Homeowners receive property tax bills

If you haven't already received it, your postman will soon be bringing that perennially unpleasant piece of mail -- your property tax bill.

According to Cook County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell, some 1.5 million tax bills to Cook County property owners were in the mail by Aug. 6. The due date for this second installment of 1990 real estate taxes has been set for Friday, Sept. 6, 1991. Payments received after the due date will be subject to a 1.5 percent penalty on the amount due per month or portion thereof.

The first installment, which property owners received in Continued on Page 35

Excluded agenda item explained by board president

Macken pays final $39,000 to library

by Eileen Hirschfeld

A press conference at the Niles Public Library District last Thursday revealed that former administrator Daniel C. Macken III paid a final $39,000 to the library for a total of $217,627.67 on the amount he embezzled.

About $17,000 of the total fee was interest due on monies and another $31,000 was for expenses in regard to legal and auditing fees.

The conference was an extension of a library and press debate initiated at the July 17 regular meeting. At that time, members asked for an update on embezzled funds paid and due the library based on a report prepared by Weiss. The item, entitled, "Macken Money Ex. 5.E" was placed on the agenda, but never addressed.

Members of the press questioned the obvious omission and, following a hasty conference between Board President Ted Przybylo and attorney Dennis Walsh, were told to file a request under the Freedom of Information Act.

This amount excludes credits Macken received for vacation and personal days.

Also at the press conference, a first public announcement regarding detection of the embezzlement was made.

Linda Weiss, chief of technical services, explained that another employee questioned her regarding checks in which Weiss's initials had been forged. She declined to comment on who brought the matter to her attention.

Requests were denied as were subsequent appeals. All administrative efforts having failed, the only recourse is the judicial system.

Walsh explained that information was not then released because Continued on Page 35

by Bud Besser

The lady down at the school District 63 offices said, "They're rattling the cages", when we asked if a teachers' strike was a possibility.

Our telephone conferee said she's a mother of several children, a school District 63 taxpayer and what the district really needs is an increase in the "administrative staff". She said down at the District 63 office, the administrators are burdened with the work load and she feels there's a real need to alleviate this work load.

Last week we reported about the $100,000 salary the superintendent is paid. We thought the pay was too high, was out of line with the community it serves, and was hard to justify since enrollments are half what they were in past years. Less schools; less students and less teachers did not seem to justify doubling salaries.

Now comes word the teachers' union is getting restless. The possibility teachers will strike is more than a threat.

As we write this column Tuesday morning we're unable to contact the principals who will be involved in negotiations. The president of the teachers' union lives in Riverwoods, a fairly new community west of Deerfield. It's a high rent district which makes the North Shore community of Kenilworth look like a slum area. One of the unions' negotiators is teacher Barbara Continued on Page 35

Manhole collapse causes new Dempster detours

by Nancy Keraminas

Repairs to a collapsed section of the Milwaukee Avenue/Dempster Street intersection caused an impromptu Dempster Street detour and earned the wrath of Niles Mayor Nick Blase, who received complaints that heavy trucks were diverting themselves to residential streets Aug. 2 when they could not go through the intersection.

Animal bones found in village lot

The chance unearthing of several bones in various sections of an open space sitting area in Niles, located at 6616 W. Albion, on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue, near the forest preserve, caused the area to be cordoned off by police and an investigation by the Cook County Medical Examiners Office.

According to Sergeant Dan Halley, the medical examiner has determined the skeletal parts found Aug. 1 by a Niles Public Works employee, who was resetting sprinklers in the vicinity were not human, but rather from some type of animal. The worker found bones of varying sizes in the bushes east of the fence and summoned police.

Niles investigators also found other bone fragments near a tree and in other locations.

Talkline celebrates 25 years of service

Talkline Help Lines celebrates 25 years of round-the-clock service to Chicago suburban area residents, this year. The agency marks this accomplishment with a picnic and a name change.

Volunteers and friends are invited to a "Picnic in the Park" in Elk Grove Village on Sunday, July 28 from 1-5 p.m. Birthday cake will follow brats, softball and volleyball and a brief address by Chairman of the Board of Directors James H. Diehl.

Formerly Talkline/Kids Line, Inc., the agency has just completed a name change to better describe its services. Under the banner of Talkline Help Lines, it continues to provide emotional support, problem solving help, crisis intervention, information and referral on three separate lines: one for adult callers, another for teens and a third line for children, 13 and under. The teen line features the availability of trained teens to talk with their peers from 6-9 p.m. each day. All of Talkline's volunteers successfully complete 40 hours of training from mental health professionals.

Talkline began in 1971 as a rap line for teens troubled by a new access to drugs and alcohol, something their parents had not experienced. Soon, there were callers of all ages and the agency responded by training its volunteers to help with any sort of problem.

By 1983, the economic and family environment had changed dramatically. More working women and a growing divorce rate left many children home alone after school. The so called "Latchkey Phenomenon" had begun.

Talkline responded with Kids Line, the first 24-hour help line for children in the country.

In 1987, the nation was experiencing an epidemic of teenage suicide. Teens in alarming numbers were deciding that their lives were hopeless. Talkline initiated Teen Line that year and began to train teen volunteers from local high schools to give support to their despondent peers.

Volunteers are recruited and trained four times each year. The next volunteer training will be held in September. For more information about the picnic or the training, please call Heather Ogan at (708) 981-1271 between 9-5 p.m., Mon-Fri.

Lincolnwood police get drug forfeiture funds

Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley announced Monday his office had completed a drug forfeiture action against a California man netting more than $177,500, one of the largest seizures in the history of the office.

Ninety percent of the money will be turned over to the Lincolnwood Police Department where the seizure occurred, O'Malley said.

This brings drug forfeitures recovered in civil litigation by the State's Attorney's Office so far this year to a total of $2.6 million.

"Taking profits out of drug dealing is a priority in our efforts to control the flow of narcotics," said O'Malley. "My office is committed to taking drug proceeds and putting them to use by law enforcement agencies."

A Lincolnwood police officer approached defendant David Segal, 34, also known as David Shandloff, last known address 15507 N. Normandy Ave., Gardena, CA, as he was sitting in a 1986 Lincoln Continental in a parking lot at Touhy and Keating Avenues in Lincolnwood on Feb. 10, 1990.

The officer observed Segal put out a marijuana cigarette in the car ashtray and smelled cannabis coming from the vehicle. He then placed Segal under arrest.

A search of Segal revealed two vials of cocaine in his jacket, while an inventory of the car uncovered a large plastic bag containing cannabis, and $177,517 in cash.

Segal pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance, possession of cannabis with intent to deliver and perjury. The defendant perjured himself in a bond hearing when he stated that he had never used any other name and had no prior convictions.

Segal was sentenced by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Robert Nix on July 1, 1991 to two years in the Illinois Department of Corrections and was fined $1,000.

Since the case began with a seizure by a suburban police department prior to Sept. 10, 1990, the Illinois State Police will keep 10 percent of the forfeited funds and remit 90 percent to the Lincolnwood Police Department.

However, cases initiated since Sept. 10, 1990, will follow a new formula: 65 percent of the forfeited funds go to the arresting police department, 10 percent of the funds to the state police and 25 percent of the funds to the State's Attorney's Office.

Today's column is a hypothetical case about a set of twins named Lotta and Less "Dough". Both twins started working the same year and earned the same income. In fact, they were identical in everything they did except when it came to finances.

Lotta was a planner and "Goal Setter". She saved $40 a week starting at age 19, while Less wanted a brand new sports car to impress his friends, even though it was $40 a week more to operate than Lotta's car. So, Less had to wait until he was 26 to start saving $40 a week. But now at 26, Lotta began spending that extra $2,000 a year on travel and fun. Less continued saving $40 a week for the next 39 years. Here is what happened to these two people when they retired.

Both people invested wisely and earned 10 percent a year on their money. Lotta had made a total contribution of only $14,000 during those 7 years, while Less had contributed $78,000 over 39 years. By age 65, Lotta had $1,035,160 in her account, while brother Less had accumulated $883,185 in his account.*

The staff of the Citibank Old Orchard branch located in Skokie were honored by receiving a trophy in recognition for outstanding customer service.

These prestigious awards are given monthly and are based upon Citibank standards for servicing customers.

The Citibank commitment to customer service is demonstrated by requesting customers while in

In addition, at the Old Orchard branch, customers can designate by ballot those staff members, who provided a high level of service. Each month those ballots are collected and awards given to deserving staff members.

Microsoft Word for Windows is the latest addition to the Office Systems Technology course offerings at Oakton Community College.

Many newly-purchased computers are coming packaged with Windows and Microsoft Word for Windows software. Because this word processing software runs in the Windows environment, the user is able to choose from drop-down menus, respond to dialogue boxes and display more than one document at the same time.

Oakton offers three sequential courses in Microsoft Word for Windows, including introductory, intermediate and advanced levels. Daytime, late afternoon and evening courses are available to fit most schedules. Each one-credit course lasts five weeks.

Registration is now in progress and classes begin Aug. 26. Tuition for in-district residents is $20 per credit hour plus a $15 computer lab fee.

For more information call Mary Ann Pellegrino, Office Systems Technology chair, at (708) 635-1954.

Blood Donor Awareness Month

LifeSource reports that Illinois Governor Jim Edgar has officially proclaimed August, as Blood Donor Awareness Month.

This official proclamation serves to recognize these silent heroes who continue to save lives with each blood donation. For more information about donating blood call LifeSource at (312) 808-7660 in Chicago, or (708) 298-9660 in the suburbs.

Donor Awareness Month in Illinois is in recognition of both the contributions of volunteer blood donors and the great need for donations during the summer.

LifeSource reports that blood supplies are extremely low right now and that blood donors are seriously needed. Blood types O and B are critically short.

Health care options focus of conference

Health care options for people with arthritis and other chronic diseases will be the focus of an upcoming educational conference sponsored by the Illinois Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"Arthritis Care: Cost, Access and Management" will examine several of the critical health care issues facing those with rheumatic diseases in the 1990s.

The conference will take place from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14, at the Palmer House Hotel, 17 E. Monroe St. in Chicago.

"From young children to senior children, arthritis poses unique problems for the one out of every seven people it touches," said Marilyn Cason, chairperson of the Foundation's Illinois Chapter. "Therefore, it is crucial that those who have arthritis learn more about the health care choices available to them."

The day-long conference will feature a panel discussion on several of the problems facing those with chronic diseases in today's health care environment.

Following the panel discussion, workshops will further explore the areas of insurance, medical ethics, doctor/patient relationships, advocacy and Social Security.

In addition, workshops on the most common forms of arthritis and related disorders will be offered, including a special session on Sjogren's syndrome, co-sponsored by the Sjogren's Syndrome Foundation.

Other rheumatic diseases to be covered during the workshops include ankylosing spondylitis, fibromyalgia, gout, juvenile arthritis, osteoarthritis, osteoporosis, rheumatoid arthritis, scleroderma and systemic lupus erythematosus.

Rheumatologists and other experts in arthritis care will be available throughout the day to answer questions and provide information.

An "Arthritis Expo," featuring products and local resources of interest to people with arthritis, will be incorporated into the program.

Registration fee for "Arthritis Care: Cost, Access and Management" is $15. Lunch is included.

For more information on the conference, or to register, call the Arthritis Foundation (312) 782-1367 or 1-800-2397 (toll free outside the Chicago area).

The future of healthcare discussed

Four panels of healthcare industry professionals -- physicians, hospital executives, hospital board chairmen, and buyers of healthcare, including government and private payors -- were asked to forecast trends in healthcare delivery, consumption and funding through 1996 in a Delphi study co-sponsored by Arthur Andersen and the American College of Healthcare Executives. The study is entitled "The Future of Healthcare: Physician and Hospital Relationships."

Some of the panelists' major predictions follow. Healthcare spending will continue to rise and account for at least 13 percent of the nation's gross national product or more than $1 trillion annually by 1996. Universal health insurance will not be implemented by 1996, but support for such a program seems to be growing. Thirty-five percent of panelists expect universal health insurance to be adopted by the mid-1990s, compared with 16 percent of panelists in 1987. Only 17 percent of the buyer panel expects universal health insurance to exist by 1996. If universal health insurance were adopted, panelists predict that it would cover only minimum benefits and would be paid for by a shared public-private system.

Government-funded long-term healthcare coverage is not likely to exist by 1996, according to 74 percent of the panelists and 92 percent of the buyer panel.

Cost-control measures implemented by payors will include more home care, shorter hospital stays, greater use of non-physician medical practitioners, limits on access to advanced technology and travel to "centers of excellence." Consumers are expected to accept all but limits on access to technology. Quality measurements and outcome standards will decrease payments to physicians, but their effect on cost and quality of care is uncertain. A majority of physician panelists expect the new standards to increase the practice of defensive medicine and the overall cost of healthcare.

Physicians are likely to be required to accept Medicare and Medicaid assignments by 1996. This will preclude billing patients for fees not paid by Medicare and Medicaid. Shortages of primary care physicians, registered nurses and nurse practitioners are expected to continue in the next five years. More than 400 hospitals will close between 1991 and 1996.

LifeSource hosts Bed & Breakfast

LifeSource, Illinois' largest blood center, will host the 3rd Annual Bed and Breakfast event on Aug. 18, at Old Orchard (Skokie) and Hoffman Estates donor centers. More than 8,000 invitations have been sent out asking volunteers to "Donate and Dine" with LifeSource. Breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the following LifeSource Donor Centers, Old Orchard (Skokie) and Hoffman Estates donor centers. "The Bed and Breakfast program is a great way for us to provide a service to our donors seven days a week," said Susan B. Stutle, director of Donor Services. "LifeSource volunteer donors are a special part of the community; they look forward to spending time with our 'family' and relaxing, almost as if they're on a 'mini-vacation.' LifeSource reports that blood supplies are extremely low right now and that blood donors of all types are needed.

Program helps treat co-dependency

Check a dictionary for a definition of "co-dependent," and chances are, it won't be found. Although the disabling feelings and behaviors of co-dependency too often are handed down from generation to generation, the pattern of co-dependency is one that's been recognized and defined only within the last decade. According to Margo Jacquet, director of addiction services at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, "co-dependents exhibit compulsive behavior and seek approval from others for their own safety, self-worth or identity." Those who are likely to suffer from co-dependency, Jacquet said, include alcoholics or drug addicts and their spouses, adult children of alcoholics and those who remain in abusive relationships. Others who may be codependent are those who have attempted suicide because of the end of a love relationship, over-protective parents and helping professionals, who are over-involved in changing their clients in order to fill their own emotional needs. Forest Hospital's educational and psychotherapeutic co-dependency program is offered on an inpatient, as well as outpatient basis. The program is designed to help patients focus themselves, rather than a troubled significant other, take responsibility for themselves and stop trying to control others; and take better care of themselves. For more information about the co-dependent program, call Forest Hospital Outpatient Services at (708) 635-4100, extension 224 or 225.

Alzheimer's Association offers booklet

Because the Alzheimer's caregiver needs a knowledgeable and experienced physician to help explain and manage the illness, the Alzheimer's Association has developed a new informational booklet: "Steps to Choosing a Physician".

It has been designed to guide caregivers in choosing quality health care services for their loved ones, and for a limited time, it can be offered free of charge. The booklet reviews reasons a caregiver should consult with a physician, and explores the roles of the primary care physician, neurologist, psychiatrist, and other health care professionals.

Consumers can obtain copies of "Steps to Choosing a Physician" by writing the Alzheimer's Association, P.O. Box 5675 CP, Chicago, IL 60680-5675. Copies of the booklet cost $1.50 each.

When Marlene Birdsell, 47, a northwest side resident, first joined the Medifast program two years ago at Resurrection Medical Center, 7435 W. Talcott Ave., Chicago, she was constantly tired, short of breath and weighed 325 pounds.

But, thanks to this medically-supervised weight loss program, Birdsell has shed 130 pounds, competes in walkathons and attends college.

"Medifast is a medically-supervised modified fasting program," explained Linda Dean, manager of the Medifast program. "The program requires participants to attend a special free orientation session and complete medical testing and a nutritional and psychological evaluation prior to joining the program. Overweight must be 30 percent overweight. "The testing is extensive because we want to make sure that participants are suitable for modified fasting," Dean said.

Weight loss averages three to five pounds per week, depending upon "total fast" or "modified fast" programs. The total fast includes five meal packages throughout the day in addition to a high fluid intake. Modified fast features four food packets per day and one carefully controlled meal.

Birdsell commented that she had to change her eating habits to be successful in losing weight.

"I used to have no problem eating an extra-large pizza by myself and then eating a half gallon of ice cream," she said. "Since I joined the program, I read the labels on all food products, avoid fat, choose whole grain products, chicken, fish, vegetables and fruit and drink lots of water every day."

The combination of a proper diet and exercise helped her reach her weight loss goal. She walks three miles a day, five days a week and recently completed her first walkathon. Since her weight loss, she has become more adventurous and even learned new sports including rock climbing and white water rafting.

For more information about the Medifast program and other weight loss and exercise programs at Resurrection Medical Center, call the Medifast office at (312) 792-5022.

Radiofest set for Aug. 8-10

Once again, radio and TV collectors from all over the United States and from Europe and Japan will descend upon Elgin, Illinois, and the Holiday Inn on Illinois 31 at the northwest tollway, I-90, on Aug. 8-10, to enjoy a three-day "orgy" of old radios, TVs, advertising, paper and other items related to and about the golden hobby of collecting, preserving, and just plain enjoying the electronics of the past.

Included in the three days of events is: an outdoor flea market every day, special interest exhibit: unusual radios-TVs-accessories, daily presentations of unique aspects of the hobby.

Two distinct auctions- quality items and a fund raising donation auction, buffet dinner with guest speaker, and old equipment contest-trophies awarded.

For reservations, (there is a club rate) call (708) 695-5000 and identify yourself as a guest for Radiofest 1991.

Victorian fashions on display Relive frontier days at museum

As the dog days of summer linger, imagine life without air-conditioning when high necklines, hoop skirts and waistcoats were the fashion.

During August at Naper Settlement Museum Village in Naperville, see how frontier settlers and 19th-century villagers "Beat the Heat" without the luxuries of modern technology.

Wearing the elegant but stifling Victorian fashions including high collars, corsets and heavy hoop skirts, men and women had to create ingenious ways to "beat the heat."

In the Martin-Mitchell Mansion, visitors will view authentic summer attire and feel the clinking pinch as a corset is laced around the waist.

Also in the Mansion, view an 1886 Bloomingdale's catalogue displaying men's, women's and children's old-fashioned bathing suits made out of wool and flannel.

Another escape from the sweltering heat, still popular today, is vacationing near cool, breezy beaches. Many early Napervilleans took the train to Chicago during the summer of 1893 to visit the world's fair, Columbian Exposition, while relaxing at the beach.

In the Halfway House, souvenirs and postcards from popular vacation spots present reminders of cooler days spent vacationing by the shore.

Naper Settlement Museum Village, Chicagoland's only 19th century living history complex is open from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday through October.

The museum is situated on 13 acres just two blocks south of Riverwalk in downtown Naperville at Aurora, Webster and Porter. For additional information about other events this season, call (708) 420-6010.

'The Nerd' runs through Aug. 31

Cast members Mike Kolodziej and Ken Walters are pictured above in a scene from the production. For information on the Thursday through Sunday performances call the box office at (708) 584-6300.

Korb, who lives in Niles Township, east of school District 63. Neither lady is a resident within our district. Yet, their efforts will have a great deal to do with your next real estate tax increase, which will take place two years from now.

We've always thought "inside" teachers in the school district, who pay the taxes in District 63, should be negotiating the teachers' contracts. They would have a dual interest in teachers' benefits. While seeking a fair pay hike for their fellow teachers, they would also be representing their fellow-taxpayers who foot the bills.

Despite our popping off through the years, we've always been supportive of fair teachers' salary increases plus other benefits. In past years they were woefully underpaid and warranted increased salaries. And perhaps their demands today are in line with increased living costs.

There are issues other than salary increases which will be on the table when both sides meet with a mediator next Monday. The union will present a plan for early retirement for teachers, 55 years old and older. The school board will be presenting a restructuring of the district plan which may reverse the kindergarten center plan. Past contracts have been tied in with re-assessment evaluations on real estate bills. This certainly may be considered. Contracts could be for multi-years; the present contract, which expires August 15, is a two year contract. Perhaps the two sides might settle for a one-year contract. But all these issues will be in the hopper Monday when the two sides sit down across from one another.

Monday will be August 12. Teachers-Institute Day is August 26, one day before school is scheduled to begin. If history is repeated you can expect negotiations to go down to the wire. You can expect the August 26 teachers' get-together will be highly-charged when teachers are still not sure whether or not they'll be teaching the following day.

What is difficult for the school board and its administrators to defend is the high salary it pays its superintendent. If the board believes this $100,000 salary is in line, then it will have a hard time contesting the teachers' demands. When you get up in the six figure neighborhood for the top dog you can no longer tell the troops the cupboard is bare.

Unfortunately, if the cupboard needs re-stocking, the guy who sits on the sidelines, you and me, has to work a little harder, and dig a little deeper to support people who work 1/3 less than we, and who have many more weeks' vacation time, and many more days off, than the guys and gals who have to fill the cupboard.

keep track of a suspect, came to Volino's aid after four hard-hatted burglars pushed their way into her house two years ago. Two of those burglars are now serving jail terms for the offense.

Volino was expecting her grandson Guide when the four men burst through her back door shooting "get out!" They said they were gas company and village employees and warned the house was about to blow up. But when the men approached her in-firm, 80-year-old-borther, Volino dialed 9-1-1. One man tried to cover the phone mouthpiece, but her message got through.

At that moment, grandson Guide pulled up, saw the strange car in the driveway and knew something was wrong. Just then, two men rushed from the house and Guide, in his grandmother's words, "nailed one on the driveway." One got away.

Volino's neighbor to the rear, Robert Rieck, 35, was getting ready for work and saw one of the hard-hatted burglars come through his yard. Becoming suspicious when the man dropped his work gloves, Rieck got in his car and began to search for him. He saw him hitch-hiking on Golf Road.

Police cars came by and Rieck hailed an officer, telling him what he had seen, then continued to cruise the neighborhood. He saw one man hiding behind some boxes at a gas station at Harlem Avenue and Golf Road and swung back to tell police. It is surmised that during that time, the burglar met one of his accomplices, they hopped a Skokie bus, men on the way, got off and hailed a cab. Police were able to trace the cab to Chicago and with the help of Chicago Police, arrested one of the burglars.

July 30, Peter Ely, 21, of Chicago, pleaded guilty and received a four-year term, according to the Chicago Tribune. Six months ago, a second man, Michael Miller, of Chicago, also pleaded guilty and received a six-month jail sentence, according to Toni Winniger, assistant state's attorney.

The other two men are still at large. Winniger said the same men had tried a driveway scam on Volino some months prior to the burglary attempt.

Rieck has a law enforcement background and said he was used to dealing with that type of element...it's all in a day's work." He said Volino is "...a very sweet lady...small and frail; (she looks like you could) blow her over with a strong breeze."

Volino went to court three or four times before the case was concluded July 30 and said she was offered money if she would drop the case. She declined.

"I said 'no...' I want justice done; I don't want them preying on old people...don't they have a mother or grandmother?" Volino said.

She reiterated her gratitude to her grandson and granddaughter, her neighbor, the man with the car phone and the police, adding "I do want to write a little note to all of them; it took a day off their work."

cause of inaccuracies in the exhibit. Also, $39,000 remained to be paid, which may have led to another trial, he said. Macken already has been tried, convicted and placed on four years' probation.

Przybylo said he, as board president, should have checked the agenda more carefully before the meeting.

At any rate, a list of funds embezzled by Macken, as released at the press conference, includes several sources. He diverted money to fraudulent companies, used library funds to pay for invoices and rubber stamps used for those companies, purchased items for personal use with the library's American Express card, made personal phone calls, used library funds for his clock repairs and diverted library-funded checks paid by eight individuals to one of his bogus companies.

He also duplicated checks paid by the library to Northern Illinois Gas, C & C Insurance, Commonwealth Edison and Brodard and, following forgeries, diverted funds to his own companies.

Przybylo said duplicates were not detected by board members or in an audit because Macken was extremely careful about placing similar checks in different pay periods. Board members approve checks to be paid at each month's meeting.

Fraudulent book companies included M & H Supply Co. and NPLA. The former contained the initials of Macken and his roommate, Merlyn Harbold. Harbold was hired in an unauthorized library position by Macken and resigned during a subsequent board investigation. Initials of the latter were similar to the Niles Public Library and, seemingly, caused no concern at banks.

Macken's embezzling apparently began when he was the library's chief of operations, or business manager, and during his tenure as interim administrator. He became administrator in May, 1990.

By far the largest sources of monies were diverted to two fraudulent book companies: M & H from January, 1989 through March, 1990 and NPLA from November, 1990 through February,

Invoices for his bogus company were purchased from BPI Express Printing with library funds during almost a one-year period from 1990 until 1991. A rubber stamp, also purchased with library funds from Lakeview Rubber Stamp, was a one-time expense taking place in October, 1990. Some dates for other items, including about $150 in personal telephone calls, were not available.

Przybylo said the library will attempt to dissuade such actions in the future. According to him, all persons involved with funds will be bonded.

Also, a new administrator will be allowed to bring in his own people and will be required to have a master's degree in library science as well as experience running a library. Also, a business manager will need to be experienced in library operations.

When Macken was moved up from his post of chief of operations to administrator in 1990, the library board combined both jobs under him.

Vehicles without stickers to be ticketed

Starting Aug. 12 Niles police officers will begin ticketing village registered vehicles, which do not display a 1991 Niles vehicle sticker.

The deadline for display of stickers was July 1 but the village has been giving residents a grace period since that date.

A fine will be required for not displaying a current vehicle sticker. Stickers can be purchased for $15 at the Village Hall, 7601 N. Milwaukee Ave. on weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. They can also be purchased at the following locations: Dempster Landings Currency Exchange, 2606 E. Dempster St., Des Plaines; Milwaukee/Ballard Currency Exchange, 9107 Milwaukee Ave., Niles; Harlem-Milwaukee Currency Exchange, 7519 Milwaukee Ave., Niles; Oakton-Waukegan Currency Exchange, 8018 Waukegan Road, Niles; First National Bank of Niles, 7100 W. Oakton St., Niles; and St. Paul Federal, 801 Civic Center Plaza, Niles. Some locations may charge a fee for their service.

Vehicle stickers should be affixed to the lower right hand corner of the front windshield.

March, was an estimated bill, based upon one-half of the previous year's taxes.

As you ponder your tax bill, you may wonder just how your municipality determines the dollar amount. Once you know the system, which is used to calculate the figures, you can actually estimate what your tax bill will be -- and it isn't as difficult as it sounds.

First, the assessor determines the fair market value of a property: that is, what a willing buyer or seller would pay for the property today's prices.

Assessing is not an exact science. It can vary widely across the state, depending on the skill and experience of the assessor, and local pressure to keep assessments low.

Because of the possible inequities, the state uses an equalization factor, or multiplier, a mathematical factor that brings the median level of real estate assessments to the statutory level of 33 1/3 percent.

The multiplier is determined by an in-depth analysis of sales and assessment data taken from each county. Because the Revenue Act outlines a systematic approach to be used in calculating the multiplier, very little administrative discretion is involved.

The multiplier is calculated by averaging the median level of assessment for the three preceding years, resulting in an average that is then divided into the state mandated level of 33 1/3 percent. The resulting factor is applied against locally-assessed property, which forms the major portion of the local tax base.

The following example shows how property taxes are derived. The assessment percentage and equalization factor apply to Cook County, and the tax rate given is for Maine Township, school District 63 in the Niles park and library district.

Home's fair market value	$100,000
Assessment percentage	x 16
Assessed value	$16,000
Equalization factor	x 1.9946
Equalized assessed value	$31,914
Average homeowner exemption	-$3,500
Adjusted equalized value	$28,414
Divide by 100	$284.14
Your general municipal tax rate	x 8.098
Amount of tax bill	$2,300.97

Local government task force formed

House Speaker Michael J. Madigan (D-30) announced the creation of a 22 member Speaker's Task Force on the Organization and Accountability of Local Governmental Units to be chaired by State Representative Jeff Schoenberg (D-56).

The task force will focus on options to streamline and consolidate current local governmental units as a means of lowering property taxes and delivering essential human services more efficiently. The task force will discuss the 52 recommendations made by the June 1991 Taxpayers Federation of Illinois Report on fiscal practices of Illinois' local governments, as well as procedures for distribution of services in the event certain levels of government are consolidated.

Schoenberg explained that the Task Force would conduct statewide hearings and report legislative remedies to the 87th General Assembly.

"This Task Force will provide a forum for immediate, innovative discussion of policy options which assure that tax dollars are spent efficiently and will hopefully alleviate the burdens facing residential property taxpayers," Schoenberg concluded.

Motor fuel tax allotments

Illinois municipalities have been allotted $20,110,584 as their share of motor fuel tax paid into the State Treasury during May, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to the various municipalities in Illinois for their streets and highways. The monies allocated are computed on the basis of population.

The allotments to local municipalities include: Des Plaines, $11,170; Miles, $59,078.
