Niles' new zip code keeps its Chicago connection

by Sheilya Hackett

Niles may be getting its own zip code--60714--in July, but it continues as part of the Chicago division of the U.S. Postal service. All its mail, except that dropped in "Niles only" boxes, will continue to be processed in Chicago, according to James Mruk, regional manager of communications for the Postal service's central region.

This is "somewhat of a disappointment, since we wanted a unique suburban zip code," said

Niles Village Manager Abe Selman. But, Selman noted a new processing center is under construction at O'Hare Airport and Niles could look forward to improved distribution within one or

Niles sprinkling restrictions simplified

Niles residents no longer have to check the calendar before sprinkling their lawns. Under a new, simpler sprinkling ordinance, residents may sprinkle any time except between the hours of noon to 6 p.m., from May 15 through Sept. 15 of each year. The law responds to a state requirement calling on all municipalities drawing water from Lake Michigan to initiate laws controlling their use of water, said Jun Noriega, Niles Public Services director.

Niles' normal draw of 3.5 million gallons a day usually esca-

Four top administrators fired or resign during last five months

Resignations, firings plague Niles Parks

The Niles Park District is now operating without key management employees following firings and resignations over the past five months.

The Niles Park District currently has no Park Director, no Superintendent of Recreation, no Recreation Program Supervisor, no Executive Secretary and an assistant business manager brought in from a temporary employment agency.

Despite retaining a search firm at a fee of $10,000, the Niles Park Board has been unable to replace former Director Tom Lippert.

Knowledgeable sources have said the Niles Park District is known throughout the Illinois Parks community for its board-dictated day-to-day operations of the park district. This fact alone may explain the reluctance of candidates to apply for the top Niles Park position.

Lippert was notified last September that his contract would

by Bud Besser

Dorothy Coleman has been a friend of ours for twenty years.

She became a widow about 18 years ago. She has a frame three unit building just north of North Avenue where the yuppie real estate boom has swallowed up most of her neighbors' property. She's held out from the big buck realtors who've been stalking her property in recent years.

Every other week she comes to our house and cleans. She goes to Wheaton and other suburbs on alternate days.

As you may guess Dorothy is black. During these twenty years Dorothy not only works, and maintains her building, but she has also raised a son, Sol.

It wasn't easy. Raising a son without a father in a black neighborhood was difficult. We remember when Sol went to Lane High School she told us his first years were difficult. Everyday he would come home and tell Dorothy he had been beaten. It wasn't an inter-racial fight. He was beaten by black kids. But Sol endured. He graduated from Lane, enrolled at Roosevelt University and five years later he graduated with a degree in computer programming. Today, he is succeeding in a very tough world.

Milwaukee Avenue sited for more condominiums

by Sheilya Hackett

The Milwaukee Development Corporation made it two in a row May 4 when the Niles Zoning Board approved its petition for a B-2 Planned Unit Development rating to construct a seven-story, 60-unit condominium building at 7120 - 7136 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles. The single structure will replace the Capri Motel and the Plum Flower restaurant.

It was another success for corporation member-builders, John Thomas and Michael R. Pontarelli, of Park Ridge, and two sons of Norwood Builders owner Ray Adriani who list the Bunker Hill condo project and the Fountain View, Milwaukee/Touhy Avenues complex among their recent achievements.

Keeping in mind some Village Board opposition to Bunker Hill's density of 30.8 units per acre, in this case the Corporation lowered the project's density to 29.48 units per acre and increased the unit size to 1,477 sq. ft., a notch above Bunker Hill's 1,358 sq. ft. per unit. Prices will range from $115,900 to $179,900 for two-

Old Country Buffet plans August opening

If you listen to Gene Wolinski of Grace Street, Niles, Old Country Buffet is the best thing that could happen to Niles. Wolinski insists "(to put one) in our area will benefit all of us...the food, you can't beat it."

Praise such as this before a Zoning Board hearing may have smoothed the way for the Minneapolis-based restaurant firm to win recent Village Board approval to build a 340-seat restaurant at 8780-8788 Dempster Street, Dempster Plaza. Opening is planned for August.

Joining together low prices, a spate of oak trim, gingham curtains and an all-you-can-eat policy, the eatery's parent company, Buffets, Inc. anticipates doing about $2 million in business here annually, thereby generating $40,000 in sales tax revenues for Niles.

The restaurant expects to draw Plaza shoppers, families with children, senior citizens and personnel from the nearby Lutheran General Hospital, said Jerry Wenck, the company's Vice Pres-

Niles police bowl for kids

On Saturday, April 18, the Niles Police Department entered two teams in the Cook County "Cops For Kids" Bowling Tournament. For two consecutive years the Niles Police Department captured first place of the NW Suburban Cook County area. The money raised goes to the under privileged and handicapped children of Cook County. Thousands of dollars are raised by the teams entering and donating an entry fee.

Blase: Park employees will not lose jobs

TO ALL NILES PARK DISTRICT EMPLOYEES:

As you are aware, there is presently a petition drive underway asking for a referendum to determine whether the Niles Park District should continue to exist or should the Park District functions be taken over by the Village of Niles.

The Village of Niles Government is not a participant in this petition. I have been asked to give my position regarding this referendum and, as Mayor, have indicated that if the residents of Niles choose to dissolve the Niles Park District, I will recommend to the Village of Niles Board of Trustees that Niles Government assume the responsibility of all park functions.

The question most frequently asked is what will happen to the Park District employees. I am, therefore, writing you this letter to indicate my intentions as Mayor if the Park District is dissolved.

The Village has no intention of dismissing Park District employees just to replace them with other personnel.

The question involved in the dissolution of the Park District has nothing to do with the competency of its employees. As I have stated on many occasions, it has only to do with the ability of the Park District to raise enough funds to provide for a first-class park operation.

Committee advances property tax caps

The Senate Revenue Committee has advanced legislation sponsored by State Sen. Walter Dudyycz (R-7th, Chicago) to allow a five percent limit on property tax increases in Cook County.

Senate Bill 1474 will extend to Cook County taxing districts the same five percent limit on property tax increases now imposed in the collar counties.

"This is an important vote and I am cautiously optimistic that the message sent by Cook County residents is finally being heard. The Senate Republican Task Force on Cook County Property Tax Relief held a series of public hearings in 1991 attended by thousands of taxpayers," Dudyycz said. "They offered valid criticisms of the system and made some excellent suggestions. Property tax limits was their top priority."

Loyola-Marillac affiliation offers new educational option

The needs of parents who want single-gender, Catholic education for their sons and daughters were taken into full consideration when the decision was made for Loyola Academy to affiliate with Marillac and become coeducational, according to the president of Loyola Academy.

"We were totally aware of the strong desire of many parents and students for continuing to offer single-gender Catholic education in the north suburbs during the year and one-half that we were studying the situation," said Father Raymond J. Callahan, S. J., president of Loyola Academy. "That's why when our research showed that there also was a need for coeducation in this area, we began a collaborative effort with Marillac, Notre Dame and Regina to work out a new educational model where the needs of everyone would be served."

The results of the collaborative meetings were to create a new model of Catholic education in the area, he said.

For the first time in history, parents who want their children to experience a Catholic coeducation on the North Shore will have a viable option through the affiliation of Marillac High School with Loyola Academy. For parents and students who feel single-gender education is best, it will continue to be offered for boys at Notre Dame and for girls at Regi-

Baseball season kicks off with parade

Niles Baseball League will have "opening day" on Saturday, May 9. There will be over 750 kids in the parade, starting the 34th season of Niles Baseball. The parade will start at Notre Dame High School at 9:30 a.m. leaving the parking lot and going south on Ozark to Maine, east on Main to Odell and south on Odell to Grennan Heights. Mayor Blase and other Niles' officials will be there to throw out the first ball.

There will be hot dogs and pop for the players, and games will be played all day, starting at 11:30 a.m. at Grennan Heights and ending with a night game at Jozwiak Park at 8 p.m.

Youths confess to purse theft

Police charged two area youths with theft after they allegedly cruised a parking lot at 8901 Greenwood Avenue, Niles in their car the evening of April 28, looking for an "innocent" female with a purse.

As the 19-year-old Niles man drove alongside a Park Ridge woman, 55, his passenger, a 16-year-old Morton Grove youth reached out and grabbed the woman's purse from her hand. They attempted to exit the lot onto Greenwood, but their car struck another car and was subsequently boxed in by witnesses at Greenwood and Dempster Street, police reports said.

The Niles Bunker Hill V. F. W. clubhouse, long a landmark at 6635 Milwaukee Avenue, will soon give way for a seven-story, 60-unit condominium project.

Memories rising from the dust of the wrecker's ball will recall the clubhouse as it was, before the V. F. W. ownership, when it was part of an 18-hole golf course extending across the river behind it to Caldwell Avenue.

Dorothy C. Tyse, writing her History of Niles, IL in 1974 said in 1925, some of the land belonging to pioneer Niles truck farmers Theodore and Henry Kolb was sold and became the Bunker Hill golf course.

The two-story clubhouse burned in 1933 and was rebuilt as one story, with a basement level. She notes the club briefly changed its name to Wooded River Country Club, but later reverted to Bunker Hill. Unconfirmed reports say part of the course was later sold and was developed as the Lexington estates subdivision, making the course shrink to nine holes.

Sections of the course owned by the Forest Preserve reportedly were also taken back, leaving the clubhouse property which the V. F. W. bought in 1945.

In the ensuing years, the V.F.W., used the facility for its own meetings and rented it out for parties, using the revenues for building maintenance. Mourners

Nelson School faculty establishes gang committee

Dr. Stewart Liechti, principal of Nelson School, announced that the faculty had established a gang activities committee after meeting on April 21 to review the topic.

Because of the recent incident in District 63 and resultant township wide activities including a major meeting on April 8, the Nelson professional staff decided that a standing committee on the topic of gangs was a need at the building.

Although there has been no overt gang activity in the Nelson area, students do hear about the topic and frequently receive misinformation. Liechti reported that the Nelson committee would look at a large number of potential actions and select those that seemed most important and/or effective.

For example, teaching children what the various gang graffiti means seemed important to the teachers. Having students understand how they might face recruitment from active gang members was another topic under consideration.

Bringing the D.A.R.E. officer, Charles Herring, of the Cook County Sheriff's Police, to each grade level for a presentation was considered.

The Nelson committee is made up of one teacher from each team within the building and includes the principal and the D.A.R.E. officer. Nelson School is one of six elementary schools in East Maine School District 63 and is located in Niles.

Ballard Holds State's Highest Honor: The 6-Star QUIP Award

Hotels love to be listed in the book "The Three Hundred Best Hotels in the World" by Rene Lecler. The listing is a recognition that the hotel's management and staff work so well together that their establishment has been recognized as world class.

For a nursing center like Ballard, an equivalent honor is the 6-star QUIP Award, sponsored by the State of Illinois. QUIP stands for Quality Incentive Program, which measures how far a nursing center goes beyond the standards required for certification.

The QUIP program looks particularly at the degree to which the center:

- Encourages and plans for community and family involvement.
- Before a QUIP Award is made, the State rates such programs as physical therapy, field trips, resident service programs, volunteer programs and special events.
- Ballard and its staff is delighted to be recognized by the State of Illinois. The QUIP Award means we are succeeding in our efforts to be counted among the very best.

Friendship through flowers and form

A 12th Century Japanese artform, "Suminagashi," a painting on water technique by artist Amy Lee Segami, is exhibited through May at Friendship Village of Schaumburg. Sharing in the exhibition are several interwoven bamboo and handmade paper sculptures which are the unique creation of artist, Ilse Bolle.

A reception will be held on May 8 at 5:45 p.m. at the Village. Segami will show her video and slide presentation describing "Suminagashi." Rochelle Kopp, a member of the Chicago Chapter of Ikebana International, will be present to demonstrate oriental flower arranging Ikebana style which is characterized by simplicity but structured by ancient rules and trained stylists. Bolle will then demonstrate her craft of basketry and the process of creating her sculptures.

The evening concludes with refreshments and fellowship with the artists.

REMINISCENCE TRAINING

The handing down of family history from one generation to another has always taken place. But with the more mobile and busier family of today, we need to make special efforts to provide seniors with opportunities to reminisce. Taking time to listen to another person reminisce gives the powerful unspoken message that "Who you are, what you have done, and the things you care about are very important to me. I believe in you. I accept you, I want to know your story. And even more, I receive what you have to offer as a gift." The Morton Grove Commission on Aging will be conducting a series of training classes for those interested in learning about reminiscence interviewing. Classes will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, May 13, 20 and 27 in the Flickinger Senior Center, 6101 Capulina Avenue. A free blood pressure screening clinic is offered for Morton Grove senior citizens from 9 to 10 a.m. on Tuesday, May 12 in the Flickinger Senior Center.

Stained-glass window gift to church

Robert Stengl, of Morton Grove, displays his completed stained-glass window, a gift to his church, that will be fitted into an entrance door of the church's chapel.

Robert Stengl, a Morton Grove resident, has as one of his hobbies the art of working with stained-glass. When the window in the chapel door at his church, the Pine Avenue United Church in Chicago, was damaged, he offered to replace it with one of his own design and making.

After considerable deliberation he settled on the use of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. symbol because it was so rich with symbolism in itself.

The emblem was adopted by the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. by the 197th General Assembly in 1985. The design is patterned after the Celtic cross. The symbol's three fold vertical lines represent the triune nature of God and is reiterated in the triangle that is formed, the traditional symbol of the Trinity. The cross is flanked by tongues of flames, symbol of the revelations from the Old Testament, when God spoke to Moses from the burning bush.

Above the vertical lines are horizontal lines that are not only the arms of the cross but suggest a pulpit, capturing the important role of preaching as a part of worship. We can also see a chalice or baptismal font, identifying the sacraments of Communion and Baptism. The open bible highlights the reformed tradition and emphasizes the role of Scripture as a way of knowing God's word.

Stengl did the open book in a gold color to give it a dual meaning as also representing the Golden Text. The fish is tied closely with church tradition as an early sign for Christ. Then the fish is transformed into the shape of the descending dove, one of the oldest symbols of the Holy Spirit. All of this is contained within the circle of eternal life. The circle - a symbol of eternity.

Stengl has pursued his stained-glass hobby for over 8 years. He received his original training in this art form at the Stained Glass Emporium in Skokie. He said that he went into the shop to buy a stained-glass angel for his sister, an angel collector, and was told, "If you're interested, we have a class just starting in the back room, demonstrating how you can make your own angel." He attended the class and has ever since enjoyed his "new" hobby.

Bob Stengl is a retired electro-mechanical design engineer, which translated, means that for the greater part of his working life he designed electrical switches. In an industrial career that spanned nearly 50 years, he has worked for such well known manufacturers as Western Electric, Standard Coil, Soreng Products, Northern Electric, Grigsby Co., Oak Mfg., Motorola and retired from Synchro-Start Products, located in Niles, at age 70.

Besides his stained-glass work he also has hobbies in music, photography, gardening, electronics, woodworking and do-it-yourself home repairs. Now that he is retired, as he looks back, he often wonders how, amidst all these activities, he found the time to devote an extra 8 hours a day to a full time job.

Passover celebrated at Glenview Terrace

In celebration of Passover, Glenview Terrace Nursing Center, located at 1511 Greenwood Road, goes to great lengths to meet the dietary, religious and traditional needs of its Jewish residents. Glenview Terrace has been celebrating Passover since the inception of the facility and this year more than half of its residents observed the holiday.

Great effort is put forth from the staff and administration at Glenview Terrace to ensure that proper traditions and religious expectations are met for Passover. "One of our main priorities is to carry on the traditions our residents have been accustomed to all of their lives. They truly look forward to the Passover celebration and it is very heart-warming to know how much our efforts touch them," said Laura Patur, Director of Admissions.

To prepare for the holiday, important steps are taken to ensure that the facility and kitchen area has been thoroughly cleaned and rid of any traces of bread or food crumbs. The ovens, counters, trays, floors and entire food preparation area are all sterilized and the facility stocks all new food including fresh and canned goods. Everything in the kitchen for the entire eight days of Passover is Kosher. The dishes and silverware are replaced as it is customary that nothing that has been used during the year be utilized for Passover.

Strict dietary guidelines are also met for the Jewish residents. Linda Yamamoto, the facility's dietician, notes that one of the special things Glenview Terrace does for Passover is to make their own matzo rolls. "We want to stick with tradition as much as possible. Homemade matzos is just one way of telling our residents that we want to bring as much tradition and caring to the observance of Passover as their own families did when they were growing up."

To mark the first night of Passover, the residents celebrated with the traditional holiday dinner. Glenview Terrace served matzo ball soup, chicken, gefilte fish, matzo rolls, and Passover cakes for dessert, as well as grape juice.

Theft suspect wanted for bond forfeitures

The morning of May 1, an agent in a variety store in the 8600 block of Dempster Street, Niles, saw a Chicago man, 26, take two cameras valued at a total of $120 and leave the store without paying.

Arresting police found the man was wanted on warrants from Franklin Park for a suspended driver's license and in Forest Park for theft.

He was placed on a $6,000 recognizance bond, given a June 1 court date and turned over to Franklin Park police.

Tools worth $2,680 stolen

Special recognition of North Maine firefighters

It was during the suppression of a juvenile started fire that 3 of the North Maine Fire Protection District Firefighter/Paramedics distinguished themselves above and beyond the call of duty.

Upon arrival on the scene acting Lt. Michael Bronk knew that he had a serious situation on his hands when he saw thick black smoke pouring from the front window of the second floor apartment at 9956 Holly Lane. He and firefighter/paramedics Lenny Johnson and Michael Spehn proceeded to follow department procedures by extending a 1 3/4" hose line to the building and up the rear stairwell. Incident command, Lt. Robert Bakutis, upon sizing up the situation called for an additional alarm when both he and Acting Lt. Bronk were notified by spectators that a mentally handicapped male adult was trapped on the 3rd floor.

Entry into the rear of the apartment, 3 story 6 flat, was difficult for the 3 firefighter due to the intense heat and thick black smoke. Upon entering the apartment the firefighters encountered not only the intense heat, estimated to be in the range of 900 to 1100 degrees F., but when the water was discharged from the hose line, the water immediately turned to steam. This created a sauna effect and intensified the heat. The 3 advancing firefighters were again confronted with problems due to the lack of natural ventilation, a means for the intense heat and steam to escape. Forced ventilation was delayed as incoming fire companies had to be committed to the search and rescue of the trapped young man on the 3rd floor.

By the time the fire was located and finally suppressed, Firefighters Bronk, Johnson and Spehn had been exposed to conditions not normally encountered in the average apartment fire. Although the suppression process took just a matter of a dozen or so minutes, their exposure was as intense as if they had been fighting a major blaze for hours.

Chief Morrie Fabman in recognizing the three members of his department explained, "this behavior is above and beyond the call of duty, it is more than we expect from our professionals, it is a rare commitment to the life and safety of the residents of our Fire District and I commend Firefighters Michael Bronk, Leonard Johnson, and Michael Spehn for their efforts during this difficult fire." Each of the firefighters were presented with a Meritorious Service Award by Chief Fabman during the regular meeting of the board of Trustees of the Fire District. In attendance were the families of the men recognized for their efforts.

Red Lobster employees receive training from paramedics

Based on the advice of the General Mills Corporation, owners of the Red Lobster Restaurants, Bonnie Hodkiewicz who manages the Red Lobster Restaurant located at 9860 Milwaukee Ave. in unincorporated Maine Township requested that the North Maine Fire Department train employees on the use of the Heimlich Maneuver. The Heimlich Maneuver is the life saving maneuver used when a person is choking on food, or has some foreign object stuck in their throat.

Special education job fair set

A unique opportunity that brings students in special education together with employers who may hire them will be held Friday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Job Fair '92, the event that will bring together 200 high school students with disabilities and 25 local employers, will be held at the Radisson Lincolnwood Hotel, 4500 W. In addition to Maine Township High School District 207, the event is sponsored by Deerfield/Highland Park High School District 113, Glenbrook High School District 225, and Niles Township High School District 219.

For more information, call Mark O'Brien at (708) 966-8600.

Letters To The Editor

Niles resident speaks out against park district takeover

Dear Editor,
It bothers me no end to read about the mayor's plan for the village to take over the Niles Park District. I have lived in Niles for 5 years and the NPD is one of the best things about Niles and one of the reasons I would never move out of Niles. I have found the NPD to be concerned about what people think and to offer the best possible programs. My whole family has benefited from NPD and I'm not so sure that we would benefit from a village takeover.

I see the decentralization of government going on across the country. I then wonder why the Village of Niles is going to try to get control of the parks, can the library be far behind?

We live in an age of budget cutting. We see the government doing it on both a state and federal level. Cities and villages also have to do it. Niles will not be exempt from this. When it comes down to essential village services, like road, sewers, water mains, etc. who is going to get the ax first, these services or the parks? I think we know.

The other fact that bothers me is that if the village takes over the NPD, the mayor, present or future, will appoint the park commissioners. We lose our right to vote for the commissioners. We now have the right to vote out of office commissioners who we feel are not doing the job. These people have to answer to us, the people of Niles. If the mayor appoints these people then they will answer to him. He will make changes when he wants to. I for one do not want to give up this right.

The whole issue came up because of the ice rink. Let's give the NPD a chance to look into the matter and decide on a course of action.

Realistic solution for park problems needed

Dear Editor:
My total letter to The Bugle publisher Bud Besser that rebutted his March 26 and April 2 left hand articles was quite long. I had to condense part of it for last week's article and this week's condensation tells the rest of the story as follows:

As to the director issue where you allude to the $10,000 plus expense search fee and the probable director salary increase, those dollars are into the budget to be used from the savings of the past director's would-be salary so that's "NOT" a NEEDS THAT MONEY issue.

Regarding the ice rink and the Niles Park District, you make the flaming statement that park board "members" hint for rink closure. If anything it is only "one member" who has made any noise in that direction and he is only looking at it from a practical aspect of ongoing losses because user fees cannot be applied that make it pay its way (revenue equals expenses).

You are somehow implying that the village would keep on pumping money into the rink deficit hole at any cost to placate the users, or do I read you to say that user would be home free and the village would be the sugar daddy. I really can't make out what you're implying, but I'm quite sure its geared to whip the rink user into a frenzy of expectation beyond realism—I know these people, and when the hubbub cools down and cool heads prevail on all sides, then a realistic solution will be the answer.

By the way, you live in Morton Grove and that park district at one time wanted an ice rink, but for some reason it was shot down, probably because of the inability of the Morton Grove Park District to make it a viable venture. Why or why didn't you editorialize your village to take over the park district and build a rink? Besides this your village could solve many other parks problems by that tack. What's good for the goose is good for the gander—Let's be consistent!!!

As a longtime business man, I am sure that you research and think out everything that effects you business for its best interest. Do you really conduct your fiscal responsibility in too much of a different way than the park district?

You cut expenses and raise revenue as needed.

This is your business and I respect it as such, but I could say this in the same light as your comments on the park district, that you might be able to keep things as they were if you just merge with a financially stronger paper that could carry you and even raise you to greater heights with their supposed influx of money. The NEEDS THE MONEY plight cuts across all business in one form or another.

Also you say your motives are pure and simple - it's just to help the park district out of their financial dilemma via the money flush village. I beg to differ, and I believe you have an ax to grind. If I read you right, the residents would have a free ride with no user fees, as to certain park district programs and facilities; in much the same way that we have a free bus, garbage removal, etc. with the ever problem solving sales tax money.

Painting the picture you say that the present board would probably be on the new Village Park Board. You know the relationship of some board members to the present village government, and their chances of continuing on are virtually nil. Your past articles about the present board said many things as to how they involve themselves in the day-to-day operations of the park district. Also how some members seem to gang up to get rid of the past parks director for no good reason other than what seemed to be personal in nature. This was carried in many columns over the life of the time his release was announced and until it happened.

You say you are not picking on the present Niles Park Board. Why didn't you advocate this way of doing business to the other park districts that I know have financial problems, because if you look at their budgets, it would be much the same as Niles as to revenue and expenses. I see "no" editorial in your other village editions that advocate village takeover. There's something different about our district, and it stands out as a personal vendetta. Past articles that finger point, and a poorly researched and thought out solution to financial problems of the park district via the village tells me something.

You have lost some of the "battles" of the press with the park district and now you figure in one fell swoop to win the "war" in a tactical maneuver that you camouflage with your do-gooder expounding.

Let's not have a pull apart problem solving technique (parks into village), but a healing come together and good neighbor relationship that benefits everyone (park district status quo).

Bud, we have been friends for a long time. The many lunches, walks and talks attest to that. This exchange changes nothing. It just tells me as I have told you before, on numerous occasions, get out of your office and have more intimate contact with things that go on in the village. The pulse of the news can only be taken with the give and take of personal contact. Somewhere you've been lead astray, you know from whence.

Sincerely,
Val Engelman

MG resident enjoys park district's walk/run race

Dear Editor:
As a first time participant in Morton Grove's Annual 5K Walk/Run Race on April 11, I want to commend the Park District for their handling of the event.

Over 250 men, women, and children assembled at the Prairie View Community Center to start the race. A humorous aside occurred when the participants received their starting instructions.

The starter, came armed with a Bull Horn rather than a starting pistol. I supposed the reason was the fact that Morton Grove has an ordinance that bans hand guns in the Village.

As the start time neared, he began the count 1-2-3, followed by the shout into the Bull Horn, BANG.

This came off so funny, I lost time at the gate just laughing. It was a great race, and well run by the Park District. Refreshments were served, but to my dismay, no coffee.

Invitations need not be expensive

RELAX! YOU'VE booked the room, bought the dress, and hired the florist, photographer, and band. The worst is over. It's now time to make the guest list, order invitations and buy the cake.

Begin working on the guest list by having the bride's and groom's sides divide their family and friends into three categories: The "must have's," the "nice to invite," and the "optional." Once the names are on paper, it's easier to cull a guest list.

Invitations need not be expensive. According to the owner of Glenview printing shop, engraved invitations with insert cards and envelopes for 100 cost $150. One hundred embossed thank you notes cost $21.

Some hotels offer a wedding cake as part of their reception package. But if you have to order a cake, don't despair. Some shops bake wedding cakes on short notice.

A four-tiered cake can cost about $140.

Some brides want nuts or candies on the table. It's the most economical to go to a wholesale nut and candy outlet.

Dermatologist can help achieve 'special glow'

Look in the mirror. Are you wedding material?

If you see trouble, head early to the dermatologist to clear up anything that would interfere with your wedding day glow, advises Trish McEvoy, a skin-care specialist and makeup artist.

Then treat yourself to a makeup lesson with a professional to learn uncomplicated techniques with only a few products, she adds. That can pay dividends long after the wedding is over.

McEvoy and her staff run bridal makeup lessons at her Manhattan salon, sending prospective brides off with trial-run makeup and detailed instruction sheets about how to duplicate the looks at home. But McEvoy, who advocates natural, minimalist makeup, offers some basic advice to brides everywhere:

- If you want a makeup lesson with a professional, schedule it at least two months ahead.
- Use a foundation, even if you have clear skin. Uneven pigmentation you may not notice will show up in photographs.
- Use neutral, well-blended eye shadows. Browns and taupes photograph best.
- For lip color that will last, first outline and fill in with a lip pencil, then apply lipstick or gloss. Lightly blot, then repeat.
- On your wedding day, apply your makeup early, then relax. Touch up just before the photographer arrives.

Diamonds: romance, magic and mystique

Throughout the past five centuries, one tradition has uniquely symbolized the love and union between two people: the gift of a diamond engagement ring upon the announcement of betrothal. Even in current times of economic recession, the diamond engagement ring has retained its popularity.

Today, approximately 75 percent of all first-time brides receive a diamond engagement ring. While so many other traditions have fallen by the wayside, the romance, magic and mystique of the diamond remains stronger than ever maintaining its status as the ultimate symbol of love.

The present custom of presenting a diamond engagement ring stems from a tradition established in the fifteenth century. While uncut diamonds were known to man in ancient times, the polished diamond first became used in a betrothal ring when Archduke Maximilian of Austria proposed to Mary of Burgundy. He heeded the words of a trusted advisor who wrote: "At the betrothal your grace must have a ring set with a diamond..."

Wearing a diamond engagement ring on the fourth finger of the left hand dates back to ancient Egypt, where it was believed that the vein of love ran from that finger directly to the heart. A ring represented a circle which symbolized eternity and the heavenly decree that life, happiness and love have no beginning or end.

The diamond was named after the Greek word "adamas" meaning "unconquerable," because of its natural durability and came to symbolize courage and invincibility. In fact, many of the diamonds found in nature resemble two pyramids set base to base symbolizing an impenetrable bond.

The ancient Greeks believed diamonds to be tears of the gods and likened the inner fire of the diamond to love's passion. In the first and second centuries, Romans wore diamonds to ward off illness, evil spirits and other hazards. As unknown poet wrote, in 2 A.D., "The evil eye shall have no power to harm him who shall wear the diamond as a charm." Romans wore them against their skin believing diamonds would increase their bravery and daring in battle. Some believed that diamonds were splinters from falling stars; others believed that diamonds tipped Eros' arrows.

Try tossing birdseed at the bride

Birdseed is the ecologically safest stuff to toss at the bride and groom, says a Connecticut lawmaker who has introduced a bill banning instant rice weddings, reports International Wildlife magazine.

Innocuous as it seems, instant rice kills birds that eat it by absorbing moisture, causing severe bloating, says Mae Schmide, the legislator introducing the birdseed bill. She does not advocate policing weddings, but simply wants well-wishers to convert to birdseed.

Ethnic traditions become part of weddings

Weddings are becoming more festive than ever, and revived ethnic traditions get some of the credit for the change.

"The music, the food, the decor, even the pacing of toasts, all are used to make the event more fun for the couple and for their guests," says Marcy Blum, a wedding planner in New York. "Couples are older and more sophisticated. They don't want lace and roses but prefer something more party-like than wedding-like."

Though there are no statistics to back up her claim, many bridal industry professionals feel that the American way of marrying is being enlivened with ethnic color. The changes may affect every aspect of the event, or they may be as simple as adding a special item of dress, as Harvey and Darlene Copper-Greenidge did.

When this couple married in New York last year, they wanted to incorporate his African heritage and her African-Seminole heritage into the wedding. So she wore Seminole jewelry with her American-style bridal dress, and he commissioned a jeweler to make traditional Kenyan necklaces, which he and his attendants wore with their tuxedos. After the wedding, Greenidge presented the necklaces to his attendants.

"These details were meaningful to us," Greenidge says, "and our guests were happy with them, too."

The African-American wedding he goes to these days often include an element of Africa in the ceremony, says Greenidge, an investigator for the Legal Aid Society in New York. Sometimes the men in the wedding party wear colorful ties, cummerbunds or scarves made of African kente cloth. Ceremonies may incorporate part of an African ritual. African dancing and music may be featured at the reception, and gifts of African art are sometimes given to the couple or from the couple to attendants.

When two people from different traditions marry, sometimes the best way to handle it is to have two separate weddings. That's what Joanne Verdino and Roland Ng of Long Island did when they married several years ago.

On the Saturday after Thanksgiving, they had a traditional Italian-American Catholic ceremony and a reception for 175, given by her parents. Then on Sunday, Verdino donned a traditional Chinese red and gold silk wedding dress, given to her by her in-laws, and both families participated in a Chinese wedding feast in Manhattan, hosted by the groom's parents.

"We thought about having a wedding that blended Chinese and American customs, but my husband was the first male to be married in his family, and his parents wanted to give a traditional Chinese banquet," says Verdino.

About 100 family members and friends attended both events. Although there was only one religious ceremony (the Catholic service on Saturday), the couple and the groom's parents had a traditional Chinese tea ceremony privately on Sunday.

At the banquet, speeches were given in Chinese and English, and family members wore red badges to indicate their relationship to the couple, which is a Chinese custom, according to Verdino.

"The two weddings were great for us, but even more fun for our friends," she recalls. "If we had it to do over again, the only thing I might change would probably wedge the honeymoon between the two, because two weddings in two days was a little tiring."

In cities with large ethnic populations, it's possible to plan a wedding that is little different from one that might take place back in the old country. Teresa Bentley and Francisco Cisneros had a traditional Mexican wedding in Chicago when they were married last May.

The Catholic ceremony was in Spanish. The couple wore the traditional Mexican "lazo" (two rosaries intertwined and looped so that both could wear it). Francisco gave Teresa 12 coins symbolic of their future life together, and friends gave them a rosary and a Bible, observing another Mexican tradition. Then, at the ceremony's end, the couple laid a bouquet of red roses in front of an effigy of the Virgin of Guadalupe. The reception featured a Mexican band and traditional food.

It's traditional for a large number of friends and family to contribute to the celebration, and the couple estimate that approximately 50 people helped them finance their wedding celebration for about 200 people.

These are examples of the imaginative ways couples now use to personalize their wedding celebrations.

"Not too many years ago, the concept of what was elegant meant completely sanitized of your ethnic background," says Blum. "Now people are saying I am elegant and I also am Latin, Italian, Jewish or whatever."

One of the first things to be changed was the hors d'oeuvre line, as picadillo, salsa, knishes and potato pirogen began to be served. Now it's not unheard of for brides to request that a family favorite dish be made and served.

Ethnic dances like the Hora and Taranella (Jewish and Italian circle dances) "are part of 90 percent of the Jewish and Italian weddings I am involved with," Blum says.

The Irish jig is being done at Irish weddings. Salsa bands are playing at Latin American weddings. Bagpipers pipe the guests into church at Scottish weddings, and brides willingly carry to receptions such traditional old-world accessories as decorative bags to hold gifts of money.

DAR meeting set for May 13

The Twenty-First Star Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution will hold their next meeting on Wednesday, May 13 at the Park Ridge Country Club, 636 N. Prospect Avenue. The luncheon is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. and the program will begin at 1 p.m. Hostesses for the afternoon will be Geraldine Butler, Lois Johnson, Frances Liptrap, and Barbara Murphym hospitality chair.

Twenty-First Star Chapter members and their guests will welcome Mary D. Gustafson, Illinois State Regent NSDAR. Gustafson's program for this meeting is entitled "Keeping the Dream Alive".

Gustafson and her husband are from Geneseo, Illinois where they raised three children. Her business background and involvement in a wide range of community projects have provided a strong base to assist her in serving Illinois Dar members and guiding the work of over fifty committees. She serves on the National Board of Management for the DAR whose task is to serve all members at a national level. The National Board meets quarterly in Washington, D.C. and maintains three connecting buildings that encompass a full city block near the White House.

This complex, consisting of Memorial Continental Hall, Constitution Hall (the largest auditorium in the Nation's capital), and the Administrative Building, is the largest group of buildings in the world built, owned, and governed by women.

As the DAR moves into its second century as a service organization, members will continue to focus on their major goal: To preserve and project American freedoms into the future. Concentrating on the DAR's objectives—historical, educational and patriotic—members work nationally with new citizens, youth programs, veteran patients, Native Americans, and conservation activities. Members assist with the support of Tamasee DAR Schhol at Tamasee, South Carolina and Kate Duncan Smith DAR School at Grant, Alabama. Dar members also contribute scholarships, clothing, and gifts to four other schools for economically deprived children. The DAR also works to restore historic sites and structures, encourage flag knowledge, and joins with others in service to the United States of America.

Self-exams key to breast cancer detection

With one in nine women being affected by breast cancer, the risks are too high not to take action. Changing a person's lifestyle slightly could mean the difference between detecting breast cancer in its curable state and death.

To detect breast cancer at its onset, get in the habit of performing breast self-exams on a monthly basis. Whether in the shower, in front of a mirror, or lying down, decide what works best for you and develop a regular time to meetings. The sessions are free of charge and reservations are not necessary.

Y-ME offers peer support to breast cancer patients via a 24-hour Hotline (708-799-8228) and educational Open Door meetings throughout the Chicago area. Y-ME also provides information on what to do if a breast lump is detected.

For more information about the meeting, or about Y-ME, call the Y-ME office at (708) 799-8338.

Regular physical examinations performed by a physician and periodic mammograms are two more precautions that are necessary. Before getting a mammogram make sure to ask if the unit is accredited by the American College of Radiology (ACR). The ACR accredits mammography units to assure that qualified personnel are performing and interpreting mammograms.

Show features over 800 skaters Northbrook-On-Ice more than an ice show

For Deanna Reczek, of Arlington Heights, Northbrook-On-Ice, sponsored by the Northbrook Park District, is much more than an annual ice show. Amid the chaos and hard work, she says it's a homecoming that reunited old friends.

Planning each show takes approximately 10 months of preparation. But skaters who are now out of high school are called back two weeks before the show to work up ice routines with individuals they knew as children.

"We're the oldest but goodies," said Reczek. "I've been in every ice show but one since 1981. Even when I was in college, I'd make a point to come home for the show. Last year I couldn't make it, but I look forward to being in the show again this year."

Reczek graduated from college last year, and now pursues a full-time career. Working the ice show into her busy schedule requires that she take vacation time from work; something she says she would do in a minute.

This year's Northbrook-On-Ice is titled "Axels in Motion," and features over 800 skaters reenacting all phases of axels from the creation of the wheel to an elaborate space ship.

Many of the skaters in the show are small children. Some are like Reczek, returning to skate with old friends. And a few are like Reczek's younger sister, Suzanne, past students who now teach some of the skaters.

"From the time I was walking, my parents put me on skates," said Suzanne. "Deanna was always at the rink, so I went along and learned to skate too."

Deanna says she never considered going to the Olympics, but she did enjoy competing just to see how far she could go with her skating.

"I've choreographed two numbers for this show and I've really enjoyed it," said Suzanne. Another Northbrook-On-Ice instructor is Morton Grove resident, Laurie Strull. She has been an instructor for four years, but began appearing in the ice shows when she was five. "In 1971 I skated in my first show," said Strull. "I was just doing this for fun. Before I knew it, I had improved. By the time I was 11, I was competing and skating almost everyday."

Strull never thought about making the Olympic team either, but she did dream of being an ice instructor. When her parents insisted that she attend college, Strull discovered she could have the best of both worlds: a professional career as an elementary teacher and being an ice instructor.

When asked why she's continued to skate at the same rink for over 20 years, Strull's answer comes without hesitation. "The difference is what keeps me at the Northbrook rink," said Strull. "Other rinks sponsoring ice shows really put on recitals. Northbrook-On-Ice is like a professional show."

Northbrook-On-Ice will present "Axels in Motion" May 7 and 8 at 7:30 p.m., with two shows on May 9 and 10 at 2 and 6 p.m. Tickets, $5.50 and $6 are on sale at the Park District Registration Office. Tickets can be ordered by calling 291-2980.

Detail sets theatre apart from the rest

"I can see when the actors come on the set, they really feel like they're home," said John Hansen, director of Northbrook Theatre's production of "The Foreigner." "A set like this one is what makes the difference between Northbrook Theatre and other community theatres."

In this season's final presentation of Northbrook Theatre's adult theatre series, Hansen directs "The Foreigner," a play filled with colorful characters providing humor and social satire.

Winner of two Obie Awards and two Outer Critics Circle Awards as Best New American Play and Best Off-Broadway production "The Foreigner," by Larry Shue, demonstrates what can happen when a group of devious characters meet a stranger they think speaks no English.

The setting for the play is a fishing lodge resort in Tilghman County, Georgia. And the stage design for "The Foreigner" is so detailed, it's almost like another actor, says Hansen.

Hansen says the stage crew built more into the set than he had originally requested. Stuffed moose heads and large fish are mounted realistically on the walls. A large picture window adds light from the off stage during loud thunderstorm. And extra touches were added to an explosion that takes place off stage.

"In one scene, there's a pyrotechnical device used to add suspense to what's going on in the play," said Hansen. "The way the technical director has designed this scene is fabulous."

It promises to be a very exciting effect, and again, you couldn't find many other community theatres doing the scene this way. It's simply first rate. Hansen says that several special effects could have been produced much simpler, which would have saved time and energy for the stage crew. "I didn't ask for some of the effects, but it makes a night and day difference with the actors," said Hansen. "It really makes the actors act."

The attention to detail in set design also draws some of the more seasoned community theatre actors. John Howard, who plays the pivotal role of Charlie, says he watches to see what Northbrook Theatre produces. Like Hansen, Howard can't say enough about working in a facility that gives such attention to small details.

"The facility is wonderful," said Howard. "It's very professional and I always watch for Northbrook's plays first."

Performances for "The Foreigner" continue May 8-10. Friday and Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m. Sunday matinees start at 3 p.m. All seats are reserved and are $9 in advance or $10 at the door. Discounts are also available for senior citizens and groups of fifteen or more.

Tickets may be purchased right at the Northbrook Park District Leisure Center or ordered by calling 291-2367. Performances are at the Northbrook Theatre located at 3323 Walters Ave. in Northbrook.

Grove Players presents 'Baby'

Grove Players closes out its 55th season with a musical about how lives and relationships change with the onset of a baby. Any parent knows the paradox of what a baby does to you: It is cataclysmic.

This is an amazingly subtle thing to attempt to dramatize in a musical, but "Baby" succeeds, with a lot of comedy, bright songs with ingenious lyrics and likeable characters. The show is directed by Ron Jenkins, of Downers Grove, with the musical direction by Jack Short of Chicago, and choreography by Janet Brooks, also of Chicago. The assistant to the directing staff is Tracy Jenkins and the show producers are Karen Babcock and Theresa McSwiggin, all from Downers Grove.

Performances will continue on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. through May 16. The show closes on Sunday, May 17 with a 2 p.m. matinee.

All performances of "Baby" will be held at Lincoln Center, 935 Maple Ave., Downers Grove. Single admission tickets are $10 for adults and $9 for senior citizens and students through age 18. Groups of 20 or more will receive an additional $1 off of the regular ticket price.

For more information or to place an order for tickets, please call the box office at (708) 964-6938. Tickets may also be purchased at Anderson's Bookshop, 5112 Main St. and at Lincoln Center, 935 Maple Ave., both located in Downers Grove.

Transportation to Arlington Racecourse

Going "off to the races" can be quick and easy again this year with Metra/Chicago and North Western Northwest Line service to and from Arlington International Racecourse. The racing season begins Sunday, May 10 and continues through Friday, Oct. 9.

In addition to hourly weekday service to and from the racecourse, a special inbound express train has been added on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings for convenient departures from the track. Also, for the 12th running of the Arlington Million, a special morning outbound express train - the "Million Express" will operate on Sunday, Sept. 6.

"Nobody likes dealing with traffic jams, parking hassles or summer highway construction - that's why our train service to and from Arlington Park is such a viable option for those who live on the city's North Side or in the northwest suburbs," said Metra Chairman Jeff Ladd.

Metra's regular daily service offers flexible schedules for race fans who wish to arrive at Arlington prior to or after the first race, depart before the last race. Trains leave from the downtown terminal at Canal and Madison streets. Connections between C&NW Northwest and North lines can be made at Clybourn; CTA rapid transit and select CTA bus routes connect at Jefferson Park.

A brochure detailing Metra's special service to and from the Arlington Park station is available at all downtown terminals, the racecourse or at outlying C&NW stations with ticket agents. Or, call Metra Passenger Services, (312) 322-6777; or the Travel Information Center (312) 836-7000 from Chicago, 1 (800) 972-7000 from the suburbs.

Medieval Times receives magazine award

Medieval Times Dinner & Tournament, in Schaumburg, has received North Shore magazine's award for Best Food and Entertainment.

North Shore readers praised the dinner/tournament complex in the magazine's annual dining survey, giving it high ratings in the combination food and entertainment category.

Since its opening in June 1991, Medieval Times has entertained some 400,000 patrons. Modeled after an eleventh century Spanish castle, this unique entertainment concept features valiant knights on horseback competing in tournament games, jousting matches and sword fights.

The festivities take place in an indoor, climate-controlled arena, surrounded by more than 1,400 spectators, who are served a four-course, medieval-style banquet sans silverware.

The Schaumburg castle is the fourth Medieval Times operating in the United States. Other castles are located in Kissimmee, Fla., Buena Park, Calif., and Lyndhurst, N.J.

Medieval Times Dinner & Tournament is located at the intersection of the Northwest Tollway and Roselle Rd. For further information or reservations, call (708) 843-3900.

Niles Girl Scouts celebrate 80th birthday

On March 12, Niles Girl Scouts gathered together in ceremony and song at the Niles Trident Center to celebrate the 80th anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States.

From the vision of one woman in 1912, Juliette Gordon Low, the Girl Scout movement has expanded to touch the lives of millions of girls, women, and men across the nation. Through its informal education program, Girl Scouting provides opportunities for partnerships between girls and adults. As girls widen their horizons and explore their world, they gain knowledge and skills, confidence and self-reliance that will carry them forward to a productive adulthood.

While girls are the clear beneficiaries of Girl Scout programs, adults, too reap many rewards. By working within the Girl Scout organization and the community, they gain unparalleled opportunities for leadership and growth. As the backbone of the organization, this vast corps of Girl Scout volunteers can take credit for building the vital movement known today. Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council welcomes new girls and new adult volunteers...Call 640-0500!

Girl Scouts tour Lutheran General

Junior Girl Scouts from Stevenson School extend their thanks to the staff of Lutheran General Hospital. While working on their First Aid Badge, the Scouts toured the Ambulatory Operating Room at Lutheran General Hospital. The tour was both a fun and educational experience.

Six of the Scouts from Troop 465 have completed a project for the Pediatrics section of the hospital. They each have constructed a packet containing a homemade Get Well card, an activity (such as a crossword puzzle) and a tiny table complete with felt figures. These packets will be given to Ms. Hutchins, the head of public relations at the hospital, in hopes that they will make the children happier and inspire them to get well soon.

The Junior Girl Scouts at Stevenson School are under the leadership of Judy Besterfeldt, Pauline Campbell, Jeanne Renta, Dan Suttin and Randy Johnson.

National Employee Health and Fitness Day

It's back...and this time it might grab your employees! No we're not talking about the blob, we're talking about National Employee Health and Fitness Day. This year more people than ever are expected to participate in the biggest one day health and fitness event ever.

On May 13 American workers will have a chance to take part in something as simple as a 15 minute walk or to check something as important as their blood pressure. Here at the Leaning Tower YMCA you will be able to join us for a day filled with fitness activities and fun. We have a variety of different activities planned geared to you, the employee. The days activities will include: 1 mile fun walk, noon aerobics class, 1 mile poker walk, plus blood pressure screening and body composition testing. All participants will receive ribbons, and will be entered into a raffle for t-shirts and water bottles! All local companies and their employees are invited to join us on the biggest health and fitness day of the year. So give yourself and your employees the best break of their lives, and join us on May 13. This could be the start of a lifetime commitment to health and fitness! For more information please contact, Leaning Tower YMCA at 6300 W. Touhy Ave., Niles, or call (708) 647-8222.

The group will be entertained by the Field School Chorus, a group of 5th and 6th graders, directed by Ms. Kooi. There will be refreshments and a cash raffle. To make a reservation, please call (708) 823-0453.

The Center of Concern has offices in Suite 223 at 1580 N. Northwest Highway, Park Ridge, and offers many services which are available to all regardless of age, race, or financial status. Award setting Candy Day drive

On March 27 & 28, Niles West students, parents and friends banded together for a common cause...the Student/Athlete Humanitarian Award Program in support of Misericordia Homes Candy Days. It served to allow each school's citizenry a great opportunity to demonstrate its values, something which is rarely visible in the regular school classroom.

Owing to the caring attitude of the Niles West community, especially the Lincolnwood Fire Dept. and the NW girls softball team, a new record amount was set for Lincolnwood, $5,650. A total of $850,385 was raised for the entire drive by all the thousands of volunteers of the Chicago area. It was the largest amount ever of any of Misericordia's Candy Day drives.

The students and friends of Niles West served 240 total hours over the two days of the drive.

ident in charge of real estate.

Customers pay a fixed price in advance, find their places, thereby proceeding to buffet tables, thereby eliminating cafeteria-style lines, Wenck explained. No alcohol is served. Normal business hours will be from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., with slightly longer hours in the summer. When breakfast is served on weekends, Old Country Buffet will open at 8 a.m. Lunches are typically priced at $4.99; dinners about $6.79, excluding sales tax, and the menu varies daily, Wenck noted.

The parent company, Buffets, Inc., is eight years old, has 118 units in 19 states, including 12 in the Chicago metropolitan area. The unit closest to Niles is now open in Lincoln Village.

Library administrator attends conference

Donald E. Wright, administrator of the Niles Public Library District, was among 130 delegates elected from states and territories who attended the 1992 annual meeting of the White House Conference on Library and Information Services Taskforce (WHCLIST) in Arlington, Virginia, from April 4-6.

Wright was elected by the Taskforce to serve as a member of a Transition Team, which planned this conference, the first for a new Taskforce elected at the August, 1991 White House Conference on Libraries. He has served as the Illinois professional delegate since the first conference in 1979.

The annual meeting, with the theme "Charting the Course," provided opportunities for group discussion of progress on implementation of the 95 recommendations forwarded to President Bush from last fall's conference.

Wright presided at the Awards dinner where presentations he made included Rep. Newt Gingrich (R-Georgia) and Charles E. Reid, the immediate past chairman of the National Commission on Libraries and Information Services.

WHCLIST was established at the 1979 White House Conference on Libraries. It is a strong network of individual, corporate, governmental and organizational members charged with attaining the resolutions proposed by conference delegates. It has been the driving force in monitoring the recommendations of the first conference and played a vital role in last fall's conference.

Medical research supports chiropractic

by Dr. Robert L. Richart

Scientific studies performed by medical sources comparing chiropractic care against medical and physical therapy, non-surgical care of the back and neck show that chiropractic procedures relieve chronic and severe pain, both immediate and long-term, in half the time it takes medical physicians.

The results of the British Medical Research Council's ten-year study comparing chiropractic and hospital outpatient management of patients with acute and chronic pain were reported in the British Medical Journal on June 2, 1990. The study indicated that chiropractic treatment was more effective than hospital outpatient management, mainly for patients with chronic or severe back pain.

This study supports work done at the University Hospital in Saskatoon, Canada, by Dr. William Kirkaldy-Willis, an orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. J. David Cassidy, a chiropractor. In 1985, they reported that 90 percent of all totally disabled, chronic low-back patients seen at their hospital clinic were found, upon chiropractic examination, to have spinal joint dysfunction. Spinal joint dysfunction is the condition that is treated by chiropractors and is defined as impaired or altered function of the skeletal, joint and muscle structures of the body, and their related blood, lymphatic and neural elements.

Their study found that approximately 90 percent of these patients were returned to full function with no restrictions for work or other activities following a two to three-week regimen of chiropractic manipulation together with instruction at back school.

A report published by the Department of Medicine, University of Texas Health Science Center, showed that as many patients with back pain now choose to go to chiropractors as go to orthopedic surgeons.

Another study showed that when compared with care provided by family physicians, back pain patients reported being "very satisfied" three times as often (66 percent vs. 22 percent) after chiropractic care.

If you have questions about these studies or would like to know more about research concerning chiropractic treatment, please call the Richart Chiropractic Clinic at (708) 827-8686.

asthma program at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the Sister Anne Room on Wednesday, May 13, and a fitness lecture at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the Dr. Mammoser Room on Wednesday, May 13. Tours also will be available to the public during hospital week by appointment only. Call (312) 792-5262.

"Throughout the year, we offer inpatient and community education programs designed to promote the health of community residents."

lem, techniques for managing the problem and the importance of attitude. "If people understand the disease, they can do something about it," says Mason. "It is not a lost cause."

The program is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by Holy Family Hospital's Substance Abuse Program, "Keys to Recovery." Educational materials will be available.

The giant rising from the Bunker Hill dust will feature two-bedroom condominiums ranging in price from $115,900 to $179,000. May 4, one of the condo developers said they had received 300 inquiries about the project and had 60 reservations for the 60 units. Contracts are yet to be signed.

Condo dwellers will have units 1,358 sq. ft. in size, indoor parking and storage lockers. Amenities include a sauna room with showers, bocci ball courts, a horseshoe pit, barbeque area and a river path. na. The collaborative meetings were held from September, 1991, through January, 1992, under the supervision of Dr. Elaine M. Schuster, Archdiocesan Superintendent of Schools, and with the endorsement of Joseph Cardinal Bernardin, Archbishop of Chicago.

"We have total respect for the wishes of those who recently sent signed petitions to Joseph Cardinal Bernardin asking that Loyola Academy remain an all boys school," Father Callahan continued. "Excellent, single-gender education will remain at Notre Dame and Regina."

"But we also believe that our decision to affiliate with Marillac will make Catholic secondary education even better in this area. After more than a year and one-half of investigation, our research showed that if Loyola Academy was to continue to fulfill its mission of developing society's future leaders in service, it was our responsibility, and opportunity, to become coeducational. Tomorrow's leaders will be both men and women," he said.

"We truly believe that by affiliating with Marillac, we can take the best of single-gender and co-ed instruction and merge them together to create a model for a superior educational system." In addition to the philosophical reasons, Loyola Academy also faces other pressures.

"Our research also showed that Loyola Academy is facing economic, demographic and societal pressures that could cause enrollment to decline and make it impossible for us to deliver Loyola's excellent educational experience in the future," Father Callahan said.

"Some students learn best in a single-gender environment, others thrive with coeducation. We fully recognize and respect that fact."

"By our decision to become coeducational, the north suburbs, for the first time, will have every viable option to choose from in providing a Catholic education for their sons and daughters. Instead of taking something away, we have added another option from which parents and students can choose."

Dorothy is very active in her church on Chicago's southwest side. Last month we helped her celebrate her 60th birthday at the church.

Tuesday, we asked Dorothy about her feelings about last week's turmoil in Los Angeles. She told us she spoke to her sister on Saturday. She lives in the heart of the area that was torched. The sister said she went into church at 8 p.m. Wednesday and it was peaceful in the area. When she left the church two hours later the whole area was on fire. She got in her car and drove to Riverside where she stayed with one of her children.

Dorothy is a soft-spoken lady who was horrified about the past week. And while she didn't condone any type of violence she said the burning of so many Korean businesses was partly due to the rage that's felt in the black community.

Back in 1979 Dorothy was approved for a loan to improve her property on North Avenue. But when the new administration came in she said all the federally-sponsored loans dried up in the black community. Meanwhile, she said these new Americans were able to get money for their businesses. And they put them in the black communities where they profited from the blacks.

Mild-mannered Dorothy said this loan disparity was "unfair." That was the harshest word she used in talking to me about last week.

Most Americans who heard about the Rodney King trial decision agree the jury's decision was "unfair."

The people who torched and rioted were criminals. No thoughtful person condones the madness which burned down so much of the Los Angeles black community. But there is an underlying "unfairness" to America's society which has to be addressed. Having two Americas, one black and one white, just doesn't work.

Not since the Democrats passed the 1964 Civil Rights bill has white America cast more votes for a Democratic president than a Republican one. It's a fact of life. The Democratic Party, which is the majority party in the United States, no longer has the white vote required to win presidential elections.

Until all of us address the feelings we have about blacks, nothing will be accomplished.

Saturday we attended a Bar Mitzvah of a great-nephew in a synagogue in Bellwood. When the Rabbi gave a short sermon he lashed out at the black violence in L.A.

When we went to the black church on the southside we were equally disappointed by the lack of leadership which came from the pulpit there. There was the endless repetitive religious message which was stocated in rhythm over and over again. There was nothing carried away from that church that was encouraging.

The leadership from government is sadly lacking. And the leadership from America's religious institutions is even worse. Dorothy told me they prayed in her church this weekend for peace. The Rabbi told me he's never once addressed a black issue. And Billy Graham, in Monday's USA Today newspaper, said this is a time for prayer.

This is a time for all of us to take stock of how we feel. If we feel fear when we drive through a black community or when a black man is walking down the street we should admit it and find out why we feel as we do. And if our feelings for blacks are only from fear we should decide how to combat them.

And if our feelings for blacks are irrational we better begin to change them. Because what we have here in America can go down the tube if we continue to hate. They burned 25 years ago. And they burned last week. What about the next time?

Historians have warned our greatest enemy may well be from within our country, not from the outside. The Roman Empire was destroyed from within. The glory of Renaissance Europe burned out after World War I. And futurists have noted the golden age of the middle east and Rome began heading west, first stopping in Europe, then in England and now the United States. Many believe the next century may see its golden age in the far east.

We have some choices to make in our country. Eliminating hatred better be at the top of our list. It has already eaten away at the inner corps of our cities. It's a disease which can destroy all of us. And unfortunately, it's self-inflicted.

two years. The village is also writing to insurance companies, asking that Niles be treated as a suburban zip code because of its new number, Selman said. "We are hopeful rates will be adjusted accordingly," he added.

The action is in response to complaints. Nilesites were charged higher health and auto insurance premiums because of the former association with a Chicago zip code. The Postal services' Mruk said suburbs with numerical zip prefixes from 600-603 were considered the north suburban division and their mail is processed in Palatine and Carol Stream.

Mruk urged Niles residents to inform their correspondents of the new zip code by July 1 in order to smooth the transition to the new zip code, but stressed it is not a panic deadline and mail addressed to the old zip code will continue to be forwarded to the new one for a year.

The old zip of 60648 will not just disappear July 1, but will be held in abeyance in case the need for the number arises elsewhere in the future, Mruk said. Niles neighbors in Chicago's Edison Park area who share the current 60648 zip code will be transferred to the Norwood Park station with the 60631 zip, Mruk explained.

The search for an individual zip code began when postage was six cents, said village Trustee Bart Murphy. At one village meeting Murphy wondered aloud if finding a unique zip code was an impossible dream.

er Roger Bernal's suggestions, the Board specified the interior of the garage near the addition be fireproofed, subject to village rules. A resident of 8453 Bruce Drive gained board approval for a variation on the required five-foot side yard to about 3'4" in order to add a family room to the side of his house. His neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, had no objection to the move.

Another petitioner, a Mr. Radic, asked for a B-2 special use classification to construct an auto repair shop at 7420 Milwaukee Avenue. His lawyer, Jeffrey Lerner emphasized only minor repairs would be made there, no body work. No hazardous materials will be held on site. Flat tires will be repaired, but no tires will be stored, since they will be kept in a similar store Radic owns in Skokie. A forced air system will exhaust the work area in the winter.

Commissioners questioned the wisdom of opening another auto repair store when there are already five in the area. Commissioner Mitchell said "I'm not going to let it happen on my side...Niles will be re-named Chicago...it's not written in stone (this) has to be condos, a lot of different things can be built here."

John Peterson, office property owner at 7042 Milwaukee Avenue, ended the debate, insisting "If you build (this) in Grennan Heights, it's dense, but there, the old people's home, the college, a closing motel and a dining restaurant, the building on the corner is old...take the property for what can go in there. It's supposedly the downtown of Niles. It will be easier for me to get tenants."

Attorney Paul Kolpak, representing the Corporation, asked "Do we increase prices or take away from the amenity package?...When you drive down Milwaukee, it looks nice, (you don't ask) how many units are there?" The debate ended with all commissioners except Mitchell voting for approval. Tied to the confirmation are requirements the developers provide security around a planned water retention pond, install sidewalks around the project and try to buy a section of easement near Milwaukee Avenue from the Illinois Department of Transportation. Commissioner James Callero later summed up his opinion, saying "It will get rid of a horrible eyesore."

In other action, the commissioners approved a request by homeowners at 7039 Keeney Street for a one-foot variation in the required 10 ft. separation between a planned home addition and the garage. At Commission-that Lippert's membership in the Maine Township Democrats was a major factor in his dismissal by Park Board members carrying on a long-time feud with Niles Mayor (and Democratic Committeeman) Nicholas Blase.

The number two administrator at the Park District, Superintendent of Recreation Nancy Boland, was terminated by the Niles Park Board on Thursday, April 23.

Boland's position may have become untenable since she was hired by ousted director Lippert to replace long-time employee Debbie Nelson, who maintained a loyal following on the board. Interim Park Director Tracy Taylor said on Tuesday, "Nancy Boland is no longer an employee of the Park District and we are advertising for a new Superintendent of Recreation with a May 20th application deadline."

Ironically, the Niles Park Board publicly praised Boland and her staff on April 14th for activities planned around the Easter holiday. In mid-December Shelley Spilman, Recreation Program Supervisor, resigned prior to the departure of Lippert, who had hired Spilman for her job. Observers commented that Spilman knew her job was in jeopardy since the Park Board was terminating Lippert.

Executive Secretary Rose Hillstrom left the Park District last fall because of ill-health. Her full-time position was filled by a part-time secretary who has since quit the job. According to Taylor a May 15th deadline has been set for applications for this position.

The departure of Assistant Business Manager Jay Jedniak resulted in the position being filled by an employee from a temporary employment service.

While Tracy Taylor and her staff are maintaining day-to-day operations, observers believe a huge back-log will face new administrators.

lates to five or six million gallons a day during summer months, and in very hot weather, the amount has been known to reach eight million gallons a day, Noriega said.

Police and village personnel will be on the alert for sprinkling ordinance violations. At the first infraction, a resident will be warned, and the address will be logged on a station computer. Niles Police Sgt. Dean Strzelecki said. For a second violation, a "P" ticket will be issued, carrying a fine of $10. If there is a third violation, a City Complaint ticket will be given and a judge will decide on the appropriate fine, which could be up to $500.

"We are not out to harass, just educate," Strzelecki said.

LEARN ABOUT DENTAL IMPLANTS!

A dental implant is a non-removable replacement for a missing tooth, or multiple missing teeth. Implants are the modern alternative to dentures. They feel solid and secure like your natural teeth.

Would you like to know more about dental implants? Call Doctor Gregory Page & Associates for a consultation or visit our office and attend an educational seminar entitled "The Benefits of Dental Implants." There is a slide presentation and open house every month. Our doctors and staff are available to answer all of your questions about dental implants. For more information, call us at

Your dental health is important to us at Doctor Gregory Page & Associates. We are beginning our 6th year of service to the Chicago community this November, and we are anxious to make you a part of our success.

Prevention is the key to healthy teeth and good oral hygiene. Doctor Page and the American Dental Association recommend a cleaning and check-up at least every six months. Come and visit us for your next cleaning.

Are you maintaining proper oral hygiene at home? Be sure to brush at least twice a day, and to floss regularly. Floss removes much plaque and the teeth at the gum line and between that is most likely to lead to decay and periodontal disease. Daily flossing will keep plaque from building up in these hard to reach areas.

Don't gamble when it comes to your teeth!!!
