Niles backs solid waste balefill

by Nancy Keraminas

The Niles village board of trustees voted 5-0 to urge the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) to approve development of a solid waste balefill in unincorporated Hanover Township. Trustee Peter Pesole was absent from the Sept. 26 regular board meeting when Trustee Louella B. Preston reported on the status of the Solid Waste Agency of Northern Cook County (SWANCC), in which Niles participates. IEPA is to meet Oct. 15 to decide the question, subject to a U.S. Congressional report relative to the landfill. Considerations include potential soil and water contamination from runoff from decomposing garbage. If the balefill is approved, it will take many years to develop and

Marathon men stop Sportmart shoplifter

Two gas station employees and an off-duty Morton Grove police officer helped a Sportmart security guard arrest a 30 year old Evanston man suspected of shoplifting Wednesday, Sept. 20.

Owner Chuck Barnes and Guy Fisher of Marathon took up the chase when Sportmart agent Keith Baker shouted for help as he pursued the suspect through the Dempster-Shermer Marathon station at 7145 W. Dempster Street. Officer Javier Alonso assisted when the suspect was arrested three blocks away from the store.

In addition, Alonso's fiancée, a Buffalo Grove officer, assisted.

Via hidden camera, Baker observed the suspect stuffing a $89.95 jumpsuit down the front of his trousers, then move toward the front of the store at 7233 Dempster Street. Baker dashed to the front of the store to apprehend the thief as he left but an accomplice intervened and the suspect discarded the garment and ran east through the parking lot. The chase went across Harlem Avenue, through the Marathon Station, north across Dempster Street, through side streets and an alley.

Baker was struck by a motorist as he crossed Dempster but was too involved in the pursuit to be aware of his injuries. With five people closing the gap, the suspect "ran out of gas", in Baker's words and began to threaten his pursuers. "He threatened to cut us," Baker said "but I don't think anyone believed he had a weapon."

Niles Village wins hometown award

Pictured left to right are Mayor Nicholas B. Blase, John Halversen, Director of Family Services for the Village of Niles and Trustee Louella Preston. The village received the Governor's Hometown Award for 1989 for the concerted efforts of volunteer citizens, municipal employees, Department of Family Services, Department of Senior Citizens and Police Department. All of the persons involved have worked to meet the universal needs of displaced community youth having problems that other communities have been unable to deal with.

Harlem Ave. repairs may start early

Harlem Ave. motorists are being slowed down by Niles police and Harlem Ave. repairs may be speeded up, following a Sept. 25 meeting where residents of that street lobbied for improvements.

Niles village trustee Angelo Marcheschi announced that the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) now favors a stepped-up schedule for repaving the section of Harlem Avenue between Dempster Street and Oakton Avenue. Marcheschi, who joined the 64 citizens airing their grievances to an IDOT representative Monday night received a call from IDOT the following day indicating the agency may be able to resurface the state highway a year earlier than previously anticipated.

An IDOT representative told Nilesites at the Monday meeting that the $300,000 repaving cost would be funded by motor fuel taxes but manpower shortages and work schedules prevented the agency from beginning the project.

MG student explores burial mounds in Central Illinois

by Sheilya Hackett

Seven hundred years ago, solemn drum beats might have witnessed the burial of a powerful chief on the grassy mound atop the 200 ft. bluff in central Illinois. In 1989, the mound swarms with workers, archeology students, hurriedly tracing and recording Native American history before it's destroyed by advancing strip mines. One worker is Jennifer Seul, 23, of Morton Grove, who spent the summer at the Orendorf site in central Illinois.

Orendorf, the center of Middle Mississippian Native American life between 1250-1400 A.D., is located in the Illinois river valley near Canton, IL, about 25 miles south of Peoria. Since the first excavations in 1971, the site has yielded significant information about the lives of the natives before contact with European settlers. The site was settled at least five different times by tribes who later moved on.

The mystery of forgotten grave sites leads explorers to suffer heat, ticks and mosquitoes, and Jennifer Seul, along with 24 other fellow Western Illinois University (WIU) students and assorted archeology buffs from around the country-willingly suffered discomforts and the daily slog up the 200 ft. bluff in their scientific quest. Over the summer they learned basic exploratory skills such as how to survey, map and record their findings. Using spades and trowels, they combed the mound soil, a mixture of silt and clay, for skeletal remains and artifacts, then examined bones with paint brushes and bamboo picks.

Seul's earrings bob and her brown eyes are bright as she describes one grave excavation in which the main skeleton, a male, was complete with all bones. A semi-circle of small stones surrounded the upper portion of the body and three skulls were placed in a triangular outline at one side.

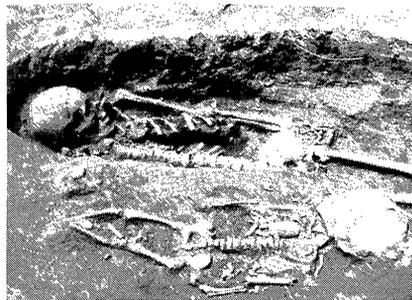

Another skeleton was lying on the other side, minus a skull and with its leg bones placed on its chest. Beneath the main form they found a "bundle burial", a container of bones from two or three individuals.

Important grave sites often held small red pots and the pots occasionally held a single clam shell, but the significance of the single shell is unclear. Other recovered bones told stories of native life long ago, revealing illnesses and the high nutritional stress caused by the basic diet of corn.

Occasionally the diggers found artifacts that suggested the deceased's trade. Next to a skeleton that may have been a medicine man, they found small animal bones, a smooth rock and a chunk of galena, or lead ore, a material used for ornamentation. Smaller, less important mounds usually surrounded the prominent, 15 ft. mounds of personages and all the burial sites were located about 50 yards from the former village area. In the village, the shallow trenches that traditionally surrounded native thatch or bark huts can still be found.

The summer's work only encouraged Seul's career plans which include graduating from WIU, then studying for a master's degree in some field of archeology.

Though archeological digs weren't new to Seul when she began the summer stint-she had already toured sites in Cahokia, IL and the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico-she would like to expand her studies to other tomb sites with treasures, maybe in Egypt or Central America. She said the work gives her a sense of history, because the bones were once really people and you are "looking through a window" trying to discover their daily lives.

These skeletons were among those unearthed in burial mounds by Morton Groveite Jennifer Seul during last summer's archeological dig in central Illinois.

Hartigan has big lead in governor's race

Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan has taken an early five-point lead over Republican Jim Edgar in the race for governor based on a poll by McKeon & Associates, a professional polling company.

In a statewide poll, 84 percent of the persons interviewed expressed a preference, with only 16 percent registering "don't know".

The poll showed surprisingly consistent support for the Democratic candidate among all age groups. Only in the 46 to 60 age group did Hartigan trail and then by less than .7 percent.

Meanwhile Hartigan demonstrated a commanding 12-point lead among voters 61 and older, a reflection of his long record as lieutenant governor and attorney general in championing the cause of senior citizens.

Hartigan was especially strong with independent voters who preferred him to Edgar 41 to 34.7 percent. Even among voters of his opponent's party, Hartigan ran extremely well, picking up almost one in every five Republican votes.

Hartigan's strength in the poll was also reflected in the issues included in the interviews. By almost a 4 to 1 margin, those polled agreed with Hartigan in opposition to making the new temporary state income tax increase permanent.

Edgar has spoken in favor of the permanent increase, Hartigan has said he will support such a move only if the money is applied to schools and proves effective in improving education.

Those interviewed in the poll rated both candidates about even in combating drugs and crime, but gave Hartigan a clear preference on his positions on education, high taxes and unemployment problems.

District 207 suspends accused teacher

by Sheilya Hackett

A district 207 science teacher, accused of a sexual assault which occurred two and a half years ago, has been suspended with pay through Monday, Oct. 2. He faces a court hearing Oct. 3. District Superintendent Dr. James Elliot recommended the action to a closed session of the school board Sept. 20 and it was unanimously approved. About 100 of the teacher's supporters attended the meeting. A spokesperson addressed the board on his behalf after the action was taken.

The accused man, Scott Ray Welty, 39, of Chicago was recognized by his alleged victim, now 16, when she reported to her first science class Aug. 29. Following investigations by Park Ridge and Cook County State's Attorney Police, Welty was charged with aggravated criminal sexual assault when he surrendered to Park Ridge Police. According to Park Ridge Director of Public Safety John Baudek, the assault occurred at 4:30 p.m. April 1, 1987, in the forest preserve near Devon Avenue and Dee Road, Park Ridge.

Associate Judge Marcia Orr of the first circuit court of Cook County established a $50,000 bond for Welty, which he paid, and set the preliminary hearing date for Oct. 3. Welty has no known criminal record.

Dr. Elliot indicated Welty has taught in District 207 since 1985, instructing science classes at both Maine East and Maine South high schools. The Superintendent declined to identify the alleged victim's school.

Parks consider Borg purchase

by Nancy Keraminas

Borg School neighbors continued their campaign to preserve the school's open land last week and welcomed the help promised by the Morton Grove Park District.

The Park Board issued a news release indicating it would consider studying a proposed purchase of 3.85 acres of school and land, provided enough village residents showed interest in the purchase. The district indicated it could not purchase Borg without approval by a citizen referendum authorizing funds for the park to exercise its right of eminent domain.

The Bugle is seeking a high school typist for approximately 3 days a week after school and alternate Saturdays. Must be excellent student. Sophomore or Junior preferred. Call: 966-3900

Happy hour ban has not hurt business

Area tavern owners praise happy hour ban

by Nancy Keraminas

Some local taverns don't seem to be bothered by a recent state of Illinois ban on happy hours, when alcoholic drinks are offered for reduced prices.

One Niles tavern manager applauds the legislature's efforts to curb drunk driving. "It's a great idea. Terry Sullivan has been dead set against happy hours ever since they started," asserted Gene Hegarty, manager of Sullivan's at 9055 Milwaukee Ave. "It's a cheap way to come in, get drunk and then leave." Sullivan's business is based on "word of mouth" and people come in for dart tournaments held at the Niles spot. Rusty's at 9005 Waukegan Rd. in Morton Grove, popular with the afterwork set, once had happy hours but says Al their manager, eliminating them "hasn't affected us in the least." Rusty's clientele come in for Bears games and other sporting events and there are currently no plans to replace happy hour with another event.

Hynes School to be auctioned

by Sheilya Hackett

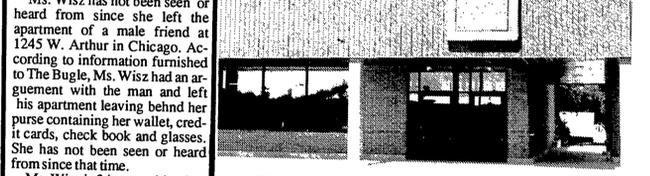

The Hynes school, 9000 Bellefort Ave., Morton Grove, will go on the auction block Oct. 19 as a result of an unanimous decision by the District 67 school board Sept. 21. The board vote was a final blow to a number of Hynes parents, about 70 of whom were present, who opposed the school closing.

Demographic data given at the meeting by education consultant Dr. Kenneth Underwood supported earlier surveys that foresaw dwindling pupil enrollments in the district. Superintendent Dr. Harry Trumfio, has maintained it is economically unfeasible to maintain both Hynes and Golf Junior high when combined enrollment dips below 500. He wants to combine both school populations at Golf school, 9401 Waukegan Rd., Morton Grove. Currently, 480 pupils are enrolled in the schools.

The Hynes parents' chief objection to moving all pupils to Golf school is the school's proximity to Waukegan Road motels. Dr. Trumfio said plans for the new Golf School addition show it to be set back, leaving more than

Open house set at GlenBridge

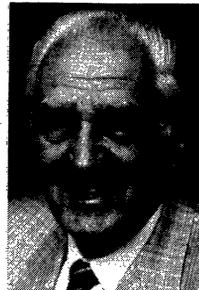

Mayor Nicholas Blase of Niles and other dignitaries will attend a formal champagne buffet at GlenBridge Nursing Centre on Thursday Sept. 28, when the GlenBridge staff and residents host an open house.

Residents rooms and nursing stations have been redecorated. The center's formal, flower-filled Stratford Dining Room is reminiscent of a tea room.

Mayor Blase will preside at a 1 p.m. ribbon-cutting ceremony at the community open house, which will begin at 11:30 a.m. and end at 2:30 p.m. In addition, a professional illusionist will be bringing magic for the young and the young at heart. Staff members representing the facility's physicians, speech, nursing, social service, physical and occupational therapy professionals will also be there to answer any questions.

GlenBridge Nursing Centre is located at 8333 W. Golf Rd., Niles. Further information can be obtained by phoning 966-9190, director of a tea room.

George Veith

George Veith has been named Morton Grove Senior of the month for September. He has been one of the quiet heroes for Morton Grove seniors during his 20-year residency. Until his retirement on Jan. 1, 1983, George was employed by the Defense Logistics Agency of the U.S. Department of Defense. The day that he retired he offered his services to the Morton Grove Volunteer Income Tax Aid program and soon became a counselor assisting seniors in filing their annual tax returns. He served as program coordinator for the past three years. Additionally, George has been a commissioner with the Advisory Commission on Aging for the past six years, appointed to the position of vice chairman. George and his wife Mary will soon be moving to North Carolina to be closer to their family, and George already has inquired about volunteer activities with income tax preparation.

ST. ISAAC JOGUES 55 PLUS CLUB

We will soon say Farewell Summer, as the summer vacations are coming to an end. Many of our members including myself had beautiful vacations. I joined my sister-in-law, Jen Pranski and her husband Angie to visit the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. As we left the leaves were starting to turn yellow, orange and red. Before long fall and winter will be here.

Members enjoyed many events including a trip to Nippersinks, a day at the races, several plays and parties and our Christmas in July meeting.

A big thank you to our program chairman Bernice Legeler who has been busy getting all these things together for our enjoyment. Our September 28 meeting is election of new officers. We would like to express our appreciation and gratitude to President Rudy Seifert and his officers and to thank them for a great job and for their time and efforts.

Our members are asked to contact Josephine Christi, if any member of their family is ill, had an accident or is in the hospital. Please remember in your prayers all our sick members, and our deceased members. Don't let anyone tell you prayers don't help.

Happy Birthday and Congratulations to our Anniversary Couples.

Iranian hostage speaks at workshop

Attorney Moorhead Kennedy, who spent 14 months as an Iranian hostage in Tehran in 1979, will speak and lead a hostage crisis simulation workshop Oct. 5 and 6 at Oakton Community College, 1600 E. Golf Rd., Des Plaines.

Kennedy will present a free lecture, "The Middle Eastern Extremists' View of the U.S. and the Continuing Hostage Struggle," at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 5, in the Performing Arts Center. He will discuss the problems of terrorism, and examine the motivation and intentions of terrorist extremists.

Kennedy and his partner, Martha M. Keys, will present "Hostage Crisis," a four-hour simulation workshop from 1 to 5 p.m. in the Oakton Student Center. Kennedy and Keys developed this program as an educational tool in understanding global politics.

Workshop participants will play key roles as hostages, terrorists, government officials and journalists during a simulated hostage takeover that takes place in the imaginary Middle Eastern country of Keibar. The Hostage Crisis Program brings social studies to life as students learn to respond to critical incidents, understand other viewpoints and reach decisions.

Kennedy, a Harvard Law School graduate specialized in Islamic Law, has over 20 years of foreign service. He has served in Chile, Lebanon, Greece and Yemen and is now the executive director of the Council for International Understanding (CIU) of the Myrin Institute in New York. Fluent in French, Arabic and Spanish, Kennedy received the Medal of Valor from the State Department in 1981 and honorary degrees from the University of Pittsburgh (Doctor of Public Service) and Middlebury College (Doctor of Laws).

Keys, currently an associate director of the CIU, has 20 years of experience in education and is a national expert on middle eastern problems. She has served as national trainer for Learning to Learn, Inc., at Cambridge, Mass., and had conducted 23 training seminars and conference presentations nationwide. She graduated from the University of Rochester with a master's degree in Guidance and Counseling and a doctorate degree from California State University.

Registration fee for the workshop is $12.50. Deadline to register is Monday, Oct. 2. Enrollment is limited. For workshop information, call 982-9888. For lecture information, call 635-1900.

about an affair between an out-cast and a model student. The heroine, Diane Court, a beauty, a nice girl, a straight-A student, loyal to her divorced father, falls in love with the hero, Lloyd Dobbler who is an army brat.

The third film in series, "Cousins," rated PG13, lasting 110 minutes, will be shown Monday, Oct. 23, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. This movie is unabashedly romantic. What makes it so enjoyable are its scenes of family life at its rawest and messiest. The two lead performers play two distant cousins who are married to incompatible spouses, find romance the second time.

The fourth film in series, "The Accidental Tourist," rated PG, running 110 minutes will be shown Monday, Oct. 30, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. It is a romantic comedy, Macon, William Hurt, a writer offers reluctant tourists advice on minimizing the trauma of leaving home. His own wife Sarah, Kathleen Turner, deserts him. A broken leg forces Macon to live with his grand parents where through his pet corgi, he meets Murie, Geena Davis, who lures him out of his shell.
