Visibility and more space are seen as assets in favor of the new Niles Chamber of Commerce location, 7166 N. Milwaukee Ave., at the intersection of Milwaukee and Touhy Avenues.

described the new site as "certainly more visible...a presence on a main thoroughfare, at the anchor of the business community." Selman sees the Chamber with "more identity than before." (Businesses can recognize the

Neighbors concerned about potential noise and fire hazards

Tire center gets zoning approval

by Nancy Keraminas

The Niles planning and zoning commission will recommend to the village board that approval for a Tire America facility be granted at 9003-9007 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Tire America representatives answered the questions of the full board Monday as well as those of neighbors concerned about potential noise and fire hazards.

Describing Tire America as a "ride-related business" with 85 percent of its operations dealing with tires and alignments and 15 percent involving shock absorbers, struts and batteries, John Sambucca of the St. Clairsville, Ohio chain praised his company as being "McDonalds-type clean" and the "Toys 'R Us of the automotive tire service industry."

"We strive to be good neighbors," Sambucca said, adding that the company joins the local chamber of commerce and fixes children's bicycle tires without charge as a goodwill gesture to the community.

The Tire America representative said the Sears Roebuck subsidiary is mall and shopping center oriented and 43 percent of its customers are women. Tire America projects the Niles outlet, described as smaller than existing centers will handle 120 passenger cars, vans and small truck daily, seven days a week. An outlet comparable to that planned for Niles is located at Golf and Algonquin roads, according to Sambucca.

Commissioner Roger Bernal explained technical considerations for the benefit of audience members, such as the three-hour fire code regulation pertaining to the brick walls of the building. Tire America assured neighbors the wall was sound absorbing as well.

Improper use of a stolen library card might not read like the most important crime of the century. It's a story with bizarre implications and it has a local connection to our communities. It is a new type of crime which can be coupled with the new computer age.

Fred Lamanna, past director of the Highwood Public Library and a former employee of the Morton Grove and Northbrook libraries, was arrested in January for improper use of a stolen library card.

In a story by Eric Zorn in the Chicago Tribune, Lamanna, 34, possessed a library card owned by a Deerfield resident. He admitted using the card to check out materials from the Morton Grove, Northbrook, Palatine, Park Ridge and Skokie libraries which are members of the North Suburban Library System.

Lamanna turned over to the Deerfield police 24 recordings of Mozart's "Dom Giovanni", a Webster's Ninth Collegiate Dictionary, two volumes of Proust, a "Who's Who in 20th Century Literature" and dozens of other works, mostly highbrow, which had total value of almost $10,000.

A Lake County assistant states attorney said Lamanna altered the last numbers on the library card enabling the computer, linking 46 public libraries, not to show the card as being used.

Study to determine Niles North's future

Niles Township School District 219 has commissioned a $5,000 demographic survey to project the future enrollment of its two high schools. The board needs that information to decide whether it should consolidate its two campuses.

Amid controversy about the cost effectiveness of the study, the board voted 6-1 at its March 26 regular meeting to authorize Bethesda, Maryland-based Grier Partnership to conduct the study. Board member Florence Sutker dissented, noting the district's in-house ability to provide reliable projections of student population.

The majority cited the need for data gathered independent of the district in order to assure the public of the objectivity of the study.

Local woman's odyssey carries her through 22 countries in 20 months

by Sheilya Hackett

As her companions watched, the brown child took the clay drum in her hands and touched it softly. Her fingers began a gentle drum tap and a smile worked its way across her face as she whispered a few notes of a song, then burst into music with a joyous beat. Her friends joined in, and the young white travelers, watching from their boat at the river's edge, jumped ashore and laughingly joined with the singing and dancing children.

This scene from the shore of Egypt's River Nile is one of many burned into the memory of Megan McCarthy, 25, of Park Ridge, one of the young travelers, whose wanderlust carried her through 22 countries in a recent 20-month period.

With a tour through Africa, a childhood fantasy, as her ultimate goal, McCarthy left U.S. shores in July of '88 and began her odyssey in Spain. She savored Spanish culture throughout the nine days of the running of the bulls fest in Pamplona to the final closing ceremony in the village square where candles flickered in the singing, swaying crowd and from every window of the three story building facing the square.

She visited Madrid, Granada and Barcelona and then a young South African she met in a hostel urged her to join his friends earning expense money by working in a chateau in south central France. A South African couple had bought the 14th century chateau and was re-habbing it into a bed and breakfast accommodation for travelers.

Taking his suggestion, she moved on to France and, along with others her age, worked in the fields and learned how to shape tongue and groove fittings onto the aged chateau floor boards.

But after a few weeks, the Riviera beaches called and McCarthy moved to the southern coast of France. Later in the fall, she joined her parents in Munich, Germany for the camaraderie of Oktoberfest and together they made side trips to Austria. In November, with winter coming on, McCarthy took leave of her folks and headed for London where she found a job with an architectural firm, using her college background in interior design. McCarthy shakes her long red hair and insists "It's easy to find a job in London."

The blue eyed McCarthy is of Irish/English ancestry and her speech carries traces of the heritage. She used the London interlude to absorb Great Britain's culture and took springtime trips to Scotland, Wales and Ireland, and again saw her parents at a wedding in Ireland.

After eight months' toil in London, an American friend joined McCarthy and they crossed the English Channel, heading east. When they reached the Adriatic shores of Yugoslavia, she was surprised to find the fabled beaches rugged and covered with sharp pebbles, not sand. Moving a few miles inland to Medjugorje, they lodged in the home of the grandmother of one of the children reputed to have visions of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Following a short stay, the pair took a ferry to the Greek Islands.

Megan McCarthy of Park Ridge (far left, foreground) and two friends relax on the patio of a house in Medjugorje, Yugoslavia. In background are Medjugorje townfolk, including the grandmother (wearing scarf) of a child reputed to have visions of the Virgin Mary.

On Crete, they were caught up with the costumes and traditions of the island and even fished all night alongside black-garbed fishermen in a lantern-lit boat.

From there, McCarthy kept a date with friends from the chateau and London and in late July, the group left Greece for Africa on an Italian cruiser named

"Egypto Expresso."

When they first set foot in Africa, heat, flies and bustling streets marked the port of Alexandria, Egypt. Black-veiled women walked the streets and raised a din as twenty or more waited over a loved one's death.

For five weeks, the group explored the ancient country and sweltered in the heat as they combed King Tut's tomb, and marvelled at the sculptures in Luxor's Valley of the Kings and the temples at Abu Simbel. In Cairo, they rode the swaying backs of camels to view the pyramids, then boarded a canvas-sailed wooden boat for a four day trip down the Nile river.

During the river journey, they stopped at a Nubian village where the women clamoured to braid McCarthy's red hair. She found their open-topped mud houses spotless, even though donkeys slept inside. Villagers took their drinking water from the Nile and each family purified its own.

At another town, the group joined a wedding celebration and in Nubian custom, rubbed a henna dye into their hands before dancing.

Following their Nile excursion, the group diverted to Israel in hopes of lower air fares and slept on the beach at Tel Aviv. But discouraged by delays, they busied back to Cairo, Egypt and took a flight to Nairobi, Kenya.

Safaring in Kenya, the young people scoured the bush country and in the security of a van viewed African wild life up close. Later the kids climbed Mt. Kenya as far as they could without oxygen equipment, weathering snow and hail as they progressed to a height of over 17,000 feet.

Back on ground level, in the coastal town of Malindi, Kenya, they reveled in the creature comforts of running water and electricity, although they stayed in a campground on the shores of the Indian ocean. The serenity of the spot stopped abruptly for McCarthy one night when she awoke to find herself staring into the beady eyes of a hard shell crab.

The Moslem women in Malindi shaved their bodies and painted their palms, arms and legs with floral decorations. In a gesture of friendship, they gave McCarthy a "kanga", a floral, wrap-around skirt worn by the natives.

On the island of Zanzibar, off the coast of Tanzania, the next country on their route, the kids explored colorful, Moslem temples and an ancient, crumbling bathhouse where sunlight trickled in through intricate cutwork in the high-domed ceiling.

Meeting a Peace Corps worker who taught at the local high school, the kids re-lived memories of home as they ate spaghetti and garlic bread.

At the native disco in town, a generator operated tape recorder played American and English music and once more, it seemed like home.

Inside the house, police found a second male victim, as yet unidentified. Both men were transported to Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. Tully is in critical condition, but the second man was pronounced dead on arrival.

East Maine Elementary School District 63 is scheduled to receive $655,000 in state taxes during this school year, or $100,000 more than last year, reported Superintendent Dr. Eldon Gleichman at a regular board meeting Tuesday.

Gleichman noted, however, only $45,000 of the amount is due to a tax increase, the remainder being a hike in the foundation rate paid out by the state.

In other business, board members agreed to let lapse a lease with Olive Tree Congregation located in Melzer School in Morton Grove. Two other lessees, Kid-Care and Maine-Niles Association of Special Recreation (M-NASR) had their leases terminated recently to make way for a kindergarten center next September. Gleichman said the district's main concern was the safety factor and it did not want keys given out to other groups. He noted that last month a fire took place in the southwest corner of Apollo Junior High School in a room rented there by the Center of Deafness.

According to Gleichman, the fire caused considerable smoke

Niles considers revising zoning code

by Nancy Keraminas

Thoughtful planning or overbuilt lots? These are the heavy considerations which loom before the Niles Planning and Zoning Commissioners as they consider whether certain building lot restrictions inhibit community growth.

With the approval of Mayor Blase, Code Enforcement Director Joe Salerno introduced the topic as the final agenda item at the commission's Monday night meeting. The director noted that while current regulations allow the commissioners to grant 100 percent exceptions on the five foot sideyard minimum, only ten percent leeway exists for front and back yards.

"The town is becoming fully developed," Salerno explained to the commissioners, citing the effect on tax rolls, when land is at a premium.

Withholding conjecture as to the long-term impact of such changes to the village, Salerno discussed the dilemma of the homeowner or businessman who must either expand or relocate because of the need for additional space.

A business must have a minimum 20-foot rear yard, which is

The luncheons will feature an original musical revue starring Maine Township Seniors and South School music students.

The Seniors will take their young guests on a nostalgic journey back to the days before MTV and VCR's when families gathered around a tiny 9-inch television screen to watch Ed Sullivan and "I Love Lucy." Radio and TV history will be traced with guest appearances by the likes of Minnie Pearl, the Texaco Men, Perry Como, Edith and Archie Bunker, and the California Raisins. The students will respond with their own versions of the Mickey Mouse Club, the Rockettes, and a chorus of Siamese cats.

Cost of the luncheon is $7.50 for members. Guest reservations at $8.50 will be accepted on a space-available basis.

On Thursday, April 26, the Seniors are invited to enjoy a free performance of "The Music Man" at 2 p.m. at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

"Wearable art" will be featured at a jewelry workshop from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday, April 30, at the Maine Township Town Hall. Guided by craftsman Jan Cunningham of G. Whiz, the seniors will use paper, clay, fabric, wire, and paint to design fashionable, abstract pins. Cost of the workshop is $1.50 for materials. Participants should bring scissors, pencils and tacky glue.

Senior citizens, regardless of whether they are members of the Maine Township Seniors, may enroll in the "Rules of the Road" refresher course offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday, April 16, at the Des Plaines Senior Center, 1040

Thacker St. To reserve a place, call 298-0111.

Reservations are now being accepted on a first-come, first-served basis for two summer trips. A four-day trip to Kentucky and Indiana from June 30 to July 3 will feature a visit to Stephen Foster's Home, a tour of a Kentucky distillery, and a riverboat cruise on the Ohio River. Cost of the trip is $377 per person double occupancy and $427 single occupancy.

A nine-day excursion to the Pacific Northwest is scheduled from July 11 to 19. Along with spectacular scenery, highlights include visits to Mt. St. Helens, Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver. Cost of the trip including airfare is $1,676 per person double occupancy and $1,994 single occupancy.

Nearly 3,000 residents are enrolled in the Maine Township Seniors. Most activities are limited to members. Membership is free and new members are always welcome. Applicants must be 65 or older and provide proof of residency.

Gay '90s act performs at The Benchmark

The youngest member is 67-years-old. The oldest is over 90. They're The Park Larks musical group and they'll be performing 1890s songs and other old-time favorites at 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 11, at The Benchmark of Hoffman Estates, a rental retirement community located at 1515 Barrington Road in Hoffman Estates.

This professional group of 35 spirited seniors from the Northbrook Park District Senior Center have been entertaining crowds throughout the North Shore area for more than 10 years. The lively one-hour show at The Benchmark will feature The Park Larks singers, instrumental numbers, dance reviews and musical solos and duets.

In the Gay '90s spirit, The Park Larks' ladies wear dresses with bustles and big fancy hats with flowers, feathers and bows. Parasols and reticule purses reminiscent of the late 1800s complete the look. The gentlemen dress appropriately in straw skimmers, arm bands, bow ties and suspenders.

The Park Larks' singers are accompanied by the musical sounds of the banjo, guitar, harmonica, piano and even a few tamborines. The talented seniors sing songs like "Hey Look Me Over", "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-De-Ay" and "Wait Till The Sun Shines, Nellie." The group even has its own version of Dean Martin. Phil Morreale sing "Everybody Loves Somebody" and "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

"He's just like Dean Martin. A real 'Italian stallion,'" Clem McPhee, The Park Larks director, said of Morreale. "Women actually swoon when they hear him sing," said McPhee.

The Park Larks will entertain at the April birthday party for Benchmark residents. Refreshments will be served from 3 to 5 p.m. To make your reservation for Wednesday's show and gathering, call The Benchmark at (708) 490-5800.

Free senior program at Devon Bank

Ed Warble, gifted entertainer, performs Wednesday, April 11, at 10 a.m. in the Devon Bank Conference Center, 6445 N. Western Ave. in Chicago.

Mr. Warble, a trained conservatory musician, has delighted audiences in Chicago and overseas, besides on international cruise lines. He has recently returned from a second successful tour of Scandinavia. He has entertained thousands of senior citizens at performances in local senior centers and area resorts.

Devon Bank's monthly senior citizen programs are free of charge to seniors in the North Town, Rogers Park and surrounding community. Refreshments are provided before the programs. Kosher items will be served for this April 11 performance. For questions regarding the program or Devon Bank products or services, call 465-2500 ext. 302 during regular banking hours.

Isle of Capri vacation for seniors

The senior residents of the North Shore Retirement Hotel at Davis and Chicago Avenues in Evanston know how to have a good time. They love to throw parties and they love to do them with imagination.

On Wednesday, April 4 they invited the public free of charge to the Isle of Capri...well, it is really their gorgeous ballroom transformed into the perfect island idyll, complete with a piazza, or "La Piazetta," the lovely Italian boutique arcade in Capri.

Guests and residents were able to browse the stalls featuring a coffee shop, fruit market, flower stall and an ice cream and bakery shop. As they lolled at their umbrella tables, they were entertained by the songs and music of sunny Italy, performed by Irene Molckosta and her troupe.

The cards are issued free to all residents age 65 and over and to persons with disabilities. There is a $4 fee for others. Applicants applying for a photo ID card must submit at least three acceptable forms of identification that provide their name, Social Security number, date-of-birth, residency and a signature comparison. ### "Talking Cable" premieres on Cablevision

With additions, alterations, and innovations happening so frequently, it's sometimes hard to keep up with the progressive cable industry. To help viewers keep abreast of issues, Cablevisions has created a new informational magazine program called "Talking Cable." Hosted by Public Affairs Manager Dina April, "Talking Cable" addresses every facet of the cable world. There are program service profiles, industry leader interviews, service hint segments, and previews of upcoming cable movies, sporting events and specials.

"The show is aimed at giving viewers an inside look into the cable industry. The information we relay will hopefully allow subscribers to get the best possible use out of their cable service," said host Dina April.

The premiere show in March profiled The Disney Channel. Irene McPhail, Cablevision's general manager, was interviewed about cable innovations in the 90's. March programming was highlighted, and viewers were given hints on being a cable troubleshooter. In April, "Talking Cable" fans will be introduced to the Arts and Entertainment Network. Gary Maher from the Illinois Cable Television Association will discuss cable legislation. Tips on hooking up a VCR will be relayed, and programming for National Cable Month will be revealed.

"Talking Cable" is taped monthly and broadcast in Cablevision's Central and Southern Regions on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 29, in the Northern Region on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 51, and in the Western Region on Mondays at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 29.

Cablevision of Chicago is affiliated with Cablevision Systems Corporation (ASE:CVC), headquartered in Woodbury, New York.

Check status of Social Security account
Joan C. LeValley, a tax accountant with offices at 841 Touhy Ave., Park Ridge, recommends that you check up periodically on the status of your Social Security account, to make sure that the taxes you pay are being properly credited. To do this, file a copy of Form SSA 7004 at your local Social Security Administration office, listed in the government pages of your phone book. The good news is that recent computerization of Social Security records has greatly speeded up the processing of such information requests. In fact, if you visit the Social Security office in person (instead of making the request by mail), they may even be able to produce your records on the spot. It is important that you check your Social Security account periodically, because mistakes must be corrected within 39-1/2 months after the year in which they occur. For help with Social Security or other retirement problems, contact your accountant or LeValley whose phone number is (708) 825-3857. She belongs to the Independent Accountants Association of Illinois, which represents over 200,000 taxpayers and small businesses in Illinois.

Morton Grove resident cites Dist. 70 meeting as 'ineptly run'

Dear Editor:

On Monday evening, March 19, I had the unique experience of attending my first District 70 School Board Meeting at Parkview School.

It was one of the most ineptly run board meetings I have ever attended and a public defense session for certain board members who must have felt under attack. Board President Miletic prefaced the meeting by saying that the board would not tolerate any name calling or rude behavior or he would adjourn the meeting. Most admirable, but the only person who used profanity was Board Member Quinn. Pres. Miletic did or said nothing to him. I guess his opening statement was directed only at the audience. Mr. Quinn did express a sincere apology for being so offensive after I pointed out that his behavior was most inappropriate.

The glaring inexperience of this board to function according to parliamentary procedure was surprising considering the former Borg School Building by comments that were made. Mr. Dreiser said that "we were elected by the citizens who gave a mandate to nullify the old board's plans for expansion and that's who we represent" (the Save Borg Association elected the five new members). I took the liberty of reminding Mr. Dreiser that he now, as an elected school board member, represents ALL the citizens of Dist. 70, not just those who elected "them". As a concerned citizen who is an advocate of education at all levels and a taxpayer of this district, I do not feel this board is acting in the best interest of our children or our tax dollars. The majority of this board is very sympathetic to SBA, which represents a small fraction of the total District 70 population, and is very unresponsive to the issue at hand and the greater good of this district. I would suggest Pres. Miletic familiarize himself with Robert's Rules of Order and start conducting the board meetings according to parliamentary procedure. This school board should have the best interest of ALL district children at heart, not just a select few. I would further like to remind certain members of our community that Borg School is no longer in existence, that building is now the Muslim Community Center and I welcome them into our community. Let us put this behind us and move forward in a positive fashion to address the problems that need our attention. Most Sincerely, Angela R. Adler Morton Grove, IL future, but offered none. He wants community input, but did not offer a vehicle to obtain it. Instead Pres. Miletic reproached Supt. Graham for not doing anything to provide the board with community input. I pointed out to him that establishing such a committee was the board's responsibility, not the superintendent. The function of the superintendent is to implement the policies set forth by the school board. Pres. Miletic's hostility toward Supt. Graham is both visible and unfortunate.

The majority of the audience wanted the board to address the issue of the impending overcrowding that Parkview School faces by Sept. 1991 and what actions this board was considering. The board answered that they were considering all options, but still refuse to let the architect present the plans for an addition. It was apparent that certain members of this board are still considering regaining the former Borg School Building by comments that were made. Mr. Dreiser said that "we were elected by the citizens who gave a mandate to nullify the old board's plans for expansion and that's who we represent" (the Save Borg Association elected the five new members). I took the liberty of reminding Mr. Dreiser that he now, as an elected school board member, represents ALL the citizens of Dist. 70, not just those who elected "them". As a concerned citizen who is an advocate of education at all levels and a taxpayer of this district, I do not feel this board is acting in the best interest of our children or our tax dollars. The majority of this board is very sympathetic to SBA, which represents a small fraction of the total District 70 population, and is very unresponsive to the issue at hand and the greater good of this district. I would suggest Pres. Miletic familiarize himself with Robert's Rules of Order and start conducting the board meetings according to parliamentary procedure. This school board should have the best interest of ALL district children at heart, not just a select few. I would further like to remind certain members of our community that Borg School is no longer in existence, that building is now the Muslim Community Center and I welcome them into our community. Let us put this behind us and move forward in a positive fashion to address the problems that need our attention. Most Sincerely, Angela R. Adler Morton Grove, IL

And finally, a great big hug to all of my volunteers, who worked very hard to help bring about this victory.

Sincerely,
Eunice Conn

Niles residents pay penalty for not having a 600 zip code

Letter to the Editor:

To Fellow Residents of the Village of Niles:
How many of you are as unhappy as we are with the United States Post Office?

We just applied for a health insurance policy and were quoted a rate, based on our application. We then received a letter from the insurance company stating that the rate quoted by the agent was incorrect, and should have been 20% higher. On checking with the agent, we found that the difference is due to our living in Niles, but having a Chicago zip code! Evidently, claims from Chicago are higher, so their rates are also higher, and we have to suffer because the United States Post Office has seen fit not to assign Niles a suburban zip code, and instead has saddled us with a Chicago code.

The insult comes on top of our general disgust with the Post Office service. We find that the delivery period for first class mail keeps getting longer while the price goes up at a fast rate. We often receive letters which have taken many days to reach us (one recently took two weeks from a Western suburb of Chicago). In addition, not a week goes by that we don't receive at least one piece of mail addressed to someone else - and wonder how much of our mail never reaches us. We do know of several items which were mailed to us but not delivered. (We always remain misdirected mail with a note "delivered to wrong address", and would hope that everyone else would do the same.) We think it is about time that our Niles government officials brought pressure to bear on the Post Office authorities to grant a suburban zip code (beginning with 600, not 606) to Niles. With our substantial population, we certainly deserve this. Wonder how many of you are paying a penalty with each insurance premium? If you agree that we need a Niles zip code, contact the mayor's office!

Very truly yours,
Walter E. Kramer
Marilyn K. Kramer

Straight talk about anabolic steroids

Abuse of anabolic steroids among students, athletes and young adults appears to be increasing.

To combat this growing health problem, "Steroid Facts for Life," a free brochure from the Chicago Medical Society, is being offered to young adults, parents and area organizations. It provides them with the straight talk about anabolic steroids, including a list of the medical complications that result from abuse of the drug.

Today, estimates indicate that more than one million Americans - half of them teenagers - illegally use anabolic steroids, or artificial doses of the male sex hormone testosterone.

When taken by pill or injection, anabolic steroids may add mass to the muscles. Some athletes believe their performance is enhanced with continual use of the drug.

"Just because one person says steroids work, it doesn't mean that the drug is problem-free and effective for everyone. Continual steroid use can involve hidden physical risks and dangers," said Ulrich F. Danckers, M.D., president of the Chicago Medical Society.

The brochure briefly discusses the historical, medical and legal aspects of anabolic steroids.

To obtain a free copy, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Steroids, Chicago Medical Society, 515 N. Dearborn St., Chicago 60610.

Schools, coaches, health clubs and organizations may request additional brochures by calling the Chicago Medical Society at (312) 670-2550, ext. 228.

Hospital's Codependency Program helps families

Codependency. It's a word that has come to be frequently heard. As understanding of the term has grown, so too have the ranks of those who recognize factors in their lives that relate to codependency.

When a family member suffers from alcoholism or other chemical dependency, it affects the entire family structure. Everyone suffers, sometimes without even realizing what is causing the hurt. When the issues fostered by codependency aren't addressed, they become a continuing and painful family legacy.

Forest Hospital's "Family Enrichment: A Codependency Program" is a comprehensive two-day program that provides support and helps family members begin to heal the pain that results from addiction. Established in 1987, the program has helped more than 250 families find the tools to begin the recovery process.

Away from the pressures of work and home, the two-day structure provides a forum where participants can learn about chemical dependency and codependency, and gain support from certified addictions specialists, as well as from others who share similar experiences and histories.

The person in the family who is abusing alcohol or drugs does not need to be recovering before the rest of the family seeks help, notes Margo Jacquet, clinical coordinator of the Family Enrichment program.

Fear, shame, hurt, anger, hopelessness and other feelings are logical responses for those living in a home where there is drug or substance abuse, says Jacquet. Commonly, these emotions are repressed in order to ensure that basic survival needs are met. But held-back feelings don't go away. And the effort to try to deny them creates painful patterns of stress that can have a damaging effect throughout life.

The Family Enrichment program presents an atmosphere in which to develop strategies for recovery. For information about "Family Enrichment," call the clinical coordinator at (708) 635-4100, extension 295.

Forest Hospital is a 170-bed private psychiatric facility offering treatment for children, adolescents and adults suffering from mental or emotional disorders. The hospital also offers comprehensive programs for eating disorders, dual diagnosis and substance abuse, as well as a range of outpatient programs.

Free letters on hypertension

The Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH) invites all suburban Cook County residents with high blood pressure or suburban residents who are on medication for high blood pressure to sign up for free "H.E.A.R.T." (Hypertension Education And Reminder Tool) letters. The series of 6 letters includes current information on stress, cholesterol, dietary fats, sodium/salt, medications, weight control and exercise and the effect on blood pressure. In addition, letter recipients are asked to respond to simple questions about their last blood pressure reading and doctor visit.

CCDPH offers these educational letters so that people with high blood pressure may better understand the seriousness of the disease and the importance of controlling blood pressure. The letters, however, are not a substitute for medical care but rather supplement the treatment instructions received from the doctor. CCDPH's "H.E.A.R.T." letters serve as both a reminder and a supportive tool to anyone who needs to maintain good blood pressure control. If you are interested in these letters, call the Cook County Department of Public Health at (708) 865-6125 and ask for Holly!

Medical choices for terminally ill

Both the Living Will and Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care are two documents that enable terminally ill patients to have the final say about the medical treatment they desire.

Both documents enable the patient to have "death-delaying" procedures withheld or withdrawn in the event of a terminal condition.

Before the patient becomes incapacitated, the Durable Power of Attorney document allows the patient to appoint an agent who will make medical-treatment decisions on the patient's behalf.

The purpose of both documents is explained in a free brochure now available from the Chicago Medical Society.

"Patients want to be in control of their health care, and they need to better understand the medical choices available to them in the event of a terminal illness," said Ulrich F. Danckers, M.D., president of the Chicago Medical Society.

The official statutory form relating to the Illinois Power of Attorney Act is included in the brochure.

Individuals may obtain a free copy of the brochure by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Living Will, Chicago Medical Society, 515 N. Dearborn St., Chicago 60610.

Organizations may request additional brochures by calling the Chicago Medical Society at (312) 678-2550, ext. 2505.

Reynolds Aluminum shows recycling rate gain

Residents in Greater Chicago responded to the challenge to do their part in reducing the nation's solid waste problems, joining together with recyclers from all across the country to recycle a record 60.8 percent of all aluminum cans produced in 1989, according to recently released industry figures.

The 60.8 percent recycling rate shows a significant gain over national aluminum can recycling totals of 50.5 percent in 1987 and 54.6 percent in 1988.

In Greater Chicago, consumers recycled 200 million beverage cans with Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company, receiving more than $2.5 million for their efforts, said Patrick J. Madison, area business manager. "As a company concerned with environmental protection and solid waste reduction, Reynolds is proud to have played an important role in making recycling available to the public," Madison said.

Reynolds operate nearly 30 recycling centers in the Greater Chicago area, all but one of these large tractor trailers, conveniently parked in neighborhood shopping centers. The firm purchases aluminum cans, many other household scrap aluminum products, as well as copper and brass, for recycling.

For the nearest Reynolds collection point, customers can call toll-free, 1-800-228-2525.

1990 Social Security earning base to increase

The annual earnings base - the maximum amount of earnings that counts for Social Security - will increase to $51,300 for 1990, up from $48,000, the 1989 base, Thomas A. Curin, Social Security Manager in Des Plaines said recently.

The increase is based on the change in average earnings levels from 1988 to 1989.

The 1990 Social Security tax rate will be 7.65 percent, up from 7.51 percent rate in 1989.

The 1990 annual exempt amount for people 65 or over will be $9,360, up from the 1989 amount of $8,880. The 1990 exempt amount for people under 65 will be $6,840, up from the 1989 amount of $6,480.

Beginning in 1990, people 65

through 69 will have their benefits reduced $1 for every $3 earned above the exempt amount. The annual earnings test does not apply once a person reaches 70.

Local woman's odyssey...

bling over tin roofs, one of their group fell ill with malaria. The victim, a South African, was able to continue in a few days and the group wangled a ride through the neighboring country of Malawi. They eventually stopped at a lake said to be the only one in the area free of a parasitic digestive tape worm.

At the lake, they stayed on the primitive island of Likoma and became used to the native children's stares. A friendship developed between McCarthy and a bright 15-year-old named Christian who spoke English well. He gave her gifts of eggs and she visited his home. But when the boy asked for financial help in paying his school fees, she had to postpone her aid because there were no banks on the island. She cannot forget the bittersweet day her group left Likoma and Christian appeared with more gifts: a mahogany ash tray and an ebony salt shaker he had carved in school.

McCarthy split off from the group when they reached Zimbabwe and joined an aunt from Great Britain who works there as a missionary nun. Together they flew over thunderous Victoria Falls in a small jet, went white water rafting on the turbulent Zambezi river, then toured Wankie national game park. McCarthy ended her excursion with her aunt with a prayerful retreat in a convent, but could not cope with the luxury of a private room and bed, so at night she dragged her sleeping bag outside near the pool and slept.

In December McCarthy rejoined her friends for a six-week tour down the coast to Cape Town, South Africa. The political situation was peaceful that time of year because a new prime minister was in office and the public mood was hopeful. The kids often hitch-hiked with black drivers and felt no tension or discomfort. McCarthy was able to view lifestyles of both whites and blacks and she realistically reflects, "There's no easy answer to apartheid."

By now, the group had grown to 12 and they celebrated Christmas in the sun along the coast in Transkei, an independent homeland. Some of the group filtered away when school reopened, but a few stragglers continued on to Swaziland and a stay on an ostrich farm. During a trip to Kruger, a primitive game park, they narrowly dodged a charging elephant.

As her odyssey drew to a close, McCarthy flew back to London, carrying only a few pieces of jewelry, her kanga skirt, a cane, mandolin and the treasured gifts from Christian. For McCarthy, who had traveled to England, Mexico and Jamaica as a child, Africa was a goal to be reached. She insists

"there's something special about Africa; it's easy going, the value system is different. They live from day to day, there's no...pressure to be someone great; there's a sense of family; the treatment of neighbors is friendly."

She said her excursion was marked by "excellent arguments, excellent laughs" and the bright hues of native dress and the beat of drums and marimba bands linger in her memory.

The traveling friends will meet again in 1995 in Rio for Mardi Gras, but McCarthy has "no great desire to go...I've done all the living I want to do."

Oakton introduces new summer class hours

This summer students like Kim and brother Todd Kassel of Niles can attend selected summer courses, beginning June 11, in the late afternoon hours between 2:30 and 5:20 p.m. By introducing this convenient time schedule, more courses are made available to students to fit their daily schedules.

Escape the summer afternoon heat by taking a course or two in the cool indoors. For the first time, Oakton Community College is offering selected summer courses (beginning June 1) during the late afternoon hours. These courses are, according to Trudy Bers, senior director of Curriculum, Research and Strategic Planning, most sought after by students who come to Oakton just for the summer and wish to transfer credits to their regular college or university. "Most of the late afternoon courses are required courses like speech, mathematics, accounting, psychology, English, sociology. The important thing to remember is that the credits are transferable to four-year universities," said Bers.

National Accountancy exam offered at MCNS

The Accreditation Council for Accountancy (ACA) has selected Mallinckrodt College of the North Shore as a testing site for its national examination in accountancy. The exam will be given Friday, May 11, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Mallinckrodt, 1041 Ridge Road, Wilmette. More than 250 candidates at sites across the country are expected to sit for the exam. The Council's accreditation program seeks to recognize practitioners and students who demonstrate a practical level of knowledge in accounting and/or taxation. Through the examinations, ACA works to establish a uniform measure of proficiency which employers and clients can use in selecting accounting and tax practitioners. The examinations are prepared by professional educators and administered by ACA. Successful completion of the six-hour exam is required for earning the "accredited" designation. Once accredited, individuals volunteer to earn continuing professional education credits every two years or lose their accredited status. Applications to sit for the accountancy exam are available from Bill Walsh, chair of the MCNS business program, at 256-1094. Applicants may also write directly to the ACA National Office, 1010 N. Fairfax St., Alexandria, Va. 22314, (703) 549-6400. ACA is a not-for-profit affiliate of the National Society of Public Accountants.

Oakton Community College's new learning program, First Class Adventures, offers an exciting adventure to Alaska from June 29 to July 15, July 13 to 29 or August 10 to 26.

Tourists are escorted by college or university faculty who are well acquainted with the country's culture and its excellent educational resources. This two week voyage of discovery through the fabled Inside Passage, the protected 1,000-mile strip of sea and glacial ice that hugs the coast of Alaska and British Columbia, offers a dramatic mix of breathtaking views, from rugged mountains and virgin forests to gigantic glaciers and exotic wildlife.

The program highlights include visits to Ketchikan, the "salmon capital of the world"; the Sitka National Park and Cultural Center; the state museum and Governor's mansion in Juneau, Alaska's capital city; Prince Edward Sound to view the 400-foot high and four-mile wide Columbia Glacier; Valdez, the "Switzerland of Alaska," to see the great Trans-Alaska Oil Pipeline and for an excursion to Bridal Veil Falls; and to the Parliament buildings, the Royal British Columbia Museum and the famous Butchard Gardens in Victoria.

The program price is approximately $2,290 per person based on inside double cabins, upper and lower berths, with private shower and toilet. Single supplement is $1,295. Full payment must be made by May 1. For information on cost and travel arrangements, call (708) 635-1672.

NW Symphony sets concert

The Northwest Symphony Orchestra will usher in spring with its third concert of the season on April 7 at 8 p.m. at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines. Under the direction of Perry Crafton, the orchestra will perform the Symphony No. 6 and Carnival Overture by Dvorak, and Der Rosenkavalier and Don Juan by Strauss.

The orchestra was founded in 1952 by a group of Des Plaines musicians for the purpose of playing great music together. Over the years, support from the northwest suburbs has nurtured the orchestra into the success it is today. As a result, the orchestra, along with local talent and artists, brings the music of the masters to the communities. People can hear fine music without having to pay downtown prices for tickets or parking.

The Northwest Symphony Orchestra is a non-profit organization that performs four concerts during its season.

The next concert will be on May 19 featuring violinist Anne Chalex playing Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto. Other works will include Bach/Stokowski's Passacaglia & Fugue, and Sibelius' Symphonie No. 2.

All concerts are held at 8 p.m. at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines. Tickets are $10 for adults, $7 for students and senior citizens, and children under 12 accompanied by an adult are free. Group rates, handicapped facilities, and free parking are available. ## Flooding Problems in the Northwest Suburbs

by Frank E. Dalton
General Superintendent
Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago

We are all too familiar with the recent flood events in the northwest suburbs, particularly the dramatic overbank flooding along the Des Plaines River. In the spring of 1986, heavy rainfall in Wisconsin and Lake County caused an increase in river elevation that caused flooding all along the Des Plaines River as it progressed downstream to Lockport over a three-day period. Again, in August of 1987 and 1989, heavy rainfalls in the northwest suburbs captured the news headlines. What was not apparent in the news coverage was the extent of another form of damage done by sewage back-up, especially in the older communities with combined sewer systems.

One of the difficulties in dealing with flooding is that it is not strictly a local problem. Rain falling in one location can have damaging effects many miles downstream. What appears to be a local solution to flooding may actually aggravate the problem in another location. This is particularly the case when dikes are used to force more water downstream or when oversized storm sewers are used to quickly drain an area with no consideration given to those downstream. In order to provide comprehensive solutions to flooding in the Chicago metropolitan area local, state and federal agencies began working together.

In 1971, the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago (MWRDGC) sponsored a series of studies to investigate flooding in the Chicago area. The primary goal of the studies was to develop comprehensive plans to reduce existing floodwater damage. These studies resulted in a series of River Basin Plans which were prepared by the U.S. Dept. of Agricultural Soil Conservation Service (SCS). As a result, programs and projects were developed which have been implemented or are now being implemented. These include the requirement of on-site stormwater detention for new developments as well as large regional reservoirs throughout Cook County. To date, on-site detention provides 2.5 billion gallons of floodwater storage and the 27 regional reservoirs built by the MWRDGC provide 5.2 billion gallons of storage.

Why do we still have flooding problems despite the regional planning and the construction of billions of gallons of flood control reservoirs? Part of the answer is that Lake County has not yet formulated any plan and DuPage County has not completed its plan. One objective that must be included in all stormwater plans is the control of floodwaters so as not to increase damage to areas downstream, including areas in adjacent counties. To its credit, DuPage County has included this objective in its plan. When all adjoining counties fulfill their flood control obligations, Cook County should receive substantial relief from overbank flooding of its waterways. This would be a major step forward, but would have little impact on sewage back-up which causes more damage annually than the overbank flooding. In separate sewer areas this is caused by extraneous storm flows into the sanitary sewer system. In combined sewer areas sewage back-up is caused by undersized sewers and inadequate outlets for the overflow.

In the separate sewer areas the solution to sewage back-up is relatively straightforward, namely, keep the stormwater out of the sanitary sewer system. This is a local problem which requires each municipality to monitor its own sewer system. Local sewers requiring maintenance will have to be fixed, and illegal connections to sanitary sewers will have to be found and removed. In the combined sewer areas the problem is much more complicated. In these areas there is only one sewer for both sanitary and storm flows. In fact, the earliest sewers were for storm flows only. As indoor plumbing developed these sanitary flows were added to the system. The only outlets for these sewers were the rivers and Lake Michigan which caused a tremendous health hazard. To alleviate this hazard the flow of the rivers was reversed to keep the sewage out of Lake Michigan. With the advent of sewage treatment, lower level sewers were built along the waterways to intercept the sewage flow and transport it to the treatment plants. The excess storm flows were still allowed to overflow into the waterways.

Over the years, development has far exceeded all planning expectations, causing these combined sewers to become overloaded. This caused sewage back-up into homes and more frequent overflows to the waterways which seriously polluted our rivers. The regional solution to this problem was proposed by the MWRDGC and is called the Tunnel and Reservoir Plan or TARP. The plan consists of a network of deep tunnels, 150 ft. to 300 ft. below our major waterways. These tunnels will intercept the combined sewer overflows and transport the flow to treatment plants. Presently 65 miles of tunnels are in service or under construction, but these tunnels only have capacity for the "first flush" of overflow. Future plans call for large reservoirs to store the combined sewer overflow until it can be pumped to the sewage treatment plants for processing. These reservoirs are the responsibility of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. We do not foresee these reservoirs being available before the year 2000.

Although TARP will provide an outlet for the combined sewers, thus keeping pollution from our waterways, there will still be the problem that many of these sewers are overloaded and cannot transport all of the flow they receive. This, again, is a local problem that has several solutions. Relief sewers may be built to transport all of the excess flows to the TARP system. This tends to be very expensive and disruptive, comparable to adding an entire second sewer system. An alternative is to delay the rainfall from entering the combined sewers thereby avoiding the sudden increase in flow beyond their capacity. This is similar to reservoirs holding excess stream flows during a storm and then releasing the water when the stream has subsided.

Our community that has chosen this alternative is the Village of Skokie. By delaying the flow into their combined sewers, they reduced their need for relief sewers and in many areas eliminated them altogether. The selected plan of inlet control began with the construction of roadway berms and the installation of flow regulators which produce temporary street ponding, slowing the rate of drainage into the sewer system. Whenever the level of street ponding could lead to damage to adjacent properties, storm water storage facilities will be built or sewer relief improvements will be made to avoid damage.

A major relief sewer program was estimated to cost $160 million which would have increased Skokie's bond debt twenty times and resulted in a 185% property tax increase. Taxation for the selected plan has been in effect since 1985. The annual levy is $3.5 million, which was a 30% increase in the village tax rate at the time it was implemented. The cost to an average homeowner is approximately $60 per year. This tax will continue for approximately twenty years.

There are no inexpensive solutions to the overbank flooding and sewage back-up flooding that occurs in the Chicago area. In the combined sewer areas 550,000 homes are subject to some form of flooding. In the separate sewer areas an additional 90,000 homes flood, with 50,000 of these subject to sewer back-up. Regional Planning has resulted in many programs, some of which have already been implemented. At the local level solutions have been identified. It is now up to each community to decide upon the level of protection they are willing to pay for and to choose the most economical method to accomplish these goals.

Sewer project starts in Edison Park

Mayor Richard M. Daley announced recently that work will begin during this week on a major sewer project to relieve flooding in the streets and basements of homes within the Edison Park community.

Teresta B. Sagun, commissioner, Department of Sewers, stated that the new sewer will be located in Ibsen Street from North Olcott Avenue to North Overhill Avenue. Boundaries for the drainage areas are defined as Touhy Avenue on the north; Pratt Avenue on the south; Olcott Avenue on the east and Ozanam Avenue on the west.

This Department of Sewers construction project is designed to provide flood relief to these drainage areas with the installation of approximately 1,403 feet of new sewer pipes. The total cost for construction, funded by the Sewer Service Charge, including engineering and revision of city-owned utilities, is estimated to be $726,000.

It will be necessary to close vehicular traffic on Ibsen Street to insure public safety during construction.

ing delinquent when it was checked out.

Eventually, the rightful owner of the card began receiving overdue notices causing the library system officials to begin investigating. A clerk in the Palatine library recognized a photograph of the man using the stolen card and Palatine police put out a warrant for the man's arrest.

While Lamanna worked in the library system from 1978 until 1986, a resume of his educational credentials showed him to be an impostor librarian. He pretended to have a master's degree in library science which proved to be untrue.

One librarian who knew him said Lamanna was great with the public. "He was intelligent, personable and extremely enthusiastic." The librarian asked why such a person would impersonate a librarian?

Last week Lamanna struck a deal with library authorities. In exchange for filing misdemeanor charges rather than felony charges, Lamanna would hand over his entire home collection. Because there is a three year statute of limitations which prevents libraries from recovering anything missing prior to 1987, the deal was considered a good one for both parties. Also, more than $7,000 worth of classical recordings were in Lamanna's possession, including 18 versions of "Cosi Fan Tutte" which bore no cataloging numbers which would prove original ownership.

Lamanna was charged with misdemeanor library theft in Cook County and misdemeanor possession of stolen property in Lake County. At an April 19 hearing, he is expected to pay a $100 fine and be sentenced to perform community service in Cook County. Last week he pleaded guilty to the Lake County charge and will perform 75 hours of community service.

Deerfield police are redistributing the books and recordings. Lamanna, who is working as an accountant, said he wants to put everything behind him.

Zorn quoted Lamanna as saying he believed he was a good librarian. "Other than the problems I got into, I really was."

missioner Jim Callero suggested, "Go back and try and design something that will please the people."

Tire America's construction manager John Potts and others agreed to alter their plans to accommodate neighbors after being reminded that the commissioners had the option of requiring service doors to be closed during operations.

The conciliatory mood extended from Commissioner Angelo Troiani who suggested a new building configuration to the dental lab owner of the adjacent north property, who was receptive to selling a corner of his lot to accommodate the revised plans. Sellers and south neighbors Eastern-Style Pizza also agreed to the plan revision.

Troiani and Commissioner Dorothy Dolack moved and seconded the zoning change from B-1 and B-2 to B-1 Special Use, with Troiani noting that Tire America would lose valuable building time if the petition was continued to the May meeting.

In another second zoning matter, owners of the property at 9200 Courland Drive were granted their request of a lot subdivision after zoning heard from six neighbors concerned about the appearance of the two proposed residences.

If the village board agrees with the zoners, owners Leonardo Galati and his brother of 8141 Church St., Niles will build a 2-story, 1,577 square foot single family home on the 5,717 square foot north portion of the lot.

The resulting lot is nine percent smaller than a standard lot.

The building planned for the southern lot resulting from the subdivision would be a one-story, 2,215 square foot single family home, according to Galati.

Niles Chambers...

Chamber is attracting daily inquiries from passers-by, according to Bob Wordel, executive director.

Wordel hopes the new prominence will attract professional and commercial members, too. He sees the Chamber as a sounding board for local entrepreneurs and suggests the Chamber, with its liaison to the village, can help if businesses have problems in regard to code violations or environmental concerns. Wordel said "It's easier to start on a positive note."

Additionally, the Chamber's membership in the Illinois Chamber of Commerce qualifies Niles for information on pending legislation that would affect businesses such as an act under consideration which would require employers to allow complete hospitalization for part-time workers.

At present, there are 1,152 licensed businesses in Niles and approximately 300 are Chamber members. A disappointing number from Golf Mill Mall and Tam Industrial Park are members, said Wordel, because many of the owners are from out of state.

To aid in soliciting new members, the Chamber is distributing a nine-minute tape describing the advantages of Chamber membership. Nightingale Conant Corporation, a Niles firm and a leading producer of training tapes, donated the tape.

The Chamber's quarterly newsletter updates members on local news, such as the availability of buildings, and, on the social side, the Chamber will hold a luncheon for members and their secretaries April 25 in honor of Secretary's Day. Space in the courthouse chambers is viewed as adequate for such occasions.

In June, a Chamber community guide will be delivered free to all Niles' businesses and residents. It will list and categorize village businesses and services available in the community.

It is Wordel's hope the Chamber will not only assist members, commercially, but build a rapport and sense of mutual assistance between members and the Village of Niles.

Niles North...

rollment for Niles North and Niles West is currently 3,291, slightly more than West's peak 3,183 students during the 1969-'70 term. Growth estimates have been placed between two percent annually to as high as 4,500 students for the school year 2008-'09.

Grier will use data provided by nine feeder elementary school districts in order to determine the student population through the year 2004, according to District 219's John Nix.

Grier will reportedly take this data, along with statistics from a recent Skokie municipal survey, and use it for comparison with Illinois and U.S. population trends.

Nix, the district's director of building and grounds, earlier presented a study to the board showing that both high school facilities were in need of about $10 million in repairs.

According to that January facilities study, the district could realize $23 million in savings over five years if 32-acre Niles North were sold and a 53-acre Niles West in order to hold all Dist. 219 students.

The demographic study, which gets underway this month, will be completed by early fall.

fic" at the junction of those thoroughfares, the department began stopping offending motorists March 30 and issuing advisory warnings.

However, after a seven day grace period, "strict enforcement will commence," Strzelecki warned.

The Milwaukee-Dempster viaduct is undergoing reconstruction, which is expected to continue until the fall, 1991. The bridge, built in 1929, will be totally redone and sewers replaced. The underpass was scheduled to be closed the first week in April, with upper deck lanes reduced to one in each direction.

Zoning...

"generally wasted space" and the two foot exception which the zoners and village board are empowered to grant is "impractical", Salerno reported, based on feedback from Niles' business development director Ralph Bast.

Salerno also offered the example of a Bunker Hill homeowner who, by virtue of the 40-foot restriction for rear yards, cannot build a certain-size addition to the residence, even though the property is backed by forest preserves.

"Families are getting larger. Give yourselves some leeway," Salerno suggested to board members. "Judge every case on its own merit."

Board members agreed the topic deserved consideration but asked Salerno to research similar existing zoning variance allowances for the board to examine in time for the May 7 zoning meeting, owing to the potential ramifications of changing the code.

Commission Chairman John Frick explained the historical basis for Section XI (E) (a) (1) of the Niles Code, which was changed in 1975. According to Frick, board members "limited themselves because of the emotional issue, (of granting changes)."

"The board can be swayed with the right presentation," Frick cautioned, noting the need for long range planning as well as objectivity in granting zoning exceptions based on individual circumstances.

Lincolnwood remodeling contractor Dick Wasserberg told the board that Niles is one of few communities where the zoners' powers are so limited. Representing the Bunker Hill homeowner, Wasserberg said, "We're in the 1990's. They (homeowners) want to stay in Niles and it's cheaper to build an addition than to move."

Wasserberg, of Airroom, Inc. suggested the board establish "specific and unequivocal criteria" under which exceptions could be granted, to maintain objectivity.

Another Niles property owner, businessman Robert Schaul, noted that his meat and poultry company wanted to expand its warehousing capability but was hamstrung because of the existing rear yard law.

Citing his neighbors who were granted sideyard variances, Schaul said his company's sales had tripled from $1 million in 1988 and he needed to build a warehouse addition in the rear. "It's been wasted space back there for 40 years," Schaul complained.

The principal in Schaul's Poultry and Meats, who said his company had been in Niles since 1923 and was one of the "first settlers" also pointed out the potential increased sales and property tax revenues to the village if businesses were allowed to expand rather than be forced to relocate.

At the May 7 meeting, the zoners will consider whether they should be allowed to recommend variances of up to 100 percent for front or rear yards.

They must then, at the authorization of the Village Board, conduct public hearings on the question.

The existing practice of notifying all neighbors of property where a variance is being requested would not be changed. In addition, since the zoning board is a recommending board, all changes require final approval of the village board.

Warning on IRS imposters

Beware of impostors claiming to be IRS employees, warns Ronald J. Lambert, Regional Inspector of the Midwest Region of the Internal Revenue Service. There have been a number of reports of con artists masquerading as IRS agents throughout the Midwest. One man defrauded victims by saying he was a member of a special IRS task force who could workout tax payment plans between businessmen and the IRS.

In another scam a con artist called victims and told them that they had won a "prize", but before it could be sent the victim had to pay "taxes" on the prize by sending money to a post office box.

Lambert offers these tips to avoid being taken in by a bogus IRS agent. If you owe additional tax or are having your tax payments questioned, you will usually receive a notice by mail. If the first contact is by telephone ask for a call-back number, an explanation as to the type of tax owed, and why written notice was not received.

If you are contacted by telephone, ask that person to tell you your Social Security Number. Keep in mind that this step isn't absolute proof of identity. Con artists might get the number from another source.

If someone comes to your door, ask them to produce identification. IRS officials always carry distinctive identification that clearly displays their name, picture, and U.S. Treasury/IRS.

If you are asked for a cash payment to cover a tax liability, that person probably is an impostor. Payments to the IRS should be made by check or money order payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

The Internal Security Division of the Inspection Service is responsible for matters that affect the integrity of the IRS, including impersonation of IRS officials. If you are unsure of the identity of the person presenting IRS credentials, doubt the validity of telephone calls, or suspect a scheme, call the Inspection Internal Security Division at (708) 719-7930, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

299-6096. Demonstrations, displays and publications will also be available at different sites around the Interpretive Center. These presentations are designed to help householders comply with Illinois Public Act 85-1430, which bans the disposal of yard wastes in Illinois landfills and therefore mandates the recycling of this material.

The existing practice of notifying all neighbors of property where a variance is being requested would not be changed. In addition, since the zoning board is a recommending board, all changes require final approval of the village board.

Volunteers sought for Little City tag days

Morton Grove Mayor Richard Hohns has given his support to the 15th annual Little City SMILES Tag Days, to be held on Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19. the streets at this time. Work will be done by an outside contractor, not village crews, and as of now, no contract has been assigned.

The maintenance on Niles streets will include two phases: 1) resurfacing in which the surface is milled off, the base repaired and new asphalt put on the top and 2) repaving, in which workers heat and "scarify" the surface. A machine then digs three-fourths of an inch down, a new emulsion is worked into the surface and another three-fourths of an inch of new asphalt is applied. In most cases, it will not be necessary to close the streets.

Again, board members set June 12 as the final day of the school year, deleting Dec. 22, 1989, Feb. 15, 1990 and June 13 through 21, 1990. Many of the days were deleted because the district did not need to declare "snow days."

Board members agreed to purchase a customer support services agreement from Hewlett-Packard for a mainframe printer in the amount of $588. The printer has broken down twice in the past but was under warranty.

Driving tips during rainstorms

Early spring showers can make driving hazardous by increasing the possibility of skidding or hydroplaning.

Roads become slick during a shower because surface oil and grease form a film that is not washed away until after 20 or 30 minutes of hard rain.

Hydroplaning, which is caused by speeding or too little tire pressure or tread, occurs at about 35 miles per hour when tires begin to lose contact with the road surface. At speeds up to 35 mph, most tires "wipe" the road like a windshield wiper. However, as the speed increases, tires actually ride up on a thin layer of water like a set of water skis.

Partial hydroplaning begins on most cars at about 35 mph at increases with speed to about 55 mph when the tires may be completely up on water. If you start to skid at speeds less than 55 mph, you should be able to regain control by taking your foot off the accelerator and letting the car slow down. Steer in the direction you want the front of the car to go.

In a severe rainstorm, tires lose all contact with the road at 55 mph. As a result, no friction is available to brake, accelerate or corner, and a gust of wind, curve in the road or slight turn can throw your vehicle into an uncontrollable skid. If this occurs, release the accelerator and ride out the skid.

To avoid an accident, slow down during rainstorms and when water is standing on the road. Keep your tires inflated properly and replace them if the tread depth is less than 1/16 of an inch.

Remember to Buckle Up!
