Oak Mill Mall offered in sealed bid sale

A sealed bid judgment sale due October 28 for Oak Mill Mall Shopping Center in Niles will be offered by Chicago Commercial Realty (CCR) of Northbrook.

A sealed bid judgment sale is rare. CCR initiated the concept of a sealed bid sale in the late 80s and it has become a popular disposition method lately.

"The sale of our client's foreclosure judgment will be followed in early 1994 with a sheriff's sale of the property," said Mark Lasman, president of CCR. Lasman said that the successful buyer of the judgment sale has the option of accepting or not accepting the high bid at the sheriff's sale. A higher price, however, might be a very attractive quick profit for the judgment holder.

Buglebits.....

Last week we were working late in the office. About 6:30 I called our accountants' office, Callero and Callero, and asked if I had time to drop off our monthly records. We were told they'd be open for another half hour. When I arrived, their 30-car parking lot was jammed. When I walked into the reception room there were wall-to-wall people intently involved in a very business-like meeting. Bob Callero was back by the cabinets working a a computer or calculator, and the other people there were intently involved. I quickly walked out from the building feeling I was intruding upon an important business meeting. But I was very impressed. This very businesslike company was probably reviewing the real estate salesmen's efforts and was likely staying late to give the employees some special guidance. It looked like they were getting ready for a Knute Rockne-like inspirational speech.

My metaphor wasn't too far from the truth. I found out the next day this very intense meeting had nothing to do with accounting or real estate. But rather, the clan was gathered together to play another round of Fantasy Football. These high-powered guys were in the business of buying and trading football players. The 30 guys and gals were divvying up the quarterbacks and ends and

Gemini parents voice concern over new schedule

by Ben Rieck

Gemini Junior High School has a new flexed schedule this year. Parents, teachers and students expressed their concern over the change at the last School District 63 Board meeting held September 14.

The new school day has nine teaching periods, eight of which are basic instructional periods, Dr. D. C. Stetina, associate superintendent, explained. He said that last year's classes lasted four minutes longer.

By the end of the day it adds up to an extra half hour of teaching time. After eight periods, students have to decide whether to take an extra class for which they will be graded, participate in after school sports or go home.

Stetina said that all band classes are held ninth period and Spanish classes also also held then. Students used to have to choose

New procedure brings complaints to Park District preschool

Niles parents protest cup cleaning

By Tracey Labovitz

A Niles preschool parent addressed the Park Board September 21 to protest the preschools new cupcleaning procedure.

Gerri Tyre, 8237 Oleander, brought several parents and a petition containing 24 protesting signatures with her to the meeting Tuesday night in an attempt to change the new cup-cleaning program used at the Rec Center, Oakton Manor and Ballard preschools.

Recently, a new procedure was implemented where the parent helper of the day was responsible for cleaning the individual plastic cups each child had been designated by the Park District.

The parent helper was to take the cups, wash them in hot detergent water, rinse them, dip them in bleach water solution (one-fourth cup bleach to one gallon water) and allow to air dry.

"We have checked with Morton Grove, Des Plaines, Park Ridge and Glenview," Tyre said. "No other Park District preschool uses the procedure that we are being asked to use."

Park District Director Tim Royster said there are 360 Park

Responsibility unclear for repair of 'Burma Roads'

By Tracey Labovitz

Deteriorating streets in an unincorporated area of Niles desperately need to be repaired, but who gets the bill remains to be determined.

The alley and parking area between the townhouses on Robin Drive and Dee Road in Niles have been labeled "Burma Road" after the historical roads of World War II. These streets were in such bad condition that jeeps and army vehicles had terrible difficulty maneuvering on them.

Today, the Village of Niles is labeling these "Burma Roads" as health hazards.

"When you have deterioration of property or roads, you can generally associate that with health problems," said Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase. "If you have pot holes, for example, then you have standing water. If you have standing water you have mosquitos. Mosquitos are a health problem.

"If there is a problem with deterioration of roads or buildings, there is naturally a resultant of possible health problems that go with it."

The appreciation certificate was signed by Department president Wanda Lovely and state Public Relations Chairman Pamela Grohman.

Contract negotiation session set for Sept.30

District 63 teachers threaten strike October 4

By Tracey Labovitz

East Maine District 63 teachers may go on strike October 4 if contract negotiations are not accomplished at the September 30 negotiation session.

Mary Pendergast, president of the East Maine Teachers Union, said the teachers are still without a contract as the strike date is nearing.

"In August, the teachers voted to come into work without a contract," Pendergast said. "But if we did not have one by October 4 we would go on strike."

Pendergast said that teacher's contracts usually run in cycles of two years. East Maine teachers requested a 7 percent salary increase the first year and an 8 percent raise the second.

Since then the teachers have lowered their requests to 3.5 percent. School board representatives' last offer, however, stood at 1 percent.

"We are only asking for a minimum increase," Pendergast said. "(The teachers) are not happy with 1 percent. But they're a little happier than 0 percent. That's what the Board was offering up until June or so."

School board officials argue that the school district is under severe financial strain and that the only reason the district is open today is because of the $5 million in working cash bonds the district borrowed.

Something has to give. The contract negotiation session will take place on September 30. On

Four from District 207 to be honored

Four people from District 207 are among nearly 350 individuals who are being honored in the 20th annual Those Who Excel awards program. They include a teacher, an assistant principal, a counselor and a parent.

Charlane Anderson, a science teacher at Maine South, will receive an award of recognition; Eldon Burk, an assistant principal at Maine West, honorable mention; Dennis McCann, a counselor at Maine South, an award of merit; and Kathleen A. Rolsing, a parent at Maine South, honorable mention.

Open House at fire station

On Sunday, Oct. 3 from noon until 4 p.m., the North Maine Fire Department will celebrate Fire Prevention Week with its annual Open House.

The fire station, located at 9301 Potter Rd. in unincorporated Maine Township, will open its doors to the public with equipment displays, tours, fire prevention materials, and free fruit drinks and cookies.

Chief Morrie J. Farbman encourages everyone to attend the Open House. Visitors will be able to meet the firefighters, and view the firefighting equipment.

North Maine emergency number is 297-2121

The unincorporated areas of Maine Township will continue to be served by the North Maine Fire Protection District for fire and ambulance by calling 297-2121 for emergencies.

Do not be confused by area wide publicity indicating a change for residents in the area to the use of 9-1-1 as an available emergency number.

Currently, when 9-1-1 is dialed from a phone in the unincorporated area, a recorded message tells the caller to dial the operator. In an emergency, this could cause a delay when minutes are important.

Since in August 1993, a 9-1-1 service charge has been included on local phone bills. Since passage of the 9-1-1 referendum at the April election, Cook County and the phone company are working in cooperation to provide 9-1-1 service to all residents of Cook County not currently served by the 9-1-1 emergency number.

Residents are being assessed a small fee on their phone bills to provide funding for the purchase of equipment, as well as, installation costs.

Intergenerational reading program launched

The Illinois Department on Aging has joined with First Lady Brenda Edgar in launching an intergenerational reading program that may be adopted by schools across the state.

"Illinois R.E.A.D.S." (Retirees Educating and Assisting in the Development of Students) utilizes senior volunteers to help students in kindergarten through grade three who are at risk of school failure.

"When parents are involved in their children's education, it's a win-win situation," Mrs. Edgar said. "But for those students whose parents cannot or will not get involved, there is a need to find others who will help. That's where older volunteers can play an important role."

The Illinois Department on Aging can help recruit those volunteers by working in partnership with several key groups, including the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), Association of Illinois Senior Centers, Illinois Parent Teacher Association, Illinois Retired Teachers Association, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and the Illinois Intergenerational Initiative.

"There is a talented group of older citizens who have a lot to give. They have a wonderful and precious quality--experienced judgment," said Department on Aging Director Maralee Lindley.

"If a school or community organization is interested in starting an intergenerational reading program, we hope they will give us a call. Not only will we help recruit local volunteers, we will provide local coordinators with a program guide that outlines suggested procedures for starting a READS program," said Lindley.

Educators, community groups and senior volunteers interested in finding out more about Illinois R.E.A.D.S., should contact the Illinois Department on aging's toll-free number at 1-800-252-8966 (Voice and TDD).

Make healthy lifestyle changes

Although heredity accounts for some health problems, physicians say that simple changes in daily lifestyle can significantly reduce the risk of serious illnesses such as cancer and heart disease.

To help community residents learn which lifestyle changes can have the greatest impact on health, The Evanston and Glenbrook Hospitals are sponsoring a free lecture entitled "Get Healthy: Changes in Your Lifestyle" on Thursday, Oct. 7, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Health Education Center at The Evanston Hospital, 2650 Ridge Ave., Evanston.

Arthur Hoffman, M.D., internist and director of Cancer Prevention Programs at Evanston, will explain to community residents which changes can have the greatest impact and what tests should be done regularly. In addition, Dr. Hoffman will discuss the influence of stress on reaching and maintaining personal health goals.

For more information or to register, call (708) 570-5020.

Seek names of WWII veterans

Pierre Salinger is looking for the names of 5 million men and women who fought in Europe and North Africa during World War II. Salinger is chairman of the Wall of Liberty Committee of the Battle of Normandy Foundation, which plans to carve the names into a series of walls that will be built in Caen, near the Allies' D-Day landing spot.

Because the veterans records center in St. Louis burned down five or six years ago, veterans or their families are asked to submit names directly to the project. Applications may be obtained by calling 1-800-WW2-VETS.

To get an application by mail, write Wall of Liberty Committee, Battle of Normandy Foundation, Suite 612, 1730 Rhode Island Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Social Security Benefit Estimate Reflect's "Today's" Dollars

by
Thomas A. Curin
Social Security Manager
Des Plaines, IL

The next time you ask Social Security to send you an estimate of the benefits you would receive at retirement, you will find the amount figured in "today's" dollars. Estimates prepared before September 1993 were projected in "future" dollars using a 1 percent adjustment to take into account wage growth for each year up to age 62.

When Social Security first began issuing earnings and benefit statements in 1988, the estimates reflected the probable effects of continued work and changes in the economy up to the time the worker reached retirement age. Social Security is no longer adding the 1 percent factor in order to make its retirement benefit estimates consistent with benefit estimates prepared by most private and public pension planners.

Your benefit estimate also will include a yearly breakdown of your earnings that have been reported to Social Security and an estimate of how much you have paid in Social Security taxes. It's a good idea to request a statment of your earnings at least every three years so that you make sure that your earnings are reported accurately. And, although you may not be ready to retire, you will find the benefit estimate helpful in planning your future.

The earnings information and benefit estimate is easy to obtain. Call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213 and ask for a Form SSA-7004 (Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement). You should receive the form in about 10 working days. It will take you about 5 minutes to complete the form. Mail it to Social Security in the envelope that accompanies the form. You can expect to receive the report of your earnings and your benefit estimate within 6 weeks.

Health care power of attorney explained

Many people have heard of a Living Will, a document that explains to your family, friends, doctor and the courts what you do and do not want done to prolong your life. Fewer people have heard of the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care.

"Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care lets you choose a person, or persons, who can legally make health care decisions for you if you become unable to make those decisions and speak for yourself," says Gretchen Schmuch, a family practice social worker in the University of Iowa College of Medicine.

"One of the most difficult things about choosing your legal decision-maker is discussing death," Schmuch says. Questions you should ask yourself include:

- Is quality of life more important than quantity of life?
- How important is physical and/or mental functioning in decisions to accept, refuse or limit medical treatment?
- What are my spiritual beliefs and how do they fit with my choices?
- Are food and water basic human rights, regardless of delivery (tube, mouth or vein)?
- Whom do I want to make decisions about my health care?

More than half of Americans say they want to participate in their health care decision-making until they die, but fewer than 15 percent have completed a Durable Power of Attorney. If asked, most people have a general idea of what they want, Schmuch says. It is important for people to discuss their wishes with their families and their doctors.

"But doctors often wait for the patient to bring the subject up, and patients wait for the doctor. So we have a lack of communication, with no decisions being made until a crisis arises," Schmuch says.

During a crisis, such as when an elderly parent dies but is revived or a spouse has a heart attack and is in a coma, a decision as crucial as what treatment the patient would want makes a difficult situation more painful.

If a patient does not have a Durable Power of Attorney, decisions must still be made. "If no one has been designated, the decision-making authority passes, in order, to guardian, spouse, majority of adult children, parents, siblings. In what I consider a worst-case scenario, the matter would be decided by a hospital board or the courts.

"It's so important to talk with each other to determine what should be done," Schmuch says.

"Living Wills are valuable tools, but no document can provide answers in all situations. Selecting someone with the authority to make decisions for you will put you at ease now," says Schmuch. "And your family and friends will not have to worry about who will make the decision in the future."

Rehabilitative Therapy at Ballard Returns Clients to the Independence of their Own Homes

Rehabilitation at Ballard is aimed at making the world outside a friendlier place. Our emphasis is on the practical.

We stress the physical skills needed for living - grocery shopping, banking, doing the dishes, dealing with heavy doors and different ground surfaces, handling yourself in a car.

This is the type of rehabilitative therapy that helped Sara, an active woman of 65, after she broke her hip. Upon completion of therapy, Sara was able to work in the garden, take walks with her husband, go to dinner and the theater and even make flying visits to Seattle to visit her daughter.

Because our focus is on relearning the skills necessary for daily living, we are now remodeling our rehabilitative therapy suite to make learning these practical skills easier.

With the addition of a unique simulated community, the OUR TOWN Rehabilitation Center, developed by Guynes Designs, Inc., creators of EASY STREET Environments for hospitals, rehabilitation clients at Ballard will be able to practice daily living activities in a familiar community setting.

Each aspect of everyday life can be mastered in the safe and unencumbered confines of Ballard, so that our clients can return to the independence of their own homes.

Realty company thanks Niles for support

Dear Editor:

The real estate agents and staff at ERA Callero & Catino Realty want to thank the many individuals and businesses in our community who in the past year showed generosity and support toward our fund raising efforts for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

As a result of our local fund raising efforts, ERA Callero & Catino Realty contributed $1,692 to the ERA Real Estate networks $1,200,000 pledged to MDA in 1993. Jerry Lewis received our corporate check during the MDA Labor Day Telethon in Las Vegas.

Members of the ERA Real Estate network, especially us at ERA Callero & Catino continually focus on making ERA and MDA a winning team, and we greatly appreciate the help we received locally in our fight against muscular dystrophy. We couldn't have made such a significant contribution without the support from members of our community who contributed their time, energy and money for our fund raising effort.

Liberty earns safety honors

Coral Gables-based Bauer Financial Reports Inc., the nation's leading bank evaluation firm, recently awarded Liberty Bank for Savings its 19th consecutive five-star rating.

The five-star designation is the highest achievement level awarded an institution and reflects the superior reserves and conservative management of Liberty Bank. The Bank's tangible capital ratio, for instance, is more than five times that required by federal regulators.

The $550-million institution, which is observing its 95th year in business, recently conducted a grand-opening celebration for its new Lincolnwood office. Liberty Bank has three additional offices in Chicago.

Gas company hosts contractors' meeting

Northern Illinois Gas Company has been sponsoring Heating Contractors meetings since 1975. These meetings offer an opportunity for the heating contractor to gain the very latest information on what's new and what has been improved.

The evening is held in gratitude to all the heating contractors in the northern division for their past performance to their customers.

The U.S. Marines opened the most recent meeting with the presentation of colors. The host was Joe Aceto from Northern Illinois Gas Company. The meeting provided an opportunity for the heating contractors to gain knowledge on the New York gas heat pump and the (CSST) Corrigated Stainless Steel Tubing. New technology was introduced on the gas grill (Pro-Chef) and the 100 percent shut off on gas lites during day-lite hours. The meetings show the concern of Northern Illinois Gas Company for quality heating contractors.

Protecting abused kids

A new system for protecting Evanston children from child abuse will be discussed at a forum sponsored by the Child and Family Advocates of Evanston on Tuesday, Sept. 28 from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Schultz Auditorium, St. Francis Hospital, Evanston.

"Our primary concern is the safety of the children," said Tana Paul, director of the child abuse program at Family Counseling Service. "DCFS has an overwhelming caseload, and as counseling agencies and service providers, we must make sure children are not slipping through the cracks."

Under the proposed new system, schools, hospitals and other agencies who are required by law to report any incidents of child abuse to Illinois Department of Children and Family Services would also automatically report these cases to the police department in Evanston. The police would then conduct their own separate investigation to determine if abuse has occurred. If the police investigation confirms abuse, the children will be brought into the protective care of the circuit court, and the parents may be faced with criminal charges regardless of the findings of DCFS.

"The goal is to protect the children and treat the family," said Paul. "We are really trying to provide a backup system for DCFS, so that kids get the protection they need at the first sign of trouble."

The forum, which is free and open to anyone who works with children and families, will feature John Goad from the Department of Children and Family Services, Commander Danny Moses of the Evanston Police Department and representatives from agencies affiliated with the Advisory Board of the Child and Family Advocates program.

Lunch will be provided, courtesy of St. Francis Hospital, and reservations are requested. To RSVP, call the hospital's Social Services department at (708) 492-2230.

Clothing theft leads to felony charges

On Sept. 18, three women and one man from Lincolnwood were charged with felony retail theft. The 22-, 21- and 17-year-old women and a 22-year-old man filled the trunk of their car with more than $1,300 in clothing from two local stores. They were observed stealing clothing from a retail store at 5601 Touhy and putting it in their car's trunk. When they were then stopped, clothing from a store at 5651 Touhy was also found in the trunk. The three women wore homemade skirts that allowed them to conceal merchandise. Bonds for all four were set at $5,000.

Charged with food theft

On September 18, two Chicago women were charged with retail theft for stealing from a food store, 8730 Dempster. One of the women, a 33-year-old, tried to steal approximately $40 worth of meat. The older woman, a 41-year-old, was also caught taking meat, approximately $53 worth. Her bond was set at $5,000 and the bond for the other offender was set at $1,000. Neither of the women paid any part of their bonds.

Threatening phone calls linked to credit card fraud

The second of two threatening calls received by a Niles couple was reported on September 17. The couple believes that the man who made the calls is the one who has been making fraudulent charges on their credit card. The first call was made shortly after the card was cancelled, one week before the second call. A credit investigation is continuing, as $1,000 in fraudulent charges were made.

Beer stolen from garage

On September 19, a 54-year-old Niles man awoke to noises outside by his garage. He saw two people leave his garage and run towards the front of his house when he yelled at them. He heard a car start up outside. There he saw cases of beer that had been taken from his garage. One may have been stolen in the theft.

Felony charges on retail theft

A 36-year-old Chicago woman was caught stealing clothing from a local retail store on September 18. The two silk tops and pair of pants she was taking were worth approximately $53. Felony retail theft charges were approved in the case due to the criminal history of the woman. Her bond was set at $5,000.

Car stolen

A 19-year-old Des Plaines man reported his car stolen on September 19. He had not seen the 1978 model car since sometime in August. It was parked at 9002 Milwaukee the last time he saw it. The license plates on the car are expired and suspended for emissions violations.

Unlicensed driver

On September 19, police ran a routine check on a 1977 van. The van turned up stolen in police records. The car was pulled over at Caldwell and Legget. The 26-year-old man behind the wheel turned out to be an unlicensed driver and the car was not a stolen vehicle. The driver was ticketed and the car was towed away. He was also charged with having no insurance. He was held on a $2,000 bond.

Theft from garage

A disc sander and a bicycle were stolen from a locked garage sometime between 8 p.m. September 18 and 7:45 a.m. on September 19. The items were worth a combined $650 and were taken from the garage of a 41-year-old Niles man. An additional $350 damage was done to the garage door in the theft.

Windows broken at business

A Niles business had two windows broken sometime between 11 p.m. September 17 and 7 a.m. September 18. The damage that was done to the two east facing windows will cost $1,300. A special watch was requested.

Bicycle reported missing

Between 11:30 p.m. September 18 and 8 a.m. September 19 a bicycle was stolen from a 71-year-old Niles man. The 18-speed bike was taken from the man's locked garage. It was worth approximately $431.

Retail theft

A "P" ticket was given to a 17-year-old Des Plaines man on September 4. The man was trying to take athletic shoes and socks from a Golf Mill store without paying. The merchandise was worth approximately $53.

Break into garage

On September 19, a 56-year-old Niles woman reported that her garage had been broken into. A half-inch pry tool was used in the attempt, causing $500 damage. Nothing was noted missing from the garage.

Local optometrist participates in study of contact lenses

Dr. Michael Wodis, a Park Ridge optometrist, is participating in a contact lens study this month. The study, organized by a major contact lens manufacturer, is to determine the success of a certain approach to prescribing soft contact lenses for astigmatism.

Participants will be fit with toric soft contact lenses, which are contacts that correct astigmatism as well as nearsightedness or farsightedness. (Astigmatism is a focusing problem, caused by a slight distoration of the front of the eye.)

Of the 75 offices participating nationally, Dr. Wodis' is the only office in the Chicago area. His was selected because of his work in the area of soft contact lens quality. Dr. Wodis has been granted patents on contact lens measuring instruments, and has published research on the manufacturing quality of soft contact lenses.

For those thinking about participating in the study: The manufacturer is absorbing part of the costs involved. According to Dr. Wodis, fees will be $150 less than usual for participants accepted into the study. More information is available through Dr. Wodis' office. Ask for Rosemary at (708) 823-2129.

Soft Contact Lens Study

Our office is involved in a contact lens study during September.

If you've had poor success with contact lenses due to astigmatism, or if you've been told you weren't a good candidate for contact lenses because of astigmatism, you may be successful with the lenses used in this study.

As the study is partially subsidized by the manufacturer, our normal fitting fee will be reduced. We are limited in the participants we can accept.

If you would like more information about this study, please call us at 823-2129, and ask for Rosemary.

Depression screening offered at Forest Hospital

In conjunction with the Third Annual National Depression Screening Day, Forest Hospital will offer free screenings for depression on Thursday, October 7 from 6 p.m., to 8:30 p.m.

To be held at the hospital's outpatient department, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines, the screening session will include a confidential, written self-test for depression and brief discussion of the test with a mental health professional. In appropriate cases, additional evaluation will be recommended.

Despite the fact that effective medical treatment can help the vast majority of the estimated 15 million Americans who suffer depression each year, the National Institute of Mental Health says only about a fourth of those affected seek help.

Depression is typically marked by a combination of four or more psychological and/or physical symptoms. Among these are lack of energy; fatigue; weight loss or gain; change in sleep patterns; loss of sexual interest; feelings of hopelessness or worthlessness; inability to concentrate; headaches or other physical symptoms that don't respond to treatment; thoughts of death or suicide. In its more severe form, depression is a paralyzing combination of feelings of failure, hopelessness and constant sadness.

National Depression Screening Day is co-sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association, Harvard Medical School (Psychiatric Division), National Mental Health Association and the National Institute of Mental Health.

To register for the free screening or for more information, call the Forest Hospital outpatient department, (708) 635-4100, extension 224.

Discuss risks of delayed pregnancy

In today's world, more career-oriented women are deciding to have children later in life. For many couples, the time isn't right to begin a family until the woman reaches her late thirties or early forties. Although the risk of complications increases with age, much of the success in after-30 pregnancies depends on the overall health status of the mother.

For women who are concerned about the benefits and risks of delaying pregnancy, The Evanston and Glenbrook Hospitals are sponsoring a free lecture on Tuesday, September 28, beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the Community Health Education Center, 2650 Ridge Ave., Evanston. Cheryl Niehaus, M.D., obstetrician/gynecologist, and John Sholl, M.D., obstetrician/gynecologist, will help women separate the myths from reality about childbirth for women in their thirties and forties.

Drs. Niehaus and Sholl will explain the special risk factors, such as heredity, that can become more significant with age. The presentation will also cover genetic testing, prenatal testing, lifestyle factors, nutrition, medical history, and how to choose a healthcare provider. In addition, guests will have the opportunity to ask questions.

halfbacks from the NFL teams. We were told the "owners" of the quarterbacks and other players were preparing for the upcoming weeks' National Football League games. The owners with the best records in touchdowns and other statistical records vie against the other people in the newest sports' craze. We never realized what a serious matter this activity was until we invaded their meeting. As that old sports fan Gertrude Stein once said, "A sports nut is a sports nut is a sports nut...ad infinitum."

Morton Grove's Continental Cable T.V. station has been running an on-screen notice to its subscribers for the past three weeks in which it has been spelling the word "occurring" with one "r." We make plenty of errors ourselves but only have to read them once. Continental has been running this notice continuously for the past three weeks and we can't escape it everytime we click on Channel 3. Two "r's" please, two "r's."

Helen O'Connell, the quintessential girl singer with a big band in the nineteen forties, died last week. Every teenager in the late 1930's and early 1940's knew that voice that made "Green Eyes" and "Tangerine" rise to the top of the song charts. Her voice was unique. It was far from the best voice among singers. And there was nothing lusty or sensuous about it. But she cracked a note with sort of a smoky quality which gave it an almost haunting quality.

In 1940, being 15 years old was a special time. On Saturday nights eight or ten of us would pile into a 1929 Model A and go into Michigan City for an ice cream frappe. Coming home, we'd leisurely drive down the lake road with the top down in the open car. The lake would be gently lapping its waves against the shoreline, and on the car radio, from the Glenn Island Casino or the Pennsylvania Hotel or from the Pompton Turnpike would come the music of the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra and the singing of Bob Eberly and Helen O'Connell. When she sang the lyrics, "Those cool and limpid green eyes," the world seemed to stop for a minute.

A couple of weeks ago we were having coffee in a bakery in Long Beach, Indiana. Father Andrew Greeley, wearing a White Sox jacket, came in to buy some sweet rolls. When the bakery clerk commented about the jacket, Father Greeley said, "I'm a Chicago fan. I root for both the Cubs and the Sox." I looked up from my chair and told him if he was a true Chicago baseball fan, he'd root for one Chicago team and then genuinely "hate" the other team. He stared down at me and said, "You must be a Sox fan." He was right. He went on to say only Sox fans have that love-hate relationship with the team at the other end of town. For a guy who grew up on the southside, I was disappointed in the good Father. He can give his pitch for love and charity all he wants, but "love the Cubs"...Never!

Parents ...

Districts in Illinois, not only four. He continued to say that this procedure was evaluated by three health officials who said the procedure was safe if done correctly.

Tyre, who has also been a health teacher, said the procedure "doesn't sit with me".

"There are 150 kids in this preschool," Tyre said. "To expect parents to do this procedure perfectly every time is unrealistic. This procedure must be followed to a tee. Not all parents might be that conscientious. I don't want to take that risk with my kids."

Royster said this method was implemented for environmental purposes. The Park District preschools used 16,000 throwaway cups last year. This new method was designed "in order to save 16,000 trees".

"Recyclable plastic cups aren't really recyclable," Royster said. "You can only recycle them once and then they become another piece of plastic in the landfills."

Royster suggested that this situation can take two directions. Either the staff can clean the cups, which would take time, or the children could take their cups home to be washed everyday, with the risk that some would forget theirs on occassion.

The Park Boad asked Tyre to meet with Jerry Krewer, Superintendent of Leisure Services, to device a list of options that parents can choose from regarding the cleaning procedure.

The Park Board assured the concerned parents that the preschool staff would clean the cups until a solution has been found.

The Park Board also expressed great excitement about the grand opening of the Iceland Sports Arena, scheduled to take place the first week of November.

President Bud Skaja reminded anyone interested in the continuation, or discontinuation, of Niles Days, that an open forum and decision regarding the event will take place at the next Village Board meeting, September 28.

The next Park Board meeting will occur one week earlier next month on October 12.

NI Gas offers clean air grants

Not-for-profit organizations operating a fleet of 10 or more vehicles and interested in meeting the requirements of the Clean Air Act may be eligible for some help from Northern Illinois Gas.

Northern Illinois Gas will be awarding grants to qualifying organizations within its service territory to convert vehicles to run on clean-burning compressed natural gas (CNG). The company has funds to convert six to 10 vehicles this year. The grants will allow nonprofits to experience CNG as an alternative to gasoline.

between Spanish and reading classes, the new schedule allows students to take both, he added.

Those who complain about a longer day are "painting over" the educational opportunities offered, he said.

Fred Kudert, parent of a Gemini Junior High student, said, "we strongly believe that the schedule change has proven detrimental to the band program."

One of the band program's directors, Bob Rzeszutko, has seen the number of band participants dwindle this year. He reported that over 30 students have left the program and at least 15 choose to go home.

"The faculty at Gemini Junior High has overwhelmingly voted that they reject this kind of ninth period day," Harriet Wennerstrom said, representing the staff.

Susan Leksander, an eighth grade band student, was also a two-sport athlete last year. This year, games and practices are scheduled to begin after the ninth period has begun.

Like other students at the meeting, Leksander feels like she is being penalized for participating in band. After a long day at school, she noted that the buses are sometimes up to 20 minutes late.

All 11 speakers wanted change. Kudert suggested either putting the band program back into the school day or making ninth period mandatory for all.

Superintendent Robert Varga recognized that the new schedule will take time and problems will not be totally resolved. Varga stuck by his intention, when he implemented the program, to give it a semester.

Varga promised a stronger response for the September 28 meeting, the date which was previously set aside for schedule discussion.

Forum to be held regarding Niles Fest

By Tracey Labovitz

Constant problems at the Niles Fest event has resulted in concerns regarding the continuation of the event.

An open forum will be held at the next Niles Village Board meeting on September 28. Interested residents should attend the discussion as a decision will be made regarding the future of Niles Fest.

"In this meeting we will discuss any testimony or remark anyone might have," Niles Village Board President Mayor Nicholas Blase said. "Pro or con."

The meeting will be held at Niles Council Chambers, 7200 Waukegan, at 8 o'clock.

'Burma Roads' ...

When the townhomes on Robin Drive and Dee Road were built 30 years ago, no provision was made as to whom would be responsible for the surrounding streets. When a person buys a condominium, for example, that person also buys the hallway, the elevator, the grounds, etc., and makes monthly accessments to pay for any repairs the building might need.

The "Burma Roads" are located in an unincorporated area which makes the county, not the Village, responsible for issuing building permits. Had this area been a part of the Village, this situation would never have occurred.

"The main problem with unincorporated areas is there is no government," Blase said. "And no government means the deterioration of properties because there's nobody to lay on them and make sure things are being taken care of. So you have landlords that take advantage of the situation and they don't fix their properties."

The Village of Niles is interested in joining together with the neighboring suburbs of Park Ridge, Des Plaines and Glenview in order to remedy the situation. Niles Village Manager Abe Selman has met with officials from these suburbs and those officials have stated an interest in this solution.

"If Niles went a half mile west into the unincorporated area," Blase said. "If the Des Plaines city came a half mile east, Park Ridge a half mile north and Glenview a half mile south, and they all did the same thing I'm recommending, we could straighten out large parts of that area that are being let go and deteriorating to some extent."

Blase is recommending that the landlords fix their streets or these towns will take those individuals to court and force them to fix their streets. Blase said that court action could be taken under the state statute regarding the health of the general community. Blase said he did not know what the cost of repairs would be, nor does he care.

"The cost is of no concern to me or the community," Blase said. "If it's your road, fix it."

However, it may not be that simple.

Maine Township Supervisor Mark Thompson said that because there is no clause stating responsibility for the "Burma Roads", funds are harder to come by. Tenants who are renting and do not own their townhouses do not want to pay for the repairs, and landlords who do not live at the residence don't feel responsible either.

"What is now occurring," Thompson said. "Is the formation of a group of residents along the Burma Road area who have gotten together to look at possible solutions to repair the roadway."

Thompson said that these residents are forming a Homeowners Association, which is what should have taken place when the buildings were first built.

The residents will look at their options and hopefully find a way for these streets to be repaired.

"Niles is looking in terms of health," Thompson said. "They are saying the mosquitos from the Burma Roads are going to travel to Niles and create problems. I think they are going to have a hard time proving that in court."

Although some see "Burma Roads" as the building owners' responsibility, the residents who live there are trying to find a solution of their own. What is most important, however, is that these streets are repaired.

"I would think the people that live there would appreciate what Niles is doing in trying to get some of these landlords to take care of these problems," Blase said. "We delivered a letter to the building owners; we haven't taken any action and we're just watching. If they fix the streets, fine. If not, we will have to decide what our next step will be."

October 3, East Maine teachers will vote on whether or not students in East Maine District 63 will be able to continue to go to school. There have been three teacher strikes over the past 21 years in this district, and no one wants to see another one.

"I was very optimistic at our last meeting and they offered us nothing," Pendergast said. "So I'll say I'm cautiously optimistic this time. I'm hopeful that it will get worked out. Teachers never like to strike."

HIP sponsors Safety Town

Safety Town, sponsored by Harlem Irving Plaza, in cooperation with the Norridge Police Department & Norwood Park Fire Department, begins it's 32nd year on September 27 continuing through October 8. Area students, kindergarten and first grade, will participate in the educational program at the center which is located at Harlem Avenue, Irving Park Road, and Forest Preserve Drive.

The center court of the mall is transformed into miniature Chicago streets with Chicago landmark buildings, and includes working traffic lights donated by Aldridge Electric.

In this miniature city, youngsters will learn the importance of being safe pedestrians with emphasis on safety in crossing streets, observing stop signs, street signs, and pedestrian signs.

The second segment of the program is presented by the Norridge Police Department. In this segment, the children are being taught a comprehensive program on personal safety and the importance of seat belt usage.

The third and final segment of the program features the community Fire Safety House. The house is a mobile unit that gives children a realistic experience on fire prevention and fire safety. As the children go through the educational program, the house fills with a non-toxic artificial smoke, in which the children will need to react as if in a real fire.

Harlem Irving Plaza's Safety Town serves nearly 1,500 students who are transported daily by bus from 21 area schools during the two-week period. Although the lessons being taught are of a serious nature, they are presented in a way that children can both learn as well as enjoy.

Upon completion of the program, the students will be sent a personalized diploma certifying their completion of the course.
