Town Board

We want to express our gratitude to the Rev. Michael Smith for his dedication to the community. He has been a valuable asset to the town and we are grateful for his service.

ONCE AGAIN, we see the Maine West parents complaining about their taxes. They claim that the township is spending too much money. However, we believe that the township is spending its money wisely and is providing necessary services for the community.

The town board has a responsibility to maintain essential services for the community. They have a duty to provide for the safety and well-being of the residents. We believe that the town board is doing an excellent job.

A Tradition Continues...

Colonial-Wojciechowski
Opens Newest Funeral Home In Niles

A Tradition Continues

After three years of planning, design and construction, the Colonial-Wojciechowski Funeral Home of Niles is ready to serve the needs of families in Chicago's North and Northwest suburbs. The soaring roofline of the new Niles location has already become a landmark on Golf Road.

The new Colonial-Wojciechowski Funeral Home of Niles is a modern interpretation of a classical Colonial-era public building. The one-level handicapped-accessible structure at 8025 West Golf Road greets visitors with full-length pane glass doors and a warm walnut interior.

"I wanted the Niles location to have the feeling of an elegant home," said Joe D. Wojciechowski, president of Colonial-Wojciechowski Funeral Homes.

Construction Planning

To get the building the way he wanted it, Joe and Colonial vice president Mark J. Wojciechowski hired Tim Wisniewski's New Front Construction as general contractor. While the Park Ridge firm handled the framing and exterior, the offices and four special chapels were left to interior design consultant Katherine Oden, ASID, and the E.J. Self Furniture Company of Arlington Heights.

Interior Design

Highlights of the tasteful and traditional interior include custom-designed, laser-cut, inlaid carpeting; a black-and-white marble fireplace with a warm wood mantle and special brass chandeliers crafted to match the chandelier hanging at the Wojciechowski Colonial Funeral Home in Chicago. The refined furnishings also lend themselves to versatility according to decorator Arthur Self, Sr., "I wanted everything to look as good 20 years from now as it does today," he said.

Landscaping

Great care has also been exercised in the landscaping of the Colonial-Wojciechowski Funeral Home of Niles. John Kawalkowski of Kawal Landscaping used evergreens and more than ten thousand plants to blend the building and its ample parking lot into the neighborhood next to St. Isaac Jogues Catholic Church. "Being a good neighbor is important," said D. Wojciechowski. "The parish and the city have been good to us and we want to be good neighbors to them.

Family-Owned Business History

The Colonial-Wojciechowski Funeral Home of Niles is the latest venture for this family-owned business founded by Joseph A. Wojciechowski, Sr. and his brother John more than 80 years ago in a Chicago neighborhood storefront. Later, the business grew to a building of its own on Weber Avenue.

In 1961, Joe A. Wojciechowski, Jr. expanded the business to Chicago's Northwest side with the construction of the Colonial Funeral Home at 6250 N. Milwaukee Avenue, continuing his family's tradition of caring and personal service. Now that mantle has been passed to his sons Joseph D. and Mark J. Wojciechowski.

The tradition will continue May 31st, when the entire Wojciechowski family will join with funeral directors Edward J. Madura and Mark A. Rizzo and assistant Gene Machynia for a grand opening of the new Niles location. "I know our parents would be proud of what we've done here in Niles," the Wojciechowski brothers said. "We hope our neighbors will be proud of us too.
