.

Which means, if you have a problem with us, we'll solve it.

Or if you have a question about any facet of our service, we'll gladly answer it.

And if for any reason you're not satisfied, we'll do everything we can to reach a solution.

The basic point being, we want you to be happy with us. No matter what.

'55 Alive/Mature Driving'

Whether we want to face it or not it is true, as the number of candles on our birthday cake increase, our abilities to hear, see and react quickly diminish.

The medications we take may further dull our senses and reflexes. Our memory of safety rules learned long ago inevitably fades. These factors lead drivers over 55 to have more accidents per mile driven than their younger counterparts.

Older drivers across the country are not letting these facts assign them to the passenger seat.

SPORTS NEWS

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings

Oddly, the new Phoenix Cardinals of the National Football League will be in the NFC EASTERN Division even though Phoenix is more than 2,000 miles west of the east coast!

Although there's never been a grandfather-father-son combination who've played major league baseball, that could change in a few years... There's a second baseman now at the University of Southern California, Bret Boone, who could make the majors... If he does he would be part of the first 3-generation family to play in the big leagues... His father, Bob, has been a major league catcher since 1972, and his grandfather, Ray, was an infielder in the majors from 1948 to 1960.

What was the single most dramatic moment in baseball history? A panel of experts recently selected the last minute of a game played Oct. 3, 1951... It was the final playoff game for the National League pennant between the Giants and Dodgers... With the Giants behind 4-2 in the last of the 9th, Bobby Thomson hit a 3-run homer to win the game, and the pennant, with one swing of the bat.

If you mention this ad after your deal is consummated (but before delivery) Jennings Chevrolet will deduct $50 from the purchase price of your new or used car. One deduction per transaction.

Little City sponsors benefit for Cubs

Chicago Cubs fans unable to beg, borrow, or steal a ticket to the team's first night game on Monday, August 8 can share the historic event with a couple of hundred fans at Ditka's Citylights, 223 W. Ontario, Chicago. Sponsor of "Let There Be Lights" is Little City, the Palatine community of 300 children and adults with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities.

The historic game pits the Cubs against the Philadelphia Phillies and manager Lee Elia. Elia, fans will recall, is famous for his tirade against Cub daytime baseball fans when he managed the team several years ago.

To recreate the atmosphere at Wrigley Field, hotdog, popcorn and beer vendors will provide refreshments. Fans will view the game on Ditka's Citylights' five large screens. Randy Hundley and other former Cubs are expected to drop in and reminisce about the days when the Cubs played only day games.

Tickets are $15. Free hors d'oeuvres are included. Gates open at 5:30 p.m. Mike Lederman is the emcee. Jimmy Damon will sing the national anthem. Hall of Fame broadcaster Jack Brickhouse is the event's honorary chairman. For more information, call Little City at (312) 282-2207.

Interesting Facts From John Jennings

Here's a strange fact from National Geographic: More snow falls in parts of Texas each year than at the South Pole. That's hard to believe, but it's true because as cold as the South Pole is, it gets very little snow.

According to research by the Smithsonian Institute, the legendary Davy Crockett never wore a coonskin cap in his life.

Days in late August were originally called "dog days" because that's when Sirius, known as the "dog star", appeared prominently in the sky.

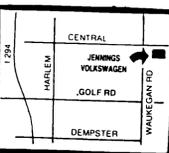

Surprisingly, although New York City has more population than many entire states, the county in which New York City is located, New York County, is the smallest county in the U.S. It's just about 22 square miles.

And, here's another interesting fact...

The Red Sox lost 16-13 but only after a spirited last inning rally fell short. Trailing 16-7, Chris Torres walked, then consecutive singles by Joey Krueger, Brian Fukuda, and Tom Kiehn began to close the gap. Dale Chang and Jim Gianakopoulos followed with walks but Dennis Garbis was robbed of a hit when his sinking fly ball was snared by the center fielder. Brian Haske drove in the two base runners with a hit to left field but was thrown out at the plate while trying for a home run. When the next Red Sox batter struck out the rally was stopped and the White Sox were victorious. Tom Kiehn had 3 hits for the Red Sox. Joey Krueger and Brian Haske both had 2 hits, one of Brian's was his first "home run". Defensively, Jason Bauer pitched another shutout inning, Jason pitched 5 innings in a tournament and never allowed a run to score. Stephen Stanley played a terrific center field, and

Congratulations to the Padres for winning both halves. Thanks to the coaches, Cliff Lenek, Yankees, Jeff Ellis, Mets, Rob Zabillow, and Pete Pontibes for an excellent year.

Dennis Garbis stole the show with a great catch in the first inning that was sheer larceny.

NORTRAN announces contingency plan in event of C&NW rail strike

NORTRAN (North Suburban Mass Transit District) will expand services to commuter rail and CTA rapid transit stations in the event of a strike on the Chicago & North Western (C&NW) railroad August 4.

According to Timothy J. Doron, NORTRAN General Manager, riders of the C&NW north line will be most interested in Rt. 213 (Highland Park-Evanston via Green Bay Road) and Rt. 214 (Deerfield-Northbrook Court-Evanston via Green Bay Road) which run along Green Bay Road to the Evanston Davis Street CTA station. "NORTRAN will add busses as needed to supplement the 30 minute rush hour and 60 minute midday service on these routes," said Doron.

For riders on the C&NW northwest line, the primary focal points for NORTRAN service during the strike will be rail stations in Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights and the rapid transit stations at River Road and Cumerland Avenue. Here is a summary of those services:

Rt. 690-Buffalo Grove-Arlington Heights via Arlington Heights Road) will operate along its regular route from Buffalo Grove to the Arlington train station. Additional busses will be available to transport passengers non-stop to the River Road CTA Station.

Rt. 234-(Wheeling-Randhurst-Des Plaines) will operate its usual schedule to the Des Plaines C&NW train station to permit passengers to transfer to either regular Rt. 230 or express shuttles to the River Road Rapid Transit Station. Both the special express and Rt. 230 will board transferring passengers to Ellinwood, south of the train station, approximately every 15 minutes.

Rt. 240-(Golf Mill-Park Ridge-Cumerland CTA Station) For Park Ridge and surrounding area residents and commuters that use the Dee Road Station, additional service will be provided as needed to the CTA Cumerland Avenue rapid transit station.

Rt. 221-(Cumerland C&NW Station-River Road CTA Station via Wolf Road) Additional service will be available to the River Road CTA Station to accommodate rail riders utilizing the Cumerland C&NW station.

The following are regular NORTRAN routes that feed into CTA rapid transit terminals:

Rt. 208-Evanston Davis Street Station-Old Orchard-Golf Mill
Rt. 209-Woodfield-Des Plaines Park Ridge-Harlem CTA Station
Rt. 210-Wheeling-Glenview-Skokie-Lincolnwood-Western CTA Station-North Michigan Avenue

Rt. 270-Glenview-Golf Mill-Jefferson Park via Milwaukee Avenue
Rt. 290-Cumerland CTA Station-Park Ridge C&NW Station-Howard CTA Terminal via Touhy Avenue

Express shuttles will be available at the Des Plaines terminal to transport passengers to the River Road rapid transit station.

Student accessories help to improve organizational skills

SCHOOL ACCESSORIES that will keep today's students organized this fall include fashionable locker shelving, student planners, portfolios and book bags from Class Act, available in department, discount and drug stores everywhere.

In the last few years, a number of books, seminars and training programs have sprung up to help busy American executives, business people and housewives get better organized. They all come to the same conclusion—being better organized means being more successful.

These same organizational skills are just as important for students entering their junior and senior high school years, according to Ruth Whitman, assistant director at the American Federation of Teachers.

"It's become evident for students as well as adults that clear and critical thinking are valuable skills that will be in increasing demand in the coming century," said Whitman. "Organizational tools that assist young people in developing these skills can be extremely valuable."

Yet, no matter how efficient a student organizing system is, it's useless if it doesn't get used. Which is why Worlds of Wonder, Inc., has developed the Class Act line of student organizational tools with a keen eye for fashion and style to accommodate the sophisticated tastes of today's image-conscious students.

"We want to give the same fashion, innovation and emotion to organizational school accessories that other manufacturers have brought to tennis shoes, sweatshirts and watches," said Paul Eibeler, general manager for Class Act.

From monitoring a hectic class schedule to deciding whether or not a Big Mac is in the calorie budget, Class Act's Student Planner/Organizer™ helps keep things straight with 128 pages of weekly and monthly calendars, world facts, maps, charts, fast food calorie counter and even doodle art. There's also ample space for students to record neatly class assignments, school schedules and social engagements.

Additional organizational products from Class Act include Stuff-It™, a highly stylized, all enclosed three-ring binder that helps students keep track of all their papers; Student Portfolio™, organizational folders in a number of hot, trendy designs; and Sack-It School Bags™, fashionable ice-washed denim book bags in three styles: A backpack, a duffel bag and a fashion tote.

Organizational accessories for student lockers include Express-It™, the first "on-campus" electronic message machine which attaches inside school lockers; Rack-It™, a locker shelving system that expands to fit most locker sizes and requires no tools for assembly; and Locker Mirror/Message Board™, a convenient and attractive 60x9 inch message board with a mirror for between-class style touch-ups and write-ups.

The back-to-school message from Worlds of Wonder is clear: Better organized students tend to do better in school. And fun, functional and fashionable Class Act school accessories are ideal for keeping today's on-the-go teen organized.

For information on additional Class Act products that can help students improve their efficiency with style, write to: Class Act, 4209 Technology Drive, Fremont, CA 94538.

its BACK-TO-SCHOOL time!

Going back to school can be fun: Here's how to keep returning students happy

The end of summer can pose a challenge for parents with school-age children. Although some children anticipate the new school year with great enthusiasm, others may be reluctant to face a new teacher and new demands, and many are just not ready to return to structure and responsibility.

Try to relate to your children by reaching back into your own memory of end-of-summer, back-to-school experiences. Summer passed by so quickly, and your feet began to drag at the thought of returning to school. But when your mother bought you a new notebook or bookbag, the idea of returning to school was easier to digest.

To ease your children's transition from summer to school, the back-to-school product specialists at Sheaffer Eaton have some suggestions for making back-to-school fun for your children:

• Buy fun school supplies! Remember, your child will use these every day—long after the initial excitement of the start of school. Today's school supplies show individual style and personality. Pens, folders and assignment planners come in a variety of styles and colors.

Sheaffer Eaton's range of fun pens including Les Pastels™, which feature a variety of fashionable pastel colors with a matching necklace cord. Or, your child can be a "Wild Writer™" with a Sheaffer pen in a leopard, giraffe, tiger or zebra design.

Students may choose to add a spectrum of report covers and two-pocket folders to their supplies. Designer Fun Folders™ come in bright colors with bold graphics.

For sports enthusiasts, Duo-Tang's new Sports Shots™ folders feature a FUN PACKAGE for the returning student this year, the Sheaffer Eaton Student Survival Kit contains everything needed to begin the school term, including the All-A-Glance™ Academic Planner, Sheaffer NoNonsense™ refillable ballpoint pen, two Duo-Tang™ two-pocket portfolios, and a 50-count Eaton Corrasable™ Bond tablet. It's a handy way to have supplies together in one convenient package.

• Topps® baseball cards on the covers, with players' statistics on the backs. Survival kits are "in" this year, as well as being an economical buy. Sheaffer Eaton's kit offers an academic planner, its NoNonsense™ ballpoint, two Duo-Tang two-pocket folders and typing paper. Keep one of the purchases a secret from your child to be given later as a surprise.

• The first day: Cook a special "back-to-school breakfast." Wrap the "secret purchase" as a gift, and let your child discover it at breakfast.

At the end of the first day, make sure to set aside special time for your child to tell you about his or her teacher and classmates, and to share feelings.

• Throughout the year: Try to continue the tradition of a special "before school" breakfast at least once a month. Encourage him or her to write a diary and, to help make it fun, keep your child supplied with personally-chosen, colorful pens.

During the year, remember to keep up the momentum with special days, and by replacing school supplies with colorful, fun items. It will help your child approach his or her education with enthusiasm.

Nowadays, it may be even more important to remember to help your child adapt to going back to school and encouraging him or her throughout the year.

A majority of households are headed by two working parents, and time becomes precious. But finding that extra half-hour or hour to instill a positive outlook about school will be time well invested.

A handful of practical pointers for taming the dreaded homework blues

It's that time again! While students everywhere prepare with great anticipation for the school year ahead by choosing a new wardrobe, trying out a different hairstyle or just looking forward to the adventure of a brand new semester, there is one rite of fall that they don't prepare for particularly, or look forward to, and that's the "H" word—homework!

Start this school year right by setting up a strategy for dealing with homework assignments and sticking to it. The experts at Faber-Castell, the most trusted name in school supplies, have a few tips that may help you tame the homework monster and actually end up a better student.

• Keep all your homework supplies in one spot. It will be easier to tackle creative assignments if you don't have to spend a half hour rummaging through your closet for a protractor.

When it's time to create those special maps, charts or graphs that will accompany your assignments, choose a quality product such as Rainbow Writer markers, that won't bleed through paper. Covering the entire spectrum of colors, these markers contain vivid washable watercolor ink in three versatile nib styles. Best of all, they come in a convenient plastic pouch that ensures that your markers won't end up scattered beneath your bed when you're through with them.

When you've settled down for a long night of studying remember to take a short break at least once every hour. Move around, stretch, even go outside for a short walk and a breath of fresh air.

You'll be surprised how much easier it is to absorb the material at hand when you give yourself a few minutes to escape from it. • Need a lift when your brain starts getting muddled from too many algebra equations? Break out of your yellow-pencil rut with Wild Woods pencils, featuring popular jungle prints in dazzling colors—the most fashionable pencil style to come along in years.

One warning, if you plan on bringing them to class, be sure to keep up on plenty of Wild Woods—you'd never guess how many of your classmates will be asking you if they can borrow a pencil.

• Why does homework make you so hungry? Could it be all that extra brain power you're using? Next time you get "homework munchies," instead of reaching for a sugary candy bar or soft drink that gives you a quick lift, but zaps your energy in the long run, try a natural snack like fresh fruit or yogurt.

Natural sugar gradually lifts your blood sugar while it keeps your energy high and your appetite under control. • Everyone knows the importance of note-taking. But have you ever tried to reread notes that were taken with a ball point pen that glopped ink everywhere. What a mess! Besides smearing all over your hands, sloppy-looking notes greatly diminish your enthusiasm for studying them.

To the rescue: Pony retractable ball pens. Besides their sporty graphic styling in contemporary pastels or sleek black barrels with bright color accents, Pony pens rotate with a simple pushbutton click, avoiding uneven wear and subsequent ink glopping.

Pony pens come with almost one and a half miles of writing, so you can keep up with even the most challenging teacher's notes.

• How to earn an "A" on your art projects? Don't forget to stock up on Uni POSCA paint markers. Available in vivid fluorescent colors that don't fade and are quick-drying, these markers are the ideal tool for creating memorable posters, signs, greeting cards and an entire array of craft projects. Your only limit will be your imagination.

• If you have a big assignment looming ahead of you, such as a term paper or a science project, don't procrastinate until you're cramming the night in the night before. Big projects are much easier to digest when you break them into smaller steps.

Set up a timetable and stick to it. Include in the timetable any library research or books that will be needed to finish the assignment.

As you reach each new step, you'll gain confidence in your ability to complete the assignment and you'll be done on time with a project you can be proud of.

With a little advance planning, the proper school supplies, and the right attitude, homework can be a rewarding learning experience for students of all ages.

HOMESCHOOL ASSIGNMENTS are a breeze when you have all your school supplies in one place for easy access. Count on Faber-Castell for the latest colors and styles in markers, pens, pencils and a wide variety of accessories to take you back to school in style.

Trick Photography lecture

Learn how ordinary pictures can be transformed into works of art from Bernard Krule, professor of Art at Oakton Community College, in a free lecture at Des Plaines mall on Thursday, Aug. 4.

"Trick Photography" will be presented from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in the lower level Community room of the mall, 700 Pearson St. During his speech, Krule will explain how techniques such as multiple exposure, color manipulation and multiple printing can give unusual effects to pictures.

Participants may eat lunch while listening or may purchase food at the mall. For information on the lecture, call 635-1812.

Niles North Bands earn honors

The list of accolades earned by the Niles North High School bands has become longer during the last few weeks. On July 4, North's marching band was named one of 3 outstanding units in the Skokie Fourth of July Parade.

The band consisted of about 35 members, all volunteers, who had rehearsed for approximately two weeks to prepare for the parade. Band members Jenni Torbeck and Abraham Lee organized the group.

An even bigger honor came recently from Washington D.C. The National Presidential Inauguration Festival Committee has invited the symphonic band and the jazz band to perform during Inauguration festivities next winter. "We're excited for ourselves and pleased that this community will be represented at such a prestigious event," said band director Elton Eisele.

Two months ago, the Niles North bands were named Grand Champion of the All American Music Festival in Orlando, Florida, with first place ratings for the symphonic band, the jazz band and the chamber orchestra, and a third place for the concert band. In addition, senior Becky Jones earned the title of the festival's Outstanding Orchestral Soloist, while trombonist Daniel Nahmod, also a senior, became the Outstanding Jazz Soloist. A total of 15 schools competed.

Honors Program participant

Niles North High School student Husain Sattar is participating in the University of the Pacific Summer Honors Program for outstanding high school students.

Sponsored by the National Science Fund Young Scholars Program, General Mills and the American Chemical Society, the Summer Honors Program is in its fourth year of offering advanced college-level courses to exceptional high school students, between their junior and senior year, who are considering careers in science.

Sattar attended "Recombinant DNA," a three-week course which addressed the theoretical and practical aspects of genetic engineering and the ethical and environmental concerns of gene manipulation. Sattar is currently involved in the second part of the Summer Honors Program, a five-week research project including experimentation in chemistry, biochemistry and cell biology.

According to Dr. Michael Minch, Summer Honors director and a UOP chemistry professor, this is the only program of its kind in the country. The students receive two units of college credit while attending accelerated courses offering sophisticated information through lectures and labs.

Regina students tour Washington

This is the third year that Regina students have participated in the tour sponsored by the Close-Up Foundation.

Childhood allergies: A guide for parents and teachers

Do you notice that your child or student seems to suffer from a "permanent cold"? Do your child's eyes and throat tend to become irritated? Does he or she experience fits of sneezing? Does the "cold" last for months? It may not be a cold at all.

There is a good chance that your child is one of 20 million plus children who suffer from allergies in the United States. Allergies account for 130 million lost school days every year for children aged six to 15 years.

"Unfortunately, some children with allergies aren't diagnosed correctly. Some are thought of as having low resistance and a tendency to get sick, when in fact they probably have an allergy," says Judith Acciani, R.N., Director of the Nasalcrum® and Opticrom® Allergy Information Center and Hotline.

The symptoms of a cold and an allergy are easy to confuse, but the following tips should help you to identify from which your child suffers.

- Colds are often accompanied by a fever, whereas allergies sufferers are seldom febrile;
- Allergies tend to cause itching in the eyes and nose, while colds seldom do;
- Throat and eye irritation, especially in the absence of fever or discharge, is more a symptom of an allergy than a cold;
- Colds sufferers tend to have congested noses, whereas allergy sufferers are most often blocked up in the winter and runny in the summer;
- Nasal discharge from a cold is usually thick, cloudy or yellowish, whereas nasal discharge due to an allergy is usually thin, clear and watery.

- Spradac sneezing is usually attributed to a cold, whereas allergies usually trigger constant and consistent bouts of sneezing.
- A cold usually lasts only a week or two, but an allergy may be persistent and recurrent.

Some tips to remember

Children with allergies need to feel that they can contribute and make the most of themselves, just like every other child. Attitude is a large part of treating an allergic child.

Parents, doctors, teachers, administrators and children must communicate and work together to ensure that a child can function as safely and comfortably in the school as at home.

Once you've identified that your child may suffer from allergies, the next step is treatment. Some over-the-counter drugs may cause drowsiness, nervousness, irri-ability, and rebound congestion and/or eye redness.

It is important that the child see a doctor or allergy specialist who can properly diagnose the allergy and prescribe the appropriate medications.

There are some things that you can do to make a child's life easier, even after proper diagnosis and treatment.

In the home

- To lessen exposure to dust.
- Use only synthetic pillows in your child's room;
- Use cotton or synthetic blankets instead of wool;
- To lessen pet dander:
- Keep the bedroom door closed to stop pets and dust from entering.

- To lessen exposure to pollen:
- Keep windows closed to prevent pollen from entering the house;
- In the summer, use a frequently-cleaned air-conditioner
- To lessen exposure to mold and dust:
- Avoid house plants and dried or silk flowers;
- Dry clothes immediately after washing, and vent the dryer to the outside.

In the classroom

If you have an allergy sufferer in the classroom, prevention is the key. Here are some things you can do:

- Try to keep an allergy sufferer's classroom free of pets—if possible have children visit them in other classrooms;
- Keep windows shut to prevent pollen from entering and getting stirred up;
- Try to avoid keeping plants or flowers in the room, as they tend to accumulate dust and mold;
- If you see dust, ask a custodian to clean the room, but check to make sure that the cleaning fluid won't aggravate the allergy;
- Don't clap erasers in the classroom or outside near open windows; keep chalk tray free of eraser dust.

Loyola pediatrician offers tips on bicycle safety

In 1988, an estimated 600 children under the age of 16 will die from bicycle-related injuries.

Loyola pediatrician Dr. Simon Ros says that many of these deaths can be prevented.

Dr. Ros, director of pediatric emergency medicine at Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood, says that the majority of serious bicycle-related injuries can be prevented with safety helmets; yet less than ten percent of children wear proper headgear.

"A small child has a head that is bigger, proportionately, to the rest of his body. When a bike stops suddenly, and the child is thrown, often the head, being the heaviest part of the body, breaks the fall," explains Dr. Ros. "The majority of these injuries can be prevented if the child is wearing a helmet."

Other common bicycle injuries, according to Dr. Ros, are blunt abdominal trauma, caused when a child smashes his abdomen on the handlebars, and severe lacerations or fractures, caused when feet and legs are caught in the bicycle spokes.

"The number of injuries from bicycle accidents each year is staggering," he says. "About 400,000 people will visit the emergency room due to bicycle injuries but there are about one million who will require medical care related to bike injuries." A significant percentage of these children, he adds, will include infants and toddlers injured while riding without a helmet in a parent's bicycle carrier.

"Biking has become the number one cause of sports-related injuries in children—far ahead of even football injuries," says Dr. Ros. The State of Illinois is fairly relaxed about enforcing bicycle safety, he adds, and does not require a biker to wear a helmet, nor does it enforce the use of bicycle lights and reflectors. It is up to the parent to assure that his or her child has the proper equipment and knowledge to safely ride a bicycle.

Dr. Ros stresses the importance of choosing equipment that is appropriate for the child. There are many helmets on the market that do not cushion a hard impact and thus offer little or no protection against serious head injury. According to Dr. Ros, when choosing a helmet, it should have: a full cover shell of either fiberglass or Lexan plastic; a styrofoam-like polystyrene liner to spread and absorb the force of impact; a strong strap and clasp; a reflective tape to increase visibility on the road; and a sticker indicating the helmet has passed impact testing standards.

"Parents can add to their child's safety by taking a common sense approach to bicycle riding," he says. "Choose a bicycle that is the right size for the child, not one he will grow into later, and explain to him or her that a cyclist must obey traffic regulations." He adds that most young children do not have the ability to fully grasp traffic rules and he recommends that children under the age of ten be advised to stay off the roads and stick close to home.

"Many serious injuries to children can be prevented. Organizations, such as the American Academy of Pediatrics, are working to pass stronger bicycle safety laws," says Dr. Ros. "Unfortunately, the United States is slow in giving bikers proper resources, such as bike paths. But if this trend of high injury continues, something will have to be done."

Regina grad receives Memorial Award

Jennifer Fairbairn, was presented with the second annual Roseanne Harrington Memorial Award and Regina Dominican High School's Convocation last week.

Instituted in memory of Roseanne Harrington, the honor student, musician, actress, and athlete who died shortly after graduating from Regina last year, the award recognizes a college-bound graduate who has an excellent academic record, and active involvement in music, theatre, and sports programs at Regina. "She should be a young woman who quietly yet steadily contributed to the quality life at the school," says Mrs. James Harrington, Roseanne's mother.

Jennifer, who sang with the Chamber Singers, performed in Regina's fall musicals, and managed athletic teams, will attend Miami University of Ohio this fall.

Americanism Awards made to schools

Announced at graduation as a well kept secret until then, local youngsters were selected by the Americanism Committee of the Morton Grove American Legion Post #134 for their annual Americanism Awards.

The committee was headed by past post commander John Slater. With congratulations, these are the students who were honored by the local Post: St. Isaac Jogues: Ronald Valino and Carol Mierkiewicz; St. Martha's: Joseph Belling and Dennis Remke; Golf: Nara! Ahn and Ivan Liang; and Park View: Michael Chang and Jeanie Kim.

Students are eager to use new computer technology

"The end of summer once meant 'back to the books' for most American students, but, this fall, more than ever before, 'back to the terminal' is the more appropriate thought.

In the classroom, just as in the home, personal computer use is on the rise, owing to expanding capabilities and increasingly attractive prices.

Students, more than any other group, have embraced computer technology with open arms, according to experts at Commodore Business Machines, a leading computer manufacturer.

Students at almost any level can turn an ordinary report or term paper into a dynamic, graphically exciting presentation," says Richard McIntyre, senior vice president, marketing at Commodore.

"With a powerful, yet easy-to-use, computer like our Amiga, assignments are simpler to compose, and to complete. Using the graphics capabilities of a machine like the Amiga, the resulting report will stand out from the rest of the crowd."

Oakton course teaches effective reading techniques

Developing strategies is the key to good reading, according to Pam Drell of Oakton Community College. A professor of English since 1974, Drell says that a fast reader is not necessarily a good reader. She also feels that there are a few myths among students about reading.

"A common misconception is that students don't think they have to review after they read. Most of them read only under pressure. Because they don't know how to read the right way, they don't like to read. Effective reading is not something that is traditionally taught like math or history," Drell said.

"There is also a wrong notion among students that if they can read 2,000 words a minute they are considered good readers. This is not so. Many of them just quickly read and re-read not having understood nor grasped any information."

This fall, Drell will teach two levels of reading courses which will instruct students to develop techniques for effective reading. "Reading Improvement" (EGL 001) is open to individuals who have tested into the course. Beginning the week of August 22, this course will be offered during the following times and days at Oakton, 1600 E. Golf Rd., Des Plaines and Oakton East, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie; 9:30 to 10:20 a.m. (section 001) on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at Oakton; 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. (section 002) or 6 to 7:15 p.m. (section 003) on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Oakton; 8 to 9:15 p.m. (section 004) on Mondays and Wednesdays or 7:30 to 8:45 p.m. (section 004) on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Oakton East.

"Effective College Reading" (EGL 110) is for persons whose rates of reading and comprehension need boosting. The course will be offered from 10:30 to 11:20 a.m. (section 001) on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at Oakton; 9:30 to 10:45 a.m. (section 002) on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Oakton; 4:30 to 5:45 p.m. (section 003) on Mondays and Wednesdays at Oakton; 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. (section 003) or 6 to 7:15 p.m. (section 001) on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Oakton East.

In the Reading Improvement course, Drell will emphasize the development of personal reading strategies to increase understanding. Individual and group instruction in the classroom and learning lab will help students to be better readers.

The Effective College Reading course includes lectures, discussions and exercises to accelerate reading speed and improve comprehension. Students will learn reading strategies to succeed in college and careers.

Drell said that many students have felt a big difference in their reading patterns after taking her course. Rich Nelson of Des Plaines, a returning adult at Oakton, has gained added confidence in his reading ability as a result of a reading course.

The reading pattern of Bill Sibert, a liberal arts student and a Des Plaines resident, was unglancing at the words, paying no attention to titles or subtitles. After taking an effective reading course, Sibert has trained his eyes to be more effective.

Registration will be accepted through August 16. Late registration will take place from August 22 to 25. To register, call 635-1700. For course information, call Drell at 635-1920.

Pack them off to school like a pro

Mom and Dad can be a big help in relieving some of the anxious moments regarding moving of their college-bound's personal belongings from their familiar home to their campus home. Looming large ahead of them are the mountain of clothes, records, tapes, sports equipment and electronic components. Pro-Pak, the professional packers and shippers located at 527 Dundee, Northbrook (272-0408/9), are experts who have routinely and logistically assisted thousands of young people to successfully take their first big step away from home-look, stock and guitar.

"I had one woman call me," recalled Dan Kravitz, youthful owner of Pro-Pak, "who said she wanted us to pick up three cartloads of her daughter's possessions which were dumped in the middle of the living room which we did. All we needed was her new address at college."

"We can do it that way (by pick-up) or having everything brought into Pro-Pak. A familiar sight in our offices is the multitude of giant-size plastic garbage bags containing items to be sent to college."

"We also stock a variety of boxes and tubes and will sell them separately without the packing service. They also sell styrofoam, peanuts and pettets, bubble wrap, additional cardboard and tape for the do-it-yourselfers."

The great students transfer breaks down into three steps: 1) getting the packing materials, 2) packing and 3) shipping it.

If you do the packing yourself, observe the following standards suggested by packers and carriers, Kravitz advises:

- Use a strong, clean corrugated box and do not exceed the weight maximum printed on the bottom.
- Do not wrap the box in paper. If it tears, the address may be lost.
- The exception: if you pack electronic equipment in its original box with factory packing, which is in fact the ideal way, wrap the box in paper so as not to tempt theft. Put the address on the box as well as the outer wrapper.

- Do not use string, masking tape or paper tape. Recommended are heavy plastic packing tape and strapping tape with nylon threads embedded in it.
- Mark the destination and return address clearly but only once.
- Shake the box. "A loosely packed box is the worst," cautioned Kravitz. "It will crush when stacked."

If all you are sending is clothing, boots, pocket calculators, you can bring everything back to the packing service for forwarding.

If you are taking a bike, skis, electronic equipment, Kravitz advises the following:

- Bicycles: Unless you ride it or strap it to your car, your bike isn't going anywhere until it is partially broken down and boxed.
- Materials and service plus assembly manual are $18.50 at Pro-Pak. If the students is flying a boxed bike can go through as baggage. Even with an excess charge, it beats the $40 to $100 shipping by Greyhound or air freight.
- Bikes don't usually fit the UPS size requirements, which are 108 inches total length and girth (measured length plus twice the width plus twice the depth).
- Skis: Like bikes, go as baggage, if flying. Otherwise Pro-Pak will pack them up for $14.95 in their patented carton which also holds poles, boots and binders.
- Televisions, stereos, computers, typewriters: If you have the original packing, use it. Other wise a smallish stereo can be bubble packed by Pro-Pak. Speakers have to be boxed separately. For ultimate safety, Pro-Pak has the machinery to spray foam around a stereo, musical instrument or art work, which then hardens to customized styrofoam cushioning.

Students travelling by car can cut costs by shipping clothing and bringing the heavy items. Pro-Pak, with its full range of materials and services evinced a real enthusiasm for doing the job in the most efficient economical way.

So, if your prized items might be 6-foot tall stuffed toy animal or football trophies, irreplaceable records or favorite oversize fluffy bedroom slippers, Pro-Pak will pack everything for you, arrange for shipping and insurance, and have your belongings delivered to the door of your dorm room or new home, whether it is in Cairo, IL or Cairo, Egypt.

"Our good record is what sets us apart from standard shipping companies, and makes it worthwhile not to pack fragile goods yourself," concluded Kravitz.

Safer back-to-school buys Early diagnosis of learning disabilities can help to prevent behavioral problems

Children want everything new for the first day of school. But even school supplies should be checked carefully for safety before they are purchased.

Some items, such as Elmer's Glue-All, School Glue and Sno-Drift Paste, are known to be non-toxic and non-flammable.

Safety scissors are easy for little hands to hold and less likely than adult scissors to lead to trouble.

Look for reflective stickers for backpacks to children can be seen by drivers on dark mornings and in bad weather.

Avoid anything small enough to swallow or sharp along the edges. Many otherwise harmless items, such as mechanical pencils, are not suitable for children who might poke out an eye or get them under their skin.

Most product labels will tell you if they are unsafe for children. Read the labels carefully and teach your child to respect his new belongings for a safer "back to school."

25 percent of today's kindergarteners expected to drop out before year 2001

This September, the class of the year 2001 begins kindergarten. But how many of those students will drop out of school before they get a chance to flip the tassels over on their graduation caps?

According to Connie Eno, president of the New York State affiliate of the National Education Association, the prospect of graduation between now and the turn of the century are bleak for millions of American students. And what's needed to turn the tide, at least as much as reforms in the schools, is parental involvement in their children's education.

"The proportion of students who fail to complete their high school education is now over 27 percent nationally," noted Eno, adding that, "in some areas and among some groups—especially in inner cities, among minorities—the rate soars as high as 80 percent."

If current trends persist, she said, the proportion of children who do not finish high school will grow each year in the foreseeable future. NEA projects 11,270,000 students by 1990. By conservative estimates of the dropout rate, that means almost three million students in that year's class never will graduate.

"It's a disgrace in America, where we have the highest standard of living in the world, that we let so many students fall through the cracks without completing a basic high school education," Eno said.

Eno pointed to a recent Gallup poll that indicates that the American public is not blaming the educational system for the dropout problem in our country's schools. Most of the public perceives the dropout situation as a family problem, she said.

"More than twice as many people blame the dropouts and their families (61 percent) as blame the educational system (25 percent)," she said.

Teachers surveyed held similar views: A majority see the dropout situation as a family problem (65 percent), while only one in six places the blame on the educational system (18 percent).

Even though the public and teachers perceive the dropout problem to be based in the home, the action thought to be most effective in dealing with it combines efforts of the home and school, Eno said.

Fr. Chen seeks continued support from friends

Summer is now at its peak and soon we will be heading for September and school will be starting again. I am very grateful to the many friends who shared their blessings with us this past fiscal year. Friends all over the greater Metropolitan Chicago area, friends in the Northwest suburbs like the readers of the noble publication "Bugle."

When we think of sacrificial giving it is usually in relationship to one's own parish. However, there is often a far greater need in the world than one's own parish. It is precisely through such understanding that many less fortunate communities are blessed by the charity of others.

Fr. Anthony Chen

God's world is basically the same all over, though not all parts are equally blessed. I can say for myself that living on the near South side of Chicago is sometimes like being in a desert. Life at St. Therese Mission is far from being self-sufficient and there is a constant financial worry. It is no joy to live in want every day, but poverty is part of God's design for life and nothing to be ashamed of. Poverty does serve a purpose in that it gives others—the more fortunate—a chance to practice the virtues of compassion and love.

Nilesite commends Park on July 4th festivities

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on an article in your paper, from July 21, regarding Mayor Blase and the village trustees being displeased with the July 4th parade this year.

I had attended again this year with my 3 children, this being our 5th year in Niles. However, this was our 1st year of participating in the parade. I rode in the Niles Family Service float with my two younger kids and my older son walked with his Niles Hockey Rangers group. I felt the crowd really enjoyed the parade and the floats.

I was very disappointed to read that the Mayor didn't approve of the "supplemental entertainment". We were with a group of about 25 people and we all enjoyed the Buckingham's! Everyone there seemed to feel the same way. We sang and danced while standing in the grass. The children also enjoyed the petting zoo and pony rides and the refreshments. It was a great day for young and old.

I think Elaine Heinen and her committee should be praised for the parade and activities. She has done so much for the town of Niles. Thanks Elaine! (Congrats also on your successful Niles Fest. It was the best ever!).

Magnetic Resonance Imaging at Resurrection Hospital

Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), medical science's newest diagnostic tool, will soon be a reality at Resurrection Hospital as installation of the 5 1/2 ton MRI magnet unit and its imaging facility is completed this spring.

The huge MRI magnet, which was lowered by crane into its newly constructed location of the ground floor of the Resurrection Professional Building this winter, will aid physicians in shedding light on many problems and abnormalities in body tissues, nerves and bones.

The imaging process combines the use of a superconductive magnetic scanner, radio frequency waves and computerized graphics to provide high contrast images of soft body tissues without interference by overlying bones, according to Dr. Stasia Frank of Resurrection's Specialized Imaging department.

In addition to viewing these soft body tissues, MRI also "sees" cervical disc disease, spinal vascular malformations, abdominal and pelvic soft tissue growth, bone disease, cartilage tears, small abnormalities in the heart and major blood vessels.

While many medical specialists are anticipating the MRI's operation, Gregory Fahrenbach, orthopedics, notes that the addition of the MRI unit will enhance diagnostic capabilities by enabling specialists to see muscles, cartilage and tendons more clearly. And he believes the differentiation between bone and soft tissue will be clearer with the MRI scan.

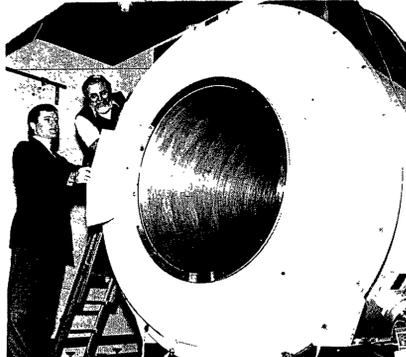

"The ability to view body tissues helps to identify metabolic changes associated with ongoing diseases like avascular necrosis or bone disease," he stated. "Conventional X-rays and CT scans show images and structures, but the MRI scan shows the metabolism change of that tissue."

Orthopedic applications for the MRI include identifying disc disease, herniated discs, rotator cuff damage, differentiation of both diseases, knee problems such as meniscal tears and back injuries.

"The exciting part about orthopedic and other MRI applications is that we are just beginning to understand its capabilities," Dr. Fahrenbach added. "It is certain that we'll discover new applications and findings the more we use the MRI scanner."

Whiplash - A Job For Chiropractic

You've had an accident. Maybe it involves your car and it's banged up. Now what?

Well, let's see. Call the insurance company and report the damages; take the car in and get the necessary estimate; see if you can get a loaner; get the job done.

And try not to think about that sore neck...or back...or leg...or knee...or shoulder. The pain will probably go away in a few days. Won't it?

Unfortunately, in the case of a whiplash neck injury, the symptoms may not appear for several days or even weeks following an accident. By then you may not even associate the stiff neck, persistent headaches, irritability or nausea with their real cause—that bent fender which has long since been repaired.

Approximately 85 per cent of the cervical disorders we've studied have been the result of auto accidents. Most of these injuries were due to whiplash occurred in rear-end collisions. The violent backward snapping, then forward rolling motion of the head following impact puts a tremendous strain on the neck. Torn muscles, stretched ligaments and spinal damage frequently occur.

Time is not on your side in the case of whiplash injury. Left untreated, the condition will only worsen, often developing into severe migraine headaches, extreme nervousness, insomnia or arthritis.

The victim of a whiplash neck injury is truly in need of appropriate treatment and care, the type of care offered by Chiropractic. As a specialist in problems of the spine, nerves and muscles, the Doctor of Chiropractic is recognized as well qualified to deal with whiplash injuries. Unfortunately, too many don't know this.

We trust this article will help to familiarize you with the scope and method of Chiropractic and its application to whiplash injuries.

And we hope you'll tell others that prompt action can make the difference between a speedy recovery and a lifetime of suffering.

The Business Picture

Savings of America mosaic depicts Morton Grove history

Adorning the entrance to the new Savings of America building located at 8745 Waukegan Road, is a unique mosaic mural depicting a 19th century fireman with a handlebar mustache and an early Morton Grove Fire Department truck.

Morton Grove now joins the ranks of over 100 other cities in which local color or history has been honored by Savings of America mosaics.

Beginning in 1963, Home Savings of America, a parent company of Savings of America, incorporated mosaic designed in many of its California locations.

When Home Savings of America expanded its operations outside of California with Savings of America locations, the mosaic tradition continued with mural creations in Florida, Texas, Missouri, and now Illinois.

The mosaic design group first associated with Home Savings of America was Millard Sheets Designs in 1963. The mosaic fabrication for the Morton Grove mural was accomplished by Denis O'Connor of O'Connor Mosaics, a former partner of Millard Sheets.

Originally, the murals were fabricated in Italy and assembled in America. In 1960, Denis O'Connor joined the Millard Sheets Design group bringing the expertise that allowed the murals to be fabricated thereafter in California.

Artist Susan Lautman Hertel of New Mexico created the painting from which the Morton Grove mosaic mural is based. The theme of Ms. Hertel's painting depicts a 19th century fireman with a handlebar mustache and an early Morton Grove Fire Department truck. Ms. Hertel has been associated with creating mosaic mural artwork for Home/Savings of America for the past 20 years.

Local Savings of America management provided the artist with historical information obtained from local historical societies.

The design and fabrication of a mosaic mural is a many-stepped procedure. A series of 35 mm slides are made from a small-scale color sketch of the mural design. These slides are projected onto a full-size sheet of paper, and drawn with pencil. The development and detail required for the finished, full-scale drawing is generally 3-5 weeks.

After the full-scale drawing is completed, a reverse-image drawing is made onto a heavy, brown paper, which serves as the backing for the actual mosaic tiles, or "tesserae".

The brown paper is cut into small, irregular sections, much like a jigsaw puzzle, and the glass tesserae are cut and applied to the design with a water-soluble glue. This procedure requires infinite patience and artistry. Because the murals are created a section at a time, and in reverse, the mosaic artist must be able to think of the overall, large, positive-image scale while working on the details. In addition,

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to "An Act in relation to the use of an Assumed Name in the conduct or transaction of Business in the State," as amended, that a certification was filed by the undersigned with the County Clerk of Cook County.

File No. K111998 on July 11, 1988 Under the Assumed Name of Pacific Business Co. with the place of business located at 7935 Wilson Terrace, Morton Grove, IL 60053 the true name(s) and residence address of owner(s) is: Sui-Kchen Chen, 7935 Wilson Terrace, Morton Grove, IL 60053; Chyi-Cheng Chen, 7935 Wilson Terrace, Morton Grove, IL 60053.

tion, particularly with metallic-coated tesserae, the front-side color of some materials is entirely different than the color visible from the back.

The mosaic materials used consist mostly of small, rectangular glass tesserae (5/8" x 3/8" x 1/4") known as Byzantine Small. These are imported from Venice, Italy, and are the same materials used for centuries in Italian and European mosaics. The Byzantine tesserae provide the widest range of colors and hues.

Other materials used are 3/4" square glass tiles and irregular pieces of polished marble.

Upon completion of the mosaic in the studio, the paper-backed sections are tagged, numbered, diagrammed, and carefully packed for shipping to the job site, where the entire mural is re-assembled on the floor prior to installation.

Law Degree recipient

Steven W. Katten, of Skokie, received his Juris Doctor Degree recently from The John Marshall Law School in Chicago.

Katten, received his undergraduate degree in Psychology from Arizona State University in 1985.

While at John Marshall he was an Ambassador in the Student Bar Association.

It can sometimes take eight-to-ten hours to complete a square-foot of mosaic.

The meticulous work of setting the mosaic must be performed by a Master Tiler, Herman Schock, who has installed more than 50 mosaic murals for Denis O'Connor Mosaics. Mr. Schock was flown to Morton Grove to undertake this monumental task. Mr. Schock is one of the few experts in the world today proficient in mosaic installation.

After a mosaic bed is prepared to receive the mosaic, each "jigsaw" piece is back-buttered with cement, set in position, paper side out, and beaten flat with a small marble block. When each section has been positioned correctly, the paper backing is soaked, peeled, and the glue removed to reveal the brilliant glass colors of the finished mural.

With mosaics, round shapes have to be created by square tiles. Pattern and shape become as important as color in mosaics, says Denis O'Connor. "Otherwise, the pictures end up looking like bathroom walls."

O'Connor was born in Seaham, County Durham, England in 1933. He attended the College of Art in Sunderland, England, and also the Royal College of Art in London. In 1960, Mr. O'Connor emigrated to the United States.

Susan Hertel was born in Evanston, Illinois in 1930. She is a graduate of Scripps College and has studied at Kann Art Institute in Los Angeles. Currently, Ms. Hertel resides in New Mexico where she is concentrating on painting while creating occasional mosaic mural designs for Home Savings of America.

Porter moves to protect commuters from impending strike

(Washington, D.C.)— Congressman John Porter (R-10th) today introduced legislation to prevent an August 4 strike by members of the United Transportation Union (UTU) against the Chicago & North Western Transportation Company (C&NW) that would halt commuter trains on three C&NW lines and result in what he called "a transportation nightmare." Porter said the continuing disagreement between the UTU and the railroad regarding the number of brakemen needed on C&NW freight trains "must not be allowed to disrupt vital commuter service used by tens of thousands of people."

The five-term Congressman said that such a strike would result in chaos on area roadways, as most commuters deprived of regular train service would be forced to drive to work, jamming the Edens and Kennedy expressways.

Porter urged the UTU and the railroad to resolve their differences before August 4, saying that "it would be unfair and irresponsible to use commuter service as a bargaining chip in negotiating a freight dispute." Earlier this month, both the C&NW and the UTU rejected a non-binding proposal issued by the Presidential Emergency Board. Porter said that if the railroad and the union fail to reach agreement by August 4, his legislation, brought to the House floor under an expedited procedure, would make the Emergency Board's plan binding on both parties.

"Although I dislike intervention by the federal government," Porter said, "we cannot stand idly by while 41,000 people, 30,000 of whom live in my district, are caught in the middle of a disagreement totally unrelated to commuter service. In my judgment, the union is engaging in 'featherbedding' by attempting to salvage positions that are not needed in modern freight train operations. While I strongly hope that the two sides can reach agreement and avert a strike, they must understand that Congress may act if they fail to do so."

Gottlieb Denounces Annunzio's vote

George Gottlieb, Republican candidate for Congress in the 11th District denounced Frank Annunzio for his vote on the home health care proposal. The proposal, which Annunzio supported, was soundly defeated in the House on June 8. The bill was criticized by many House members for not receiving necessary scrutiny by the proper committees.

"The problems of health care for the elderly require innovative solutions and new thinking," continued Gottlieb. "Raising taxes and passing the burden of greater national debt down to future generations of Americans is typical of the way Frank Annunzio has conducted business in Congress for the last 20 years. It's time to stop spending and start working."

"Health care has to be looked at in terms of cost-effective quality care, self-directed health education, health care insurance and private sector involvement, which will do a better job. To commit 30 billion dollars to a plan that probably would not work is ludicrous. Home health care for the elderly is too important a matter to place in the hands of another bloated government bureaucracy."

Valentino/Pucinski campaign office opens

Richard Valentino, Democratic candidate for State Senator (7th District) and Aurelia Pucinski, Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court will host the grand opening of their district office, 6206 N. Milwaukee ave., on Saturday, Aug. 6, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

"I urge residents of the northwest side to join candidate Pucinski and myself in celebration of the opening of our campaign office at 6206 N. Milwaukee ave.," Valentino said. "This is the official opening of our headquarters which will serve as a base for a vigorous and victorious campaign for the next three months," he said.

Invited dignitaries include Alderman Tom Callerton (38th); Tom Lyons, Democratic Committee Chairman; Sen. Philip Rock, President of the Illinois Senate; Alderman Patrick Levar (45th) and Congressman Frank Annunzio, (11th District).

Persons interested in volunteering for the Valentino campaign should contact Bob Blackwood at 685-7100 or 763-7424.

Sen. Philip Rock, President of the Illinois Senate; Alderman Patrick Levar (45th) and Congressman Frank Annunzio, (11th District).

Kustra named to summit

State Sen. Bob Kustra (R-28) has been named to the Governor's Education Summit, a group established to help hammer out compromises on Chicago school reforms.

"As the General Assembly session goes into the final days, it is clear that the situation in the Chicago schools is truly the pivotal point in all negotiations for education reforms and a possible tax increase," Kustra said. "Governor Thompson and many legislators want more funding for schools, but there is no consensus on how to improve the Chicago school system, I see little chance of more state money."

Kustra has a measure (SB 2261) which was approved in the Senate and awaits action in the House that would reorganize the Chicago school system and return control to parents and local taxpayers. His plan calls for splitting the giant system into 20 separate districts that would operate like other districts in the state. School boards would be elected rather than appointed.

"Obviously I think this is the best plan for resolving the Chicago problems, but we members of the summit will be taking a good look at all the plans that have been offered to improve the Chicago schools," Kustra said. "There is one issue which cannot be compromised—that is giving voters the right to elect their own school boards, who in turn can recognize and negotiate with their teachers." The summit has three House and three Senate members from each party. Deputy Governor Jim Reilly heads the panel, which is expected to meet early next week.

Senator Carroll honored

Senator Howard Carroll (D-1st District) of Chicago was recently honored for his concern and support of public higher education by the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities (BOG) at the Fifth Annual Legislative Board Event in Springfield.

The Board sets policy for five state universities: Chicago State University; Eastern Illinois University, Charleston; Governors State University, University Park; Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago; and Western Illinois University, Macomb.

regarding such gifts. He noted the village has given money in the form of a grant for the purchase of the library district's parking lot on Waukegan and Oakton Streets. He also pointed out the village has donated money to the park district annually for its parade and has donated money for the purchase of a park motor coach bus.

The village is super-rich with money which flows in from the shopping centers in town. Sales tax returns to the village are well over $5,000,000 a year. Meanwhile, the library district has a gut-busting problem of staying alive with the meager funds it has. Yet, the same people who are recipients of the sales tax bonanza become the poor relations when it comes to the library.

The answer to the problem is to consolidate the library district with the village district. Likewise, joining the park district with the village district would also reap much more of a money bonanza for Niles recreational needs. But, this is not likely to happen. Each district protects its own fiefdom and prefers to operate independently. Since the multi-district community is likely to remain this way, the only other answer to aiding the same people, the residents, would be for the village to give an annual grant-in-aid to each district.

With all the money flowing into the village's coffers, Niles has been purchasing parking lots on Milwaukee Avenue as well as spending $600,000 for property at Touhy and Milwaukee Avenues. The Village is not in the real estate business. Instead, it has been created to provide its residents with services. How much better it would be if the $600,000 was distributed to the library and the park districts to improve and increase their activities.

In a couple of years from now, Lawrencewood Shopping Center will be sending bundles of money down to the village hall when the new center has been re-built. Wouldn't it be great if that sales tax revenue could be funneled to the park and library districts for their use? Money for recreation and books sure beats money for parking lots. The next Einstein might be nurtured in Niles library. He certainly won't come from zooming a car around Niles parking lots.

The sensible course of action would be for some group in town to seek to consolidate all the districts into one district. But since no one seems to have that interest, the next best answer would be for the village to annually donate some of its money to each district. The same people are being served by each of the districts. Why should they be disadvantaged because of the archaic multi-district system we now have?

Open up your village wallets, Mr. Blase and Company! It's time your poor cousins at the library and parks shared in some of Niles wealth.

We received several calls about the July 21 story about the "Panty burglar has brief encounter". It seems we have a lot of readers who enjoy a good headline when they see it. Not only were our readers discerning but WLS radio picked up the story, crediting The Eagle, and gave its listeners a chuckle over the headline.

update date from the 1980 census. Summary and Conclusions

- About three quarters of respondents indicated that they had visited the Library 3 or more times in the past year.
- On average, Skokie residents visit the Library 15 times a year.
- 79% of the respondents have Skokie Public Library cards.
- Recreational or pleasure reading is the reason most often cited for use of the Library, although 45% of the users turn to information, nearly one-third use the Library for school-related work and one in five for business-related concerns.
- Of various services available from the Library, participants were most aware that they could obtain assistance in finding materials or answers to questions. They were least aware that the Library circulates compact discs.
- Those who do not use the Library considered specific Library services to be as important as did Library users.
- Half or more of respondents have obtained assistance in finding materials or answers to questions; viewed an art exhibit at the Library; borrowed a popular book; asked a reference question by phone; borrowed a videocassette; obtained a back issue of a magazine and attended a concert at the Skokie Public Library.
- Participants rate the Library's staff, collection and its reference service highly, but they would opt for more parking.
- Nearly one-third of respondents who subscribe to cable television have watched the Library Channel 22.
- Nearly one-third of Library users own a microcomputer at home.
- 19% of respondents have lived in Skokie less than five years while 64% have lived in Skokie 11 or more years.

The Skokie Public Library appreciates the time respondents took to participate in the survey. The survey demonstrates that the Library is perceived favorably in the community. Thus, continuing to provide excellent service, good resources and knowledgeable personnel is a priority.

His wife Joi Ann was charged with possession of stolen property, according to police. Police said the person who gave the tip told them there were three adults in the car, leading police to believe another person was in the area.

Police went back to the neighborhood where the car was first seen and saw Varney run out of the back door of a house in the 8200 block of Ozark. Police said they found several items, including a television set at the back door of the house.

After being brought to the station, Varney at the time admitted to four burglaries and was charged with the same, police said.

sprinkle between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Peck said on July 15, the village used 7.3 million gallons of water because of the hot weather and the next day when it rained, the consumption level was 5.1 million. "The drop in demand was because residents did not have to sprinkle their lawns," he said.

Niles has a 12 million gallon capacity to serve its consumers. The average residents consume about 4.5 gallons daily which has increased with the dry spell. The village receives its water supply from the City of Chicago.

Peck said there were some temporary problems with circulating water to several north side homes from the village's south side supply. "The cause was attributed to residents sprinkling lawns at the same time, so we suggested residents should get together and work something out to change that," he said.

He added a recommendation will go to the village to put in a larger water main in that area to alleviate circulating problems. "We are always trying to improve the efficiency of the water system in the village," he said.

Police have issued only one ticket for failure to comply with the village's watering ban, according to Niles Police Chief Ray Giovannelli.

Giovannelli said the department maintains a computerized list of residents who have been warned to comply, adding after a second warning, a violator can be fined $25.

"The resident ignored the second warning and was issued a ticket. On the whole, residents have been doing a good job

Mausoleums...

Niles College is located in part of St. Adalbert's Cemetery. "The cemetery began in 1872 at Harlem and Touhy and part of the land was later set aside for the former St. Hedwig's Orphanage, now Niles College," he said.

Plans were unveiled to construct an open garden-style four-section building topped by a skylight to protect the mausoleum from rain and snow. An arcade would connect the building complex and lighting would be installed in each building for security reasons, according to Christopher Mekus of the architectural firm of Mekus-Johnson Inc. of Chicago.

Mekus said one of the mausoleum structures would be located east of the college on four acres of land, and the other west of the subject property with the same acreage. Each mausoleum would contain 6,100 crypts. Mekus added construction would be in two phases, with the west side structure completed in 1990. Landscaping plans include trees and bushes to screen the buildings from the residential area.

A resident in the 7200 block of Greenleaf in Chicago prefaced his remarks by saying he did not like to oppose the church concerning the mausoleums, but homeowners thought they should be located closer to St. Andrew's Home for the Aged, (south of the subject property), putting them some distance away from the residential area.

About 10 residents from the Greenleaf-Lunt-Howard area attended the meeting. The board assured the residents the landscaping of trees and bushes would provide an effective screen for the nearby residential area.

In other business, the board approved a request by the Lakeview Korean United Presbyterian Church to construct an addition to the former Woodrow Wilson School for church affiliated meetings at 857 Harrison St.

According to Attorney Paul Kolpac, the church purchased the shuttered school in 1985 and 60 percent of the space is used for church activities, including services and Korean language classes for children. The rest of the space is leased by St. Joseph Academy and Search Developmental Center.

Plans are to tear down a 3,800 square foot section at the north end of the building and construct an addition. The new structure will house a church sanctuary, he said.

The section to be torn down contained several classrooms and offices. "It is necessary to have a new addition to meet the needs of church members. About 350 people gather every Sunday for services conducted in classrooms," Kolpac said.

According to a church official, the lease with the research center that expired at the end of July was not renewed. "The space to be vacated will be used for additional church activities. However, St. Joseph Academy will remain as a tenant," he said.

A request for special use to install four satellite dishes at W.W. Granger at 7300 Melvina received board approval.

According to a representative of the company, two 8-foot satellite dishes and a 6-foot satellite dish would be installed on the roof of the building in various locations and a 20-foot satellite dish would be on the ground with a security fence around it.

All the dishes would be used for communications lines to Granger's distribution centers in and out of the state.

The board also approved a similar request for a 6-foot wall-mounted satellite dish at the Granger facility at 7760 Merrimac.

In other zoning matters, commissioners denied a request for a maximum variation of 1 foot to the required 10 foot space between the house and the garage at 6701 Forestview Ln. to construct an enclosed porch.

The petitioner, Elizabeth Mozdzinski, said she wanted to construct a glass-enclosed porch, 10 by 16 feet, to replace the existing patio. "My children and I never use the patio because of the mosquitoes from the nearby forest preserves. I need a 24-foot variation to meet the width needed for the porch," she said.

Board members in rejecting the request said they were not allowed by law to grant more than a 10 percent variation, or 1-foot variation.

bus system was started mainly for senior citizens who couldn't get around."

Today, he continued, the village runs 10 buses, seven days a week and covers a 25-mile route. "We get a lot of use of the buses, especially from the seniors," he said. He noted stops are made at The Huntington, St. Andrew's Home for the Aged and the Trident Center. "We now cover more side streets on our routes. I'm proud to say that residents don't have to walk more than two blocks for a bus," he commented.

Reinke, who is a Chicago resident, said he has seen a lot of changes in the last 15 years of expansion of services to meet the needs of residents. "I enjoyed my job and hope I contributed something to the system. I'm retiring with a lot of good memories."

According to Keith Peck, director of public services, Reinke was an integral part in the growth of the Niles Courtesy Bus System which today boasts 10 buses and a monthly ridership of 30,000. "We started with part-time bus service and ended with full-time service. Buses was an asset in the day-to-day operations of the system as supervisor and we will miss him," Peck said.

According to Gary Karshna, Niles finance director, the bus system was originally paid for from the village's general revenue sharing funds. It is now subsidized on a 50-50 arrangement between the village and PACE, a suburban subdivision of the Regional Transportation System (RTA).

"When revenue sharing funds were available, the village would allocate the federal funds to the transportation system," Karshna explained. "The village budgeted approximately $500,000 in that category for the fiscal year 1988-89," he said.
