by Sheilya Hackett

With the withdrawal of candidate Mary Staunton, Niles Library Board ballot has shrunk to two candidates standing for the two openings on the Board. Staunton bowed out to accept a job in the state of Wisconsin.

Courtland Drive resident Avis Gibbons is seeking a trustee post. She is single and a communications consultant with Williams Mercer, an employee benefits actuarial firm. Gibbons said she has some business background, but her main reason for seeking the post is her "genuine interest in the community." The eight year Village resident is a member of the Niles-Morton Grove League of Women. Continued on Page 31

The good news, reports Cook County Recorder of Deeds Jesse White, is that area residents can now record documents closer to home. The bad news, says White, is that too few know about the new Skokie satellite location - and they are still suffering the expense and inconvenience of travelling downtown. "We're eager to bring top-notch service to all of Cook County, and that includes the suburbs," White said. "With three satellite locations up and running and two more opening soon, our network puts the recorder's office Continued on Page 31

Village, employees expected to benefit from health plan

Niles offers wellness program

by Sheilya Hackett

Niles officials are counting on a new employee Wellness program to bring about improved job performance and fewer work absences due to illness. The recently initiated voluntary program, open only to full time employees, will be conducted by Health Direct, an adjunct of Lutheran General Hospital. Fire Department employees are in a different category since they already must conform to specific medical standards.

Regular participants are eligible for basic physical exams which will be given in the Village Council Chambers March 29, 30, and 31. The no-cost exam includes blood-screening, a heart health stress test, measurements for flexibility and strength and a fitness profile. A report of the test findings is completely confidential and will be sent to the participant's home. Explanatory materials will be included in the report, along with a doctor's comments, but participants are encouraged to share the findings with their own physicians. Follow-up sessions will be held, also at the Chambers, so that Continued on Page 31

Niles park director, Timothy D. Royster, got beat up a little bit by local businessmen when he recently attended a Niles-Morton Grove Rotary Club meeting. They were upset by a recent letter they received asking for donations to improve and expand the miniature golf course at Jozwiak Park.

Niles Park District, which is spending bushels of dollars resurrecting the ice rink and pool on Ballard Road, is now asking "selected" businessmen for an additional donation for facilities which are normally on the public dole.

We were told some park board members were not even aware such action was authorized by the park board.

We've been in disagreement with the NPD for sometime over many of their harebrained actions. But this act defies understanding.

The letter to the businessmen said the improvement would cost $1,000 per golf hole. Considering the plus $1 million they're now paying for the pool ice-rink improvement, which is paid for partly by these same businessmen, it seems illogical they would hit these guys again for such a petty amount of money.

Democrats call for 911 passage

Many unincorporated area residents do not have 911 emergency service. This number is available in virtually all the suburban areas, and people are wondering why they do not reach an emergency operator when they dial the emergency number.

Because of the $1.25 monthly cost for enhanced 911, voters must approve its implementation in a referendum. A referendum was held last fall, and it failed to receive the needed majority.

It will be voted on again at the April 20 election. Norine Murphy of Park Ridge, the Democratic candidate for Maine Township Clerk represented the Democratic slate at a recent pass 911 meeting.

According to Murphy, "The various police and fire chiefs pointed out the importance of 911. They appealed to all concerned citizens to work for its passage. I was disappointed that none of the Republican candidates for township office attended this meeting."

Bonnie Lindquist, Democratic candidate for Township Supervisor said, "Protection is a major concern in the unincorporated area. I pray that it will not take a tragedy like the one that resulted in the formation of the gang task force, for us to establish 911." Lindquist continued, "With the widespread belief that 911 exists, and the number of people who have trouble with English, I really worry about how emergencies are handled. With enhanced 911, operators are able to immediately trace emergency calls, even from non-English speaking callers."

The Democrats are urging all candidates for office to speak in favor of this potential life saving service in all their appearances."

Maine Assessor cites Cook County for negligence

Maine Township Assessor Tom Rueckert is outraged by the fact that Thomas C. Hynes, the Assessor of Cook County, fails to correct the building characteristic errors from which properties in Maine Township are assessed. Township Assessors, in suburban Cook County, do not assess the properties located within their townships. All assessing is done by the Cook County Assessor and should be based upon factual data.

District 207 defines goals

After more than a year of discussion of what students should be able to do and what they should know by the time they graduate from the Maine High Schools, District 207 has a new statement of purpose and goals.

In the fall of 1991, the Superintendent's Curriculum Council (SCC) began in-depth discussions on such topics as ability groups, equity, technological literacy, and schools of the future. Once the SCC developed guidelines, a writing committee was appointed that developed several draft statements for discussion and review by various groups including faculty, students, parents, support staff, business people, and board members.

Receive share of fuel tax

Illinois municipalities have been allotted $16,004,613 as their share of motor fuel tax paid into the State Treasury during January 1993, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to the various municipalities in Illinois for their streets and highways. The monies allocated are computed on the basis of population.

The allotment to Des Plaines is $88,472 and to Niles is $47,014.

Niles and Morton Grove are fighting a state mandate to join JULIE. Neither town currently belongs. The acronym for Joint Utility Location Information for Excavators, JULIE is a state-wide service that notifies utility companies when someone plans to excavate.

In July 1991, state law mandated all municipalities become part of the JULIE network, but neglected to fund the costs the towns would have to pay as part of the system.

Proponents of the JULIE system emphasize a single phone call to JULIE will protect underground facilities from destruction and protect the people who might be digging. The system notifies gas, electric, telephone, cable TV, the local village and any other utilities involved. These entities must send out a locator to mark the path of their lines.

The proponents suggest since most homeowners call JULIE before putting up a fence, pool or deck, the villages could collect permit fees from residents who are by-passing their building permit process.

There is no fee to join the system. The chief costs cited by JULIE spokesman, Mark Frost come in installing a special printer, FAX machine or telephone line dedicated exclusively to JULIE.

For each message the village reports preparation of its Annual Report. David Hilquist, vice president for business and finance and a Park Ridge resident, was recognized by the GFOA for his leadership in these two awards.

Hilquist said, "I am honored that the GFOA has once again recognized the college for its fine quality of financial preparation, which has produced both an award-winning budget and financial statement."

Oakton receives budget presentation award

ONE OF THE REASONS WE CALL THEM SMART BUSINESS LOANS.SM

When John Nixon of Nixon Printing wanted to purchase state-of-the-art equipment for his operation, First of America Bank helped with a Smart Business Loan. Because smart business people know the time has never been better to take advantage of low interest rates. And they're making their move.

First of America knows that by helping businesses succeed, we help the economy and the community. Nixon Printing's new equipment, for example, will not only create new jobs, local contractors will have work upgrading their building as well. And we can't measure the value of that investment in monetary terms alone.

Since the beginning of 1992, we've loaned $600 million through our Smart Business Loan program. And we're ready to lend even more in the next few months.

First of America has always had a philosophy of supporting the communities we serve. So we work hard at providing competitive, customized commercial loan packages to local businesses.

If you think your business could benefit from a Smart Business Loan, call any of our First of America Bank offices listed below. You'll find that Smart Business Loans can give you a way to get things moving.

"Each year this conference pulls together parents, teachers, and different professionals and practitioners in the field of family studies to examine a particular topic," says conference coordinator Carol Harding, Ph.D. "Families were a hot campaign issue this year, and people are interested in looking at what types of policies will go into effect and how money will be spent on families."

A panel discussion moderated by Harding, who is also the director of Loyola's Center for Children and Families, will follow the keynote presentations. Loyola faculty members participating in the panel include Layla Suleiman (Education) who will address lessons learned from the past about collaborative family-based policy making, Steven Haymes (Education) on neighborhood and family connections, Barbara Bacon (School of Social Work) on policies affecting minority families.

From 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., conference participants may choose to attend two of six possible workshops. These include "Promoting Health Care for All Children," "Proposed Policies to Address Sex Education Dilemmas," "Policies to Support Healthy Families," "Advocating Policies to Serve the Poor and Homeless," "Public Access Television's Role in Serving Families," and "Illinois: What is and Should Be Available in Early Childhood/Family Policy."

Mammography saves lives

One out of every nine women will develop breast cancer. Early detection leads to early treatment, thereby increasing the chance for a cure.

Mammography can save a woman's life. A mammogram is a low dose X-ray which reveals the breast's internal structure to detect any abnormalities. It will pinpoint tumors too small to be felt, and can detect cancer in the earliest, most treatable stage. Some 85 percent of breast cancers are discovered by physical exams.

Women can take comfort in knowing that Holy Family Hospital's mammography services are accredited by the American College of Radiology (ACR). This ensures that qualified personnel perform and interpret your mammography using state-of-the-art equipment for accurate exams with minimal risk.

Even those who are not a candidate for mammography, it is a good idea to become familiar with good breast health. The following is a guideline to follow: Women 20 years and older: Perform monthly breast exams, Women 20-40 years: Physician breast exam every three years and an initial mammography between the ages of 35-40, Women 40-50 years: An annual breast exam and a mammography every year or two determined by your history and doctor's recommendation, and Women 50 years and older: Annual physician exam and annual mammogram.

The Cold-Commonly: Upper Respiratory Illness

by Edward Hsi

Myth and facts about wintertime colds continue to this day. People do not catch colds by being out in the cold. In fact, the reason we get colds this time of year is that people congregate indoors in warm heated buildings. These illnesses spread person-to-person by virus contaminated respiratory droplets. On average, adults have two to four colds a year, children have six to eight. Since children get more colds than adults, most are introduced into our home from school.

People do not spread the same cold back and forth all winter long. More likely, infections by different viruses (such as Cocksackie, influenza and adenovirus) occur before the damage from prior infection repairs itself.

Two to three days after exposure, the cold syndrome begins with fatigue, diffuse joint and muscle ache, scratchy throat, and runny nose. Over the next two days symptoms worsen. This is when you are maximally contagious. A low grade fever may be reported transiently. Hoarseness and a dry cough may follow, with smokers complaining more than non-smokers. Having laryngitis without trouble swallowing or shortness of breathing generally confirms the diagnosis of viral illness.

Unfortunately, antibiotics have no effect on viruses. Taking antibiotics at the beginning of a cold will not "nip the symptom in-the-bud." The use of antibiotics should not be routine, but reserved for the development of a secondary bacterial infection. These conditions present as a thick productive cough or nasal discharge that may be yellow to green to brown or even blood-streaked. If you notice white spots on the back of your throat with a cold, call your doctor. While viral illness may cause this reaction, strep throat should not be missed.

What can be done? Treat symptoms individually. Sore throats improve with throat lozenges or gargling with a mixture of salt and bicarbonate of soda. Fever is best treated with acetaminophen. In children, Reyes syndrome has been reported with both aspirin and ibuprofen, so these drugs should be used only by adults. Remember that a low fever by itself is probably not harmful. For millions of years an elevated temperature naturally made your body a hostile place for invading germs.

Nasal congestion and post-nasal drip make life difficult. Ever notice how after sleeping eight hours a cold leaves you feeling I-can't-get-out-of-bed? Airway congestion with colds probably does more to leave you sleep deprived and fatigued than any other single factor. This occurs because the depth of nighttime rest is disturbed as you continually cough and sniffle to clear congestion. Steam or cool mist help combat this, as does Mom's chicken soup recipe.

In addition, many prescriptions and over-the-counter cold formulas are available. All of these compounds dry nasal passages and/or shrink swollen passages. The differences are in the types and proportions of drugs used in each product. This results in the different levels of arousal or sedation that one gets as side effects. Nasal sprays or drops, should be avoided; however. Prolonged uses of these products causes rebound nasal congestion and potential for nasal polyp formation.

Not everyone should take cold formulas without worry. Some over the counter decongestions contain pseudoephedrine, a compound that may increase blood pressure. Patients taking medication for high blood pressure should therefore check with their physicians. Asthma sufferers should not take agents that dry secretions, as this interferes with their ability to clear their airways and may worsen asthma attacks. People who are immunosuppressed or immunocompromised should never take colds for granted.

Vitamin C, initially touted as a cure for the common cold, has never shown to have any beneficial effect in subsequent trials. Megadoses of Vitamin C in excess of 1000 mg per day may cause calcium oxalate kidney stones. What could be worse than treating a cold only to discover that you now have another problem?

As you now know, the common cold is a wintertime pest to be endured more than anything else. The good thing is that most colds are self-limiting.

Stop smoking classes held

The next sessions are scheduled for March 30 and April 1 from 3:30 to 4:15 p.m. in the Des Plaines Room at Holy Family Hospital, located at the corner of Golf and River roads in Des Plaines.

The fee is $90. To register, call (708) 297-1800, ext. 1110.

Four Fahrenbach physicians call Resurrection 'home'

For the Fahrenbach family, medicine happens to be just what the doctor ordered, especially since four of them are physicians.

This family of physicians who are all on staff at Resurrection Medical Center, 7435 West Talcott Avenue, Chicago, includes father Donald Fahrenbach, M.D., an obstetrician and gynecologist; and sons, Gary Fahrenbach, M.D., a rheumatologist; Greg Fahrenbach, M.D., an orthopedic surgeon; and Paul Fahrenbach, M.D., a gastrointestinal specialist.

After graduating from Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine, Dr. Donald Fahrenbach joined the staff as a charter member in 1953 and began his obstetrical practice. Over the years, he has participated on several committees and served as Chairman of the Obstetrics and Gynecology Department. Dr. Fahrenbach retired from private practice in December but continues to teach obstetrics and gynecology to the Family Practice residents.

Now that his sons are on Resurrection's staff, the family tradition continues. "I'm proud of my sons and their accomplishments as physicians, and it's great we're all together at Resurrection," said the 67-year-old physician. "I guess it's become a family affair."

Growing up in Edgebrook, the Fahrenbach family includes eight children. Through the years, 22 grandchildren have joined the family. In fact, Dr. Donald Fahrenbach delivered 10 of his own grandchildren. According to his wife, Margaret, the Fahrenbach children always heard positive comments about medicine and knew their father enjoyed his career.

"Their father never complained about his long hours at the hospital and the many sleepless nights he endured," Mrs. Fahrenbach said. "I always made our children aware of how hard their father worked so they understood that whatever career they chose they also had to work hard and never take anything for granted."

"While their father was out delivering new lives, I was home preserving a life with our eight children," she said. "Three of the children chose to follow their father's career but we are proud of all the children in their individual endeavors."

Dr. Gary Fahrenbach, 40, a rheumatologist, was the first son to establish his practice at Resurrection. After graduating from Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine and completing a residency at Cook County Hospital, Gary joined staff in 1982.

"I was moonlighting at Resurrection and knew the hospital was looking for a rheumatologist and because my dad was already here, I decided to join the staff," he stated. "My dad always enjoyed the atmosphere at Resurrection and it's felt like home to me."

"We get together all the time for family events and play golf together in the summer when we can," he said. "We're very lucky to be in the same profession and to be a part of such a great family." Gary currently serves as the Chairman of the Division of Internal Medicine.

Dr. Greg Fahrenbach, 37, was the second son to establish a practice at Resurrection over eight years ago. Greg graduated from

Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine and completed a residency in orthopedic surgery at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He recalls that he never felt the pressure to become a doctor but decided during his sophomore year of college that he would follow in his father's footsteps.

"My father always told us to get good grades and since all of my grades in science were excellent, he suggested that I consider the field. It was the turning point in my decision to become a doctor," he said. "He set an excellent example for us as a physician," he noted. "He taught us to be compassionate and to listen to our patients."

Dr. Paul Fahrenbach, the youngest son, 30, joined the medical staff this past summer. He admits his father and his brothers influenced him to become a physician. Paul graduated from the University of Illinois Medical School and completed a residency and a fellowship in gastroenterology at the University of Illinois Hospital and Clinics.

Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy Syndrome (RSDS)

RSDS is a multi-symptom condition usually affecting arms, legs, or both, but may affect any area of the body.

Other names given to this condition are Sudeck's Atrophy, Causalgia, Post Traumatic Dystrophy, Shoulder Hand Syndrome, and Reflex Neurovascular Dystrophy.

RSDS is a disease with involvement of nerves, skin, muscles, blood vessels, and bones. The only common factor in all patients is pain. All other symptoms may or may not occur.

Symptoms may vary, the most common are: Pain-primary complaint, constant pain which varies in degree from moderate to severe, loss of motion and use, muscle spasms, swelling, skin changes including dryness and nail changes, changes in skin temperature and color, increased sweating, bone changes, including softening of bone, and joint tenderness and stiffness.

Anyone can suffer from RSDS and recent data suggest that the number of cases is increasing, especially among adolescents and young adults.

RSDS often results in disability severe enough to affect every aspect of living. The emotional effect of these limitations causes frustrations, anger, and exhaustion, which can lead to hopelessness, not only for the patient, but also for family and friends of people with the condition.

The RSDSA Association is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to promote research for the cause and cure of RSDS, while at the same time meeting the needs of the patient and the family.

The RSDSA wants to stop the pain for good.

Support groups for those afflicted with RSDS meet the second Sunday of each month at Northern Illinois Medical Center, McHenry, (708) 292-7900 or Rush Presbyterian Medical Center, 1725 W. Harrison Street, Chicago (312) 942-6631.

Devon Bank initiates "Bank-School" program

Devon Bank is one of the first financial institutions in Illinois to participate in a special program designed to encourage young students to learn more about money management and savings.

Seventh and eighth grade students at Eugene Field School on Chicago's North Side are visited by Devon Bank officers on special "banking days" when the students, at their school, can make deposits into saving accounts designed especially for them. Students may open an account with just $1 and receive a savings booklet with deposit and withdrawal slips imprinted with their name.

The State of Illinois Treasurer's office, in an innovative outreach effort entitled "Illinois Young Savers Program - Bank-At-School," is teaming local banks with area schools in hopes of helping students build financial skills. Devon Bank officers visit Field School on the third Wednesday of each month to open accounts and accept deposits. Students and parents are welcome any time to visit Devon Bank's three locations in Chicago, Glenview or Deerfield/Northbrook to make withdrawals, other transactions, or inquire about the many different products and services available to them.

"We hope this program will provide the students with a sense of responsibility for saving and managing their money and also be fun for them. If we help teach them the fundamentals of money management now, we believe that these young people will learn to be educated consumers and continue to be good bank customers," said Elizabeth Soter, Devon Bank Executive Vice President.

Bank offers mortgage information

Many homebuyers will find the mortgage best suited for them if they have a clear understanding of the options available, believes Dennis D. Koonce, vice president and manager of residential mortgages at the First National Bank of Des Plaines.

Koonce suggest that prospective homebuyers learn as much as they can about mortgages before they even begin shopping for a house. After determining which type seems to fit their specific needs and financial position, they should visit a lender to discuss it.

"A lender will review your finances with you and let you know if you qualify for the type of mortgage that interest you," he says. "You will then know the price range you can afford, and will save yourself a lot of trouble and disappointment by searching for the right home."

The proper approach to reviewing various mortgage programs, Koonce believes, is to assess your short-term and long-term future. What appears to be a good mortgage for you today might not be the most advantageous in five to ten years.

ComEd opens new headquarters

To better serve its North Shore customers, Commonwealth Edison recently opened a new headquarters in Northbrook. This new North Shore Area headquarters is located just south of the existing headquarters at 1000 Skokie Blvd.

The new complex will serve more than 187,000 Edison customers in an area bounded by Half Day Rd. on the north, Devon Ave. on the south, Lake Michigan on the east and Milwaukee Ave. on the west. It will provide a full range of customer service functions, including a convenient drive-up window.

The multi-structure complex will be staffed by approximately 275 Edison employees, most of whom will transfer from the old headquarters. The main structure, a two-story, 47,000-square-foot office building, is designed to accommodate a full range of customer service functions, as well as maintenance and construction support for Edison's power distribution facilities in the region.

The old North Shore Area headquarters, built in the mid-1920s, is scheduled to be demolished this Spring. The old site will be retained, graded and beautified by Edison.

Bozo Peanut Butter launched in Chicago market

What two American favorites go better together than Bozo and peanut butter?

Bozo Peanut Butter is now being introduced in Chicago area Jewel Food Stores and the Centrella Food chain. This marks the initial launch of the national licensing agreement between food manufacturer and distributor Baron Corp. and Larry Harmon Pictures Corp. of Hollywood, CA, owner-licensor of the "Bozo" character.

"I decided several months ago that it would be valuable to link our premium peanut butter product with a recognizable character. The winner hands down was Bozo, who has been entertaining kids and parents alike for the past 35 years on TV's longest running children's show in the world," said Peter Baron, Vice President of Baron Corporation.

"Since the Chicagoland area is one of Bozo's top markets, we decided to launch the national product introduction there," said Baron, who pointed out that over 9 million children ages 2-11 view Bozo weekly in the United States.

'Library Families' named

Three library district families will be named "Niles Public Library District Library Families" during National Library Week.

In announcing the contest to name these special families, Board President Ted M. Przybylo said, "We know there are many families in the District with great stories to share about what the Library has done for them. We want to hear, recognize, and share those stories!"

Families may enter by submitting a short (paragraph or page) story about their family and the Library. Did the Library help a business? Did the Library help with a vexing family problem? Did library material enhance a vacation? There are many stories - share them by submitting them to any library service desk or mailing them to "Library Family" in care of the Library.

The three Library Families will each receive a small home reference Library - a collection of books of special interest and value to every home.

Winners will be announced during National Library Week, April 18-24. For further information, call the library at 967-8554.

ments in 1985 and 1989 only to see the same errors again haunt them in the 1992 property description. These errors include home descriptions such as 4 bedrooms with 2 baths, a fireplace and a finished basement; but in fact, the home has 3 bedrooms with 1 bath, no fireplace and no finished basement.

Rueckert said that in order to arrive at the fair market value to be placed upon a home the Assessor must have accurate information from which to establish a value. Certainly no one knows better than the homeowner that which is contained within their home. Therefore, gross errors in the physical description produces an inequitable assessed value.

He noted that the diligent efforts of his staff contributed to the success of the budget, as well as the financial report.

The Distinguished Budget Presentation Award is the highest form of recognition in governmental budgeting, which represents a significant accomplishment by the management and elected officials of Oakton Community College. To receive the award, governments submit their budget document for review by a panel of independent budget experts. Using extensive criteria, the reviewers evaluate the effectiveness of the budget as a policy document, a financial plan, an operations guide and a communications device. Award-winning documents must be rated "proficient" in all four categories.

Since 1984, over 500 governmental entities have received the Distinguished Budget Presentation Award nationwide. The GFOA is a nonprofit professional association serving 9,500 government finance professionals throughout North America.

ceives on the special line there is a fee ranging from 80 cents to $1.97, depending on the mode of communication used.

But at this point, officials from both Niles and Morton Grove Public Services departments become vocal. Jun Noriega, Niles Public Services Director, points out new manpower is needed to respond to JULIE messages, since being part of the JULIE network requires the Village to respond within two hours, around the clock. One or two employees should be available and they must be employees who know the location of Niles' water mains, he noted. Adding one employee with sufficient knowledge would cost the Village $35,000 a year, plus benefits, he said.

Construction companies on private property are responsible for contacting utilities on their own.

Pete Chopolis, Assistant Superintendent of Public Works in Morton Grove noted the village might be more liable since they must respond to a JULIE message within 30 minutes.

SCH oncology support group to meet

The Oncology Support Group of Swedish Covenant Hospital, which accounts for 250 Century 21 offices in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Will and Kane counties, is asking for volunteers to help with the annual Easter Seals "Tag Days" fundraiser, scheduled Friday and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., March 26 and 27.

Easter Seal Society of Metropolitan Chicago benefits thousands of area adults and children with disabilities. Last year, "Tag Days" volunteers collected $60,000 in donations from passers-by in shopping malls and on street corners during the two days.

Roger Peake, regional director of Century 21 Metropolitan, urged persons in the community to either volunteer one hour to collect for Easter Seals or to give a tax-deductible donation to "Tag Days" workers during the fundraiser.

Groups or individuals wanting to volunteer to collect money during "Tag Days" should call Jeff Kleeman, Easter Seals coordinator with Century 21 Metropolitan, at (708) 296-0021 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., before March 20.

SCH offers free screenings

The Swedish Covenant Hospital Dental Service is offering free dental screenings from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursdays, March 11 and 25, in its offices in the Anderson Pavilion, 2751 W. Winona.

The screenings are open to persons of all ages. Appointments are needed and may be made by calling 878-8200, X5500.

Alzheimer's support group meets in Niles

The Chicago Area Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association sponsors an Alzheimer's Support Group in Niles the last Wednesday of each month, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Regency Nursing Home, 6631 N. Milwaukee Ave. These informal sessions are designed for people to meet others coping with Alzheimer's disease and caring for Alzheimer's patients. They are free and open to the public.

For more information, call the Helpline of the Chicago Area Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association at (708) 933-1000.

Morton Grove it would have little benefit...the town is basically built up."

Chopolis said the village contacted Attorney General Roland Burris who issued an opinion saying villages can avoid state mandates which are not reimbursed.

According to Niles Village Manager Abe Selman, JULIE has become a rallying point on state mandates for many members of the Northwest Municipal Conference (NWMC). The conference heard a discussion of Illinois Senate Bill 339, sponsored by State Representative Bill Peterson, (R-60) which makes membership in JULIE optional at its March Board of Directors meeting.

Frost said JULIE is a state-wide, not for profit organization supported by the revenues it receives from messages sent to various utilities and towns. Last year 3.6 million messages were sent. The number should increase, since between four to five new towns join JULIE each month.

He urged towns to consider the time they will save and the possible thousands of dollars in damage if someone cuts a utility line.

The higher tax is expected to cut down on smoking, particularly among teenagers, and as an ancillary benefit, for decreasing health costs for smokers who have respiratory illnesses caused by cigarettes.

Ironically, the government still subsidizes tobacco farmers with millions of tax dollars.

They also expect the new health-care package will borrow many ideas from our neighbor to the north. The managed-competitive health plan may be a hybrid of U.S. HMO plans and the more government-regulated Canadian health plan.

The computer era has some incredible plans for our future. Every community in America, small and large, is likely to be hooked into an educational system which will enable all of us to use the huge library of the Library of Congress.

Last month we spent a few days in Las Vegas. Each night I drove down to the Stardust Hotel and sat in the lounge and listened to Don Cherry, another old balladeer from those younger days. It was a bit dismaying having only five or six people in the lounge to hear Cherry sing. He was a major entertainer in those bygone days who recorded for Decca Records. The voice box still had that deep baritone sound. But the stories he told of his past days married to a Miss America, and reminiscing about his more successful days in show business, were sad.

er bizarre story, the park district also pays $500 for Roster's membership in the two-community Rotary Club. If they're going to toss taxpayers money around with such ease we would think they would spend it supporting an all-Niles group such as Niles Lions Club. Yet, if they insist on supporting a group which includes out of Niles members they might buy into the Niles-Morton Grove League of Women Voters. The group is an auxiliary of the Niles Park District and would welcome a $500 donation to help with their "non-partisan" efforts.

It's doubtful they would welcome being asked to dig into their own pockets and give money for the Jozwiak golf course.

We expect cigarette smokers are going to get socked and shocked by the additional tax planned by the Clinton administration. Last fall we spent a few days in Canada where one pack of cigarettes was selling for over $5. It is reported the money will be a small part of the new budget for health care.

The higher tax is expected to cut down on smoking, particularly among teenagers, and as an ancillary benefit, for decreasing health costs for smokers who have respiratory illnesses caused by cigarettes.

participants can discuss test results with a doctor.

Police officers and dispatchers joining the program will undergo a more comprehensive physical exam, along with a 12 lead stress test. In contrast to other Village employees, these police representatives will take their exams at Lutheran General Occupational Health Center.

Because privacy and confidentiality are stressed, the Village is told only whether the employee is capable of performing his job. Health Direct will also compile a cumulative statistical report showing risk levels on all the employees, but without using employees' names. This will help the Village project future health care costs.

Employees interested in nutrition and weight control, stopping smoking, stress management and back education can take part in a series of educational seminars that are planned. Here participants will pay a percentage of the cost of the seminar, but just what amount will be determined by the number who join, said Christa Bellowe, the Village's Personnel Officer and Director of the plan. Bellowe estimated the Village's cost for the program at $15,000.

Why is the Village concerned about its employees' health when it is holding a tight rein on expenditures? Village Manager Abe Selman said "It's important for the well-being of the employees. (He) sees the Village is concerned and he should be a more productive employee. If their health situation is positive and they participate in the seminars, it will lead to a positive attitude which they will bring to bear on their jobs."

Reflecting on the result of a year's effort in organizing the program, Bellowe said "In the long run, the program could cut health care costs. Seventy percent of health costs are (due to) a poor lifestyle." Will she, herself, join the Wellness program? Bellowe replied "I plan on being the first person in line!"
