Dist. 63 staff petitions for teacher's reinstatement

by Elena Hirschfeld

Teaching staff of two schools submitted 388 petitions for the reinstatement of Kathleen Jarvis, a teacher fired for use of a racial slur.

Jarvis's firing Monday followed a series of meetings Tuesday morning at the lakefront school. Jarvis had been disciplined for comments regarding Illinois's English language learner program.

Jarvis, a six-year veteran of the school district, lost her job last week after district administrators upheld an earlier disciplinary decision by the board.

Throughout the school day Tuesday, Jarvis's supporters gathered at the school entrance to rally against her firing. Neighbors held signs, chanted, and sang songs, including "Santa Claus Is Comin' to Town." Jarvis's supporters said they were trying to raise awareness of the issue.

Jarvis's firing has sparked a debate about free speech and the responsibilities of teachers in the classroom. Jarvis's supporters argue that the district's decision to fire her was unfair and that she was punished for exercising her right to free speech.

On the other hand, the district has defended its decision, saying that Jarvis's comments were inappropriate and unprofessional. The district has also emphasized the importance of creating a safe and inclusive learning environment for all students.

The district's decision is being closely watched by teachers and administrators across the country, who are grappling with similar issues of free speech and professional conduct.

Street gang activity angers Maine residents

An angry crowd of neighborhood residents gathered outside of the Maine Township Board meeting Tuesday night to protest the continued presence of a street gang in the area.

The group, which included parents, students, and community leaders, said they were fed up with the violence and drug-related activities that were occurring in the neighborhood.

"We can't keep our kids safe," said one parent. "They're afraid to go outside and play.

The group said they wanted the township to take more aggressive steps to address the problem, including increased patrols, more lighting, and better surveillance.

The Maine Township Board removed the gang's name from the list of approved street gang members, but the group said they would continue to press for more action.

Meanwhile, the Cook County Sheriff's Office said they were investigating the incident.

Niles OKs real estate transfer tax

Niles trustees approved a real estate transfer tax, which will take effect July 1.

The tax, which is 2% of the price of a property transfer, will be used to fund the village's library and other services.

Trustees also approved a budget for the upcoming fiscal year, which includes a 3% tax on real estate transfers.

The village's library is expected to receive $150,000 from the transfer tax, which will help fund the library's expansion and upgrade.

Niles residents celebrate opening of recycling center

Niles residents celebrated the opening of a new recycling center on Sunday, April 22.

The center, located at 4200 Waukegan Road, is designed to accept recyclable materials, such as paper, plastic, and glass.

Residents were encouraged to bring in their recyclables to help reduce waste and conserve resources.

Northwest model engineers construct a 'moving' exhibition

By Shelia Harbert

Northwest Model Engineers held the third annual moving exhibition at the Normal Community Center April 29. There was an admission of $2 per family.

The exhibition held the usual mix of small engines and equipment. There were two model airplanes (one-1/4 scale) that were displayed. A radio-controlled model of an airplane, operated byay Rick Schell of Bloomington, was on display. It was a World War II trainer and could go into a 300 mph dive. The plane was 7 feet long and weighed 6 pounds.

No one can say the Northwest Model Engineers are small. There are 35 members representing a cosmopolitan bunch from enigmatic drawings and blueprints of efforts by the 35-member model engineers. The members are from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio.

The club has plus membership fromAround the world, including Europe and the Orient. It has a newsletter which is published quarterly.

There are many models of engines on display. Some are 100 years old and were imported from England. There are also some homemade engines.

The Northwest Model Engineers hold the exhibition at the Normal Community Center in Normal, Illinois, on April 29, 1990. There were about 200 visitors who enjoyed the display of engines and equipment.

MG Park Board OKs $3.9 million budget

by Linda A. Burns

The Normal Grove Park District board unanimously approved the 1990 budget at the May meeting.

The budget is $3.9 million, a slight increase from the 1989 budget of $3.8 million. The board approved the budget after 31 percent increase in their fall 1991 electric bill and a 12 percent increase in their electric bill and the $25,000 for the manufactured home park.

The general revenues budget is $2,500,000 with $910,000 to be sold in December. The budget also includes $3,900 for the manufactured home park and $3,935,000 for the manufactured home park.

The board approved the budget and none of the revenues were used in the manufactured home park.

The budget was approved by Mayor Blase, officially opening the recycling center.

MG firefighters' contract negotiations at standstill

by Nancy Keramidas

The Village of Wheeling, Ill., will be in a bargaining unit not paying a share of the insurance premiums. The contract negotiations between the Village of Wheeling, Ill., and the Northwest Municipal Conference for non-member firemen's contract are at a standstill.

There are approximately 125 firefighters in the Village of Wheeling, Ill., who are not members of the Northwest Municipal Conference. There are also about 125 firefighters who are members of the conference. The negotiations are between the Village of Wheeling, Ill., and the Northwest Municipal Conference, which represents the non-member firefighters.

The Village of Wheeling, Ill., wants its firefighters to pay a share of their insurance premiums, but the Northwest Municipal Conference is refusing to take on the financial responsibility.

New procedure helps women with incontinence

Dr. Louis Berger and Dr. Donato Raudazzo, both physicians at the Hoffman Estates Banner Hospital, have developed a new procedure for women who suffer from leaking urine. Patients who suffer from incontinence often feel embarrassed and embarrassed and try to avoid social situations. However, this new procedure offers hope for those women who are seeking help.

People who suffer from incontinence do not think of it as a medical condition. Instead, they think of it as a personal problem. There are many different causes for incontinence. Women who have undergone surgery or have had their babies may be at risk for incontinence. Women who have been diagnosed with a chronic condition such as diabetes or Parkinson's disease may also be at risk.

Bladder Control Problems?

If you are one of the many women who are suffering from bladder control problems, you are not alone. But you may be living with the problem unnecessarily.

Now there is a new treatment for bladder control problems. The treatment is called InterStim Therapy. It is a non-invasive treatment that does not require surgery. The treatment involves a small device that is placed in the pelvis. The device sends a mild electrical signal to the bladder, which helps to control the urine flow.
