Mulligan launches campaign to challenge Pullen in primary

by Sheilya Hackett

Aug. 30, political contender Rosemary Mulligan kicked off her campaign for the Illinois 55th District legislative seat with a luncheon at the Arlington race track. She launched her own race against Park Ridge incumbent Penny Pullen (R-55th) for the Republican Party nomination in the March, 1992, primary.

The action renews a competition between Pullen and Mulligan that paused in September, 1990 when the Illinois Supreme Court named Pullen the victor in a hotly-contested March, 1990, primary election.

New budget reflects deficit in District 63

by Eileen Hirschfeld

Against a background of teacher strikes, rising costs and a five-year deficit, the East Maine Elementary School District 63 board approved a red ink budget for this fiscal year of more than $21 million including revenue and expenses. However, the district is expected to spend approximately $24 million.

Last year the district had $18.5 million in revenues, but expended $19.4 million, according to

Dist. 63 teachers ask for 7.9% pay hike, district offers 6% Union, district moving closer to settlement

by Eileen Hirschfeld

Negotiating teams from the teachers' union and East Maine Elementary District 63 are moving closer in resolving a salary dispute following the fifth day of a teachers' strike Tuesday.

Following a marathon bargaining session ending at 4 a.m. Tuesday, the district's last offer was a six percent salary increase for each year of a two-year contract while teachers are requesting a 7.94 percent increase for each year.

Fred Lifton, district negotiator, said all issues were resolved except one, which crops up in most strikes - should the board add extra days to the school year to make up strike days?

Talks were scheduled to resume at 10 a.m. Wednesday after this paper goes to press. Any contract drawn up between the two parties must be approved by a majority of the district's 179 teachers.

Although there has been some progress in talks, parents, teachers and concerned citizens confronted board members during a regular Tuesday board meeting in the Galaxy Theater of Apollo Junior High School.

The theater was half-filled with an audience of about 150 persons, but only six addressed the board - none indicating a lack of support for the strike although some parents, preferring to remain anonymous, said teacher demands were unreasonable.

Audrey Rosenberg, mother of a student at Nelson School, said

by Bud Besser

There's an interesting sidebar to the school district 63 teacher-school board confrontation. As of Tuesday morning when this column was written 12,800 student school days have been missed by East Maine students. While the days could be picked up by using "snow days" and perhaps "teacher institute" days, nevertheless, the 12,800 missed days has caused many readjustments in residents' homelives and schedules.

There's no doubt the children are being used as a bargaining chip. Allowing these confrontations to continue until the first days of school begin, places a great deal of pressure on the school board and on the parents themselves. Mothers and dads have to scramble to find sitters for their children while they're working. Since we believe the two-family job holders exceed 50 percent, the majority of the school community is being dislodged by the teachers' strike.

In bygone years neighbors and family members had a much higher profile during confrontations. Parents would be contesting the teachers who were walking in front of the schools. And the telephone lines were being burned by the fiery discussions surrounding previous teachers' strikes.

But, times have changed. The Bugle's Eileen Hirschfeld told us five faculty members, three newspaper people and four very quiet parents were in attendance at last Tuesday's

'Nilespride' slogan promotes village

by Sheilya Hackett

Get ready for the word "Nilespride." The newly-coined slogan will soon pervade every possible facet of village operations.

Nancy Compel, Niles public information officer, launched the new logo at the July 27 meeting of village trustees. On one of the summer's most humid nights, Compel introduced the slogan emblazoned on yes, fleece-lined sport shirts, and asked trustees to wear them for publicity photos.

Underlining their willingness to cooperate in promoting Niles, trustees complied with the village's latest effort to convince would-be homeowners Niles is a great place to live and donned the shirts. Compel noted the Nilespride shirts were not for sale and would soon appear again at an unnamed village promotion.

Village Manager Abe Selman gained board approval for extending the use of Nilespride logo throughout the village as much as possible.

He predicted it will appear on police squad cars, Public Works vehicles and on police, fire and Public Works uniforms.

Can the logo "Nilespride" on bumpers and village vehicle stickers be far behind?

Wife stabs husband, flees with daughter

A series of domestic disputes led to tragedy for a Niles couple during the Labor Day weekend. The wife stabbed her husband in the chest, following an argument, in which he reportedly roughed her up in the couple's Nordica Avenue residence that they share with other relatives.

According to information from various Niles police sources, the most recent occurrence Sept. 1 began after an outing to some automobile races. The husband, reportedly highly intoxicated, banged the woman's head around and there was a series of altercations between them, he grabbing her and she, escaping. The woman then seized a knife.

According to Lt. Charles Giovannelli, the wife told an Assistant Cook County states attorney that her husband then smiled and advanced upon her, whereupon she stabbed him. She managed to escape the home with their 3-

Des Plaines Camera Club meets

The Des Plaines Camera Club will hold its first meeting of the 1991-92 season on Monday, Sept. 9 at the Des Plaines Public Library, Thacker and Graeceland. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Library meeting room.

The program for the evening is entitled "24 x 24", which is a slide competition project worked on by members during the summer. Those participating photograph 24 different subjects from an assigned list on one roll of film. After taking the last slide, the film is sent to a lab for processing. The finished product is returned directly to George Keller, who will then sort out the slides and prepare them for viewing at the meeting. This will be the first time those participating in the summer project will see their finished work. Occasionally, the results of the "un-rehearsed" photography can be interesting and/or amusing.

The Camera Club meets every month from September to June at 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays.

A cordial invitation is extended to friends in the community who are interested in photography to attend. There is no admission charge and refreshments are served at a social time after the program. Guests are always welcome.

For additional information about the Club, you may call (708) 541-8730.

Fall classes begin at YMCA

Fall I Classes will begin at Leaning Tower YMCA Sept. 9. Registration is in process for both members and non-members. In addition to over 250 classes that are offered for infants thru senior citizens, there are many Special Events.

A Special Family Fun Nite and a Dinner, which is open to the public, will be held on Sept. 20 beginning at 5:30 p.m.

The 1st Teen Night Dance Party of the Season will be held on Saturday, Sept. 28 from 7 to 10 p.m. for both members and non-members.

A fitness event called "Acrobathion" will be held on Sunday, Sept. 15 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

In addition to the many programs offered, there are many recreational activities available.

The Y has two excellent swimming pools, a large gymnasium, outdoor track, a weight room, with free weights and weight resistance machines, three handball racquetball courts, a squash court and other recreational activities.

Come in for a tour, ask for a program brochure or call the Y at (708) 647-8222.

Macken hospitalized after suicide attempt

Former Niles Library Administrator, Daniel C. Macken III, was listed in fair condition at Chicago's Northwestern Memorial Hospital following a Tuesday incident in which he reportedly attempted suicide.

Macken was previously convicted of embezzling $165,000 from the Niles Library. The stolen monies, as well as a $35,000 penalty, were returned by Macken to the library.

Taxpayers rail at Rosemont rally

A property tax forum for north suburban real estate owners drew 400 people to the Rosemont-O'Hare Expo Center Aug. 21, an event chaired by two Republican state senators, Walter Dudydz (7th) and Judy Baar Topinka (22nd).

The meeting, one of three to be held in Cook County, was scheduled to enable homeowners the opportunity to protest the five percent tax cap passed for northern collar counties other than Cook. Property taxes in those communities are limited to no more than the lesser amount of five percent or the rate of inflation in any year.

Police investigate armored car robbery

Niles police are investigating an Aug. 30 burglary to a Thillens armored car that may have netted the thieves up to $70,000.

Person(s) unknown probably used a key gain entry into the locked vehicle, since police found no evidence of force. Initial evidence is that between $24-$30 thousand in 20 and 100 dollar bills were stolen.

The Thillens truck and driver arrived at the Barr Company, 6100 W. Howard St. shortly before noon Friday, after making two other stops in Morton Grove.

Apartment fire causes $30,000 in damages

A carelessly placed cigarette was blamed for a fire in a two-story frame apartment building, 8705 Fernald Ave., Morton Grove early Aug. 21.

According to Morton Grove Fire Chief Ralph Czervinski, a lighted cigarette was placed on a window sill, smoldered and fell between the building walls, igniting structural materials. He credited Morton Grove and Niles firefighters with confining a potentially dangerous fire to one wall and a portion of the structure.

Niles Chamber names new executive director

At their Board of Directors meeting, on Aug. 20, the Niles Chamber of Commerce and Industry promoted Jinhee Kim to the position of executive director, effective Sept. 1.

Kim has served the Niles Chamber of Commerce for the past three years as administrative assistant to the executive director. Kim holds a B.A. degree from Loyola University in political science and a master's degree from Illinois Technology in public administration.

Bob Wordel, active in the Niles Chamber of Commerce for the past 27 years and current executive director, will continue to serve the Chamber on a part-time basis as administrative consultant.

Work on reservoir continues

Construction continues at a good pace on the Ballard Water Reservoir and Pumping Station at Ballard Road and Cumberland Avenue, in Niles. The water facility will help raise water pressure in Niles' northern sectors and contribute to the sale and distribution of water to unincorporated Maine Township.

Representatives from a Park Ridge automobile dealership are considering relocation, including two Niles locations, village officials said. Bredemann Buick and Used Cars, Toyota, trucks and vans could move to Oak Mill Mall to the now vacant Wilson Jones Corp. at 6150 W. Touhy Ave.

Bredemann now is at three Park Ridge locations and is reportedly cramped for space. A move to either site would entail a special use permit from Niles, though within a half mile of the Touhy Avenue area are other auto dealerships. A move to Niles would certainly be beneficial to the community in terms of sales tax revenue.

Oak Mill's owner Milton

Schraiber is now involved in Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings. Prospective purchasers of the ten acre property, Oak Mill 2000, have made their offer contingent on obtaining zoning considerations in order to expand Jewel Foods and add an outlet building for Avondale Federal Savings. In the past, other dealerships have considered that corner location but have rejected it due to lack of parking. Jewel's lease is schedule to expire in 1992.

A possible configuration at the Milwaukee Avenue/Oakton Street site would be for offices on the second level of the enclosed building and showrooms on the main floor and some sort of accommodation for an inventory of cars.

Chlorine fumes cause 400 to evacuate homes

Escaping chlorine gas fumes caused the evacuation of nearly 400 persons in unincorporated Maine Township the afternoon of Sept. 2.

The gas leak occurred in the pool house of the Honey Bee condominium complex, 9200 Golf Road, but firefighters extended the emergency evacuation to neighboring dwellings on Elms Terrace and Oak and Linnea Lanes.

Three persons were taken to Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; the Honey Bee maintenance man, who discovered the leak; a firefighter overcome with heat exhaustion and a Honey Bee resident, who developed cardiac problems during the evacuation. According to North Maine Fire Protection District Deputy Chief Rande Short, a pool building water pipe developed a leak, allowing water to combine with the dry chlorine stored in the building. A condominium resident noticed the odor and alerted the maintenance man, who discovered the leak.

Hazardous materials firefighters from nearby suburbs shut off water to the pool building and removed the wet chlorine. In all, 50 firefighters from North Maine, Niles, Morton Grove and Des Plaines cooperated in the emergency.

Future Education Account bill helps families save for college

Illinois Treasurer Pat Quinn and State Representative Jeffrey M. Schoenberg support the Future Education Account Act, a bill that would help Illinois families save for college, with guaranteed tuition at state universities. The bill now awaits Governor Edgar's signature to become law.

State to offer college savings bonds

Gov. Jim Edgar announced the state will issue at least $150 million of Illinois College Savings Bonds next month to assist parents in planning to finance their children's college education.

Approximately $150 million in bonds will be offered for sale from Sept. 9 to 12. If the demand for the bonds is as strong as in the past four sales, the offering may be raised to $210 million. The bonds will mature from August, 1993 to August, 2012.

As a part of Youth Day activities at the Illinois State Fair, the Governor also signed legislation increasing the authorization for the College Savings Bond program by $200 million.

Senate Bill 375 authorizes an additional $200 million of general obligation bonds to be sold as College Savings bonds. It does not increase the amount of state debt.

As zero coupon bonds, indi-

Veterans tour cemetery site

Congressman Frank Annunzio (D-Ill.) met with veterans groups—including American Legion, AM-VETS, VFW, First Cavalry Division and the 173rd Airborne Brigade—to tour the site of a proposed 200-acre national cemetery for veterans at Fort Sheridan. Although the Lake County Forest Preserve District wishes to buy the site, Annunzio vows to "go all out" to obtain it for Chicagoland veterans. The nearest veterans cemetery to Chicago, Wood Cemetery in Milwaukee, Wis., will close in two years.

Carroll addresses state legislators

State Senator Howard Carroll (D-Chicago) participated recently as one of the invited guest speakers at the National Conference of State Legislators (NCSL) conference in Orlando, Florida. Among the other speakers at the week-long convention was Vice-President Dan Quayle.

Carroll, who serves as chairman on the Illinois Senate's Appropriations I committee, gave a presentation entitled, "Marshaling Fiscal Staff Resources in the 1990s." "Fiscal challenges that face legislators require them to rely on staff resources more than ever," Carroll said.

The NCSL is an organization consisting of the legislators and their staffs from all 50 states. The organization serves as a clearinghouse for ideas between states. Carroll is a member of the NCSL's Federal Budget and Taxation Committee and its Fiscal Affairs and Oversight Committee.

Disability check recipients reviewed

Do you receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability checks? If so, you should know that your case will be reviewed from time to time. This is to make sure you continue to meet all requirements for benefits.

The timing of your review will depend on the nature and severity of your impairment, the likelihood for improvement, and other factors. Most individuals are scheduled every three years. However, if you have an injury of illness that is expected to improve, your case could be scheduled as early as six months after your first month of eligibility. Or you may not be reviewed for up to seven years if your impairment is considered more permanent and less likely to improve.

You will be notified in writing when a decision has been made. Benefits generally will continue unless evidence shows that your medical condition has improved and you are able to do substantial gainful work.

If a decision is made that you are no longer disabled, you can appeal the decision and request continued payment. You can meet with a decision maker during the first appeal step (reconsideration) to explain why you feel you are still disabled. If you appeal within 10 days after receiving the notice, you can request to have benefits continue. You can do this through the second appeal step (decision by an administrative law judge); if you later lose the appeal, however, generally you must repay any benefits that were not due you.

For more information about disability reviews, call Social Security. The toll free number is 1 (800) 234-5544 (1-(800)234-5772).

Tennis Championships benefit JUF campaign

Jim Levinson (left) and Rick Hirschmann recently competed at Bryn Mawr Country Club, Lincolnwood, in the 1991 Jewish United Fund Tennis B Team Championships. Teams from seven clubs competed as part of the nation's largest sports tournament for Jewish philanthropy.

The 45th Annual Country Club Day raised more than $6 million for the JUF-Israel Emergency Fund and Operation Exodus campaigns which support vitally needed rescue, resettlement and humanitarian programs that benefit people of all faiths and races throughout the Chicago area, and needy Jews in Israel and remnant communities in 34 other countries.

Lambda Sigma Honor Society

Scott Willason of Skokie is among 48 Northern Illinois University students recently inducted into the Lambda Sigma Sophomore Honor Society.

The students were chosen from NIU's 3,408 freshmen for their scholarship, leadership and service to the university. Each honoree must have a grade point average of at least 3.2 on a 4.0 scale for the first year of college work. Lambda Sigma members serve NIU and DeKalb area communities through projects such as ushering at cultural events and raising money for the homeless, handicapped students and victims of domestic violence.

Jewish holidays bring family together

Three generations of the Reisman family will provide music for the Jewish High Holiday Services of Congregation Am Chai, which will be held this year at The Benchmark of Hoffman Estates retirement community, 1515 Barrington Rd.

Art Reisman is cantor for the services and his mother Zelda, age 82 and daughter Julie, age 12 are in the choir. "Music, especially Hebrew music, has always been a very important part of my family life," says Zelda. "And now with my granddaughter Julie singing, we have all three generations of the Reisman family in the choir."

Zelda moved to the Benchmark to be near her son and his family who live in the northwest suburbs. Zelda shares her musical talents by playing the piano for social occasions and sing-alongs at the Benchmark. Dorothy Bass, also a Benchmark resident will join the Reisman family in the choir.

Rabbi to head urban affairs council

The Jewish Council on Urban Affairs (JCUA) is proud to announce the election of its new president, Rabbi Herman E. Scaalman, an outstanding leader well-known to Chicago's Jewish and non-Jewish communities.

Says Jane Ramsey, JCUA director: "Rabbi Scaalman's election as JCUA President, combined with his broad involvement in Jewish organizational life, sends a crucial message throughout the Jewish community: belief in Jewish responsibility to help bring about social change and in the importance of JCUA's role in this."

Rabbi Scaalman will lead

JCUA for the next two years - a decisive period as the organization expands its work, bridging racial, ethnic, and religious communities in Chicago.

States Rabbi Scaalman about his goals: "I want to continue and intensify our outreach to the Jewish community and have us all understand just how absolutely crucial our attention to the poor is if we have a realistic hope of contributing to the greater well-being of Chicago's communities."

The Jewish Council on Urban Affairs was founded in 1964 out of the Civil Rights Movement to provide a continued Jewish presence on urban issues.

Are you concerned about the delivery and financing of health care in the United States? Would you like to see fair and adequate school funding? Are you interested in recycling and environmental issues in your community? Are you interested in studying local election laws?

These will be the issues focused on in the coming year by the League of Women Voters of Morton Grove-Niles.

Anyone interested in participating in the study of these issues is invited to a membership brunch to be held on Sept. 14, at 10:30 a.m. We encourage interested citizens to join the League so that your voice can be heard on these issues.

If you want to get involved, meet interesting people, work on local, state, and national issues consider The League of Women Voters. For information on The League and the membership brunch call 966-7743 or 965-1043.

Edison Park Lutheran women meet Sept. 5

The new season for the Edison Park Lutheran Church Women begins on Thursday, Sept. 5 at 12:30 p.m. in the South Hall of the church at 6626 N. Oliphant Avenue. Mrs. Esther Lind will be presiding officer, and the luncheon will be served by the Laetare Circle.

Myrtle Johanson, Education Secretary, tells us that after the luncheon Pastor Duane Pederson will present a program on "Biblical Stewardship."

Northwest Community Hospital benefit

The Northwest Community Hospital Auxiliary will host its 33rd annual benefit luncheon and fashion show on Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Woodfield Hilton and Towers, Arlington Heights. The social hour at 11 a.m. will be followed by the luncheon and fashion show at noon.

This year's fashions will be presented by Fashions With Flair, Inverness. The theme of the show is "The Heart of Fashion." Proceeds from the benefit will be directed towards the purchase of an intraoperative cell saver. This state of the art equipment is used during open heart surgery to recycle the patient's own blood and prevent unnecessary blood transfusions.

The price of a ticket to the luncheon and fashion show is $35. Seating will be at tables of ten. For reservations or more information regarding the benefit please call (708) 359-0877 or (708) 381-1754.

Letters to the Editor

Baseball League thanks Bugle for support

Dear Editor: On behalf of all the individuals involved in the Niles Baseball League I wish to thank you for your continued unconditional support and dedication to the league.

As a parent of a little league player it means a great deal to me to be able to save memorable moments of my son's earliest baseball accomplishments. And it is with great joy that several hundred Niles Baseball League children and parents read and retain publicity clippings from The Niles Bugle each week. For most children The Bugle will be the only source of media that will forever decorate their scrapbooks with documents of childhood athletic heroism, moments they can share with their children when the time comes.

Once again we appreciate The Bugle's support and we look forward to enjoying and reliving many more memorable moments in years to come.

Sincerely,
Kevin M. O'Grady
Niles Baseball League Board of Directors

Cancer Society thanks Niles residents

Dear Niles Residents: On behalf of the American Cancer Society, thank you for your support during our annual Niles Community Crusade. Sixty-five volunteers gave their time to pass out life-saving information on nutrition and at the same time asked for donations. Thank you to these Life Savers, as well as to you who contributed over $3,500 to continue and expand the American Cancer Society's program of research, education, and service. If you did not receive our educational brochure, wish to make a contribution, or would like to know more about the work of the American Cancer Society, please call our area office at (708) 358-3965.

Sincerely,
Lucille Zink, Chairperson

Skokie Library displays artwork

The Beauty of the Korean Landscape, works by Kean Sea Park, will be on view at the library from Sept. 6 to Oct. 3.

Park has received special honors at the National Exhibition in Korea and at the Association of Japanese Brush Painting Exhibition. He has had solo shows in Korea, Japan and the Republic of China. His work embodies the traditional skills of Oriental brush painting, while incorporating western techniques such as gestural brush strokes and working on wet surfaces to achieve a more blended effect. Traditionally, brush painting is done on dry rice paper.

Recent Works by Sally Havlis will be on view to Oct. 4. Ms. Havlis' images are non-representational, using marks, lines and color in a loose visual structure.

Exhibits may be viewed during regular library hours: Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; and Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Girl Scout board elections

Gregory Copeland was recently elected to the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council Board of Directors for a three-year term.

As a member-at-large, he has been appointed to serve on the council's Finance Committee. He is a lieutenant with the U.S. Navy and is stationed in Glenview.

During his naval career, Lt. Copeland served as director of the Navy's largest drug and alcohol rehabilitation center as well as administrator of a $1.6 million budget.

North Maine firefighters become certified paramedics

Receiving their coveted Silver Stethoscope for high academic achievement are Firefighter Len Hohnson and Firefighter Patrick Byrne. Presenting the awards are Dr. Glenn Aldinger, project medical director for St. Francis Hospital, and Maryann Marcolte, RN - EMS coordinator.

After completing a total of over 550 hours of classroom study and practical experience, Firefighter/Paramedic Patrick Byrne, Firefighter/Paramedic Rich Dobrowski, and Firefighter/Paramedic Len Johnson have successfully completed the stated requirements to become certified paramedics for the North Maine Fire Protection District.

"It is with great pleasure that I congratulate these three fine young men on accomplishing a very difficult task," stated Chief Morris Farberman of the North Maine Fire Department.

Firefighter Dobrowski graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and has been a member of the North Maine Fire Department for the past year. Rich graduated from Paramedic School with fellow firefighters Len Johnson and Patrick Byrne. Johnson and Byrne both graduated with top honors. Each received the coveted Silver Stethoscope for high academic honors, ranking number two and three in a class of 36. This is a second for the North Maine Fire Department, as the current Chief Farberman and Deputy Chief Randee

Short did the same in 1977. "It is a great honor for the Department, and a great asset for the community," stated Chief Farberman. "That our paramedics are rated the highest in their graduating class indicating that each individual put forth extra effort during his class time, and spent extra time studying so he could achieve such a high standard."

Firefighter Johnson and his wife, Frances, live in Park Ridge with their three children ages six months to three years. Firefighter Byrne lives in Des Plaines, and attended Northern Illinois University.

Lieutenant Rob Batey indicated that the North Maine Fire Department now has a total of 14 certified paramedics. With this total, each 24-hour shift will have at least three and most times four certified paramedics to serve the residents of the North Maine Fire Protection District.

This, along with the experience of the remaining two to three members of the Department on duty, will ensure the ultimate of medical care to those who rely on the services of the Department.

Wallet thefts reported in grocery store

Aug. 28, in a grocery store in the 5700 block of Dempster Street, Morton Grove, a Morton Grove resident waiting in a check-out line noticed the wallet was missing from her over-the-shoulder purse.

As she turned around, the female behind her stepped out of line and quickly left the store. The resident followed her to the parking lot and saw the female enter a car. Just then a 20-year-old man ran past yelling "She didn't take it, she's my wife; the tall man behind you took it." He then got in the car with the female.

The resident screamed for help and pulled open the car door, but the man pushed her away and the car sped off. The resident lost a $20 wallet containing identification and credit cards and $290.

A few minutes earlier in the same store, a Skokie resident, 70, left her purse in her shopping cart, then turned to answer a female customer's question. When she turned back, she saw her purse was open and her wallet was missing.

Her $20 wallet contained a blank check, coupons and $100.

MG restaurants burglarized Aug. 26

Two stores in a fast food sandwich franchise were burglarized early Aug. 26 in Morton Grove. A spark plug was used to break a side window to enter the shop in the 7100 block of Dempster Street. The 2 x 4 1/2 window was valued at $250.

In a store in the 6000 block of Dempster Street, a front door glass valued at $400 was broken to enter.

The unknown offenders took cash register drawers valued at $25 and $100 in cash from each store.

Flowers filched
A former Amling's employee identified as a 23-year-old Morton Grove woman is suspected of cheating the company out of two floral arrangements valued at $40 and $45 respectively, Aug. 26.

The woman reportedly used her knowledge of store proceedings to tell the Niles store she was picking up flowers purchased at the Deerfield branch. Niles police are investigating.

Stolen car recovered
Aug. 28 Morton Grove police determined a 1979 Oldsmobile 88 with a broken rear window found in the 9200 block of Parkside Avenue, Morton Grove, had been reported stolen to Chicago police.

Criminal damage to property

Between Aug. 23-26, unknown offenders smashed the top of a storm door in a furniture store in the 5300 block of Dempster Street, Morton Grove. There were no other signs of forced entry and damage was estimated at $80.

The night of Aug. 28, an unknown projectile caused a hole and cracks in a store front window of a furniture dealer's store in the 5600 block of Dempster Street, Morton Grove. Damage was estimated at $500.

The same night, a bullet penetrated the outside of a double-paned window in a clothing store in the 6700 block of Dempster Street. Hero damage amounted to

Hardware salesman arrested for retail theft

A salesman in a Morton Grove do-it-yourself store and his female associate were arrested Aug. 28 after they cooperated in stealing a drill from the store in the 7200 block of Dempster Street.

The salesman, 22, of Des Plaines, was under suspicion because he allegedly had taken store merchandise in the past.

Aug. 28, the salesman was approached by a store undercover agent, who asked if the price of a drill could be reduced because it was too high. The salesman set a $1,500 on the $166 6' window. In the same time frame, a BB-type projectile penetrated a 3' x 8' picture window in the lobby of an apartment complex in the 7700 block of Dempster Street. Damage here was estimated at $500.

The afternoon of Aug. 27, persons unknown scratched the entire right side of an '88 Mercury Sable parked in a lot in the 6900 block of Dempster Street. Damage was estimated at $200.

The night of Aug. 27, a rear side window valued at $200 was broken in an '86 Dodge Ram wagon parked in a lot in the 6200 block of Dempster Street, Morton Grove. The car owner considered it a $200 loss.

cash price at less than half the list price of $137 and arranged for a later pick-up of the drill. The salesman's female associate, 20, of Des Plaines, took the drill from the store without paying and held it for the customer, but the store manager stopped the transfer of merchandise to the customer in the parking lot.

The salesman and his associate were arrested, charged with retail theft, placed on $1,000 bond, each, and given an Oct. 7 court date.

Car burglaries

A resident of the 5500 block of Lincoln Avenue, Morton Grove, reported between Aug. 27 - 29, unknown offenders used a punch-type tool to break the trunk lock on his '91 Mitsubishi Mirage to take two garment bags valued at $80; a suit case valued at $20 and a miscellaneous sales demonstration clothing valued at $500. He estimated damage to his trunk at $150.

Persons unknown took an equalizer valued at $109 from an '88 Mercury Tracer parked in the 8900 block of Mango Avenue, Morton Grove, Aug. 24.

Employee batters manager, flees scene
Early Aug. 28, in a firm in the 6500 block of Oakton Street, Morton Grove, an ex-employee fled the scene after he yelled "Hey--watch this" and punched a firm manager in the face, then shouting at him, threw him down and proceeded to slap his face. Another employee pulled him off.

The manager sustained a bruised face.

Gasoline theft

Police contacted a Glenview man, 45, after he indicated a charge purchase, pumped over $22 of gas into his '86 Jaguar, then left the station in the 9500 block of Waukegan Road, Morton Grove.

The man said it was a mistake and that he intended to pay for the gas.

Health Club locker break-in

The afternoon of Aug. 29, a Glenview man reported his wallet was taken from an unsecured locker in the North Shore club, 6821 Dempster St., Morton Grove. The wallet, which he valued at $15, contained only identification and credit cards.

Woman steals wallet from store

The night of Aug. 28, a security agent in a clothing store in the 7200 block of Dempster Street, Morton Grove, saw a customer place a $25 designer wallet in her pocket, then pay for other merchandise and leave the store.

Police arrested the woman, 47, of Chicago, charged her with retail theft, then released her on her own recognizance. She has a Sept. 22 court date.

Boatyard burglarized

Persons unknown ripped a canvas cover to enter a 21-foot Sunbird boat stored outside a boatyard in the 8700 block of Lincoln Avenue, Morton Grove, between Aug. 24 - 25.

They scratched an engine cover and took a stereo equalizer, two handmade speakers and a box of tools.

The boat's Evanston owner estimated damage to the boat at $120, but the loss of property at $550.

Vehicles stolen
The night of Aug. 27, a black 1990 GMC Jimmy was stolen from the 9200 block of Central Street, Morton Grove. Its owner valued it at $16,000.

Dealer's cars looted, damaged
Person(s) unknown broke into ten vehicles parked on the lot of King Nissan Motors, 5757 W. Touhy Ave., Aug. 30.

Six stereos, each valued at up to $800 were found missing. Ten windows were shattered at a cost of $120 each.

Shirt thief apprehended
An Elk Grove Village man, 20, was charged with retail theft Aug. 29 in connection with his reported theft of $105 worth of shirts from Jeans West, a Golf Mill store.

He fled the store and was apprehended on the northeast side of Golf Road and Milwaukee Avenue. His court date was set for Sept. 27.

Credit card used illegally
Niles police arrested a 20-year-old Chicago woman who reportedly attempted to purchase a $69.54 sweatshirt with a stolen J.C. Penney credit card Aug. 27.

She will appear in court in September.

Our mission at Joseph Academy is to serve children and adolescents with behavioral, emotional, and/or learning disorders to help them develop the social, academic, and vocational skills they'll need to succeed in life.

We teach these "uneducable" students the standard subjects for grades 6 through 12. Just as importantly, we teach them how to follow directions, accept criticism, stay focused, complete assignments, solve problems, and set goals.

The ultimate goal of Joseph Academy is to transform these young people into achievers who can effectively reenter the mainstream.

Niles Baseball League held its graduation classic at Jozwiak Park. This game involved all 17 year-olds vs. 15-16 year old All Stars. Playing for the 17 year olds in their final NBL game were Max Mamana, Jim Mazik, Tom Cahill, Ted Sclake, Tim Wambach, Tony Thinner, John Meyenberg, Bill Erickson, Lee Lidik, Jim Harras, Bob Kiehn, Ed Wojciechowski, Steve Rigney and Ian Roche.

The 17 year old team won by a score of 13-9. Highlighting the event was a towering homerun by Tom Cahill, who also had 3 RBIs. Jim Mazik went 3 for 3 including a double and 4 RBIs. Ed Wojciechowski cranked an RBI triple. Also contributing hits were Max Mamana, Tim Wambach, 1 RBI, Tony Thinner, Ian Roche, 2 singles, 1 RBI, Bill Erickson, 1 RBI, and Steve Rigney who also made a great catch in the 8th.

The All Stars also played well with some fine hitting including a homerun by Jason Orzechowski. The Niles Park District is now taking registration for its fall adult co-rec volleyball league. Registration is by team only. All registration applications must be received prior to the Sept. 19 league meeting. For more information and application contact John Jekot at (708) 967-6975.

Co-rec open volleyball night

Winner of Cubs tickets

Co-owners Carol Ficara and Richard Harczak of RE/MAX All-Stars announced the winner of their summer promotion for FREE tickets to the CUBS game. Richard is pictured congratulating Sharon Arnold of Carol St., in Niles, who was the happy winner.

Old Orchard chosen as Nordstrom site

Nordstrom, the Seattle-based fashion specialty retailer, announced it has made a commitment to open its next store in the Chicago area in the spring of 1994 at Old Orchard Shopping Center in Skokie. JMB Retail Properties Co., a JMB Realty Corporation affiliate, is the developer of the project.

Approximately 16 months prior to the official opening of the store, Nordstrom is scheduled to begin construction of the 200,000-square-foot facility, part of the 300,000 square-foot mall expansion at Old Orchard. Both Northbrook Court and Old Orchard Shopping Center were considered as potential North Shore sites for a Nordstrom main store.

"We were very pleased to receive strong proposals from Northbrook Court and Old Orchard. However, our plans are to open one store in the northern suburbs at this time and the Old Orchard Shopping Center is a very favorable opportunity for us to pursue," said David Mackie, Nordstrom vice president of real estate.

"We are delighted that the next Nordstrom store in the Chicago area will be in another shopping center owned and managed by JMB," said Oscar Reid, executive vice president of JMB Retail Properties Co.

"We have been extremely pleased with the impact that Nordstrom's first store, which opened this past spring in our Oakbrook Center, has had on that property, and we expect similar results at Old Orchard Center. The arrival of Nordstrom, along with the major expansion and renovation planned for the property, will keep Old Orchard as the premier shopping center of the North Shore," he said.

In April, Nordstrom opened its first store in the midwest in Oakbrook, and is scheduled to open its third Illinois store location at Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg in 1995.

Nordstrom, now celebrating its 90th anniversary, offers quality apparel and footwear for the entire family. The company currently operates 64 stores in eight states with three store openings planned this fall in Riverside, Calif., Edison, N.J., and Bethesda, Md. Company sales for 1990 exceeded $2.89 billion.

SCORE announces small business workshop

Techniques for the successful start-up of a small business comprise the focal point of a one-day Small Business workshop, to be given Thursday, Sept. 12, by SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), experienced, retired business executive, volunteers, conduct the workshop.

Advice on matters relating to the start-up phases of a new business will be provided at the workshop.

Advance registration due to limited seating capacity. Send check or money order ($20) to SCORE at 500 West Madison St. (Northwestern Atrium Center), Suite 1250, Chicago, IL 60661 or phone (312) 353-7723, for details and an application. Seminar starts at 9 a.m. and continues until about 2:30 p.m.

Avondale celebrates 80th anniversary

Avondale Federal Savings Bank will be celebrating its 80th anniversary with six weeks of festivities beginning Sept. 9 with the introduction of its 80-week anniversary certificate of deposit offering a 7 per cent annual yield.

Among the other highlights will be branch receptions throughout the week of Sept. 23 with special cash drawings and free balloons for the children.

Anyone opening a children's passbook savings account with $500 or more or adding $500 to an existing one during the six-week celebration will be given a free anniversary piggy bank. Special anniversary mugs will also be given to those opening an anniversary certificate of deposit.

Founded in the Avondale neighborhood of Chicago in 1911, the bank has grown to six branch locations in Chicago, Niles and Lake Forest and has $500 million in assets.

Des Plaines Chamber plans sales seminar

"Selling With Style" will be the topic of the seminar being held by the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce & Industry Foundation on Tuesday, Sept. 10 in the Chamber Conference Room, 1401 Oakton, Des Plaines.

Registration and continental breakfast begin at 7:30 a.m. followed by the seminar from 8 to 10 a.m.

Dr. Sam Lilly, founder and managing director of the Learning Resource Institute, will be the seminar presenter. This seminar/workshop will focus on how to understand your selling strengths and limitations; identify your prospect's Buying Style; and develop sales strategies that will enable you to adapt your selling style to effectively meet your prospect's buying style needs.

Reservations are required. Cost of the meeting is $25 for Chamber members, and $35 for non-members. For more information or to make your reservations, contact the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce & Industry at 824-4200.

Skokie Fall Fest runs Sept. 6 - 8

The Skokie Park District's Annual Fall Fest will be held Sept. 6, 7, & 8.

This year's theme is "Blast from the Past", an all encompassing review of the '50s, '60s and '70s, with one day devoted to each. You can come out during your favorite decade, or enjoy all three days of games, activities and entertainment at Skokie's Oakton Park, 4701 Oakton St.

The festival hours begin Friday at 6 - 10:30 p.m. with a carnival and a performance by "The Fabulous Chevelles" from 7 until 10 p.m. This five-piece band performs the dynamic hits of the '50s, '60s & '70s. Frontman for the band is well-known lead vocalist Dave Hunter (formerly of the "Great Pretenders").

Opening at 9 a.m. and running until 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7 is filled with many activities. Included is the annual Flea Market, which runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Then from 1 - 2:30 p.m. will be the performance of "The Legends" (Beatles Impersonators) performing all of the Beatles greatest hits from the 1960s. The show is energetic and the sound authentic, a splendid time is guaranteed for all.

The Dave Carlson Show follows the entertainment schedule starting at 3:15 p.m. and lasting until 4:45 p.m. Dave Carlson is one of the premier Elvis impressionists in the midwest today.

At 5:30 p.m. comes a band whose music ranges from the late 1960's and Motown era to current commercial top 40. This one woman four-man band is known as "The Solution" and are on their way to becoming the most popular band in the Chicagoland area today.

Closing Saturday's line up of live entertainment are "The Buckingham". Starting at 8 p.m. and going until 9:30 p.m., this group will without a doubt captivate their audience up until the last encore. Some songs included are: "Mercy, Mercy, Susan", "Hey Baby, Hey Baby", "I'm Playing Our Song" & "Don't You Care".

Finally, on Sunday, Sept. 8 from 1 - 2:30 p.m. will be the performance of "Steve Richards & The Beautiful Noise Band". Impersonating Neil Diamond and Elton John for all of seven years, Steve Richards is part in a seven-piece band called "Beautiful Noise". More commonly known as "The Neil Diamond Experience", his performance will leave you in awe. Sunday's activities begin at 9 a.m. and conclude the weekend off at 8 p.m.

Call 674-1511 to inquire about the main attractions, contests, and games and children's tent entertainment.

Des Plaines Historical Society plans Antique Fair

Antiques, handicrafts, collectibles and reproductions will be featured at the Des Plaines Historical Museum's Annual Antique Fair and Flea Market on Sunday, Sept. 8 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Behral Parking Garage.

The Fire Department will have their turn-of-the-century pumper and hose cart on display. They'll also bring their Fire Safety House, which teaches children how to escape from a burning building.

The Police Department's Crime Prevention Van makes an appearance, and food will be provided by the Des Plaines Jaycees.

For details, call the Museum at (708) 391-5399, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Niles Squares Club plans 2 dances a month

Square dance lessons offered

The Niles Squares Dance Club, in conjunction with the Niles Park District, is offering beginners dance lessons starting Monday, Sept. 9, 8 to 10 p.m. in the Niles Recreation Center, 7877 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles. The first lesson is free, subsequent lessons are $5 per couple.

The classes are held weekly for several months. Gene Germain, member of National Callerlab, will be the instructor. With each week's lesson the beginners add calls to their repertoire and in a few weeks are enjoying their progress and camaraderie with the other beginners. Experienced dancers from the club, called "angels", join the beginners to make the learning process easier.

Square dancing is becoming increasingly popular throughout the country. Because the calls have all been standardized by the National Callerlab, a dancer can travel anywhere in the country and attend square dances.

Visitors to any square dance club are not only welcomed, the practice is very much encouraged. There are approximately 75 square dance clubs in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Niles Squares hold their regular dances the first and third Saturday of every month, September through May. For more information call (708) 215-2047 or (312) 725-3673.

OCC hosts British Car Festival

The British Car Festival will be held Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Oakton Community College, Des Plaines. Sponsored by the British Car Union, a not-for-profit organization of a dozen Chicago area British car clubs, the festival features one of the finest displays of British cars in the U.S.A. Spectator admission is free, but there is a $2 donation for parking.

American Craft exposition scheduled

Over 135 of the country's top craftspeople are scheduled to exhibit at the 1991 Evanston/Glenbrook Hospitals' Seventh Annual American Craft Exposition.

Set for Sept. 5 thru 8, this year's Exposition will again be held at the Henry Crown Sports Pavilion on Northwestern University's Evanston campus. The Pavilion is at Lincoln Street on the lakefront, just east of Sheridan Road.

The museum-quality show benefits the Auxiliary of the Evanston and Glenbrook Hospitals and features unique hand-made crafts of metal, clay, paper, fiber, porcelain, glass, wood, leather, baskets, and mixed media, all of which are for sale.

An opening benefit will be held on Thursday evening, Sept. 5, from 5 to 9 p.m. Exposition hours are: Friday, Sept. 6 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 7 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, Sept. 8 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For additional information, please call (708) 570-5096.

Comedian performs at Oakton

Comedian Mike Saccone will appear at Oakton Community College in Des Plaines on Friday, Sept. 6 at 8 p.m. in Room 1540.

An Italian kid from Kansas City, Saccone scaled the ranks of comedy after being named the 1989 Star Search Grand Champion. He has appeared throughout the country and on ABC and A&E.

Saccone is the first in the contemporary concert series sponsored by the Oakton Board of Student Affairs.

Tickets are $6 general admission and $9 for students, faculty staff and seniors. Tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door. For more information, call (708) 635-1900.

Choral Society welcomes singers

The Northwest Choral Society is happy to announce the beginning of its 1991-'92 season of singing classical and popular music, with rehearsals starting Monday, Sept. 9, 8-10:15 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Park Ridge.

This non-profit community choral group is a congenial blend of over 50 adult members, brought together by a serious devotion to singing the best quality choral music for concerts in the northwest community area.

Members come from nearby Chicago and the northwest suburbs to sing with the group, under the direction of John Melcher. They will be presenting a Dec. holiday concert featuring Bach's "Magnificat" and also other holiday music including carols by John Rutter.

The classical concert on March 23 will offer Mendelssohn's great oratorio "Elijah" with full orchestra, and the annual "Pops" concert June 7 and 8 will be music from popular Broadway musicals.

There are openings for good voices in all sections, especially tenors and basses. Prospective members may attend one of the first two "open" rehearsals. For more information, call Judy or Glen Richardson, (708) 823-7320.

Rap group performs at Harper College

Touted by Northwestern University students as a group to watch, the rap group, "Poetical Alliance" will perform at the Harper College Ice Cream Social, at noon Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Harper's Ice Cream Social will be held outside the Student Center Lounge, Building A, weather permitting. The concert is free and open to the public and ice cream sundaes are 50 cents each. For more information, call the box office at 397-3000, extension 2547.

Comedy show at Forum benefits church

William Pullini and Anthony D'Angelo have announced plans to produce the "Kevin Mathews Benefit Comedy Show" at Candlelight's Forum Theatre, 5620 South Harlem Ave., on Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. Mathews is the popular WLUP radio personality.

Pullini and D'Angelo will donate the use of the space, and the Forum's technicians and staff will volunteer their services. All proceeds from the event will be used for the restoration of St. James Church at Sag Bridge, Lemont, where D'Angelo and Mathews are parishioners.

Founded in 1833, St. James is Northern Illinois' oldest functioning parish. Sadly, the tiny church suffered extensive damage in March when a tornado tore through the area, lifting the roof of the church and cracking its brick and mortar.

Tickets for the Kevin Mathews Benefit Comedy Show are available at $25 per person. Special tickets for a pre-show cocktail party hosted by Mathews and preferred seating are available at $50 per person. A limited number of tickets at $100 per person are also offered and include admission to the pre-show party, preferred seating, and a back stage photo session with Kevin.

For reservations and ticket information, call the Forum Theatre at (708) 496-3000.

Scottish Dance Society offers classes

The Chicago Branch of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society is forming new classes (beginning Sunday, Sept. 8) and invites you to an Open House, Sunday, Sept. 15, at 6 p.m.

We meet at St. Joseph's Parish Hall, Southport (1400W) and Belden (2300N), Chicago. There will be demonstrations and Scottish country dancing (reels, jigs, and strathspeys) that you can join in and enjoy. Some basic instruction will be given to come alone or bring a friend for an evening of fun, friendship, and happiness.

For more information call (708) 985-6065 or the Branch Hot Line at (708) 848-2332.

Northwest Symphony begins rehearsals

The Northwest Symphony Orchestra announces that rehearsals for their 40th season will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Orchestra Room at Maine West High School, 1775 S. Wolf Road in Des Plaines.

The orchestra is a non-profit organization made up of amateur and professional musicians from throughout Chicago and the northwest suburban area. There are currently openings in all string sections as well as some wind sections.

For additional information call Sherry Kujala at (708) 869-2998.

Prospect, science at North; Susan Ranft of Des Plaines, Spanish at North; Teri Rodgers of Libertyville, social studies at North; Christopher Schwarz of Mt. Prospect, social studies at West; Joseph Serpico of Roselle, science at West; Jennifer Sinnick of Downers Grove, business education at West; Mary Jo Tobalin of Clarendon Hills, Spanish at West; and Gwen Willeford of Lyons, social studies at West and North.

New support staff members are Barbara Giannelli as clerk/typist in the Reading Center at West; Lidia Nazak as clerk/typist in the Social Studies Resource Center at West; Darab Shahabi as a technical assistant in the district's buildings and grounds office; and Edna Manuud as an ESL aide at West.

Regina welcomes new faculty

Regina Dominican High School began its 33rd year with 10 new faculty and staff members. Sister Nancy Corcoran, Regina's new campus minister, received her masters in theology and ethics from Harvard Divinity School. She specialized in women's studies.

Carol Garai has returned to the counseling department after seven years. She holds a masters from Northeastern.

Chris Comella of the English department is completing his masters at University of Illinois. He has taught at St. Ignatius and Weber High Schools. Jane Conway of the English department has a masters in reading from Northeastern.

Dayne Travis of the science department holds a bachelors in science education from University of Michigan. Michael Hughes, physics teacher, holds degrees from St. Kevin College, Dublin.

Norm Schmitt of the theology department holds a masters of divinity from Chicago Theological Union (CTU). He most recently taught at Notre Dame High School. Todd Williams, also of the theology department, is currently enrolled at CTU's masters program.

Katie Kunzer and Judy Williams joined the office staff.

Lewis University campus renovated

Students returning to the Lewis University campus in Romeoville will find evidence of extensive renovations, particularly in the Oremus Fine Arts Building and the Student Union. Construction has been underway all summer in Phase II of the Lewis $10 million campus renovation program.

In the first phase (completed in 1990) science labs were renovated, new roofs installed on several buildings, an information Center constructed at the entrance to the campus, Sancta Alberta Chapel/Convocation Center renovated, roadways improved, new walkways installed and numerous classrooms remodeled. The extensive program also included installation of a highly efficient heating and air conditioning system, upgrading of campus lighting, refurbishing of several dormitories and installation of new carpeting in the Library.

Other improvements include a new roof and windows for Sancta Alberta, expansion of the radio/television studio, renovations in the College of Nursing and College of Business, further upgrading of the chemistry labs, and improvement of the fire alarm system in residence halls.

Brother James Gaffney, F.S.C., President of Lewis University, said renovation projects will continue as part of the ongoing program to enhance campus facilities. Future plans call for further improvement of the Student Union, enhancement of recreational facilities, continued upgrading of educational areas, and expansion of the dining hall.

MG school participates in Junior Achievement

St. Martha School is proud to announce that its 8th Grade class will participate in the Junior Achievement Project Business program beginning Wednesday, Sept. 11 and every Wednesday through Dec. 4.

Project Business is an in-school, supplemental business and economics education program for seventh, eighth, and ninth graders. Twelve to 15 weekly lessons developed by Junior Achievement are presented by a volunteer business consultant, who provides a positive role model for the students and enriches the lessons with his or her own experiences.

Junior Achievement is a non-profit organization financed by over 100,000 businesses, foundations and individuals.

Loyola begins 83rd academic year

Chicago and Social Chair Dan Bansley of Evanston, will lead Loyola's oldest service organization in the promotion of school spirit.

Designed to assist freshmen and transfer students in their adjustment to Loyola, the Insignis group for upperclassmen will be headed by President Mark Mitchell of Glenview, Vice-President Jason Baine, of Glenview, Secretary Dan Flood, of Park Ridge, and Membership Secretary Jon Daly, of Arlington Heights.

Leading the Loyola players are this year's band officers: President Brian Harris, Vice-President Vincent Maggino, both of Northbrook, and Secretary/Treasurer Carter Constant of Chicago.

MG resident awarded scholarship

Vincent Romanowski, of Morton Grove, has been awarded a Millikin University academic scholarship and art talent scholarship. Millikin annually gives scholarships to talented students in music, art and theatre, based on auditions or portfolio review and academic achievement. Romanowski is the son of Joanne Romanowski of Morton Grove, and a 1991 graduate of Niles West High School.

Polio pioneer speaks Sept. 10

Renowned vaccine developer, Dr. Albert B. Sabin, will give his views on efforts to develop an effective vaccine to combat AIDS, at a lecture sponsored by Loyola University Medical Center's department of pathology.

Sabin, who developed the oral vaccine used worldwide in immunizations against polio, will speak at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 10, at the Drury Lane Theatre in Oakbrook Terrace.

Consisting of a weakened form of the viruses that cause polio, the Sabin oral vaccine was first used in the United States in 1961. The Sabin vaccine was easier to administer and its effects lasted longer than the earlier polio vaccine, which was developed by Jonas E. Salk in 1954 and administered by injection. The widespread use of both types of vaccines has nearly eliminated polio in most parts of the world.

Sabin also developed vaccines against other viral diseases, including encephalitis and dengue. In addition, he has investigated possible links between viruses and some forms of cancer.

Born in Bialystok, Poland, Sabin settled in the United States in 1921 and graduated from New York University College of Medicine in 1931.

The lecture is open to medical professionals and health care workers and is free of charge. A continental breakfast will be served prior to the lecture from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. Reservations can be made by calling (708) 216-8800.

LGH Gala benefits cancer programs

A weekend trip on America's version of the Orient Express train and round-trip tickets to Switzerland are just two of the items to be auctioned Saturday, Sept. 7, at Lutheran General Foundation's annual gala, which more than 1,000 people are expected to attend.

"Gala '91: Celebrate the Dream" will be held in the grand ballroom at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare. The annual black-tie optional dinner dance is expected to raise $275,000 to benefit the cancer care programs of Lutheran General Hospital (LGH) and Lutheran General's Children's Medical Center (LGC/MC).

Three-time Emmy nominee, actress and singer Ann Jillian and her traveling troupe will perform, followed by dancing to the Stu-

Hirsch Orchestra. Guests will also have the opportunity to bid in the silent auction on such items as an autographed football, basketball and baseball memorabilia; weekend getaway trips to luxury hotels, a health spa and even a ranch in Montana; theater tickets; consultation with an interior decorator; dinners at Chicago's top restaurants such as Chez Paul and Cafe Provençal; a 3' x 5' handmade oriental rug; and other items such as a VCR, camera and an 11" x 14" family portrait by Stuart Rodgers Reilly Photographers.

Tickets for the gala are $150 per person. For further information or to request tickets, call the Lutheran General Foundation Office at (708) 696-6500.

High blood pressure class begins

Don't Let Your High Blood Pressure Get you Down" class will take place at the Wheeling Center Pavilion, 199 North First St., Wheeling, beginning Thursday, Sept. 12 at 10 a.m.

The free class is taught by health educators from the Cook County Department of Public Health. The class series will be held for one hour every Thursday for six weeks. Blood pressure will be taken at each session. To register, call 865-6033.

Topics include medication, salt/sodium and low-salt diets, cholesterol, stress management, exercise and weight control. Practical activities such as food label reading, recipe modification and relaxation techniques are presented and healthy snacks are provided.

High blood pressure effects one out of three adults and of those with high blood pressure only 24 - 33 percent have their blood pressure under control.

People with uncontrolled high blood pressure are at a dramatically higher risk of suffering heart disease and heart attack, stroke and kidney disease. After completing the six sessions, almost half of the participants with high blood pressure find their blood pressure under control.

To register for the free blood pressure class, call the Cook County Department of Public Health at 865-6033.

Park districts also worry that a cap in Cook, rather than the one-year freeze on assessed property values given, will cause cuts in recreation programs, which will need to be more fee-based.

School districts also rely almost exclusively on revenue from property taxes.

State Sen. Walter Dudycz (R-7th, Chicago) listens to the concerns of a Cook County homeowner during the second hearing of the Senate Republican Task Force on Cook County Property Tax Relief, Aug. 28 at the Orland Park Civic Center. Approximately 700 people attended the hearing, which lasted nearly four hours. A third hearing was planned for Sept. 4, in the State of Illinois Center.

ZONTA Club Paint-A-Thon set

The ZONTA Club of North-west Cook County will participate in the Community Paint-A-Thon held Saturday, Sept. 14 (rain date - Sept. 21).

The Zonta Club recruited two teams of volunteers to paint two homes in Elk Grove. Painting will start at 8 a.m. In many ways a community Paint-A-Thon is like an old-fashioned barn-raising, neighbor helping neighbor.

Zonta believes that those who volunteer to help will enhance their community's appearance and also enrich the lives of those who are offering and receiving a much needed helping hand.

For more information call Marlene Kucera 392-6055.

Foreign languages classes offered

MONNACEP continuing education program/Oakton Community College is offering twelve foreign language courses this fall at locations throughout the district.

Various levels of the following languages are available: Chinese, Czech, French, German, Hebrew, Italian, Japanese, Polish, Russian, Slovak, Spanish and Swedish.

Classes begin in late September or early October. Call MONNACEP at (708) 982-9888 for a complete class schedule.

New Christian classes at Jerusalem Lutheran

For those who want to know more about the Bible and the historic Christian faith, Jerusalem Evangelical Lutheran Church, 8637 Fernald Avenue, Morton Grove, is offering fall informational classes, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Dennis A. Kleist, Pastor of Outreach, said the church is seeking the names of those who are unfamiliar with Christianity or who have a desire to explore the teachings of the Bible.

The "New Christian Classes" are geared for 3 types of people: 1) Those who want to examine the teachings of the Bible for themselves to learn more about the Christian faith, 2) those who have been away from the church for a long time and wish to re-examine the Christian faith in light of their present situation, and 3) those who want Christian education for their children and wish to learn more about what they will be taught. Formal church membership is not the objective of the classes.

Pastor Kleist can be reached at 965-7340. Cost for materials for the 18 week course is $5.

Local students enroll at Lake Forest

The following local students have enrolled at Lake Forest College for the 1990-'91 spring semester.

They are Sandra A. Partyka, class of 1993, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Partyka, of Des Plaines and Virginia King, class of 1993, daughter of Mrs. Lucy King, of Skokie.

Partyka is a graduate of Maine Township High School East, Park Ridge. She transferred to Lake Forest College from North-east Illinois University.

King is a graduate of Niles Township West High School, Skokie. She transferred to Lake Forest College from Oakton Community College.

Fire damages ...

The fire began in a second-story bedroom and apartment occupants, an adult and two juveniles, were able to exit without injury. The chief described the building's balloon construction as "an older form of construction with a limited amount of fire-stopping in it." He said if the firefighters didn't open the walls and cut off some of the fire, "...of its kind, it had a lot of potential."

District Chief Ron Ruehrdanz guided two Morton Grove engines and a Niles fire truck at the scene. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Moovin' & Groovin
The Niles Park District will again be offering this class for children 3 to 5 years old on Wednesday mornings from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. or 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Ballard Leisure Center.

This class will improve your child's coordination, rhythm and balance through different movement activities and games. Classes begin Sept. 11. Please remember to register early! If you have any questions please call 824-8860. Fee is $14.

Investigators found two buttons with attached threads inside the van, which neither employee could identify. About $100,000 was left untouched by the thieves. Police have uncovered some leads as to the identity of the offenders after interviewing several personnel, reports said. A current or former Thillens employee may be involved, due to the obvious use of a key.

'Mefistofele' opera lecture set

A program on the opera "Mefistofele" is first on the schedule of the Chicago Lyric Opera free lectures at the Lincolnwood Public Library, 4000 W. Pratt Ave. 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 5.

Monica Rogers from the Lyric Opera Volunteer Lecture Corps will discuss the work by Arrigo Boito, in which Good battles Evil for Faust's immortal soul in Goethe's classic story.

For further information, call (708) 677-5277.

OCC sponsors Tribute Courtyard

The first tree in the new "Tribute Courtyard" project of the Educational Foundation of Oakton Community College was contributed by Phyllis Gilson to honor her husband, Paul, a founding member of the Oakton Board of Trustees.

Both Gilson and his wife, of Skokie, currently serve on the Oakton Foundation Development Council. "I can't think of a better way to provide a living tribute to Paul and contribute to Oakton at the same time," Phyllis Gilson said.

People may sponsor a tree in the courtyard to honor a family member, friend, organization, graduation, wedding, anniversary, retirement or birth. "Each gift will continue to provide beauty year after year," Donna McAllister, City Clerk of Des Plaines and council member, said. "The courtyard is used daily by students, staff, faculty and visitors. It is a gathering place and a quiet retreat." Donations to the project will be used for campus improvements and other projects augmenting quality education at Oakton.

"Our district is fortunate to have an institution such as Oakton," Sue Kravis, development council member, said. "This project will benefit and enhance the environment at Oakton."

Kravis is a resident of Niles. Other area residents donating their time to the development council include: John Flink of Des Plaines, Vivian Medak of Lincolnwood, Fran Mabley and Holly Field of Glenview, Berna Pollam of Northfield and Sally Perry of Winnetka.

Potential donors are invited to visit the courtyard. A nameplate on each tree will indicate the honoree and/or sponsor. A formal dedication ceremony will be held in the spring.

For more information, call the Office of College Development at (708) 635-1893.

school board meeting. In previous years parents would be flocking to the meeting in an effort to end a strike.

"We've been told about 50 percent of the children in school district 63 come from families in which English is a secondary language. Perhaps these families may hold back from sounding off. They may not feel comfortable engaging in a confrontation. Or they may not understand their voices should be raised when their children's school days are being used as bargaining chips.

Years ago teacher representative Barbara Korb told me there would never be strikes in the school district. Like promises from politicians, you can never accept the word "never" when any public officials or union people speak. And while officials' spoken words must be measured, the residents and taxpayers in district 63 should have spoken their words loudly and clearly.

The residents' input is the missing ingredient in the debate. The professional negotiators have their agendas. And they'll get their share of the pie. But the people who make the pie are silent at a time when they should be heard.

the district's teachers should be treated "on a par" with teachers in other districts. "Enough is enough. Our children must get back to school immediately."

A mother of two district youngsters, Tammie Mann, was concerned over the role of Lifton, who has been negotiating for several districts.

"What concerns me is that they're not even meeting. We have the same negotiator as the other schools. Other kids are back in school, but ours aren't," she said.

A PTA officer, Susan Rowen, said the association's official stand, in case of work stoppage, was to serve as a source of information and urge an end to the dispute. "Our children shouldn't have to suffer as a result," said Rowen.

Elain Lampros, president of the teachers' union, brought her colleagues to their feet with a standing ovation following her speech to the board. She said the district has a low tax rate and teachers are aware of taxpayer unwillingness to pass a referendum, but "we can't wait for a referendum to pass."

"We believe that modest salary increases could be drawn from the working cash fund. We hope we can get the children in school where they belong and we wish to be." She slapped the podium for emphasis.

Steve Stone, board president, told The Bugle several parents had phoned the administration stating they thought the board's way was more than fair. He said parents were unwilling to speak because they had youngsters in school.

A Stevenson School parent, who did not want to be named, said she is not against teachers receiving raises, but "they (the teachers) don't live here" - citing the presence of non-English speaking residents, senior citizens and a district spread through several municipalities.

"There's a limit to what may be done...There's only so much you can get out of the taxpayer," she said.

The district's last strike was in 1979 and lasted nine days. Another strike, in 1974, was of shorter duration and substitutes were brought in part of the time. During the 1970s, teachers also staged one day of "blue-flu" when they called in sick.

MG Chamber offers microcomputer training

This Fall the Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce and Industry has teamed up with the Business Institute at Oakton Community College to offer chamber members microcomputer training at reduced rates.

Starting Sept. 12, the Morton Grove Chamber will be offering a full schedule of microcomputer training. The first program is introduction to Wordperfect 5.1. The fee for each one-day seminar is $175.00. The two-day seminar fee is $265.00. Included in this fee is: instruction, instructional materials, personal use of an IBM compatible 386SX computer with color monitor, lunch and coffee breaks. All seminars will be held in Oakton Community College's new Business Institute Microcomputer Instructional Center. All microcomputer training has 8 hours of CPE Credit available, per day, to Certified Public Accountants.

If you have a group of employees that need microcomputer training on a specific software package, special group rates or contract programs may be arranged through the Chamber in the Business Institute Microcomputer Instructional Center.

To register for seminars or for more information on the full schedule of programs, call the Morton Grove Chamber office at (708) 965-0440. Seats are limited so call early. To take advantage of this special offer, registration must be made at least (10) ten working days prior to the seminar.

Mulligan...

At the time, Mulligan, a Des Plaines paralegal, complained the court decision set election law back 25 years and vowed to run again.

Now, launching her campaign six-and-a-half months before the primary, Mulligan noted name recognition is not a factor, so she can focus on her ideas with time to talk about them. She will stress issues such as education, taxes and senior citizens and maintains Pullen is not voting with the mainstream of her constituency.

Pullen called Mulligan's "entire pitch premature; (she) doesn't (even) know if she'll be in the same district (after re-districting)." I'll be very surprised if a single legislative district remains intact.

Neither candidate was wholly satisfied with recent tax legislation emanating from Springfield. Mulligan sees the legislation as "a compromise, with each side trying to get some tax relief" for property owners.

Pullen described the legislation, putting a one-time freeze on property tax assessments by local governments, as a positive step in reform, but not the whole situation.

She said "In terms of reform, (the legislation determines) the way taxes are set and budgets are made; it give taxpayers...more input."

Mulligan struck at Pullen's record on senior issues such as Alzheimer's disease research and senior membership on boards dealing with senior interests, among others. Pullen retorted her opponent was picking isolated incidents in her nearly 16-year career and not looking at the total picture.

Pullen said "Seniors favor fiscal responsibility; (they) want a course of action that gives them respect and the opportunity to live their lives in peace. My record undergirds (that desire)."

In 1990, the contest between Pro-Life supporter Pullen and Pro-Choice activist Mulligan garnered national interest. Mulligan believes the issues deserve fuller discussion in the upcoming campaign, while Pullen maintains her constituents deserve more than a single-issue campaign.

Weight reduction program

Winding Your Weigh Down, a 10 week weight reduction and education program sponsored by the Lutheran General Medical Group, S.C., will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday evenings, beginning Sept. 11 at 6000 W. Touhy in Chicago.

There is a nominal fee for the ten week program. To register, or for more information about Winding your Weigh Down, call Ms. Engling at (708) 318-9330.

Paul Halverson, district controller. Budget action took place Tuesday evening following a hearing at a regularly scheduled board meeting.

District expenditures will increase 23 percent over last fiscal year. Most of the expenditures are for life and construction work, however, Halverson said.

The budget does not include salary increases now under negotiation between the administration and the teachers' union following a five-day strike, which was continued Wednesday.

For the last five years the district has spent about $4.2 million more than it has taken in in revenues," Halverson said.

But, he said, this is the first year the education fund will be depleted with a deficit of about $721,512 more than the budgeted $12,819,000. Most teachers salaries are paid out of the education fund, which is the largest fund in the district.

According to a press release from the district, each one percent increase in teacher salaries will cost the district an additional $78,000 above the current budgeted amount.

Teachers, as of Tuesday morning, were requesting almost an eight percent salary increase while the district offered six per-

Investigator James Zimmerman, one of several responding officers, was also battered by the wounded husband and the officer's wristwatch shattered. The husband was taken to Lutheran General Hospital for treatment and was subsequently released to the Niles lock-up to await transfer to Cook County jail, in lieu of $5,000 cash bond.

The husband declined to sign complaints against his wife, but was charged with two counts of battery and one count of resisting arrest, Giovannelli said. Reportedly, his stab wound was not serious enough to prevent the offender from scuffling with Niles paramedics and LGH personnel attempting to treat him.

Free lecture for Alzheimer's caregivers

In celebration of National Adult Day Care Week, Dr. Donna Cohen, Ph.D. Gerontology and Community Health Services, will present a lecture titled "If You Could See Through Their Eyes". Sponsored by Parkside's Adult Day Health Center, the program will be held at Marillac High School, (one block south of Willow) in Northfield on Sept. 12, at 7 p.m.

Internationally recognized, Dr. Donna Cohen will enlighten caregivers on what it feels like to have a chronic disease like Alzheimer's. Learning this perspective, the caregiver increases their patience, understanding, respect and kindness during moments when they have difficulty coping with the person in their care and the many emotional challenges.

For more information and to R.S.V.P. contact Jeannie Haugwitz at (708) 824-5174.

The Adult Day Health Center is a part of Older Adult Services, a division of Parkside Senior Services, a member of Lutheran General Health Care System.

Ballard's Green Thumb Club is Blooming

Flowers have always had a lot to do with caring and quality of living. The human eye has always found them to be beautiful. Flowers are the key decoration in important human affairs, from coronations and weddings to friends. Growing flowers is something most of all of us have done - with great enjoyment - at one time or another.

The nurturing urge to make a tiny seed spring into glorious blooms is strong among residents of Ballard Nursing Center. A number of men and women have even formed their own organization, the Green Thumb Club. Since early March they have been tending seeds in pots, then sprouts, and finally little plants that club members transferred to flower boxes and hanging planters on the Ballard grounds. One lady, whose specialty is growing spectacular amaryllis, told me that flower growing "is a way to make my home more beautiful. Part of my pleasure in growing flowers is that other residents and passersby will enjoy them."

From what I have observed, a lot of love and a lot of tending has gone into those flowers. But what else would you expect from the wonderful men and women who live at Ballard?

Trans Sport improves power

General performance and increased towing capacity for the '92 Pontiac Trans Sport is generated by its 3800 Series V6 engine and 4-speed automatic transmission—both standard on the GT model and optional on the SE. This mini-van can haul an increased 3,000 pounds of utility equipment.

New Cadillacs aimed at denting Japanese market

Two new Cadillacs are shucking the image of the great American barge-maker and aiming instead at stunting the growth of Japanese luxury cars in the United States.

The General Motors Corp. division traditionally has appealed to older, wealthy buyers.

Now it is trying to lower the age of typical buyers to the 40- to 50-year-old range, Cadillac General Manager John Grettenberger said Wednesday.

But, like other Cadillac owners, it will help a lot for a 1992 Seville or Eldorado buyer to be wealthy.

The two new cars, much sleeker and more performance-oriented than other Cadillacs save the two-seat Allante, are aimed at the Acura from Honda Motor Co. Ltd., Lexus from Toyota Motor Corp. and Infiniti from Nissan Motor Co. Ltd.

"We had to update and transform Eldorado and Seville so they would appeal more broadly to a spectrum of potential owners," Grettenberger said. "These cars are designed and engineered to appeal to new customers, especially younger ones, who traditionally do not visit Cadillac dealerships."

Grettenberger said the Seville, a sedan, and Eldorado, a coupe, should appeal to customers with annual incomes over $55,000. Lexus and Infiniti target markets are slightly older and slightly wealthier.

The Eldorado's base price will be $33,070 and the Eldorado Touring Coupe, with a slightly different and leather interior, will sell for $35,570.

U.S. court calls tinting ban illegal

• Judge says tinted windows cause "no impairment"

A federal lawsuit that threatened to black out the nation's $100 million-a-year auto window tinting industry was rejected by a federal judge whose decision actually endorsed the product.

U.S. District Judge G. Kendall Sharp last week rejected highway traffic regulators' accusations that five Florida auto-tinting shops violated federal safety standards by installing window film that was too dark.

"Not only is there virtually no impairment to visibility, the application of tint ... actually enhances a driver's visibility by reducing glare," Sharp wrote in his decision.

"Moreover, such tint does not hamper the visibility of an individual who has to look into a vehicle," he said.

Window film manufacturers, distributors and installers are elated over the precedent-setting decision.

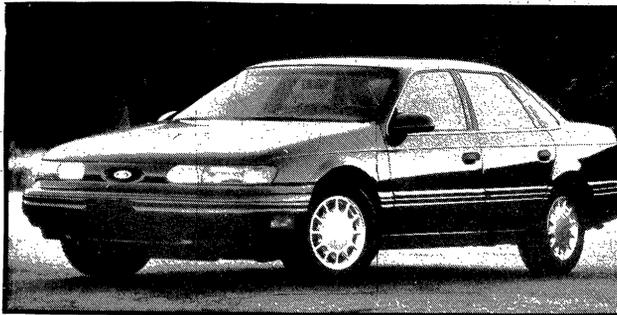

"The bottom line is they're trying to say we were making the windows inoperative and unsafe. And just the opposite is true," said Jerry Otey, owner of Seminole Solar Systems in Largo, one of the defendant businesses.

Florida was a logical setting for the case. The state accounts for a third of the industry's business and has more darkened auto windows than any other state, tinters said.

Regulators began investigating the tint shops—three in the St. Petersburg area and two in the Orlando area—in the late 1980s. Last year, they sued to collect $800,000 in fines and obtain a court ban on installing window tint film.

Ford Taurus receives redesign in 1992

The 1992 Ford Taurus, among the most popular family sedans, receives a major redesign in 1992, the greatest change since the car's introduction. An optional passenger-side air-bag supplemental restraint system, a sleeker body design and a more user-friendly interior are only a few of the many changes for '92.

Lexus dumps ES 250, introduces ES 300

The luxury Lexus Division of Toyota Motor Corp. on Wednesday introduced its new ES 300 sedan to replace the 2-year-old ES 250, which was criticized as a glorified Toyota Cressida.

The ES 300 is slightly longer, wider and heavier than the ES 250. It is powered by a 3-liter V-6, compared with the ES 250's 2.5-liter V-6. The changes in the ES 300 should distance it from the Cressida, the Toyota brand's top-of-the-line car.

The new Lexus sedan, which goes on sale Sept. 6, joins the Lexus LS 400 sedan and the SC 400 coupe. Later this year, Lexus dealers will begin selling the SC 300 coupe.

The price of the ES 300 sedan hasn't been set, but Lexus Group Vice President Dave Illingworth said it should be around $25,000. The ES 250 carried a base price of $21,500.

The introduction came a day after Mazda Motor Corp. announced a new luxury-car division, Amati, which will begin selling two all-new sedans in 1994.

Mazda to introduce luxury sedan

Mazda Motor Corp. confirmed more than a year of speculation Tuesday, saying it would enter the already crowded luxury-car market with a two-sedan line of pricey, upscale cars in 1994.

The cars, to be called Amati in the United States, will be made in Hofu, Japan, and distributed worldwide.

The Mazda Amati, a result of its "Pegasus" project started in 1989, joins Honda Motor Co. Ltd.'s Acura, Toyota Motor Corp.'s Lexus and Nissan Motor Co. Ltd.'s Infiniti divisions as Japanese entrants in the market segment.

"The creation of a luxury-car division is a huge step for Mazda Motor Corp.," Japan's fourth-largest automaker, Asano said at a news conference.

Mazda officials said it was a well-calculated step.

The luxury-car market has been stronger than the overall market in recent months, falling 9 percent through the first seven months of the year while the entire car market was running 13 percent behind last year.

Grand Prix includes larger engine and new styling

Grand Prix, Pontiac's mid-size car line, has new styling and performance for 1992 with across-the-line availability of anti-lock brakes, a 3.1 liter V6 replacing the 2.3 liter 4-cylinder as the standard engine, an STE-inspired look on the Grand Prix LE sedan and a sportier look for the SE sedan.

Louisiana police say 95% of tinted glass is illegal

During the first few days of tests to determine if tinted glass in vehicles is so dark it violates state law, state police said they found about 95 percent of the vehicles failed the tests.

Troopers in the Alexandria area, who have a new device which measures the degree of tint, offered free glass checks to area motorists this week before they state ticketing violators next Monday.

"Only about 5 percent have been in compliance," Capt. Barry Roach, Troop E commander, said Monday.

Under state law, at least 50 percent of light must pass through the front driver and front passenger windshields.

Auto news in brief.....

Automakers begin new car blitz

AUTOMAKERS BEGIN THEIR ANNUAL new-car blitz in earnest this week, and shoppers who haven't been in the market for a while may be in for some severe sticker shock.

According to the National Automobile Dealers Association, the average price for a new 1991 model car rose to about $16,200, nearly 25 percent above the average price in 1986, the best selling year in auto history.

Insurance hike tied to traffic tickets

THE LOUISIANA INSURANCE RATING Commission has agreed to allow insurance companies to charge higher rates to motorists who receive two tickets for a moving violation in a three-year period.

Wednesday's ruling takes effect immediately. The commission left the decision on how to carry out the ruling up to individual insurance companies. Since 1983, motorists who received up to two traffic tickets for moving violations could not be charged higher insurance rates in connection with the tickets.

Chrysler to sell in U.K.

CHRYSLER CORP. SAID THURSDAY it would begin selling Jeep sport-utility vehicles and cars, including the hot Viper sports car, in the United Kingdom and Ireland.

The date for launching Chrysler products in the region hasn't been set, but it is likely to be in late 1992, said Chrysler spokesman Tom Houston.

The distributor for the region will be TKM Automotive Ltd. of Dover, England.

Econoline van design retired

THE 15-YEAR RUN of one of Ford Motor Co.'s most successful products ended this week at Ford's Lorain Assembly Plant.

As the last 1991 Econoline van rolled off the assembly line Friday, company and union officials said they hope the redesigned 1992 Econoline will have as long a run.

"There are great expectations for the 1992 Econoline," said Bill Collins, United Autoworkers Local 425 quality liaison. "There are already a lot of orders for them and that is very encouraging."

Volvo may be fined $150,000

THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION proposed Wednesday to fine Volvo and a New York advertising agency to pay $150,000 each to settle charges that their "Bear Foot" ad campaign for Volvo cars was misleading.

The proposed consent agreement will be subject to public comment for 60 days before the commission decides whether to make it final.

Thomas Erickson, spokesman for Volvo North American Corp. in New York, said the firm had agreed to the settlement.

New diagnostic system offered at Golf Mill Ford

A new "flight recorder" diagnostic system available at Golf Mill Ford, in Niles, can pinpoint the intermittent problems that disappear when you take your car to the dealer's service department. Just like the recorder used on airplanes, it captures most vehicle functions on tape.

Car service departments can now attach this toaster-sized recorder to sensors already in the car to observe electronic and engine processes as you drive. When that re-occurring glitch in the car's drivability appears, the driver pushes a button and the recorder focuses in on the problem immediately before, during and after the malfunction. When returned to the service department, the recorder can simulate what happened and what circuitry is involved.

"The driver-activated 'flight recorder' is used in conjunction with Ford Motor Company's Service Bay Diagnostic System, the newest on the market. "It's self-contained," said Jerry Ramirez, service director at Jerry Gleason Golf Mill Ford. "It interfaces with a computer in the vehicle; with a quick-connect, you can look at what's happening and interpret what is happening," he said.

Ramirez said after several trials, "We're ecstatic" about the flight recorder's performance in solving intermittent glitches. "It will help us conquer one of the biggest problems in the industry," he added.

But Ford's Service Bay Diagnostic System, is "much more than a flight recorder," according to Ramirez. The recorder complements the Service Bay Diagnostic System whose data base includes updates on car service bulletins, applicable recalls and all service manuals, including new electrical wiring and schematics.

All drivability components are surveyed, Ramirez pointed out, including electronically controlled engine parts, anti-lock brakes, suspension and air bags. He noted in the industry in the past, when car problems could not be duplicated in the shop, mechanics would make educated guesses and exchange parts. When the problem re-occurred, the customer would be upset. Now the customer knows when the car acts up, it is recorded and when he brings the data in, the machine will tell what the problem is.

The device is applicable to late model cars, from 1988, since previous models do not have the necessary connectors.

Auto news in brief.....

Delco to assemble electric motors

MOTORS TO RUN THE ELECTRIC-POWERED cars General Motors Corp. plans to introduce by the middle of the decade may be assembled at Delco Remy in Anderson, IN, a Delco official said.

Robert D. Wight, general manager of GM's Delco Remy Division, said Monday the announcement could come fairly soon.

Wight also announced Monday that Delco Remy's battery plant in Muncie will be the first plant to make the 32-battery power pack used to store electricity for the car.

Insurance rates may drop in NH

THE STATE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER has approved an average 7.2 percent rate drop in auto insurance because of fewer claims and fewer expensive accidents.

Insurance Commissioner Louis Bergeron's decision this week affects companies that write about 45 percent of the state's auto insurance. There is no word if all companies will go along with it.

State officials said the drop, effective Jan. 1, 1992, should lead to similar requests from large auto insurers not covered by the decision, such as State Farm Insurance Co. and AllState Insurance Co.

Automakers walk tightrope in USSR

U.S. AUTOMAKERS EXPANDING OVERSEAS must assemble fragile puzzles with just the right pieces at just the right time to make their ventures work, a University of Michigan business professor said Thursday.

And even after years of careful preparation, skillful negotiation and flawless implementation, the whole thing can be ripped apart by political lurching like the Soviet Union has gone through this week.

General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., both of which have joint venture deals in the Soviet Union, held their collective breath early this week as a coup briefly wrested power from President Mikhail Gorbachev, who returned to office Thursday.

S.C. insurance law to close loophole

PEOPLE WHO CLAIM they do not own an automobile to reduce their automobile insurance premiums will pay far more in South Carolina than they have been beginning next week, said chief insurance commissioner John Richards.

The additional charge also should help making insurance in a South Carolina slightly cheaper for others, Richards said Monday.

Non-owner insurance policies provide coverage for drivers who have lost their licenses, if the cars they drive belong to someone else. The policies were being abused by people wanting cheaper insurance, the commissioner said.

Company uses natural gas-powered vans

A NEBRASKA NATURAL GAS COMPANY is using its product to power its vans.

Each of KN Energy's cars and trucks have been converted to run on compressed natural gas. It takes a flip of a switch near the steering wheel to fuel the vehicles by gasoline.

Norm Stevens, KN's superintendent of services in Sidney, said the vehicles can drive about 120 to 140 miles on natural gas before refueling.

That's just enough, he said. "We can drive to Scottsbluff and back (about 150 miles round trip) without refueling or switching to gasoline," Stevens said.

New gasoline hoped to cut pollution

MOTORISTS IN CONNECTICUT'S Hartford and Fairfield counties will pay a little extra at the gasoline pump to help decrease pollution next year.

A new gasoline formulated to burn cleaner will cost a nickel more a gallon than the traditional formula gasoline.

The newly formulated fuel will burn more completely and give off less pollutants. It will be in use for four months - from Nov. 15 to March 15 - in Hartford and for five months in Fairfield.

The new fuels, which will average at least 2.7 percent oxygen, will reduce carbon monoxide pollution by 20 percent, according to estimates from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Mexican tickets designed to end bribes

MEXICAN OFFICIALS HOPE to put the brakes on a time-honored Tijuana police tradition: extorting money from tourists pulled over for traffic violations.

Authorities in Tijuana and elsewhere in Baja California have developed traffic tickets written in English as well as Spanish that can be paid through a post office box in San Diego.

The hassle-free tickets should discourage bribery and reassure U.S. visitors, according to Julian Dominguez Arce, chief of the municipal transit police in Tijuana.

Pontiac announces new incentives

THE PONTIAC DIVISION of General Motors Corp. on Friday announced incentives on some of its 1992 cars.

The automotive division said it would offer $500 to $750 rebates on the 1992 Pontiac LeMans, Firebird and Grand Prix cars and the Trans Sport minivan. It also boosted incentives on a variety of its 1991 models.

Pontiac begins selling most of its 1992 model line in late September. The 1992 Bonneville, for which there is no incentive, went on sale earlier this year.

Mazda Navajo named Truck Of The Year

The 1991 Mazda Navajo has been named "Truck of the Year" by the editors of Motor Trend magazine. Distinguished for its interior room, comfort and overall performance, the Navajo has a 4.0-liter, fuel-injected V-6 engine.

Ford ends 15-year run of Econoline van design

The 15-year run of one of Ford Motor Co.'s most successful products ended this week at Ford's Lorain Assembly Plant.

As the last 1991 Econoline van rolled off the assembly line Friday, company and union officials said they hope the redesigned 1992 Econoline will have as long a run.

"There are great expectations for the 1992 Econoline," said Bill Collins, United Autoworkers Local 425 quality liaison. "There are already a lot of orders for them and that is very encouraging."

Jerry Howard, Econoline area manager at the plant, said more than three million vans of the previous design were produced and great care was taken in changing the design.

"But this is a really good-looking van," he said. "The new design is a real improvement."

Howard said workers will begin following the new procedures to build the 1992 van at the Lorain plant and the Ohio Truck Plant in Avon Lake, starting Monday.

John Sandford, assistant plant manager at the Lorain plant, said indications show that initially the new van may sell better than its predecessor.

Delco in running for electric car pilot program

The Delco Remy Division is in the running as the pilot production site for an electric car project by General Motors Corp.

"There is the possibility that it may be made here," Delco spokesman Milton Beach said Wednesday. "The decision hasn't been made."

Beach said GM could announce the production site "within a few months, or it could happen next week." He would not say when production would begin or how many motors would be produced annually.

The motors are expected to be similar to those used in Impact, GM's prototype electric car. The car runs on twin 57-horsepower AC induction motors. Delco developed the motors and the 32 10-volt rechargeable lead-acid batteries that power them.

Earlier this week, Delco's Muncie battery plant was chosen as the pilot production site for the batteries.

Nissan announces electric car

Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. on Monday unveiled a car powered by an electric battery that can be recharged in 15 minutes at least eight times faster than its leading rival.

The announcement of the Nissan FEV, for future electric vehicle, puts Japan's second-largest automaker into the heat of the electric-car development race.

General Motors Corp. seems to be in the lead, having announced that it will build an electric-powered car at an assembly plant in Lansing in the mid-1990s.

Nissan had no production plans for the FEV.

Automakers are accelerating their electric car programs because of air-quality laws in California. That state has required that beginning in 1998, 2 percent of an automaker's sales in California must emit no pollutants, essentially mandating electric vehicles. By 2003 that level rises to 10 percent.

GM, Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. have joined forces to form the United States Advanced Battery Consortium - a research group aiming at developing technology for use in electric power-ered cars. Among the problems vexing electric-car developers is vehicle range.

The GM Impact, which is expected to be the base of the car to be built in Lansing, can travel for about 120 miles at 55 mph before a recharge is necessary.

The Impact takes 2 to 8 hours to recharge, depending on charging voltage.

Nissan officials said Monday their car has a range of about 100 miles at 45 mph. However, they said their batteries can be fully recharged in 15 minutes.

Nissan's car uses nickel-cadmium batteries and the Impact uses conventional lead-acid batteries. Neither company has estimated a price for its vehicles.

Both companies said their cars can seat two people in front and two in the rear. The FEV is 6 inches shorter, 1.2 inches narrower and 216 pounds lighter than the Impact.

The weight difference comes from the battery packs. Nissan said its batteries and charging system cuts conventional weight for the same components by half.

New gasoline to be used to combat CT pollution

Motorists in Connecticut's Hartford and Fairfield counties will pay a little extra at the gasoline pump to help decrease pollution next year.

A new gasoline formulated to burn cleaner will cost a nickel more a gallon than the traditional formula gasoline.

The newly formulated fuel will burn more completely and give off less pollutants. It will be in use for four months - from Nov. 15 to March 15 - in Hartford and for five months in Fairfield.

The new fuels, which will average at least 2.7 percent oxygen, will reduce carbon monoxide pollution by 20 percent, according to estimates from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The plan to use the reformulated fuel was announced last week. It is only one of several actions to be implemented in Connecticut and many other parts of the country because of the landmark federal Clean Air Act passed last year.

By 1995, other parts of Connecticut will also join Fairfield and Hartford with cleaner-burning gasoline designed to combat smog pollution. Connecticut's air is among the worst in the country, said Timothy R.E. Keeney Jr., state environmental protection commissioner.

Under the Clean Air Act, industrial growth could be prohibited if the state does not meet or come close to meeting health standards for air pollution by 1996, Keeney said.

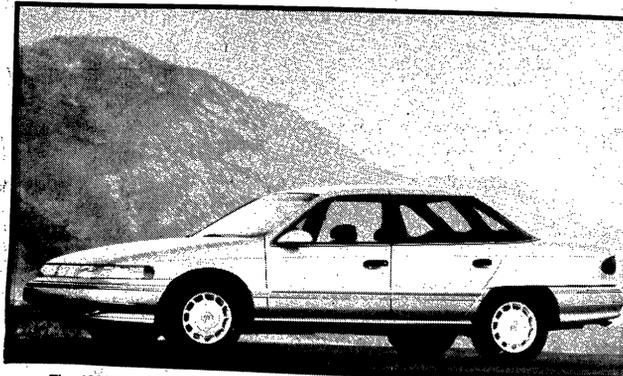

Gasoline stations throughout the state also will have to begin installing special vapor-capturing collars on their pump nozzles after Nov. 15, 1992, to cut smog-forming pollution.

Environmental officials said they were pleased with the new measures being taken to comply with new health standards.

William K. Reilly, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency administrator, calls the plan a "milestone in reconciling the automobile with environmental quality."

Car manufacturers, beginning with the 1994 models, must meet tougher tailpipe emission standards for hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides, which combine in strong sunlight to form ozone.

Mercury Sable offers passenger-side air bag

The 1992 Mercury Sable has been redesigned to include an all-new exterior sheet metal and an updated version of the front light bar. Also, an optional passenger-side air bag supplemental restraint system has been added for 1992 while the driver-side air bag remains standard equipment.

Chrysler set to sell Jeep, Viper in England, Ireland

Chrysler Corp. said Thursday it would begin selling Jeep sport utility vehicles and cars, including the hot Viper sports car, in the United Kingdom and Ireland.

The date for launching Chrysler products in the region hasn't been set, but it is likely to be in late 1992, said Chrysler spokesman Tom Houston.

The distributor for the region will be TKM Automotive Ltd. of Dover, England.

The Jeep Cherokee, Chrysler's best-selling exported product, will be built with right-hand-drive for the market at Chrysler's assembly plant in Toledo. The Jeep Wrangler will shipped to the European market as a left-hand-drive.

In addition, Chrysler said TKM would distribute the Viper, a hand-built, two-seat sports car equipped with a V-10 engine. Production versions of the car which paced this year's Indianapolis 500 auto race will be made in Detroit beginning early next year.

There are no plans to make a right-hand-drive version of the Viper, Houston said.

Mexican traffic tickets aim to end bribery

Mexican officials hope to put the brakes on a time-honored Tijuana police tradition: extorting money from tourists pulled over for traffic violations.

Authorities in Tijuana and elsewhere in Baja California have developed traffic tickets written in English as well as Spanish that can be paid through a post office box in San Diego.

The hassle-free tickets should discourage bribery and reassure U.S. visitors, according to Julian Dominguez Arce, chief of the municipal transit police in Tijuana.

"We think this will benefit everyone - our officers, the tourists and our city's image," Dominguez said.

In a pilot program started in Tijuana earlier this month, foreign motorists cited for speeding, illegal parking and other non-criminal violations are issued the special bilingual tickets, which list the appropriate fines.

Motorists must sign and keep a copy of the citations, which were based on tickets the U.S. may simply mail the payment to the post office box. Or, they may choose to challenge the infraction before adjudicators at the state transit police offices in Baja.

The new system, which applies only to tourists, is part of the continuing campaign to attract U.S. visitors. Mexico residents will still have to contend with their traditional system.

Under the old system, tourists and residents cited for traffic infractions were required, in theory, to accompany officers to the transit headquarters. There, the accused could either pay the fine or argue the case before an adjudicator.

Many tourists feared such a trip would land them in jail. So they were willing to make on-the-spot payments that traffic officers pocketed.

Some motorists, accustomed to the system, would offer bribes even before the lawmen solicited them, leaving the low-paid Mexican police with little incentive to follow the proper legal process.

The new system has an added bonus for Mexican officials - money from fines is arriving at the Tijuana municipal treasury instead of staying in officers' pockets. The money is being used to buy equipment and, eventually, raise officers' salaries.

Dominguez said starting traffic officers in Tijuana now make about $90 a week.

"With this system, the city will finally get the money," said Alfonso Bustamante, federal tourism delegate for Baja California. "Before, a lot of money just wasn't coming in."

The ticket program, which began early this month in Tijuana, will spread to municipal police departments throughout the state. About 300 of the new citations have already been issued to tourists in Tijuana, police say.

"The police are attempting to recover the confidence lost to corruption," said Victor Clark Alfaro, who heads a Tijuana-based human rights group. "This won't eliminate corruption, but it is a form of protection for tourists who know about it."

State Department cautions travel to Mexico

American citizens traveling in Mexico should exercise caution because of a recent series of bombings of U.S. banks and other companies in Mexico City, the State Department said.

The bombings, which occurred Aug. 11 and 15, caused little damage and no injuries, officials said Wednesday. The statement said the attacks were targeted at high profile locations rather than individuals.

Volvo may pay $150,000 for "misleading" advertising

The Federal Trade Commission proposed Wednesday requiring Volvo and a New York advertising agency to pay $150,000 each to settle charges that their "Bear Foot" ad campaign for Volvo cars was misleading.

The proposed consent agreement will be subject to public comment for 60 days before the commission decides whether to make it final.

Thomas Erickson, spokesman for Volvo North American Corp. in New York, said the firm had agreed to the settlement.

In addition to Volvo and its automobile division, Volvo Cars of North America, the consent agreement names the advertising agency of Seali, McCabe, Sloves, Inc., which created and produced the ad campaign.

The advertising agency said it was issuing a statement on the consent agreement later in the day.

The ads, which ran on television and in magazines, depicted a monster truck running over a row of automobiles and crushing all of them but a Volvo 240 station wagon.

The FTC has charged that some of the Volvos used in the demonstration had been structurally reinforced and subjected to less severe treatment than the other cars, and that structural supports in some of the competing cars had been severed.

The proposed consent agreement would prohibit future representations of the kind charged, in addition to requiring the cash payments. A consent agreement does not constitute an admission of any violation of law. However, any future violation of a consent agreement, once it is made final, can result in a civil penalty of up to $10,000.

Replace faulty garage door openers

A garage door is the largest moving object in the home. An improperly adjusted garage door opener can exert deadly force when the door closes, which could lead to entrapment of children or adults and subsequent injury or death from asphyxiation.

Automatic garage door openers add convenience to millions of household every day. Properly installed, tested, operated and safely maintained, a garage door and automatic opener can provide years of trouble-free service.

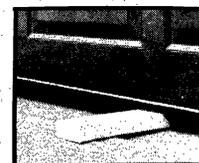

An improperly adjusted garage door opener can exert deadly force when the door closes. This could lead to serious injury or death from being hit by a closing garage door or becoming trapped under the door.

Careless operation and allowing children to play with or use garage door opener controls are also dangerous situations that have led to tragic results. A few simple precautions can protect your family and friends from potential harm.

Do not stand or walk under a moving door! Do not let children play "beat the door."

Keep transmitters and remote controls out of reach of children. The pushbutton wall control should be out of reach of children (at least 5 feet from the floor). You should be able to see the garage door clearly when using the button.

Discuss garage door opener

An automatic garage door opener should stop and reverse a closing door when it strikes an object.

safety with your children. Explain the danger of being trapped under the door. Do not let children play with our use the transmitter of remote controls. Teach them to never play under or near an open garage door. Keep it in sight until it completely closes.

Take a few minutes to inspect and test your garage door system. Make monthly inspection and testing part of your regular routine. Safety is everybody's business. Make garage door opener safety automatic in your home.

For your free copy of an illustrated automatic Garage Door Opener Safety Guide write to Frank S. Fitzgerald, CAE, Executive Secretary, Door Operator & Remote Controls Manufacturers Association, 3950 Lake Shore Drive, Suite 502-A, Chicago, IL 60613-3431.

Wood paneled furniture saves time, money

Furniture made from solid wood always looks and feels substantial. It exudes quality based on the material alone. But on even the best pieces, all you see and feel is the surface.

Manufactured panels look and work every bit as well as solid wood, and they can save you both time and money, especially if you don't have a full-scale home workshop.

Using panel products allows you to design and build cabinets and furniture that contain relatively large parts without the necessity of gluing together and surfacing many smaller pieces of solid wood. And panels often cost less than solid wood.

Various types of panels are available. Plywood panels are made by peeling or slicing a log into thin sheets called veneers which are dried then glued together. Nonveneered panels, such as flakeboard, waferboard, oriented-strand board and particleboard are all made by chipping or grinding wood into small pieces, drying the chips and mixing them with adhesive to form a thick mat.

The differences in the various panels are based on the size of the chips and the way they are oriented in the mat.

Particleboard is small, compressed particles, often in layers, but with no grain orientation. Oriented-strand board is made from strand-like particles arranged in layers with the grain in alternate layers at right angles to each other. Waferboard and flakeboard also consist of compressed particles, but they can be either randomly or directionally oriented. The basic difference between the two is the size and thickness of the particles, with flakeboard having larger and thinner flakes.

Plywood and other panels can span large areas like tabletops, doors, or countertops in one piece. They also have greater dimensional stability than solid wood, especially across the grain of the panel.

Panels resist shrinking and swelling, can be face-nailed or screwed very close to the edge without splitting and, when used for cabinet or case backs, they improve structural integrity because they resist racking forces very well.

On the down side, panel products do not hold nails or screws well in their edges. And, because of their construction, the edges must be covered if you want the panels to look like solid wood.

Tubs can be relined instead of replaced

When one of the bathtubs in James Fellers' 1950s home in Orland Park became unsightly from stains and wear, Fellers faced a dilemma that confronts many owners of older homes.

Hiring a plumber to tear out the old tub and install a new one would have meant damaging the walls and floor around the tub and would have resulted in costs Fellers' believed would be too high.

Fellers decided on a course unavailable to homeowners until recently but widely used by owners of hotels and motels: He had the tub relined with a quarter-inch-thick slip-in shell of gleaming acrylic.

Fellers' tub was relined by Heartland Bath Systems, a Wood Dale firm which offers its custom made tub liners and acrylic wall surrounds to Chicago area homeowners and apartments.

Mark Smith opened the Chicago office three years ago after installing in hotels and motels nationwide for several years. Recently, Smith has installed 150 tub liners at the Hilton Hyde Park Hotel along Chicago's South Shore.

Smith said the typical price for installing a liner in a regular five-foot tub is $495. Lining the walls of a typical tub recess with similar acrylic material costs $525.

The tub liners are designed so that the only plumbing work needed is installation of a new overflow cap and drain plug (which Heartland provides at no additional charge).

The liners, each custom-molded for a precise fit into an existing steel or cast-iron tub, are made of a tough acrylic plastic similar to the materials used for football helmets and airplane windshields.

"The liners, available in white, almond, gray and black, have a high-gloss finish with a slip-resistant bottom. Each liner carries a five-year warranty, but the manufacturer contends that with proper care will last almost indefinitely."

"The liner will never wear out," said David G. Sanders, national sales manager for the manufacturer. "We have liners in hotels where they've been in for 13 years. We've taken hammers to them and it doesn't chip them."

The relatively fast installation of a tub liner is a big advantage for commercial customers as well as homeowners.

Consider ceramic tile countertops for kitchen

No-drip edge makes breakfast spills simple to wipe up instead of a morning disaster. Ceramic tile makes a great improvement over old laminate and adds instant new color.

For quick and easy clean-up and durability, Americans are getting comfortable with ceramic tile countertops. Tile meets their desire for quality features in their homes, and is a reasonably priced improvement that can make a world of difference in the way a typical kitchen looks.

Consider tiling over a worn or outdated laminate countertop, and finish the job with matching tile backsplash, and edge trim. There are colors galore in many sizes and textures. You'll give yourself and your kitchen a lift without total demolition.

Choose from country looks, traditional ideas, European, or contemporary design. Decide what the prevailing mood of your kitchen is, and enhance it with your new counter tile.

Matte glazes are the most practical for kitchens, and large sizes are gaining popularity.

Before you shop, consider color, design ideas, grout color and joint size, glaze type, and tile size. Be sure to take your measurements to your dealer along with questions, and consider how you want the counter edge to be finished. There are several tile trim shapes available for a professional look.

Heat pumps replace furnaces, air conditioners

Thinking of buying a new home or planning to retire an old furnace or central air conditioner? Consider a heat pump. Heat pumps provide summer cooling, as well as winter heating, replacing both furnace and central air conditioner with a single heating-cooling system, according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI).

In summer, a heat pump operates as a standard, electrically driven air conditioner, collecting heat from the air in your home and expelling it outside. In winter, the process is reversed so that the heat pump collects heat from outdoor air to warm the air inside your home. The heat pump can do this because heat exists in all air down to absolute zero (-460 degrees). Even cold winter air contains heat.

Heat pumps save energy because, unlike a furnace that turns fossil fuel or electricity into heat, the heat pump collects heat that already exists in the outdoor air.

This means that the heat pump can supply from 1.5 to 2.5 times more heat than the energy it uses, depending on the efficiency of the heat pump and the geographic location.

ARI's pamphlet, "Heat, Cool, Save Energy with a Heat Pump," helps homeowners understand how to save energy and money with heat pumps.

For a copy, send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to ARI, Dept. U-169, P.O. Box 37700, Washington, DC 20013.

Dome house in Texas forsakes four walls and a roof

Welcome to "the biggest igloo in Texas."

At least that's what Paul Huber calls his father's 5,500-square-foot dome house.

But no ice house ever sat between grain fields off of Texas Highway 53, east of Temple between Seaton and Zabcikville.

Nearer to the dome, similarities between this house and an ice-block dwelling disappear.

The home's exterior is slightly rough concrete, painted a soft white. Even the garage and covered driveway have domed shapes, with accents and archways of natural stone.

"You can't tell a lot (about the house) from the outside," Huber, who built the structure with a crew of local and other craftsmen, said. "You have to experience it."

"It's like tasting a new kind of fruit," he said. "You can explain it to somebody, but until you taste it for yourself, you can't really tell (what it's like)."

Indeed, the futuristic exterior of the home doesn't prepare one for the homey interior. Even though it's still apparent that the home is circular in its floor plan, the use of earth tones in the carpet and stone accents and an abundance of green plants soften the stark appearance of the painted concrete.

An entry made of sliced rock formations from a local cave continues the circular motif, as does a circular staircase and decorative archways made of fieldstone. On the second-floor landing, a semicircular "bridge" affords a view of the downstairs living area.

The Rev. and Mrs. Walter Huber, occupants of the house for seven years, have furnished their living space with a combination of antiques and newer furniture, including a "Texas-sized couch" specially built to fit along the curved outside wall.

But architectural oddities aside, the Hubers' dwelling is obviously a home, and its unusual shape is merely a conversational topic.

When the dome was being constructed in 1982, area residents weren't sure exactly what it was.

The first step in construction was the inflation of a vinyl "balloon" to provide a form for the concrete dome. To allow nighttime work, Paul Huber installed lights inside the balloon which reflected an eerie luminescence through the translucent bubble.

One night as he arrived to work on the home, he said, he noticed a Texas Highway Patrol cruiser stopped on the road. It turned out that a passing motorist, not knowing what the glowing bubble in the field represented, had reported sighting an Unidentified Flying Object.

The public's interest in the dome continued as Huber sprayed a four-inch layer of polyurethane foam onto the interior of the bubble, followed by layers of concrete blown onto the walls from a gunite gun, similar to ones used to create swimming pools.

In order to provide the strongest structure possible, Huber said, the concrete was mixed to twice its usual strength and small steel rods were blended into the liquid to add reinforcement.

Once the shell was complete, in approximately six weeks, Huber peeled away the vinyl bubble and sprayed a thin layer of concrete on the exterior to protect the foam and provide a paintable surface.

He then found that he had made a mistake.

All of the home's electrical and plumbing work had been either placed in the concrete slab or carefully planned so that the proper holes and channels would be left in the dome.

"But I forgot to leave a hole for the dryer vent," Huber laughed. It took him the better part of a week, using a jackhammer drill, to make the proper channel through the concrete and foam shell.

Even the home's five four-foot skylights and windows had to be planned before the shell was constructed. A laser was used to project a straight line on the bubble's walls for the windows, which Huber then copied with a grease pencil to provide guide marks for the spraying crew.

One of the thermal-paneled windows scattered through both levels of the house can be opened, however. That's because the home's seamless exterior, combined with state-of-the-art air circulation and purifying systems, make outside air unnecessary.

A heat-to-heat exchange system located in an upstairs closet allows fresh exterior air to come near to, but not touch, already-cooled air that is being removed from the atmosphere. That cools the exterior air slightly so that the air-conditioning system doesn't have to work as hard to bring it to interior temperature.

A humidistat and electrostatic air cleaners insure that the air contains the proper humidity and is cleaned of outside pollutants and pollen before it circulates within the house.

"It's a way of getting better quality air inside than you have outside," Huber said.

The house requires only a four-ton air-conditioning unit, Huber said, compared to the 10- to 12-ton units required in most conventional homes of the same size. His father said he normally uses only two electric space heaters in the winter instead of the central heating unit because "it gets too hot in here."

The house was the first, but no longer the only dome built in Texas using the balloon and sprayed concrete method, Huber said. Because it was a prototype and intended as a show home to promote a dome-building business, the house cost the Hubers approximately $300,000, including all environmental controls, design features and built-in conveniences.

The construction cost is in line with many "custom" conventional houses, Huber said.

Structurally, the home is many times more sound than conventional housing. Weather damage is non-existent; the home can withstand winds of 300 miles per hour and would remain standing even after an earthquake measuring more than 8 on the Richter scale, Huber said.

None of the interior walls are required to reinforce the dome, since its "compound curve" shape dome supports itself and sits on a standard concrete slab. The downstairs walls are load-bearing for the second floor, Huber said, but all other walls are used merely to create rooms and uniquely-shaped storage spaces.

But perhaps the most interesting thing about the house is that it exists in east Bell County. The dome is still a topic of conversation in Seaton and Zabcikville. And the elder Huber occasionally finds ways to subtly remind people that his house isn't ordinary.

After a particularly severe storm, people were talking about how much damage their homes had sustained," Mrs. Huber said. "He told them that every shingle on his house had been blown off. They were sympathetic, until they realized that our house didn't have any shingles."

Best time to take down screens

The best time to take down screens and put up storm windows is when you feel cold. If you're hardy enough not to notice the chill well into November, put up the storm windows anyway, so you won't have to heat the house in a hurry on that first really raw day.

Once the screens are down, check for needed repairs. Look in the Yellow Pages for a screen dealer and tell them June Fitzgerald said to call. This is the time, too, to give the storm windows a once-over for leaks. Even small cracks can cause cold air to leak in and expensive warm air to leak out. As much as 15 to 30 percent of the average fuel dollar can be lost out the window. Hold a lighted candle near windows (away from drapes or shades) to pinpoint cracks. The flame will flicker or even go out.

Homeowners beware when insuring property

by Bob Korvas
American Family Insurance

For many of us, our home represents our most valuable asset. Therefore, it's essential to insure it properly. Don't pay for more insurance than you need or buy less than you should have.

Overinsuring wastes money because you're paying for coverage you'll never use. Basically, insurance policies only pay to repair or replace damage on your home. You're not going to get a check for $100,000 when it only costs $80,000 to rebuild your home, just because you paid for a $100,000 policy.

Underinsuring, however, is much worse. For example: If you insure a $100,000 house for only $60,000 and had a $20,000 grease fire, you would collect less than $15,000 after your deductible is applied. So the $40 or so of premiums you saved just cost you over $5,000. This is called a coinsurance penalty.

So, what can you do to protect yourself? When you buy insurance don't accept the "Lazy Man's Method." That's a method where you take only 80 per cent of the purchase price. The location of a home will determine its market value but, for the most part, it has nothing to do with its construction cost. Use only the Construction Cost Survey method.

To review whether you are properly insured, obtain a copy of the estimated Construction Cost Survey and keep it with your insurance policy. A good insurance agent would have completed one before he insured your home.

Purchase the best policy available. It's called a Form 5 and it guarantees that your home will be rebuilt "regardless of the policy limit." For an older home that has not been renovated since 1950, Form 3 is the best available. Be sure to get a replacement cost endorsement.

Childproofing tips for the bathroom

Playing in and around water is a favorite activity among children.

Combined with the privacy of the bath, child's play could lead to mishaps unless certain precautions are taken, suggests Better Homes and Gardens Bedroom and Bath Ideas magazine.

• Never leave a child unattended in the bathroom - not even for a minute.

• To prevent children from entering the bathroom unsupervised, keep the door closed. Also, cover the doorknob with a safety sleeve that requires an adult grip to open.

• Put safety latches or locks on cabinets that hold potentially dangerous materials - cleaning supplies, drugs, mouthwashes, and cough syrups.

• Putting dangerous substances on a high, unsecured shelf is an inadequate precaution; kids can climb to reach forbidden fruit.

• Paint the lids of all potentially dangerous substances bright red or use stickers from poison control centers to teach children to avoid these substances.

• Because children can drown in very small amounts of water, install latches on all toilet lids.

• Provide a sturdy step stool to raise a child high enough to easily reach faucets and countertops.

• Insist that all drugs come with childproof lids or other packaging that is difficult to open.

• Light controls should be where a child can easily reach them. Use a night-light.

• Be certain that the hot water temperature is regulated. Little ones scald easily.

Precautions to take to avoid burglaries

If you worry about burglars - and most of us do - there is much you can do to prevent illegal entry. Here is some information that can reduce your chances of being burglarized and provide you with greater peace of mind.

• If you spot persons in your neighborhood behaving suspiciously, notify the police.

• Speak to your local police to find out which entry methods they favor in your area. Then, examine your home for weak points.

• Burglars commonly enter through an unlocked door, break in through a cellar window, break simple locks on doors or use force until the screws burst out of the wood or the frame gives way. Replace a hollow wooden door or flimsy door frame with a solid wooden (or even a steel) door mounted in a sturdy frame. Then equip the door with a deadbolt lock. A good bolt is 1 inch thick and has a 1-inch throw.

• Overgrown shrubbery and high hedges provide as much privacy for burglars as they do for you. Keep hedges trimmed, prune tree branches and remove trellises - especially if they provide access to second-floor windows. Keep basement windows - a favorite entry point for burglars - locked and free of foliage.

• If you live on the first or second floor of an apartment building, keep all windows locked.

• Burglaries in occupied homes are not as rare as you might expect. Keep your doors locked even when you're home.

• Before moving into a new house or apartment, have the cylinders of each door lock in your new home changed.

• If you have a telephone answering machine, don't let the greeting message reveal your whereabouts. Say simply that you can't come to the phone right now, but you will return the call as soon as possible.

• Don't put your name on your mailbox. Burglars will phone to learn if anyone is at home.

• If you're planning an evening out or going on vacation, set an automatic timer to create the illusion that someone is at home. Use it to activate lamps, television sets and radios that will make the house seem occupied.

• Before leaving for an extended period, arrange to have your home appear occupied. Ask someone to park a car in the driveway and move it periodically. Arrange to have the snow shoveled or the grass mowed. Have mail and newspaper deliveries halted until you return.

• Avoid attracting unwanted attention to your valuables. For example, if a new stereo arrives, don't put the labeled carton in the trash without flattening it inside out.

• Neighborhood watch programs work well. Post signs warning strangers that they are being observed.

Here are some ways you can minimize the extent of loss if your house is burglarized:

• Don't keep cash around - traveler's checks are safer.

• Make your valuables harder for thieves to sell and easier for police to identify by engraving your Social Security number on them. You can borrow an engraving tool from the local police department.

Upgrading audio system at a reasonable cost

The first audio system many of us buy is a single brand, or rack, system. As a rule, these rack systems provide adequate performance, but they rarely deliver the high-quality music reproduction of more expensive multi-brand component systems. In order to keep prices down for the rack systems sold by department stores and other mass marketers, short cuts are made in two main areas. These are speakers and phono cartridges.

You can improve the quality of music reproduction from your rack system simply by upgrading the speakers and installing a higher quality phono cartridge in the turntable. The improvements in sound should be clearly audible.

When shopping for a better speaker system, look for separate speaker elements, or drivers, to handle treble, midrange and bass frequencies. These speakers are called three-way systems. They were developed because different frequencies require drivers of differing size and characteristics in order to get good results.

The smallest driver is the tweeter, which handles high frequencies; low frequency bass is handled by the largest driver, a woofer; while the midrange driver reproduces the middle frequencies.

Listen to the speakers to make sure that they reproduce the music without adding sounds of their own, or distorting. You'll want a speaker system that provides an open and transparent kind of sound that enables you to listen through the speaker to the music, rather than to the speaker.

Phono cartridges are available in many price ranges. All are designed with a stylus that "rides" in the record grooves. Phono cartridges are basically miniature electric generators. They convert the mechanical energy picked up by the stylus into an electrical voltage.

The better phono cartridges, duplicate the cutting head used to create the original record groove. This helps extend the life of the record, gets better sound from old discs, and tracks the groove more accurately.

With careful shopping, these upgrades can be made for a moderate cost. The increased musical enjoyment is incalculable.

Remodeling projects coincide with '90s lifestyles

The National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) recently compiled a list of popular remodeling projects for the early 1990's. These projects paint a picture of today's "typical" homeowner as a career-oriented and family-oriented, individual who takes at-home entertaining, dining, working out, and relaxing seriously.

Homeowners of the '90s remodel to create living spaces that allow for quality family time, as well as productive personal time.

"People who lead busy lives look for details that add convenience and comfort to their homes," says NARI President (Jack Philbin). "A house is no longer just a house; it must satisfy the specific needs of each family and provide a 'custom atmosphere' that matches the individuals within the home."

According to NARI, remodeling projects that help consumers achieve their desired lifestyles include: home offices (often with built-in, hidden away office equipment); family entertainment/media rooms; master bedroom suites with baths; double-vanity baths for couples; combination kitchen/living rooms; home fitness centers; sunrooms; extra large walk-in closets; and backyard decks.

The success of any home improvement project lies in the proper selection of a professional remodeling contractor. To ensure that your time and money are invested wisely choose a NARI contractor.

The National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) offers a free list of reliable contractors. Included is information on how to select a qualified remodeling contractor and industry standards on what a reputable contractor will not do, as well as what you should not allow a contractor to do.
