

1991 crime rate dips in Niles; rises in Cook County suburbs

by Shellya Hackett

Crime decreased in Niles in 1991 in nearly all categories. An annual analysis of crime by the Illinois State Police shows only two added cases of arson marred an across-the-board decline in Village crime over the previous year. But the state-wide study, comparing 1991 statistics with those of 1990, shows violent crime, such as murder, criminal sexual assault, robbery, aggravated assault and battery, up by 14.7 percent in northwest Cook County, according to The Chicago Tribune.

Most types of violent crime were down in Morton Grove, as indicated by the fewer number of robberies and criminal sexual assaults reported. But there were five more incidents of aggravated assaults and battery in 1991 than

Niles ice rink on target for opening

Renovation of the Sports Complex ice rink is on schedule and will re-open Dec. 16, Niles Park Commissioners learned at a monthly Board meeting Nov. 7. An initial $44,908 in contract revenues is expected from skaters who have indicated a desire to return to the rehabbed rink at 8435 Ballard Road, according to Commissioner Marlene Baczek. Additional ice time is still available for the winter season, which lasts until April, said Park Director Tim Royster. Inquiries about

Judge maintains restraining order on village until Friday

Court rules on park vote Friday

Associate Judge Marjen Staniec will make a final disposition and present a written opinion Friday, Nov. 20 at 9:30 a.m. regarding the legality of the November 3 referendum for the Niles village takeover of the Niles park district. He continued the temporary restraining order until Friday's hearing.

At last Friday's (Nov. 13) court hearing, a Wednesday, Nov. 18 canvass of the vote will be conducted by the County Clerk of the Circuit Court. Staniec said it was important for the integrity of the process the canvass be taken. The previous joint canvass by village and park officials showed the takeover was approved by a 6,738 to 3,688 vote. The new canvass will add one precinct which had not previously been counted.

The controversy centers around the phrase "a legal voter." Attorney Mike LaVelle, representing the Niles Park District, said a legal voter is any voter qualified to vote. He contends the General Assembly made an unambiguous statement when it wrote a majority of the legal voters means exactly that phrase. LaVelle believes the majority of the "total registered" legal voters determines the outcome of the vote. Since there are about 17,000 legal voters within the district he believes about 8,500 voters must approve the takeover, which is almost 1,800 votes more than the 6,700 votes cast in favor of the November 3 referendum.

Attorney Richard Troy, representing the Village of Niles, contends the almost 2 to 1 vote, indicated the majority of those voting favored the village takeover. He

The court debate regarding the legality of the November 3 referendum for the Niles village takeover of the Niles park district hinges on the interpretation of the park and election codes. The park people contend a majority of the 17,000 registered voters in the district must approve the referendum. The village believes a majority of those voting determines the outcome of the vote. The canvass overseen by park and village officials had the voters approving the takeover by a 6,738 to 3,688 vote. It was a 64.6% approval.

If the park people are right then it would require 81.5% of the total of those voting to approve the referendum. The park people contend a majority of the 17,000 registered voters must approve the referendum. Half of 17,000 plus one is 8,501. Since 10,426 people voted, 8,501 is 81.5% of the November 3 voters. That percentage equates into 4 of every 5 people voting would have to approve of the takeover. We question whether that was the intent of the General Assembly when the law was written.

After Friday's court decision it could next go to the Appeals Court. If the village loses it will certainly go to the higher court. But if the park people lose there may be a problem about the estimated $10,000 cost to appeal the decision. If the park attorneys

Reassessment notices due in the mail

Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes' office has indicated that the notices of reassessed values for all properties in Maine Township will be mailed to taxpayers within the next few weeks.

Maine Township Assessor Tom Rueckert is alerting residents to watch for their notices. Those persons who feel their triennial reassessed property value is not in line with comparable properties should be prepared to file a complaint.

The best way to file a complaint is to find three comparable homes (square foot of living space, type of construction (frame vs. brick), age of house, lot size, size of garage, etc.) within your immediate neighborhood.

Plumber purchases Milwaukee Avenue building

The former TownHouse Appliance building at 7850 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, was recently purchased by Advantage Plumbing and Heating Company, a new business coming to the Niles area, specializing in plumbing, heating, kitchens and baths.

The owners, Irving Kotowsky and his sons Michael and David, will sell both wholesale and to the public, featuring top quality brands and quality service at a reasonable cost.

The large display area will allow customers to see how the finished product will look in their homes. The extensive warehouse area will allow Advantage to carry a full stock for immediate installation.

The property seller was the First National Bank of Niles. Tim Zaleski from ERA Callero & Catho Realty represented the seller of the 31,000-square-foot property, and Ronald Chamness from the same office procured the purchaser.

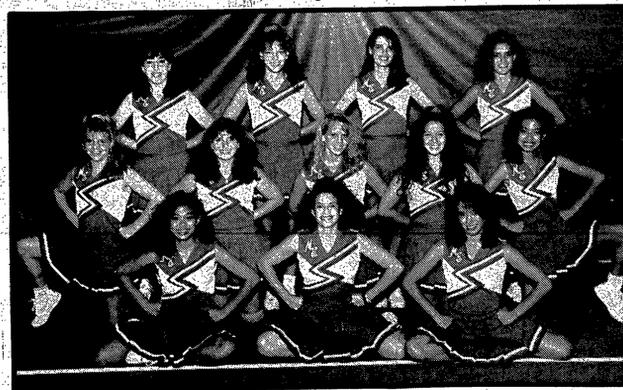

that have a lesser assessed value than your home. A complaint can also be filed based upon factual error in the description of your residence or lot size.

In order to obtain the value of a comparable home all you need to do is obtain the common address of that home and Assessor Rueckert will convert the address to a permanent index number (P.I.N.) and advise you of the assessed value of that house.

Four years ago during the quadrennial reassessment, Assessor Rueckert's office filed several thousand complaints on behalf of the residents of Maine Township. The vast majority obtained substantial relief.

District 207 math scores rise

Math scores at all three Maine high schools are up significantly this year in the second year of math testing for the Illinois Goals Assessment Program. The math scores are just one statistic reported in school report cards issued by the State of Illinois for 1991-92. The report cards give facts about students, student performance, instruction, and finance for the schools and for District 207.

On a scale in which the average state math score was 251, the average District 207 score was 308.

Maine East's average score was 309. Maine South's average score was 323. Maine West's average score was 290.

This compares to last year's average state math score of 250, the District 207 average score of 288, the Maine East average score of 292, and Maine South average score of 302, and the Maine West average score of 268.

"Our students are performing very well as we would expect them to perform," said James L. Elliott, Superintendent. "But

Niles woman found dead

A 19-year-old Niles woman was found dead in the family garage shortly after midnight, on Nov. 17. Police said the woman's parents found a note in their daughter's bedroom indicating she was despondent over a breakup with a boyfriend then discovered her body in her Jeep-type vehicle in the garage.

Dr. Metra Kalelkar of the Cook County Medical Examiner's office said the cause of death was carbon monoxide intoxication.

Morton Grove residents responded angrily at the village board meeting, Nov. 9, when trustees tried to pass an ordinance designating that 40-ton trucks could use certain residential streets to enter and exit the suburb.

Currently, the Morton Grove residential streets prohibit trucks more than five tons. Service trucks for the municipal center, Park District, public library and school districts exceed the limit. For example, a United Parcels Service truck weighs eight tons.

About fifty residents at the meeting did not want five-ton trucks except service trucks to travel on their streets. "This heavy traffic has caused cracks all the way across my ceiling," said Clarence Hall of 5541 Church St.

"Have you checked the weight limits in other communities?" asked Marilyn Appleton, another Morton Grove resident.

Other suburbs restrict 40-ton trucks on most residential streets unless a sign is posted. Bob Kuhn, a Park Ridge police officer, said trucks carrying 36.64 tons can travel on "non-designated" streets and trucks can carry up to 40 tons on "designated" streets, like Dempster Street. Kuhn said that in Illinois, trucks have to follow a specialized map of designated and non-designated streets with weight restrictions. Signs are posted on the residential streets that do not allow trucks exceeding five tons. Exemptions are made on the residential streets for service trucks.

In nearby Glenview, Dan McCarthy, a police officer, said signs are posted on the residential streets stating the weight restrictions for trucks. McCarthy said trucks also followed the specialized map directing which streets 40-ton trucks could use in Glenview.

According to the Morton Grove ordinance, signs would designate which streets trucks could use to leave the suburb after entering from the Edens Expressway.

Residents want the signs to instruct trucks over five tons to use another road. Residents want the police to ticket truck drivers who do not obey the signs. Larry Arft, the village administrator, said this was not possible because the police would have to weigh the trucks before they could ticket the truck driver. There are no weigh stations in the Morton Grove area. Arft said it was much more realistic to direct truck drivers to the residential roads they can use to exit Morton Grove.

The ordinance would establish the following residential streets for trucks to exit or to enter the village: Austin Avenue between Lincoln Avenue and Oakton Street; Beckwith Road between Lehigh Road and Waukegan Road; Central Avenue between Church Street and Golf Road; Central Avenue between Oakton Street and Mulford Street;

This is the second piece of fire fighting equipment to be purchased for the Fire District from the Bond Fund of 1989. The first piece of apparatus was a Pierce Arrow Quint (Ladder Truck).

The celebration of accepting the new engine was a part of the Fire District's annual Open House for Fire Prevention Week.

Niles Historical Society meeting

The Niles Historical Society will hold its next general meeting on Monday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Museum, 8970 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles. The monthly meetings are open to the public and are free of charge.

A narrative and slide program, "A Southerner's Unbiased View of the War Between the States," will be presented by Richard J. Dorman. This will explore topics our history books neglected, while recording the battles that took place in the eastern part of the divided nation.

The area of conflict was the region in which troops from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Wisconsin and Iowa were heavily involved. In the South, troops from Missouri, Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas and Texas were major defenders. The Western battles produced Grant and Sherman, and led eventually to their control over all the Union armies, and the end of the conflict. In addition to stating historical facts, little known stories of events and people involved in the action will be told.

A native of Mississippi, Dorman is descended from early settlers of Mississippi who fought for the Confederacy. He has been a resident of Park Ridge since 1962. He served in the U.S. Army Force during World War II and the Korean War. He was employed by the Bastain-Blessing Company before his retirement.

New exhibits featured at the Museum include: the Constitution, the Columbus Quincentennial, the 1893 Columbia Exposition, and fans from the estate of the late Adair Foy. The Museum is open Wednesdays and Fridays from 10:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tours are available upon request. The Society meets the fourth Monday of the month at the Museum. For information call (708) 390-0160.

Camera Club meets

The next meeting of the Des Plaines Camera Club will be Monday, Nov. 23, at the Des Plaines Public Library, 841 Graceland, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Club meets in the Library's meeting room downstairs.

After a brief meeting, the monthly Slide and Print Competition will take place. This month's special slide category is: "Night Scene" and will be the second slide submitted by each member.

October Slide-of-the-Month was captured by Ernie Stolle, President of the Club. Color Slide Awards were given to Richard Dembinski, Burton Terry and Ernie Stolle, with Honorable Mentions to Jerry Hug, Irene Szilagyi, Richard Dembinski, and Ernie Stolle. Print-of-the-Month was awarded to Jerry Hug.

Cardiac Diagnostic tool at Lutheran General

Lutheran General Hospital (LGH) is one of only 30 hospitals in the country and the only hospital in the Chicago area to have an angioscope, a device which allows cardiologists to see directly inside the coronary arteries. With this device, the cardiologists can determine the cause for angina or heart attack and implement the correct treatment.

Using fiber optic technology, the angioscope, which is manufactured by Baxter Healthcare in Deerfield, is threaded into the coronary arteries, the network of blood vessels that keeps the heart muscle alive. The scope has a small balloon that is inflated to anchor the device and to momentarily prevent blood from flowing. Saline is sprayed into the artery to clear the blood allowing the physician to see jutting yellow deposits of plaque and/or a bright red spot indicating a blood clot.

"With other similar tools, the images have not been adequate to determine the cause of the patient's cardiac problem" explains David Cooke, M.D., director, LGH Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory. "Physicians were forced to make a guess and implement treatment without exact knowledge."

The scope will also tell the physician the composition and age of a clot, the amount of plaque build-up and whether therapeutic treatment, such as balloon angioplasty, has been effective.

Dr. Cooke estimates that approximately 25 percent of the hospital's cardiac patients will be appropriate for this procedure. Patients who are most likely to be candidates for the procedure are those who do not respond to medication or show some typical symptoms which require further investigation. During the same session, angioscope patients will also undergo coronary balloon angioplasty or atherectomy (where plaque is scraped from the artery). The procedure does require an overnight stay in the hospital.

tion estimates that one in four Americans suffer some form of cardiovascular disease; 1.5 million Americans each year will have heart attacks; and almost 45 percent of all deaths in this country is attributable to cardiovascular disease.

The 30 hospitals utilizing the angioscope will be building data to help determine where the procedure is clinically useful, how it compares to other modalities and for which patients it will be useful.

LGH offers a full range of cardiac services. With three Cardiac Catheterization Labs, LGH has the busiest program in the area performing more than 3,000 catheterizations annually. Recently, the hospital completed its 20,000 procedure. Other diagnostic services include intra-coronary ultrasound, Doppler flow studies, echocardiograms, electrocardiograms, Holter monitoring, stress testing and nuclear medicine tests.

Therapeutically, the hospital's services include cardiac surgery, balloon angioplasty, directional coronary atherectomy, valvuloplasty and pacemaker implants, as well as therapeutic and preventive rehabilitation programs.

Electronic health care information network to save money

Louis W. Sullivan, M.D., secretary of Health and Human Services, held a press conference at Rush North Shore Medical Center recently to announce new steps being taken by the federal government that will save money on health care costs through a nationwide electronic health care information network.

Rush North Shore is an institution that is committed to help control medical expenses for consumers.

Dr. Sullivan was introduced to the audience and media by James T. Frankenbach, president of Rush North Shore Medical Center. "We were very pleased that Dr. Sullivan chose to come to Rush North Shore to announce these measures," said Mr. Frankenbach. "Our medical center is committed to doing whatever is possible to keep down medical costs, and we were happy to host Dr. Sullivan as he announced steps that could result in millions of dollars of annual savings."

Dr. Sullivan said major elements of the new system could be ready in 15 months for Medicare and Medicaid. The system will allow health care insurance and billing to be handled by computer networks, eliminating most paperwork.

When the system is fully implemented, Americans would carry a single health card, similar to a credit card, allowing them access to their own insurance coverage information. Billing would be performed electronically so that consumers and health care providers would no longer have to fill out extensive forms.

Non-insulin-dependent diabetes usually occurs in adults over 40 years of age. This is the most common form of diabetes and accounts for approximately 90 percent of the total diabetic population. It is usually gradual in onset. Some of the warning signs of diabetes are: blurred vision or any change in sight, tingling or numbness in legs, feet or fingers; frequent skin infections or itchy skin; slow healing of cuts and bruises; and drowsiness. Free diabetes screenings are available from 9 to 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 24 in the Flickinger Senior Center. People coming in for the screening should not be known diabetics and should fast from the evening meal of the night before.

SENIORS! DISTRICT 67 NEEDS YOU!

School District 67 (Golf and Hynes Schools) asks Morton Grove senior citizens, "Do you have as little as an hour a week that you can give to our school children?" The schools could use the experience and expertise of seniors in a variety of ways. This could be an opportunity to invest in the education of children from the community. The following list of opportunities is available:

- Reading buddy (reading to and along with children).
- Library helper.
- Individual or small group tutoring (reading, mathematics, etc.).
- Reading stories to students.
- Sharing a hobby.
- Sharing a life experience.
- Sharing travel experience.
- Craft or art demonstration.
- Picture person.
- Telling about your occupation.
- I wish to give some time, give me a call.
- Or something else.

Seniors who are interested can contact the superintendent's office at (708) 966-8200.

REMINISCENCE INTERVIEWS

The handing down of family history from one generation to another has always taken place. But with the more mobile and busier family of today, we need to make special efforts to provide seniors with opportunities to reminisce. Taking time to listen to another person reminisce gives the powerful unspoken message that "Who you are, what you have done, and the things you care about are very important to me. I believe in you. I accept you, I want to know your story. And even more, I receive what you have to offer as a gift." The Morton Grove Commission on Aging is conducting "Reminiscence Interviews" for interested individuals and their families. Those interested in an interview can call the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line at (708) 470-5223.

For more information about these senior services and recreation programs, call the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line at (708) 470-5223, or the Prairie View Community Center at (708) 965-7447.

NSJC Early Childhood registration

Our unique concept in Early Childhood education is incorporated in our new slogan: "We are concerned about your child as an individual."

We believe that in today's world, children have to be prepared to enter school, so we are geared toward developing their skills and abilities through play, fun, and learning at their own pace. One of our aims is to teach the child a love for learning. Our children learn to share, to get along with their peers, to listen and following directions, to respect the rights of others, and to like themselves.

The Early Childhood Center of Northwest Suburban Jewish Congregation is accepting registrations for the 1992-93 school year. Programs are available for children 2-1/2 through 5 years old.

We invite you to visit the children's world at Northwest Suburban Jewish Congregation. To arrange a visit or for further information, call Roz Porper, Director, at (708) 965-0901.

Police seize man wanted by Wheeling police

The Wheeling police on Nov. 11 alerted Niles police they were seeking a 32 year old man for criminal sexual abuse and for shooting a hole in his soon-to-be ex-wife's condo ceiling. Niles officers checked out the man's parent's house in the 8700 block of Ozanam Avenue, saw him leave and arrested him as he left. They found a live shot gun shell on the car's front seat and a 12 gauge shotgun in the trunk of the man's '87 Buick. He was turned over to Wheeling police.

Traffic offense

Tracing the sound of a crash early Nov. 14, a patrolling Niles officer came upon a Norridge man, 26, in his car in a lot in the 7300 block of Milwaukee Avenue. Both of the car's right side tires were blown out and the driver said he fell asleep and ran over a curb at Milwaukee and Waukegan Road.

A computer check indicated the man's license was suspended, so he was charged for that and improper lane usage, placed on $1,000 bond and given a Dec. 29 court date.

School egged

Between Nov. 7-9, persons unknown threw about three dozen eggs at 35 windows at Culver Middle School, 6921 Oakton St., Niles. Cost of clean up was estimated at $200.

Criminal damage to vehicle

The morning of Nov. 10, an Algonquin, IL plumber left a home improvement store in the 9000 block of Golf Road, Niles in time to see an unknown man wearing a light colored, hooded jacket and jeans plunge a screwdriver into his pick up truck's rear tire. The man then got into his van, which was parked next to the victim's truck and drove away, heading east on Golf Road. The damage inflicted by the two punctures would cost him $150, the plumber estimated.

Thefts

The night of Nov. 8, an employee of Foot Locker, Golf Mill, a Kenosha, Wisconsin man, 28, left a bag containing $1,598 and over $732 in personal checks in a bag on a brick ledge as he closed the store for the day, then left the mall. When he returned ten minutes later, the bag was missing.

An employee for Radio Shack, Golf Mill reported unknown offenders took a $999 computer from a store display and left without paying the night of Nov. 10.

Theft from garage

A resident of the 7500 block of Neva Ave., Niles, told police he found his garage door open when he returned home Nov. 5 and two sets of golf clubs were missing. He estimated his loss at $700.

Retail theft

The afternoon of Nov. 9, an agent for Homebase, Civic Center Plaza saw a Skokie woman, 25, take merchandise valued at $58. The woman, accompanied by three adult males and a juvenile girl, fled but were apprehended by Skokie police at Oakton Street and Gross Point Road. The stolen merchandise, a towel bar, bathroom accessories and two sanding blocks, were recovered from inside the car. The woman was charged with retail theft, placed on $1,000 bond and given a Dec. 24 court date.

In Homebase, Nov. 15, a Park Ridge man, 46, was stopped when an agent saw him take circuit breakers and work gloves with a nearly $70 value. The man received a "P" ticket.

The morning of Nov. 13, an agent for a grocery in the 7900 block of Milwaukee Avenue, Niles saw a man conceal a carton of cigarettes in his pants and attempt to leave without paying. Police charged the alleged thief, a Chicago man, 32, with retail theft, placed him on $1,000 bond and gave him a Dec. 24 court date.

Theft by deception

When a 46 year old Wilmette man received a bill for $1,181 on his credit card Nov. 14, he realized his card was missing from his desk at his workplace and suspected an employee he had fired two weeks ago. Unauthorized purchases of electronic equipment from a discount merchant in the 8100 block of Golf Road, Niles, had been charged to his account in October.

Missing Juvenile/Child Neglect

A missing three year old Niles girl is considered to be still in the care of her father, police sources said Nov. 17. The child's mother, a resident of the 8200 block of Elizabeth Street, reported her missing Nov. 11.

The woman said she put the girl and her son, 6, in the care of her boyfriend, 25, in late October when she left to visit her sick mother in California. The man reportedly is the father of the two children.

When interviewing the woman, police noticed the boy had a large bruise and laceration on the side of his head and took him to Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. He seemed confused or illiterate while being treated but said the man had caused his injuries.

Public Indecency

A maintenance manager for the Leaning Tower YMCA in Niles reported as she made her rounds the night of Nov. 14, a 60-year-old resident opened his robe and exposed himself as he stood near his apartment door. Carbon monoxide fumes can kill Every second your car is operating, it is producing a by-product so dangerous it could kill you. It is carbon monoxide gas, a result of the combustion process.

Carbon monoxide has no odor, no taste and no smell. If you are breathing carbon monoxide, you may not even know it, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

At first, carbon monoxide can make you sleepy or give you a headache. Too much of it, of course, can be fatal.

Garages present particular carbon monoxide hazards. Every winter we hear the wisdom that it's not wise to warm up a car in a closed garage. But AAA-CMC says, "motorists should never run the car for more than a few seconds in a garage, whether the door is closed or open."

Even if the garage door is open, carbon monoxide can seep into the passenger compartment of the car. Occupants of the vehicle will have a hard time getting fresh air.

It might seem reasonable to wait inside your house while the car warms in the garage. This is a very dangerous habit. You can lose track of time-when you enter the garage you could encounter a thick cloud of carbon monoxide smoke. The situation can be even worse if you have an attached garage. Carbon monoxide can seep into other portions of the house, no matter how good the insulation and ventilation is.

When driving through a long tunnel or in heavy traffic, carbon monoxide from other vehicles can be pulled into your car's passenger compartment. Increase your following distance and if you are forced to stop in a line of cars, stop well behind the vehicle ahead. Shut the air vents and turn off the air conditioner or heater if you are stopped in traffic for more than a few minutes.

If you are in open spaces, open your windows for fresh air. To reduce the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning, AAA-Chicago Motor Club offers these tips:

• Have your exhaust system checked regularly to make sure that it is functioning properly.

• Keep fresh air circulating in your car by adjusting the air vents or opening a front window. This will reduce the effects of carbon monoxide.

• In station wagons and vans, the rear window should be kept shut to prevent fumes from being pulled inside. It is not considered safe to drive with the rear gate open.

Increase cost of public phone calls

Illinois Bell today began temporarily raising to 30 cents the price for local public phone calls in Chicago and 160 other Illinois cities that levy a tax on local phone bills. The process of reprogramming affected public phones is expected to be completed in about 3 months.

The temporary increase will be used to recover the $34 million Illinois Bell began refunding last month to customers in the 161 municipalities.

Revenue from the extra nickel in the local calling rate will be tracked on a community-by-community basis. In each community, when the extra revenue reaches the amount refunded there, the temporary increase will be eliminated. The increase will last no longer than five years.

"This temporary increase enables us to collect the refund from the group of customers who the courts said should have paid it all along -- public telephone users," said John Ake, vice president of Regulatory Affairs.

The refund resulted from settlement of a class-action lawsuit, Shortino v. Illinois Bell, which disallowed Illinois Bell's previous method of collecting the expense of local taxes levied on payphone revenue. That method, approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission in 1955, allowed Illinois Bell to spread the expense for municipal utility taxes on payphone calls among all customers in the municipality who receive monthly bills. As a result of court rulings in the case of Shortino v. Illinois Bell, the company stopped collecting the expense in that manner in October 1991.

Refunds in the case, covering a period beginning in August 1980 and ending in October 1991, totaled about $34 million. After paying court-ordered Shortino attorneys' fees of $1.8 million, Illinois Bell refunded $28.5 million to customers through credits on October phone bills. The remainder was set aside in a claim pool for customers who may be eligible for a refund but did not receive one automatically.

The average refund for a Chicago business totaled about $60, and for a Chicago resident about $10. The average for a business outside Chicago totaled about $10, and for a non-Chicago resident about $2.

Credits varied widely since the refund was based on past municipal taxes paid by an individual customer.

The ICC last week approved the 30-cent local calling rate for Illinois Bell public phones in the affected municipalities.

Sheriff's Police crack stolen car operation

In an undercover operation, Cook County Sheriff's police arrested two Chicago men in Niles Nov. 12 and charged them with possession of a stolen auto. Jeffrey Lindemann, 22 and Joseph Battagui, 20, of Chicago's Rogers Park area were apprehended in a parking lot at 6300 W. Touhy Avenue, Niles after police set up the date on one of the men's pager.

The man allegedly promised "I can get you a Cadillac, whatever you want." Undercover officers, under the direction of Sgt. Craig Demakes and Sgt. Joe Freeman, agreed to meet the man and pay $500 for a stolen red 1991 Chevrolet Blazer. The Blazer was allegedly stolen from another Rogers Park resident, on north Campbell Avenue.

Let's not make simple things complicated

If the assessment of your real estate parcel has increased by a large amount, please don't make the assumption that your real estate taxes will also go up by the same percentage. Most people seem to think that an assessment increase is the reason for an automatic tax bill increase. The truth is that increased assessed value allows more money to be available if it is needed to be spent; however, only spending not availability makes real estate taxes go up.

If you note, when reading your local newspapers, that there is an unusually large increase in spending by one or more of the taxing bodies which service your property, what can you do? You can attend some future board meeting or contact the business manager's office and ask about the reason for the large increase in spending. There may be a real good reason for the increase, a reason you feel comfortable with, a reason which helps add value to your real estate and quality of your life style. On the other hand, you may not feel comfortable with the spending and want to give your input.

Remember, there are ways that you can give input and help direct and control much of the spending. It does take time, effort and involvement in your community. Become part of the solution - Get Involved! Try to read your local newspaper and watch for news of spending by taxing bodies.

Festival of Trees starts new tradition

During the weekend of November 20-22, you and your family have the opportunity to begin a new holiday tradition. You are invited to attend Lake County's first "Festival of Trees" at Midlane Country Club, 14565 Yorkhouse Road, Wadsworth, IL. The Festival is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are available at the door or may be purchased in advance at 12 locations throughout Lake County. They are $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens, and $1.50 for children aged 12 and under.

The Festival of Trees features dozens of festive holiday trees and wreaths to be admired, purchased and won in raffle. The artificial trees were donated to the Festival by area businesses and organizations. Skilled designers and craftsmen donated their talents to create delightful visions that will stay with you throughout the season. Other craft people have created holiday miniatures and gingerbread houses for home decoration and gifts. A unique benefit from the Festival is that decorated trees will be delivered to the homes of individuals who purchase them.

In addition to a winter wonderland of designer trees, the Festival promises to be fun for the entire family. Some of Lake County's most talented entertainers will be on stage to provide amusement throughout the Festival. These include the Libertyville Presbyterian Church Hand Bell Choir, the Zion High School Brass Ensemble, the Benny Tones Barbershop Quartet, the Waukegan Strolling Strings, and the Waukegan Symphony Brass Quintet.

Children will delight in a special "Breakfast with Santa" and the chance to talk to Santa via his

"Hot Line." Activities also include holiday shirt painting, personalized button making, holiday pasta necklace creating, and coloring in Frosty's Fantasyland. In addition, children will have the opportunity to "pick a prize" from the Pocket Lady.

Delicious home-baked holiday treats will be available for sale at the Festival Bake Shop. The bake shop will be stocked by a number of area organizations. Proceeds from their sales will support the individual organizations. These include the Altusa Club, Carnegie Project, Junior Woman's League of Waukegan, Shiloh Baptist Church, St. Anastasia PTO, and the Zion Benton Food Pantry.

Over 200 community volunteers have spent nearly a year planning Lake County's first Festival of Trees. Call the Victory Development Department at (708) 360-4246.

Students hiked through forests, prairies, and around wetlands observing the many animals and their habitats. The students were also able to touch turtles, a toad, a snake, and even saw an owl regurgitate a pellet containing the leftover bones of a mouse.

There was also a dig to find animals that live underground.

Scholarship dinner brings donors, winners together

Scholarship donors, recipients, parents and friends gathered at Oakton Community College recently for a recognition dinner. This unique banquet brings scholarship donors and recipients together for presentation of the scholarships.

More than 280 students applied for Oakton scholarships for the 1992-93 academic year, according to Marilyn Appelson, director of College Development, and 70 students were chosen to receive awards.

The mean grade point average of the scholarship winners was 3.50 on a 4.0 scale. Nearly $45,000 in scholarships were awarded.

Scholarships are made available to Oakton students through the generosity of community businesses, associations and individuals. Donations from benefactors are designated for a specific scholarship, a scholarship fund or an endowment fund in honor of an individual.

Opportunities are provided for scholarship donors as well, she continued. "Scholarships are a positive vehicle for expression of philanthropic generosity by the donors. And by meeting the recipients at the banquet, donors can actually see their contributions at work."

Speakers included President Thomas TenHoeve, Susan Lowth, Oakton student speaker who received the Oakton Board of Trustees Scholarship and last year, the Charles Goodnow/Chicago Bar Association Scholarship. Lowth will attend Northern Illinois University in January and plans to pursue a bachelor's degree in business management. Harry Tankus, founding Oakton Educational Foundation director and retired chairman of the John Crane Inc., delivered closing remarks.

To a crowd of 200, Tankus spoke of how he came to this country an immigrant at a tender age during the depression era in early 1930. Despite hard times, he remained focused on education and kept adding special training to his credits through the years.

Local students receiving 1992-93 Oakton scholarships include: Seri Greenspon, Hoa Chi Ho, Maine Reynes and Ann Wozowski of Morton Grove; and Gayatri Pathak of Niles.

Student council lists activities

Nelson School Student Council, under advisor Sandy Chaet, has had a busy October. For Halloween, the representatives from grades 3 to 6 decorated the school for the holiday parade which took place Friday, Oct. 30. Student Council also sponsored a pumpkin contest. Each student who entered received a "Happy Halloween" pencil.

The seven winners were: Jessie Mody, Chad Poznansky, Ryan Ready, Stephanie Levine, Dany Wrona, Kara Taksin, and Victoria Illera. Pumpkins were carved, colored and decorated. For example, one pumpkin was a porcupine, another was made into a golden trophy, while another was a taffy apple. Some were decorated with hats and curlers.

Student Council also held a mock presidential election. All students and teachers voted. Our results were 213 votes for President George Bush, 236 for Governor Bill Clinton, and 95 for Ross Perot.

Gemini recognizes red ribbon week

October 26 through October 30, was RED RIBBON WEEK at Gemini Junior High School. The theme for this year was "Drug Free and Proud".

During this week, 7th grade Health classes hung banners and posters in the halls of the school with slogans prepared by the Health classes in conjunction with East Maine School District #63's Drug Education curriculum. These classes also decorated the cafeteria with "DRUG FREE" banners, posters and red streamers.

For a final touch red ribbons were tied on the trees and posts outside of the building as well as displaying red ribbons on all exterior windows of the school.

Tuesday, Oct. 27, was the official "RED RIBBON DAY." All teachers distributed Red Ribbons to their students. Mr. Jablon read the "Gemini Drug Free Proclamation" over the public address system and encouraged all students and staff to wear their Red Ribbons for the entire week.

Two seventh grade students, Nikki Gabriel and Yasmina Zec represented Gemini School at the regularly scheduled School Board meeting. There was a short Red Ribbon Ceremony in which representatives from all schools were involved. Mrs. Christie and Mrs. Piotrowski were the teacher representatives for Gemini.

On Wednesday, Oct. 28, all students and staff members were encouraged to wear red garments to celebrate the official WEAR RED DAY.

Oakton courses serve older adults

If the Emeritus Program for older adults at Oakton Community College is any indication, older adults are spending less time in their rocking chairs and more time in classrooms.

Older adults are turning out in greater and greater numbers for both credit and non-credit classes offered through Oakton's Office of Older Adults. Emeritus classes are held on both Oakton campuses and at convenient off-campus sites throughout Oakton's 15-community district.

Classes are offered through Oakton's Emeritus Program for older adults, but are open to students of all ages. Classes begin the week of January 19 and continue through May 19.

Fiction examines the classic and popular culture literature of relationships: parental, social and psychological. Short stories, films and novels including The Bridge of San Luis Rey, The Heart is a Lonely Hunter, and The Left Hand of Darkness are reviewed. This class meets on Tuesday, from 1:30 to 4:20 p.m., beginning January 19 at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

Creative Writing covers a variety of literary techniques to help students develop a writing voice. Included are individual conferences, workshop sessions (peer responding), group and partner work, portfolios (mid- and end-of-semester pickup) and reading discussions of published pieces. The class meets on Wednesdays, from 1 to 3:50, starting January 20, also at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus.

International Contemporary Fiction looks at the literary and political value of novels from around the world. This class meets on Tuesday, from 1 to 3:50 p.m., beginning January 19, at the Park Ridge Library, 20 S. Prospect Ave., Park Ridge. The class is taught by Diane Capitani, a popular Emeritus instructor and coordinator of Oakton's alumni relations.

Native American Women Authors explores Native American heritage by looking at the vast landscape of its rich culture through a study of folklore, legends, ceremonies and oral traditions. This class meets on Thursdays, beginning Jan. 21, from 12:30 to 3:20 p.m. at the Winnetka Women's Exchange, 725 Pine St., Winnetka, adjacent to the Winnetka Community House.

All credit courses can be audited if the student does not want to receive credit. Tuition is $25 per credit hour for students under 60 and $12.50 per credit hour for students over 60 who live in the district.

For more information about these and other credit offerings as well as non-credit opportunities, contact the Emeritus Program at (708) 635-1414.

Writer's award presented posthumously

The late Gail Albracht, a highly revered writing instructor at Oakton and the recent Write On...writing competition sponsored by Oakton Community College's Office of Older Adults have much in common. Albracht, active in creative writing in the college's Emeritus Program for older adults, lost her battle with cancer last year.

As the Emeritus Program sought to honor Albracht and recognize the students in its programs, the idea of a writing competition for "people who have lived long enough to have a tale" came into being. It was natural, then, to present the winners of the Write On...competition with the first Gail Albracht Writing Awards.

"This seemed like a good way to recognize our writing winners," says Leona Hoelting, manager of the older adults program at Oakton. "Gail Albracht had such a strong arm in the direction of our creative writing programs. Giving these awards in her name seemed like a fitting way to honor her memory."

And so, at the Emeritus 10th anniversary celebration, the Gail

Albracht awards were distributed for the first time to three finalists and 12 semi-finalists in the categories of fiction, non-fiction and poetry.

An interesting turn of events occurred when finalists were contacted about their selections, and it was discovered that Inez Mueller, winner of the poetry category, had died a week before. Mueller, who wrote under the penname IneZeni, was given the Gail Albracht award for poetry for her piece, Here Chimpunks Play With Angels. Prior to her death, Mueller had been active in the Emeritus Program as a member of Acting Up!, the Emeritus performing arts troupe. She was also involved in an Emeritus discussion group which met weekly to explore topics in the humanities. Her discussion leader, Eugene Byrd, remembers her influence on the group.

"The camaraderie that developed in that group was remarkable," he says, "and Inez's poetry was a motivating factor and catalyst."

Says the author's daughter Jerin Mueller-Moore, "Oakton Community College played an important role in my mother's life since the death of my dad in 1975. And the members of her discussion group touched my mother's innermost core of being."

Other winners of the Write On...competition were Rosh Kagan who took the award in fiction with her original work, The Good Old Boys. Confessions of an Addict brought Yetta Lebolt the finalist's award in non-fiction.

The Write On...competition drew more than 80 entries from older adults. At the awards ceremony, Muller-Moore accepted the award for her mother and read Here Chimpunks Play With Angels, as she had at the author's funeral in August.

Adults over the age of 50 who are interested in the opportunities (both credit and non-credit) offered by the Emeritus Program are encouraged to call (708) 635-1414 for more information.

Japanese nurses tour local nursing center

Eight Japanese nurses on a nationwide tour to study healthcare delivery systems in the U.S. recently visited Ballard Nursing Center. Because of its expertise and leadership in rehabilitation therapy, Ballard was chosen as a shopping point for the Japanese nurses.

The nurses were all directors of nursing at hospitals throughout Japan or teachers in nursing colleges. They focused on the continuity of care provided by Ballard, together with Lutheran General Health Care System.

"The nurses were particularly interested in the path a senior follows after undergoing an operation like a joint replacement,"

Joanne Bedrosian, Ballard's Administrator, explained. "In the U.S. a senior goes to a hospital for the procedure and then comes to a facility such as Ballard for skilled rehabilitation before returning home."

were particularly impressed by the number of residents we send home," Bedrosian said. "For instance, more than 90% of our orthopedic patients go home."

In Japan, rehabilitation is handled by the hospital and "there are no facilities as unique as Ballard with its extensive rehabilitation services," according to Mamoru Ono who served as interpreter for the group.

Joanne Bedrosian, Ballard Nursing Center administrator, (second from right) addresses a group of Japanese nurses, (seated), who recently visited the facility to study its rehabilitation department. Mamoru Ono, (right), translates.

During their visit to Ballard's occupational and physical therapy departments, the Japanese visitors observed a number of Ballard residents as they worked with the therapists. The nurses asked questions, took notes, and handled many of the items used by rehabilitation clients to improve hand-eye coordination and strengthen muscles. "Our guests

The nurses are on travel scholarships provided by a Japanese insurance company. Earlier in the day they visited Parkside Adult Day Care Center, operated by a division of Lutheran General Health Care System. Future stops include Philadelphia, New York and Hawaii and then home to their hospitals and colleges.

Kelly offers Assisted Living

Kelly Assisted Living, a subsidiary of Kelly Services, was established in 1976 to meet a growing need for quality in-home care.

Kelly Assisted Living Caregivers provide the care and companionship that many people need to remain independent and in the comfort of their own home.

Kelly Assisted Living Caregivers work as an extension of a client's family, assuming the tasks, care and companionship that family members are unable to provide due to full-time work schedules, distances from those needing care, and the demands of their own families. Kelly selects its caregivers based on experience, skills, and results of an evaluation of each applicant.

Unlike institutional or in-home medical care, Kelly Assisted Living focuses on assisting people within their own environment, concentrating on their individual needs, whether they be social, recreational or physical.

To provide individualized programs, Kelly Assisted Living assigns caregivers who are interested and qualified to provide special care to people with particular needs. In order to achieve this, each client's home environment and physical needs are evaluated through a Home Conference.

For example, does the client have a pet? What hobbies does the client have? What kind of food does the client prefer? Does he/she enjoy a cup of tea before retiring for the evening? These personal touches are what makes Kelly Assisted Living stand apart from other services.

The end result will be a clear understanding of the client's needs and the means to assign an excellent caregiver who will provide personal, individualized care.

With nearly 100 offices in 30 states nationwide, Kelly Assisted Living Caregivers furnish such home care services as light housekeeping, shopping and errands, bathing, dressing, preparing and serving nutritious meals, general household management and friendly companionship and care.

Thanksgiving and Family Ties at Ballard

Thanksgiving is a time for families and for sharing. Ballard sponsors family events for those few residents who are unable to go out.

Luther Village: A secure investment in retirement living

An exciting new concept in retirement living is making its mark on 57 landscaped acres in northwest suburban Arlington Heights.

"Luther Village" is one of the first full equity retirement communities in the country and is being developed by the Charles H. Shaw Co. The community is designed for active adults, aged 55 and older, who want to enjoy a full retirement, yet benefit from the financial advantages of home ownership.

Luther Village residents own Luther Village through a cooperative form of ownership. This allows them to benefit from tax deductions available to homeowners, and realize full market price if they sell.

Adding to that value is the fact that residents pay only for services they need or want. A full range of services, from meals to health care, are available, but are provided on an as-needed basis. The cost differences can be substantial. For example, bundled (all-inclusive) services can cost $1,000 to $2,500 a month, with Luther Village's base is $350 to $800 a month for maintenance, property tax, insurance, utilities, operations and staff.

The Village is situated around a lake and includes fountains, a garden center and a recreation center. Once completed, Luther Village will include 60 courtyard homes, 96 villa ranch-style townhouses and 512 residences in four mid-rise buildings which will be linked to the 40,000-square-foot Wittenberg Commons by enclosed walkways.

Nine different floor plans are available. The one- and two-bedroom units in the Mid-rise building begin at $108,000 and have a full kitchen, balcony or patio, and some include a den. Laundry rooms are offered on each floor and reserved parking is available within the building.

This two-story "centerpiece" building acts as a clubhouse, activities center, dining area, and health club. It will include a dry cleaner, barber shop, bank, beauty shop, convenience store, gift shop, health club with pool, dining rooms and offices.

The Villa units are built four to a building and are priced from $196,000. Two different Villa floor plans are currently offered. Finally, there are Courtyard homes which surround the lake and are arranged six units to a cluster.

All of the units include brick and cedar exteriors, security alarm, 24-hour emergency call systems, smoke detectors, wall-to-wall carpeting, custom quality wood cabinets, refrigerator, dishwasher, disposal, electric range, stainless steel sink and electric garage door opener.

At Luther Village, residents may use their own health care providers to take advantage of the facilities of the Lutheran Home. A further benefit is priority access to the Lutheran Home for temporary or long-term nursing care as well as social, recreational and therapy programs.

Luther Village is located at 1280 Village Dr. in Arlington Heights. For more information or a free brochure, call Luther Village at (708) 506-1919.

Recognize Emeritus instructors

The Emeritus Program for older adults at Oakton Community College is celebrating its 10th anniversary during the week of Oct. 12-16. As part of the celebration activities, several people are being recognized for their roles in establishing and supporting programs for older adults. Two of these are Dorothy Doherty and Patrick Casali.

Dorothy Doherty, a licensed social worker, was one of the first Emeritus teachers. Her involvement with senior education had begun long before, when she taught psychology courses to older adults at the Angle Guardian Center in Chicago.

Doherty finds the adult over 50 years of age so intriguing, she says, because it's at this age that individuals truly "find" themselves and begin to understand their lives. Emeritus students explore this self-awareness in Doherty's Emeritus psychology class, which is designed to help students "probe their lives and hold their experiences gently in their hands."

Patrick Casali, professor of humanities and languages, has also been part of the Emeritus Program since its inception. Casali, who taught Opera and Music Appreciation at Oakton for 20 years, believes the Emeritus mission was to offer courses to pique the interest of older adults. His courses have done just that. In fact, his classes have gained such notoriety that his fall courses each year are filled in the early spring.

Casali credits the success of the Emeritus Program to people like Leona Hoelting, director of the program, who recognized the needs of the community. And, Casali says, the program has paid its dues.

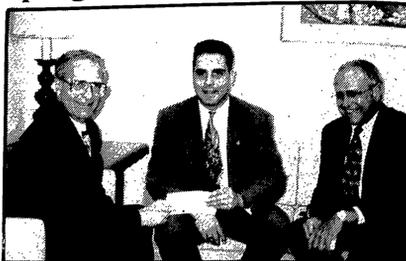

"If there was any kind of gamble in the beginning, the program has indeed proven itself," explains Casali. It reflects the community needs and has become a role model for other schools, which are only beginning to follow suit.

As it celebrates its 10th anniversary, the Emeritus Program re-dedicates itself to working with people over 50 years of age who want to find new and productive challenges to continue learning throughout their lives. The anniversary week celebration, A Touch of Class, includes daily events, with speakers and activities on many topics.

All activities including a Senior Expo on Friday, Oct. 16, are free to the public. Refreshments throughout the week are provided by Humana Gold Plus.

For more information, contact the Office of Older Adults at (708) 631-1414.

Cooking for Mom: bringing it home

"Mom says her Meals-On-Wheels have been terrific! She is very pleased with the variety and punctuality of all she has received so far."

So says Rosemarie in a note to PLOWS Council on Aging, the senior services agency that arranged for delivery of a daily nutritious lunch to Rosemarie's mother as part of an outreach program underway in suburban Cook County sponsored by the Suburban Area Agency on Aging.

With a full time job in Chicago, Rosemarie is unable to attend to her frail mother during the day. To help fill the gap, a volunteer driver from PLOWS provides a home delivered meal to Rosemarie's mother each day.

The driver is one of a number of volunteers who travel several routes in the southwest suburbs to provide a friendly greeting and hot, well balanced meals to seniors such as Rosemarie's mom.

Thanks to this program, Rosemarie is able to continue her career in the knowledge that someone is seeing her mother every day and providing her with one of life's basic necessities which enables her to continue living independently in her own apartment.

Not only is the meal hot and well balanced, it is delivered on a consistently timely schedule.

"When medication is to be taken with food, it is especially helpful to be able to depend on timely deliveries," says Rosemarie. "And I am pleased to have the peace of mind to know that mom has a balanced meal."

This happy convenience for Rosemarie stems from a visit she and her mother made to the local Social Security office recently. There they met Diana Santolin and Chris Feltz, outreach workers from PLOWS Council on Aging, a not-for-profit senior services agency.

Diana and Chris were at the Social Security office because of its high traffic of older people. As outreach workers, their mission is to inform seniors and their caregivers of community-based services such as home delivered meals that help older persons live vital and independent lives at home in their own community.

PLOWS Council on Aging is part of a suburban Cook County outreach project whose aim is to alert seniors about services and benefits for which they may be eligible. The services include in-home support such as housekeeping service, friendly visiting and respite (substitute care for an older person while a caregiver takes a break). They also include a wide range of transportation services, housing benefits, help with energy costs and income supplements as well as health related benefits.

The outreach program, an 18-month project involving nineteen community-based senior services agencies like PLOW, is being funded by The Chicago Community Trust in recognition of the rapidly mushrooming senior population in Chicago's suburbs. Now the fastest growing segment of the population, the number of persons age 60 and older residing in suburban Cook County has grown by 22 percent in the years between 1980 and 1990.

The outreach project is being coordinated by the Suburban Area Agency on Aging, a private, not-for-profit human services agency and designated by the Illinois Department on Aging to plan for and administer senior services programs in suburban Cook County. The programs are underwritten with funds authorized by the Older Americans Act, the State of Illinois and other funding sources.

For more information about services and benefits for seniors throughout suburban Cook County, including referral to local senior service organizations such as PLOWS Council on Aging, call (708) 383-0258.

The agency can also provide information about opportunities for volunteer service in a variety of programs.

Loyola researchers find older workers an untapped resource

The traditional workplace as we know it may soon cease to exist, according to two Loyola University Chicago researchers who predict that most corporations will need to retain their older workers beyond the traditional retirement age of 65.

Due to a decline in birthrates after 1960 and the fact that older Americans are increasing in number and percentage of the population, the work force of the year 2000 will have a very different look, according to Arthur G. Dobbelaere, Ph.D., director of Loyola's Institute of Human Resources and Industrial Relations, and Kathleen H. Goepfinger, Ph.D., associate professor of Industrial Relations.

People under 25 will comprise a smaller share of the labor pool than they currently do, and as a result, the United States may not have enough workers to fill traditional jobs in service producing industries, they report in the January, 1993 issue of Contingencies.

In their article, "Older Workers: With All Their Experience Why Aren't They Still Employed?", Dobbelaere and Goepfinger use McDonald's, Days Inn, and Hewlett-Packard as examples of corporations that are already actively recruiting and hiring older workers and bringing back their own retirees to fill job vacancies.

Based on their current research of Fortune 2000 corporations, the Loyola researchers have found that most other corporations are under-utilizing an important resource by ignoring older workers who might have been forced into an early retirement. Many are ready, willing and able to continue working at least on a part-time basis.

"Older workers possess the skills and talents," says Dobbelaere, "but they have been put to pasture by something arbitrary like age."

Employers cannot assume employees are eager to retire, say Dobbelaere and Goepfinger. For many, it is just the opposite. Along with retirement can come a serious loss of friends, self-esteem and continuous financial concern. Other researchers have found that many people equate retirement with death.

It will be very important to have a strategic plan in place to easily assimilate older workers into the work environment, say Dobbelaere and Goepfinger. Incentives in the form of job sharing opportunities, flexible hours, and extended vacation periods are recommended. Also suggested is the changing of present-day corporate policies and attitudes prior to a successful integration of the older workers into the workplace.

But most importantly, Dobbelaere and Goepfinger say that the key to the successful management of older workers in the corporation is the use of an effective performance appraisal system.

"An appropriate performance appraisal system would evaluate older workers according to how much they contribute," says Dobbelaere. "If they are still able to contribute, then there is no reason to terminate them just because they have reached a certain age."

One hundred years ago, only 4 percent of the population was older than 65, but today there are more Americans age 65 and older than there are teenagers. In addition, the number of people age 55 and older increased by 14 million between 1970 and 1990.

Now's the time to execute a durable power of attorney for health

Families are often caught unprepared when facing a medical emergency when they are asked if they have a living will or a durable power of attorney.

Eli Pick, past president of the American College of Health Administrators, said that hospitals and nursing centers are required by law to ask people being admitted if they have an advance directive, such as a living will or a power of attorney for health. "Most people do not have either, and are uncertain of their advantages."

"The power of attorney will name the loved one you have selected to make crucial decisions for you in case you can't make them yourself."

After you have met with your lawyer and have executed a power of attorney, you should carry a letter or card on your person which states that you have done so. To make this easy, Pick said that the Women's Bar Association of Illinois has developed a wallet card which takes only moments to fill out.

If accident or serious illness prevents you from making a medical staff aware of your wishes, the card will insure that they are informed.

It is also important to tell a

Increasing income for retirement

by Jeffrey Cardella
Edward D. Jones & Co.
8143 N. Milwaukee Ave.
Niles, IL 60714, (708) 470-8953

A question facing many retirees today is, how much income will they need in the future to maintain their standard of living? The answer is, more. How much more depends on inflation, but retirement without an increasing income is a ticket to poverty.

According to recent figures from Morgan Stanley Research, during the most recent period of moderate inflation (1982-present), the consumer price index (CPI) rose at an annual rate of less than 4 percent. During the most recent period of rapid inflation (1971-1981), the CPI rose at an average annual rate of 8.3 percent. During that period, the dollar lost more than half of its buying power, a financial disaster for anyone living on a fixed income.

Add to this the steady decline in income from certificates of deposit and money-market funds, and you see the dilemma many retirees face. In just the past five years, income from CDs has dropped from more than 8 percent to less than 4 percent. Investors who have traditionally relied on these investments now must choose between staying in short-term securities and keeping their principal stable or picking up extra income by investing long term and risking a capital loss.

A wide range of mutual funds, generally classified as equity-income or growth-and-income, attempt to combine reasonably higher yields with capital appreciation. Their objective is to produce a higher income every year for investors and to keep shareholders' income ahead of inflation.

How do the funds accomplish this? The fund managers attempt to select securities with a history of increasing dividends and work to overcome a decreasing income by carefully monitoring their portfolios. During 1991, when the yield on the unmanaged Standard & Poor's 500 Composite Index was about 3 percent, some of these funds were providing an income return of more than 5 percent.

Of course, anyone investing in a mutual fund should be aware that the share prices will fluctuate.

These funds concentrate investments on large, well-known, well-financed companies that are broadly based to weather the normal ups and downs of the business cycle. The funds also hold non-equity assets such as bonds and Treasuries, which should enhance yields and increase stability.

The appeal of these funds is that their current yields are generally better than you would get on short-term investments. The possibility of significant capital appreciation is an added benefit. There is, of course, the risk of capital loss if markets decline.

There are additional factors, such as sales charges and expenses, which should be considered when choosing a mutual fund. Investors should always review the prospectus for a mutual fund before making any investment.

There are few guarantees in investing. If however, you believe a rising income is an important part of your retirement planning, then you should consider investments with a solid history of regular dividend increases.

Mom always helped me solve my problems. Now it's my turn.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! The residents of the North Shore Retirement Hotel invite all to a traditional Olde English 16th Century Madrigal Dinner in the Grand Ballroom on Wednesday, Dec. 9 from 6 to 8 p.m. A $12 donation per person will benefit Julia Center of Chicago and Acom of Evanston.

The Madrigal Dinner will recapture the festive merry-making of the Renaissance era when the North Shore is transformed into The North Shore Manor, in the Kingdom of Evanston. Lively music and fanfare will be performed while courtly pages present the wassail bowl for toasts and the platter holding high the boar's head. Singers from the Renaissance Musicians' Guild will serenade dukes and duchesses with 16th Century melodies and early Christmas carols.

Dancer, jugglers, musicians and more from We're Not Joust Theater will abound. They will dazzle guests with intriguing illusions, adventurous antics and mystical moves. All will be dressed in Renaissance finery and guests are invited to dress in costume as well.

Reservations are required and seating is limited for this magical evening at the North Shore Retirement Hotel. For further information and reservations contact, Mollie Wallsteadt or Sandra Small at (708) 864-6400 -- and feast and frolic all!

Eyes tell health story

"Oh my back! I can't see!" What could these two ailments possibly have in common?

Dr. Mark Rosanova and Dr. Mary Ann Rosanova-Kaper from Advanced Eyecare Associates recently met with a dedicated group of chiropractors at Belmont Community Hospital to discuss just that.

"Surprisingly, your eyes are great indicators as to what may be going on inside your body," says Dr. Rosanova, Surgical Director of Advanced Eyecare Associates. "By looking into your eye a doctor can detect: diabetes, hypertension, cancer and blood abnormalities."

For more information on how eyes can be an important part of the physical exam, ask a doctor or call Advanced Eyecare Associates at (312) 594-0000.

Harbor Village Retirement Community: Where friendship is a way of life

By: Dee Dunheim

The warm family-like congregational lifestyle at Harbor Village Retirement Community in Chicago's Lakeview neighborhood, extends an invitation to leave isolation and loneliness behind. Harbor Village affords ongoing opportunities for seniors to meet and befriend other people of the same maturity level, while keeping and entertaining the friends they have made over the year.

"While our residents have freedom to make their own choices and come and go as they please," explains Pat DiFiore, chief executive officer of Harbor Village and Ashley Management, which created the retirement community, "...they feel safe and secure, without the worry of maintaining a condo, home or apartment on their own."

Seniors are invited to use the elegant, homey common areas, media and activity rooms, lounges, library and dining rooms of the complex at 144-room rental apartment complex at 3121 North Sheridan Road, to host parties and entertain friends and family without the hassle of shopping, cooking and cleaning.

And with more time on their hands, residents of Harbor Village can rediscover talents and interests they were too busy to pursue before their retirement. The wide varieties of activities and social options provided by Pat and Erin would be impossible for seniors to duplicate if they lived alone.

Residents have opportunities to be physically motivated to reach goals they never would have attempted if they were living on their own. They are presented with delicious and nutritious waitress-serve meals, are offered exercise classes specifically geared to seniors, and are included to socialize with many carefully planned activities both within Harbor Village and its surrounding community.

"Our senior population is learning that age is irrelevant; attitude counts, and aging is but another phase in the adventure of life," says Pat. And when their lives continued at a busy pace, the results are rewarding for both residents and staff, all who have become very close.

The Harbor Village philosophy is to make affordable rental housing available for seniors in neighborhoods where they conducted businesses, raised families and established a bond with the community. "But, at the same time," reports Pat, "...an increasing number of empty nesters from the suburbs and returning out of state retirees are moving back to their old Chicago neighborhoods -- many of which have not been rehabbed and revitalized."

At Harbor Village Retirement Community apartments are rental units, with no endowment fee. For information and a tour, call (312) 404-9800.

Pat DiFiore, CEO and Eric Mulheran, executive director of Harbor Village Retirement Community received the coveted 1992 ALEX Award for Senior Housing.

Breast Care Center at Loyola Medical Center

The new Breast Care Center at Loyola University Medical Center eliminates the frustration and anxiety often associated with the time-consuming diagnosis of breast disease by combining examination, diagnosis and treatment plan in one visit.

It is one of only a few centers of its kind in the Midwest. Utilizing a progressive multidisciplinary approach to treat breast disease, the center offers same-day consultations with physicians in surgery, radiation oncology, medical oncology, radiology, pathology and plastic surgery.

"Our approach helps patients get answers, fast," explained Dr. Gerard V. Aranha, director of the center and professor of surgery.

"With our specialized center, we are able to initiate care right away, which is a strong advantage in successful treatment," Aranha added.

In 1991, 176,000 new cases of breast cancer were diagnosed in the United States, compared with 142,000 in 1989. The incidence of the cancer has been increasing at a rate of 3 percent per year over the last decade, due in part to progress in detecting tumors in earlier stages.

"For patients with a suspicion or diagnosis of cancer, this center allows all disciplines to interact and offer a treatment plan at the initial visit," explained Dr. Kathy S. Albain, co-director of the center of medical oncology and associate professor of medicine.

Nichols Lighted School Community Center programs

Nichols Lighted School Community Center, located at 800 Greenleaf and sponsored by the City of Evanston, District 65, local youth organizations, and Nichols Neighbors - offers a variety of free programs and activities for all ages. Monday through Friday from 6 to 9 p.m., the public is invited to a drop-in gym, tutoring programs, adult classes, and more. Free space is also available for community use. Volunteers are needed for both the tutoring and mentor programs. Call 492-7881 to reserve a space or to get more information.

The possibility for breast conservation is discussed whenever possible, under the guidance of Dr. Anne McCall, co-director for radiation oncology.

Breast disease is not limited to cancer, however.

"We look at all breast conditions, many of which can be easily treated," explained Sandra Hoffman, Breast Care Center nurse coordinator.

"Regardless of the disease, the key to treatment is to seek medical care immediately after discovering a lump or problem," she urged.

Second-opinion consultations for abnormal mammograms and other breast problems also are available.

The Breast Care Center treats patients on Friday afternoons. More information is available by calling Hoffman, (708) 216-6480.

Recognize coordinator for disabled services

Maine Township Disabled Services Coordinator Donna Anderson was honored by the City of Chicago Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities for her work in increasing public awareness of issues affecting the disabled.

Anderson, a dedicated and effective disability rights advocate, received the August W. Christmann Award. She was nominated by State Rep. Penny Pullon.

A paraplegic who incurred a spinal cord injury in 1969 when her car was struck by a drunk driver, Anderson has devoted years to helping others cope with their disabilities. Her contributions have included advocacy for legislation, promotion of programs to strengthen employment, housing and transportation opportunities, and implementation of programs to remove physical barriers in public facilities and polling places.

She initiated a support group, helped develop an audio-video slide show on accessibility that is available to community groups, and spearheaded an effort to publish a Disabled Access Guide for Maine Township and surrounding areas.

She has conducted programs to educate local businesses on compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and other government regulations and last June organized a Job Fair to link businesses with disabled job applicants.

Historical Society to award quilt

Hand-pieced in 1920, a crazy patch quilt was donated to the Des Plaines Historical Society by Mrs. Ethel Foss. The multi-color, embroidered pieces were applied by Alma McMannus, a retired CTA ticket booth employee, but the quilt was never finished. The Des Plaines Historical Museum's Kinder Quilters received the quilt top in 1990 and member Virginia Willis, refurbished the top (stitching new pieces over original frayed ones), added a black satin backing and tied the quilt.

The double-bed sized quilt is on display at the Museum, 789 Pearson, Des Plaines, on the bed in the master bedroom.

A limited number of tickets to award the quilt will be sold with the drawing taking place on December 6. Tickets are $1 each or

There's no present like the time for parents

Call it "The Time Trap." A new survey reveals almost two-thirds of today's parents believe one percent should stay home with pre-school-age children no matter what. But only one-third can afford the time to do so.

More than 1,000 parents from across America were surveyed by IOF Foresters, a not-for-profit fraternal organization, and Baby Talk magazine, the nation's oldest baby magazine, to gain insight about the time vs. money dilemma that new parents face.

Sixty-one percent of the parents said that if you can make ends meet, one parent should stay home with pre-school-age children no matter what. Another 31 percent said it would be nice to have one parent stay home, but not if it means cutting out all the extras from the family budget. Only 35 percent of the two-parent families surveyed were able to get by on one income.

"For a child, love is spelled T-I-M-E," says motivational speaker and author Zig Ziglar, who advocates that investments of time and energy in the early years will pay "dividends of love and enjoyment in later years."

The surveyed parents agreed. If money was not a concern, 35 percent would not work and stay home with the children indefinitely. Another 25 percent would not work and stay home with the children until they entered preschool.

"The Time Trap's" culprit is family finances, not career satisfaction. Only 22 percent of the families surveyed have both parents working just to fulfill their needs of stimulation and satisfaction that work brings to their lives.

Different women have developed different strategies to cope with "The Time Trap." Some women choose to work part-time. Another solution is to own your own business, either working out of your home or setting up your own hours at the office. If you do have to work full-time, stress expert and IOF Foresters parenting consultant Dr. Richard Earle offers another suggestion: "Plan for special times together with your family and make sure to set aside time for yourself. Make a point of scheduling these times into your weekly activities."

Earle issues the following warning: "Juggling the demands of family and working life is one of the leading causes of stress today. Parents who try to do it all often feel irritable, tired, anxious and tense."

Earle also believes too many parents feel guilty and worry about all the things they are supposed to do. "It is usually these self-doubts that fuel your personal and your family's stress. However, studies show that effectively juggling these demands is the key to managing stress."

Among other survey findings:

- 37 percent say there is no way they can make ends meet without two salaries.
- 28 percent say there is no way they can have any extras without two salaries.
- 8 percent say they are hesitant to take a break in their careers in these uncertain economic times.

A "Managing Family Stress Kit" by Dr. Earle is offered for free by the IOF Foresters, a not-for-profit fraternal benefit society dedicated to helping families. For the free kit call the IOF Foresters toll-free Better Parenting Line 1-800-922-4-IOF.

District 207, Marriott cooperate in job program

When Robert Louis Stevenson wrote, "I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me. And what can be the use of him is more than I can see," he didn't know about the cooperative job shadowing program between Maine Township High School District 207 and Marriott Hotels.

These shadows not only learn about the personality management industry by working side by side with people on the job, but they may eventually end up working for Marriott, too.

Developed by Jodie Wachowski, a home economics teacher at Maine East, the six-week shadowing unit in the hotel and restaurant management class gives students a feel for operations in a hotel. "You can teach operations in the classroom, but until students can see what it's really like on the job, it's hard for them to get the whole picture," says Wachowski.

Students work in security, housekeeping, sales, accounting, kitchen, laundry, health club, human resources, and at the bell stand.

The idea for the shadowing program occurred to Wachowski after Bill Scott, general manager of the O'Hare Marriott visited her class as a guest speaker last year. Always looking for potential employees, Marriott agreed to the program as a way to help them find entry level people who could work their way up in the system.

Other teachers who will have shadowing units this year are Norma Christensen, West; Shirley Kapina, East; and Betty Lloyd, South.

The Washington School PTA recently hosted a Halloween Bash at the school.

Costume prizes were awarded and pumpkins were judged. The trick or treaters were treated to D. J. Mark, disk jockey.

Over 400 students and family members attended and each student received a trick or treat bag to take home.

The Criteria™ Criterion™ line of upflow gas furnaces are designed for utility rooms, closets, or attics. Because of the Criterion's low-profile, 34 inch height, the upflow model can also be used to satisfy most applications that traditionally call for a horizontal furnace.

The design is certified by the American Gas Association, Canadian models are certified by the Canadian Gas Association.

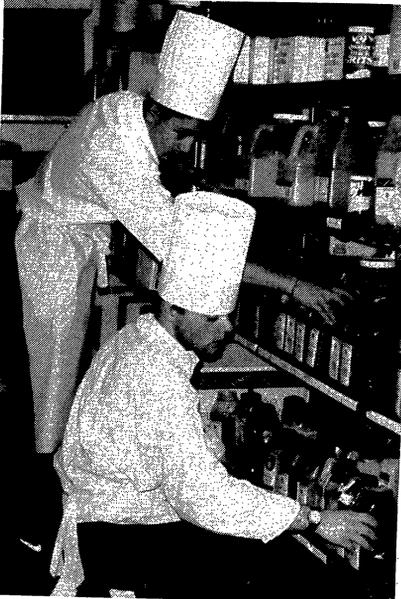

Features

- Patented Turbulax™ Heat Exchanger, constructed of both stainless and aluminum steel for the maximum in corrosion resistance.
- Low profile "34 inch" design is lighter and easier to handle, and leaves room for optional equipment.
- Both standing pilot and hot surface ignition models available.
- Left or right side gas inlet connections with quick, simple change.
- Hot surface ignition models feature an integrated board with humidifier and electronic air cleaner hookups. An accessory kit is available for standing pilot models.
- Insulated blower compartment, a slow-open gas valve and a specially designed draft inducer motor make it one of the quietest furnaces on the market today.
- Integrated solid state control board.
- Pre-paint galvanized steel cabinet.
- Molded permanent filter.
- Grab-holes in doors to aid in easy door removal and replacement.

Mott's offering materials to Niles library

New books and materials is the goal of a new program sponsored by Mott's U.S.A. and the Niles Public Library District. Mott's is underwriting this nationwide program and has selected the Niles Library as a participating library.

Mott's will provide new books and materials in exchange for proofs-of-purchase of its Apple Juice and Apple Sauce brands collected by public libraries. The company is providing up to $500,000 worth of books and materials to libraries nationwide. This continues a five-year reading program sponsored by Mott's that has provided over 200,000 elementary school classrooms with literature and learning materials.

The program will run until the end of November. Collection boxes will be located at the library, 6960 Oakton Street, or on the Bookmobile. District residents may also mail them to the library. It is hoped that the support of district library users will see the library receiving many new items through this exciting opportunity.

No plastics, magazines recycled at Township

Maine Township will be unable to accept plastic bottles and containers as well as magazines, catalogs and phone books during its drop-off recycling collection Saturday, Nov. 21. The township has been notified that Cleveland Corporation, its recycling contractor, cannot accept these materials until further notice due to current market conditions.

The following items will be accepted: newspapers; corrugated cardboard; aluminum and metal cans; and green, brown and clear glass bottles and jars. All items should be sorted. Glass and metal containers must be thoroughly rinsed with lids, tops and rings removed. Caps and rings must be removed from plastic containers. Labels also should be removed from cans. Newspapers and cardboard must be bundled separately and tied with string.

The collection will be held from 8 a.m. to noon in the parking lot of the Town Hall, 1700 Ballard Road, Park Ridge. Please note the change in date. Collections are usually held on the fourth Saturday of each month. Due to the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, the next two recycling collections have been scheduled for Nov. 21 and Dec. 19.

The township program is intended to provide a convenient recycling site for residents who do not have curbside recycling and those who wish to recycle acceptable items that are not collected by their local haulers.

For information on recycling, call Maine Township at 297-2510.

Liberty Bank received rating as "Outstanding"

Liberty Bank for Savings has received an "outstanding" rating for its long-standing commitment to the local community and its financial needs in a nationwide study of financial institutions. Liberty Bank is one of only a few institutions nationwide to receive this recognition.

The Office of Thrift Supervision, an agency of the federal government, regularly ranks all financial institutions in terms of how well they meet area residents' financial needs.

Liberty Bank's efforts in developing affordable housing programs for lower income families, its active involvement with neighborhood associations, and its long-standing history of community support, all contributed to the Bank's "outstanding" rating.

Says Liberty President William Smigiel, "Our primary goal has always been to serve our neighbors in whatever way we can. Our focus has consistently been on the local community, and that won't change. The "outstanding" rating shows us these efforts have not gone unnoticed."

"Collector's Jar" available at Chamber Office

The 1992 "Collector's Jar" is available at the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce & Industry, 1401 Oakton St., Des Plaines. In 1977, the first Des Plaines "Collector's Jar" was produced for the Jaycees annual Oktoberfest. This item was developed at first as a "gimmick" but after a few years, the public realized that "The Jar" was becoming an annual Collector's item.

The Jefferson Mill, Des Plaines first and only commercial windmill, is featured on the 1992 jar. This windmill was built by Luther Jefferson in 1841 on his 160 acre tract of land along the Des Plaines River at the southeast corner of Oakton & River Roads.

Cost of the jar is $2 and is available at the Chamber. For more information call 824-4200.

were paid up front then the appeal may go forward. But if they were not, there might not be any money available for continued legal action. Park board commissioner Jim Pier-ski would be the key to approving the next legal step. How Jim votes would determine whether or not there would be a second legal action.

Park vote...

said the park district is saying despite the majority vote we should forget the vote of the people. "They're saying the heck with the people."

In contesting the premise that the majority of the "registered" voters is key to this referendum, he said this would make a mockery of the election. He rhetorically asked how many of the registered voters are still alive or are still living at the address shown in the election binder.

Troy said in the Illinois park code regarding the organizing of the park district, 18 times it uses the phrase, "the majority voting" on an issue. He contends this continuous use of this phrase substantiates the intent of the park codes.

The Niles village attorney said "the people have spoken" and it's "disingenous" to argue the majority vote does not belong to the people.

Park Attorney LaVelle used the word "draconian" to describe what could happen if the village took over the park district. He said if the district is dissolved, it could be cataclysmic. He said the functions of the district could be terminated, thousands could be lost and implied the children could be the losers in Niles. He said it was the intent of the General Assembly, which made the laws, to have a higher standard than this dissolution.

LaVelle answered Troy's case history reviews by stating legislative history is irrelevant and the law is clear about what a legal voter is.

Troy asked the judge for a motion which would deny a pre-injunction while LaVelle asked that a pre-injunction be entered (Troy sought to uphold the referendum vote while LaVelle sought to dissolve it).

Judge Stanic continued the temporary restraining order (restraining the village takeover) until he gave his written opinion on Friday.

spring and summer ice times are also being received, he said.

But renovation electrical workers opened breaker panels at the rink and found wires that are thin, overloaded and in need of being brought up to code, said Parks Superintendent Mike Rea. He noted there could be no work change order was approved. Board Vice President James Pier-ski said money was available and had been appropriated in the Phase One contingency fund. He said "This is a necessity," and Board attorney Gabe Berrafato added, "I don't think there is any choice." Pier-ski gained Board approval to spend $13,855 of the contingency fund for the electrical work.

Ice rink staff members are planning activities from Dec. 16-19 to highlight the rink's grand opening. Baczek said nine applications have been received for the post of Sports Complex manager.

In his report, Director Tim Royster announced for the second year, the Oasis Water Park staff has received the highest rating for pool safety from Ellis and Associates, a pool safety training firm. The pool has 30 lifeguards and Ellis inspections are unannounced and critical, Royster said. The director urged residents to return their surveys by Nov. 21.

In his report to the Board, Director of Leisure Services, Jerry Krewer noted 2,042 persons are registered for fall programs and 52 percent of the classes are filled. A special school guide will be distributed to area schools to acquaint pupils with park programs, he noted, and Karen Forzak, a District art teacher will be Mrs. Santa in Chicago's post-Thanksgiving Christmas parade.

Tam golf course will stay open as long as possible for winter golfers, according to Tam Manager, Greg Genz. When regular greens can no longer be open, temporary greens will be set up, he explained. In spite of a cool summer, Tam recorded 49,500 rounds, compared to an average 30,000 rounds at other area courses.

Commissioner Baczek announced Tam crews are seeking a possible site for outdoor ice skating at Tam this winter. Cross country skiers will be encouraged to bring their own equipment, because the District equipment is getting old.

Granting of bids for play equipment at Washington Terrace and Courtland parks is on temporary hold until the Park Board knows the outcome of its current legal suit, said Commissioner Elaine Heinen. A bid for Golf Mill park renovation is also being evaluated. A Park Designer's drawings for Kirk Lane and Jonquil Terrace parks are under review and another meeting with the residents adjacent to those parks may be held to get their input.

Gary Koenig, Director of the Maine-Niles Association for Special Recreation (M-NASR) reviewed Niles participation rates for the Board. His numbers indicated a growing number of Niles residents are involved in M-NASR programs. Koenig said the Liponi Foundation donated $18,000 of monies recently raised to M-NASR for a van that will comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Vice President Pierski explained because of District Business Manager Ron Mrowiec's illness, financial reports for the pools, concession stands and the District were unavailable. He gained Board approval for a continued meeting Nov. 24 at 8 p.m. in order to present those reports.

Crime rate...

1990. Property crimes of burglary, theft and motor vehicle theft rose slightly in Morton Grove in 1991 with the biggest growth in the theft category, where 124 more cases were reported than in the previous year.

The most significant drop in Niles statistics was in the theft category which showed 109 fewer cases of theft were reported in 1991 than in 1990, a 10.4 percent decrease.

Niles Police Chief Ray Giovannelli declined to take credit for the good showing, saying "It's cyclic; every three or four years, the figures change." He said aside from several police department programs that bring officers into closer contact with residents, "What is important, is the people of Niles refuse to tolerate lawlessness. If anyone deserves credit it's the people...there is a liaison between the citizens and the public servants."

Walking patrols bring uniformed Community Service Officers into the community, he noted, and tend to lessen residents' fears. Liaisons set up between the police and various neighborhood groups increase communication when the watch commanders regularly check back to determine their problems.

Pro-action, rather than reaction, is the motivation for the department, he said, noting he is proud of the department's P.R.I.D.E. program which sends officers into the schools to teach drug awareness. Parking a police department trailer as a satellite station at Golf Mill during the holiday shopping season makes officers more accessible and builds public confidence in the police, he said. In addition, the police maintain year-round contact with local merchants' security agents.

Local residents due tax refunds, IRS says

The Internal Revenue Service is trying to locate some residents who are due a refund from their federal income tax returns.

According to Bobby Scott, IRS Assistant District Director for northern Illinois, 3,371 checks worth $2,125,280 were returned by the Postal Service as undeliverable in this area. The refund checks are for 1991 and earlier returns.

Scott noted that the taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the IRS, put the wrong mailing address on their return, or the handwriting may simply be illegible.

cerned parties before Thanksgiving, he said, but the group keeps growing and now will probably include IDOT and Glenview Country Club representatives along with the CAM, Village officials, the project contractor, Forest Preserve District, MWRD and IEPA.

Mountain opponents also insist the project's original environmental impact study needs updating because it was done in 1977 when the area was not residential. In that plan, the spoil would not be carried away, but remain on-site and be covered with top soil and grass and turned into a recreation area.

Arft said the spoil hauling

Reassessment...

If the taxpayer does not receive adequate relief from the Cook County assessor, he/she may also file a subsequent complaint with the Cook County Board of Tax Appeals. According to Rueckert, Commissioners Frost and Berrios have been very fair with the residents of Maine Township who filed complaints.

The key thing to remember is that once you receive your notice of reassessed value you only have 20 working days to file your complaint with Rueckert's office or with the Cook County Assessor's Office. During the complaint period the Maine Township Assessor's Office, 1700 Ballard Road, Park Ridge, (708) 297-2510, will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Maine Township meets senior citizens' needs

Maine Township has one of the largest senior citizen populations in Cook County numbering about 20,000. A wide variety of services and programs are available to senior citizens through the Maine Township government.

Supervisor Joan B. Hall said, "They are an important part of our community, and we try to provide a wide range of services to meet their needs."

One of the key programs offered by the Maine Township is an information and referral clearinghouse to help senior citizens and their families obtain information on housing, medical services, social and mental health services, nutrition, home-delivered meals, employment, energy assistance, social activities and a variety of other services.

You can reach the information and referral service by calling Lisa Krusinski at the Maine Township Town Hall, 297-2510, ext. 232. This program is partially supported through grants awarded to Maine Township by the Suburban Cook County area Agency on Aging. To date, the township has received ten awards from the Suburban and referral services. Krusinski is also available to help seniors with Medicare forms and insurance questions. She has been certified by the Illinois Department of Insurance Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP) to provide this service. Senior citizens can also find RTA special users passes and handicapped parking cards through the Clerk's office and participates in the Paratransit Resource Center (PRC) to provide transportation at special rates to seniors who are unable to use public transportation.

For information on any of these programs, call 297-2510.

Church Street between Central Avenue and Linder Avenue; Chestnut Street between Lehigh Avenue and its western end; Elm Street between Lehigh Avenue and its western end; Kirk Street between Nagle Avenue and Merrimac Avenue; Lehigh Avenue between Lincoln Avenue and the south Village limits; Lincoln Avenue between Dempster Street and Ferris Avenue; Main Street between Lehigh Avenue and its western end; Menard Avenue between Dempster Street and Carol Avenue; Merrimac Avenue between Kirk Street and the south Village limits; Nagle Avenue between Oakton Street and its cul-de-sac; Natchez Avenue between Oakton Street and its cul-de-sac; Park Avenue between River Drive and Lehigh Avenue; River Drive between Oakton Street and Lehigh Avenue; and Washington Street between Golf Road and Foster Avenue.

A 25-ton limit would be permitted on Harlem Avenue between Golf Road and Dempster Street, according to the ordinance.

Jim Sloan, the Morton Grove public information officer, said "this has nothing to do with the Deep Tunnel Project."

"We (the village) passed a specific ordinance in March on what streets Deep Tunnel trucks can use," Sloan said.

Sloan also said this has been a "festering problem" for many years in Morton Grove. "We are taking a proactive stance and we want to control where trucks can go in our town ... if there are no signs, then they (the trucks) will go wherever they want," Sloan said.

Arft said he understood the frustrations the residents are having but feels that instructing 40-ton trucks to turn around is unrealistic. The ordinance was tabled for further investigation of other suburbs' truck restrictions.

In other village board news: The Centennial Commission will be putting together the Centennial book to celebrate Morton Grove's 100th anniversary in 1995. The commission needs to raise $75,000 to make 7,500 copies and will be selling 2,000 raffle tickets at $100 each to raise the revenue. Fred Huscher, a commission member, said there would be cash prizes: first place, $50,000; second place, $25,000; and third place, $10,000. The village approved the contract for publishing the book through Johns Printer of Downers Grove, Illinois. The funds for the book will come from advertisement revenue. Remaining profits will go to the village centennial fund.

Nominating petitions for a new village board president, clerk, and three trustees, park board commissioners and library trustees began circulating Nov. 10. Petitions must be filed between Feb. 1 and Feb. 8, 1993. Elections will be held April 20, 1993.

A consent agenda to conduct village board business faster and more efficiently was approved. This agenda will include items already discussed that only need approval. However, if residents want to have further discussion on the items, the items can become part of the overall agenda.

The village approved the purchase of a Chevy station wagon instead of a Chevy sedan for the Morton Grove police. The police department needed a station wagon to facilitate more equipment taken out on the field. The station wagon at $18,437.53 will cost $4,842.80 more than the sedan.

Firm offers long-term care insurance

Jeffrey Cardella, the local investment representative for Edward D. Jones & Co., announced the introduction of long-term care insurance, an affordable way to protect one's life savings from being depleted by the potentially exorbitant cost of a long-term illness.

"It's estimated that by the year 2020, about 90 million people will be over 55 years old," Cardella said. "As this age group grows, so will the number of people who require nursing-home care. The average annual cost of nursing-home is $25,000, so even a short stay can quickly deplete a family's savings."

Long-term care insurance pays benefits to help cover the costs of a nursing home stay or of a long-term illness. According to Cardella, this can protect an individual's savings and keep him or her from becoming financially dependent on family members.

Edward D. Jones & Co., has been serving individual investors since 1871. Today, the firm has more than 2,000 offices in 47 states and serves more than 1.2 million customers. It is the only financial-services firm that serves individual investors exclusively.

The Jones investment representatives provide traditionally conservative investments such as insured tax-free bonds, certificates of deposit, mutual funds, and the common stock of companies with histories of sound management and solid growth.

The Niles office is located at 8143 N. Milwaukee Av., Niles.

Edison to lower energy efficient bulb cost

Just in time for the holiday shopping season, Commonwealth Edison is proposing an 18 percent reduction in the cost of its popular compact fluorescent light bulb.

Pending Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) approval, Edison will reduce the compact fluorescent's cost by $2.50 - to $11.30 from $13.80. The retail price of the bulb is as much as $19.95. Edison's reduced price, which would go into effect Nov. 30, reflects a manufacturer's cost reduction.

Edison's energy efficient bulb can save customers $50 on electricity during its life span. The compact fluorescent lasts as long as 13 incandescent bulbs, or 10,000 hours. It provides as much light as a 75-watt bulb while using only one-fourth the energy.

Edison offers good cents kit

Now it's easier than ever to obtain one of Commonwealth Edison's popular "Good Cents" energy efficiency kits. Each of the two kits is now available by mail through Dec. 1, while supplies last.

The "star" of both "Good Cents" kits is an energy efficient compact fluorescent light bulb that gives the same warm light as a 75 watt bulb, but uses only 1/4 of the energy. The compact fluorescent lasts 13 times longer than a standard incandescent bulb, and can save customers $50 on electricity during its long life span.

In addition to a compact fluorescent bulb, "Good Cents" kit number one features energy saving items such as a window insulator kit, exterior foam weather stripping to reduce air leakage around windows or doors, and switchplate and outlet insulators to prevent the infiltration of air through outlets and switches located on walls that have exterior exposure. Also included are safety cap plug covers, a refrigerator thermometer, a safety guide light, Participants in Edison's popular Light Bulb Service can purchase the compact fluorescent at any Edison office. To join the more than 1.1 million residential electricity customers who now participate in the Light Bulb Service, call 1-800-EDISON-1.

Nearly 100 years after the inception of the Light Bulb Service, Commonwealth Edison today is the only electric utility in the nation that still provides bulbs for a nominal monthly charge. For a maximum monthly charge of 70 cents, a residential customer can obtain four of the company's standard incandescent bulbs per month. Other bulbs, including frosted, snowy white and the compact fluorescent, are available to Bulb Service customers at additional cost.

the "Home Energy Efficiency Guide" and a reusable canvas tote bag for groceries, shopping, or just for fun. "Good Cents" kit number one is available for just $17.95, including tax and shipping costs.

"Good Cents" kit number two offers even greater value and savings. For only $34.95, including tax and shipping, "Good Cents" kit number two features two compact fluorescent bulbs, a lamp and appliance timer, a refrigerator thermometer, the "Home Energy Efficiency Guide," and the "Good Cents" tote bag.

There are two ways to order your Good Cents Kit. To charge by phone, call 1 (800) 554-4554. To order by mail, use the order form enclosed with the electric bill, or slip the form in Edison's Good Cents Kit newspaper ad.

Guard against short power outages

Increasingly Commonwealth Edison hears customer complaints about momentary power interruptions, which would have gone unnoticed in years past or at worst have caused flickering lights. Now, such disturbances commonly affect sensitive electronic equipment, such as home computers, VCRs and microwave oven timers. They result from temporary faults in the electrical distribution system serving individual neighborhoods - a short circuit, basically. They can be caused by such factors as a lightning strike or a tree branch brushing against an overhead power line and usually last less than a second or two.

While that brief interruption is enough to cause unprotected digital appliances in homes to go haywire, it shows also that the electrical distribution system is working properly. When detecting a disturbance, the Edison system "cuts out" the affected line momentarily to prevent damage to the utility's equipment and perhaps an extended power outage to the surrounding area. Then, the system automatically restores normal power, so quickly that most customers are never aware of the interruption.

Admittedly, it's a headache to have to reset blinking clocks and timers. However, Edison customers can take steps to make such inconveniences a thing of the past. When purchasing any solid-state digital electronic equipment, always check to ensure it has the capability to temporarily "store" memory in the event of a momentary power interruption or provide automatic reset once power is restored. In addition, personal computer users should practice good backup procedures to prevent data loss should a momentary interruption occur.

With a system-wide service reliability factor of 99.98%, Commonwealth Edison's electrical distribution system has been designed to provide a dependable energy supply 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Sponsor living trust program

On December 14 at 7:30, the Niles Public Library District will sponsor a program designed for those individuals seeking information on the differences between trusts and wills and the benefits to be gained.

Attorney Chester Przybylo will be the presenter. Mr. Przybylo has given presentations on this topic at the library for the past three years.

Library programs are free and open to the public. Registration is required. For mobility or communication access assistance, please call 976-8554 voice and TDD.

Panic and anxiety disorder treatment program

Forest Hospital has announced a new Panic and Anxiety Disorder program designed to treat one of the country's most pervasive mental health problems.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, panic attacks and related anxiety disorders affect more people than do either alcohol/substance abuse or depression. Yet only about 25 percent of those affected seek help for the disorder, which often is disabling.

In recent years, a range of successful treatment approaches has been developed. While treatment must be individualized for each patient, principal methods often include behavioral therapy in combination with medication.

A panic attack is defined as an episode of overwhelming apprehension accompanied by four or more of the following physical symptoms: shortness of breath.

Support group for cancer patients to meet

A free support group for cancer patients, their families, and friends will meet from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 2, and Wednesday, Dec. 16, in the Kellogg Cancer Care Center reception area at the Evanston Hospital, 2650 Ridge Ave., Evanston.

Group members meet to share their feelings, coping techniques, and information on various aspects of living with cancer. Meetings are moderated by experienced social workers.

All Cancer Support Group meetings are held on the first and third Wednesday of every month. For more information call Sue Martin at (708) 570-2110.

Laurence J. O'Connell, Ph.D., president and chief executive officer, the Park Ridge Center for the Study of Health, Faith and Ethics, today announced the election of Daniel S. Schechter as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Park Ridge Center, located in downtown Chicago.

The Park Ridge Center for the Study of Health, Faith and Ethics is an independent, interfaith, non-profit national ethics center engaged in critical research, education and publishing in fields which connect topics of health, faith and ethics. Resurrection expands cardiac services Resurrection Medical Center has opened a second cardiac catheterization laboratory in preparation for the implementation in early 1993 of an open heart surgery program. The hospital, at 7435 West Talcott Ave., Chicago, also is upgrading the software and monitoring equipment in the first lab, which opened in early 1991.

Both catheterization laboratories have the capability of performing balloon angioplasty to widen the cardiac arteries as well as the diagnostic procedures currently performed. They are conveniently located next to the open heart surgery suites.

"Our expanded cardiac program will enable us to offer patients a full range of services in their community," said Sister Donna Marie, C.R., Executive Vice President and Chief Executive Officer. The hospital currently transfers more than 400 patients a year to other facilities for open heart surgery or angioplasty.

Along with the open heart surgery program, Resurrection is expanding its Surgical Intensive Care Unit from eight to 13 beds to accommodate the additional patient volume. The Cardiac Rehabilitation Unit also was expanded to include additional equipment and classes for patients recovering from heart disease. The Cardiac Rehabilitation Unit is located on the ground floor of the Resurrection Professional Building adjacent to the hospital.

Implantable insulin pump recipients first anniversary

It was a homecoming of sorts last week at Holy Family Hospital for the seven recipients of an implantable insulin infusion pump.

Since October 1991, Holy Family's StableLives Diabetes Program has been participating in a clinical investigation of the implantable insulin infusion pump. These men and women are the first in Illinois to take advantage of the device which pumps insulin into their abdominal cavity, eliminating the need for daily injections.

Candy Enders, the first implantable pump recipient, says there is no doubt her lifestyle has changed for the better. "It's simpler than the daily injections and easier than the external pump," Enders says. Enders, who had a 14 year history of insulin dependent diabetes, previously used an external insulin pump to manage her diabetes.

Pat Bruell, the seventh recipient of the implantable pump, says it is so natural she almost forgets she has the pump. Bruell had a 37 year history of insulin dependent diabetes; the last 11 years she used external insulin pump therapy.

"I remember when I was four years old and my mother would chase me around the dining room table to give me my daily insulin injection," Bruell recalls. "The needles were as big as spaghetti noodles."

Although Bruell enjoys the ease of the internal pump, she jokes it is no longer safe for her to wash her car.

"Before, with the external pump, I couldn't get wet. Now everyone squirts me with the hose," says Bruell.

"It's a little more luggage, but not a problem," Thomas Schenfeld says about the implantable pump. Schenfeld, the fourth recipient of the pump, used an external pump nine months prior to implantation.

"I can exercise more freely," he says, "and I feel good most of the time because of the consistency of the pump delivers," he adds.

The StableLives Diabetes Program screened, tested and trained the candidates, and continues to compile the data needed for pump approval by the FDA. StableLives is the only program in Illinois conducting implantable insulin pump research. Three of the recipients were implanted in 1991, four in 1992. All report satisfactory results.

If you would like more information about Holy Family Hospital's StableLives Diabetes Program, located at the corner of Golf and River Roads in Des Plaines, call StableLives at (708) 297-9977.

Cablevision collects for Make-A-Wish

Cablevision of Chicago invites subscribers and employees to donate non-perishable food, new clothing and toys to benefit children with life-threatening illnesses throughout the Chicago area, through the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Northern Illinois. The items, meant for children ranging in age from infants to 18 years old, can be brought to any Cablevision of Chicago office through November 30.

The gifts will be distributed to the children and their families at Make-A-Wish holiday parties at area hospitals in December. The Make-A-Wish Foundation asks that the new toys and clothes donated are valued at $10, that batteries be included if necessary and that bedridden children are able to utilize the toys. Non-perishable foods such as canned vegetables (cranberries), stuffing mix, etc. are welcome.

In addition, Cablevision is also choosing three subscribers and their families to star in a holiday video card to be cablecast on Cablevision. Subscribers can enter the contest when they bring in their donations.

Ark seeks funds for eye clinic

Recently Mrs. W., an elderly woman, came to The Ark's free eye clinic. She was suffering from advanced glaucoma and her eyesight was severely limited.

A variety of medications had been prescribed by ophthalmologists in the past but she had never been able to afford to continue treatment. A volunteer Ark ophthalmologist told Mrs. W. that surgery was really the only treatment option that would save her sight. At this Mrs. W. broke down. If she had been unable to afford even office visits in the past, how could she afford the costs of surgery? Blindness, she felt, was her only option.

The Ark's volunteer ophthalmologist was touched by this woman's situation. He persuaded a local hospital to donate an operating room and he, himself, donated his skills as a surgeon. Mrs. W.'s surgery was performed at no charge. The surgery saved her vision and her glaucoma is in check.

There are many poor Jews in Chicago and who require quality eye care. For this reason The Ark opened the only state-of-the-art, full service, free eye clinic in the Midwest. However, to keep this clinic open will require funds. Even though all the vision professionals who staff our clinic are donating their time and expertise, many necessary supplies must still be purchased by The Ark and the equipment must be maintained.

For further information call (312) 973-1000, ex. 270, or to contribute, send a check to The Ark - 6450 N. California Ave., Chicago, IL 60645.

Injuries ended Oakton Volleyball season

One was unfortunate. The second could have been considered a coincidence. Now, Oakton Community College volleyball coach Mark Rogers is just left shaking his head.

The adage about bad things happening in a series of three events sure seemed to hit the Raiders hard. Erika Mittenberg went down with a knee injury on Sept. 19. Next to have her season end with a knee injury was Emmy Pasier, who was hurt on Oct. 8. The series ended Saturday, Oct. 24 when Vanessa Landazzi hurt her knee at the Skyway Conference Tournament at Waubensee.

The injury to Landazzi left Oakton with just five players, one short of the needed six.

"I've never seen anything like this before," Rogers said. "Injuries often are a part of sports, but to have three players go down with knee injuries during the same season is pretty unbelievable."

Because of the injuries, the Raiders cancelled scheduled matches against Harper, Elgin, Triton and Daley colleges as well as their participation in the Oct. 31 Region IV (northern Illinois) competition of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) tournament.

Oakton sponsors trade trip to China

Oakton Community College has announced plans for an upcoming Business Tour to the People's Republic of China, scheduled for June 13 to 25, 1993.

This fully escorted tour combines observation of business practices and current opportunities available in China with traditional touring and sight-seeing. Detailed trade briefings and seminars by industry and government officials include such topics as "Practical Aspects of Export Sales to China," "Negotiating Techniques and Customs," "Government Regulations," and "Interpreting the Political Context of Chinese-U.S. Trade."

The tour is designed specifically for executives and managers from small and medium sized businesses who want to learn more about China, its business practices, and its markets. Support for a move to free markets is growing in China, and as the economy continues to boom, opportunities for foreign business are increasing dramatically.

Tour participants will attend the Annual Shandong Trade Fair in the coastal city of Qingdao, which will provide an excellent forum to explore business opportunities with Chinese buyers and suppliers. Tours and visits to local business organizations and manufacturers will give the program's participants a chance to see Chinese businesses at work and will also provide an occasion to establish trade relationships.

Shandong's infrastructure of harbors, railways and highways is one of the most advanced in the People's Republic of China. Since 1987, public and private businesses in Shandong Province have concluded several thousand contracts with foreign firms on joint and cooperative ventures, technical cooperation, and compensation trade.

For further information and a detailed itinerary, call Oakton's First Class Adventures office at (708) 635-1812.
