St. Adalbert Cemetery...much more than a resting place for the departed

by Shellya Hackett

The sprawling stone building inside the cast iron fence looks like an old world estate. From the ornate gate, a road curves around lawns spotted with monuments, crosses and an occasional mausoleum. A car turns in, pausing for a babushkaed old woman carrying a sheaf of flowers.

Just north of Niles' Albion boundary is a peaceful island sandwiched between the rush of traffic on Milwaukee and Harlem avenues. The tranquil spot is St. Adalbert cemetery.

Must a cemetery be a dismal resting place for the deceased? If it's cast in the St. Adalbert mold, it throbs with the activity of remembrance. Here it bustles as folks water, trim and tend burial plots. In summer you may see a woman sitting in a folding chair under a shade tree, just visiting with her memories. Elsewhere, a young man kneels near a grave while an older one, probably his father, quietly waits. Last December, a tiny Christmas sock dangled over a small grave, suspended from a bare tree circled with red streamers. A funeral procession winds down a road, then a cluster of mourners hear a priest's prayers of parting at graveside. The onlookers linger in the blowing snow. It is a haven for those who remember. Named for a tenth century Polish Bishop and martyr, St.

Adalbert's was found in 1872 to serve the Polish, Czech and Bohemian people of the Chicago area. The graveyard has grown from its initial 16 acres to the present day 250 acres of land. It abuts Niles college of Loyola university and St. Andrew's Home on the north and the Norwood Home cemetery on the southwest. The large, rust toned brick Garden Mausoleum stands in the southwestern section and contains four chapels and numerous wall crypts. According to John Gacek, superintendent for both St. Adalbert and Maryhill cemeteries in Niles, ground will be broken for a new Garden Mausoleum this fall. To be located near Harlem avenue, the structure will cover four acres and is scheduled for completion in 1990.

The bronze statues of the war memorial monument salute men of the army, navy, marines and Haller's army. Haller's army was the name given to a group of immigrant Poles who volunteered to leave U. S. soil to fight with the Polish army in France in World War I. National recruiting attracted thousands of men who fought under General Jozef Haller to regain Polish territory.

There are other areas with special designations. The priests of the Resurrection are completing renovation of their large mausoleum and the sisters of the Resurrection and Felician orders have separate tracts for their use. The cemetery is bisected by Newark avenue, no longer a through street. "Mausoleum row" edges Newark, marking St. Adalbert's largest concentration of the free standing burial houses.

The crypt of the late George Halas is often a barometer of the fortunes of his Bears team. The 1976 Super Bowl victory inspired fans to visit and decorate the resting place of Papa Bear. Doesn't this quiet oasis attract others, besides mourners? Yes, in a good way. Joggers slip in when the gates open at 8:30. Cyclists often spin down the tree lined roads. Last spring, with the sun rising behind the crosses and statues and a mist hugging the dewy grass, a deer gave birth to a fawn. It was a sign of new life in this ground for the departed.

The natural beauty and serenity of St. Adalbert Cemetery makes this a popular location for strollers and joggers.

North Maine voters approve tax hike

Voters in unincorporated Maine Township approved a tax levy referendum which will generate an additional $60,000 for rescue equipment, training and possibly a salary increase for the firefighters, who have not received an increase since January of 1987. The referendum passed 4,081 to 1,394 votes. Funds for rescue training, salaries and equipment have previously come from the corporate level. The district will still need to be subsidized.

A high-rise condominium development in the area, north of the district, is under development. Continued on Page 50

by Nancy Keraminas

Everything has its season we are told. There are times to act and times when, no matter how hard we've struggled, it's time to let go. Tired of political news, the nation watched the drama of the Alaskan grey whales. Reporters, clergy members and others wondered why people cared so much about these massive creatures when we were apparently so apathetic about starvation and disease in Third World countries. All of us are involved in personal causes. The reason for our unselfish concern for the whales may have been because, in this instance, we knew we had a chance to free those mammals without running against political roadblocks. Miraculously, warring factions of animal rights activists, hunters and poachers put their differences aside in a cooperative effort to save the helpless mammals. During next year's encounter with the whales, some of the Eskimo rescuers will be wielding harpoons. Will some of them experience a moral dilemma as they prepare to dispatch their next grey whale?

There are many other gaps in the reverence for life argument. I have a pet-hating friend who will not slap a mosquito. In our house we spray for ants, swat flies and wish for fur coats. The potential threat of Lyme disease has ended our field mouse relocation policy, but we consistently send still-living spiders outdoors rather than squash them. Once a house pet passes muster, it's there for life no matter how inconvenient. Fortunately, we haven't experienced a situation where a household member is allergic to fur, or where an animal has become dangerous. In such an instance, we would not feel bound by our commitment.

The man in my life had a petless childhood and was glad to marry into a "family" with one dog and two cats. He grumbled Continued on Page 49

Battery charges related to drug usage

A 41 year old Chicago man was released on a $1,000 bond November 4 and charged with Aggravated Battery and Sexual Assault. The victim, a 38 year old woman who resides in the 6300 block of Touhy, told police the offender began acting strangely while visiting with her after he ingested a white powder believed to be cocaine.

The offender proceeded to choke the victim in a brutal manner with his hands and later, a towel. The victim reported the offender tried to sexually assault her. Claiming the victim was pregnant, he assaulted her body further under the delusion he could push the baby out. During the entire episode, the offender reportedly claimed he kept hearing voices that said the victim was a witch.

The last act of violence this offender was able to accomplish was to push the victim into the shower "to wash away the devil", he said. He forced the victim to stand under scalding water until she broke away and was able to scream for help.

Niles police arrived and summoned ambulances for both people. The woman sustained both physical injury and emotional trauma. She was kept at Lutheran General Hospital. The offender was released from the hospital in a short time and arrested.

Drug overdose victim hospitalized

Niles Police arrested a 34 year old man for Unlawful Possession of a Controlled Substance on November 7. The offender was released on $25,000 bond.

The Chicago man was visiting a 35 year old Niles resident who lives in the 8800 block of Washington. Two police officers responded to a call with paramedics when the Niles man lost consciousness. When officers arrived on the scene, the found evidence of drug paraphernalia and a substance that was later officially identified as PCP.

The mother of the Niles man related that he became violent after consuming alcohol on the premises. While she and the suspect tried to calm down the Niles man, he fell to the floor and lost consciousness. The suspect said the victim had ingested PCP while they were out at a bar earlier in the evening. The Niles man was taken to Lutheran General Hospital and treated for a drug overdose.

All Morton Grove may be recycling by Spring of '89

by Nancy Keraminas

Morton Grove's recycling experiment which began June 15 of this year, will be reviewed this month, according to Village Administrator Larry Arlt. Preliminary indications make it likely the Village Board will be asked to extend the program village wide. If approved, all of Morton Grove will be recycling newspapers, cans and bottles by next spring.

BACKGROUND When the village began to consider re-cycling as a solution to the burgeoning solid waste problem, Elk Grove Village Haulway, Inc. was contacted. The company's president, Lee Brandsma, studied the issues and the decision was made to purchase a truck manufactured by a Canadian firm to handle the curbside pick ups. The truck had sensors enabling the haulers to separate materials at curbside. Issues involved in the decision to use Haulway were EASE: Optimally, the planners Continued on Page 49

Clarification

In the November 10 issue of The Bugle, it was erroneously reported that Morton Grove resident, Judge Martin Ashman had lost his bid to retain his seat on the bench. Final returns, which were reported after The Bugle had gone to press, showed Ashman upsetting his Republican opponent Anne Scott. The Bugle regrets this error.

Dist. 207 Board passes tax levies

Tax levies for 1988 are up 2.9 percent for a total of just over one million dollars, according to Donald E. Kenney, Assistant Superintendent for Business for Maine Township High School District 207. Last year's tax extension was $37,140,450. The recommended 1988 tax levy is $38,217,000. "The levy was predicted on a three percent growth in the district's tax base for 1988," said Kenney. "Assuming we get three percent growth, the tax rate should be essentially the same as 1987". The tax levies include Continued on Page 49

Our Day of Thanks

On a day when all of us direct our thoughts toward giving thanks, Thanksgiving Day has special meaning to Arthur and Marion Kuerr of Niles. November 24, 1988 marks the 64th Anniversary of their wedding.

In the early 20's, Art and Marion were neighbors in Chicago. Marion would walk across the street to the store that Art's family owned. She would buy cookies so that she could take them to work every day.

After dating for close to two years, the couple decided to run off to Crown Point, Indiana to be married. It turned out to be a double wedding when Marion's brother and his girl friend decided to get married on the way. Art and Marion had a church wedding two weeks later.

They have lived in the Niles area since 1961. Art, 87, and Marion, 81, have raised 3 children, and now have 6 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Congratulations Grandma and Grandpa, we love you!

Job Search Manual and Directory

Its title is "Job Search Manual and Resource Directory for Older Job Seekers," it is specially tailored for older job seekers, and it is free in the Evanston area.

Produced by Operation ABLE and funded by a grant from the Service Club of Chicago, it outlines the basics of a job search, describes government programs for older workers, gives details of the programs offered by ABLE, and lists all agencies providing older worker programs. The agencies are part of the ABLE network in Chicago and the suburbs.

Barbara Ganan, job club trainer at ABLE's Evanston office, said the 24-page manual aims at helping mature men and women who have lost their jobs because of company shutdowns, reductions in workforces, forced retirements or those who are retired and want to get back into the workforce.

She said it has sections on Organizing Your Search, Resumes, Letters, Interviewing, and Researching the Job Market. A free copy is available by calling ABLE's Evanston office, 864-3370.

Operation ABLE is in its 12th year of creating greater job opportunities for older workers.

If you didn't attend the "Roaring Twenties" Party, you missed one of the more successful and enjoyable parties we have had in a long time. The decorating committee of Chico and Rozella Gloriana, Bernice and Al Tegeler, Irene and Rudy Seifert, Florence and Peter Lencioni, Wanda and Chuck Palkoner, Gil and Frank Kaitis, Vivian Zentler and Florence Morgan did a fabulous job. The hall was beautiful, with its black and white streamers, balloons and over 300 silver stars suspended from the ceiling.

Irene Seifert, Social Chairman, led us around the hall with our traditional march. Our dancers, Marie Argyrakis, Dolores Schroeder, Rozella Gloriana, Betty Jach, Wanda Borko, and Marion Zehner entertained us with Line Dance. A standing ovation goes to Mario Arquilla, Louis Bassi and John Blausucci, our orchestra, because without them there would be no great parties.

Many thanks to Helen Kordia who signed us in at the door, our bar tenders Chuck, George and Stanley. Others who helped make the party a success were our ladies serving the delicious and plentiful food. Winners of the "Roaring Twenties" costumes were 1st place: Mickey Likosar, 2nd place: Bernice Tegeler and 3rd place: Sophie Bassi.

The club extends our deepest sympathy and condolences to Joe Flasch and family on the passing of his wife Loretta. Remember her in your prayers along with all our deceased members.

Happy Birthday to all celebrating this month and Happy Golden Anniversary Plus to Mae and John Blausucci and to all others celebrating their anniversary this month.

Japanese Classical Dance at Skokie Public Library

MariFuji-Kal, a local Japanese Classical Dance troupe, will bring a performance of this ancient art form to Skokie Public Library on November 20 at 3 p.m.

MariFuji Bando, the leader of the troupe, studied Japanese classical dance at Japan's Bando and her teaching license from the head of the Bando School, famous Kabuki actor Mitsugoro Bando VIII. Since 1983, MariFuji Bando has taught Japanese dance in Chicago. She is also a member of ToeiKai Japanese Classical Music Troupe as a shamisen player.

Japanese classical dance began about 400 years ago as part of the Buddhist religion. It was usually performed as a temple ritual. In response to the "Noh" dance which was a sophisticated form popular with samurai and royalty, the commoners developed "Kabuki dance" as their dance form for entertainment. These dances evolved to tell stories of everyday life, popular legends and fairy tales. The Bando School of Japanese Dance was founded in 1800 and is one of the many schools of stage dance in existence in Japan today. Each school has its own movements and interpretive styles. Japanese classical dance has little facial expression but rather relies on body movement and beautiful traditional costumes to create the moods of stories of ancient Japan. Admission is free. The Library is located at 5215 Oakton in Skokie. For more information call the Library at 673-7774.

Little City Holiday Cards

Brightly colored holiday cards, designed by residents of Little City, the Palatine-based community for 300 children and adults with developmental disabilities such as mental retardation, are now available.

Creative designs were drawn by students in Little City's art therapy classes recently. Cards with several designs are available.

Cards have some of the following scenes:
-A red and white candy cane, a smiling snowman wearing a green and blue hat and scarf, and a large pair of blue socks stand together forming the word "Joy". The card reads: "Have a joyous holiday season."
-Two carolling children wearing red, green, and gold hats and jackets carry song books and sing to a smiling snowman outside in the snow. The message is: "May the spirit of the holiday season be with you and your family throughout the year."
-A brown mouse stands on a snowy hill looking up at a brightly lit Christmas tree with red, blue, purple, and yellow ornaments and a shining yellow star. The inside reads: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

"Funds raised from the selling of holiday cards help Little City expand programs for people with developmental disabilities," says Executive Director Robert Dachman. "With the public's support this year, we can continue to train and teach people with mental retardation how to become productive members of society."

A box of twenty cards costs $8. Imprinted cards have a small additional charge.

Letters to the Editor

Prayer Day for diabetes cure

Dear Editor:

Residents of the Community: The ravages of Diabetes is of special concern to many people in the country as one person in 20 is stricken with this disease and its serious consequences, and no one knows whose family will be hurt next.

Many have donated money over the years and much research has gone into finding a cure—but nothing really positive has come out of it since the discovery of insulin which controls but does not cure.

A grass roots movement began this summer in Omaha, Nebraska, and is sweeping the nation declare to November 20, as an Interdenominational Day of Prayer to call upon God with a united voice and pray in churches and synagogues, prayer groups, and individually that a cure for Diabetes might be granted to our research people.

The help of concerned individuals in your community is desperately needed to get the word out to friends and relatives in other areas that they might urge their churches or synagogues, relatives, and friends to participate. Remember, it is strictly a grass roots movement with no central organization which is relying on the help of many concerned individuals. Please clip this letter and send it to others to help spread the word of the November 20, Prayer Day for the Cure of Diabetes.

Help us to spread—and join the many people from coast to coast on November 20 and pray for a Cure for Diabetes!

Lindquist thanks supporters

Dear Editor:

Thank you to the volunteer staff, supporters, and workers for their help in the Citizens for Lindquist campaign for State Representative, 55th District. Also my thanks to the newspapers which are part of the life of the people who live in this legislative district and who were fair in their coverage. The Niles Bugle, The Des Plaines Times, and the Des Plaines Suburban Times, the Des Plaines Journal and Topics, and the Park Ridge Advocate covered this race well. Special thanks to Nicholas B. Blase, Bruce Lester, Bob Doig, Pat Feichter, and Ken Lindquist for their help, support, and planning talents.

Sherry Magness—volunteer coordinator, Audrey Daniel—secretary/scheduler, Barbara Hague—speaking arrangements, Priscilla Berg—coffee chairman, Ruth and Phil Lindahl—phone canvass, Norine Murphy—youth coordinator, Jane and Bill Moore—polling locations, Ruth Bengsten—Election Day hostess, and Del Biddison, Election Day scheduler, all of whom led the workers in this campaign.

My thanks to the campaign leaders named above, friends who supported this candidacy, the many workers and the student interns, and last but not foremost, the voters who cast their votes in 1988 in the cause of improving the representation of the 55th District in the General Assembly of Illinois.

My sincere congratulations to Penny Pullen and may we be able to work together for a better Illinois.

Sincerely,
Bonnie B. Lindquist

Bugle reader compliments newspaper's growth

Dear Editor:

I have been a resident of Des Plaines for the past 15 years and I have watched The Bugle go from being a small town newspaper to a much more sophisticated suburban paper that covers news events not only in Niles and Des Plaines, but in the surrounding areas. This gives the readers an opportunity to know what is going on elsewhere and allows us the choice of whether to participate in the various functions and programs offered.

I particularly like your column "From the Left Hand" as it covers a very broad range of subjects and one feels like they are listening to a conversation rather than reading a column. This is really a unique approach that is not only very interesting, but is a reflection of the man who is writing the column.

For the past year and a half I have not only been reading The Bugle, but I have been turning in various articles on behalf of Women's American ORT. I handle publicity for my Chapter as well as for the entire Northern Illinois Region of this fine organization.

Our members look forward to receiving The Bugle each week. Many of them live in the Washington Courts and The Landings Condos. Others live in private homes and apartment buildings. We have approximately 2700 members in our Region, a good number of whom probably get your paper.

I hope some day to drop by for a personal visit as I would like to meet the man who has dedicated his life to publishing this outstanding, suburban newspaper for so many years. Just keep up the good work and I hope The Bugle will be with us for many years to come.

Sincerely,
Miriam Drory

Kustra thanks readers for support

Dear Editor:

I want to thank your readers for their support last Tuesday in reelecting me to the Illinois State Senate.

During the campaign I had many opportunities to discuss priority issues such as O'Hare noise and safety and the educational systems in Chicago and the suburbs with groups and with individuals. I value the suggestions and comments I received and I am looking forward to returning to Springfield to continue my work on those and other major issues.

I also thank the many volunteers who worked so hard for so many hours on our campaign. My campaign manager, Jay Mawrocki did an excellent job in organizing and overseeing our amazing volunteer team.

I encourage the people in my district to continue to give me their thoughts on the issues and to let me know when I can help them with a problem concerning a state agency. My Des Plaines district office phone number is 299-5646.

Sincerely,
Bob Kustra
State Senator, 28th District

The Pap Smear: Still the best method of early detection of cervical cancer

Little did Dr. George Papanicolaou know in 1943 when he published his paper describing the value of vaginal smears to detect cancer of the cervix that 45 years later the value of the test would become controversial as a totally dependable diagnostic interpretation. The technique, well-known today as the "Pap smear," has been used routinely by physicians to discover early abnormal changes of the cells of the cervix (entrance to the uterus.) According to Dr. John Isaacs, professor and chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood, "When done properly, the Pap smear does what it's supposed to do—detect any abnormal cells in the cervix, not cells of other parts of the genital tract." "Like any test, it is not 100 percent accurate. In fact, a ten percent change of error does exist," he adds. "But that figure is overshadowed by the fact that, with the use of the Pap smears in screening programs, the incidence of invasive cervical cancer has been reduced by 50 percent." The major objective of this part of the pelvic examination is to sample cells from the endocervical canal and to scrape cells from the endocervix. The two-step procedure itself is quick and painless. A cotton-tipped swab is used to collect cells from the endocervical canal, which are then smeared thinly on a slide by rolling (not rubbing) the applicator tip of the swab against the glass surface. Rubbing may streak or break the cells. The slide is fixed immediately either by spray or by immersing it into a fixative solution. Cells from the exocervix are fixed on a second slide.

The Pap smear is a test that must be performed correctly to obtain accurate results. A certain skill and training is required by physicians in taking the smear properly from the cervix. Also, it is important that the fixative be applied to the slide immediately before the drying takes place. If the cells are too dry, the slide will be difficult to read when stained, thus possibly accounting for the ten percent rate of error. Mislabeling of the slide, or misreading of a patient's name or identifying number may be additional causes of error. When these cells are examined under a microscope, they are graded by a pathologist against Dr. Papanicolaou's five-class system of results. This classification system is as follows: Class 1—negative: only normal cells are present. Class 2—negative: no signs of malignancy; some atypical cells are present;

Class 3—doubtful: smear contains cells with atypical features suggestive but not diagnostic of malignancy. Class 4—positive: isolated atypical cells present; cancer has started in the cervix. Class 5—positive: numerous atypical cells or cell groups are present; indication of invasive carcinoma or the cervix.

If cervical cancer cells are present, they will be detected by the cytopathologist. Cancer cells tend to shed or flake off the cervix more easily than normal cells. If the cancer has invaded into deepest layers of the cervix, it may not be detected by the Pap test and would require a biopsy to confirm the diagnosis.

Varying recommendations exist as to the frequency that the test should be taken or repeated. Recently, programs focusing on cost-effectiveness have suggested the screening interval be extended from the usual one year to two or three years in patients having two or three previous negative test results. Most physicians agree that Class 2 Pap smears (negative: no signs of malignancy; some atypical cells present) should be repeated three months after treatment occurs to clear up this condition. Dr. Isaacs advises, "Ideally, most women should have a Pap smear once a year to coincide with their annual pelvic examination."

The ideal time to obtain cervical cells for examination is at mid-cycle or the 14th day of the menstrual cycle when the hormone effect of estrogen is at its maximum. However, collection of material from the cervix may be performed in any phase of the menstrual cycle. The Pap test is recommended for females starting at age 18 or when a woman becomes sexually active.

Avoid head-on collisions

Head-on collisions are the most deadly of all motor vehicle accidents. To avoid a head-on collision, always be alert to the possibility of an oncoming vehicle swerving into your lane and be prepared to take evasive action.

Look ahead as far as possible when you drive and constantly think of an "escape route." If an oncoming vehicle crosses into your lane, you should have time to steer to the right, reduce your speed and drive off the road. This is considerably safer than skidding off the road if you must hit the brakes suddenly.

If you are forced off the road, look for the softest thing possible to break your impact, such as a bush, small trees or a fence. If you are heading toward a big tree, parked car or sign post, try to glance off it. Avoid hitting any objects head-on. If you cannot get off the road, try to hit the oncoming vehicle at an angle.

Everytime you get in your car, take the following precautions to prevent injuries in the event of an accident. Make sure all occupants are wearing safety belts, all doors are locked, and all loose objects are secured so they will not fly around the vehicle on impact.

If you are involved in an accident, turn off the vehicle's ignition, warn approaching traffic and send someone to get help. Administer first aid to victims if you are qualified.

Road construction contracts awarded

A pair of highway improvement contracts have been awarded in Northeastern Cook County, the Illinois Department of Transportation said today.

A $784,576 contract has been awarded for the widening and bituminous resurfacing - along with traffic signal and lighting installation - of Touhy Avenue, between Keating and Lincoln Avenues, in Lincolnwood.

The contract was awarded to Callaghan & Barrett Paving Materials, Inc., which plans to finish the job by mid-December.

MG Legion life membership

Only a handful of their members are awarded the prestigious honor of life membership in the Morton Grove American Legion Post #134, and at recent honor, Phil Cancelleri, of the village of Morton Grove, was so honored.

This special salute is always kept a closely guarded secret, and Phil indeed was astonished at what he termed "an unexpected event."

Cancelleri is a local businessman and had been commander of another Legion before transferring to Morton Grove. He has been a Legionnaire for over 30 years!

Road construction contracts awarded

Traffic will use the north half of Touhy Avenue during the first phase of the project and the south half during the second phase.

A $187,195 contract has been awarded for intersection improvements - with left turn bays and new traffic signals - on Devon Avenue at Kenton Avenue and Lemont Avenue in Lincolnwood and Chicago.

The contract was awarded to Callaghan & Barrett Paving Materials, Inc., which plans to finish the job by mid-December.

Phil has served as fish fry chairman for many years in addition.

Always of the silver tongue, he is called upon at the yearly carnivals to preside at the microphone. His dulcet voice is heard almost constantly with all the necessary announcements needed over the loud speaker.

In addition, Phil is often called upon to be the master of ceremonies at the annual joint installation of officers of the Post and Auxiliary.

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings

One of the most unusual field goals ever kicked in football was by Pat Summerall who's now a TV announcer. His strange kick decided a key game in 1958. . . New York and Cleveland were tied 10-10 with seconds left. . . Summerall of the Giants tried a field goal from the 42-yard line in a swirling snow storm. . . The ball went up in the air and was completely LOST FROM VIEW IN THE SNOW STORM. . . Nobody could see the ball. . . Then, all of a sudden, it re-appeared, dropped down over the goal post, and gave the Giants the win and a playoff berth.

One of the most inspiring men in football is New York Jet wide receiver Wesley Walker. . . Walker has been a leading pass-receiver in the NFL despite being legally blind in one eye. . . Walker was determined to make himself a top pass-catcher, overcoming his handicap—and he did.

Which major-college football teams have changed their nicknames over the years? . . . Oklahoma State changed their nickname from Aggies to Cowboys. Stanford changed from Indians to the Cardinals. Mississippi State changed from Maroons to Bulldogs. . . and Rutgers changed from Chanticleers to Scarlet Knights.

Hockey Night A Success

The second annual "Hockey Night in Niles" sponsored by the Niles Park District Rangers hockey organization was a great success.

The learn to skate classes and the Mite division teams opened the nights activities with a demonstration of their hockey and skating skills. This was followed by three games from our Squirts, Pee Wees and Bantam level teams.

The Squirt game found a battle between our two fine squirt level teams. In this contest the Ranger White squad nipped the Ranger Blue squad 2 to 1.

Rich Aulich scored off a goal mouth scramble to give Ranger Blue a 1-0 lead after one period. At 7:55 of the second period Jimmy Sikaras scored off a pass from defenseman Sean Barrett and the game was tied 1 to 1 after two periods. The tie lasted til 4:44 of the final period when Matt Papish buried a shot off a beautiful David Zawadzki pass. Ranger Blue goalie, Adam Lovekamp did an outstanding job as he faced 18 shots on goal while his counterpart Ranger White goalie, Tony Turner faced 8 shots on goal.

The Ranger Pee Wees scored three goals in the second period and four in the third while out shooting the Franklin Park Flames Pee Wee squad 27 to 12 in route to a 8 to 1 victory. Eight of the Rangers twelve players got into the scoring column. Leading Recently, Marcia Sugar was certified by the YMCA of the USA as a Physical Fitness Specialist. The week long intensive training was held at the Lake Geneva, George Williams Campus. The certification qualifies Marcia to administer the Y's Way To Physical Fitness Test Battery which measures blood pressure, heart rate, flexibility, muscular strength and endurance, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. From the results of the fitness evaluation, individual program recommendations can be established for one's exercise program.

YMCA employee receives certification

The workshop consisted of 20 hours of lecture and 16 hours of practical laboratory experience. Topics covered included National YMCA program objectives, anatomy and physiology of muscles, exercise principles and programming, heart rate and work, oxygen transportation, oxygen uptake, nutrition and weight control, and other related information. Certification was dependent upon successful completion of both a written and practical exam.

The YMCA has been a leader in health and fitness for more than 100 years. The Leaning Tower YMCA, through this certification, insures the delivery of quality program and services to Niles, Morton Grove, Skokie and Chicago.

For additional information regarding the Y's Way To would like to attend the reunion should contact Mort Goldenberg (564-3860) or Larry Teeman (647-3852).

— Mr. Kuppenheimer

"You know the old adage, 'If you want something done right, do it yourself?' Well, it goes double for suits.

By making our own suits, and selling them only in our own stores, we control quality every step of the way. From the choice of fabric, to the cutting, to the stitching — to all the little details of finish that are essential to a well-made suit.

It's the kind of quality that makes possible our Suit Yourself guarantee, which lets you return a Kuppenheimer suit, even after it's been altered, if you're not satisfied in any way.

Making suits ourselves means value, too. Without a middleman, or his markup, we can sell beautiful suits at equally beautiful prices. Like $195 for a 100% wool worsted. $165 for a wool flannel. $99.95 for a 100% wool sportcoat.

What's in a name? Come to Kuppenheimer and find out."

Interesting Facts From John Jennings

To realize how big the universe is, consider these facts: Space in the universe is measured by light-years; light travels about 186,000 miles a second, and a light-year is the distance light goes in one year-- which is about 6 trillion miles; the most distant stars are about 10-billion light years from earth-- SO THOSE STARS ARE 10-BILLION TIMES 6 TRILION MILES AWAY!

The state of Maine has 7 towns named after foreign countries. There are towns in Maine named China, Denmark, Mexico, Norway, Peru, Poland and Sweden.

The first national park in the U.S. was Yellowstone, established in 1872.

Contrary to popular opinion, the first 4th of July celebration in the U.S. was NOT on July 4, 1776--but one year later, on July 4, 1777.

And here's another interesting fact...

Independent Order of Foresters

help fight child abuse with new booklet

According to the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, over 2.25 million children were reported to authorities as suspected victims of child abuse last year in the United States. In 1987 alone, over 1,200 deaths occurred from child abuse. Since many cases go unreported, the hidden numbers may be even higher.

Because child abuse affects our entire society, the Independent Order of Foresters, one of the world's largest fraternal benefit societies, has developed a new booklet, "IOF Foresters Say You Can Make A Difference: Help Break the Cycle of Child Abuse". The informational booklet will appear as a 10-page insert in the November 22 issue of "Family Circle" according to Bob Fagan, vice president and international director of training.

"Child abuse is at an alarmingly high level in this country, and the problem continues to escalate," said Fagan. "The IOF is doing its share to help break the cycle of child abuse. Our aim is to educate the public about the grave tragedies of this problem. With the "Family Circle" insert, we will be reaching 18 million readers with vital information about how they can join the fight against child maltreatment."

Experts agree that the first step toward preventing child abuse is recognizing it. The booklet, published as a public service by the IOF, defines the four most common types of abuse and contains basic information about ways to prevent it. In addition, the booklet provides information on how to get help and how to report a suspected case of child abuse.

As part of its commitment to preventing child abuse, the IOF distributes informational booklets and produces and distributes films to educate the public about this tragic problem. IOF films include: "Through the Eyes of a Child", "Fragile, Handle With Care", "Victims", "The Next Volunteer", "One Out of Six", and "There is Hope". IOF booklets (available in English and Spanish) include: "What Every Child Should Know About Child Sexual Abuse", "What Everyone Should Know About Sexual Abuse of Children", "On Parenting", "What Everyone Should Know About Disciplining Your Child", "About Incest", "You're in Charge!", "About Alcoholism, Child Abuse, and Child Neglect", "About Adults Abused as Children."

Reprints of the "Family Circle" insert and copies of other IOF materials are available to the public for a nominal fee and can be ordered by writing The IOF Preventive of Child Abuse Fund, P.O. Box 848 Solana Beach, CA, 92075 or calling the IOF toll-free number 1-800-829-1540.

Established in 1874, the Independent order of Foresters is one of the world's oldest and largest fraternal benefit societies with well over a million members in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom. Known as the Family Fraternal, the IOF has been active in the fight against child abuse for over a decade. Its members are voluntarily raising money and donating thousands of hours towards combating this problem.

Dist. 207 1988-89 enrollments are official

Enrollment in District 207 summer school programs has shown a steady increase over the last three years despite overall declining enrollment across the district, according to Joel W. Morris, Director of Instruction. Enrollment this year was 3,529 compared to 3,463 in 1987 and 3,390 in 1986.

"The strong enrollment is due to a variety of factors," said Morris. This year summer school included remedial and gifted classes as well as regular classes and a comprehensive athletic program. Other factors which contributed to the high enrollment included students who took required classes offered during the summer in order to take elective classes during the regular school year and enrichment activities such as computer programming, band, photography, drama workshop, and world cultures.

Early Bird Classes at Loyola

If you're the type of person who is up and running at the crack of dawn, Loyola is offering three "Early Bird" classes next semester, which may be of interest to you.

English writing and philosophy/business ethics will meet Monday/Wednesday/Friday at 7:30 a.m.; and math will meet Tuesday/Thursday at 7:15 a.m.

To register for a class, first apply to University College. Everyone with a high school degree or equivalent is admitted as a special student. Once admitted to the program, students can register for classes over the phone. Call the office for additional information or details on auditing a class at reduced rates. University College is a program for part-time students, usually adults returning to school. The program also offers evening and weekend classes.

"Early Bird Classes are offered as an alternative so part-time students don't have to spend another evening at school away from family or work," said Sandra Cook, assistant dean of University College. "They are the same courses that full-time students take for a degree credit. Of course, not everyone can get up so early, but the people who like them really appreciate the flexibility."

For additional information on Loyola University's Early Bird classes or to receive an application, call 670-3012.

Chicago Bar plans Christmas Revue at Oakton

Tickets are on sale now at Oakton Community College for the Chicago Bar Association's (CBA) Christmas Spirits Revue at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 11 in the Performing Arts Center, 1600 E. Golf rd., Des Plaines.

The Revue, performed by Chicago's top lawyers and judges, is a satirical show rich with parodies and puns, poking

SJB T.V. crew visits Channel 7

Eight eighth grade students, under the direction of Principal, Sister Rita Green, form the T.V. crew at St. John Brebeuf School. They learned the mechanics of operating the closed circuit studio, complete with a floor, wall and table camera, panel, and the portable camera pack, in seventh grade from the eighth grade crew at that time.

Special events in the school can either be taped ahead of time, or filmed live and shown in the 25 classrooms.

Before the retirement of Kay Bauer, Secretary for 25 years, the T.V. crew made a tape with a message for Kay from every teacher and classroom of students, besides all the activities of "Kay Bauer Farewell Day". The tape was one of Mrs. Bauer's farewell gifts, which she treasures and views often in her new home in California.

"These eight students have been wonderful, as they give so selflessly of their time and energy", says Sister Rita. "Whenever they miss classes, they must make up that work on their own, and sometimes come to school on the weekends to film events."

On November 3rd, the eight students were given a two-hour tour of Channel 7 by Tommy Nuntaya, an engineer at the studio and friend of Tossaporn Bhudvanbhen, one of the crew members. Meeting personalities like Joan Esposito, Steve Deshler, Mary Ann Childer, John Drury, Linda Yu and Peter Jennings was very exciting for the students. They learned how expensive commercials are, especially during prime time, and saw the many, many reels of them, ready to air when needed.

The students saw some of the 20 plus editing rooms in use and different stages of preparation for a newscast. They witnessed the flurry of activity just before a newscast, and were delighted to be in the studio during the 5:00 news on that day.

They came back from their tour, knowing their experience at St. John's studio is valuable, but that there's much more to look forward to in huge operations like ABC and other television stations.

Band places

The Notre Dame/Resurrection High School Band recently attended the Marengo Settlers and the Franklin Park Fall day band contests.

At both of these contests the band placed third in their division in the field show competition, second in the parade competition.

Individual honors were received by seniors Paul Cienniwa and Rene Maltezos for best drum major.

Service Award recipients

Laurie Verson and Steve Walters (sitting) of Niles were the recipients of the Oakton Community College Classified Staff Association's (OCCCSA) Student Employee Service Award. Both were presented with $200 and a plaque. Also pictured are Jillian L. Verstrate (standing left) of Chicago, membership chairman and Janet B. Coursey of Park Ridge, secretary of OCCCSA. Verson, an Early Childhood Development program student, works in the Registration and Records Office. Walters is a pre-engineering student and works in the computer lab in Instructional Support Services.

Hynes Elementary School Read Aloud Week

Hynes Elementary School will celebrate American Education Week and Book Week, Nov. 14-18, by having Read Aloud Week. Community leaders will read stories to Hynes students during this week.

Reading aloud is a rich and enjoyable educational experience for children. Reading aloud strengthens language development, enhances creativity and imagination, and encourages a love of literature.

Education is essential. School is important. By having community leaders read to children, Hynes School is conveying a message that reading is important to all adults, not just parents and teachers.

The community representatives who will be reading stories to Hynes students are: Mrs. Mary Ellen Cohen, Newspaper Reporter; Mr. William Simkins, President of the Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce; Chief Ray Giovannelli, Niles Police Department; Niles Letter Carrier; Mr. Larry Arft, Morton Grove Village Administrators: Lt. Richard Meier, Paramedic Supervisor of the Morton Grove Fire Department; Mrs. Judy Kochman, Board of Education President of School District 67; Ms. Rebecca Grittride, Public Relations Coordinator of Niles Township High School Dist. 219; Mrs. Robin Jacobs, Morton Grove Business Entrepreneur; and Mrs. Faith Fisher, Hynes School Picture Lady/Special Person.

This promises to be a very exciting and rewarding event for everyone!

ME students carve pumpkins

Forty-five students participated in the second annual social science department pumpkin carving contest of famous persons. Winners this year were Mazin Dajani of Glenview (Abraham Lincoln), first, and Britta Rice of Park Ridge (Amelia Earhart), second.

Dist. 207 preschool sets registration

Applications are now available at the three District 207 high schools for parents to register children for two-hour preschool classes to be held at Maine East, Maine South, and Maine West during the second semester of the 1988-89 school year. Applications will be accepted until December 8.

The classes, conducted by junior and senior students under the direction of a certified child development teacher, are part of the "on-the-job" training program of the child care occupations course offered by the home economics department.

Ten to 18 children of preschool age will be enrolled in each session. To be eligible for acceptance, children must be between 3½ and 4½ on February 1, 1989. The preschool classes at the three high schools enable child care occupations students to observe the growth and development of young children and to gain experience in supervising their activities.

The programs at all the schools are similar, but vary regarding times and days on which they meet. A letter accompanying the application form will explain the specific program at the individual school. The forms are available in the main office of each of the schools. Parents will be notified in early January of the acceptance of their children.

To defray the cost of supplies and food served to the children, there is a $75 registration fee.

Maine East is located at 2801 Dempster, Park Ridge; Maine South, 1111 S. Dee rd., Park Ridge; and Maine West 1755 S. Wolf rd., Des Plaines.

Notre Dame senior named Commended Scholar

Notre Dame High School for Girls is proud to announce that senior Latonia Smith has been named a Commended Scholar in the 1989 Achievement Program for Black Americans in recognition of academic promise. Latonia says the academic program at Notre Dame is good. She especially enjoys the Senior Lectures and American Government. The teachers are warm and helpful and encouraged her to succeed. Her parents also contributed to her success by encouraging her to better herself.

Latonia, a graduate of Christ English Evangelical Lutheran Elementary School at LeMoyné

Pro-Pak shows off your gifts with style

Mrs. Santa Claus and her helpers assist Pro-Pak, the packing and shipping specialists at 527 Dundee Road., Northbrook (272-0408). For early holiday shoppers Pro-Pak is offering 25 percent off on all gift paper and wrapping, gift boxes, ribbons, bows, and decorative stickers now through Nov. 26.

Go ahead and buy your nephew in California that tall toy robot, an electronic gadget for mom in Miami, and other hard-to-wrap gifts. The wrapping service Pro-Pak, 527 Dundee Rd., Northbrook (272-0408), offers a pre-holiday 25 percent off on all their lavish gift wrapping, gift boxes, ribbons, bows and pressure-sensitive decorative stickers in opalescent, metallic, and theme design now through Nov. 26. Packing and shipping services are extra.

"Gift wrap adds to the suspense, usually reflects the taste and lifestyle of the giver, and often makes a statement about the contents of the package," according to Dan Kravitz, owner of Pro-Pak, the packing and shipping specialists now in their tenth year serving the Chicago area.

Gift papers come in multi-colors, solids, fols, and antique designs. Selections also include traditional as well as eclectic, Hanukkah, and Christmas motifs.

There are 50 different size cartons which come in everyday useable dimensions and range from $5.8 to 29.44 for early holiday shoppers who want to do their own packing. They also have a complete stock of packing necessities.

Pro-Pak provides a creative gift wrapping service for corporate accounts, too. "We also provide a package pick-up service within a 500 mile radius, however, most of our requests come from the Loop, Lake Shore Drive and all suburban areas," said Kravitz. "We are a one-stop service for insured safe delivery."

A not-too-early reminder from Pro-Pak: Hanukkah is Dec. 3 and for those who must send gifts out-of-town, Kravitz says that an 18" by 18" by 18" carton will probably hold two presents per eight nights of Hanukkah for two grandchildren living in San Francisco at an average cost of $14.50 for packing and $15 for shipping. Gift wrapping is extra. Packages to be gift wrapped can be brought to Pro-Pak between 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Center of Concern acquires new van

The Center of Concern of Park Ridge was recently the recipient of a grant from The Service Club of Chicago, presented as a memorial gift in the form of a spanking new Chevrolet van.

The Center is using it for their escort transportation, which is only one of the twenty-six areas in which this not-for-profit organization serves the citizens of Maine Township and surrounding areas. It is certainly a most welcome addition.

The Center is located at 1580 N. Northwest Highway, Park Ridge and is available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day and until noon on Saturday. Call 823-0453 for further information.

Big Dipper visits Mark Twain

On Friday, Sept. 23, all of our space arrived at Mark Twain School. The children were able to envision themselves being among the constellations and planets. The lack of gravity was also felt. All of this was made possible by Mr. Dilip Das. He brought an inflatable planetarium right to the school.

Ameritech Awards $500,000 to Private Colleges in Five States

North Park College, Chicago, has announced it will participate in a $500,000 program funded by the Ameritech Foundation through The Associated Colleges of Illinois and the independent college foundations of Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin. The amount will be divided equally among the five states.

The grant will support research documenting the unique contributions private colleges make to the economic and social well-being of the five-state region. It will also fund the design of a marketing plan to communicate the research results. It is anticipated the Ameritech grant will have a major impact on the ability of private colleges to secure philanthropic support both directly and through their respective fund raising associations. North Park College is one of 28 independent institutions comprising The Associated Colleges of Illinois.

The Ameritech program is being implemented in the five states that comprise the primary service area of the Ameritech Corporation and its Bell Companies. In awarding the project grant, Ameritech Foundation President John A. Koten said, "This country needs strong independent colleges as a viable alternative to state-supported institutions...Independent colleges need to make their value to society better known to their constituents."

Since 1952, the Associated Colleges of Illinois has made annual solicitations of corporations on behalf of its members. Last year, more than $1.25 million was raised and distributed to the member colleges, of which all are fully accredited, nonprofit independent institutions in Illinois.

Chicago-based Ameritech's five Bell companies and its other information-related subsidiaries last year collectively contributed $4.8 million to higher education. The Ameritech Foundation supports regional and national programs that test new concepts in economic development, public policy and ways that communications can contribute to the long-term betterment of society and quality of life.

Founded in 1931, North Park College is a four-year Christian liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Side. Affiliated with The Evangelical Covenant Church, North Park enrolls approximately 1,000 undergraduates.

tal and endodontic treatment, oral surgery, synthetic bone grafting and implants, dental bonding and temporomandibular (TMJ) joint treatment. It also is equipped to care for patients with special health needs who require hospitalization at the time of dental treatment.

St. John Brebeuf Blood Drive

St. John Brebeuf Parish blood drive will be held on Sunday, Nov. 27, between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m., in the school gym, 8301 N. Harlem in Niles.

Anyone at least 17 and under 75 years of age, weighing at least 110 pounds, in good health (esp. those 66-75 years of age and who haven't donated since Oct. 1). Blood drive is for parishioners and friends.

Donating blood requires 30-45 minutes for most individuals. They should eat normally prior to donating, and must not plan on heavy activity for a few hours after donating. Because all sterile equipment is discarded after each use, and because each potential donor is pre-screened at the time of donation, the fears about getting a communicable disease are just that—fears.

It is hard to imagine a more appropriate time for giving the gift of life than the Thanksgiving weekend. The St. Vincent De Paul Society hopes that you and your family will agree and support this drive.

Marina Dinzey Memorial Scholarship

Laurie Mueller (middle), a Nursing student at Oakton Community College and a Niles resident, was awarded the Marina Dinzey Memorial Scholarship. The award was presented by Nora and Luis Cuadrado (Northbrook), friends of the Dinzey family. The scholarship was established in memory of Dinzey, former chairperson for Oakton's associate degree Nursing program, who died in a plane crash.

The Effects of Color in our Lives

Have you ever wondered how different colors affect your life?

On Tuesday, Nov. 22, at 7:45 p.m., Judy Gray, MS, NT, will speak on the topic of "The Effects of Color in our Lives"; why do fast food chains use certain colors in packaging; can too much of a particular color in home decoration cause any health problems; can certain colors in clothing weaken or strengthen a person; what colors generally have a calming effect and which ones will agitate? These and other questions will be discussed.

Judy Gray has been working in the nutrition field for 18 years, and studied in Germany for period of time. Judy is currently President of the American Institute of Curative Medicine. She is a nutrition consultant, and more recently has been studying color therapy.

This program is sponsored by The Niles Chapter of the International Association of Cancer Victors and Friends, and will be held at the Niles Public Library, 6960 W. Oakton St., Niles, in the Audio-Visual Room. Everyone is invited to attend this very interesting and informative meeting.

LGH new cardiac cath lab

Lutheran General Hospital-Park Ridge recently added a second Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory that includes a Cor-nix Bi-Plane Imaging System. The new system is the only one of its kind in Illinois.

The lab is unique because the bi-plane system enables cardiologists to view the heart in two positions at the same time and in special angles that are not available in any other system. The lab is also equipped with a Digital Cardiac Imaging System which gives clearer images of the heart, making interpretations and diagnosis easier.

The new lab was added because of an increasing demand for diagnostic and interventional studies. Currently, the lab performs approximately 2,000 tests per year. With the addition of the second lab, the procedures are expected to increase to more than 3,000 per year.

One of the tests performed in the lab and enhanced by the new equipment is an angiogram, which is an X-ray of the heart and the blood vessels and coronary arteries. With the new equipment, cardiologists have a clearer view of heart damage or blood vessel narrowing. Other treatments performed in the lab are angioplasty, which involves the insertion of a balloon catheter that is inflated to improve blood flow through the artery to the heart, and valvuloplasty, which uses a similar balloon catheter to open narrowed heart valves.

"We are doing more and more sophisticated diagnostic and therapeutic procedures," states David Cooke, M.D., medical director, Cardiac Cath Lab. "The new lab provides better imagery and, in some cases, eliminates the need for surgery, which means reduced costs for patients. The lab will also be valuable because of our growth in pediatric cardiology and electrophysiology."

For information on the new Cardiac Cath Lab, call the lab at 696-6990.

Total Foot Care Center offers latest technology

"It's unfortunate that so many people walk or run in discomfort when they really don't have to" says Dr. James Elipas of the Total Foot Care Centers. Sometimes all it takes is the treating of a long time callus or wart to really make a difference in the daily lives of most people. And when surgery is needed, say for bunions, most of the surgeries can be done on an outpatient basis in the office.

Dr. Elipas and his associates uses the most up to date technology in podiatric medicine. One of these advances include LASER TECHNOLOGY. The use of lasers offers many advantages over traditional surgery that uses scalpels and sutures. Some of these advantages include less discomfort and pain during the faster recovery period, the laser beam sterilizes the area around the cut and is applicable for many types of foot problems including warts, adhesions, tumors and other growths.

There's no reason why anyone cannot move in comfort, says Dr. Elipas. Call today for a free consultation!

LifeSource appoints new medical director

LifeSource, the Chicago area joint venture of The Blood Center of Northern Illinois and the American National Red Cross, announced the appointment of Ennio C. Rossi, M.D. as vice president, Medical Affairs.

In addition to his position with LifeSource, Dr. Rossi will continue his role as professor and chief of the Section of Transfusion Medicine, Department of Medicine at Northwestern University Medical School.

Dr. Rossi will be the senior medical officer responsible for overseeing all medical, technical, educational and research activities at LifeSource. He has a distinguished career in medicine with a very keen interest in transfusion medicine.

"It feels healthy, gets my spirits up, and gives me a natural high from doing something for someone else." What is Federal Reserve Bank employee David Bell talking about?

Most people know about being a regular whole blood donor, but not many people know what an apheresis donor is. David knows, because he recently made his fiftieth apheresis donation.

Apheresis is a special donation procedure during which only one blood component, such as platelets or white blood cells, is collected. The rest of blood (or the remaining components) are returned to the donor.

"I wanted to become an apheresis donor because I knew that my blood would be going to a specific patient. As an apheresis donor, you are told a little bit about the person who will receive your blood, such as their age, sex, and why they are needing a blood transfusion. It is a very satisfying feeling," smiles David.

"One special situation," recalls David, "was when I donated four times for a woman in the hospital who had a blood disorder." Her doctors couldn't diagnose the problem, but she needed blood transfusions. Her system began rejecting blood from randomly selected donors until an HLA (very specific tissue match) match was found with David.

"After receiving my blood," adds David, "the woman did a complete turnaround. She got well and was discharged from the hospital, and her doctors never did find out what was causing her blood disorder. It was a great feeling to know that I was able to help save her life."

David also took it upon himself to recruit apheresis donors for a fellow bank employee who had leukemia and needed blood. "I never met this man, but I thought he would need blood transfusions. I contacted his wife, and told her I had recruited 30 apheresis donors for him. Many people donated blood who never even met him."

For his outstanding contributions to the apheresis program, David has received plaques and other awards. In recognition of this fiftieth donation, David received a special commemorative medal at the LifeSource Apheresis Halloween party, where all long term apheresis donors were awarded tokens of appreciation.

If you would like to learn more about apheresis, or want to join people like David Bell, call LifeSource at 298-8600. With your apheresis donation, you can help be a "life-saver."

Edgewater Hospital honored

On October 14, Sister Sheila Lyne, RSM, presented a plaque to Edgewater Hospital from the American Hospital Association honoring Edgewater's fifty years of membership and the hospital's long tradition of delivering quality health care to its patients on the northside of Chicago.

Edgewater Hospital, a not-for-profit community teaching hospital, will continue to work with the American Hospital Association to achieve their mutual goal of providing the best possible health care services.

Instructors are from the Perfect Fit Program in Chicago. Cost for an eight-week series of classes is $24.

For further information and to register, call the Good Health Department at Rush North Shore Medical Center, 677-9600, Ext. 3588.

50 time Apheresis donor shares his good health

David Bell completes his 50th apheresis donation with LifeSource employees in Halloween costumes.

For his outstanding contributions to the apheresis program, David has received plaques and other awards. In recognition of this fiftieth donation, David received a special commemorative medal at the LifeSource Apheresis Halloween party, where all long term apheresis donors were awarded tokens of appreciation.

If you would like to learn more about apheresis, or want to join people like David Bell, call LifeSource at 298-8600. With your apheresis donation, you can help be a "life-saver."

Niles Optometrist completes course

The University of Missouri-St. Louis School of Optometry announces that Chester J. Nowak O.D. has successfully completed the Ocular Diagnostic Pharmaceutical Agents course at the University of Missouri St. Louis on July 28, 1988.

This course allows Chester J. Nowak O.D. to diagnose diseases of the eye.

Chester J. Nowak O.D. received his bachelor's degree in Diagnose from University of Missouri and his Doctor of Optometry degree from Illinois College Optometry.

Dr. Charles J. Nowak's office is located at 8150 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles, IL, 823-5988. Office hours are from 9 AM to 7 PM.

The 20/20 Acuity Game
The term 20/20 refers to the size letters which the average eye can read twenty feet away. In most standard vision testing, you read the familiar eye chart at a distance of 20 feet the Snellen acuity test. The upper number of the fraction expresses the test distance. The lower number identifies the size letters you were able to read at this distance. Thus 20/20 vision means that you are able to read at 20 feet the line of letters which a good eye can read at 20 feet.
Often, this vision test is given by having you look at distance letters or into a machine which creates the same conditions optically. The results are roughly similar to those of the Snellen acuity test.
However, parents should not be lulled into the impression their child has perfect vision because he scores a 20/20 on this test. All it measures is how well or poorly the child eyesight is at that distance. And that's all. Problems with near vision, eye coordination and focusing ability and brain interpretation of vision are among the many problems not discovered in this Snellen acuity test.
Only a professional eye examination that includes refraction, eye health, neuro-muscular coordination for near to distance will protect and save the priceless miracle of vision.

S.J.B. students learn of jury duty

Kenneth Lee, one of the computer teachers at St. John Brebeuf School, was selected for jury duty recently and later shared his experience with Mrs. Carole Lake's eighth grade social studies' class. We share with you his own words concerning this civic duty.

"Approximately 4 months prior to being selected, a questionnaire form is filled out and returned with your preference of what season of the year you would like to serve, if selected for jury duty. Your name was selected from the voter's registration list.

I received a card stating that I was selected as a standby jury and would be required to call in the day before I was to report to see if I was still needed. When I called and the message said that all standby jurors whose last name began with G thru L would have to report.

I was given instructions where I could park for free and was to report to the Jury Assembly Room. When I reported, I showed the summons I was sent and was asked to select a Panel Number from a bowl. I selected Number 24. That was my group for my entire stay for jury duty. We were given written instructions and a juror's badge to be worn at all times in court. After all had assembled, we were shown a short video of court room procedures, names and what to expect when called.

At approximately 11:30 a.m., panel numbers 24, 25, 26, and 27 were called. There were 50 persons that had selected number 24. We lined up in 2's and were escorted to the court room by two deputy sheriffs who were always with us. The panel was divided up in 4 parts to that 14 at a time could be put in an elevator. We reported to court room 207 presided by Judge Mary Maxwell Thomas.

The judge gave us a brief description of the case we were selected for and then dismissed us for lunch. After lunch, the voir dire began. Voir dire is an oath taken by a person to speak the truth in an examination testing his competence as a witness or juror. It also means the examination itself. We as potential jurors were about to be questioned. Before the individual questions were asked, the judge introduced herself, the state's attorneys, the defendant's lawyer, court reporter, court clerk, defendant and the deputy sheriffs. We were asked if we knew any of them. If we had, that person would have been excused for cause. The case was described and the charges against the defendant were read. The charge was possession of a controlled substance (i.e. cocaine) of not less than 5 grams or more than 15 grams with intent to deliver.

Voir Dire: I was the 10th juror to be questioned and these were the questions asked of me. State my full name and spell the last name. State the location of where I lived in general terms - no addresses. I responded northwest suburbs.

Occupation? Marital status? Married? Spouse's occupation and where she worked? Allstate. Did she work in the Claim Department? No, Operations. Do you have any children? Yes, 6. What are their ages and what do they do?

Have you a court case pending

Singletary at Citicorp

Area youngsters get a chance to pose with a pro, Chicago Bear Mike Singletary, during his recent visit to Citicorp Savings in Evanston. From right, Skokie residents Wendi Hallenstam, 6, and Jade Harper, 9, along with friend Gabriele Denize, 7, of Evanston, met with the linebacker to celebrate the launch of the New Bears Citi-One Account.

in Cook County now? No.

Do you know a policeman, lawyer, judge or law enforcement official? Are they a close friend or relative? Do you discuss any of their cases with them?

Have you a close friend or relative been a victim of a crime? Describe who it was and what was the crime? Were you pleased the way the police handled the investigation? Would that experience influence your decision in this case?

Do you know anyone that has been convicted of a crime? Describe the crime. Were you satisfied that the police did everything possible in the case? Do you give more credibility to a policeman testifying over another person?

Do you have any reason why you couldn't render a decision in this case?

After that last question, I was permitted to sit down and she went on to the next juror.

There were 14 jurors initially placed in the jury box for impaneling (selection of a juror from a jury list). When the 14th person was finished, the judge dismissed 2 jurors for a cause with agreement from all lawyers. One was because he had a case pending in the courts and the other because she had a religious tenet that did not allow her to judge a person as being guilty or not guilty.

The 12 of us were sent to the jury room and waited until we were recalled. During this time, the lawyers from both sides can use a challenge to dismiss a juror without giving a cause. They have a limit on the number of challenges they can use. We were called back and informed by the judge that 6 of us were dismissed. Of the 6 that now remained, 4 of us were officially impaneled. I was one of them. We 4 were then dismissed and the remaining 2 were joined by 12 new jurors to fill up the jury box and repeat the process.

I had been dismissed at 4:40 p.m., the second 4 jurors impaneled were dismissed at 6 p.m. and the last group at 7:10 p.m. which included 2 alternatives.

At 10:30 a.m. we reported for the trial to begin. At that time, 2 of the regular jurors had been dismissed that morning and as a result the 2 alternatives were now regular jurors.

The Trial.

The Deliberation: At 6:30 p.m. we were sent to the jury room to reach a decision in the case. We were given something to eat and were told to choose a foreperson.

After reviewing the evidence in the case and discussing it, we took our first vote. It was 8 to 4 with 2 wanting a possession only verdict. We discussed for another half hour and at 7:30 p.m. the vote was 9 to 3 with still 2 for possession. More talking took place and at 8 p.m. the vote was still 9 to 3. Finally at 8:40 p.m. we reached a verdict at 12 to 0. The deputy said we would have been locked up for the night if we had not reached a verdict in 5 minutes. Reservations at a motel had already been made. The verdict was not guilty of possession with intent to deliver and not guilty of possession.

Around Town...

about vet bills and shedding but spearheading the adoption of two more cats and a dog. While somewhere a clock ticked, marking the seasons of our four-legged friends.

Previously, our animals chose to die when my husband was out of town and when competing life situations overshadowed their passing. 13 year old Muff went to cat heaven while hubby was in Dallas. This tuxedoed feline made his exit soon after the arrival of our daughter. Alone, with a young baby, there was little time to mourn the loss of a loyal friend. Maggie stopped her boundy Irish setter ways at age 12, when the man of the house was in Atlanta and the rest of us were worried about Mom's deteriorating condition. The sadness of Maggie's passing was soon lessened by the joy of seeing my stroke-ravaged mother petting our 8 week old golden retriever.

Emma is the last pet remnant from the days before husband and child so it's befitting she should choose this time, when my husband is in Nashville, to end her season. She has always barely tolerated newcomers and visitors - animals and people alike - and she would hide whenever we moved, whenever visitors would come, and whenever there was a new pet introduced into the household.

For 16 of the past 18 years, she's pretty much avoided everyone except at feeding time. Shy and delicate, Emma preferred sleeping away from people and other cats. The boy cats deferred to her at meal times, and the dogs were equally respectful. When we moved into our current home, Emma began to be more outgoing. After this last relocation, friends of many years finally met her. She began to seek out the companionship of the other two cats and she was more tolerant of the two dogs. She allowed herself to be petted, at times even demanding affection. I cannot remember Emma purring before this year. Other things changed as well.

This fastidious feline, who had elevated cat box littering to excavation standards exceeded only by Pompeian archaeologists, had now gotten careless. Oh, she still gets the location correct but she's too tired to dig and sometimes her aim is wrong. She has stopped grooming herself and her coat no longer smells like bunny fur.

Leaves are falling outside. Not long ago, for reasons known mainly to themselves, heroes battled on an Alaskan shore to save grey whales who may return next year to meet some of their rescuers and engage in another life struggle. My cause is equally myopic. I'm at home doing what I can to make the end of a season more comfortable for one petite black and white cat who finally requires more of me than to be fed and to have the cat litter changed. There's no new baby and none of our family members are sick. So as we near the final act, there's many tears as Emma plays out her public drama. I had to wash last night's food off her chin and paws. Today, she didn't eat. Her tiny, boney body has been set down between the two other cats who will finish cleaning her. As I work, all three are purring. Sometimes manageable, everyday actions make us feel a bit like heroes.

felt homeowners should not have to separate recyclables, necessitating more than one container. Re-cyclers in the test program use a plastic crate for the recyclables. Haulaway does the separating curbside.

CONVENIENCE: Planners wanted recyclables to be picked up in conjunction with other trash. This was less work for the homeowners and represented a savings to the village.

EQUIPMENT: Rather than use separate trucks along the same routes, one truck with one crew fulfilled the ease, convenience and cost savings requirements. The compartmentalized truck has rotating cylinders which distribute the trash and compact the materials.

TEST AREA: The homeowners involved in the test area reside west of Oriole, north of Dempster, east of Washington and south of Golf. Each homeowner in the 1156 home sample was issued a heavy duty plastic blue crate, measuring roughly 18 inches by 18 inches.

MATERIALS RECYCLED: Homeowners place newspapers, green and amber glass (such as beer and soft drink bottles), and aluminum cans and other aluminum articles into their crates and set them onto the curb on their Wednesday pick-up day.

INITIAL PROBLEMS: The program got underway June 15, 1988, where it became immediately apparent that a second truck would be required. A village-wide program would call for one truck for every 1000 households. At first, a few recycling crates were reported stolen as well.

Brandsma, who's firm is contracted for a similar Lincolnwood recycling test, told The Bugle, "Morton Grove is a leader" for making an early commitment to recycling. Lincolnwood and Morton Grove's participation mix and rates in the program are similar. Participation rates are around 60% of households, on average.

Recycling will be on the Village Board agenda before the end of the year when final cost and participation rates are tallied. If adopted, village-wide, Arft indicated that he hoped to eventually include condominiums and town houses.

Arft compared recycling habits to gasoline service station habits. The public at first resisted the necessary change in lifestyle when self-service gas became available. He predicted people will be more and more committed to recycling in the future.

East of the test area, in the area bounded by the Edens, Lincoln, Oakton and Austin, other Morton Grove households also have curbside pick-up for recycled materials. North Shore Ecology Center picks up tin and aluminum cans and all paper goods. The pick-ups have been going on since 1979, with no reimbursement from the Village. According to spokesman George Brabec, the Village "didn't care to talk to us about" extending pick-ups village wide, and never offered the diversion credit. Brabec's not for profit organization does not pick up other trash

NORTRAN's Route 211 provides service to Skokie and Lincolnwood

Many residents don't realize it, but they have bus service along the previously unserved area of Crawford Avenue between Devon and Howard.

According to Timothy J. Doron, NORTRAN Executive Director and General Manager, more Lincolnwood and Skokie residents would use their Route 211 (Devon/Milwaukee to Howard CTA Station) if they knew it was there.

and recyclables, as does Haulaway, though neither currently picks up plastic and yard waste. People may bring glass and plastic to the recycling center operated by North Shore located at Niles West High School. Insurance regulations prohibit the center from transporting the glass. If all of Morton Grove is included in village-sponsored recycling, North Shore will end its curbside pick-ups. North Shore is operating in other communities which are offering a diversion credit. The suburbs they currently serve are Winnetka, Glenview, Deerfield, Northbrook, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Long Grove, Libertyville, Lake Bluff, Woodstock, McHenry, Evanston and Skokie. In addition they operate 2 Chicago centers. The organization has been operating their 18 dropoff centers since 1971, and thought communities would have started their own recycling centers and eliminated the need for organizations like North Shore years ago.

by having this tax on utilities, industry and commercial accounts share the burden with residents. Not only do they feel this is more equitable but industry and commerce likely pay up to 40% of the total bills. It is implied residents are alleviated from higher bills by having non-residents sharing in this burden.

Having seen the narrow vote okaying the new telephone fee, we would think next year's candidates would seriously consider having the village pay for the per line fee.

Consider what is in store for the village's money bags. The new shopping center on Waukegan Road will likely generate $1 million for the village the very first year it is in operation. It may skyrocket to far more than that figure. The new shopping center on the old AT&T property is also estimated to bring in annually the $1 million figure.

With such huge additional moneys, you would think Niles would be willing to pay the dinky $1 per month per line fee. It would save residents a collected $125,000 per year. And it wouldn't make a dent in the village's money bags.

If there was to be an opposition party to the incumbents in the 1989 election, a prime issue should be in reviewing the way the village spends its huge sums of revenue. Is buying land on Milwaukee Avenue the most productive way to use village funds? How much revenue is lost by the village by taking tax-producing property off the tax rolls when it buys this property? And the hokey phrase, "Are we getting the most bang for our buck?" certainly is a legitimate question which should be asked in or out of an election campaign.

There are other questions which should confront village officials. Since the Niles village, park and library districts include the same Niles residents, why shouldn't more of village funds be given to the park and library districts? If I was in a campaign next year I would bang away at this issue. Why should the village's money bags be overflowing while the park and library people are forever seeking more revenue without raising taxes?

With all this additional sales tax money heading for the village, wouldn't it make sense to earmark $500,000 annually for each one of the other districts? Isn't the improving of villager's minds every bit as important as providing transportation for its residents? And shouldn't increased recreation for the community be a high priority on all officials' lists?

It's time Nilesites get reinvolved in the running of their community. Niles doesn't belong to seven people who sit on the village board once or twice a month. Not only does Niles not belong to these people exclusively but neither does the huge revenues which flow into the village belong exclusively to them. The town, the money and its well being belongs to the people who live here. They deserve the best money has to offer. And that means lower fees (taxes) and better library and park facilities. This should be a key issue in next year's election campaign. But election or not, it should be a concern to the 11,000 resident-owners of the village, whose children have only one shot at growing up in the best possible environment.

Niles parks and library can use more of the village's money. Much village property should be sold and go on the tax rolls for additional revenue. And extra taxes such as the $1 telephone fee should be picked up by the village.

Culminating two years of intensive study, and cooperative effort, Oakton issued new, more stringent graduation requirements for degrees. The new requirements will take effect in the 1989-1990 school year. Students already enrolled in degree programs will keep the same requirements.

The Board approved two new A.A.S. Degree curricula in Retail and Mail Management and Material Management. The Retail and Mail management major makes Oakton one of just a few schools in the country to offer formal training in the field.

The material Management major is designed to prepare students for entry-level positions in production management, inventory control, purchasing, transportation and warehousing. Courses will also be of value for those already working in this industry.

Reasons for the delay were given by the engineering firm of Barton-Aschman. The Sexton landfill across the street from the camp will not accept fine material until spring when they can seed over it. The lowest bid for hauling larger debris was twice the price of the average for the service. Bids will go out again in the spring, and more firms are expected to offer bids because the weather is more favorable then.

Gorell was a special guest and praised President Bode on all her accomplishments and her volunteer work in the community. Former Village of Skokie Manager Robert Eppley was the vocalist and sang "The Marine's Hymn" especially for President Bode, honoring her father, uncle and husband Jack (being installed as Post Sgt.-at-Arms) all having served in the United States Marine Corp. Other dignitaries for Mrs. Bode's installation were Wanda Lovely President 1st Division Cook County Council, who served as Installing Sergeant-At-Arms, and Installing Chaplain, Marion Jacobs, President of Seventh District.

The Health Department contracts with health professionals to provide the service. Clients pay a $4 screening fee. After a blood sample is taken with a simple finger stick, the client receives the results in only three minutes. An individual with a high cholesterol level is advised to contact his physician for follow-up.
More than 8,000 people took advantage of the screenings during the program's first year. The service is offered as a daily walk-in clinic. Evening and weekend screenings are also scheduled.

Administrative Manager Balling will obtain a written agreement from the Glenview Park District prior to making the trade. The Toro snow plow blade is valued at around $400, according to Balling's office. Discussion Begins Before Meeting
Although the meeting was officially called to order at 7:32 p.m., slightly after its regularly scheduled starting time, discussion of the Treasurer's Report, bills, $475,000 bond ordinance, and minutes of the last regular meeting began at approximately 7:00 p.m., according to Board members, because Parks Attorney Gabriel Berrafato was to be at the Niles Park District meeting. The Morton Grove Park Board normally would have met on the 22nd of this month. Berrafato presented the 26 page bond ordinance to the board. In addition, minutes of the executive session of the board, which is not open to the public, were also discussed before the meeting was officially convened. After the roll call and Pledge of Allegiance, minutes of the October 20 regular and executive session, treasurer's report and bills were unanimously approved by the Board.

Prairie View to Get Gas Heat
Attorney Berrafato also submitted a letter of intent for Honeywell, Inc., a Lincolnwood firm which will convert the Prairie View Community Center heating system from electric to gas by the year 1989. According to the plan, the Park District will save nearly $50,000 per year in heating costs. The savings, projected to totally fund the cost of the conversion within 3.1 years, is estimated at $152,652. The Park will finance the capital items. Honeywell will guarantee the savings to the District, or pay back the difference. Savings to the District over the $48,788 total projected by Honeywell would be due to Honeywell. The Board approved the letter unanimously. New Health Insurance Provider for Park Employees

After comparing current employee health insurance coverage with other plans, Commissioner Dan Stackmann recommended the Board approve "The Principal Mutual Insurance Company as the carrier of medical insurance benefits for full-time employees effective December 1, 1988. The Kropp Insurance Agency of Morton Grove is the broker for the Principal Mutual Plan."

According to the comparison, Blue Cross Blue Shield, which is also the carrier for Village employees, will be raising its rates from $57,047.64 to $75,644.64, an increase of $18,597.00 more than 30% over current costs. The rates for the Principal Mutual Plan for 21 employees level is $57,429.36, an increase of $54.72 over the current plan. Instead of a cost per employee of $6,303.72, the cost per employee will be $4,785.78.

Coverage for employees will be slightly different under the new plan. The individual deductible will decrease, but the family deductible will go from $1500 to $2,000. Reimbursement for Emergency Hospital, Accident, Outpatient Surgery, Pre-Admission tests, Diagnostic X-Rays and Physician would be decreased to 80% from the BC/BS 100%. The Principal Mutual plan provides for a smaller deductible larger limitation for mental, nervous and emotional disorders. The Board unanimously approved Lawrence Bloomfield's recommendation.

Fitness Members Rate Club
The Fitness Club survey was presented to Park District Board Members at the regular meeting November 15. Members, 73% of whom reside outside of Morton Grove, gave more good marks than excellent to club facilities and staff. Staff members were rated higher on friendliness than on knowledge and performance. 59% of those responding to the survey indicated they would support a 10% increase in membership prices.

The woman complained her old van had been stolen from the dealership while she was driving the new one. She was told by Golf Mill Ford management the dealership was not responsible for the theft even though it occurred on their property and since the woman still legally owned the van, the matter was between her and Niles police. Upon hearing this, the woman became infuriated. She began a verbal dispute using loud foul language whereupon management gave her the choice of leaving or having the police called.

The woman then gained control of several sets of Ford keys which she used to hijack another van. The woman, now the offender, sped around the auto dealer's parking lot, narrowly missing the closely parked vehicles.
Two Golf Mill Ford employees jumped into separate cars to block the woman's exit onto Milwaukee Avenue. The offender then used the hijacked van to ram one of the cars attempting to cut her off.
The offender jumped out of the van and fled on foot to Golf Mill Shopping Center. Police searched the area and arrested the offender in Butera Foods. Two additional sets of Ford keys were in her possession.

hearing, the request is approved by the Village Board of Trustees.
Jordan Kaplan, the amendment prohibits a restaurant totally, but if another type of tenant desires to sell retail foods, the review commission, headed by Lawrence Bloomfield would notify area residents so interested parties could be present at the hearing. The review commission would then make recommendations to the Village Board. The decision of the Village Board regarding any tenant wishing to sell food would be final. There were no residents or Highland Square representatives present at the regular board meeting November 14.

Trustee Don Snieder has consistently opposed any establishment selling food at Highland Square. Trustee Henry Szachowicz, who had previously approved the drafting of the text amendment, voted against the amendment presented to the board.
In other business, two ordinances, presented to the Village Board, were approved unanimously. The village transferred $29,563 to the Illinois Housing Development Authority. The sum represents the annual low-income housing tax credit allocation, which was not used for calendar year 1989. According to Village Administrator Larry Art, the lack of available land as well as the lack of lower priced housing units in the village made it impossible to use the funds. Transferring the money to IHDA, a practice in many communities, makes a large pool of funds available to the state to subsidize low income housing for families and individuals. In the second matter, Car Care Enterprises was granted a special use permit for its property at 3246 N. Waukegan Rd. The owner will erect a wood fence on the property and contribute $3,000 towards re-paving the alley.

Also at the MG Meeting:
Two proclamations were presented by Interim Mayor Richard Hoss. He declared December 4-11 United Way Week. The organization returns 90 percent of its funding for its Crusade of Mercy charities. The 1988 goal is $327,000. The week of November 27-December 3 will be Home Health Care Week in recognition of the services in the community providing in-home care to people of all ages.

Niles library...

Community Development hosted by a New Resident Reception Sunday, November 13 attended by 42 families. Families who have recently moved to the village listened to presentations by officials from the Village, Police and Fire Departments, Library and Park District.
A cable questionnaire will be sent out to residents on a random basis this week. Continental Cablevision is asking for a five year extension to their contract to enable the company to recoup the major capital investment incurred during the installation of new equipment for the village.

Board president Terri Carman said the board is pleased with McKenzie's service. And long-time trustee Irene Costello said the library's poor reputation of five years ago changed due to McKenzie's efforts. The library of then and now are "like night and day," according to Costello.
Board member Margaret Rajski voted against the salary hike. "Nobody else's salary has doubled in five years," she said. Rajski told the Bugle that she believes too much money is spent on administering the library. "The library has too many chiefs and not enough Indians," said Rajski.

A volunteer reading program for the elderly will be coordinated by the Niles Public Library District pending a study by library personnel, according to board action.
In an unexpected motion, Rajski suggested a networking base join together individuals unable to read with readers, the program subject to review by the board attorney concerning possible liabilities.
Carman said a board vote approving Rajski's motion would result in asking for a legal opinion, or expenditures of funds, without a study by chiefs of the library departments. She also suggested that a reading program be included in a "more sophisticated" three-year plan.

Board members agreed to a review by library personnel before further action.
Niles resident Estelle Hodes was presented with a plaque honoring her husband, the late Martin Hodes. Hodes served as a library trustee from 1970 to 1983 and as president of the board from 1973 to 1978.
Rajski, in presenting the plaque, said Hodes taught "neophyte" trustees how to conduct the board's business. Mary, we can only say 'Dayenu' and 'Shalom' (Hebrew for sufficient and peace)," she said.
"For 13 years, he lived and breathed the library. He left his mark on the community, not only on the library, but in many other organizations," said his wife. The plaque will be hung in the library.
Board members agreed to a $4,065 purchase of 279,000 checkout cards in a new system to be instituted. titled a "perpetual card" system, each card may be used four days of the year. They are of heavier paper stock than those currently in use and not as easily bent out of shape. Bent cards are not usable in checkout machinery.
Board members also approved an expenditure of $620 to repair or replace a sump pump. Board trustee Robert Quattrocchi suggested the library investigate the need for a larger pump.

minimum of 44 signatures is required. Elections for the positions, which are for a four year term as a Park District Commissioner, will be held on April 4, 1989. "If anyone is interested, get your petitions now and start circulating them before it starts getting cold out," advised Heinen.

"Everybody has old things they would like to get rid of. Sometimes you want to give them away, sometimes you would like to junk it," said President Heinen in reference to some Park District assets.
The Board will be formulating a policy allowing for the disposal or storage of obsolete equipment. "Either dispose of it, store it, or get rid of it," is the attitude adopted by the Park District. Things that are of no use to the parks will be made available to other park districts who may benefit from them.

Upcoming events that were announced by Commissioner Mary Marusek at Tuesday's meeting include:
...A Santa's visit to the Recreation Center on Saturday, Dec. 17, from 10-11 a.m. Breakfast will be served and children bringing a wrapped gift will participate in a grab bag. The cost is 50 cents per child.
...Santa's Mailbox. Santa will pick up his mail at the Park District Office on Friday, Dec. 16. All letters dropped off by that date will be insured a personal response by Santa.
...Calls from Santa. On Monday, Dec. 21, Santa will be available to call children in their homes between 6-8 p.m. Parents need to fill out a short questionnaire to help Santa out. All of these are very low key nice experiences that I think will help the children enjoy the holidays," said Marusek.

A shopping trip for the whole family to Water Tower Place is scheduled for Dec. 3. The cost is $3 for residents and $4.50 for non-residents.
Private or semi-private indoor golf lessons will be available starting in November at the Ballard Complex. Reservations must be made one day in advance by calling 824-8860. Golf Pro Phil Holoubek will be giving the instructions at a cost of $17 for a private lesson and $20 for two people.
The Tam Golf Course is scheduled to be open through Thanksgiving weekend. After Thanksgiving, the course will be open on a day-to-day basis, weather permitting. Commissioner Val Engelman, also reported on a reduction of rate of one dollar across the board and a waiver of the $25 reservation fee which will be effective beginning Nov. 16. The concession stand at the golf course will remain open for lunch until March. This is at the request of winter golfers, cross-country skiers, and neighboring factory workers.
Engelman also announced increased public skating time. Beginning Friday, Nov. 25, open skating will be from 8-9:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and Sunday afternoons. Each session is $2 per person.
Marusek presented on the use of the Park District school bus. "To update bus usage, to reflect our cost, and also to offer this as a service to the groups within the community at a rate that is much more reasonable than they would incur if they had to rent from an outside group."

He reached the middle dividing stripe and stood there waiting for an opening to cross when he was struck by a car heading eastbound on Dempster. The man's body was hurled into the westbound lanes where he was struck by several more cars. The exact number of cars involved is undetermined because most of the cars in the westbound lanes did not stop. Glass was strewn in several locations in the westbound lanes indicating the impact broke headlights and windshields of more than one car in those lanes.
The first driver of the car that struck the man told police he did not see Patel because of the darkness. He was not found at fault or charged by police because of the conditions at the time of the accident.

The woman left her older van as a trade-in for a new van she purchased from Golf Mill Ford. The dealership allowed her to drive the new van before business transactions were officially completed.

The woman complained her old van had been stolen from the dealership while she was driving the new one. She was told by Golf Mill Ford management the dealership was not responsible for the theft even though it occurred on their property and since the woman still legally owned the van, the matter was between her and Niles police. Upon hearing this, the woman became infuriated. She began a verbal dispute using loud foul language whereupon management gave her the choice of leaving or having the police called.

The woman then gained control of several sets of Ford keys which she used to hijack another van. The woman, now the offender, sped around the auto dealer's parking lot, narrowly missing the closely parked vehicles.
Two Golf Mill Ford employees jumped into separate cars to block the woman's exit onto Milwaukee Avenue. The offender then used the hijacked van to ram one of the cars attempting to cut her off.
The offender jumped out of the van and fled on foot to Golf Mill Shopping Center. Police searched the area and arrested the offender in Butera Foods. Two additional sets of Ford keys were in her possession.
There were no injuries during the car chase. The woman is charged with Misdemeanor Criminal Damage and Disorderly Conduct.
