Niles Festival loses site; cancels 1994 event

By Tracey Labovitz

The future of the Niles Days All-American Festival is, once again, under question.

The five-day event, organized by the Niles Events Committee, has been held in Golf Mill Park for the past eight years, however, the site, owned by the Milwaukee Golf Development Corporation, is not available this year.

The corporation, which has leased part of the property for the festival in the past, told the committee in January that the site would not be available.

Lee Elisinger, president of the NEC, said the committee tried to find a new site, but was unsuccessful.

Niles Days was the topic of KC's donation to help refurbish park

In a cooperative agreement between the Niles Park District and the North American Martyrs Council #4338, Knights of Columbus, Grand Knight Gary K. Warner presented two checks totaling $5,500 to President Pro Tempore Elaine Heinen to help refurbish the playground equipment at Triangle Park, 7877 N. Milwaukee.

In 1982, the Knights of Columbus agreed to donate an amount in excess of $11,000 over a 5-year period for the original playground equipment. That amount was paid by 1984. However, the Village, park district agree on park development

Niles leases Oak School to parks

by Tracey Labovitz

The Niles Park District and the Village of Niles have entered into a 50-year lease agreement over Oak School Park that will cost the park board $1 a year.

Under the agreement, the park district can develop the Oak School property, located at Lee Street and Ottawa Avenue, in any way it desires and is not required to construct a building.

In addition to the 1.75-acre park, the park district will gain access to the more than three acres of land known as the former site of Oak School, which was demolished last year. That gives the park district 4.5-5 total acres of land to work with. The park currently contains two tennis courts and a baseball diamond; development of the site has yet to be discussed.

Oak School was built in 1953, but closed a few years ago due to low enrollment in East Maine District 63. The Village of Niles acquired the building for $1 in 1989 from the school district, but the school deteriorated and developed an asbestos problem.

A few private schools reported an interest in renting space in the building, but the structure was in need of close to $400,000 in repairs.

In September 1993, the Village paid $189,000 to have the building demolished. While the Village considered several options for the property, including selling

by Bud Besser

During the month of March we've been doing a one month's R&R in Oceanside, California. We've been living in a lovely retirement village, sort of giving it an early spring practice to see whether we might like this lifestyle for the future.

A week ago Sunday we drove north on Highway 5 to the Los Angeles area and spent three hours visiting a cousin. She lives in the San Fernando Valley and we went to brunch in Woodland Hills, the next town over from where she lives.

I could be flippant by writing we found a restaurant which served us free brunches. A wise guy like me thinks that might have been funny, but most of the other fellow-brunchers weren't smiling when they left the restaurant.

After we had orange juice and champagne we ate a fresh fruit cup. Since this is vacation time, I had an eggs benedict-type-dish which had prime rib cubes interlaced in two beautifully yoked eggs. This was the best meal of the entire month's vacation. But after the third or fourth mouthful we received the free ticket for our brunch. Suddenly, a rumble reverberated throughout the restaurant. It can best be described as a shaking not unlike the horizontal movement on an elevated train. It went on for ten or fifteen seconds. I thought it was less. It

Robert Herman, Edison Lumber owner dies at 72

Robert C. Herman, 72, of Des Plaines died Saturday, Mar. 26 in Chicago. Herman retired in 1992 after owning Edison Lumber & Construction in Niles for 47 years. He was also a proud member of the Gas House Goosers Club and the Lake Barrington Shores Golf Club.

Survivors include his wife Nancy; three sons, Mark Herman, Phil Herman, and Paul Haynes and three daughters, Laura (Arthur) Schultz, Wendy (John) Erickson and Nancy (Lawrence) Gust. He was also the father of the late Cindy Rossman. He was the grandfather of eight and the dear friend of Herb Rebbort for 58 years.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, March 30 at Ryan-Parke Funeral Home in Park Ridge. Donations were requested to the Heart Association or Diabetes Foundation.

Smoke detectors provide early warning

Each year, thousands of people needlessly die or are injured in home fires. Tragically, many of them would be alive or unharmed today had their home been equipped with a working smoke detector. A working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a home fire by nearly half. Smoke detectors provide an early warning, giving residents critical extra seconds to escape.

Although 82 percent of American homes have smoke detectors, nearly one-third of those detectors don't work because of worn or missing batteries. To reduce and prevent home fire tragedies in the community, the North Maine Fire Department and other professional fire organizations have joined forces in a home fire safety campaign.

On April 3, the North Maine Fire Department reminds everyone to change their clock and to change the battery in their smoke detectors. It could save a life.

Direct mail advertisers target seniors with SS scare tactics

Senior citizens continue to be one of the primary targets of direct mail advertisers using scare tactics to solicit money to "save" a Social Security system they claim is in serious financial trouble or to ask for monetary help for their efforts to combat the alleged mishandling of the Social Security trust funds.

Letters Express Concern And, senior citizens across the country continue to write to the Social Security Administration (SSA) expressing confusion over such mailings. One elderly woman wrote: "This organization was mailing me requests for payments twice a month. I'm in the low income bracket and their letters to me stated $5 was not enough. So I tried to send them $10." Other seniors express contempt for such direct mail practices. This opinion comes from a typical letter: "I think it's wicked to send seniors such scary letters. Social Security is my only income to pay my rent and buy my food."

Another deceptive mailing practice targets women who have recently married. It offers to help them have their name changed on their Social Security records for a fee. The only problem with this offer is that SSA provides the same service free of charge. Obviously, it's not illegal for a private company to offer a service for payment, but if any direct mail advertiser implies a connection with or work for the Federal Government or the Social Security Administration, it's breaking the law and should be reported to the authorities.

No Fees Required

In another misleading offer, for fees ranging from $10 to $50 or more, an advertiser will offer to obtain an earnings and benefit estimate statement for an individual. The implication is that you can't do this yourself. The truth is all of these services are available at no cost just by calling the Social Security toll-free telephone number, 1-800-772-1213, any business day between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The best times to call are early in the morning, early in the evening, late in the week, and toward the end of the month. Furthermore, by taking care of your business yourself, you can avoid delays in the process and be sure you'll get the service you need.

If you're being harassed by direct mail solicitations, or if you receive an offer from a private organization that implies it is connected with the government, send the complete mailing, including the envelope in which it was mailed to you, to: Social Security Administration, Office of Public Affairs, Misleading Advertising, P.O. Box 17740, Baltimore, MD 21235.

If it's more convenient, you can take the entire package to your local postmaster, or send a complaint that includes the package to: Chief Postal Inspector, United States Postal Service, 475 L'Enfant Plaza S.W., Washington, DC 20260-2100.

District 63 studies financial crisis

by Ben Reick

East Maine School District 63 is in poor financial shape the superintendent announced at the last Board of Education meeting held March 22.

"Our financial standing is not very good at this point in time and it is getting worse," Superintendent Robert Varga said. "I think taking a realistic view of where we are, it is conceivable that some of those programs may need to have a critical review and analysis for their continuance in the district," Varga said.

The next finance committee meeting, at which the district's financial standing will be discussed, will be held April 12 at 6 p.m. at Mark Twain School at 9401 Hamlin, Niles.

Longer range plans scheduled for 1995 and beyond will also be discussed, he said.

Daylight Savings Time begins

Daylight Saving Time begins at 2 a.m. on Sunday, April 3. People should turn their clocks ahead one hour.

While this is a procedure that has been practiced for years, we would like to remind you that aside from turning clocks and watches ahead, this is the perfect time of year to consider other important time- and safety-related factors.

- 1. Set clocks, watches, and VCRs ahead one hour;
- 2. Remember to change timers on lights in homes or offices;
- 3. Change the batteries in home smoke detectors;
- 4. Because it gets dark later now, and the warmer weather encourages more outdoor activity, talk with children about evening curfews and outdoor safety rules;
- 5. With the inclement weather behind us, it's a good time to focus on fitness and health and to begin an outdoor exercise routine, even if it's simply long evening walks.

The following are some historical facts about Daylight Saving Time:

Letters to the Editor

Ex-Trustee criticizes Maine Town Hall addition

Dear Editor:
As an ex-Maine Township Trustee I viewed Tuesday, March 22, Maine Township Town meeting as a debacle - both from the Township Government's perspective and surely from the taxpayers' perspective.

First, the spectacle of Trustee Reilly's deskbanging disavowal of his December motion to abate the greedy tax levy later passed by the Township Town Board on December 27, 1993. Secondly, as though the taxpayers of Maine Township have not taken a big enough hit, Supervisor Thompson asked for Township funds to pay a lawyer to sue the City of Park Ridge on behalf of Maine Township Government. Why the request for Maine Township funds?

Park Ridge City Council voted against the Township building addition on Monday, March 21. And if that is not enough, read on. A so-called independent, so-called community activist raved and cursed through the microphone, haranguing citizens for too long a time. Supervisor Thompson needs to establish control over Maine Township Town Board meetings. Between Reilly's desk banging and the activist's haranguing, the Tuesday, March 22 Town Board meeting was a spectacle to behold.

But never fear, Supervisor Thompson, I have a plan for you to save the tax dollars you want to spend on Maine Township Government suing the Town of Park Ridge. Send the desk banger and the haranguer over to Park Ridge's next City Council meeting on April 4. At the Park Ridge City Council meeting, this duo can persuade the Park Ridge City Council of the error of their ways and at yet a second vote - Voila, the Council will pass the ill-conceived, poorly planned addition to Town Hall. In order to insure this new vote will go in favor of the addition, you could start now to bring pressure to bear on Park Ridge duly elected City Council members. Now, wouldn't that save the taxes of Maine Township residents and Park Ridge residents?

If the above solution would apply to stopping a headlong Township Supervisor from building a building nobody wants, that would be great. The real problem is the tax raise which we all know will never be abated, there to remain until Township Government is dissolved in Cook County, as it surely will be, probably before the end of the century. This addition is also about additional floor space, not the Drop-In Center for Kids, Not for the Elders, Not for General Assistant Clients, but for additional parking offices. State Rep. Mulligan has already made plain her designs on an office in the new addition. Maine Township Town Board, please drop this addition, don't start the suit against Park Ridge, and get on with business.

Sincerely,
Bonnie B. Lindquist

Oakton Board focuses on technology changes

by Susan Klingman

Technology is changing every day, and just what implications that will have on Oakton Community College (OCC) was a focus of the March meeting of the Board of Trustees on Wednesday, March 17, 1994.

CREATE, the Committee for Re-Engineered and Automated Technologies in Education gave a presentation about the work it has been doing to develop a comprehensive institutional system for the future of Oakton.

The committee is made up of representatives from each area of the College who have been meeting together with various vendors, and visiting other schools in order to determine what exactly are Oakton's technological needs.

The current system was put in in 1980, and does not allow various departments to record, store, retrieve, manipulate and share information in optimal ways.

CREATE will develop recommendations to the Board about what new systems and programs the college needs. CREATE is looking into the possibility of partnering with other institutions to customize programs that specifically fit college needs.

Board Vice-President Ray Harstine voiced a question about what other areas in the school might be compromised in order to fund this computer revamping.

begin development of a system that will eventually link colleges, elementary schools, universities, and business and industry.

With implementation of all of this ever-expanding technology, a policy establishing principles for appropriate use of equipment, software, and networks available to students, faculty, staff, and other authorized users at OCC is necessary.

Such a policy regarding responsible use of information technology was adopted during the March meeting.

The policy states that the college makes technological facilities and resources available as privilege, and that the users are obligated to pay any appropriate fees and observe any relevant laws or contractual obligations.

It also states College facilities are to be used only for College-related activities that are intended and authorized. They may not be used for commercial purposes, or for non-College related activities unless written permission is given.

The Oakton policy requires all users to respect the privacy of any person-to-person communication such as electronic mail. It requires any users to act responsibly, and to guard against any abuses.

The Education report for the evening was also about technology. As technological advances are growing the people who have access to education expand. Even in the poorest and most isolated areas of the country students will begin to have access to education through interactive communication networks, electronic libraries, telecourses, and interactive video.

Oakton Community College is a part of the Illinois Education Consortium and will benefit from a part of a fifteen million dollar grant funded by the Illinois Community College Board and the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The monies will be used to evaluates its members' loss control programs. At the February 15 Park Board meeting, Kevin Hoffman, Loss Control Specialist for PDRMA, presented the Park District a plaque and incentive check for an Excellent - Level B loss control program.

PDRMA awarded the Niles Park District a final point rating of 93.62 percent. Points are awarded in such areas as recreation safety practices, claims management, hazard inspection, and many other accident prevention methods. Only three years before, the Niles Park District was rated at 76.7 percent.

Some of the new safety-related programs which the Park District has recently instituted are the Safety Suggestion of the Month, drivers' training, safety inspections of all facilities and the review of safety procedures and forms at pre-season meetings.

A Golden Time

Some major recent advances have made the president of the Am. Diabetes Assn. predict that a cure for the disease will be found in the next decade. Diabetes afflicts half a million Americans. A NE Journal of Medicine study says diabetics who take captopril, the antihypertensive drug, can cut their chances of kidney failure in half. And a milestone study by the National Institutes of Health published last fall found that diabetics who monitor their blood sugar levels closely and adjust their insulin can reduce eye disease by 76%, kidney disease by 35%, and nerve disease by 60%.

nominating committee was elected. Helen Murray, "being of sound body and mind," made the unanimous vote for the entire slate. Matt Araszewski conducted the election. The officers will be installed at the club's business meeting on April 5. Good luck to these officers in their work for the coming year.

Carl Ferina spoke about taking some trips to shows in the near future. Club members' opinions were asked regarding their preferences. Ferina indicated that he would prefer having a committee handle this; he will look into this and report back to the club. This month he is taking a group of Golden Agers on a bus trip to St. Augustine, Florida, where they will see many interesting sights and scenery.

The club members were happy to see John Saterino after a long absence. He brought good news to the meeting about Pauline; he said she is doing very well.

Two new members were introduced at the meeting: Marion Barron and Joseph Dunn.

Congratulations are in order to new grandparents Ken and Claire Lee on the birth of twins, Amy and Robert. Proud parents are Barbara and Robert Mueller.

One of the club members, Anne Romeo, does volunteer work for the Italian American War Veterans at Lakeside Hospital. At their games during their parties veterans are given canteen books as prizes. Romeo helps by serving the veterans coffee and goodies. To raise funds for the veterans, a fashion show will be held at the Starlight. Anyone interested in attending, should see or call Anne.

S.I.J. 55 Plus Club

Winter was particularly long, cold and very weary, but we know Springtime is here and we all welcome the change.

We had a very good turnout for our March 10 meeting. Everyone was so glad to be able to get out on this beautiful day.

Our trip on March 14 to St. Maximalian Koble Shrine in Libertyville was very restful, peaceful and beautiful, and a change from the hurry, hurry times in our life.

We were welcomed by Brother Charles and then went to Church and Deacon Steve took us for a tour. He told us the history and doings of the Church. We visited the gift shop and then had a delicious lunch. We then went back to Church for Mass, Stations of the Cross and Benediction. Before leaving we saw a movie about the life of St. Maximalian Koble which was very interesting.

On March 24, we had our St. Patrick and St. Joseph Party. We welcome back our Vice President Rudy Seifert and his wife Irene, along with members Lou and Val Soveik, George and Helen Korda, Mary Distad, Rose and Bernard Majewski who all were having a great time in Florida.

Congratulations to all members celebrating birthdays in April and Happy Wedding Anniversary to all celebrating.

A get well prayer to all our sick and remember our deceased in our prayers.

A big thank you to our program chairman Josephine Brown and our President Bernice Tegeler for the wonderful trip to the Shrine in Libertyville, IL.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT LECTURE
The Prairie View Community Center presents a special lecture at noon on Thursday, April 14 on "Financial Management" for seniors. Retirement income preservation and investments will be discussed. The program is free and will be presented in the board room at Prairie View, 6834 Dempster Street in Morton Grove. Bring a lunch; coffee and dessert will be provided. For more details stop by or call Catherine Dean at Prairie View, 965-7447.

HO-CHUNK CASINO
The Prairie View Senior Travel Club will venture to the Ho-Chunk Casino, for exciting entertainment and winning machines. Travelers will be treated to a "mystery" side trip also. Two night accommodations will be at the Kennel Club Inns and Suites in Lake Delton, Wisconsin. The trip runs from April 18 to 20 and the cost is $104. For more information contact Catherine Dean at the Morton Grove Park District, 965-7447.

MEALS-ON-WHEELS
The Village of Morton Grove together with Bethany-Methodist Terrace, provides homebound and medically qualifying residents with hot home delivered meals. Volunteers are presently needed to deliver meals midday, once a week. Deliveries involve about an hour's time and travel about five miles within Morton Grove. To volunteer, call Nancy Reynolds at 470-5246. Mileage reimbursement is available for volunteers.

DURABLE MEDICAL EQUIPMENT
Medicare Part B helps pay for durable medical equipment (DME) such as oxygen equipment, wheelchairs, and other medically necessary equipment that a doctor prescribes for use in a beneficiary's home. To be considered DME, the equipment must be able to be used over again by other patients, must primarily serve a medical purpose, must not be useful to people who are not sick or injured, and must be appropriate for use in the home. Medicare pays for different kinds of DME in different ways; some equipment must be rented, some purchased, and for some equipment the beneficiary may choose to rent or to purchase. The Medicare carriers with the responsibility to make DME payments are able to provide specific guidance on which method will be used for a particular item.

FREE INCOME TAX RETURN ASSISTANCE
Income tax time is here, and AARP is offering free income tax assistance through its Tax-Aide program to people age 60 and over. In Morton Grove, from now through April 14, Tax-Aide volunteers will prepare income tax returns at no charge or gratuity. Seniors who wish to have their tax returns done should bring copies of their 1992 federal and state tax returns; tax forms for the 1993 tax year, and W-2s, SSA-1099s and other relevant data showing income for 1993. Morton Grove seniors can make an appointment by calling the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line at 470-5223. The Tax Aide program is co-sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service. Last year, more than 1.5 million people were assisted with their income tax returns by more than 31,150 Tax-Aide volunteers in the U.S.

For more information about these senior services and recreation programs, call the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line at (708) 470-5223, or the Prairie View Community Center at (708) 965-7447. To receive the "Seniors in Morton Grove" newsletter, send $2.50 to the Morton Grove Park District, 6834 Dempster Street, Morton Grove, IL 60053.

nominating committee was elected. Helen Murray, "being of sound body and mind," made the unanimous vote for the entire slate. Matt Araszewski conducted the election. The officers will be installed at the club's business meeting on April 5. Good luck to these officers in their work for the coming year.

Carl Ferina spoke about taking some trips to shows in the near future. Club members' opinions were asked regarding their preferences. Ferina indicated that he would prefer having a committee handle this; he will look into this and report back to the club. This month he is taking a group of Golden Agers on a bus trip to St. Augustine, Florida, where they will see many interesting sights and scenery.

The club members were happy to see John Saterino after a long absence. He brought good news to the meeting about Pauline; he said she is doing very well.

Two new members were introduced at the meeting: Marion Barron and Joseph Dunn.

Congratulations are in order to new grandparents Ken and Claire Lee on the birth of twins, Amy

Religious Freedom Restoration Act signed

The Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1993, hailed as the most important law for religious freedom since the Bill of Rights, was signed into law November 16 by President Bill Clinton on the South Lawn of the White House as 300 representatives of diverse religious and civil rights groups looked on.

Rev. Heber C. Jentzsch, President of the Church of Scientology International, voiced high praise for passage and signing of the Act. He also noted the "remarkable and historic agreement among religious people who, despite widely differing beliefs, worked together to protect the right of one another to practice according to one's conscience."

The Church of Scientology International is a member of the Coalition for the Free Exercise of Religion, a broad-based religious and civil liberties group that worked for passage of the Act. Among the group's 50 members are the National Association of Evangelicals, American Civil Liberties Union, American Jewish Congress, Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the Episcopal Church and the Presbyterian Church (USA).

The Act restores protection of religions and their practices from unjustified government intervention and overrides a 1990 Supreme Court decision that allowed government to restrict religious practices without showing a "compelling interest" in doing so.

Mother reports teen out of control

A 51-year-old Niles mother called police March 17 to report that her daughter is out of control.

On that day, the 14-year-old girl had punched her mother about her body and attempted to steal her jewelry to sell.

The mother requested police assistance as her daughter refuses social services intervention.

Residents find home burglarized

A 71-year-old Niles resident and his wife returned to their home in the 7100 block of Wright March 27 to find it had been burglarized.

The couple returned home a little after midnight and found the rear north door ajar. The man went through his home and found the front south door ajar as well.

The victim then went to the master bedroom, located in the southeast corner of the house, and found the room in disarray with numerous items missing, including $200, a walkman, a ring valued at $1000 and other assorted jewelry.

The resident told police that a pillowcase was used to carry the items. The victim said he was positive that the front door was closed and locked when he had left that evening at 8 p.m., but he was not positive that the back door was pulled tightly closed.

Put into evidence was a blue pry bar believed to be left in the bedroom by the offender.

Security agent assaulted in game room

On March 23, police went to the game room at Golf Mill mall in response to a disturbance between a 20-year-old Des Plaines man and a security agent.

Upon arrival, the security agent, a 25-year-old Chicago man, told police that he had informed the offender to turn his hat around. When the offender refused, the security agent advised him to leave. The offender then stepped toward the agent and threatened him.

The security agent signed the complaint. The offender refused medical attention, posted a $75 cash bond and was given an April 29 court date.

Possible burglary foiled

Police believe that a house in the 8500 block of Ottawa was being set-up for a burglary March 26.

The incident occurred around 8:20 p.m. after the 68-year-old occupant of the home awoke from a nap and, because there were no lights on, observed someone shining a flashlight into her home.

The subject rang her doorbell; the woman answered, but the no one was there.

any lights and, about five minutes later, heard the doorbell ring again. As she opened the door, she heard someone run down the driveway toward the garage.

The woman called out and then noticed a man at the opposite end of the driveway. She questioned him and he told her he was looking for his white poodle. The man then ran off.

Police believe the unknown offenders were setting the home up for a burglary and ordered a special watch of the area.

Co-worker charged with battery

Police responded to a battery call in the 7000 block of Austin Avenue March 23.

Upon arrival at the place of employment, police spoke to the victim who stated that she and a co-worker had been having problems. The offender, a 37-year-old Chicago man, had called the victim names and had made derogatory statements to her regarding her physical disability.

On March 22, when the victim asked the man to stop arguing with her, the offender got upset, walked over and kicked the victim in the chest. This was witnessed by the supervisor.

The victim left work and went to the hospital where an x-ray revealed that the woman suffered internal bruises in her ribs and left breast.

She returned to work, informed her supervisor and called the police.

When the offender arrived at work he was taken into custody, brought to the Niles Police Department, processed and charged with battery. The offender offered a verbal statement as to his involvement in the incident.

Liquor theft

An employee of a liquor store located in the 7600 block of Milwaukee Ave. observed a man take a bottle of liquor and flee March 26.

The subject, described as 20-25 years old, 6 feet tall and 200 pounds, concealed a bottle of Goldschlager, valued at $23, in his coat. The offender then fled the area on foot.

Girls attacked in car

Four Chicago girls, ages 14-16, were driving in Niles March 25 when they were attacked by a male from another car.

The girls were followed by the offender's car from the intersection of Lake and Waukegan to Oakton and Waukegan. As they approached the intersection, the offenders began throwing coins at the girls' car.

When the victims stopped at a stop light, the driver of the offending car exited his vehicle, walked to the passenger's side of the youth's car and asked the girls what their names were.

One of the girls attempted to roll up the window, but the offender stuck his hand in the car, sprayed the girls with mace, got back into his Toyota and fled. There were three or four other males in the car.

Police dispatched a call on the car for aggravated battery.

Peeping Tom scared away

A 19-year-old woman sitting outside of her home observed an offender looking in her bedroom window March 22.

The woman, who lives in a ground level apartment in the 8000 block of Foster Lane, was parked in front of her residence with her 26-year-old boyfriend when the two saw the man walk up to her bedroom, lean over and stare into a window located on the south side and adjacent to an open field.

After watching the offender for three or four minutes, the victim's boyfriend approached him, shined a flashlight into his face and ordered him to "hold it".

The man instantly fled from the scene. The victim's boyfriend told police that he could identify the intruder.

The man instantly fled from the scene. The victim's boyfriend told police that he could identify the intruder.

Wandering child returned to mother

Police found a 2-year-old girl walking around the 8400 block of N. Greenwood Ave. March 25.

Neighbors of the block told police that they have seen the child wandering around before.

Police found the child's home, located in the 8600 block of Sunset Road, and spoke to the mother, who was on the phone and unaware that her child was missing. The woman, who has four other children, told police that this incident has happened several times before and that she will have her husband put hook chains on the doors.

A social services referral was submitted by police.

Attempted burglary

Unknown offenders used a prying type tool or a vise to wrench the knob on the rear door of a food store located in the 7700 block of Milwaukee Ave. over the weekend.

The incident occurred between 6:30 p.m. on March 26 and 7:40 a.m. March 27, but no entry was gained into the establishment. The only apparent damage was to the door knob on the northwest door of the building.

An employee of the store told police that the lock was in working condition when he left the site the night before.

Improving methods of breast cancer detection

The National Cancer Institute (NCI) funds numerous research projects to improve conventional mammography and develop alternative imaging technologies to detect and characterize breast tumors.

For breast cancer screening, high-quality mammography, an x-ray technique to visualize the internal structure of the breast, is the most effective technology presently available. Studies have shown that in women ages 50 and over, mammography coupled with clinical breast examination is effective in detecting breast cancer and with treatment can result in as much as 30 to 35 percent reduction in deaths in this age group.

Efforts to improve conventional mammography center on refinements of the technology and quality assurance in the administration and interpretation of the x-ray films. To advance the technology, NCI is funding research to reduce the already low radiation dosage; enhance image quality; develop statistical techniques for computer-assisted interpretation of digitized images; and enable long-distance image transmission technology for clinical consultations.

Digital Mammography

Digital mammography, a computerized technique that displays images using an infinite scale of gray tones, is of keen research interest. Mammography x-ray films can contain subtle information not easily discernible to the radiologist. Digital images potentially could enhance the quality of the image and even magnify the view of specific areas of the breast. This is expected to improve the sensitivity of mammography, especially in radiographically "dense" breast tissue which renders visualization of cancer problematic, and to decrease the radiation dose per mammogram. Digital mammography also will allow computer-aided diagnosis and tele-radiology.

NCI funds many studies of this technology, including those of the National Digital Mammography Development Group. This multidisciplinary academic and industrial group is developing and evaluating methods to increase image quality and technologies such as image processing for improved lesion visualization, computer-aided diagnosis for enhanced image interpretation, and tele-mammography (electronic image transmission providing access to specialized clinical experts at remote sites). Attached is a list of participating institutions along with a selected list of other NCI-funded breast cancer imaging studies.

Novel Non-Ionizing Radiation Imaging

While a very useful technology, mammography is not perfect. It cannot produce clear x-ray images of dense breast tissue, and its effectiveness is limited in women with breast implants.

Younger women tend to have dense breast tissue (more glandular) that does not provide as clear a mammographic image as needed for diagnosis of early breast cancer. Looking for an abnormality on an image of dense breast tissue is somewhat like trying to detect an individual brush stroke of paint in a modern art painting where many overlapping splashes of the same shade of color are splattered all over the canvas. One cannot see under a splash of color, and it is hard to make distinctions between individual brush strokes of paint.

Mammography also cannot distinguish with absolute certainty benign from cancerous lesions. For such reasons, scientists are exploring novel non-ionizing imaging technologies including magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), ultrasound, optical imaging, and other technologies. The NCI-funded studies encompass basic technology and instrumentation development through pre-clinical and clinical testing. They aim to define the precise role of the technologies in detecting and characterizing breast tumors.

MRI and Ultrasound
Of novel non-ionizing technologies, conventional MRI and ultrasound have been the most studied as ways to improve the sensitivity of breast cancer detection and staging in certain subsets of women. Both have shown potential for distinguishing between benign and malignant lesions and in detecting tumors in dense breast tissue. Furthermore, contrast-enhanced MRI may offer promise as an adjunct test in cases where mammography and physical examination are inconclusive, such as in distinguishing benign cell growth (dysplasia) from cancer.

MRI and ultrasound have their limitations, too. MRI cannot detect microcalcifications, minute calcium deposits that may indicate a small cancer. About half of cancers detected by mammography appear as a cluster of microcalcifications. Ultrasound does not consistently detect microcalcifications, nor can it detect very small tumors.

Breast Biopsies
Imaging is also being tested as an aid in performing biopsies. The majority of women in the United States (80 percent) who undergo surgical breast biopsies do not have cancer. As an alternative to surgery, mammography-guided, stereotactic needle breast biopsy is being studied for women with non-palpable lesions. (Women who have large, palpable lesions usually undergo needle aspirations to determine if their lesions are solid or fluid-filled cysts). Stereotactic needle biopsy offers the potential advantages of minimized tissue damage, reduced waiting time until diagnosis, and cost savings. A multi-institutional research program is now testing the efficacy of the large-core and fine-needle biopsies.

Other Areas of Study
In addition to research on imaging technologies, other research is developing methods to detect products of breast cancer (antigens) in blood, urine, or nipple aspirates, and to detect genetic alterations in women who are at increased risk for breast cancer. Once cancer is diagnosed, studies of these types contribute to characterization of breast tumors and can be useful in treatment planning. Still other NCI-funded projects seek to increase the utilization of mammography among women in age groups for which mammography has proven benefit. An emphasis is increasing utilization among minority and medically underserved women.

Consumer alert

Q. Recently, I read a newspaper article about your office investigating several telemarketers who defrauded an elderly woman for over $18,000 by making tempting offers for prizes, furs and other items. Can you tell me how consumers can protect themselves from such operators?

A. Consumers should be extremely wary of telephone salespersons giving a pitch that sounds too good to be true. In most cases, offers for free gifts, prizes, cheap vacations, or merchandise sold at outrageously low prices are too good to be true and are only a way for a fraudulent telemarketer to make a fast buck.

Another word of caution - never, never give out your credit card number or your bank account number to anyone who has called you with what sounds like an irresistible offer. Con artists can use your personal identification to remove money from bank accounts and access credit reports.

Anyone receiving suspicious-sounding calls from a telemarketer, please call our Consumer Protection Division at (800) 252-8666. Information is now being entered into a nationwide data system in order to better track fraudulent telemarketers.

Under Construction — Rebuilding Hearts.

"You shouldn't tell a person how bad his condition is unless you also tell him how much better he can be," explains Dr. Noel D. Nequin, founder/director of Swedish Covenant's highly regarded Cardiac Rehabilitation Program. "A heart attack is not the end of the world... it's the beginning of a new life."

"We help men and women reverse coronary artery disease through exercise, nutrition and a healthier lifestyle. It's not drudgery... it's rebuilding the heart for a long, fulfilling life. But, it takes a lot of dedicated effort from the patients to achieve this goal."

SCH's Cardiac Rehab Program is more than 20 years old — the oldest in the Midwest! It's located within a full-service fitness facility, the Galter LifeCenter, on the hospital's campus. Dr. Nequin has "coached" notable business and civic leaders, and even physicians to achieve their cardiac rehab goals. Swedish Covenant Healthcare System serves the north and northwest sides of Chicago. If you are looking for a doctor on the SCH Medical Staff or want more information on Swedish Covenant's services, lectures or screenings, please call 312-989-3838.

MANY FIND THE PATH.
A FEW MAKE THEIR OWN.

College is often called the "road to success." But in truth, it can be much more.

At its best, college challenges you to leave the well-beaten path and make your own way. To test knowledge rather than simply being tested on your command of it. To find values to live by, and reach out to touch the lives of others. To pursue truth wherever it leads, and build your future upon its foundation.

Once, that was the mission of all higher education. And it remains so today at North Park College of Chicago.

EVERYTHING COLLEGE ONCE WAS, AND STILL CAN BE.

Chicago's only residential liberal arts college still embodies the progressive educational values of the Swedish immigrants who established North Park as the college of the Evangelical Covenant Church over a century ago.

Our principled approach to academics is matched by the most personal kind of attention to the individual. Our average class has just 16 students. Our faculty boasts scholars from the nation's top institutions who are devoted first and foremost to teaching. And our campus is truly a campus, with the abundant resources, historic architecture, and quiet neighborhood setting so conducive to higher learning.

A DIVERSITY OF CHOICES, INSIDE AND OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM.

Within this environment, North Park students are free to pursue a wide range of interests. Undergraduates choose from over 40 different programs ranging from anthropology to art, mathematics to music, engineering to education, while graduate and adult students explore programs in business, management, nursing, theology, and scheduled to begin in May of 1994, education. Extracurricular activities are equally abundant. From a standout sports program that has brought home five NCAA Division III basketball titles, to the nationally-recognized work of our Urban Outreach program, the opportunity to make a difference extends far beyond the classroom.

RANKED ONE OF THE BEST IN THE MIDWEST.

In the last 15 years, 90% of our pre-med graduates were accepted by the medical school of their choice. More recently, 100% of our nursing graduates passed their state qualifying exams on the first attempt.

Those numbers bear out what U.S. News & World Report has recognized in ranking North Park among the Midwest's top 10 regional liberal arts colleges four times since 1989. If you're looking to make your mark in life, there is simply no better place to take the first step. That's what North Park College of Chicago is all about.

What employers look for in the job market

Many schools offer an education, but the Milwaukee School of Engineering offers students an experience that makes them "winners" in the job market. "Employers recognize and value candidates with an MSOE education," says Ken McAteer, vice president and director of placement of MSOE. They look for students who have an abundance of abilities including technical skills, directedness, performance skills and a history of winning. Recruiters look for the degree and major that match their openings but, beyond that, they also look for additional specific skills that are prerequisites for the position. This might include writing, speaking and knowledge of specific computer systems. Another skill that helps during the interview is the ability to use directedness. This shows if the candidate can articulate his or her goals and has come prepared for the interview. Performance skills are a positive attitude, rapport, continuous self-improvement and communications ability. "Candidates who are negative, angry and arrogant are not employed," says McAteer. "So a positive attitude is very important to being hired." Students also should develop rapport with diverse groups of people to sharpen their communication and listening skills. Academic achievement is also important to employers, because they see it as evidence that the candidate has discipline, organization and can set priorities. Candidates who show leadership will be successful in companies. Students who enjoy challenges, will find success in the programs of engineering and business at the Milwaukee School of Engineering.

Suburban Home

Planning is key to successful design

Whether you're redoing one room or decorating an entire home, careful planning should be your first step. The purpose of interior design is to create a personal environment that combines beauty and function. Long before ordering gallons of paint or rolls of wallpaper, analyze your family's taste and personality traits. You'll not only be happier with the end result, but also avoid the added expense of having to start over.

Decorating your home can be a rewarding adventure, but for many people, it can also be an intimidating challenge. Where should you begin? Remember that beautiful homes don't just happen. So begin like the pros, by analyzing your family's lifestyle.

Write down the interests and characteristics of each family member. You'll then have a framework for custom decorating individual rooms and living areas to meet your family's needs.

Consider these questions in your planning process:

- What do you like about your friends' home? Chances are, your own tastes are probably reflected in the homes you find appealing and comfortable. Don't be afraid to borrow ideas from magazines or store displays to achieve the look you like.

- Is your family lifestyle formal or casual? In the first case, formal dining and living rooms can be focal points of your interior design. Casual families, on the other hand, will prefer warm, friendly rooms with inviting conversation areas.

- Does your family lead an active or passive lifestyle? Active families should select home furnishings and materials that hold up well to constant wear. Active youngsters need open spaces to play with durable furniture and non-stain fabrics.

- What style do you want to achieve? Are you a traditionalist, or do you lean toward a contemporary look? The answer will determine the kind of environment you want to create, and your selection of colors, textures and patterns.

- Consider individual family member needs. While living rooms must be suited for general family use, be sure to also create areas where individual members, adults and children alike, can pursue their own interests.

From a cost standpoint, plan ahead so you can adequately spread your budget out to cover each room you are decorating. An appealing design need not be expensive, since a little imagination can go a long way in creating a pleasing environment.

Take your time. You may want to enlist the help of a professional designer as part of the planning process. Remember that successful design means making rooms feel as great as they look. The key to pleasing interiors is to determine your own sense of style, blending function, comfort and beauty to meet your family's own unique lifestyle.

Kitchen update

If your kitchen needs a face-lift and new cabinets or appliances are out of the question, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau recommends you consider replacing the plumbing-related products in the room instead.

"A new faucet or sink can go a long way to sprucing up a tired kitchen relatively inexpensively," said David L. Weiner, the Bureau's executive director. "Not only are the new plumbing products on the market today beautiful to look at, they also save water, time, and add to the family's general quality of life."

Faucets with special needs in mind: Consider throwing out that old drippy kitchen faucet and replacing it with one of the new models on the market today, suggest the Bureau.

"Faucets now come in all different shapes, sizes and special finishes, many designed with the specific needs of the user in mind," said Weiner. A goose-neck faucet is perfect for washing large pots and pans, for instance. The new pull-out spouts also make washing dishes and cleaning your sink much easier.

Most faucets today also feature improved valve technology, which means that those annoying drips may be a thing of the past permanently. In addition, most faucets now limit the flow of water almost imperceptibly, saving on water and utility bills.

Furthermore, consumers can find faucets in a wider range of finishes and coatings than ever before. "A polished brass faucet or one with a color coating to match the wallpaper, for instance, can really dress up the sink area," said Weiner.

Everything including the kitchen sink: The kitchen sink has also gotten into the act, with manufacturers introducing a wide array of gourmet sinks in a variety of sizes, depths and finishes. Many sinks now feature built-in drainboards, large-size bowls, and restaurant-quality stainless steel construction.

In addition, some sinks have two bowls of different depths; a 10" deep bowl that will accommodate large pots and a smaller, 7" deep disposer bowl, for example.

"You may consider putting in a smaller sink in another area of the kitchen, such as the center island," said Weiner, "so that more than one person can work at a sink at one time."

Other amenities that make life easier: Besides sinks and faucets, the Bureau recommends homeowners consider adding other plumbing-related amenities to their kitchen, such as a food waste disposer or an instant hot water dispenser.

Food waste disposers remove garbage from the home's environment, providing convenience and sanitation benefits. An instant hot water dispenser provides 190 degrees Fahrenheit water for cooking and instant foods.

"These products make life a lot easier for busy homeowners," said Weiner. In addition, a point-of-use or under-the-cabinet water purifier is another upgrade homeowners can consider.

"Replacing or upgrading a kitchen's plumbing products may be just the thing to breathe new life into the room," said Weiner. "With the products on the market today, homeowners have more options and features to choose from than ever before."

Founded in 1919, the Chicago-based Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau is the consumer information arm of the plumbing-heating-cooling industry.

Save fuel costs, button up home

Insulating is important to control heat loss through walls, floors and ceilings.

Most of us live in houses which were built at a time when nobody worried about the cost and supply of oil, gas or electricity. Today, we are learning from our soaring heating bills that our homes are ill-protected against heat loss. However, by adding more insulation where there is none or too little and by installing weatherstripping and storm windows, we can cut heat loss, use less fuel and save money.

For additional tool information, write to Arrow Fastener Company, Inc., 2711 Mayhill Street, Saddle Brook, NJ 07662.

NI Gas offers ceiling insulation help

A Northern Illinois Gas program makes it easy for customers who live in single family homes to determine if their ceiling insulation measures up.

Adequate ceiling insulation is one of the most effective ways to keep heating bills low. In fact, ceiling insulation works year-round. By resisting the flow of heat, insulation keeps inside air cool in the summer and warm in the winter. This layer of protection helps conserve energy and keeps the indoor air temperature more uniform throughout the year.

Northern Illinois Gas is offering a free ceiling insulation inspection to single-family residential gas space heating customers.

A qualified contractor will inspect ceiling insulation at no obligation to the homeowner. People who decide to install additional insulation may finance it through Northern Illinois Gas. Subject to credit approval, customers can finance up to $1,000 at an annual interest rate of 14 percent. No down payment is required.

In the August/September bills from Northern Illinois Gas, customers will receive a brochure with more information on the program, as well as a reply card to request an inspection appointment. Interested customers may also call the customer service number listed in their local telephone directory or on their bills to arrange for a contractor visit.

Bathroom safety; a concern for children, elderly

It may seem harmless enough, but to the most vulnerable members of your household, that bathroom down the hall is a potentially dangerous place.

That's because young children, the disabled and the elderly are particularly susceptible to burns falls and other accidents in the bathroom.

Reports estimate that there are about 200,000 bath injuries a year, with 5,000 children being scalded by hot tap water. The skin of children and the elderly are thinner than most, so they can be seriously burned more quickly. In fact, third degree burns will result if children are exposed to water that is 140 degrees Fahrenheit for just three seconds.

But experts agree that many of these unfortunate accidents can be easily avoided with both common sense planning and today's new, safety-conscious bathroom fixtures.

"Safety is definitely top-of-mind in the plumbing industry today, as evidenced by the bath products now available to consumers," said David L. Weiner, executive director of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, an industry group.

"Faucet manufacturers have sought to eliminate accidental scalding through improved valve technology, while plumbing fixtures also have new built-in safety features, such as grab bars and special non-skid surfaces. Licensed professional plumbing-heating-cooling contractors can assist homeowners in assessing and fulfilling their safety requirements," added Weiner.

Pressure-balancing valves/temperature control devices: With older faucets and showerheads, scalding sometimes occurs when the water suddenly turns red-hot because someone has flushed the toilet or turned on some other outlet in the house. Today, most newer showerheads are pressure-balancing, which means the temperature of the water from the showerhead remains relatively constant, regardless of pressure fluctuations caused by water usage elsewhere in the house.

Another effective means of scald protection that the plumbing industry has developed are temperature control devices. These inhibit the flow of hot water from a faucet when the temperature exceeds a setting predetermined by the user.

Although a number of code requirements already exist, many organizations are promoting the adoption of building code amendments to make anti-scald bathroom plumbing devices -- pressure balancing, thermostatic control, or a combination style -- mandatory in all new construction.

"Both pressure-balancing valves and temperature control devices can be purchased and installed by your local plumbing-heating-cooling contractor," said Weiner.

Placement of Controls: The placement of faucet and showerhead controls is also important to think about when it comes to safety. Controls should not be positioned under the showerhead or tub causing you or your child to place a hand in a stream of hot water to make adjustments.

"Rather, ask your plumbing-heating-cooling contractor to place controls away from the showerhead," said Weiner.

Non-skid surfaces, grab bars, etc. Make sure your tub and shower areas have non-skid, flat surfaces as well as grab bars nearby to prevent falls. A fold-down bench in the shower or changing area can also help avoid accidents. Consider two sets of grab bars -- one for kids and the other for adults, or connect grab bars to wall studs so they can be repositioned as the child grows taller. A grab bar near the toilet is also a good idea, according to many bathroom designers.

"And remember that towel and shower curtain bars, which are thin and not properly reinforced, are no substitute for actual grab bars," said Weiner. "They can be easily bent or broken by the weight of a fall."

Round corners, soft surfaces: Smooth rounded edges on cabinets and lavatories, which help head off severe injuries in case of a fall, and enclosures made of safety glazing are a few other features to ask for. In addition, some bathtubs incorporate supple cushioning which conforms to body contours and can lessen the extent of an injury due to a fall.

"Thanks to the efforts of the plumbing industry, the bathroom doesn't have to be the most dangerous place in the house anymore," said Weiner. "With the safety features now available in both fixtures and faucets, your plumbing-heating-cooling contractor can make your bathroom virtually danger-free."

Outdoor lighting adds safety and security

If you enjoy country living, the addition of outdoor lighting equipment to your property can enhance that enjoyment year-round, while also increasing your property's safety and security.

On any rural property or small farm, there are always a few after-hour chores to be done "in the dark." Good outdoor lighting will reduce both time and effort, and add safety, especially during those long and dark winter nights.

To maximize your investment, the right light bulb in the right location is what counts most. For outdoor lighting, those golden-colored high pressure sodium bulbs are the most energy efficient of the high-intensity discharge (HID) bulbs. The white-colored mercury vapor bulbs, although not as energy efficient, cost less initially, and are the most readily available HID bulbs.

Comparing the light output from different lighting products using the same amount of electricity shows that mercury vapor bulbs produce 2.5 times as much light as standard incandescent bulbs, and high pressure sodium bulbs produce 4- to 5-times as much light as incandescent. This means more light for you at a lower cost of operation.

The average life of an incandescent bulb is from 750 to 1000 hours of operation. A high pressure sodium bulb has a life of 24,000 hours. This means an extended period of time between bulb changes, particularly if the bulb is controlled by a photo-electric cell allowing only nighttime operation.

In addition to its security aspect, outdoor lighting can also be used to enhance the beauty and safety of your farm's surroundings. All of these lighting applications will increase the value of your property as well.

For more information on the relative efficiency of outdoor light sources, contact your electric utility or send $1 for Farmstead (outdoor) Lighting to the non-profit National Food & Energy Council, 409 Vandiver West, Suite 202, Columbia, MO 65202.

Inspect house before buying

To avoid expensive headaches later on, prospective homeowners should have a professional thoroughly check a house's plumbing-heating-cooling systems before they buy.

"Home buyers are wise to use the services of a professional contractor to make sure these systems are in working order," said David L. Weiner, executive director of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, an industry group.

"A plumbing-heating-cooling contractor is really the best qualified person for the job," Weiner said. "In addition, an independent contractor may be able to give you a more objective opinion than a home inspector, who may be affiliated with a realty or construction firm."

According to the Bureau, many p-h-c contractors will perform an inspection at no charge or for the cost of a regular service call. If the p-h-c systems are old and may need attention in the future, a contractor can give you an idea of the costs so you won't be faced with any surprises later on.

In addition to using the services of a p-h-c contractor, home buyers can look for a few simple things themselves when going through a home they're thinking of buying:

- Flush all toilets to make sure they work properly.
- Open faucets from the lowest level of the house to the highest to check that the water pressure is adequate.
- Does the hot water come out in a trickle? Particularly in older homes, hot water lines may be clogged with lime residue.

• Make sure the kitchen and bathroom drains are not clogged.

• Check bathroom fixtures. Are they cracked or otherwise worn? Are there rust marks on the enamel near faucets?

• Is there an odor coming from any of the toilets? If so, you may have a problem with your backyard well, if you have one.

• How old is the home's water heater? Many have a date somewhere on the unit. Water heaters usually last 10 to 12 years.

• Is the water heater large enough for your family's needs? An average family of four should have at least a 50-gallon unit to insure fast recovery of hot water.

• Look around the basement. Is there any water leaking in along the sides? Are there water marks on the walls to indicate that the basement has flooded before?

• Check the outside of the furnace. Is it scorched-looking? Does it have sooty smudges? The flue may be plugged or the furnace may not be adjusted properly.

Smart home buyers use their eyes, ears and noses when they look through a house. They can pick up on trouble areas by being observant; but it really takes a professional to tell you if your dream house has a clean bill of health, or not.

Founded in 1919, the Chicago-based Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau is the consumer information arm of the plumbing-heating-cooling industry.

Niles Park District initiates junior golf program

Greg Genz, Golf Operations Manager at Tam Golf Course, is initiating a Junior Golf Program. This new program will target girls and boys 8 to 18 years of age. The program will teach the young golfers etiquette, rules and playability skills.

Genz recognizes that the younger generation of golfers must have the opportunity to play and learn the game. This past year Genz worked in cooperation with the Notre Dame High School golf team, which utilized Tam for practice rounds and meets. According to Genz, "Tam is a great track for youngsters to learn on.

The shorter 9 hole course is not as frustrating to a beginner as the longer courses can be."

Genz will be working cooperatively with the principals of area schools, soliciting their participation to ensure that this program gets off the ground. Providing there is sufficient interest in this pilot program, staff looks forward to working with the local youth in promoting the fascinating game of golf for many years to come.

Anyone interested in the Junior Golf Program should contact Greg Genz at (708) 965-2344.

International Week features activities

International Week, a week long celebration consisting of programs which highlight Oakton's connection to and understanding of other cultures, will feature a variety of entertainment activities April 10 to 15, at the Des Plaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Rd.
On Monday, April 11 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Keith Eric & Waterhouse, with their colorful costumes and instruments, will provide the sounds and rhythms of Jamaican music. This musical group, sponsored by the Student Activities' College Program Board, will perform in the Student Center.
The Chicago Koto Group will give a special performance on Japanese stringed instruments preceding a showing of the film, A Taxing Woman's Return (1988), on Tuesday, April 12 from 11 to 11:30 a.m. The film, directed by Juzo Itami, will be shown from 12 to 2:10 p.m.
Music lovers can sail away to the warmth of the Caribbean by joining Nelson Gill, Brazilian singer/song writer and performer for a special concert on Tuesday, April 12 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Everyone will enjoy a lunch break of fun and laughter while singing and dancing to reggae, calypso, soca, merengue and punta rhythms. This performance is sponsored by the Early Childhood Education Program.
Music faculty member Jake Jerger demonstrates Latin American Percussion instruments - congas, bongos, timbale drums and accessory percussion instruments - and how they are used with melodic instruments on Wednesday, April 13 at 8 p.m.
International Week will also feature lectures, panel discussions, international films, cultural exhibits and demonstrations, guest speakers and more. The Foreign Language/International Studies Department presents a free annual film festival in connection with International Week at Oakton. Films have been selected for their artistic and cinematic merit as well as to showcase the ten foreign languages that the College offers. They are presented in the original language with English subtitles and are shown at both Oakton campuses.
All events are open to the public and are free of charge, unless otherwise noted. For further information, call (708) 635-1871 or 635-1672.

Anti-DUI measures could save more lives

Even though a MADD survey ranks Illinois highest among all states for its efforts to combat drunk driving, Secretary of State George H. Ryan said today that additional anti-DUI measures could prevent even more needless tragedy.
"I am very pleased that our state is getting the credit it deserves for what we all have done to get intoxicated people out of the driver's seat," Ryan said.
"Unfortunately, our task is far from being complete. Last year, 671 people died in an alcohol-related crash on an Illinois highway. That number is completely unacceptable."
Ryan said Illinois' A-minus ranking in the MADD survey reflects the effectiveness of efforts by government agencies, including the secretary of state's office; law enforcement groups; and citizens groups such as MADD.
A key reason for Illinois' high ranking was the 1986 statutory summary suspension law, which provides for the almost certain loss of driving privileges for anyone arrested for drunk driving.
Since the law took effect, about 92 percent of all people arrested for DUI have lost their licenses for at least 90 days.
Another key factor in MADD's ratings was Illinois' move to abolish "happy hours," where two-for-one drink specials were offered.
Several of Ryan's initiatives - including his call to lower the illegal limit for drunk driving from a blood-alcohol content of .10 percent to .08 - were patterned after a MADD proposal to reduce alcohol-related crash deaths by 20 percent by the year 2000.

Ryan has won passage of legislation enacting many of those goals, including:
• A "child endangerment law," providing tough new penalties for adults convicted of DUI while transporting passengers under age 16.
• A suspension of driving privileges for anyone under age 21 ticketed for transporting open liquor.
• Stricter penalties - a mandatory $500 fine or 50 hours of public service - for anyone caught using a phony driver's license.
• A pilot program testing the use of ignition interlock devices by repeat DUI offenders.
• Identifying more repeat DUI offenders by allowing drunk drivers to receive court supervision only once in 10 years, rather than five.
• Reinstating the mandatory testing law for crashes causing fatalities or serious injuries.

may well have seemed an eternity to those who experienced January's quake. A young lady in the next booth dove under the table. Many others began shrieking and screaming "earthquake," and dashed out of the restaurant. It was excruciating for them.

I stood up and looked at my cousin. The fear was frozen on her face. Her body never moved. In the next booth I asked the woman under the table if she needed help. The rumble was over and she slowly emerged.

Neither my wife nor I reacted with any unusual emotion. I started to sit down and wolf down the rest of this very special meal. But the cousin was pretty badly shook up so we left. About half of the restaurant had already been emptied.

In the parking lot everything seemed normal. In front of the movie theatre the patrons were standing in a cluster outside the cinema. It was likely many of them would return to the movie house.

Driving home there were no signs of anything unusual. People were going about their business, watering their lawns, one guy washing his car. At the cousin's house, a picture fell off the wall and was laying in the hallway. The kitchen cabinets were open. Her two cats were hidden under a bed and never came out. We stayed a little longer than normal until she acknowledged she was okay.

My nonchalant behavior was due to ignorance. The cousin had been through several earthquakes and many aftershocks. They left their scars.

The earthquake-aftershock read 5.3 on the Richter scale. It was a fairly hefty aftershock. The January earthquake had its epicenter only two or three miles from the cousin's house.

Most of us have a "comparison brain cell" which tries to compare every experience with a previous experience. We thought the fear the restaurant's patrons showed was unlike the fear of Londoners when they were hit with the noiseless V2 missiles at the end of World War II. But they weren't the same. The instant bombings were a terrifying experience. But the ten second rumble from the earthquake was quite unlike the bombings. Many of those Los Angeles were emotionally beaten up by the January quake and its aftershocks, and their nerves are pretty raw.

As I wrote, we had three free brunches that Sunday afternoon. But it wasn't funny. And while this midwesterner reacted as if it was a rather casual experience, to those tens of people screaming and shouting as they rushed to the restaurant's doorway, it was a horrifying experience. And seeing other people's fears so rawly exposed puts the humor on hold and gives the most insensitive a moment to reflect.

conversation last September when the Village considered discontinuing the event in response to problems that required more than $11,000 in police protection for last summer's event.

In an October 14 Village meeting, however, the board voted to continue Niles Fest in its present format and at its present location. Unbeknownst to them, the decision whether to continue the event this year was out of their control.

Over its 66-year history, money from the festival has been donated to local organizations and charities; many groups have even relied on the fair to fund their budgets.

Elsinger said this is not the end of the Niles All-American Festival; NEC's president will now focus on finding a location for the 1995 event.

Daylight Savings...

Time in America:
• In 1918, US Congress adopted Daylight Saving Time as part of the World War I effort. But Congress scrapped DST in 1919, though some cities opted to continue it.

• In 1942, U. S. Congress put the nation on "War Time" -- setting the clocks ahead one hour. But, in 1945, Congress repealed War Time.

• In 1946, only six states in the US adopted Daylight Savings Time on a statewide basis.
• In 1967, Congress adopted the Uniform Time Act, which instituted Daylight Saving Time for the nation, starting at 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April and ending at 2 p.m. on the last Sunday in October. Any state could exempt itself by law, and currently several US states and possessions are exempt.

• In 1974, until 1975, Daylight Saving Time was extended to save energy.

• In 1986, President Reagan signed a bill, effective in 1987, that moved the start of Daylight Saving Time up to the first Sunday in April.

individual lots for houses, residential consensus favored retaining the land for recreational purposes. Village and park board officials have been discussing a lease agreement since then.

A clause in the lease agreement allows the Village to take back the Oak School property with a six month's notice.

Edison plans to use three of the Ford Ecostar electric vans in its own fleet. To provide the Ecostar with additional challenges, the company is making two of the prototypes available to the City of Chicago.

O'Connor noted that "the City has considerable expertise in fleet management and will subject the Ecostar to a wide variety of different situations."
Edison's agreement with Ford calls for the lease of five Ecostars for apparel and footwear as well as other departments. The store, located at 400 Golf Mill Shopping Center, was opened in 1960.

"Sears has a great apparel story to tell," said William "Bill" B. Koenig, manager of the Niles store, "and this expansion and renovation will add emphasis to Sears' Come See The Softer Side' advertising program." Koenig said, "When the work is complete later this year, we will be able to display our merchandise assortments more attractively, while making shopping a more pleasant experience for our customers."

When the renovation is complete, the store will feature wider aisles, softer and more energy-efficient lighting, new carpeting and floor tile and new merchandise display fixtures.

Legion to hold Good Friday fish fry

The Morton Grove American Legion Post #134 announces there will be a fish fry on Friday, April 1, which is Good Friday this year. In the past there has been some conjecture on the part of diners in the community as to whether the regular fish dinners would be served on that day.
The Legion, 6140 Dempster, offers perch, shrimp, a combination and catfish, along with a chicken entree for those non-fish eaters, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Township Emergency Agency conducts drill

Maine Township's Emergency Management Agency (EMA) conducted a disaster drill recently to test the interaction between area agencies in the event of an emergency.
The drill, the township's first, was required to maintain the EMA's state certification. Future drills must be held every two years.
This exercise was a mock response to a tornado that hits Des Plaines and Park Ridge, causing

Electric car demonstration begins

Commonwealth Edison Chairman James J. O'Connor and Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley today received the first of five prototype electric vehicles, which the utility has leased from Ford Motor Company.

Edison has been monitoring the development of electric vehicles for the past two decades, O'Connor noted. "It became apparent about a year ago that the technology had evolved to the point where a demonstration program was necessary. While electric vehicles have proven themselves on the test track, they had not been subjected to the rigors of city streets, Chicago weather, and other 'real world' variables."

Expanded use of electric vehicles also would lead to stabilized electricity costs in the region, O'Connor noted. "Electric vehicles would be charged at night, when Edison's most efficient generating equipment is underutilized. Night charging, even at discounted rates, would help pay the fixed costs associated with this generating equipment, holding down the price of electricity for all Edison customers."

IRS offers new service for taxpayers

With the April 15 filing deadline for individual income tax returns looming, the Illinois Department of Revenue is offering new services to assist taxpayers.

The department has put into service a Voice Response Unit (VRU) and has installed a separate toll-free forms order line.

Both services will relieve pressure on the main taxpayer assistance toll-free lines and should make it easier for taxpayers to get questions answered.

Callers are urged to be patient because there are a lot of taxpayers with questions. To date the department has received about one third of the 5 million income tax returns that it anticipates will be filed this year. Typically, more than 2 million arrive in the last week.

The VRU provides 24-hour-per-day prerecorded general tax information that will answer, in either English or Spanish, the questions most commonly asked by taxpayers.
During business hours, taxpayers can also check the status of their refunds by entering when prompted, their social security number and refund amount.

One can reach this 24-hour general tax information line by calling (800) 732-8866 or (217) 782-3336. Taxpayer service representatives are available to respond to questions between 7:45 a.m. and 5:15 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Taxpayers who sit down to do their taxes and find they are missing a form or schedule can call the department's new 24-hour forms order line at (800) 356-6302.
