Niles recycling center closure draws criticism

Survey finds 40% of center’s patrons are non-residents

By Shelly Hochst

The proposed site for a new recycling center appears to be a step toward solving a problem that has been a thorn in the side of many suburban communities. The Niles recycling center, located at 10530 Waukegan Road, Niles, has been in operation since 1978, and has served as an important resource for the community. However, with the center projected to close in the near future, many residents are concerned about what will happen to their recycling materials.

According to the Niles recycling center director, the center is facing financial difficulties and is in need of a new location. The center’s current location is insufficient for the amount of recycling materials being generated by the community, and it is anticipated that a new location would be more efficient and better equipped to handle the increased demand.

However, the search for a new location has been fraught with challenges. The Niles recycling center has been in operation for over 40 years and has built up a loyal customer base. Many residents are concerned about the impact that the closure of the center will have on their ability to recycle.

“Recycling is such an important part of our community. It’s a way for us to protect the environment and reduce waste,” said one resident. “It’s really disappointing to think that the center might have to close.”

Another resident expressed concern about the potential for a decrease in recycling participation. “I’ve seen a lot of people stop recycling when the center was in a bad spot. I hope we don’t see that happen again.”

Community leaders are hoping to find a solution to the closure of the Niles recycling center. They are exploring options for a new location and are working to address the financial difficulties that have led to the center’s closure. In the meantime, the Niles recycling center remains open, and patrons are encouraged to continue to recycle.

Nilesite receives Illinois Bell award

Morton Grove Post 134, which also sponsors The Krazy Days, will have its kick-off ceremony Wednesday, July 3, and run through Sunday, July 7, on the Legion grounds adjacent to Home Park.

The dog days of summer are here, and with them comes the opportunity to have some fun with your furry friends. However, it's important to remember that certain substances, such as fireworks, can be harmful to pets.

To keep your pets safe during the Independence Day celebrations, pet care advisors offer the following tips:

1. Keep your pet indoors: Keep your pet indoors during the fireworks display. They may get frightened by the loud noises and bright lights, and could run away.

2. Cover your window: Cover your windows with curtains or blinds to block out the bright lights and loud noises.

3. Keep your pet calm: Keep your pet calm by providing them with a quiet and safe space, such as a bedroom or a crate.

4. Use relaxed music: Play some relaxed music to help your pet stay calm.

5. Avoid food: Avoid feeding your pet during the fireworks display, as they may accidentally swallow something that could cause them harm.

6. Take your pet for a walk: Take your pet for a walk before the fireworks display to burn off some energy.

7. Keep your pet hydrated: Keep your pet hydrated by providing them with fresh water before and after the fireworks display.

8. See a vet: If your pet shows signs of distress, such as panting heavily or whining, take them to a vet as soon as possible.

Niles College Seminary of Loyola University in Chicago is offering an outdoor celebration of summer at "Summer Sampler," an event scheduled to attract over 10,000 visitors. The week-long event, June 20 through July 14, will feature daily performances of live music, dance and theatre. Organizers hope the event will break the attendance record set last summer, when 17,554 people visited the performance area.

"Summer Sampler" begins Saturday, July 20 with "The Great Circus Train," a two-hour four-mile spectacle at 2 p.m. The train, sponsored each year by Standard Federal Savings, will be a closer look at their Navy in a 222-mile journey to Grant Park. The train will pass through hundreds of thousands of spectators, including many in the Navy Pier who turn out to see the colorful parade. It's just a string of well-loved circus acts.
