Police seize MG man in currency exchange attack

A Morton Grove man was arrested as he fled the scene of a robbery in the Golf-Waukegan currency exchange on Feb. 17. Morton Grove Police officers Mike Fujara and Tim McCloskey stopped Michael Sullivan, 37, as he ran through an alley near 9220 Waukegan Road and recovered broken eye glasses from his shirt pocket. An arm from the glasses was found at the scene of an attack on Merle D'Alba, 31, of Northbrook, operator of the exchange. From her bed in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, D'Alba told Police she knew Sullivan and he said "I'm sorry, Merle," over and over as he allegedly struck. Continued on Page 38

Blase calls Nortran-Pace agreement "something we can live with"

Agreement prevents bus cut-off

by Nancy Keraminas

Representatives for both sides were optimistic that a contract dispute between Pace and Nortran officials would be resolved Feb. 22 when Nortran's full board is expected to agree to terms of the new purchase of service agreement with Pace, the suburban bus division of the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA).

Niles mayor Nick Blase, a member of Nortran's executive board committee, expressed his view that the revised agreement would be signed by all 27 inter-governmental members of the board, ensuring that bus service in Niles and along 23 other north suburban routes would not be halted after March 1, when the existing contract extension expires.

"Both parties gave in on a few things," Blase said, noting the new agreement was "something we can all live with."

According to Blase, Pace will have ownership of farebox revenues but has agreed to turn over operating revenues to Nortran at the beginning of each month, rather than at the end. Pace currently provides approximately 60 percent subsidy for Nortran's operations.

Niles Park raises pool and golf fees

by Sheilya Hackett

The Niles Park Board wrestled with money issues at its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 20 and decided to raise fees at two of its facilities, the pool and golf course.

They approved eliminating the early bird registration discount and set the price of the token package at $35 per initial person; $12 for each additional person. They raised lesson prices by $2.00 and daily admissions by 50 cents, but stipulated fees will be rebated, based on the actual opening date, if the pool doesn't open by the third week of June.

On opening day this spring, Tam golfers will confront a 25 cents, across the board increase per round for residents and seniors and a 75 cent increase per round for non-residents. Cart rental was boosted 50 cents.

Independent Niles drug stores, SavMor Drugs at Dempster and Harlem and Birchway Drugs at Milwaukee and Harlem will be closing their doors at the end of February and March. Both drug stores have served their customers for several decades. Following is a column from October 26, 1986, written when another independent Niles drug store, Pankau Drugs, closed its doors after being in Niles for 35 years.

Bob Pankau is closing his drug store on Waukegan Road today after having been in business in Niles for the past 35 years.

Like the corner grocery store and the local hardware store, the locally-owned independent drug store is slowly passing from the scene.

Last week we read in the Wall Street Journal doctors are competing with druggists by selling pharmaceutical products. While this competition may be negligible, other competitors are shuttering local pharmacies.

For many years the larger chain stores have been increasing competition. In more recent times, the HMO insurance plans have added another spear into the dying corpse of the local druggist.

We think the loss to the community of the local pharmacist cannot be measured. Continued on Page 38

Golf students have research down to a science

by Nancy Keraminas

Some of us grow mold in our refrigerators by accident. Others, like some of the 8th graders at Golf Jr. High in Morton Grove, deliberately cultivate fungal forms of life, calling it scientific research.

Any way you view the stuff, students Sally Arco, Melissa Jacobs, Vicky Marks, and Nischa and Vaneer Virasch must have higher "yuck" thresholds than most of the populace. Certainly, their perseverance and knowledge has...mushroomed as a result of their well-documented experiments.

The work of these District 67 pupils, along with other science fair projects in a variety of categories, was displayed in the school's gym recently. Each premise and prediction was detailed; each triumph and failure dutifully recorded. Some examples:

Pity 8th grader Winnie Wong, who got caught in a web of mail order mayhem while she was trying to study the effects of ethanol on webs woven by a certain spider species. A scientific supply company didn't send her the spider species specified at first and her initial efforts weren't reliable.

Winnie received a second pair of spiders but one was dead on arrival, so she placed a third order with the company. In all, five arachnids died, proving the theory "oh what a tangled web we weave when too much ethanol we breathe." Better yet, pity the spiders...or Winnie's mom.

In the category of consumer science, a number of 7th and 8th grade youngsters demonstrated they may one day clean up in the advertising biz, if not in Laboratory Land, where their studies of laundry products produced conflicting results.

Pablo Gurerro predicted Tide, Wisk and Fresh Start would work equally well on ketchup, coffee and chocolate stains but Tide worked best, based on his tests.

the effects of Tide, Wisk and Liquid Clorox Two on dirt, grass, makeup and coffee stains, also predicting equal performance.

Her results showed Tide was best for makeup and Wisk was preferred for grass and dirt stain removal.

Anna Tunik interviewed a real laundry expert-Mom, who predicted Bold was better. Anna couldn't whitewash her results, however, discovering Lemon Dash worked better on polyester-rayon fabrics and Cheer was best for cotton and rayon blends.

Seventh-grader Marcus Osacky's destiny might lie in the field of government grants, for he proved video game playing increases heart rates. Similar astute wisdom was gained by Elaine Arber, from the eighth grade, whose results bore out the old parental adage that children who watch less television have better ability to concentrate.

Anyone who never listened to their parents should heed the results of eighth grader Jennifer Jarke who proved cigarettes stunt growth. On the other hand, plants do better with a little caffeine jolt, if they also get water, according to separate studies by seventh graders Jason Stevens and Peter Davies.

Topics ranged from popular (Diets, fact or fantasy), a diligent effort by 8th grader Kania Omar to esoteric (Effect of diaspirin on the crosslinking of RBC's), a brain-buster by 8th grader Uzma Sattar. Most of all, the young Golf students demonstrated what French philosopher Ernest Renan marveled at in 1883: "The simplest schoolboy is now familiar with truths for which Archimedes would have sacrificed his life."

Niles Golden Anniversary couple

Marie and Arthur Carlson of Niles celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the Maine Township Senior Citizens Valentín Luncheon at Brigantes in Des Plaines. The Golden Oldies included in the musical program presented by The Harmonaires that day helped them recall their wedding date on February 17, 1940. Following The Harmonaires program, the seniors topped off the afternoon with Bingo.

District 63 OK's central kindergarten

by Eileen Hirschfeld

About 30 parents and faculty members, many protesting a proposed kindergarten center in Melzer School next fall, attended a Tuesday East Maine Elementary School District 63 board meeting.

The new program, approved by board members, may be in place two or three years until a "hump" in the enrollment of fourth and fifth grade students levels out and allows for more space in district schools.

In a related item, Superintendent of Schools Eldon Gleichman noted that Gemini Junior High School, which now serves seventh and eighth grade, may become a middle school, possibly serving sixth graders in the 1991-1992 school year. If so, a plan with timelines will be brought up in late March or April and details in place by October or November of next year, he said.

Board members seemed reluctant to vote for the kindergarten program, some asserting they had little choice. Trustee Joan Futterman noted, "This is a short-term solution to what may be a long-term problem...Voting 'No' won't help the problem, but voting 'Yes' hurts."

One kindergarten teacher summed up the feelings of many teachers by saying, "I don't think

MG Parks survey residents

The Morton Grove Park District is soliciting residents' opinions on whether additional park facilities are needed in the village.

A 14-question survey was mailed this past week to 600 residents selected on a random basis. The survey will assist the feasibility study task force committee, formed last October to look into the issue. The task force will advise the park board on whether the district needs to acquire additional indoor recreational facilities. Continued on Page 39

Following a final status hearing March 9, the trial of a Maine Township science teacher, accused of rape will be held March 27 before Circuit Court Judge Marcia Orr.

In a pre-trial hearing before Circuit Court Judge Robert Nix on Tuesday, Feb. 20, Raymond Garza, attorney for the accused 39-year-old teacher, Scott Welty of Chicago, filed a list of witnesses the defense will call, including summaries of interviews and notes from talks with teachers. Assistant States Attorney Ann Benedict represented the Prosecution. Before and during the hearing, the tall, bespectacled teacher presented a relaxed demeanor as he laughed and talked with a companion.

Welty is charged with allegedly raping a 14-year-old girl in the forest preserve near Dee Road and Devon Avenue, Park Ridge, two years ago. The girl, now 16, recognized her alleged attacker when she entered her first science class this past August.

Welty has no known criminal record. He has taught in District 207 since 1985, instructing classes at both Maine East and Maine South high schools in Park Ridge.

On Oct. 3, a Cook County grand jury indicted Welty on two counts each of aggravated criminal sexual assault and aggravated sexual abuse and one count each of criminal sexual assault, armed violence, aggravated unlawful restraint and unlawful restraint. According to a spokesman for the States Attorney, these charges supersede the initial one of criminal sexual assault.

Oakton reduces tax levy

The Oakton Community College Board of Trustees approved a 6.7 percent reduction in their tax levy at their regular board meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 13.

"We are pleased that because of increased state revenue and our own attempts to maintain a fairly strict budget, we can reduce our education fund levy by $1,000,000," said College President Thomas TenHoeve.

"Our Board wanted to pass this reduction" onto the taxpayers," said Board Chairman Ralph Goren, "especially during this year when so many of our taxpayers have been hit by increased assessments."

Last June the Oakton Board passed a $15 million 1989 tax levy (collectible in 1990), with $11,600,000 designated for the education fund and $3,400,000 for the building fund. By notifying the County Clerk of the reduction at this time, only $10,600,000 will be collected for the education fund, a 6.7 percent saving.

How to find a qualified home remodeling contractor

In the Spring a homeowner's thoughts turn to turning into reality the home remodeling project conceived in the winter—and how to find a qualified contractor to fulfill the conceived dream.

Recommendation for a contractor may come from friends, local municipal building departments and lumber yards, but it's up to the homeowner to check a contractor's qualifications.

An important starting point is to determine if the contractor belongs to a national association, such as the 50-year-old National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI), which has a chapter serving greater Chicago. Membership in a national association means that the contractor is established and subscribes to a strict code of ethics and has qualified expertise.

Before calling a contractor, write down exactly what work is to be done so that the contractor will have detailed information on which to base a price.

Minor work may cost $2,000 to $3,000. Major kitchen remodeling, for example, may cost $15,000 or more.

NARI chapter president Richard C. Ward, Jr., CRA, offers these helpful tips in dealing with a contractor:

Be sure that the contractor is licensed, if a license is required in your community.

Do the contractor's employees and subcontractors have liability insurance and workmen's compensation coverage?

Obtain a waiver of lien to protect you from paying for materials if the contractor fails to pay them.

Payment schedule should be detailed in the contract. Typically, one-third paid before start of the work, one-third at a specific point in the work progression, and the balance on completion.

Verbal agreements must be included in the contract.

Get a written notice of your right to cancel within three business days if the contract is signed in your home.

With proper planning, you will be able to hire a qualified contractor at a fair price," Ward said.

For more valuable tips on dealing with contractors, you may obtain the helpful brochure, "Selecting a Professional Remodeling Contractor," and a directory of qualified contractors by writing to NARI of Greater Chicago, 840 North Michigan Ave., Suite 415, Chicago, Illinois 60611 or calling (312) 266-1977.

Host Families are being sought for high school exchange students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Brazil, Ecuador, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Thailand and Yugoslavia for the School Year 1990-91 in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August, 1990, and return to their home countries in June, 1991. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host Families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes. AISE is also seeking American High School Students, age 15

Emergency Alert Systems debuts in Northbrook

With a new year and a new decade, a new company called Emergency Alert Systems comes to Northbrook, Illinois.

Quite simply, this new company is the provider both locally and in the surrounding five state area of personal emergency response systems (PERS) specifically for home use.

The system is called Companion Call Light™ created by Pioneer Medical Systems. Subscribers to the system are supplied with a small, inconspicuous pendant that they can wear around their neck or carry on a key chain.

Should they have a sudden illness or perhaps serious accident, they simply press the one button on the pendant and they are automatically alerting Companion's Emergency Response Center which is staffed by professionals 24 hours a day.

The Companion console seizes the telephone line. It automatically dials the response center and notifies that help is needed.

Once your call is received, the attendant at the response center will have all the necessary data on who and where you are right at his or her fingertips. Telephone numbers of pre-selected responders who may live nearby are automatically notified as well as their physician, and local ambulance, police or fire departments.

Model United Nations shirts

Seven Maine East students recently came to school wearing identical T-shirts with the title "M.U.N.U.C. - A Most Raucous Caucus." Curiosity naturally got the best of fellow classmates and teachers as to what M.U.N.U.C. meant.

The answer - it's an abbreviation for Model United Nations of the University of Chicago in which nearly 50 high schools nationwide participated and represented those countries belonging to the U.N.

The seven Maine East students represented India as delegates for committees ranging from Human Rights to Economic and Financial Issues. Delegates were Melanie Clement of Niles, Soo Dong Choi of Glenview, Anne Barrett of Niles, Mary Davies of Glenview, Jim Thivel of Des Plaines, Nim Gurnani of Morton Grove and Sharon Yates of Park Ridge.

Emergency Alert Systems is owned and operated by the young entrepreneurial husband and wife team, George and Denise Karp. Denise has her roots in Chicago. She is a graduate of Elmhurst College and most recently served as Training Director for corporate offices of Atlantic Richfield in Los Angeles. Both are calling Chicago home. Both have left the corporate world because they are committed to the critical need filled by Emergency Alert Systems.

O'Grady announces scholarship offers

Sheriff O'Grady, in cooperation with the Illinois Sheriffs' Association, announced today that a scholarship program will be offered again for the 10th consecutive year. The Association's goal is to provide financial assistance to worthy students in furthering their education and training.

Six scholarships in the amount of $500 each will be awarded in Cook County to students pursuing courses in vocational training or attending institutions of higher learning as full-time undergraduate students. Applications must be made before March 1.

The scholarships will be awarded to deserving students, based on ability, merit and sincerity of purpose in her or his goal. There is no restriction on applicants by reason of age, race, creed, color, sex, national origin or the course of study to be pursued. The only limitation is that the scholarship must be utilized for tuition costs at an accredited institution of higher learning for undergraduate work within Illinois.

A Cook County Citizen's Committee will review all applications and select the six scholarship winners.

In addition to completing the required applications and submitting other materials, applicants will be asked to write a brief essay on one of the following questions:

1. "As an adolescent, who influenced you and helped you stay out of trouble? How?"

2. "There are many thousands of homeless families in the U.S. today. What would be your solution to this problem?"

3. "Much has been said about the gang problem in the U.S. What do you think can be done to help alleviate this problem?"

Since any permanent resident of Cook County is eligible to apply, Sheriff O'Grady advises all interested individuals either to consult the administrator or counselor of the school they are attending or to contact Fran Leske at the Cook County Sheriff's Youth Services Department, 1401 S. Maybrook Dr., Maywood, Ill. 60153 (Phone: (708) 865-2900). Deadline for completed applications is March 1. Award recipients for the academic year 1990-91 will be selected on May 1.

Future forum topics are "The Environment at Risk: Responding to Growing Dangers" and "The Day Care Dilemma: Who Should Be Responsible for the Children." The programs are co-sponsored by the Kettering Foundation's Domestic Policy Association, and will focus on providing a platform for citizens to engage in dialogue with policymakers and experts regarding public policy on the issues under discussion.

Three-week study circles will be held prior to each forum allowing individuals to study the issues in detail. For further information, contact the Department of Field and Continuing Education at (312) 583-4050, ext. 3231.

Des Plaines Women's Club

The Des Plaines Women's Club Seniors will hold a party on Monday, March 5, at Trinity Lutheran Church, 675 Algonquin Rd., announced Pearl Anderson, coordinator of the event. Highlighting the party will be lunch provided by Polk Bros. Fifty-Five Plus, a foundation dedicated to serving seniors.

Established in 1984, the officers and directors of Polk Bros. recognized that seniors needed the warmth and companionship that a shared meal sparked. In the past five years, Polk Bros. Fifty-Five Plus has served one-quarter million meals to more than 1000 senior groups throughout Chicago and neighboring counties, said foundation president, Michael A. Crane.

To date we have spent $715,000 on this program," reported Crane, who is also vice president of Polk Bros., Inc. "We work with churches, synagogues, park districts, townships, counties and senior centers, among others, across all socio-economic, racial and religious boundaries." The foundation works with established groups that request meals to highlight their social or informational programs.

"We consider loneliness to be a major problem for seniors, especially those who are independent. We feel a meal enhances getting together and gives seniors a better chance to socialize," according to Crane. "We wanted to give something back to the people who had grown older with Polk Bros.," said Crane, who helped develop Polk Bros. Fifty-Five Plus.

Notre Dame honored for military support

Notre Dame High School in Niles was recently awarded recognition by the Department of Defense for its support of its teachers who are in the military reserves or the National Guard.

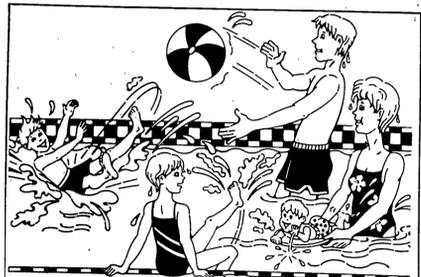

"Notre Dame traditionally supports its employees who have to participate in annual training," said Navy Captain James McClure, who presented the award, and we commend its principal, Father Molinaro, and the Holy Cross Order for their understanding of the training time needed by our citizen soldiers and sailors. We certainly appreciate this kind of employer support and patriotism."

Father Kenneth Molinaro, C.S.C., accepted the award on behalf of the school and said that the students benefit from the diverse background experience and expertise teachers and staff personnel bring to Notre Dame. "We are committed to high-quality education at Notre Dame," he said, "and our faculty of students, parents, alumni, neighbors, faculty and staff shares that commitment."

Mite House League

The Hawks jumped off to a 3 to 1 first period lead and then held off a furious Blues come back in route to a 4 to 3 victory.

John Lubinski who is playing the best hockey of his young career set up Alex Mrowiec for the Blues first goal that tied the score at one all at the 2:49 mark of period one.

Lubinski then led the Blues come back when he fired the loan goal of the second period, an unassisted tally, that brought his team to within one. When Mrowiec buried a fine centering pass from teammate Walter Jacobson the score was tied just 1:41 into the third period.

However, Gino Ori's second goal to go along with one assist at 3:47 of the third period proved to be the game winner. Anthony Pontillo and Derek Cwik scored unassisted first period Hawk goals.

The game's final five minutes saw end to end action with goals Thad Mrowiec of the Blues and Chris Koziol of the Hawks doing outstanding jobs for their teams.

Philip Kalas and John Desmond came up with strong games for the Hawks while Jason Henrikson, Billy Nanz and Jr. Yaro did equally well for the Blues.

Squirt White Rangers

Scoring once in the first, twice in the second and three times in the third the Squirt White Rangers disposed of a pesky team from Saddle and Cycle of Chicago by the final score of 6 to 3.

Actually the game was much closer than the score would indicate as the Ranger lead was just 3 to 2 moving into the final period of play at Saddle and Cycle on Chicago's lake front.

The Rangers however scored three goals in just 1:23 seconds the last two, just six seconds apart and did what this team had done time and time again this season, and that is score in bunches to break an opponents will and seal the victory.

Peter Sikaras led all scorers with two goals and a big assist on the game's winning goal. Jim Lubinski who had two goals including the game winner, was joined by Jim Tragas, one goal and one assist and John Drivas one goal. Picking up solo assists were wingers Ken Shubert and Brian Gagiano.

New technology saves your feet

How many times do you catch yourself saying, "my feet are killing me? Of all the potential causes of sore feet, the most common is shoes that don't fit properly. But some foot problems are caused by disorders unrelated to shoes. High arches, flat feet or abnormal foot bone structures account for many foot ailments.

This is where orthotics can help. According to James Nuzzo, D.P.M., a board-certified podiatrist on staff at Holy Family Hospital, orthotics are used to balance your foot to the ground and/or accommodate foot deformities. They are worn inside your shoe and can help soothe chronically sore feet.

Commonly, orthotics are made by making a plaster cast of the patient's foot, sending the cast to a lab where a positive model is made and the orthotic is fashioned from that model. The problem with this method is that the plaster may deform soft tissue making the orthotic slightly imperfect.

Today, new technology has made it possible to optically scan your foot via computer, build the orthotic on the screen and send the orthotic prescription information and foot statistics over the phone to the lab where a computerized lathe makes the orthotic to the exact specifications of your foot.

Dr. Nuzzo, whose office is in Des Plaines, is one of the first in Illinois to offer his patients use of the Bergmann Surface Imaging System. Through its use, Dr. Nuzzo is able to scan each foot in one and one-half seconds—a quick, easy and utterly painless procedure. The scan shows Dr. Nuzzo all angles on the surface of your feet as well as how and where the feet strike the ground. This helps him locate any other problems not visible to his trained eye.

"Orthotics are not necessary for everyone but if you are suffering from chronic pain, perhaps the problem is your arch support, a foot deformity of which you are not aware, or your feet are pronated (angled in or out when striking the ground)," states Dr. Nuzzo.

Orthotics are made of cork, leather and German Rohadur (a space-age plastic). They can be flexible, semi-flexible or rigid depending upon your needs. Orthotics easily slip in and out of different pairs of shoes (with the exception of women's high-fashion high-heels).

For more information about doctors who specialize in treating foot problems or for a doctor for any need, call MedConnection, Holy Family's physician referral service, at (708) 297-1800, ext. 1110.

Norwood Park Home adds new rooms

Norwood Park Home resident Walter Rohrbach reviews building plans with the Home's Assistant Administrator, Richard E. Schutt. Handsome, reconstructed rooms in the retirement home's south wing will be ready for occupancy in spring and summer of 1990. Tours of the construction area and of completed rooms are available by phoning Kay Selfridge at (312) 631-4856.

On March 1, the Norwood Park home on Chicago's northwest side will complete the first phase of a $2,400,000 reconstruction project that once completed, will provide 30 handsome, fully-modernized residential rooms for senior citizens. Founded in 1896 on green, rolling land once occupied by a tribe of Miami Indians, the Norwood Park Home is a private, non-denominational, long-term care facility for men and women aged 65 and up. Applications for rentals are now being accepted; information is available by phoning Kay Selfridge at (312) 631-4856.

12 rooms will be ready for occupancy by spring, 1990, and the balance of the rooms, representing Phase 2, will be complete July 1. The new wing is designed for Sheltered Care residents, a designation for those who prefer to live independently while enjoying full dining services, 24-hour security, maid and laundry services, varied activities, and medical care when needed. The Home is licensed to serve 140 persons in Sheltered Care. Visitors are welcome to tour both the construction area and to view a finished room; tours should be arranged in advance also by calling Ms. Selfridge.

The reconstruction project ad-resses two important goals: 1) to help fill the need for sensibly-priced housing for the elderly, a population projected to double by the year 2020; and 2) to keep the Norwood Park Home competitive with other Chicagoland facilities. "We're looking to the future," says Robert C. Nordli, Chairman of the Norwegian Old People's Home Society, the Home's governing board. "Yes, the price tag is high, but we feel it's well worth the investment."

For the fifth consecutive year in 1989, the State of Illinois awarded the Norwood Park Home six stars—the highest possible rating in a state-sponsored Quality Incentive Program for retirement homes. The Home is a member of the American and Illinois Association of Homes for the Aging. It is a unique facility and not part of a franchise or chain operation, and serves an active and visible role in the local community. The Norwood Park Home charges no endowment fee.

Inquiries are welcome at (312) 631-4856.

An open letter to MY SON,

Dear Son - A mother knows when her son is worried about her. I could tell when I visited that you didn't like my living alone. Yes, son, I don't like living alone but I know that you have your own family and your own life. That is why I couldn't even think of living with you. I only wish that I could live some place where I won't be lonely, and where I could be near you and the children. Love as ever Mom

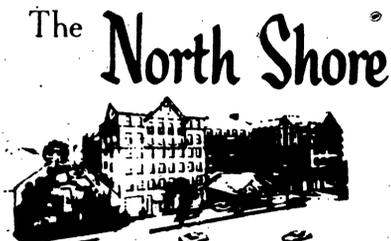

Dear Mom:

I'm glad you put into words what has been on all our minds. Now it's time we did something about it. Why don't we look into the North Shore, an American Plan Hotel for Retirement Living. It's located in the heart of Downtown Evanston so you'll be close by - near shopping and good transportation. You'll have your own beautiful apartment with maid and linen service. There's also 24-hour a day switchboard service. With folks your age living there, many will share interests with you so you'll have plenty of new companions as well. There's well-planned cultural and recreational activities, a heated pool, patio and gardens, and you'll enjoy 3 fine meals a day. I think it's worth looking into. Living at the North Shore will certainly solve a lot of worries for me and for you.

Love,
Bob

Assistance with medicare filing

Medicare forms and payments can prove to be most confusing, especially now when Income Tax time is approaching. The government demands accountability for payments made and received in 1989.

For the past five years, Faye Brown of The Center of Concern has been assisting people who have asked for help with their Medicare problems. She can be consulted privately either in a client's home or in her office. A telephone call to her is all that is needed to take advantage of this free service. She can be reached by calling The Center at 708/823-0453 or by stopping in the office in Suite 223 of the 1580 N. Northwest Highway Building in Park Ridge.

Other services offered by The Center include Employment, Home Sharing, Income Tax Assistance, Blood Pressure Testing and Blood Sugar Screening, Personal Counseling, Legal and Wills Counseling, Financial Planning and Information and Referral Service. We also sponsor a Grief and Loss Support Group and a Weight Watchers Group.

Doctor cautions against head injuries

No matter how minor the accident, children who bump their heads are potentially at risk of developing blood clots in the brain and other disorders and should be watched closely, according to a pediatric neurosurgeon at the Loyola University Medical Center in Maywood.

Results of a seven-year study indicate that more than 13 percent of 739 Chicago area children who sustained minor head injuries with minimal or no effect on their alertness and mental status, later experienced blood clots or were found to have skull fractures or other problems requiring surgery, said Loyola's Yoon S. Hahn, M.D., principal investigator for the research.

Seven percent of these children were determined to be fully alert and responsive, as measured on the Children's Coma Scale (modified Glasgow Coma Scale) that Dr. Hahn developed. Such findings would normally indicate no further treatment other than observation is necessary. However, the patients later had to undergo brain surgery, Dr. Hahn said.

His study is the first of its kind conducted using this modified Glasgow Coma Scale. The project involved 937 children who had been admitted to hospital emergency rooms with head injuries of varying degrees of severity. The Glasgow Coma Scale was used to assess patients' eyes, movements and verbal responses. Nearly 43 percent of the patients were less than 3 years old.

Of great concern to Dr. Hahn are the findings of a survey showing that only about one-third of parents or guardians are expected to carry out physicians' instructions after a head-injured child is sent home.

Patient's wife grateful for returned wallet

When a Park Ridge woman got out of a Park Ridge Cab Company taxi at Resurrection Medical Center, Chicago, Thursday, Jan. 25, she was anxious about her husband's surgery and didn't notice that her billfold had fallen on the cab floor. Later, when she discovered her wallet missing with an excess of $1000 in it, she asked the volunteer Auxiliary ladies at the Information Desk if it had been turned in. After learning that it had arrived at the hospital by taxi, the volunteers called the Park Ridge Cab Company and learned that the driver had found her billfold. Mark Kountis, the cab driver, had driven to Midway Airport where his cab passenger found the wallet and turned it over to the driver. The billfold's owner was overjoyed when Mark personally returned the wallet and then refused a reward for his honesty and personal delivery of the lost billfold.

The Thursday morning volunteers at the hospital information desk were just as happy that two good citizens had made possible a good news story that had begun at 5 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 25.

Tips for conquering winter skin woes

Sub-zero temperatures and the onset of winter often mean the aggravation of skin problems caused by summertime abuse, according to Resurrection Medical Center dermatologist Roland Medansky, M.D.

"This increase in winter skin problems is frequently caused by what you didn't do last summer--protect your skin from the ravages of sun," he noted. "But there are several measures you can take to protect your skin from the cold, dryness and winds of Chicago winters."

Dr. Medansky explains that the onset of severe winter conditions often means a drop in humidity and an increase in dry, artificial heating which causes the skin to lose moisture. A simple change in skin cleansing and moisturizing routines may be beneficial, the dermatologist advises.

"Facial and body moisturizing should be done right after bathing or showering, while the skin is still damp," he stresses. "This helps to seal in the moisture. Bath oils, which have a limited effect if added to bath water, cause some real problems for older people since they tend to make the bathtub slippery. It is perhaps better to apply bath oils directly to the skin after stepping out of the bath or shower."

Vaseline or other petrolatum products (an ingredient used in many lotions, creams and ointments) is an excellent overall moisturizer, according to Dr. Medansky.

If you are unsure about a product, he recommends becoming a label reader and avoiding the use of facial moisturizers with fragrances and those containing chemicals such as urea, lactic acid and ammonium lactate which can irritate the skin.

"No one over-the-counter product is necessarily better than another," he warns. "Find a product which agrees with you and stick with it."

While long, hot baths are relaxing, Dr. Medansky advises that "cleanliness is not always next to Godliness."

"In the winter, rinse well but don't sit and soak in the tub," he advises. "Soaking may only exacerbate skin problems. In cold weather, hot water is more irritating to dry skin than cooler water, so keep your shower or tub tepid."

Social Security report due April 16

People who received Social Security benefits and also worked in 1989 may have to file an earnings report by April 16, Thomas A. Curin, Social Security manager in Des Plaines, said recently.

Any beneficiary whose earnings went over the exempt amount is required to file an annual report showing exact earnings for 1989 and estimated earnings for 1990.

Exempt earnings vary for different age groups, Curin said. For beneficiaries under 65, the 1989 amount was $6480. For those 65-69, it was $8880. Earnings limits do not apply when workers reach 70.

Curin said that the exempt figure is the amount a person can earn in a year and still receive full

Social Security benefits. When earnings are over the exempt amount, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings over the limit.

The estimate of 1990 earnings in reports filed now will determine what checks will be sent this year. The 1990 exempt figure is $6840 for persons under 65 and $9360 for those 65-69. Starting in 1990, for people 65-69, $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $3 of earnings over the limit.

The annual report is very important in avoiding overpayments, and penalties can be imposed for failure to file, Curin stated. Anyone who received checks in 1989 and estimated earnings over the exempt amount should have received an annual report form in the mail. Reports can also be obtained from Social Security by calling 1-800-234-555A.

Physician relocates office

Dr. Thomas Holmes, M.D., a member of the Lutheran General Medical Group, S.C., has relocated his internal medicine practice to the medical group's Nesset Center, 1775 Ballard Road, Park Ridge.

Receiving a medical degree from Northwestern University McGaw Medical School, Holmes is board-certified in internal medicine and is a clinical instructor at the University of Illinois.

Holmes, a resident of Evanston, completed his residency at Northwestern University McGaw Medical School in 1985. Previously, Holmes was practicing at the Lutheran General Medical Group's Lincoln Park and Illinois Center offices in Chicago.

The Lutheran General Medical Group, S.C., is a multi-specialty medical group with nine locations throughout the Chicago area with more than 180 physicians affiliated with the organization.

Social Security funds needed for the future

As the balance in the Social Security trust funds continues to grow, so does the public debate about the proper use of this money. Intended for benefit payments in the next century, the increase has stimulated interest in more short-term uses.

At stake is the combined retirement, survivors, and disability trust funds which increased by $38.8 billion in the last fiscal year. Those funds are projected to reach a trillion dollars by the turn of the century and peak at about 2.8 trillion in today's dollars by the year 2020.

Some of the current debate centers on consideration which is being given to possible other uses, such as higher benefits, or the lowering of Social Security taxes to return Social Security to a pay-as-you-go system. Both of these suggested alternatives ignore the issues which led to Social Security's current good health.

In 1983, remedies were devised by the bipartisan Commission on Social Security for a then financially troubled Social Security system. Congress adopted the Commission's recommendations - higher Social Security taxes, benefit cuts, and coverage extensions - in an effort to resolve not only the immediate problems, but also insure the ability of the trust funds to pay benefits in the next century.

Projections show that, as the overall population ages, fewer workers will be paying into the system and more retirees will be receiving benefits. During the 1990's the "baby boom" generation in the workforce has assured a ratio of three workers for each person receiving benefits. However, when the baby boomers reach retirement age, around the year 2010, the ratio will drop to only two workers for each beneficiary. The gradual increase in trust fund reserves now is needed to allow payment of benefits to these future retirees.

While the debate will, no doubt, continue, the new Commissioner of Social Security, Gwendolyn S. King, has vowed to protect the trust funds against diversion for other uses. "Our job is to make sure the money is there for the benefits," she has said.

Letting the funds accumulate as provided under current law will insure financial stability for well into the next century.

More information about Social Security financing can be obtained by calling the nationwide toll-free number 1-800-234-555A. It's available Monday thru Friday 7AM - 7PM.

Protect your household surfaces from moisture

Now is the time to map out your home-improvement battle plan, but before you begin, take some advice from the Guru of How-To: Get ready to square off against the Moisture Monster.

Moisture, the number one enemy of household surfaces, attacks your home with a triple threat — water, vapor and ice. Sometimes the Moisture Monster is doing its damage and you don't even know it. Before the visible signs of cracking and peeling appear on your paint, or your wood begins to warp and split, moisture is already damaging wood and metal household surfaces.

So when you're planning to maintain your number one investment — your home — remember a few tips to protect its most vulnerable surfaces from moisture.

The Moisture Monster goes through wood doors even when they're closed, especially garage doors. For the best results, paint only the external side of a garage door to allow the wood to "breathe" and let trapped moisture out. For the interior side, use a sealer or wood preservative which is available at any home-improvement product store.

The wood trim on your house is a favorite target of the Moisture Monster. Its irregular shapes and horizontal surface structures tend to hold water, making trim extremely vulnerable to moisture damage.

Trim is also one of the most difficult exterior surfaces to paint, so you'll save time and money in the long run by properly preparing the surface. Remove all loose paint with a chemical stripper or heat gun, then wash the surface and allow it to dry completely. Repair all holes or cracks with wood filler, and always use a primer before applying the finishing coat.

To provide maximum protection for house trim surfaces, choose a premium brand paint. Also, because some trim is prone to mildew, consider adding a fungicide to the paint to control it. I recommend Rust-Oleum Wood Saver with Teflon for a durable barrier against moisture and mildew. And here's a tip for shutters: Drill approximately three, small, evenly-spaced, 1/4" holes on the bottom of each shutter to give moisture an exit drain.

The most vulnerable of all surfaces is the window sill, due to condensation. When water vapor in the warm air inside the house turns to liquid as it meets the colder glass, it drains onto the window sill. Here's a little window wisdom:

Be sure the "weep" holes on the storm window frame are clear so that water drains properly. And when you do paint window frames to protect them, here's a handy tip that makes it easier. Spray the window pane with water and cut a newspaper to pane size, covering it completely against the frame and, of course, wiping off excess water from the frame. After you've painted the frame, the newspaper will dry and fall away from the glass, revealing a neatly painted frame with no paint on the glass.

There are a variety of sealers on the market that resist moisture penetration, but use one that has UV (ultraviolet light) protection mentioned on the label. Harsh sunlight ages decks prematurely and the UV-

Because oxidation is taking place, the first sign of rust is bubbling, blistering paint. Whether it happens to a porch railing, mailbox, light fixture or other surface, rust is an eyesore. Restore metal surfaces that are rustured by scraping off as much loose rust and paint as possible, then use this shortcut. Instead of stripping and sanding to the bare metal, use Rust Reformer, which chemically halts the oxidation and creates a sealed, paintable surface. Again, for metal surfaces, topcoat them with a premium brand paint like Rust-Oleum, for maximum protection.

Metal outdoor furniture is a comfortable spot for the Moisture Monster too. Protect it with a moisture-resistant paint to prevent moisture penetration.

One million new decks are built each year in the U.S., testimony to the fact that America's love affair with decks is stronger than ever. While pressure treated wood resists rotting, extra protection is still required to prevent the splitting, warping and cracking damage caused by moisture and exposure to sunlight, as well as to prevent growth of mildew.

There are a variety of sealers on the market that resist moisture penetration, but use one that has UV (ultraviolet light) protection mentioned on the label. Harsh sunlight ages decks prematurely and the UV-resistant additive can keep the wood looking new longer.

One more point: Ventilation of the underside of the deck's wood is important. Never paint or varnish underneath; use only a wood preservative if you feel it's necessary to protect this side.

The areas of your home where you cook and clean help feed the Moisture Monster, so any wood or metal surface, such as cabinets, shelves or trim, is especially vulnerable to moisture damage. In addition to surface protection, ventilation is vital. Use a hygrometer—a device used to determine relative humidity. If the level is above the recommended 40-45%, increase ventilation. A good rule of thumb is one square foot of ventilation opening for every 300 square feet of space of attic, basement and crawlspace area. And remember to use the vent fans in your home; after you shower leave the fan on for at least 15 minutes.

Now you're ready to tackle your home-maintenance and improvement projects with some useful tips that will help you beat the Moisture Monster and protect those vulnerable household surfaces. For even more useful DIY hints on surface protection, moisture damage and painting, write to: "The Guru of How-To," P.O. Box 22252, Pittsburgh, PA 15222.

Low voltage outdoor lighting can spruce up any garden

Before you begin that annual ritual of weeding and fertilizing your garden and planting new annuals, perennials, ground covers and shrubs, you may want to consider the impact "light-scaping" can make.

"Low voltage outdoor lights can enhance any garden, patio or deck," says Phil Kinzer, marketing manager at Intermatic Inc., manufacturer of famous Malibu brand low voltage outdoor lights.

If you're considering adding low voltage lights to your garden, here are some suggestions for do-it-yourselfers:

• Tier Lights: This style of light focuses light downward so it is perfect for highlighting crocuses, daffodils, tulips, hyacinth and various ground covers.

• Well Lights: Designed to be buried in the ground, well lights often are used to illuminate large trees, hanging vines, rose bushes and shrubs. Colored lenses can be used to create interesting decorative touches.

DRAMATIC EFFECT — A low voltage outdoor light such as this Malibu Optimate floodlight can transform a dark garden into a multitude of eye-pleasing shapes, angles and shadows at night.

• Floodlights: Floodlights can be used in a variety of ways — to highlight trees, foliage and shrubs; or to play the light against the varied textures of masonry and ground cover. The lights can be mounted at ground level or attached to walls, eaves or trees. Colored lenses are available for added drama.

• Mushroom Lights: Ideal for highlighting areas of low foliage, borders, paths and decorative ground covers, the lights are available with 10" or 14" diameter shades.

According to Kinzer, the lights are easy to install, safe to use around pets and children, and very economical to operate.

To help do-it-yourselfers design, choose and install their low voltage lighting systems, Intermatic is offering a book called "Light Up Your Life." Normally a $3.95 value, the book is available for just $1.75 (to cover postage and handling) from: Intermatic Inc., Dept. 55A, Intermatic Plaza, Spring Grove, IL 60081.

Decorate with mirrors

One of the most dramatic ways to enhance a home's decor is through the use of mirrors.

Mirrors are particularly helpful in small homes, condominiums or apartments, where they seem to expand the size of areas.

Throughout the home, there are many strategic places for touches of mirrored surfaces. In the entry hall, for instance, a handsomely framed mirror can help set off that table or rack in an inviting manner.

In the living room, mirrored walls can open up the smallest seating area; the same holds true for a dining room.

In the bedrooms, mirrored closet doors can make an ordinary-sized room seem luxuriously spacious and will also come in handy for checking hemlines, etc.

Mirrored shower doors are also available to expand that very small bathroom.

Besides creating a feeling of spaciousness, mirrors can add a real note of elegance to their surroundings. Small alcoves, such as those used for dressing areas and wet bars will especially benefit from the use of mirrors.

Decorating with mirrors reflects an attractive solution to today's small-scaled housing.

Woman designs a dream kitchen

When Jan Saeed of Salt Lake City, Utah saw a special promotion in Woman's Day Specials Kitchens and Baths Fall 1988, her creative instincts took over. She entered that publication's Dream Kitchen contest, showing the editors how she would revamp the kitchen in her 35-year old home. She had already worked for two years on the home, but noted that whenever she started cooking, her mind "immediately wandered to all of the dreams of what this kitchen could really be."

And what an imagination she proved to have. She converted poorly planned work areas into spacious, functional, and practical ones. Wasted corner space became a bench seating alcove for the family, which includes three youngsters.

Mrs. Saeed selected Yorktowne Cabinets Chapel cabinetry, since its lighter finish and traditional styling complement other areas of the house.

These cabinets have the look and features of custom cabinetry, yet are stock cabinets with solid oak doors and drawers.

John Stephenson, the Yorktowne design expert, notes that Mrs. Saeed's designs caught his eye because they made the best use of the space available. "The previous kitchen had very limited storage area, a dreadful traffic pattern, and didn't take advantage of a wonderful view. Mrs. Saeed has dramatically altered all of that." "It's a beautiful kitchen now, with loads of storage space," she says. "I'm delighted."

Reader says small business man doesn't stand a chance in Niles

Dear Editor:

I have read your columns in The Bugle for quite a few years. I have always looked forward to the latest edition and have saved a few to be read again later. I have just had occasion to take out and read your column from Oct. 23, 1986, which dealt with the closing of Pankau Drugs in Niles. Unfortunately, another similar situation is now upon us with the proposed closing of Sav Mor Drugs within the next two weeks. Their employees have been notified and their stock is being sold off at half price. Another lamentably sad occurrence is about to befall our Village of Niles.

I have been a Niles resident for over 23 years and have been an independent community pharmacist for 25 years, practicing in Chicago. I have never worked as a pharmacist within the city limits of Niles, and I don't know if I would ever care to. I have a few comments which I would like to direct to your readers, my neighbors in Niles.

"Congratulations Niles residents! Another Niles small business is about to join a growing list of independents which are going 'out of business.'" Sav Mor Drugs is scheduled to close its doors forever within the next two weeks. Why do you think this is going to happen? And more, do people really care?

When the last independent pharmacy closes its doors forever, Niles residents will then get the type of pharmacy service that they deserve. The big conglomerates such as Walgreens, Osco and PharMor have sold our community an image of such low prices that the consumer has failed to look at the intangibles offered by the independent. How many times has a store like Sav Mor delivered an emergency prescription or just some supplies to a shut-in? The big stores politely ignore any mention of delivery service. One chain mentions their slogan of "people who care." That's pretty good for an operation that can make people wait as long as two hours for a prescription. When you trade with an independent you usually deal with the owner. Your request of faster service and special orders does not fall upon deaf ears.

The big stores offer quite attractive prices on many of the top selling drugs; but their buying power they should. But after the top selling 50 or so drugs, the inventory of the chain stores dwindles with the lesser prescribed items. Their special ordering leaves much to be desired. Then there are still compounded prescriptions written which the chain stores will not fill. An independent such as Sav Mor has handled ALL the requests of their clientele for years.

But why has all the business gone to big conglomerates? All they offer is price and not always that. The independent offers SERVICE. When that last independent closes its doors, the people of Niles will have to exist in a retail setting of their own creation: big stores, long lines, no delivery, no service. And how long will the supposed low prices remain once the competition has been eliminated. The chains already charge different prices in other areas of the city. Who's to say that their policies won't change in Niles later on down the road.

Does anyone really care if another independent pharmacy closes its doors? Sometimes I wonder. Believe it or not the Village of Niles has had over the years a reputation of being a very tough area to do business in. Stores like Sav Mor have been "cherry-picked" by those just taking advantage of their specialties, yet taking the bulk of their business to the large stores. The independent has survived this long by making sure that they give "Senior Citizen Discounts." The independent will take the time to counsel a patient only to have that customer take his business elsewhere the next time. The days of loyalty to the businessman who helped you in the past are gone forever.

The plight of independent pharmacy is one pertinent to small businesses in general. Most of our children will never own their own business. They will work for some big conglomerate and in time take their pension. Their business dreams will have died before they ever could materialize. When my son follows in his father's footsteps and becomes a pharmacist next year, he will rightly have the expectation of never owning his own business; he will be foolish to even try. He will never be able to support local fund raising through his own drug store; he will never sponsor a baseball team or a bowling league; he will never be able to donate an ad in the church bulletin or Boy Scout advertising. His contribution to the community will always be private.

Big business is over-running the American free enterprise system, to quote Mr. Bud Besser of The Bugle. Yet the public ultimately determines who will grow and who will go out of business. Stores like Sav Mor have been determined by their own fate. When the last independent pharmacy in Niles closes its doors, the people of Niles will get exactly what they deserve. Unfortunately this story is being repeated in many neighborhoods and in many other small businesses. In this age of big business, the small guy must go, but I hope that in the future his impact will at least be remembered. Thank you very much for listening.

Sincerely,
Charles J. Gawronski, R. PH.

Notre Dame hosts a haunted house

Three years ago Notre Dame High School in Niles decided to do something different that their students would enjoy. Something that would definitely appeal to teenagers: Being scared in a haunted house.

This will be the third year for designing, building and executing the Underworld; the Haunted House for Notre Dame's Mardi Gras.

Many of the original creators were students who have graduated and are returning to do the Haunted House because they had so much fun getting involved.

Creators of Notre Dame's Haunted House include Frank Wagner who is a professional make-up artist. Frank is exceptionally gifted at directing. "He has a theatrical experience that has never been attempted at Notre Dame," said Marc Carey.

Marc Carey has really spectacular artwork. He has been with the Underworld for two years and he has decided to join us again. Dave Witek is the stage manager. He really knows how to talk to people and gets the job done.

Paul Miller is a Notre Dame student and has been with the Haunted House for two years. He is one of our top actors.

We must also give credit to our sponsors, Diaco Video, Swenson Paint, and Hades Haunted House. Without these people, especially Diaco Video, the Underworld would not happen.

So don't miss Notre Dame's Mardi Gras which is taking place on Tuesday, Feb. 27 at Notre Dame High School, 7655 Dempster, Niles, from 4 to 10 p.m.

Call (708) 965-2900 for information.

Spirits soar high at St. John Brebeuf

School spirit soared high on Friday, Jan. 19 at St. John Brebeuf School as "Spirit Day" rocked through the school. Students showing their support for the athletic teams wore black and gold, the team colors. In the afternoon, a Pep Rally was held in the gym with all the students and many parents in attendance. Speakers included the Principal, Sister Rita Green, Mr. Mark Gottlieb, the P.E. Instructor and 8th Grader, Dan Healy, who is Commissioner of School Spirit. They all stressed the importance of teamwork and how working together, or playing together can help reach goals.

After the short speeches, the 8th Grade varsity cheerleaders, coached by Mrs. Marge Mazik, performed a dance routine to the song "Wild, Wild West." The school was then introduced to members of each basketball team starting with the 4th grade and continuing through grade 8. In grades 5 through 8, the spectators were treated to five minute "mini games" of basketball with the girls in each grade playing against the boys. It was an exciting and noisy afternoon, and everyone had a great time showing their support for S.J.B.'s basketball teams.

The Pep Rally was a great incentive to the team players who had regular games scheduled for that evening.

Basketball is just one of the many sports offered at St. John Brebeuf. The school has many extra-curricular activities in addition to an excellent academic program.

For further information, please call Sister Rita Green at 966-3266.

Stevenson students correspond with author

Many of the Stevenson School students in Mrs. Doreen Bizar's Chapter I reading classes have enjoyed reading books by Ann M. Martin. In fact, their enjoyment reached such high levels that a group of the children wrote to Ms. Martin about the pleasure they had been receiving from her books.

One series in particular, The Babysitter's Club, intrigued the children so much that they wrote a long letter to the author asking questions about how she wrote the series. Much to their surprise and pleasure, Ms. Martin reciprocated with children telling them how she developed ideas for the books and kept track of different incidents and other information that served in the stories. She also told the children how her mother would write down the stories when she was an elementary school student. She mentioned that this fact may have been one of the most important in her decision to be a writer.

Moving into other area, Ann Martin give the students a number of tips on how to be a good baby sitter. The children found the entire experience to be most positive and now are considering other authors to contact through letters. The skills developed in this activity will help all students as they mature.

Stevenson School is one of four elementary schools in the East Maine School District No. 63, Des Plaines, Illinois.

This coin is on display at the J.C.C.I.A. headquarters. The coins, authorized by Public Law 100-673 which Annunzio spearheaded through Congress, commemorate the Bicentennial of the U.S. Congress. Kustra urges scholarship applications

State Sen. Bob Kustra (R-28) is urging area students who are interested in nuclear science careers to apply for a four-year all-expense scholarship being offered by the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety (IDNS).

"This is an excellent scholarship covering not only tuition, but also board and room expenses and textbooks," Kustra said. "It is for study at an Illinois college or university, and could well be the stepping stone to a career in the nuclear field."

To be eligible, students must rank in the upper 20 percent of their high school class and be accepted or enrolled at an Illinois college or university to study biology, engineering, physics, health physics, geology, hydro-geology, industrial hygiene or other programs designated by the IDNS director.

After graduation, the recipient must accept employment with IDNS, a public utility that owns or operates a nuclear power plant in the state or the operator of a low-level radioactive waste disposal facility which the state will be building, if any of these offers a position.

Kustra said students can obtain additional information about the scholarship and application forms by writing to John Hall, Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety, 1035 Outer Park Dr., Springfield, IL 62704. Applications will be accepted until Mar. 30, and the recipient will be named by Apr. 20.

Sutker calls for field office

In a campaign swing through Cook County suburbs this week, Cal Sutker, Democratic County Clerk candidate, called for the development of a mobile field office, more accessibility for disabled voters and a continuous hotline to make a variety of services more available to the public.

"A mobile field office circulating through the suburbs on an ongoing basis will be a cost effective way of registering voters in the suburbs," says Sutker, currently a state representative and former Democratic state party chairman.

"A continuous hotline in the County Clerks office will permit citizens to get prompt answers for questions about birth certificates, voter registration and tax delinquent property. There is no reason why many of these questions can't be handled without excessive correspondence."

Van Dusen receives endorsements

George Van Dusen, Democratic candidate for election as Commissioner of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District in the March 20 primary, has been endorsed by Skokie Mayor Jackie Gorell, Niles Mayor Nick Blase and State Representative Calvin Sutker who is giving up his 56th District seat to run for Clerk of Cook County. Van Dusen announced that Al Smith former Mayor of Skokie will be honorary chairman of the campaign. Barbara Meyer, Corporation

Counsel for Skokie, is Van Dusen's campaign manager. George Van Dusen has been a Legislative Aide to Congressman Sidney R. Yates for seventeen years, and has been a Trustee for the Village of Skokie for four years.

The 56th District includes areas of Skokie, Morton Grove, Niles, unincorporated Des Plaines, Glenview, Golf and West Wilmette.

State rep candidate views Nortran crisis

George Van Dusen, candidate for state representative from the 56th legislative district today commented on the current contract problems between Pace and Nortran. Pace, the suburban bus transit system, wants to have more control over Nortran, the most successful bus system under Pace. Nortran wants to maintain its independence.

"If the Pace-Nortran impasse continues, I would strongly support legislation to fund Nortran directly through a separate funding item in the Illinois State Department of Transportation budget. This kind of dispute must come to an end. It is not the first time that Pace has tried to put roadblocks in Nortran's way, but a mechanism must be found to give Nortran an independent source of funding."

One third of Nortran's budget comes from the farebox - the highest percentage of any suburban bus system. Nortran is supported by the mayors in the northwest and northern suburban area of Cook County.

Van Dusen is a Skokie Village Trustee and a member of the Northwest Municipal Conference, and has worked on transportation issues for both. For further information, contact Van Dusen at 708-679-4361 (H) or 708-982-9669 (Campaign Office).

Schoenberg endorsed for state Representative

Illinois Public Action (Public Action) Illinois' largest public interest group, has endorsed the candidacy of Democrat Jeffrey Schoenberg for State Representative of the 56th District.

Public Action Executive Director Robert Craemer thanked Schoenberg for his "interest in Public Action" and offered to work with Schoenberg after his "victory in the upcoming election." Public Action works on a wide variety of environmental, consumer and senior issues in Springfield and Washington, D.C.

Schoenberg's primary challenge for this seat two years ago resulted in his capturing 41 percent of the vote in a hotly contested primary. The seat is being vacated by incumbent Cal Sutker.

"I'm delighted to receive Public Action's endorsement and appreciate its expression of confidence. I support their strong pro-consumer agenda and will welcome their help in resolving the issues we will face together," he said.

Gardner endorsed by union

Frank Edward Gardner, Democratic Candidate for election as Commissioner of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District in the March 20 primary, has been endorsed by the United Transportation Union Local 1597.

Frank Edward Gardner, a strong supporter of organized labor, has stated that "The United Transportation Union and all of labor will find me to be a good friend they can count on as Commissioner of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District."

Illinois tax forms' school codes listings

Sen. Robert Kustra (R-Des Plaines) has released a list of school codes that area taxpayers need to complete their Illinois income tax forms.

"The state uses these school codes to determine what share of state tax money is coming from individual school districts. These school code numbers will be helpful for people who have just moved or who are filing for the first time and need to know the correct code for their school district. Many other people will be able to just copy the school code number from the tax form they filed last year," Kustra said.

The Senator said those who don't know the school district in which they reside may obtain that information from the nearest school or superintendent's office.

Taxpayers with questions may call the Illinois Department of Messages about how to live safely and sensibly were presented through song and dance.

The intangibles of getting that extra bit of health advice from the local druggist is a loss to all of us. How many times have you gotten free medical advice from your druggist which cured a problem you've been living with?

I remember spending several hundred dollars at a Park Ridge dermatologist in an attempt to cure a skin problem. One time I walked into Pankau's and Bob's brother, Warren, suggested I try Tenacin, a $3 nonprescription liquid which cleared up my problem. It was the end of the skin problem and the end of contributions to the Park Ridge dermatologist.

Another time we had an on and off bladder infection which dated back to World War II. Our local man at the pharmacy, one of the Pankau boys, suggested I stop drinking caffeine. I did and that ended a problem which existed for 20 years. Not once in those years did any doctor make a similar suggestion.

We're sure our examples could be multiplied many-fold by everyone who has gotten advice from their local druggist.

The younger Pankau, Ronnie, started the Waukegan Road store and was instrumental in starting the local Lions Club and helped form the Bank of Niles which later became the First National Bank of Niles. These are important contributions from the locally-owned pharmacy store.

While this certainly is not a rap against the big boys who operate the chain stores, nevertheless, they usually take the money out of the local community and run home. Their contribution to the community is often negligible.

We are speaking before the local Rotary Club Monday at the October Five Restaurant. When we mentioned the diminishing local druggist we also said he is going the way of the local grocer. One bushy-tailed Rotarian reminded us the local helpful hardware man has also become a dying breed. He, too, is being gobled up by bigness which is over-running the American free enterprise system in the last quarter of the twentieth century.

In the newspaper business The Bugle is the youngest community newspaper in the north and northwest suburbs and it is 29 years old. Here in Bugleland, the Pioneer newspapers were sold a few years ago by an independent publisher, Bill Carroll, to The Time magazine interests, who subsequently sold to Marshall Field. The Lerner family, owners of the local Life News paper, sold their interests to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch corporation, a multimegabucks publishing house. The time for the local community newspaper is fast disappearing from the suburban scene.

Are we better off with the big guys taking over? I rather doubt it. The bottom line on their computerized ledger sheets determines what happens with their company in the community. Their representatives seldom live in the community. And their interests are less parochial than we who invest our lives within the community.

Pankau Drugs is leaving Niles Thursday, Oct. 23, 1986, after 35 years. We are "much the better" for its having been here. But we are "not the better" for its leaving.

Phone workers labored through the night and the company hoped to have normal service resumed before Wednesday. By 10:40 a.m. Tuesday, 85 percent of service had been restored, according to a Centel supervisor at the job site. The supervisor praised his crew's efforts and was optimistic that all phones would be back in service by nightfall.

"If that (drying) doesn't work, we'll have to replace all the cable," Cliborne said. "All 1800 (cable pairs) are individually spliced together and that's pretty time-consuming work." Cliborne said normal phone service would not resume until Friday if new cable must be installed. The tedious process would involve 3,600 hand-tied connections by four workers in cramped quarters.

Service at the Radisson had been restored as of 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, according to a spokesman.

Broken water main...

The Radisson Suites Hotel on Milwaukee Avenue and approximately 300 other customers affected. The area involved was also bordered by Golf and Rand Roads, northwest of the main break.

Jim Zeimet, Des Plaines Superintendent of Public Works said the three-inch hole in the eight-inch cast iron main had apparently festered underground for several days before bursting through the street. A citizen contacted that department around 6:30 p.m. Monday to report water erupting on Dempster Street. By that time, water pressure had eroded the concrete phone duct protecting the Centel cables.

According to Claude Cliborne, public relations administrator for Centel, crews began the laborious task of drying out the 1800 cable pairs shortly after public works personnel repaired the leak with a stainless steel sleeve at 8:30 p.m.

Spanish students win competition

Spanish students from Regina Dominican High School won several awards in the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese (AATSP) Oral and Artistic Competition. In the oral competition, first place winners were Michelle Do-bija of Norwood Park and Greta Martinez, Aileen Boue, and Joanna Garcia, all of Skokie.

Second place ribbons were awarded to Ingrid Lema and Eileen Tanghal of Morton Grove; Monica Barros and Joanna Maurice of Lincolnwood; and Janette Martinez of Sauganash.

maintenance garage at Tam golf course, Board President Elaine Heinen suggested the Board deduct 2,000 from the architect and construction fee, saying they had "not served well enough" to be paid the full fee and had "detained Niles five months." She cited caulking problems, lack of ceiling tiles in storage areas and imbalanced thermostats as only a few problems.

Heinen added that Board members and Village officials would walk through the garage for a final inspection on Feb. 21 and the board would host a ribbon-cutting ceremony March 9 at 6:30 p.m. She noted the garage at 6780 Howard St. is the first building built by the Park District since 1974 and is "a premier maintenance facility in the community."

Addressing other financial matters, the Board studied the 1989 bond issue of $740,000 for capital improvements. Vice President Walter Beusse voiced his concern the bond would not cover all the items in a staff wish list and this might infringe upon the $250,000 set aside for pool repairs. Commissioner Carol Panek and Beusse underlined the need to focus on pool repair, and Beusse suggested contingency funds might be necessary if costs ran higher than expected. Attorney Gabriel Berrafato advised members they could modify the budget later to contain costs. Later, in his financial report, Beusse noted, as of Jan. 1, 1990, the Park District has $1,841,996.48 in various accounts in certificates of deposits in the First National Bank of Niles.

In another pool-related action, Park Director Tom Lippert received legal approval from Attorney Berrafato on a contract with the engineering consultant firm of Water Technology, Inc. to provide specifications for pool repair.

Berrafato asked for, and received, Board approval in an action, concerning N.I.C.O. park. It involved a transfer of property between the Park District and the Village of Niles which will, in effect, straighten the western boundary of the park by the addition of Village land and give the Village 15 feet at the park's south end for improvement of Seward St.

In further business, the Board approved a motion by Commissioner James Pierski to accept an offer from Avcoa, Inc. to supply vending machines for the district. Board members deferred action on a new Illinois law restricting smoking in public areas.

Turning to personnel matters, President Heinen read a letter of resignation from former Board Library liaison visits St. John Brebeuf

Third graders at St. John Brebeuf School were recently treated to tall tales told by Rick Kinnebrew, school liaison from the Niles Public Library.

Kinnebrew held students spell-bound with his tale of Spearfin-member and Treasurer Jeffrey Arnold, who was recently named Village Trustee. Arnold cited his wish to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest and said the Park District would occupy "a special place in my heart and my mind." Business Manager Ron Mrowiec was named new Board Treasurer.

Commissioner Carol Panek announced the Maine-Niles Association of Special Recreation (M-NASR) has a new director. He is Chicagoan Gary Koenig, now superintendent of North Shore Special Recreation; he will start March 12.

District Director Lippert disclosed the attendance at Cross country skiing was up during the recent snowfall, and if more snow came, the Tam golf course would be prepared with trails. Member Panek told of a "Understanding Your Back" program March 6 requiring registration and a $2.00 fee at Ballard. She also indicated the District calendar of events for March-May would be included in the spring brochure due the first week of March.

Board members' concern over the flooding of Tam golf course and other areas surfaced during a presentation by two representatives from the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). Ralph Chanchetti and Phil Peterson accepted a check for $100 from President Heinen and described NIPC's activities and services in the six county surrounding area. The agency is advisory, with no legal authority, but aids communities in overall planning by supplying demographic studies, aerial and flood plain maps.

Commissioner Pierski called upon Sweetheart Open coordinators Tom Hickey, Jan Gerber and Midge Dinocola to describe the success of the ice rink competition. The occasion attracted more than 500 skaters, including 33 precision teams and brought in $19,000 in revenue. Niles Tot team placed first in one competition, but older Niles contestants placed fourth after Oak Lawn, Carol Stream and Northbrook, the first place winner. The coordinators anticipate involving Nutrasweet as a sponsor for next year's open.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lee led a colorfully costumed contingent of the Niles Squares dancing club as they presented Board President Heinen with a check for $1,200.

More color was displayed when Park district employees Ed Domzalski and Joan Demming and President Heinen received service pins of garnet, emerald and sapphire, respectively.

D'Alba said Sullivan was scheduled to meet that morning with her husband, Alan, in regard to decorating work he had done at their home in restitution for a bad check he passed last year. Earlier payments had been in cash. He was charged with aggravated battery and armed robbery and placed on $100,000 bond. His court date is Feb. 26.

Mrs. D'Alba sustained 12 separate gashes to her scalp, a fractured right facial cheek bone, a swollen forearm and trauma to both hands.

of 1991. To reach the targeted date, Superintendent Raymond Hendee said the design phase should start immediately. If the Board approves the addition, the district would continue to work with their architect of the past two years, the Legat firm of Schaumburg and Waukegan.

Hendee foresees an 18 percent growth in school enrollment by 1994-95. The Franklin addition is projected to satisfy enrollment needs for eight years, while a reopened Jefferson school would be sufficient for nine.

The suggestion to reopen Jefferson caused a flurry of concern at Willows Academy, one of the Jefferson occupants, along with the District 64 day care center for grades K-6 and the Child Care With Confidence firm.

Nan Sullivan, Director of Public Relations and Development at Willows, underscored the school's desire to remain in the Jefferson location. She said the school conveyed its concern to the District School Board by letter and feels the District wants them to stay, adding "We're hopeful (we will.)" Sullivan said 40 percent of the Willows' 135 pupils come from Park Ridge and the immediate surrounding area.

The District School Board is under pressure to decide soon before reopening Jefferson in order to relocate, if necessary. The District supports five elementary schools and one junior high school. An addition at Franklin school would effect some of the school boundaries in 1991.

Although semifinalists and commendation winners will not be announced until September, 1990, Maine Township High School District 207 has received a preliminary report of students who demonstrated high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test for the 1990 Merit Program which was given in October. Of 565 District 207 juniors who took the test, 12 students received a score in the 99th percentile on one or both tests. The test includes both a verbal and mathematics section.

At Maine East, Linda R. Friedlieb received a score in the 99th percentile on both the verbal and mathematics test. Bryan E. Heiser, Yushin Kim, and Trilok P. Patra received a score in the 99th percentile on the mathematics test.

tatives say, Pace will no longer insist on an absolute budget cap but will fund Nortran's "reasonable expenditures that go beyond Nortran's line item budget."

Pace is given a fixed annual operating budget by the RTA and wants its providers to also live within a budget.

Pace has backed off from insisting on participating directly during union negotiations with Nortran but the parties agree that Pace will be kept informed of all negotiations, according to Stanley T. Bristol, Nortran chairman.

Citing its yearly funding from RTA, Pace insisted that the contract duration should be for one year, like those between other mass transit providers. Initially, Nortran representatives opposed this but the executive board will recommend that the full board agree to the shorter term, now that most of the other issues are resolved.

Still in question is a renewal of a separate, intergovernmental agreement between the two agencies which impacts on bus route and other disputes. Pace insists on sole authority to decide if an unprofitable route should be eliminated. Place indicated "about half" of Pace's executive board members still oppose individual suburban representation regarding certain ties and if additional land should be purchased for future open space. If there is cause found for the district to expand its services, the task force will also advise the park board on how to finance those needs.

The completed surveys should be returned to the Prairie View Community Center, 6834 Dempster St., by Feb. 26, according to Gary Balling, park administrative manager. Volunteers will be calling to make sure residents who were supposed to receive surveys did and will check to make sure the surveys are being filled out. The volunteers will also offer to pick up the completed surveys, Balling said.

policy matters. Pace marketing director Ann Murphy indicated board chairman Florence Boone was "unlikely to recommend" renewing the lapsed intergovernmental agreement, the only one of its type between Pace and one of its providers.

"It hasn't worked before," Murphy explained, expressing the viewpoint that disputes can be resolved without a separate agreement. "Pace sets the standards for all of its routes. Our board takes a strong stand on treating all of its providers in the six counties alike. We can't discriminate."

"We hope Pace feels as strongly as we do about renewing the Intergovernmental Agreement," said Bristol. "Nortran and its member communities feel this agreement is an important tool for the communities to maintain an active voice in local transportation, and for integrating the relationship between the two agencies."

All in all, despite the differences each side had at times in presenting their positions, Nortran is encouraged and happy that all the discussion has resulted in the forming of a constructive agreement," the chairman added.

Montay College to present vision award

Montay College has selected Adelman Anthony C. Laurino to receive its second Share The Vision Award at the annual Dinner Dance on March 10. Laurino has been Alderman of the 39th Ward since 1965. This seniority makes him the Dean of the City Council of Chicago.

This was not Tony's plan when he was in college. "I was in college and I needed a summer job. My alderman gave me one with him. I stayed and became his secretary. Then I stayed and became the Alderman." This was the beginning of the life time in politics for Alderman Tony Laurino. Elected seven times, he is on seven committees and he still follows his heart.

The Montay Collge Share The Vision Award is given to an organization or individual whose actions demonstrate a purpose which complements the mission of Montay College. The mission is to serve the community by helping others realize their potential by providing opportunities for personal, cultural or educational enrichment. Last year the Award was presented to the Co-permunic Center and accepted by its founder, Mitchell P. Kobelinski.

The Share The vision Award Dinner Dance is Saturday, March 10, at the House of the White Eagle, 6845 N. Milwaukee, Niles. Tickets are available. Call 539-0948.

Loyola auction planned

Riverboat Ramble, Loyola's 21st annual fundraising auction, to be held on May 5, is well underway this month with a flood of local gift-gathering parties. These neighborhood get-togethers provide an opportunity for Loyola parents to meet, exchange ideas and above all, to support the annual Ramble auction. Inaugurated in 1969, the Ramble continues to fulfill its goal of bridging the gap between tuition charges and actual education costs. Year after year, hundreds of volunteers collect thousands of auction items and hope to raise half a million for the Academy.

Each year the past masters contribute a special gift for the Ramble auction items such as the week at Mallow Castle, Ireland, a this move is for educational reasons whatsoever-only space and monetary considerations. I think when you're on a board of education, your first concern should be education."

A representative of the Golf Mill Homeowners Assn. said it is better to study a situation rather than rush into one. "I think it (the kindergarten center) is an 11th hour decision," he asserted.

Board members suggested that March 17 be considered an orientation or question and answer session for parents of new kindergartners with administrators.

Gleichman said, "One of the parameters of the program would be no reduction in services. A possible option could be a more positive program." Staff and administrators will work out the details as quickly as possible, he added.

Maine East students in IMEA Competition

Twelve Maine East musicians received news that they were accepted to participate in Illinois Music Educators' Association competition and upcoming performances.

Under the IMEA program the state is divided into eight districts. Each district annually chooses its best musicians from the high schools located in it for competition and performances. The first phase of competition for the high school musicians was October 18.

Representing Maine East in the District IMEA jazz band are junior Scott Lazerwith of Glenview and sophomore Bryan Waldo of Des Plaines.

Six Maine East musicians will perform in the District IMEA concert band. They are junior Anne Dix of Des Plaines, senior Jamal Hussien of Morton Grove, junior Sandy Kim of Glenview, junior Scott Lazerwith of Glenview, sophomore Donna Sanno of Niles, and sophomore Bryan Waldo of Des Plaines.

Maine East junior Russell Lundberg of Glenview will perform in the District IMEA choir while sophomores Ann Chen of Des Plaines, senior Yoshiko Hatori of Des Plaines, and sophomore Bruce Yu of Morton Grove will represent Maine East in the District IMEA orchestra.

Mr. Kenneth Gelz, Maine East band director, commented, "The competition at East Leyden was really tough, and I'm very proud of the way our students did."

Loyola's Sprague honored for service

Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, recently acknowledged Loyola's Director of Testing, Donald Sprague, with a certificate of appreciation for his years of dedicated service in administering tests for ETS.
