Voters to decide fate of Niles Parks

Niles officials poised to take over Niles Parks

If the November 3 referendum to dissolve the Niles Park District passes, village officials will be at Niles Park offices the following morning to begin the transition from Niles Park District to Village of Niles ownership.

Outlining village efforts to assume governing the parks, Niles Village Manager Abe Selman said Tuesday that village finance director George Van Geem will immediately meet with park officials on Wednesday, November 4.

Selman said the issues of transferring property titles, new bank accounts and transferring payroll information will be done quickly. Selman additionally said Niles would assume park programs go on as scheduled.

Selman noted, however, that Niles cannot assume control of the Niles Park District until the election has been officially certified by Cook County Clerk David Orr. Selman said this could take up to two weeks after the election.

Absentee ballot available at Maine town hall

Maine Township Clerk Stephen J. Stolton is reminding voters that absentee ballot applications for the November 3 General Election are available at the Maine Township Town Hall, 1700 Ballard Rd., Park Ridge.

The Clerk's Office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Parents whose children are away at college and residents who plan to be out of Cook County on Election Day are urged to obtain absentee ballot applications. Applications can be mailed to registered voters who are unable to obtain them in person.

The fate of the Niles Park District will be decided by voters on Tuesday.

Municipalities and park districts from throughout Illinois will be watching to see if area residents approve a referendum to dissolve the park district and have its facilities and programs run by the village of Niles.

Citizens For A Better Niles, a group spearheading the move to dissolve the parks, will be campaigning door-to-door as well as using the mail during the final days before the election.

Friends of the Niles Parks, working to oppose the referendum, will be trying to convince residents to vote against the referendum.

To try and maintain a high profile, the Niles Park District, though outlawed from spending public funds to oppose the referendum, has sent out a Needs Assessment Survey to 2,500 residents as well as 10,000 copies of a first-time newsletter.

Supporters of the referendum to dissolve the parks include current Parks Commissioner Bud Skaja as well as long-time former commissioners Dan Kosiba and Walt Beusse.

Voters go to polls Tuesday

Voters are expected to go to the polls in large numbers Nov. 3. A reported surge in voter registration is being sparked by a volatile presidential contest, legislative re-mapping and referenda on wide-spread topics. Tapping into the public interest, candidates of major political parties are taking positive stands on the economy, taxes, education, abortion and health care costs. Among the legislative posts contested are:

BUGLE EDITORIAL

Vote for financial stability Vote to end property tax hikes Vote to dissolve the Niles Parks

The Bugle, Niles' only newspaper, urges voters to cast their ballot on Tuesday, November 3 in favor of the proposition to dissolve the Niles Park District.

It should be recalled that The Bugle Newspapers, since 1957, have supported most Niles Park bond referendums and were a primary booster for bringing a progressive park system to Niles. The Bugle Newspapers have spent much time and money to report and print thousands of pages of Niles Park news over the past 35 years.

With this in mind, The Bugle Newspapers have agreed with many residents who see the Niles Park District as a cash-poor island sitting in the midst of a sales tax-wealthy village.

The Niles Park District has reached its maximum level of taxing residents within its district. During a recent interview, Park Board member Bud Skaja said he did not believe the parks could afford any additional large expenditures. Also, as noted last week in a column in The Bugle, written by Dan Kosiba, an 11-year veteran of the Niles Park Board, ninety percent of the village's revenue comes from sales tax, of which 75 percent of this figure is paid by non-residents.

An equally important reason for dissolving the Niles Park District is to allow it to be supervised by a Park Director who must report only to Niles' Village Manager.

Above all else, this would end the practice of having a multi-million dollar park operation run by a top administrator who has a recreation, rather than financial, background.

Of significance, also, is the fact that Niles will be leading the way in consolidating separate governing bodies under the auspices of the village. Knowledgeable observers believe most, if not all, similarly cash-strapped park and library bodies throughout Illinois will be absorbed by their villages in the years ahead.

Those opposed to dissolving the park district have warned that the village will not give parks and recreation the same priority it now has; that it will become a haven for increased patronage by Niles' strong Democratic machine and that those Niles residents living outside the borders of the park district will be taxed twice: once for their own parks and once for the Niles Parks.

Patronage will be nothing new for the parks since it has always existed for friends and relatives of board members.

As for fears the village will close facilities or place less emphasis on park programming, residents only need to look at the village's record. There is no Chicago-area community which has more extensive "people-programs" than Niles. Its free-bus system, comprehensive senior programs, family services staffed by professionals, and youth programs speak for a progressive, and well-financed village administration.

Finally, for months village officials have said any Niles resident who is temporarily "double-taxed" will receive a rebate. It would be natural for a re-drawing of park boundaries to follow in the near future.

The Bugle Newspapers looks forward to the Village of Niles providing professional administration and financial stability for its parks for the many years to come.

Blase on referendum: no parks will be closed, taxes will be lowered

Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase responded to the following questions on Friday, October 23.

Nicholas Blase

Q-What are your thoughts regarding the referendum question to dissolve the Niles Parks and turn over all operations to the village?

A- I was hoping that Park supporters would present a positive approach and programs to our Niles residents. But, unfortunately, they have conducted a negative campaign attempting to scare Niles residents by inferring that Park property would be sold and programs cut or eliminated if the Village took over. These statements are totally untrue and make you wonder why Park supporters would use such tactics -- unless, of course, they had nothing positive to say about our present Park system.

Q-If the village of Niles takes over the Niles Park District, what changes will be instituted?

A- Niles will be able to expand Park and Recreation Programs because of outside revenues available to the Village, but not available to the Park District. This will allow us to establish a "first rate" Recreation Department equal to and better than our neighboring communities.

Q-Will park facilities be closed?

A- No recreation facilities will be closed. Part of our program to lower the property tax will be the elimination of maintenance equipment which the Park District has and which are duplicates of Village owned equipment.

Q-Will any park employees be fired?

A- No--Unless they are not doing their job.

Q-Will any park programs be eliminated?

A- No -- We will try to strengthen our Recreation Programs--not weaken them. Younger families moving into our community look for strong Education and Recreation programs.

Q-What advantages will there be for residents if Niles runs the parks?

The Village of Niles Government is financed primarily by sales tax revenues. Ninety percent of these revenues come from people outside of Niles. Therefore, since the Park District is financed primarily through your property taxes, we will be able to lessen your property tax load by using sales tax revenues for recreation operations.

Q-What kind of board will set park policy?

A- There will be an appointed Board of Niles residents to set Recreation Policy.

Q-How will residents be able to attend board meetings and present their views to this board?

A- The appointed Board will have regular open meetings where anyone may address the Board. Residents will also be able to address the Niles Village Board if unsatisfied with the Recreation Board's decisions.

Current and former commissioners cite need for better management

Skaja, Beusse, Kosiba support park take-over by village

Niles Park District Commissioner Bud Skaja, along with former commissioners Walt Beusse and Dan Kosiba, this week endorsed the November referendum to dissolve the Niles Park District.

The move is seen as a watershed development in swaying local voters to support the take-over of the park district by the Village of Niles.

Skaja has spent four years on the board. Beusse served as commissioner for 18 years and Kosiba for 11 years.

Commenting on Tuesday Beusse said, "It's mindboggling how much money the Park District is spending. These improvements could have been extended over a longer period of time serving the same purpose of improving the park district and not being so over-taxed in such a short period of time." He added, "They're not trying to improve the park district, they're only trying to improve their image. Not letting people talk at meetings is deplorable. If I was there all of this wouldn't have happened."

In an interview with The Bugle on Monday, Skaja said, "I'm in support of the referendum one hundred percent...I feel this is best for the people of Niles."

Skaja noted that many people programs now run for Niles residents as evidence of the priority the village will have in running park programs.

Kosiba said in a column written for this week's Bugle, "The Niles Park District will have to raise your taxes to make major improvements and land acquisition to better your park system. The Village of Niles, because of sales tax revenues, will not need to raise taxes to give you quality recreation."

Walt Beusse

"It's mindboggling how much money the Park District is spending. They're not trying to improve the park district, they're only trying to improve their image."

Besides tax issues, Kosiba also said there would be a money savings if Niles takes over the park system. Kosiba also favors the checks and balances over an appointed board, rather than the decision-making process when a simple three-fifths majority is needed, as on the current park board.

Lastly, Kosiba said the current park administrator needs to be free from the interference of an elected board in the day to day operation of the parks.

Only in a system where the park director answers to a village manager can this occur, said Kosiba.

State limit on taxes keeps Niles Parks cash-strapped

The cash-strapped Niles Park District faces an increasingly uncertain future following revelations that no additional increases can be made in their tax rates.

A review of Niles Park District tax-supported funding reveals the inability of the Park District to raise additional monies through property taxes because of Illinois legislative tax limitation.

The irony in tax-rich Niles is that its Park District would be unable to pay for major expenditures at park facilities if an emergency arose.

For example, the Niles Park District Corporate Fund is now being taxed at a rate of .0979 per $100 of assessed valuation. The statutory limit is .10. The Park Recreation Fund is taxed at .0734 with a statutory maximum of .075.

"Due to these severe funding problems the Niles Park District is faced with either cutting back programs, personnel, or increasing the cost of current programs."

Responding to this cash crisis the Park Board sought in 1992, for the first time, to have the all-volunteer Niles Baseball League pay a $1,500 fee for use of Niles Park District baseball fields.

This controversial proposal was later withdrawn by the board following complaints by the Niles Baseball League board.

In another cost-cutting move, the Niles Park District announced the possibility of closing the Ballard Ice Rink this past spring due to the projected costs of repairs and maintenance. An angry crowd of 100 parents protested this move at board meetings.

Both the proposed baseball fees and ice rink closing were the result of the Niles Park District's limitation in tax increases.

Proponents of the Village of Niles absorbing the Park District note that the Park District's myriad financial problems would be ended following a take-over since the village has numerous ways to raise funds.

239-question park survey to cost $12 per house

Sharpen your pencils and get out your stop watch as residents prepare to fill out the Niles Parks' Needs Assessment survey being mailed on October 29.

The survey, which the Niles Park District is paying $30,000 to conduct, contains 239 questions on subjects as wide ranging as how residents use their parks, to what grade school they finished to what the income of residents is.

The survey will be mailed using first class mail.....rather than the greatly reduced non-profit rate available to the Park District.

Park officials, in statements released Monday, said the survey is "easy to complete and should only take a few minutes to fill out."

In another prepared statement the Niles Park District said, "The survey questions...take less than 20 minutes to answer confidentially..."

If the park district is to be taken at their word, residents will have to complete one question every 5 seconds to complete the form within 20 minutes.

The survey will be distributed to 2,500 residents as well as children at three area junior high schools.

Niles Park Dist. legal challenge to continue

The October 22, 1992 Bugle incorrectly published a story stating the Niles Park District has ended its legal challenge to the November 3 referendum.

Park officials indicate the challenge will continue and a November 10 hearing has been scheduled for oral arguments.

Niles Park to pay $23,000 to block November referendum

Niles Park attorneys' legal fees to contest the upcoming referendum on the dissolution of the Niles Park District have cost taxpayers an estimated $23,000, according to informed park sources.

Attorneys representing the Niles Park District in attempting to block the referendum are Park attorney Gabriel Berrafato and private attorney Michael LaVelle.

On August 31, courts ruled valid the petitions submitted by citizens' groups for the dissolution of the Niles Park District and ordered the referendum be placed on the November 3 ballot.

Currently the Niles Park District has appealed to both the Illinois Appellate and Supreme Courts.

The Niles Park District is now operating without key management employees following firings and resignations over the past five months.

The Niles Park District currently has no Park Director, no Recreation Program Supervisor, no Executive Secretary and an assistant business manager brought in from a temporary employment agency.

Despite retaining a search firm at a fee of $10,000, the Niles Park Board has been unable to replace former Director Tom Lippert.

The number two administrator at the Park District, Superintendent of Recreation Nancy Poland, was terminated by the Niles Park Board on Thursday, April 23.

Board of Health closes park pools

Was it a remarkable coincidence or gross inefficiency that caused both Niles Park District pools to be closed down last week?

In what Park officials call a case of remarkable coincidences, the Cook County Department of Public Health temporarily closed both Niles swimming pools on Wednesday, August 5 because both pools' chlorinators were being momentarily serviced, according to Niles Park officials.

Officials at the Department of Public Health said the Milwaukee Avenue swimming pool, as well as the pool at the Ballard Sports Complex, were immediately closed due to "chemical imbalances." In both cases, the minimum required chlorine level had not been maintained.

Department of Public Health officials said on Tuesday that over 850 swimming pools are inspected annually in Cook County. Normally some 20 pools per year are temporarily closed because of inadequate chlorine

Referendum vote: It all comes down to money

At the end of the ballot in next Tuesday's election, Nilesites will decide whether or not they want the Village of Niles to take over the running of Niles Park District.

There is only one issue in next Tuesday's Niles referendum for the village to take over the park district: Will the takeover result in substantial money savings for Niles residents? We believe it will.

The village of Niles, unlike its neighbors, is sales tax rich. This revenue can only be used by the village. Today, the village receives about $7 million sales tax money annually to be used for village purposes.

The other districts in the community, the park, library and school districts, must rely solely on property taxes for their revenue. If there is a shortage of funds in any of these districts they must borrow (buy bonds) but cannot use the sales tax money the village has.

Niles is unique. Its top-heavy sales tax revenue has enabled it to effectively create a free bus service and extensive family services which surrounding communities do not have. These Niles sales tax moneys are created by the extensive shopping in the village.

"The one and only issue in next Tuesday's park referendum is what will save taxpayers the most money."

The Niles Park District has purchased $2.8 million of bonds (borrowing) which are to be used to upgrade the ice rink and to improve other park facilities. It is intended the revenue from the ice rink will pay for the bonds. Unfortunately, the rink has a history of running at a deficit. If after the improvement, the deficit continues, Niles park residents will pay increased taxes to cover the bonds used for the rink improvement.

If the village of Niles took over the parks the tax could be avoided. It could use the sales tax moneys for the park facilities, saving taxpayers an unnecessary increased burden.

This is the sole issue in the referendum. There is nothing personal in The Bugle's support for this issue. There are well-meaning people on both sides of the issue whom we respect. We have long been staunch supporters of former park board members Jack Leske and Keith Peck who oppose this issue. We have also supported present board President Carol Panek in her village and park election candidacies, who is also in opposition to the takeover. Present and past board members Walt Beusse, Danny Kosiba and Buddy Skaja are in favor of the village takeover. We have also been allied with them in many past park actions through the years.

But the one and only issue in next Tuesday's park referendum is what will save Niles taxpayers the most money. With the added use of village sales tax money for its parks, we believe Nilesites will derive the greatest savings.

Park tactic: scare the voters

Scaring Niles voters using two non-existent issues will be among the campaign tactics of the Niles Park District during the upcoming November referendum to decide whether to dissolve the park district.

In a press release issued Friday the Niles Park District said it would fight the referendum claiming it would result in double taxation to some area residents and that, if the referendum passes, the Village of Niles will "liquidate" all park programs and facilities.

While it is true that temporarily some Niles residents currently residing inside the boundary of other park districts would be taxed for park upkeep, it is also true they would receive a rebate check for that amount from Niles. This has been repeatedly stated as if nothing ever happened.

Taxpayers charged $2.9 million to fix sinking Park District

Over $2.9 million in tax money has or will be spent by the Niles Park District in efforts to shore up its sagging image and fight the November referendum to have the district dissolved.

The tax-dollar cash register began ringing when taxpayers paid an additional $16,000 for the Parks to replace former director Tom Lippert who was terminated December 31, 1991. Following his firing the Parks spent $10,000 on a search firm to interview prospects and wound up paying a new director, Tim Royster, $60,000 per year; a $6,000 increase over Lippert's salary.

After announcing they would close the ice rink, the Niles Park District spent $20,000 to study options for the repair of the ice rink.

In August a public relations person was hired to send out the park district's message prior to the November referendum. The cost to tax payers for this new position is $14,000 yearly.

In an attempt to block the November referendum, the Niles Park District hired outside attorney Michael LaVelle, as well as Park Attorney Gabriel Berrafato, to unsuccessfully seek its removal from the ballot. The failed legal efforts have cost taxpayers $23,000.

A Needs Assessment Survey performed by a Champaign, IL consulting firm, to be sent out October 29, will cost $30,000. The 239-question survey will be sent to 2500 homes, bringing its cost to $12 per household receiving the survey.

Finally, in a last minute attempt to shore up its treasury, the Niles Park District approved a $2.8 million bond to re-build the Ballard Ice Rink, as well as be used for other improvements.

Kosiba's bottom line: Let Niles run the park district

by Daniel E. Kosiba
Former Niles Park Commissioner for 11 years

On Tuesday, November 3 residents of Niles will go to the voting polls to select the system of government that will control their recreation.

What are the real issues that residents should concern themselves in making this decision?

The issues are economics and stability.

1. Money Revenues: The Niles Park District is at their tax limit. Additional major improvements or land acquisitions will need a bond issue to pay the freight.

The Village, on the other hand, not only has property tax revenue but also has as its main source of revenue, sales tax money. Ninety percent of the village's revenue comes from sales tax and 75 percent of the village's revenue comes from non-residents...other people paying for your recreation.

2. Money Savings: If the Village of Niles takes over, the savings on equipment, electricity and gas alone will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The village does not pay for electricity or gas at non-income producing buildings while the park district does pay. These savings per year after a hot summer of air conditioning or a cold winter where much heat is needed will be astronomical.

3. Taxes: The Niles Park District will have to raise your taxes to make major improvements and land acquisitions to better your park system.

The Village of Niles, because of sales tax revenues, will not need to raise taxes to give you quality recreation.

4. Checks & Balances: The Niles Park District is currently under the control of five elected park commissioners. When these five park commissioners vote on issues of policy, spending taxpayers' monies or land acquisitions, only a majority of 3 votes is needed to pass. For all practical purposes, 3 people control millions of dollars of taxpayers' monies and the future direction of recreation for 30,000 residents.

This is the most glaring fault of the system.

If the Village takes over the park district, there will be a larger appointed board. These people will be appointed because of their knowledge in recreation or related business functions. This board would deal with future direction, budgets, acquisitions and taxation. Their recommendations would be given to the village manager for review and then to the village board of trustees for final approval.

5. Who's The Boss?? Under the current Niles Park District system, the head executive (The Boss) is the Director. This person is a recreation professional, schooled and richly experienced in the field. The director is ultimately responsible for everything that goes right or wrong. This person answers only to the elected board of park commissioners. The director is hired and fired by the board. The director's salary is raised, lowered or frozen by the board. The director's perks and benefits are given or taken away by the board. Basically, the director is in a position where he has to be careful not to anger or alienate board members for any reason, right or wrong!

Under the Village System the appointed recreation board will not have authority over the director or his staff. Therefore, the board cannot be involved in the day-to-day operations of the district. The professional park director is the boss who answers to another professional, the village manager. This system allows the professionals, schooled and experienced in recreation, to do their job with no board interference.

Bottom line: The recreation staff and director will be more productive and the job will get done with happy faces and not fearful faces. The director will not have to be worried about the park commissioners' pet projects or interference.

All facts in; the Bottom line: The Village of Niles is the better system of government to operate Niles recreational needs.

Bottom line: The recreation staff and director will be more productive and the job will get done with happy faces and not fearful faces. The director will not have to be worried about the park commissioners' pet projects or interference.

This is an abbreviated version of a column published in the October 22, 1992 Bugle Newspapers.

Broken pipes cast doubt on future of Ballard Pool

Whether the Niles Park District's Sports Complex pool will be ready for the 1993 swimming season is still unknown. Oct. 13, pool consultants told the Park Board their plans for renovating the over 20 year old pool. One fact was made clear: a complete rehab by May 30 is impossible, but a before and after swimming season construction job might be worked-out to retain the '93-for swimmees.

$2.7 million bond means tax hike: Niles officials

Reprinted, in part, from August 13, 1992

Both Niles mayor and village manager said this week that the proposed $2.8 million dollar Niles Park bond will result in higher property taxes for village residents.

Mayor Nicholas Blase and Village Manager Abe Selman said the hundreds of thousands of dollars in annual payments for the Park District bond could only be paid for by increasing taxes.

"We don't see where revenues are available to support these bonds," said Selman.

"We can't just keep going out and getting more and more bonds. If one more large expense occurred unexpectedly, I don't think we could cover it."

— Bud Skaja III

At issue is a proposal by the Niles Park District to issue $2.8 million general obligation alternate revenue bonds to pay for the rebuilding of the Ballard Sports Complex ice rink and swimming pool.

Niles Park Board members have relied on the advice of bonding consultant Mesuro Financial, Inc., which has provided figures showing sources for financing these bonds which, they claim, will not result in increased taxes.

In recent years consultants for East Maine School District 63 recommended the building of a new junior high school because of projected increased school populations. The school was built in the 1970's and closed down after being open fewer than ten years because of declining enrollment.

At Maine Township School District 207 the same scenario was played out with the opening, and quick closing, of Maine North High School in the 1970's.

"For all practical purposes, three people control millions of dollars of taxpayers' monies and the future direction of recreation for 30,000 residents. That is the most glaring fault of the system."

Niles Parks to pay professor to send out mail, question park employees

$30,000 bill to taxpayers for park survey

Reprinted, in part, from September 24, 1992

The Niles Park District will spend $30,000 for a survey on how to spend taxpayers' money.

In a press release issued on Friday, the Niles Park District said it has contracted with Management Learning Laboratories of Champaign to perform a needs assessment among area residents.

Management Learning Laboratories will be paid $30,200 to send out a questionnaire to area residents and to interview Niles Park District's staff, board members and some community organizations.

Park Commissioners Elaine Heinen and Bud Skaja voted against the money being spent on the survey.

The Park press release describes the survey company president, Dr. Joseph Bannon, the former head of the Department of Leisure Studies at the University of Illinois as, "an internationally recognized consultant in the field of parks, recreation and leisure."

Bannon further stated that he expects 25 to 41 percent of those surveyed to respond to the questionnaire.

Other questions about Bannon's assessment of interest in park programs were reflected in recently released figures showing only 1,566 people, possibly under 5 percent of district residents, are currently enrolled in 157 programs offered by the park district.

Park commissioner Skaja supports end of Niles Park Dist.

Bud Skaja III

Niles Park District Commissioner Bud Skaja gave the following interview to The Bugle on Monday. In it, he answers questions about his support for the upcoming referendum to dissolve the Niles Park District as well as regarding other recent park controversies.

Bugle - Do you support the November referendum to dissolve the Niles Park District?

Skaja - I'm in support of the referendum one hundred percent. It took me a long time to make this decision. If this ends my political career in Niles, so be it. But I couldn't live with myself any other way. I feel this is best for the people of Niles.

Bugle - What issues did you weigh in coming to this decision?

Skaja - With all of the things that are going to be needed to be fixed and are coming up...are we going to have the monies to do it without the alternate income of the village's sales tax? We can't just keep going out and getting more and more bonds. If one more large expense occurred unexpectedly, I don't think we could cover it.

Bugle - So does your supporting the referendum simply come down to a question of money?

Skaja - I really think that's what it comes down to. I also think with the Village Manager that we have and having the Park Director just having to report to one person...I think that's a better way of running things. It is real hard to have to answer to five bosses. I just feel it is a better way of running a park district.

Bugle - What do you think the final vote on the referendum will be?

Skaja - I hope there's a lot of people who can see this is better for the people of Niles and the taxpayers of Niles. And if you think about it, what town is run better? I don't think there is any. And that's not to say the park district was ever run badly because I think our staff is tops. It's just that I think we need that extra little boost of money and administration. With this being an arm of the village, I think it can only make the park district better. Everything this village has done - with the free bus system and the seniors, they've always done an excellent job and I can't see them pushing the park district down on the ladder. This village has always been very people oriented.

'Acting Up' to perform at seniors extravaganza

The 'Acting Up' troupe

Oakton Community College's "Acting Up," a volunteer, performing troupe with members all over age 60, will be the featured entertainment at "Do It All!" Day, a day-long senior citizen extravaganza hosted by First Colonial Bankshares, on Sunday, Nov. 8 at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare.

The troupe of "Acting Up" uses humor, music and drama to deliver their message to audiences of all ages that growing older can be a time of self discovery and creativity. The source of the group's material is based upon the life, experiences and ideas of its members. Script development and song lyrics are written by Acting Up! artistic director Joyce Stern Greenberg and cast member Birdell Provus, with music composed and arranged by Jack Balko.

Acting Up! was created in 1977 by Oakton Community College with partial support from the Skokio Fine Arts Commission and the Illinois Arts Council and was transformed into a musical production in 1986. They have been featured on many television specials, including Good Morning America, as well as in educational films, newspapers, magazine features, and in a book, "Acting Up!" which describes how a group like this can be created. During their performance at the "Do It All!" Day, Acting Up! will provide through their musical production a humorous look at the stereotypes and myths of aging.

"Do It All!" Day will encompass education and motivational seminars, demonstrations, health screenings and a variety of entertainment which highlight the endless number of opportunities available to people 55-years of age and older. Co-sponsoring the event are America Express and Mid America Charters, Tours & Travel.

Attendees can choose from 30 different seminars on such diverse topics as grandparenting skills, yoga, fitness, nutrition, investments, trust services, driving safety, volunteer opportunities, cooking and travel. In addition, 40 exhibitors - from American Express and the Tennis Corporation of America, to LensCrafters and Frank's Nursery & Crafts - will have booths providing information, give-aways and drawings for free prizes.

The cost of "Do It All!" Day, including a luncheon hosted by Chicago radio personality Clark Weber of WJJD and featuring a performance by Acting Up!, is $15 for Do-ers Club members ($5 without lunch) and $20 for non-members ($10 without lunch).

Managing retirement funds

by Jeffrey Cardella Edward D. Jones & Co.

One of the major concerns of many retired people is outliving their income. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, 30.2 million people depend to some degree on Social Security which is neither adequate nor intended to be the sole source of retirement income. Another 7.9 million look to private company pension plans and personal savings as their other additional income. Often the income from these isn't adequate to offer much more than poverty existence. In order to meet the rising cost of living, these retirees frequently must begin regular withdrawals from their principal. They begin to fear all their retirement funds and savings will soon be gone.

Although there are no guaranteed solutions to this problem, there are ways to manage retirement income so, with prudent planning, funds won't be depleted during your lifetime. For example, consider a male who retires at age 65, takes his company retirement benefits in a lump sum settlement and, within the 60 days required, deposits them into an IRA rollover. There's no tax on his retirement funds at this time, and they continue to grow, tax deferred until the man reaches 70 1/2 when he must begin withdrawals. At that time our retiree has several options designed to provide income for the rest of his life. One option is to annuitize.

Many major insurance companies offer annuities with a variety of options. One option is regular monthly payments for the life of the annuitant or a period of 10 years, whichever is longer. For example, if at the annuity starting date the annuitant is age 70 and deposits $100,000, one major insurance company promises to pay $1,067 each month for life. These payments vary among insurance companies, but they're all calculated on the amount of money invested, the age of the annuitant, and the guarantees of the insurance company. If the annuitant should die before 10 years, his beneficiary continues to receive this payment for the remainder of the period.

The negative feature of such a contract are the return is generally lower than that of other investments; it never increases, and at the end of the period any money which is left becomes the property of the insurance company. There's nothing left for your heirs or estate. However, by using the annuity, you can't outlive the income. This is a feature that many retired people desire.

Another approach to lessen the risk of prematurely depleting mutual funds. Since the funds are being managed, the value of the account fluctuates depending on investment results. Since most mutual fund companies manage a family of funds with various investment objectives and risks, the retiree has the option to select one or more of these funds as an investment. He also has the right to transfer the assets from one fund to another within the group when, and if, his investment objectives changes.

These are only two examples of how retirement funds can be prudently managed. If you are planning retirement in the near future, you owe it to yourself to investigate options. If you are already retired, examine your current plan and determine if you are at risk of outliving your income. With interest rates falling, as they are today, investing with a sense of direction is even more important. It can make a difference in security of your retirement years, when inflation rears its ugly head.

Candidate for commissioner

Patricia A. Young is the assistant director of Public Information of the Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago. Young has been with the Water Reclamation District for the past 15 years.

She is a graduate of Mother McAuley High School, and received her degree in communications from Columbia College in Chicago, where she graduated with honors.

In the recent March primary, Patricia A. Young became the Democratic candidate for the Office of Commissioner of the Water Reclamation District. She is seeking election to a 6-year term.

Circuit judge candidate

Judge Daniel M. Locallo presides in the felony trial division in the Criminal Court building at 26th and California.

A lifelong Chicagoan, Judge Locallo is a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Niles, University of Illinois Circle Campus, and John Marshall Law School.

Appointed an Associate Judge in 1986, he is running for full Circuit Judgeship in the 10th Sub Circuit B District. The judge is a former Cook County prosecutor, having tried over 40 felony juries to verdict on charges such as rape, murder, and armed robbery. After leaving the States Attorney's Office in 1983, he practiced Labor Law, and personal injury litigation.

Judge Locallo received the following ratings: The Chicago Bar Association, highly qualified; Women's Bar Association, highly recommended; West Suburban Bar Association, highly qualified; Cook County Bar Association, highly recommended.

State's attorney to crack down on auto theft

Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley announced recently the creation of a specialized prosecution unit that will work exclusively on major auto theft cases including chop shops, career auto thieves and stolen parts operations.

O'Malley said auto thefts have been on the rise for the last decade in spite of an increase in prosecutions for auto theft related offenses. In 1991, the Cook County State's Attorney's office prosecuted 2,726 cases for auto related offenses, 145 more cases than in 1990. O'Malley said an increase in prosecuting must be coupled with a concentrated plan to attack underlying auto theft rings.

O'Malley said 84 percent of the 74,473 cars stolen statewide in 1990 were in Cook County and 64 percent of those cars were stolen in Chicago.

The prosecution unit will be funded a $500,000 grant from the Illinois Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Council (MVTPC). The money for the grant comes out of a fund into which insurance companies pay $1 for each comprehensive insurance policy written in the state.

O'Malley said the auto theft prosecution team is comprised of four prosecutors, two investigators, as well as two support personnel. They will receive extensive training and work in conjunction with various auto theft task force units being funded by the MVTPC. The unit will conduct "vertical" prosecutions, that is, bringing cases from initial investigation to final disposition.

Capparelli/McGing supporters hold rally

Nearly 100 campaign workers for State Rep. Ralph C. Capparelli (D-13th) and Democratic State Senate Candidate James M. McGing held a political rally recently at their suburban campaign headquarters, 9231 N. Waukegan Road, Morton Grove.

The campaign office, located in the Beckwith Center Shopping Mall, will be open from 6 to 10 p.m., through Nov. 3 for campaign workers and volunteers. Both candidates have seen a groundswell of suburban support for their candidacies and campaign platform which includes a five percent tax cap for Cook County residents and meaningful real estate tax reform.

Bid for re-election

Commissioner Gloria Alitto Majewski of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago is seeking re-election to a 6-year term.

In 1984, Commissioner Majewski was elected to the unexpired two-year term of her husband, Chester P. Majewski. She then ran, in 1986, and was elected for a six-year term.

Blaine calls for defeat of third airport

Declaring that, "a third airport would take jobs away from residents of the northwest Chicago suburbs," Bill Blaine, Democratic candidate for the Illinois Senate from the 28th District, today called on the General Assembly to defeat the proposed Lake Calumet airport in the fall veto session. "Lake Calumet is nothing more than a multi-billion dollar public works boondoggle. Why build a third airport when we can create a high tech, jobs-creating transportation network centered at O'Hare, right here in the northwest suburbs?"

The Lake Calumet proposal was defeated during the spring session of the General Assembly. However, Governor Edgar is expected to push for a second vote on the project in November.

Blaine advocates development of a high speed rail as a cost-effective alternative to a new airport. Citing information from the Illinois Association of Rail Passengers, Blaine observed, "For about the same price as Lake Calumet, we can build an energy efficient, environmentally friendly high speed rail system serving all major cities in the Midwest according to an article in Illinois Association of Rail Passengers, July 1, 1992. Chicago could be the hub of a cutting edge transportation network, producing thousands of good jobs at good wages."

"My opponent supports building at third airport even though its costs far exceed any possible benefits," Blaine noted. "Why build task force units being funded by the MVTPC. The unit will conduct "vertical" prosecutions, that is, bringing cases from initial investigation to final disposition.

Gardner elected to Democratic post

Commissioner Frank E. Gardner, of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, was recently elected president of the 41st Ward Regular Democratic Organization.

Commissioner Gardner was elected to the Water Reclamation District in 1990. Prior to his election, he was in the Legal Department of the district.

Commissioner Gardner is married and has two children.

Seniors endorse Capparelli for State Rep

The political action committee of the Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens Organizations has endorsed Ralph Capparelli for State Representative from the 13th District. According to Jerry Prete, President of the Illinois State Council, "Ralph Capparelli has been a good friend to seniors in the Illinois legislature. When it comes to unfair taxes, the high cost of health care, and utility bills, Ralph represents the seniors, and not the big-money special interests."

The Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens Organizations has more than 500 affiliated clubs representing over 200,000 individuals. The group works on legislative issues affecting seniors, as well as educational projects.

Capparelli earned an 85 percent positive rating from the State Council from 1989 through 1992. "Ralph Capparelli has an impressive record," said Prete. "He played an important role in protecting spouses of Illinois nursing home residents from becoming impoverished. He helped reduce state income taxes on the elderly and disabled. He has fought for lower property taxes. In fact, he is one of the people responsible for starting the Circuit Breaker, which provides seniors of modest means with a property tax rebate as well as help with the cost of prescription drugs."

Endorse Matuschka

Joe Matuschka, candidate for State Representative in the 13th District, recently received the endorsements from the German National Congress and the Polish National Alliance. "I am honored to have been chosen to receive these endorsements," Matuschka said. "Joe Matuschka grew up in war-torn Germany after World War II.

When he came to the United States, he was called to serve our country during the Viet Nam War. "I wasn't even a citizen yet," he said. "I could have bowed out and headed back to Germany, but I loved this country and chose to join the Marine Corp." The Viet Nam vet added "One of the proudest moments in my life was becoming an American Citizen."

Watkins accuses Hyde as a 'major player' in S & L scandal

"Congressman Henry Hyde (R-Ill. 6th) accepted more than $111,000 in campaign contributions from savings and loan and banking interests since 1981 and voted in Congress on seven key bills to deregulate the nation's thrift industry," Barry Watkins, Hyde's Democratic opponent charged today.

"Hyde also was paid $4,000 per year as a director of an S & L that subsequently failed and he received $14,000 in speaking fees from banks and S & Ls," Watkins said.

In a report he released today, Watkins listed all of Hyde's financial industry donations from 1981 through mid 1992.

Congressman Hyde was on the House Banking Committee from 1974 to 1981. After that, while still in Congress, 1981 to July of 1984, Hyde was paid $4,000 per year as a director of Clyde Federal Savings and Loan Association, North Riverside, which failed in 1990 costing taxpayers more than $150 million.

According to the report, Clyde Federal was already in severe financial difficulty by the end of the first quarter of 1984. The Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) seized Clyde on Feb. 2, 1990.

"Taxpayers need to know what role Hyde played in this expensive failure," Watkins said.

The Watkins report also showed that Henry Hyde served as a spokesman for the S & L industry and he consistently voted in favor of S & L deregulation. The report listed Hyde's votes for the S & L industry's position on seven key bills.

Council links women for success

Today, women are starting businesses at twice the rate of men. And women want to keep their businesses going and growing. One way women can do that is to team up with a mentor, a woman entrepreneur who's been in business longer, who's faced similar challenges, found solutions and wants to share what she's learned, one-on-one with someone in the process of growing a business. The Chicago Suburban Women's Business Council (CSWBC) will kick-off the nationally recognized mentor/protege program (IWNET) at its fall meeting on Oct. 30, from 8 to 10:30 a.m. at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

Secretaries to hear financial expert

Professional Secretaries International (PSI) Northwest Suburban Chapter's guest speaker on Tuesday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m. at All-gauer's Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza, 2855 Milwaukee Avenue in Northbrook, will be Norah Lex, a Senior Account Executive with Waddell & Reed.

Her presentation, "What Every Person Should Know About Money", will help sort out some of the confusion of finances and establish a sense of direction in money matters. Learn about budgeting, cash reserves, tax-saving strategies and much more.

Preceding the presentation there will be cocktails and networking at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m. Cost for dinner and presentation is $20, presentation only is $10.

For reservations, contact Barbara Bednarz at (708) 397-3000, ext. 2848.

The Magnificent Milers Support Group of the Y-ME National Organization for Breast Cancer Information and Support, will hold its monthly Open Door meeting on Saturday, Nov. 7 at 10 a.m. at Evanston Hospital, 2650 Ridge, Room G-958, Evanston.

The topic, "Techniques of Hypnosis" will be led by Larry Garret, certified hypnotist.

Breast cancer patients, their families and friends, and health professionals interested in the topic are welcome at Open Door meetings. The sessions are free of charge and reservations are not necessary.

Y-ME offers peer support to breast cancer patients via a 24-hour Hotline, (708) 799-8228, and educational Open Door meetings throughout the Chicago area. Y-ME also provides information on what to do if a breast lump is detected.

Vinyl Fencing Lets Homeowners "Forget It"

Surround your home with a high quality, maintenance-free vinyl fence that does not rust, peel, fade or ever require painting.

The fence has long been a part of American tradition. Unfortunately, part of that tradition includes long hours of upkeep, maintenance, and eventually replacement. But, not anymore. Vinyl fencing allows today's homeowner to have an attractive fence without worrying about painting, rotting, rusting, or replacement. Commonplace in Europe, vinyl fencing was first introduced to America in the early 1980s. The product is made from a high quality, extremely durable vinyl compound that provides excellent weathering properties. It is a popular choice for use around pools as it is unaffected by moisture. A vinyl fence adds beauty and elegance to any setting—without the maintenance hassle.

Vinyl does not rust, peel, chip, fade or ever require painting. In fact, Bufftech, a manufacturer of quality vinyl fencing and garden specialty products, uses UV inhibitors in the specially formulated vinyl to prevent discoloration and impact modifiers to provide durability. Bufftech offers more than 10 different designs including ornamental, privacy, and traditional picket style fences, all protected by a 20 year non-prorated warranty. The fence is available through professional fence dealers. Maintenance-free accessories for the yard and garden are also available including picnic tables, trellises, arbors, mailbox posts, and gazebos.

Vinyl fencing allows homeowners to forget about upkeep and maintenance. For more information call Bufftech at 800 333 0569. Or write Bufftech, 2525 Walden Avenue, Buffalo, NY 14225.

Clean Indoor Air Important In Homes

Moisture, smoke, grease and odors all contribute to your home's indoor air pollution problem. Ventilation products such as range hoods or bathroom exhaust fans minimize the harmful affects of this air.

It's hard enough keeping the house clean from dirt, mud and dust without having to worry about the quality of air in your home. But clean, healthy air affects not only your family's comfort, but the long-term maintenance of your home as well.

Today, homes are built airtight for energy savings. But that means houses don't breathe—exhausting bad air and replacing it with fresh air. Take the kitchen for example. Cooking, broiling, baking and frying produce great amounts of grease particles, smoke, odors and moisture. These pollutants can cause grimy cabinets, soiled curtains and gritty ceilings and walls. In the bathroom moisture can rust metal cabinets, shorten the life of wallpaper, paint and tile adhesives. And, since trapped moisture rises, it can deteriorate joists and framing above the bathroom.

Yes, you can open the bathroom door while showering, but that just causes the moisture-laden air to travel to another part of the house looking to escape. And yes, you can open a bathroom window, but that's not practical in many parts of the country during the winter months.

Spot ventilation in the kitchen and bath captures moisture at the source before it can cause discomfort or damage," according to Jerry Santowski, President of Broan Mfg. Co., Inc., which manufactures kitchen and bath ventilators. Range hoods and bath fans, if properly installed, help those air-tight homes to breathe.

To Vent Or Not To Vent

Range hoods and exhaust fans can either be installed ducted or duct free. Ducting or venting means that the moisture and pollutants are exhausted to the outside of the home through duct work. Duct free models use filters to clean the air and then recirculate air back into the room. However, duct free models do not remove the moisture from the air.

According to Broan, ducting is always the recommended installation. Because of time restraints, builders or homeowners often opt for the easier duct free installation.

"In the long run, ducting the range hood or exhaust fan provides the greatest investment in your home," according to Santowski, "by eliminating costly future repairs to joists, window seals, insulation and paint."

Once you're convinced of the benefits of ducting, check on the installation. Ranges hoods require a minimum of 6 inch round ductwork. A 4 inch duct is too small, causing the hood's motor to work too hard. Exhaust fans need a minimum of 3 inch duct work, but for top performance, a 4 inch duct is recommended.

If you can, look in your attic at the duct run. Some of the duct runs look like a roller coaster of twists and turns. Duct runs should be as short and straight as possible. Sharp 90 degree angles are possible with flexible duct, but the fan's performance will be reduced dramatically. If a longer duct run is necessary due to construction, use rigid metal duct since it has the least resistance to air flow. Longer duct runs may require a higher air movement rating to compensate to the long run.

According to Broan, the ducting should be connected to either a roof cap or wall cap so that the moisture and pollutants are removed completely. If the duct run ends in the attic, the air is simply being poured into the attic which can destroy attic insulation and rafters. Broan recommends using roof and wall caps with a built-in damper since they eliminate cold outside air from coming inside. Check to see that the roof or wall cap's damper operates properly, opening only when the fan is operating.

A properly installed range hood and exhaust fan protects the investment you've made in your home and provides cleaner and healthier air for you and your family. For more information on range hoods and fans, write to Broan Mfg. Co., P.O. Box 120, Appleton, WI 53027.

Universal Design A Major Feature Of Future Kitchen

When someone says "kitchen of the future," our minds may picture scenes from an old TV series, the Jetsons.

While that may be our image of a futuristic kitchen, it's not the one described by knowledgeable architects, interior designers and home builders," report home economists for Whirlpool Corporation.

To these housing experts, future kitchens don't look like a series of plastic bubbles installed in a space station. In fact, their future kitchens come in almost any style—country, traditional or contemporary—and don't look too different from what we have today. But regardless of their surface appearance, these new-generation kitchens have a common theme. They incorporate the concept of universal design.

Just as the name implies, it's a design that provides home spaces which serve all family members: the young, the old and the in-between; the tall, the short and the average; the able-bodied and those with a disability.

How do you design a kitchen that's totally user-friendly, yet affordable and stylish? "That's a very legitimate question," note Whirlpool home

Don't blame moisture problems on windows

Some windows sweat. Occasionally, home owners see condensation running down their walls, destroying their curtains, drapes and walls?

Condensation Causes Window condensation is a function of the inside window surface temperature, room temperature and inside humidity levels.

Condensation occurs when the inside window surface temperature is low enough to cause the room air next to it to drop below its "dew" point. This also happens on a bathroom mirror when taking a shower or on the outside of a cold glass of ice water.

The "dew" point is the temperature at which the air is "saturated," and can hold no more moisture. The saturated air then deposits moisture on any surface cooler than itself. Condensation happens with some windows during the winter months when the inside temperature and humidity level are high and the outside temperature is low.

A little condensation, or "fogging" can be expected and causes few problems. It can occur on any window.

Condensation Control To minimize condensation, aluminum windows incorporate thermal separations in their framing members. This helps keep condensation from forming on the frame.

Glass is a poor insulator and this is where condensation usually forms. One way to decrease the likelihood of condensation forming on the glass is to increase the number of glass window panes. Double-glazing and triple-glazing reduces the possibility of condensation. This is because the dead air space between the window glazing acts as an insulator, thus reducing the temperature difference between the inside and immediate outside surface of the glass. By increasing the amount of air space, this also helps.

By using thermally separated aluminum windows and controlling the amount of humidity in a house, you'll go a long way in keeping damaging condensation from creating problems.

For more information and learning about what your proper inside humidity should be, write to the Aluminum Extruders Council, 1000 N. Rand Road, #214, Wauconda, IL 60084.

door and can be positioned almost anywhere in a kitchen. But if you install an oven under a low counter, you eliminate users who can't bend or stoop and those who have a balance problem. In addition, tall people and those of average height may find it uncomfortable to work so low.

One universal design solution: Install microwave ovens at a comfortable working height for both standing and seated users.

In this Whirlpool universal design kitchen, the microwave oven installed at the raised end of a cooktop island works equally well for children and adults who are standing, and is also at a good height for a seated user.

The pull-out shelf below the oven provides a handy spot for hot dishes—or space for a blind user to read the Braille operating instructions and cookbook. This appliance also has a Braille control panel overlay, an accessory available free to visually-impaired owners of Whirlpool microwave ovens.

Like the microwave oven, dishwashers offer many inherent universal design characteristics: front controls, pull-out racks for easy access in loading and unloading and detergent dispensers in the door. Many Whirlpool dishwashers also have removable cutlery and silverware baskets in the door for easy, safe reach and use.

But even a well-designed dishwasher can be installed in a corner or adjacent to a wall so that it's inaccessible to many users.

One universal design solution: Install a pull-out rack for easy access in loading and unloading and detergent dispensers in the door. Many Whirlpool dishwashers also have removable cutlery and silverware baskets in the door for easy, safe reach and use.

stall the dishwasher under a counter adjacent to the sink, leaving users room to reach racks from either side of the unit. The dishwasher is easily loaded or unloaded from both seated and standing positions. For wheelchair use in this kitchen, the designer removed the undersink cabinet doors. Many older people who like to work seated also might benefit from removing cabinet doors at the sink and in other kitchen areas.

From these examples, it's obvious that it isn't difficult to incorporate universal design into a kitchen. It just requires selecting and installing standard fixtures, appliances and materials so that they provide easy reach and use for all family members.

"With today's busy lifestyles, increasing numbers of two wage-earner families, millions of latchkey children helping with household chores and an aging population wanting to live independently, incorporating universal design into our kitchens makes good sense," comment Whirlpool home economists. "It's easy to do, and as the housing experts note, universal design is the wave of the future of America's kitchens."

If you're planning to build a new home or remodel an existing one, Whirlpool home economists suggest you write for free booklets to help you put universal design into your future kitchen. Request Universal Design and Independent Living brochures by sending a post card to: Appliance Information Service, Whirlpool Corporation, P.O. Box 85, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085.

Ceratop faucets combine the ultimate in European precision engineering, with a confident design for contemporary bathrooms.

Ultra-sleek, the single-handle Ceratop faucets have a solid brass body and metal loop handle, detailed in eye-opening new finish combinations such as black nickel/polished brass.

But the real story of Ceratop is its extraordinary level of performance, technically unmatched in the U.S. market.

Ceratop's Multiport valve cartridge uses three ceramic discs, instead of the more common two-disc system. Three discs provide a greater surface area of movement for smooth handle operation. More water exit ports mean a steady flow rate in both high and low water pressure environments.

Ceratop also provides advantages for water conservation and safety. Ceratop meets current water conservation limits, and has an adjustable hot limit safety stop to protect children and adults against accidental scalding.

Plumbers and installers appreciate the simplicity of the Multiport valve, which has all the advanced technology encased in a simple cartridge.

Best of all, Ceratop is backed by a lifetime drip-free warranty, for maintenance-free satisfaction.

Grove Players present habit-forming 'Nunsense'

Grove Players opens their 56th season with an award-winning musical comedy about the Little Sisters of Hoboken as they put on a fund raising event not likely to be forgotten for a long, long time. The book, music and lyrics for Nunsense are written by Dan Goggin and the Grove

Players production is directed by Michael Hildebrand with musical direction by Jack Short of Park Ridge and choreography by JoAnn Craig.

Hildebrand is no stranger to Grove Players having previously directed such musicals as Pirates of Penzance, Follies, Gypsy, and most recently, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. Jack Short returns to Grove Players for the third consecutive year after joining the group two years ago to provide musical direction for A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum followed up by last-year's musical offering, Baby. Although new to Grove Players, JoAnn Craig's credits are many, including stints with the Serge Popeloff Ballet Company in Cleveland and Radio City Music Hall's famed Rockettes. The assistant to the directing staff is Carter Lamb of Lemont and the show producers are Richard Albright, LaGrange Park and Shirley Evans, Riverside.

The cast for Nunsense is made up of Sisters. Sister Mary Regina, the outrageous Mother Superior is played by Sidi Kiely of Chicago. She's the feisty leader of the group and you'll soon see that she can't resist the spotlight. Second in command is Sister Mary Hubert, Mistress of the Novices, played by Jan Mahstedt. She's always competing with the Mother Superior and with only the slightest bit of encouragement, she's ready to kick up her heels. Karen Bronson portrays the tough streetwise nun originally from Brooklyn. All the kids adore her but she's a constant source of irritation for the Mother Superior. Sister Mary Amnesia is truly a lost soul. That is, she lost her memory after a crucifix fell on her head. Barbara Harris plays this sister who arrived at the convent without a clue as to her identity. Rounding out the cast is Sally Hewlett Johnson. She portrays the only novice of the group and she is very frustrated by the Reverend Mother in her attempt to shine as the first nun-ballerina.

Nunsense opens October 30 and runs through November 14. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. On October 31 and November 7 there will also be 3 p.m. matinees. All performances of Nunsense will be held at Lincoln Center, 935 Maple Avenue, Downers Grove.

Single admission tickets are $10 for adults and $9 for senior citizens and students through age 18. Groups of 20 or more will receive an additional $1 off of the regular ticket price.

For more information or to place an order for season subscriptions or single admission tickets for any of these shows, call the box office at (708) 964-6888. Tickets for Nunsense may also be purchased at Anderson's Bookshop, 5112 Maine Street and at Lincoln Center, 935 Maple Avenue, both located in Downers Grove.

Organize Your Garage For The Last Time

Are garage organizing plan should include workbenches, pegboards, and storage specialty cabinets with doors. Gourmet Garages! in Florida has cabinetry designed to hold large bulky items, and built from materials durable enough to withstand the heat and humidity of the garage environment. The company's modular storage systems will adapt to any garage, and are available in ready-to-assemble kits.

Have you looked at the garages in your neighborhood lately? Chances are you noticed a mess, with everything from family valuables to tools and expensive sports equipment exposed by a wide-open garage door—and an expensive car out in the street under the weather. You may have also noticed that your garage is in no better shape.

Our garages are untouched territory in home decorating and remodeling. Instead of closets and cabinets, desks and drawers that make the interior efficient and attractive, people traditionally put up a few wooden metal shelves, and try to organize garage storage on them.

Proper Ventilation Combats Damaging Condensation

The results are never satisfactory. Open shelves waste vast amounts of perfectly usable space, and leave everything open to dust, moisture and insects. In addition, they're a perfect invitation to thieves.

Gourmet Garages! Inc., based in Bradenton, Florida, has designed a system of modular storage units with secure, self-closing doors, moisture barrier bases, and insect-proof backs. These unique systems totally replace hardware-store shelving with drawers, adjustable shelves, workbenches, and pegboards, and include overhead and base units to make the most of almost every inch of garage space. The units themselves are attractive, sturdy melamine, and create matching systems as attractive kitchen cabinetry.

According to John Hacker, designer of these innovative garage organizer systems, "These garage organizers systems have been very popular because they finally give homeowners a chance to clean up the family dumping ground known as the garage, and enhance the appearance and value of the home."

The company is currently expanding nationwide through franchised dealers. For places without a local dealer, the company will create a system by mail with its "E-Z Plans" Kit, which contains a guide to space saving products, a history of garage organizing, a layout sheet with instructions, and includes a custom design by a Gourmet Garages! "space engineer". For information about the "E-Z Plans" or to request a catalog, write Gourmet Garages! Inc., Franchise Office, 11350 Metro Pkwy., Fort Meyers, FL 33912, or call 813-936-2600.

Water vapor may not come close to topping the list of hazardous air pollutants, but when it comes to the indoor environment, nothing can be more menacing.

Bathroom, kitchen and laundry facilities all create significant amounts of airborne moisture. The vapor can penetrate a variety of materials in the house and, as it condenses, lead to warping, rotting, mildew and a generally accelerated deterioration of the house and its structural members.

While indoor pollution has long been a problem for homeowners, in recent years the severity of the problem has increased dramatically. Modern construction techniques have made homes virtually airtight, offering advantages in terms of heating and cooling, but curtailing the necessary exchange of air between the inside and the outside. Without that exchange, heat, grease, smoke and other contaminants—especially water vapor—are trapped within the house where they are a year-round threat to the indoor environment.

More and more homeowners have come to realize that proper ventilation is one of the most economical yet effective ways to provide a desirable home environment by ridding the atmosphere of water vapor and other pollutants before they can cause serious problems.

In discussing proper home ventilation, two systems must be considered: the natural, or static, ventilation system, and the powered ventilation system.

The static ventilation system is simply a series of strategically placed non-mechanical vents. Static vents facilitate the movement of air between the home and the outdoors, helping to maintain a relatively fresh indoor atmosphere.

There are five basic types of static vents. Ridge vents are designed to provide a continuous opening along the entire ridge line of a pitched roof, from entering the attic, but allow for an ongoing exchange of air between the attic and the outside. For maximum efficiency, the ridge vent must be used with the undercaaves vents. Installed in the roof overhang on both sides of the house, the undercaaves serve as the intake areas, allowing fresh air to flow into the attic while stale air flows out through the ridge vent.

The other three types of static vents are: triangular vents, those which are fitted to the high point of the gable ends of the house; rectangular vents, those which are placed slightly lower at the gable ends; and roof vents, those which are normally placed on the rear slope of the roof.

Regardless of which vents are used, the undercaaves vents are necessary to create a system in which air flows continuously from the attic to the outside. This is important because moisture generated throughout the house tends to gather in the attic where it can condense and damage insulation, roofing materials, floor boards, and other items.

While static vents are crucial to proper ventilation, they may not provide the level of ventilation desired for indoor comfort and protection.

For that reason, many homeowners choose to install turbine ventilators, while others elect to utilize powered attic space ventilators.

Turbine ventilators are wind-driven devices which are designed in such a manner that wind from any direction causes the upper portion of the ventilator to rotate. As the turbine rotates, or spins, a reduced air pressure in the stack draws hot or humid air from the attic space.

Working in conjunction with static vents, the powered attic ventilator offers a measure of protection and comfort that makes it a most worthwhile addition to the home.

Equipped with a humidistat so that it turns on automatically when moisture levels in the attic get too high, the powered ventilator quickly gets rid of moisture, offering the homeowner needed protection. The ventilator can also be equipped with a thermostat to turn on automatically during the summer to quickly rid the attic of excessive heat. Unchecked, summer heat can build to temperatures of more than 135 degrees. This super-heated air then radiates downward, creating discomfort and increasing the burden on air-conditioning. Further, these high temperatures pose a threat to building materials and insulation, accelerating their deterioration.

In addition to the attic, there are two other primary trouble spots in the home in terms of producing airborne moisture: the bathroom and the kitchen.

Shower usage is the main source of water-vapor in the home. Compounding the problem, shower usage causes an increase in water vapor pressure, forcing the moisture to penetrate materials and to spread throughout the house. The most effective way to deal with bathroom moisture is to install a wall or ceiling exhaust fan. The fan quickly and effectively cleanses the bathroom air, exhausting the moisture to the outside where it is harmless.

Range hoods are the most effective weapon against moisture and other contaminants created in the kitchen. Mounted above the range, the hoods feature powerful, yet quiet, fans that remove moisture and all other pollutants such as grease, smoke, heat and odors, leaving the kitchen air clean and healthful.

A carefully planned ventilation system not only prevents the home from moisture and other pollutants, it also means a more comfortable, efficient and economical indoor environment. For more information about proper ventilation, contact the Home Ventilation Institute Division of the Air Movement and Control Association, 30 West University Drive, Arlington Heights, IL 60004.

Colonial Williamsburg Inspires Homeowners

This kitchen of the Grissell Hay House in Colonial Williamsburg owes its charm to such design elements as a cozy fireplace, chair rail and ceiling moldings, a tin chandelier, country-style fabrics and furnishings. All are reproductions available from licensees of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. Photo: William Stites.

By Lis King

As we get into nodding distance of year 2000, Americans are evidently more interested in creating homes with the charm and grace of the past than in the brave new world visualized by so many books and movies.

Surveys say that although today's homeowner is sure to make concessions to TV sets and food processors, living rooms are likely to be graced by traditional swags, the chandelier above the dining table is probably an 18th-century reproduction, and color schemes, inside and out, are apt to be firmly rooted in the past.

According to design professionals, the preference for design that links us with our roots is perfectly understandable.

Jackie Smith, senior design consultant for Craft House, at the Williamsburg Inn, agrees.

"It's a style that is as familiar as it is beautiful," she says. "The colors are soothing, the patterns charm, and the simplicity underscores quality."

She adds that she and her colleagues are daily witnesses to the effect that the 173 acres and more than 500 period buildings that comprise Colonial Williamsburg have on visitors.

"Of course, many come here because they're already interested in the lifestyles and principles of earliest America," she explains. "But so many of those who might be designated 'casual' visitors, wind up thoroughly beguiled and come away with a deep desire to capture the essence of Williamsburg in their own homes."

The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation maintains that this is not difficult to do for, above all, this is a timeless style, and therefore infinitely flexible.

"The style mixes easily with elements from other eras and countries," notes Smith. "It can be simple or elegant, and it suits any home, be it an 18th-century reproduction, or a modern renovation."

historical house or a city condo. In addition, it's undemanding. You can choose what you like about the style and adapt it for your home."

New Antiques

The reproduction program of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation is an excellent source for those in search of 18th-century design. The Foundation licenses carefully selected companies to produce antiques found in this historic community, and no item is manufactured until it has passed the scrutiny of a review committee of curators and historians.

While the Foundation creates meticulously accurate period rooms in Colonial Williamsburg itself, it realizes that some people might not feel comfortable living in a museum setting.

"If you feel that way you might just go with certain architectural details, wallcoverings, fabrics and accessories typical of the 18th century," advises Smith.

Suggestions for adapting this look to today's homes include adding period moldings by Focal Point at ceiling and chair rail height, lighting a room with brass or tin chandeliers or scones reminiscent of those illuminating the Governor's Palace and Christiana Campbell's Tavern, and installing authentic colonial doors and fireplace mantels.

"One of our licensees has a full line of exterior and interior doors that reflect the construction details and appearance of those found in original Williamsburg structures," explains Smith. "It's amazing what warmth a paneled door or a beautifully crafted mantel can create in a house. Now add authentic door hardware, such as Virginia Metalcrafters' hand-cast brass iron locks and hinges. This firm also crafts a beautiful collection of brass chandeliers and scones. A collection of tin lanterns and scones also characteristic of the time is now being added by another licensee, Period Lighting."

Color It Colonial
Another great way to add colonial charm is with color. Smith recommends looking into Martin-Seymour's large collection of Williamsburg colors.

"Although they're authentic 18th and 19th century colors, they're modern in terms of a 17," says Smith. "It's not at all difficult to picture walls with the famous Williamsburg white-wash plus charcoal woodwork in a room furnished with contemporary leather, glass and steel."

One of the biggest decorating splashes can be made with wallcoverings and fabrics. Schumacher, another Foundation licensee, has captured both the elegant and informal styles of early Williamsburg. All are design classics, and as such, they are just as right in today's homes as they were in Jefferson's holiday.

Effective color accents can also be created with Summitville's ceramic tiles, available with a choice of whimsical 18th-century personages and classic Delft motifs. The tiles are effective around fireplace openings, on kitchen backsplashes, and bordering Jefferson's holiday.

For additional protection, you can make excellent temporary storm windows by covering them with clear plastic. Use 6-mil polyethylene and staple it around the outside of the window with an Arrow Model T55 Staple Gun Tacker. Double the plastic at the outer edge of the trim where the staples won't be noticed.

These easy-to-do-measures will make your home far more energy-efficient. You'll save significant amounts not only on your winter heating bills, but on summer air conditioning bills, too. Your investment in materials will soon be paid back again and again.

How To Design A Home Office That Works

Laminate makes beautiful sense for home offices. Here, a faux granite design by Westinghouse Micarta covers a built-in desk and shelf, and a pale neutral laminate gives the computer desk and cabinet a very professional finish.

By Lis King

America was always a country of enterpriseness, and in today's world that means home offices springing up all across the nation. In fact, almost 30 million Americans now work out of their homes.

so it stands to reason that at-home entrepreneurs, too, can benefit from this material's good looks and easy care.

When you work at home, you will love such benefits as leaving commuting and dressing-up behind. On the other hand, the dog is almost sure to bark just as an important client calls and cat hairs are the bane of laser printers.

According to Wade Ferguson, Westinghouse Micarta's design expert, at-home entrepreneurs must try to create as professional an environment as possible.

"You work best in a space that's efficient," notes Ferguson. "You must be able to shut out kids, pets and other distractions, and the space must impress a visiting client with its professionalism."

Choosing Space
A separate room is best, of course. The garage, basement or an extra bedroom could yield office space, but remember that if clients are likely to visit, you must have direct access to the outdoors.

"You can't have a client walk through your kitchen to get to your office," warns Ferguson.

If you don't have room for a separate office, at least create a definite separation between living and working spaces. Ferguson suggests a room divider that provides storage as well as privacy.

"See a company that designs and fabricates custom furniture," advises Ferguson. "They will create a divider—or, indeed, a roomful of furniture—to suit your special needs."

Whether you have a separate office or just a corner, put decorative high-pressure laminate to work. Using this good-looking and tough material on cabinetry, shelves, files, desks and even walls will boost your professional image, and if, like most at-home workers, you're in charge of keeping the space neat, you will love its wipe-clean ease.

You know how well laminate works on kitchen countertops, so naturally it's great for desk tops and other work surfaces as well. Durable matte laminates are best for work surfaces, while luxurious high-gloss laminates are impressive on cabinetry. If you work with computers, you might also consider Micarta's anti-static laminate for desk tops.

Laminate Fashions
Choosing laminate colors and design is the fun part of designing your home office, for Westinghouse Micarta offers an incredible range. There are colors ranging from pales to darks, from neutrals to brights, and designs include wood looks so real you'll fear getting splinters, high-fashion stone looks, and the new Iridescent Accents collection of luminous laminates with embedded metallic or opalescent patterns. Ferguson feels that the wood looks are handsome choices for home offices.

"For a conservative image, go with rich traditional mahogany or cherry designs," he advises. "For a more contemporary look, choose pale oak or birch. If a high-fashion image is important, consider the new white-painted woods, the exotic lacewood design, or a birds-eye look."

He thinks that work surfaces covered in a faux granite design are as practical as they are beautiful and recommends the fantasy looks, such as the Iridescent Accents, for custom cabinetry. "They are so impressive that they're sure to make it into the executive suite," he notes.

Solid-colored laminate is becoming one of the best fashion looks in office design, and Ferguson suggests the rich tones of deep greens and blues for traditional areas. The neutrals and sassy brights can go contemporary, but he warns against using bold color on large surfaces where they may prove distracting. "Limit them to accents," he advises.

To help you select laminate designs and colors for your home office, Micarta offers a 24-page brochure. It is free from Westinghouse Micarta, Dept. HIT, Hampton, SC 29924.

On Friday, Nov. 27, SJB Youth Ministry will host its ninth annual "Battle of the Bands." "Battle of the Bands" is an evening of music and dancing, with the music being provided by fourteen-age bands.

This is a forum where new bands, teen bands, have the opportunity to perform for an audience and thereby increase their experience. Auditions are currently in process for the "battle." The Battle group of teens from St. John Brebeuf, auditions each band. The only stipulation is that half of the band must currently be in high school. Based on an average audition score, the top four bands are invited to play in the "Battle" on Nov. 27.

Originally produced on Broadway in 1966 with Angela Lansbury in the title role, the story revolved around the zany misadventures of the delightfully eccentric, and boisterously exuberant "Auntie Mame" as she attempts to teach her young nephew Patrick to, "Live! Live! Live!"

Northwestern Savings holds free eye exams

Northwestern Savings, 6333 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, invites the public to a free health screening on Wednesday, Nov. 4, from 8 a.m. to noon.

Advanced Eyecare Associates headed by Mark Rosanova, M.D., will conduct the free examination which includes an eye inspection for cataracts, glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy and macular degeneration. These diseases cause vision loss and blindness if not detected and treated. A blood pressure reading will also be taken. Printed results will be given participants to retain in their medical history file.

"Early detection and treatment of eye disease could prevent the unnecessary loss of sight," according to Dr. Rosanova. However, a recent study published by the American Academy of Ophthalmology suggests that patients receiving general medical care probably do not receive regular specialized eye care.

Senior citizens over the age of 65 are especially encouraged to participate in the free exam since medical experts urge this group to have an ophthalmologic eye examination at least every two years.

Examinations will be conducted at the Northwestern Savings office by appointment only. The public is invited to call (312) 774-8400 to make an appointment.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild unveils 'Nunsense'

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild will open its second show of the season in November: the all-singing, all-dancing, all-fun and run-for-all musical, NUNSENSE.

This habit-forming musical, which ran for more than 1,000 performances off-Broadway and enjoyed a long Chicago run just a few years ago, will be presented on the idea as it evolved from a line of greeting cards he designed. The show premiered in 1986 and ran for more than two years.

The show is being produced by Peggy Murphy and Jim Beddia, with costumes by Marilyn Collignon, props by Jane and Marty Berman, the set and lighting design by Mark Thorsky, and Carol Montesano is the stage manager.

Des Plaines sets auditions for 'Charlie Brown'

Open auditions for roles in the musical "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown," the third show of the five-show season offered by the Des Plaines Theatre Guild, will be held Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 9 and 10 at the Theatre Guild's new home at the Prairie Lakes Community Center, 515 E. Thacker in northwest suburban Des Plaines.

The auditions will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium and are open to the public.

As the title indicates, it's the story of that lovable loser that has spent decades working for "Peanuts." Other characters in the cast include Lucy, Linus, Patty and that irrepressible beagle, Snoopy.

If necessary, callbacks will be held Wednesday, Nov. 11. All those trying for a part should be prepared with an up-tempo song, not necessarily from the show (and provide sheet music for the accompanist), and an upbeat monologue of no longer than two minutes. Auditionees should also be ready to do some movement.

No appointments are necessary.

The show is being directed by Joseph Sento, who appeared on the DPTG stage in "Grease" and "Pippin," and Jack Short is musical director.

Production dates for CHARLIE BROWN are Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from Feb. 5 through the 28th. Friday and Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m.; Sunday shows are 2:30 p.m. matinees.

All performances will be held at the new 299-seat theatre built as part of the Des Plaines Park District's newest facility at the Prairie Lakes Community Center, just west of Wolf Road on Thacker/Dempster. The Theatre Guild is the northwest suburbs' oldest community theatre, and the fourth oldest continuously-running theatre group in Chicago.

For more information, call the Des Plaines Theatre Guild 24 hours a day at (708) 391-5720.

Saving that damaged tooth

by Dr. Gregory A. Page

A tooth that has been damaged by decay or injury can be repaired by your dentist utilizing three common procedures: Fillings, crowns and bridges, and root canals. Use of these techniques can often mean the difference between losing or saving a tooth.

For teeth that have damaged enamel, usually the result of decay or a cavity, the most common procedure is for your dentist to drill out the decayed material and fill the tooth with a durable material. Traditionally these materials were metal: Silver and gold. But due to modern technology, these metals have given way to composite plastic resins and porcelain fillings. When metal fillings are used, that fact that you've had dental work was obvious because the metal didn't match the color of the tooth. With the use of plastic resins and porcelain, the filling can be color matched to your natural teeth; making your fillings virtually invisible. A filling procedure can be completed in one visit to your dentist. You can expect your fillings to last anywhere from five to fifteen years.

For a tooth or teeth with more serious damage a crown or bridge may be required, this damage may be the result weakening decay or, cracking or breaking due to accident. And in some cases a crown or bridge may be required after a root canal. A crown repairs a single tooth while a bridge repairs a series of damaged teeth.

Usually two visits are required for a crown or bridge. During the first visit your dentist removes the decayed or damaged area, and then shapes the tooth to form a base for the crown or bridge. The dentist then makes a substitute tooth (a crown or bridge) to fit over the base of your old tooth. In the second visit he cements the crown or bridge on to the tooth base.

Below and inside of the visible part of your tooth is the pulp which contains nerves and blood vessels. When the pulp becomes infected due to deep decay or serious damage due to injury, a root canal may be the only way to save the tooth. In this procedure, your dentist cleans out the pulp and fills the area with a material like those used for fillings.

One to three visits to your dentist will be necessary to complete a root canal. And if the tooth is abscessed, (the root has died and there is a major infection that has entered the bone anchoring the tooth) your dentist may have to drain the area before the root can be filled.

Root canals have a bad reputation. Many patients fear major discomfort. But by reducing the infection, and through the use of the most modern anesthetic techniques, discomfort can all but be eliminated. After any of these techniques - fillings, crowns and bridges, and root canals - the affected teeth may be sensitive for a few days, but you have the comfort of knowing that you've saved a tooth that could have been lost.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH QUESTIONS

Ques. I have "bad breath". Is there anything that can be done?
 N.M. Chicago.
 Ans. First remember that bad breath known as halitosis is a symptom not a disease. It can be caused by gum disease, poor oral hygiene, certain spicy foods, alcohol, smoking, stress, medications, or digestive disorders. Mints, sprays and mouth washes will give temporary relief. See if you can discover the root causes and eliminate it. If the problem persists, see your dentist.

Send your dental health questions to Dr. Page's Dental Care, Dept. Q, 7100 West Higgins, Chicago IL 60656.

Fiber network backup test successful

Central Telephone Company of Illinois (Centel) announced it has successfully tested a technically advanced, redundant fiber optic telephone network the company installed for Wheels Inc.

Wheels, a national fleet leasing company headquartered in Des Plaines, wanted to fortify its current telecommunications system to protect the company from a possible service disruption. Centel answered the call by installing two fiber optic routes that connect Wheels to both of the telephone company's switching centers in the area, one in Des Plaines and the other in Park Ridge.

At Wheel's request, Centel recently tested the system. Telephone company technicians simulated a service disruption on one of the fiber optic routes to make certain that all telephone traffic would be instantly and transparently re-routed to the backup network.

An automatic backup system offers a big technical advantage to any company that is voice or data intensive.

ONE OF THE REASONS WE CALL THEM SMART BUSINESS LOANS.SM

When Ted and Jeffrey Pickus wanted to develop a housing subdivision in Zion, Tom Romano helped with a First of America Smart Business Loan. Because smart business owners know the time has never been better to take advantage of low interest rates. And they're making their move.
 First of America understands that by helping businesses succeed, we help the economy and the community, too. Harbor Ridge Venture, for example, will not only offer affordable homes, it will also create a number of construction jobs. And we can't measure the value of that investment in monetary terms alone. Since the beginning of the year, we've loaned $600 million through our Smart Business Loan program. And we're ready to lend even more in the next few months.

 First of America has always had a philosophy of supporting the communities we serve. So we work hard at providing competitive, customized commercial loan packages to local businesses.
 If you think your business could benefit from a Smart Business Loan, call any of our First of America Bank offices listed below. You'll find our Smart Business Loans can give you a way to get things moving.

PUNCH 203

Voters go to Polls

the national level. The incumbent is against the education referendum because if passed, "it will absolutely raise taxes."
Republican Matuschka, 47, the owner of a small construction firm, bested three other candidates in the primary contest. If elected, he would push for requiring a 3/5 majority to raise any new tax; he supports child care for working parents; reform of the welfare system; school vouchers; extended health care benefits and tax breaks for senior citizens. He is for building more prisons, but minimizing the cost by privatizing them. Matuschka would limit legislative terms to ten years.

ILLINOIS HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, 55th DISTRICT

Democrat Robert J. Cassidy, 58, of Des Plaines is a retired Maine Township, South high school teacher. Cassidy supports a Cook County property tax cap; wants lottery money properly used for schools; is pro choice and for state-wide health care but against further runway expansion at O'Hare. If elected, Cassidy would push to eliminate political perks such as legislative pensions and the use of state-owned jets for travel. In his effort to "clean house," Cassidy would limit the number of trips outside the state by officials using state money.

Republican Rosemary Mulligan, 51, of Des Plaines, is a municipal law paralegal. If elected, she will work for both state income tax and property tax reform; she feels a tax cap is a misnomer and can still lead to tax raises. Mulligan is pro-choice, for stricter law enforcement and for victim's rights. She supports stable funding of schools, is against more runways at O'Hare and for a third airport.

Mulligan advocates overhauling the health care system and in the process, giving coverage to those who currently have none. She promises to never vote herself a pay raise nor to hold an office more than five terms. She is endorsed by the Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens.

ILLINOIS STATE SENATE, 7th DISTRICT

Seven year incumbent, Republican Walter M. Dudyck, 47, of Chicago promotes suburban control over O'Hare airport and tax caps for Cook County. Dudyck sponsored the tax accountability amendment which required a 3/5 vote rather than a simple majority on tax increases; is against state mandates without funding; sponsored bill requiring a state-wide data base on gangs to aid law enforcement agencies and a bill raising election judges pay to $75. The Senator is for a school voucher system and increased prison sentences for anyone convicted of committing a felony with a gun. He pushed for state hiring preference for veterans and free checking for senior citizens.

Dudyck's challenger is James M. McGing, 31, of Edison Park, Chicago. If elected, his goals are to decrease property taxes, increase quality education and secure health benefits for working families.

McGing is a former assistant state's attorney and the recent director of the Cook County Emergency Management Agency. He is a co-drafter of the Cook County Chemical Safety Act which allows local inspection of companies using hazardous materials. He was active in preparing the groundwork for the referendum which would implement a suburban and county-wide...

1911 system at $1.25 a month. He backs Brady gun control bill and is endorsed by the Illinois Senior Citizens Council.

ILLINOIS STATE SENATE, 28th DISTRICT

Republican Marty Butler, 67, of Park Ridge is the incumbent and advocates cutting state spending during the current economic situation. He wants to solve nursing home and hospital Medicaid problems and would support an affordable health program. He backs a Cook County property tax cap and ending costly state mandates. He is against runway expansion at O'Hare and advocates a third Chicago airport.

Butler is Maine Township GOP Committee member and was the long time mayor of Park Ridge until his appointment to fill Lt. Gov. Robert Kustra's senate seat in January, 1991.

Opposing Butler is Democrat William M. Blaine, Jr., 61, of Mount Prospect, Blaine, a former teacher, is a 14 year member of the Mount Prospect library board and served as its president three years. He currently runs his own professional marketing company. Blaine wants to keep O'Hare airport as a strong economic base. He would allow expansion there to eliminate bad weather delays, but advocates a high speed rail system which would cut the airport's number of short range flights and reduce the noise level. He is against a third airport.

Pro-choice, Blaine also advocates universal health care and giving individuals access to basic, quality care not related to their employment. He wants to improve education in general.

ILLINOIS STATE SENATE, 8th DISTRICT

Nineteen year incumbent Howard Carroll, 50, a Democrat, resides in the West Rogers Park area of Chicago. An attorney, Carroll is Chairman of the State Senate Appropriations committee. He is pro-choice and would boost state revenues with user and licensing fees. Carroll is for a national health care system that is essentially private but available to all. He is for a ban on semi-automatic assault guns. Carroll supports a family leave bill and is for sharing some property tax revenues for school funding on a state-wide basis.

Contesting Carroll is Republican Thomas Joseph, 32, of Rogers Park, Chicago. A former congressional staff member and account executive, Joseph is pro-life, but advocates a hands-off stance on hand gun sales. If elected, Joseph would push for a state-backed health system with businesses getting incentives or tax credits if they insure employees. He would put a three term limit on legislators.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, 6TH DISTRICT

Incumbent Henry J. Hyde, 68, a Republican of Bensenville, has been a member of the U. S. Congress since 1974. He is a member of the Judiciary committee and the House Foreign Affairs committee. A Conservative Republican, Hyde nevertheless voted with the Democrats for the family leave bill.

He opposes term limits for legislators, is a long-time agitator for suburban flood control projects and active in securing funding for the Deep Tunnel. He is against adding more runways at O'Hare airport. Hyde is for the Brady gun control amendment.

Trying to unseat Hyde is Park Ridge Democrat Barry Watkins, 46, the founder of a computer software company in Des Plaines. His goals, if elected, are to foster economic and job growth and bring manufacturing back to the United States. Watkins is pro choice, favors universal health care and is for gun control. He accepts no money from political action committees and if elected would work to limit legislators' terms to 12 years. Both candidates would support increased spending for education -- including full funding for Head Start -- job training and drug treatment programs.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVE, 9th DISTRICT

After 40 years in office, incumbent Democratic Congressman Sidney R. Yates, 83, of Chicago maintains he knows his district and because of his seniority, can get things done. The Ninth District covers parts of Niles, Morton Grove, Skokie, Lincolnwood, Evanston and Chicago's north-side lakefront areas. He is a member of the House Appropriations committee and Chairman of the House Committee on the Interior. His goals are to diminish unemployment and welfare roles by putting people back to work. He pushes for affordable national health care and was the first congressman to be endorsed by the Sierra Club.

Chicago Republican Herbert Sohn, 65, is challenging Yates for the fifth time and believes "perseverance conquers all." An attorney and Chief of Urology at Weiss Memorial hospital, Sohn said he is a moderate who is "fiscally responsible, with social concerns." He wants more benefits returned to Illinois because of the amount of tax money sent to Washington.

He suggests making Fort Sheridan into a medical research facility which would potentially provide up to 50,000 jobs for the North Shore and the north side of Chicago.

While both Yates and Sohn are pro-choice, Sohn is for notifying a minor's parent before an abortion. On the ballot for the Economic Recovery party is Sheila A. Jones, 41, a former Chicago mayoral candidate. A reputed supporter of far right politician Lyndon LaRouche, Jones is against the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Her campaign emphasizes outlawing the death penalty.
