State Supreme Court turns down village takeover of Niles Parks

by Tracey Labovitz

The Illinois Supreme Court denied a petition making the Park District a part of the Village of Niles, announced Park Board President Bud Skaja, Jr. at Tuesday night's Park Board meeting.

Skaja said the court ruling finalized and nullified the matter and that he did not want to discuss the issue until further actions were arranged.

"I guess, again, people don't count," sighed Skaja.

The Park District exists solely on property tax revenue and admission to its facilities. The Park Board, and the Village, believe there would be a greater savings if theVillage took over the park District.

"You don't need a city truck and a park truck. One truck can work for both," said Village At-

Village encourages new format for Niles Festival

Niles Fest to continue for 2 years

By Tracey Labovitz

The Niles Village Board decided to continue Niles Fest for two more years.

The annual event has been creating problems, such as individual violence and gang activity for the past few years. Police protection cost more than $11,000 for the event this year. Each year more than 100 people are turned away from the open and free event in fear of gang activity, according to Niles Police Chief Ray Giovannelli. This opens the Village to potential civil suits by the people who were denied admittance or who were forced to adjust or remove certain items of street gang type clothing.

On August 18, after this year's Niles Fest, Giovannelli wrote a letter stating that the Niles Event cannot continue in its present

ME expands recycling efforts

Maine East's school newspaper, Pioneer, has undergone a facelift with its first issue of the '93-'94 school year, yet most students and faculty don't realize it. The school newspaper has joined the school's ecology efforts by being printed on recycled paper.

Under Senate House Bill 2726 that was introduced January 15, 1992, by State Representative Donald N. Hensel from the 50th Rep. Dist./West Chicago, "All paper purchased by the Board of Education for publication of student newspapers shall be recycled newsprint."

Besides the obvious reason for switching to recycled paper, there is a surprise benefit. Recycled paper is a litule cheaper than the higher quality paper used before; in fact, by going to recycled paper, the Pioneer saves 50 cents for every 1,000 sheets used.

"Naturally we are complying with the new state bill, but the whole idea of doing our small part to help save the environment

Niles mayor threatens legal action

Blase calls for immediate repair of 'Burma Road'

By Tracey Labovitz

Deteriorating streets in an unincorporated area of Niles must be repaired or the Village of Niles might turn to the courts for action.

The alley and parking area between the townhouses on Robin Drive and Dee Road in Niles have been labeled "Burma Roads", a name given to any street in terrible condition.

Mayor Nicholas Blase has called these "Burma Roads" a health hazard for the residents of Niles, and is demanding that the streets be repaired.

"If there is a problem with deterioration of roads or buildings," Blase said. "There is naturally a resultant of health problems that go with it."

Two photographs taken on September 24 indicate that the pot holes on "Burma Roads" carry a great deal of standing water which has nowhere to go because of the already saturated ground. One picture shows that there is as much as six inches of water in one location. The last rainfall had occurred on September 20 and was only one-third of an inch.

Because this is in an unincorporated area of Niles, the Village is not responsible for repairing the area. However, because Blase feels the "Burma Roads" threaten a potential health risk to the residents of Niles, he is seeking action.

In a letter dated October 7, Mayor Blase said, "I am asking the property owners in this immediate vicinity to make the necessary repairs or the Village will consider legal proceedings to enforce compliance."

Blase continued by saying that it is up to Maine Township, the only government available to the residents in this area, to try and remedy the situation. Under an Illinois Statute, the Village has the ability to enforce its health regulations within one-half mile of its boundaries.

'Helping Hands' at Leaning Tower Senior Center

Leaning Tower Senior Adult Center has many activities including swimming, exercise, dancing, trips, etc. However, the Center wants to take this opportunity to call attention to a group of senior center members who participate in the "Helping Hands" program. These people meet every Monday morning at 10 a.m. to work throughout the year to try to remember the homebound elderly and those in Niles Township area nursing homes who are a part of Leaning Tower Center's Outreach Program of Friendly Visitors.

The Helping Hands Group is always busy knitting lap robes, booties and sewing tote bags to attach to walkers and wheel chairs of the nursing home residents and shut-ins that are visited by the Friendly Visitors. All during the year the "Helping Hands" are busy making gifts and favors that can be passed out to remember birthdays and holidays of shut-in elderly, many of whom have no one to remember them.

At present the Leaning Tower Helping Hands Group have been busy making over 500 favors which will be distributed by the Friendly Visitors at Halloween.

On November 23, Leaning Tower Senior Center will have a bake sale and crafts fair and the Helping Hands have been working on items to be sold at that time. Proceeds will go to the Outreach Program so the Friendly Visitors can do more for the elderly of the Niles Township area.

Temple Beth-El receives grant

Temple Beth-El in Northbrook has been named the recipient of a $30,000 grant to support the development of its new Senior Social Service Center (SSSC) serving the expanding population of Chicago area and North Suburban area seniors.

The three-year seed grant, the first awarded to a Chicago area suburban synagogue, has been furnished by ENCORE (Encouraging Community Response to the Elderly), the community awards and grants program of the Retirement Research Foundation, Chicago.

"As the population of vital, active seniors continues to increase in our surrounding communities, we have identified the need to reach out and provide meaningful activities, fellowship and support for seniors of all faiths" said Victor Weissberg, Senior Rabbi, Temple Beth-El.

The SSSC is being launched with a unique collaborative effort led by Temple Beth-El and includes Oakton Community College - Office of Older Adults; The Dawn Schuman Institute for Jewish Learning; and the North Suburban Jewish Community Center Adult Education Program.

These organizations are co-sponsoring a Fall 1993 series of informative and social daytime programs, open to well active seniors in the community, at Temple Beth-El, 3610 Dundee Road, Northbrook. Starting in October, the programs for active seniors will include adult study topics, movement and exercise classes, health and nutrition seminars, an open game room, and speakout and brown bag luncheon sessions.

"We believe that through the Senior Social Service Center we can promote a spirit of community and begin to close the age span gap between the older and younger generations through creativity in our programming," Rabbi Weissberg said.

To this end, future phases of SSSC development include the creation of inter-generational programs designed to build needed relationships among age segments in the community. This may include the formation of inter-generational relationships between individuals and families lacking "grandparental" figures in conjunction with the Temple Beth-El pre-school, religious school and youth group.

In addition, community service outreach activities for seniors in need are being planned. These services may include a Lay-Rabbinic Chaplaincy and home ministry, service to the hungry and homeless by supporting food pantries in cooperation with the Temple's youth group. The development of a "Service to Senior Corps" to help seniors with home chores and transportation to synagogue functions will be explored, Rabbi Weissberg added.

An SSSC coordinator, Joyce Dantzker, has been named. Dantzker is an experienced social worker. She will work with the SSSC staff including Rabbi Weissberg; Eitan Weiner-Kaplow, Associate Rabbi; Tamar Weissberg, Education Director; the SSSC volunteers; co-sponsoring organizations; and the new SSSC Board of Directors.

Rehabilitative Therapy at Ballard Returns Clients to the Independence of their Own Homes

Rehabilitation at Ballard is aimed at making the world outside a friendlier place. Our emphasis is on the practical.

We stress the physical skills needed for living - grocery shopping, banking, doing the dishes, dealing with heavy doors and different ground surfaces, handling yourself in a car.

This is the type of rehabilitative therapy that helped Sara, an active woman of 65, after she broke her hip. Upon completion of therapy, Sara was able to work in the garden, take walks with her husband, go to dinner and the theater and even make flying visits to Seattle to visit her daughter.

Because our focus is on re-learning the skills necessary for daily living, we are now remodeling our rehabilitative therapy suite to make learning these practical skills easier.

With the addition of a unique simulated community, the OUR TOWN Rehabilitation Center, developed by Guynes Designs, Inc., creators of EASY STREET Environments for hospitals, rehabilitation clients at Ballard will be able to practice daily living activities in a familiar community setting.

Each aspect of everyday life can be mastered in the safe and unencumbered confines of Ballard, so that our clients can return to the independence of their own homes.

OBITUARIES

St. Hedwig's Sr. Aloysius dies at age 95

Funeral services for Sr. M. Aloysius, held on Oct. 4th at the Motherhouse of the Felician Sisters will remain in the memory of many, especially the former orphans who were cared for by Sr. M. Aloysius at St. Hedwig Orphanage (now Niles College Seminary). Sister died on Sept. 30 at Marian Care Center.

Sister's life of Christian service included being Assistant Administrator to Msgr. Francis Rusch for 29 years at the Orphanage and 38 years at St. Andrew Home for Elderly, Niles.

Because of illness, Sr. Aloysius retired at the age of 91 to the Felician Sisters' Marian Care Center. She was 95 at the time of her death. Her impressive history of excellent service and dedicated ministry was well expressed in the farewell address by Rosemary Killips, a member of the St. Hedwig Alumni Association (700 members strong) which follows:

Before this moment passes, on behalf of the thousands of Hedwigians, I want to share with you what is felt so deeply in our hearts. Sr. Aloysius will always be remembered as a very important part of our lives. She was the one person who truly spent her life at St. Hedwigs from its beginning to its end in 1961.

I will remember Sr. Al as a person in control, a person who knew where she was going...someone who had her life's purpose well set and well paced. What a perfect life. But we all know that life is not so sure and so certain. Sister also knew pain and sorrow and anguish; these were also very much part of her life, especially during the last of her 97 years.

We who are parents today, realize the tremendous love needed to nurture children. Sr. Al, your generosity and concern was felt by All of us.

Thank you Sister Al, for the gift of your generosity. Thank you for the memories of Shopping bags at Christmas, Paczki Day, Easter, Corpus Christi, Friday night movies, once a month Birthday Parties, Riverview and most of all, a place to sleep without fear.

As in the words of the song, we pray to the Lord that He will raise you up on Eagle's wings, Bear you on the breath of dawn, Make you to shine like the sun, And hold you in the palm of his hand.

John Biel, a Hedwigian alumni, made a video on the life of Sr. Aloysius which was shown on October 10 to 101 Hedwigians who attended the Annual Alumni Dinner held at the White Eagle Restaurant in Niles. The residents of St. Andrew Home were also able to see a special showing of this beautiful video.

Police News

Charged with DUI

A 41-year-old Chicago man was found slumped over the steering wheel of his car in a local grocery lot on Oct. 10. When approached by police in the lot at 8730 Dempster, the car was still running and its lights were on. After rousing the man, police noticed a strong odor of alcohol on him. He was taken into the police station before police could get his name or get him to perform sobriety tests, as he was too intoxicated and could not support himself.

While at the station, the man became unconscious and was transported to a hospital. He was held there for observation, after which he refused a breathalizer test. He was charged with DUI, driving without a valid driver's license or proof of insurance. He was released after paying 10 percent of his $3,000 bond.

Bomb threat reported

A bomb threat forced a local business to clear the premises recently. The caller said that the bomb would detonate in 7 minutes and 15 seconds. After evacuating the building at 5980 Touhy, police walked through the facility with company officials and found nothing suspicious. Employees returned to work.

Security system not working

A security system failed at a local restaurant Oct 9. An unknown man smashed glass on the east outer vestibule door and east inner door of the restaurant during business hours at 8575 Dempster. Nothing was taken in the incident but the security system was found to be not functioning.

Threatening phone call received

On Oct. 7, the wife of a 37-year-old Niles man received a threatening call. The man fears the threat was related to a pending case in Chicago he is involved in.

Car care for overheating

by Sec. of State George H. Ryan

With many warms days still ahead this summer, vehicle malfucntions associated with hot, humid weather may occur when you least expect them. If you are caught off guard by an overheated engine, follow these tips:

Q. What should I do if the temperature gauge reads "hot" or the engine light on the dashboard appears?

A. Stop your car immediately. Get out of the car and open the hood to let the engine cool. Then look for leaks in the radiation system.

Q. What if I cannot locate any apparent leaks?

A. 1. Re-start the engine with all the accessories off. Turn the heater on high to draw the heat away from the engine block. Apply the accelerator slightly above idle to help circulate the liquid in the cooling system.

2. If that fails, turn the heater off and turn the air conditioner on high. This will activate the cooling system fan and increase coolant flow.

Q. What if the engine light still reads "hot?"

A. Turn off the engine, keep the hood open and wait about one hour for the engine to cool completely. Then start the engine, add warm water or a 50/50 mixture of water and antifreeze and drive to the nearest service station for repairs. Never add cold water to the radiator because it could damage the engine, and never try to remove the radiator cap while the engine is hot because you could be sprayed by boiling liquid.

Threatened by ex-husband

A 21-year-old Norridge woman received a threat from her ex-husband on Oct. 5 in the parking lot where she is employed. Her ex-husband drove to the lot at 8253 Golf and threatened to get her after work. She has an order of protection against him.

Gasoline reported stolen

On Oct. 9, gasoline was stolen from a local station at 8010 Oakton. An unknown man pumped approximately $27 and left without paying. The vehicle driven by the man was reported to be a 1979 model four-door car.

Burglar alarm tripped

On Oct. 7 police were dispatched to a local business when the burglar alarm was tripped. When police arrived at 5647 Howard they only found a window smashed out.

Cable piracy now a felony

Illinois Governor Jim Edgar signed into law a bill to stiffen the penalties for stealing cable television service.

This legislation raises the offense of manufacturing, selling, leasing and/or distributing unauthorized cable converter boxes and electronic decoding chips from a Class A misdemeanor to a Class 4 felony. It also increases from a Class A misdemeanor the penalty for use of these boxes and chips as well as other means to obtain cable signals illegally.

The Illinois Cable Television Association (ICTA), which estimates, its industry lost more than $4.7 billion nationally due to theft in 1991 alone, welcomed the news of the bill signing.

Under a Class 4 felony conviction, distributors of illegal cable equipment face a minimum of a one year prison term and could be sentenced for up to three years. Fines could be levied against them for $10,000 or more. Those businesses and individuals convicted of receiving unauthorized cable signals now face up to a year in prison and/or a $1,000 fine or more under the new Class A misdemeanor classification.

The 1992 cable consumer protection and competition act also makes cable theft a felony offense under Federal law thereby enabling the Federal Bureau of Investigation and U.S. attorneys to participate in prosecuting cable pirates. Federal law has doubled the penalties for commercial theft to $50,000 in fines and two years in prison for each violation. Each sale of an unauthorized device is considered a separate offense.

This legislation represents an ongoing effort by The Illinois Cable Television association and The National Cable Television Association's Office of cable signal theft to eliminate theft of cable service.

Reports son, money missing

On Oct. 6, a 36-year-old Niles woman reported her 15-year-old son missing. He had last been seen leaving for work and had not been to work or school since Oct. 5. Also missing is $3,000. The woman said that there have been previous incidents of her son and her money missing at the same time. When he is found, she wants juvenile court involvement.

Halloween safety tips offered

When the ghosts, goblins and other creatures of the night come to haunt the neighborhood on Halloween night, several simple safety tips could help prevent a fun night of trick-or-treating from becoming a night of horror.

"When kids go trick-or-treating, they should wear light or bright colored costumes that are visible at night so others can spot them easily," says Debbie Everett, ambulatory care director at Holy Family Hospital. "Make sure costumers and masks fit properly, and do not block their vision or hearing. This could be very dangerous, especially near busy streets or highways," Everett adds.

The following are some tips Everett suggests to ensure a safe and fun Halloween:

1. Don't let children go out alone.

2. Carry a flashlight to add to visibility.

3. Only visit people known, and stay in the neighborhood.

4. Don't let children eat treats until they are checked.

5. Advise children not to talk to strangers or get into strangers' cars.

6. Obey trick-or-treat hours set by the community.

7. Discard all unwrapped or loosely wrapped items.

Some safe (and simple) treat ideas include non-edible treats like stickers, money, pencils or gift certificates. Make sure the doorway is uncluttered for trick-or-treaters' safety.

Call the local police department or Holy Family Hospital's poison control center at (708) 297-1800, ext. 1017 with any questions about suspicious looking treats. Be safety smart and have a Happy Halloween. Holy Family Hospital is a Level II designated trauma center located at the corner of Golf & River Roads in DesPlaines and is affiliated with Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center.

National School Bus Safety Week declared

October 17 to 23 is National School Bus Safety Week. Although traveling on a school bus is one of the safest forms of transportation, it takes everybody's help to keep it that way and to make it even safer.

All individuals should be aware of this sobering fact: Most accidents don't happen on the bus; more often, children are hit by a school bus or a passing car. Most of these accidents happen on the trip home from school, in front of the bus, and to children 9 years old and younger.

Drivers should remember that the law obligates them to stop immediately whenever a bus has its stop sign out. Parents should review safe practices for boarding and leaving a bus with their children.

Lutheran General offers reduced price mammography

One in eight women now have a lifetime risk of acquiring breast cancer according to the American Cancer Society.

To help women of all ages in the fight against breast cancer, Lutheran General Hospital (LGH), 1775 Dempster Street is offering lower-priced mammograms during October, which is designated as Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The $60 fee includes both the mammogram and the radiologist's reading fee.

Using low-dose X-ray equipment dedicated to breast examinations, mammograms frequently detect breast abnormalities often before they can be felt thereby, significantly improving survival. If breast cancer is caught early enough, the patient may be treated with conservative breast surgery, making a mastectomy unnecessary.

Mammograms will be offered at two sites, the LGH Radiology Department and the LGH Diagnostic Center in the Golf Ambulatory Surgical Pavilion, 8901 Golf Road, Des Plaines. To schedule a mammogram at the hospital, call (708) 696-7177. To make an appointment at Golf Ambulatory Surgical Pavilion, call (708) 803-2940.

Latest Elvis sighting no fantasy

Reports just in indicate "The King" has been spotted unashamedly parading around a distinctly marked building at 4065 North Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, for hours on end. Although near Six Corners, he was positively identified patronizing the block long structure known as Fantasy Headquarters.

What's most unusual about this particular sighting is that his weight appears to be perpetually fluctuating. Initial estimates cite as many as 30 different descriptions of the allegedly dead entertainer. His uncanny ability to remain incognito amid an in-store inventory of literally millions of disguises, party favors and related paraphernalia help explain these flagrant discrepancies.

Elvis has been observed keeping company with every species of man and beast further adding lore to the legend. His newfound friends come in all shapes and sizes from the smallest imaginable alien to giant size insects. As might be expected, Elvis's entourage has been ogled by ogres, ridiculed by reptiles and deluged by dignitaries. No one can quite explain his site selection decision.

However, Fantasy Headquarters has developed a nationally renowned reputation for keeping myths alive. A score of Santas, Easter Bunnies in all the colors of the rainbow and an especially select group of extraterrestrials are among Fantasy HQ's tens of thousands of transient residents.

Fantasy Headquarters evolved 25 years ago from modest roots as a custom wig business. Today, wigs are but one element of a seven figure plus piece inventory that includes costumes for all seasons and all reasons, a dedicated make-up department featuring a theater class make-up artist and all accessories necessary to create that perfect theme event.

ME debaters attend summer programs

To many high school students, summer means more than just relaxing, going to the beach or sleeping until noon. This past summer, five members of the Maine East debate team devoted three weeks to attending summer debate institutes.

Many such institutes are held at colleges and universities throughout the United States, ranging in length from two to five weeks. At the institutes, students learn skills and theory arguments, have practice debate rounds and tournaments, and do research on the debate topic for the coming year.

This year's topic is national health insurance. Students debate the advantages and disadvantages of national health insurance as well as the various methods of solving the health care crisis. The instructors at the summer institutes are generally either college debaters or coaches of high school and college debate teams.

Neela Ghoshal of Des Plaines and Jennifer Laurin of Park Ridge, both Maine East juniors and co-captains of the debate team, attended the National Forensics Institute this summer for the second time. The NFI is held at American University in Washington, D.C.

Susanna Milman of Morton Grove, also a junior at Maine East, attended an institute at Bates College in Maine. Raj Ghoshal of Des Plaines, a Maine East sophomore, went to the Michigan National Debate Institute held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Kathy Konieczny of Niles, another sophomore, attended the Iowa National Debate Institute at the University of Iowa.

B'nai Jehoshua Beth Elohim offers preschool classes

If you are looking for a developmentally-appropriate preschool experience for your child in a warm, Jewish setting, we are the place for you! The B'nai Jehoshua Beth Elohim Early Childhood Center offers a variety of classes for children ages 6 months to 5 years old.

Weekdays, there are separation classes for 2 year olds, preschool for 3 and 4 year olds; and on Friday mornings from 10 to 11:30 a.m. a drop-in for children ages 6 months to 3 years old and their parents. On Saturday mornings, we offer a parent-tot class for children 18 months to 3 years old.

Family involvement is an integral part of our program. On Sundy, Oct. 3, the Early Childhood Center students and their families attended a party for Sukkot. The festivities began in our very own child-size sukkah, located in our playground. After our assistant rabbi, Amy Memis, ledus in shaking the lulav and smelling the fragrant etrog, we gave our Temple a present for it's 100th anniversary. Each family planted Spring bulbs on the Temple grounds. We are looking forward to enjoying a multitude of Spring flowers for years to come!

We welcome you to become part of our family. If you would like more information about our programs or would like to set up an appointment to observe, call Sandy Robbins, director, at the Temple office, (708) 729-7575. We are located at 901 Milwaukee Avenue in Glenview.

OCC Allied Health program strives to meet needs of the industry

by Susan Klingman

Just as the future of health care is on everyone's mind these days, planning for that future is on the minds of the administration, faculty, and Board of Trustees at Oakton Community College (OCC).

Describing and reviewing the hard work the college is doing to prepare its students to work in the health care industry of the future was the topic of a two-part report recently presented to the Board by Amilda Mader, Secretary.

In her review of the Oakton Allied Health Division headed by Constance Churchill, Dean of Science and Allied Health and Professor of Chemistry, Mader outlined programs offered for practical and registered nurses, physical therapy assistants (PTA), medical laboratory technologists (MLT) and health information technologists (HIT).

To begin the report faculty from the physical therapy assistants program led the Board, administrators, and board room audience in a series of exercises demonstrating some of the skills PTAS must acquire for certification.

The standards in all of the health care programs are high. For the nursing programs those standards begin with prerequisites, including high school graduation with above a C average, at least one year of high school or college algebra, biology, and chemistry, a passing score on Oakton's reading and assessment tests, a pre-admission test through the National League of Nursing, and an in-depth interview.

For the student who is right for the nursing program, but does not meet all of the prerequisites, Oakton has a three-year grant to provide specialized support and programming to help a student overcome any educational deficit and eventually allow that student to enter the program.

Upon completion of the first year of the nursing curriculum, students are able to apply for a Practical Nursing Certificate. Those who complete the second year are eligible to sit for the Registered Nurses examination.

Allied health courses include a combination of classroom and clinical experiences. Oakton maintains agreement with many health care facilities where students are placed for clinical work. Before being placed in a medical facility, however, students are taught basic techniques and procedures in on campus labs.

Physical Therapy is one of the most rapidly growing disciplines in health care today. The Physical Therapy Assistants program at Oakton allows a student to enter a profession that has a 100% employment rate, or to go on the career path to become a licensed physical therapist.

The students in the Oakton PTA program will have five clinic affiliations as part of their training. They will learn several techniques and will work with patients at each one. Upon completion of the program they must pass the State Licensure Examination.

Another part of the Allied Health Division is the Medical Laboratory Technology Program. Lab technicians work to provide medical practitioners with the data needed for effective diagnosis and treatment.

The Oakton MLT program is accredited by the Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation. Graduates of the program, which teaches medical terminology and work with the microscope, are qualified to take the certifying examinations by both the Board of Registry of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and the certification of laboratory personnel.

The Health Information Technology program (formerly referred to as medical records) is the final area Mader reviewed. This profession, which combines medicine, computer technology, and information management, is also rapidly growing. Graduates can go immediately into the work force in a variety of areas, or go on to senior institutions to pursue a B. S. in Medical Records Administration.

In addition to work in medical offices the HIT field offers job opportunities in legal offices, insurance companies, and pharmaceutical firms. There are also many opportunities to work as a medical transcriptionist which offers the possibility to work at home.

As coding on medical and insurance claims becomes universal, there is an ever increasing demand for skilled coders. Oakton offers a 23-credit-hour program for a coding certificate, or to apply those courses toward an A.A.S. degree. There are opportunities at Oakton to take insurance processing classes as well.

In order to keep pace with the rapidly changing health care field, members of Oakton's Allied Health faculty are involved in numerous professional societies, they attend conferences and workshops, bring in specialists in various fields to speak, and maintain a professional advisory committee for each program.

Predictions for the future include an increase in the number of male nursing students as well as increased use of computerized and electronic records.

As the health care industry is rapidly growing and changing, Oakton is hard at work to offer programs with high standards of training and ones that will lead to numerous job opportunities.

Adopt McGing Plan for property tax relief

State Senate President Pate Philip announced his intention to adopt a property tax relief plan originally promoted by a former Democratic State Senate Candidate, James M. McGing. During the Fall 1992 Campaign, McGing called for removing school funding from property taxes and moving it dollar for dollar to income and sales revenues. Property taxes would then be capped statewide, offering immediate relief to burdened property taxpayers.

Senate President Philip stated that, "It's time to get this thing straightened out." McGing elaborated on the plan by offering examples of many residences where property tax bills would be cut in half immediatley under his and Pate Philip's plans. McGing noted that statewide, 54% of a property tax bill on average is for local school taxes, while in Chicago alone, 47% of a tax bill is for public schools.

McGing concluded that funding reform is only the first step in the process of overhauling the public school system in Illinois and especially in the City of Chicago.

Butler's bills signed into law

Three bills sponsored by state Sen. Marty Butler (R-Park Ridge), including his measure for four new contribution check-offs on state income tax forms, have been signed into law by Gov. Jim Edgar.

The other bills will continue funding for local labor-management committees and permit the Illinois Development Finance Authority (IDFA) to guarantee bonds for small businesses.

Butler said Senate Bill 664 will allow taxpayers to contribute voluntarily to breast and cervical cancer research, AIDS research and treatment, the Illinois Special Olympics Fund or Meals on Wheels when they send in their state income tax returns next year.

Butler's Senate Bill 571 deletes the five-year funding limit for local labor-management committees. "These committees have worked hard to foster cooperation between workers and employers throughout Illinois - it would be a shame for them to end their efforts," Butler said.

The third measure, House Bill 1392, creates the Small Business Surety Bond Guaranty Fund, which will permit IDFA to guarantee surety bonds when a small business cannot obtain adequate bonds at reasonable cost through regular channels.

Hyde advocates collection of child support payments

U. S. Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Bensenville) detailed his plan to use the Internal Revenue Service to collect child support payments during a speech to state child support collection officers.

Hyde spoke to 600 - 800 members of the National Child Support Enforcement Association in Sale Lake City, Utah.

Hyde's bill has been endorsed by the Association of Children for the Enforcement of Support (ACES), a nation-wide organization lobbying for tougher enforcement of child support orders.

Last year, Hyde was the author of the Child Support Recovery Act, which made it a federal crime to willfully pay child support to a child living in another state.

Hyde also briefed the officials gathered in Salt Lake City on the role that they will play in enforcing this law.

Yearbook advisor Barbara Witkiewicz is also pleased to announce that the 1994 Maine East Lens will be printed on recycled paper. "By doing so, the staff is environmentally responsible and yet with no added costs or sacrifice to the quality of photgraphy. My initial concern had to do with the quality of reproducing color photos, but our publisher reassured us that we would be able to keep the same quality as in years past. Last year we had a 16 pp. insert printed on recycled paper; everyone was so pleased that it was only natural to go 100 percent for this year's book."

Maine East's Ecology Club will continue its weekly Tuesday paper recycling; anyone can join the club, stop by Room 202 for information or contact one of the club's officers--president Joanna Vakros of Niles, vice-president Steve Nguyen of Morton Grove,

Blood donors needed

Chicagoland's two largest blood centers are issuing a joint plea for volunteer blood donations.

The chief executives from LifeSource Blood Services of Glenview and United Blood Services (UBS) of Chicago have anounced that blood supply levels across the six county area surrounding Chicago have reached dangerously low levels. Donations are far below anticipated need and not expected to return to normal levels until late October.

Supplies of all blood types are low, but types O and B blood are at critical levels. To alleviate the depleted blood supply, both blood centers urge all eligible donors to donate today.

More than 1200 donors a day must give in order to meet the blood needs of the hospitals served by LifeSource and United Blood Services. Once blood is donated and tested, it can only be stored for a limited time. Because blood is used by thousands of patients every day, the supply must be continually replenished.

Volunteers interested in donating are urged to call their local donor center for the most covenient donation location.

For more information, call LifeSource Blood Services at (708) 298-9660, (14 donor centers), or United Blood Services at (312) 751-1701, (8 donor centers).

Leaf pickup ...

Residents should rake their leaves to the curb by Monday of their pickup week where they will be removed by crews from the Public Services Department. Foreign materials such as grass, branches, plants and rocks will not be accepted. When possible, residents are asked to park their cars in their garages or driveways to allow leaf pickup vehicles easy access to streets. Each street will be cleared at least once per week during the applicable week.

Residents who choose to bag their own leaves must use Village of Niles yard waste bags which should be put out on regularly scheduled garbage pickup days. Plastic bags or boxes will not be accepted.

Branch Pickup Service will end on the last Monday of October (10/25). This service will resume again in 1994 on Monday, April 4 for those residents living east of Milwaukee and Monday, April 25 for those residents living west of Milwaukee. There will be no branch pickup service in November.

Niles Yard Waste Pickup Service runs annually from March through November on regular garbage collection day.

An open forum was conducted regarding the future of the event and it became evident that Niles residents do not want to see an end to Niles Fest.

After that discussion, the Village Board voted to continue Niles Fest for a two-year period in its present format and at its present location; around the Golf Mill business center.

In a press release, Mayor Nicholas Blase stated, "This agreement, however, is subject to the condition that there are no incidents which result in physical injury either to policemen or bystanders."

The Mayor goes on to say that if any incidents go beyond the normal control of the Police Department, the Village will stop participating in the event financially at the end of the two-year period, or, in other words, the event will be discontinued.

Most importantly, Blase states that an attempt must be made to develop a new format to the Niles Event during this two-year period.

torney Dick Troy. "You don't have to duplicate systems."

Troy said the Supreme Court never offers a reason when denying a petition. He said the courts may have felt there were many other cases to look at or that this case was not significant statewide.

"There is still another case pending in the appellate court dealing with how many votes you need," Troy said. "If this case goes back to trial we will be adding a prepared plat showing the meets and bounds of everything."

On a happier note, the new Iceland building, at the Ballard Sports Complex, is almost ready for business. The grand opening is scheduled for the week of November 8-16 with Park Board President Skaja cutting the ribbon on November 13.

"There will be VIPs from the Village at the ribbon cutting," said Park Board Vice President Elaine Heinen. "But the main people we want there are the public. You are the ones who have paid for this and we want you there."

Heinen said the Iceland building might be an old building, but it looks like new.

"It is so beautiful," she said. "We've really got something to be proud of."

Fall registration is filling up around the rest of the Park District. Registration, as of Tuesday, is at 2,166 as compared to 2,423 last year. The Park District is offering 317 programs to the 157 offered last fall.

"Hopefully we are moving ahead with programming," said Commissioner Myrna Breitzman. "But we still have a long way to go."

The annual Halloween party and parade is set for October 30. The parade will begin at Oak School at 10 a.m. that Saturday and will end up at Grennan Heights for the party.

Speaking of Oak School, demolition, which was awarded to Langos Corporation of Barrington Hills for $186,000, began October 11 with asbestos removal. The Langos Corporation has 75 days to finish the job. The Park District is roping off trees in the area in hopes they won't be damaged.

The Park Board Attorney said negotiations on the school are being put together "as we speak".

The park patrol is done for the summer, as reported by Commissioner Marlene Baczek, but will be out on Halloween weekend.

At the Tam Golf Course, 45,189 rounds of golf have been played this year as compared to 44,826 last year. Commissioner Rick Sheridan said if the weather is good, they might reach their goal of 52,000 total rounds played for the year. There were new trees planted at the course and new lights will be installed over two steps going to the pay area so people won't trip. A new speed bump on the second tee has been creating safety problems. The safety committee suggested that the bump be outlined in yellow or a sign should be installed stating 'bump ahead'.

The Park District received a tree grant from the small business administration of the federal government for $32,725. Trees will be planted on Jonquil Terrace and Kirk Drive.

The lighting at Jozwiak Park linecds to be totally redone and that project was awarded to 'Que' Electric for $66,584.

Vice President Heinen was designated as a delegate, and Commissioners Baczek and Breitzman as alternates, to the Illinois Association of Park Districts' Annual Meeting.

Finally, Heinen paid tribute to Ron Mrowiec, the business manager, and the finance department for the excellent job that is being done.

"Don't forget that the finance department does an outstanding job," Heinen said. "The Park District doesn't always realize that. You (Ron) have done a real outstanding job. Don't ask for a raise, though."
