by Tracey Labovitz

A Niles woman was arrested April 2 after she allegedly pulled a knife on a police officer investigating a 911 "hang up" call at her home in the 6600 block of Wood-driver Drive.

The officer arrived at the front door around 11:35 a.m. and heard yelling inside. A man allowed him in to observe his 40-year-old enraged wife.

The officer attempted to calm the woman, who continued to scream and poke her husband in the chest. She suddenly turned and went into the kitchen, followed by the officer.

The woman picked up a butcher knife from the kitchen counter, turned toward the officer and

Police Chief pleased with results of program

MG Amnesty Program nets 25 weapons

By Tracey Labovitz

In 1981, the Village of Morton Grove became the first municipality in the nation to put a ban on handguns. Written into the ordinance was a provision giving residents an opportunity to turn illegal weapons in to the police at any time without prosecution.

The Morton Grove Police Department held a weeklong amnesty program from April 4-10 in an effort to reemphasize the ordinance and its provision.

"For the 13 years that the law has been in effect people have been able to turn in handguns without enforcement of the ordinance," said Morton Grove Police Chief George Inledon. "We feel that people have moved into town unaware of the ban or have obtained weapons through inheritance since then. The main idea of the amnesty program was to make people aware."

According to Inledon, Morton Grove police collected 25 weapons during the program; twenty-two handguns, two of them pellet guns, and three rifles, one of those a pellet rifle. Inledon said most of the weapons were of .22-caliber or .38-caliber; a couple were automatic, but most were revolvers.

Seven of those weapons were turned in the first day of the program. Continued on Page 30

by Bud Besser

There's something ominous about my returning from vacation.

Back in the seventies I came back from Tennessee, only to find out Booby Friedman (Booby's Restaurant) had passed away. Three years ago I was returning on a plane from Israel. Dr. Goldberg was on the same plane. When we landed, a Nilesite was in the airport to pick-up the doctor. She told me Ang Marcheschi had died while I was away. Last week returning from California, I heard the sad news Edison Lumber's Bob Herman had died suddenly at the O'Hare airport terminal. Bob's wife, Nancy, told me she had briefly left him to go to the washroom. When she returned he had suffered a fatal heart attack.

Homeless youths seek help from state

Together with campaign endorsers, these young people are asking Governor Jim Edgar to hold hearings on the issue of homelessness across the state.

Des Plaines joined other young people from Illinois and held a rally on the Capitol's west side steps Monday as a reminder that homeless youths are evident in every part of Illinois.

At least 25,000 youths between the ages of 14 and 20 are homeless in Illinois. Since 1986, the Department of Children and Family Services has spent about $900,000, or one-tenth of its budget, on programs for homeless youth. That equals approximately $36 per year per homeless youth; not enough to pay for a pair of gym shoes these days.

They are: (1) Research showing that diabetes can protect against serious complications by monitoring their blood sugar levels several times a day and adjusting their insulin doses. (2) The study showing a link between a high intake of vitamin E and a reduced risk of heart disease. (3) A report that daily doses of chicken collagen may help rheumatoid arthritis sufferers. (4) A French study reporting that elderly women taking calcium supplements are less prone to bone fractures.

New members are always welcome. Cost is $10 per couple and $7 per single. The club features dining out evenings, theater outings and local tours. Mail membership checks to Marie Zupko, 8521 Lillibet Terr., Morton Grove, IL 60053.

Niles business sells $4 million lottery ticket

By Tracey Labovitz

Years of playing LOTTO finally paid off for one 67-year-old Des Plaines man.

Roy Hindale purchased a ticket from Quality Liquors, 7639 Milwaukee Ave., Niles, and successfully matched all six numbers, 11-13-15-18-22-25, to become the sole winner of the April 6 LOTTO drawing.

The Des Plaines couple plans to use some of the money for their daughters, ages 29, 32 and 35, and will donate some to their church. Roy would like to purchase a new Cadillac Fleetwood and the couple plan to travel to

Utah to visit one of their daughters. Roy previously had matched four of six numbers in the lottery, but his wife, Barbara, 57, would ask him, "Why do you keep playing? You never win anything."

Her husband's efforts have paid off, but Barbara, who has worked for 12 years as a secretary in Skokie, said she will remain at her job, although her retired husband has been urging her to retire for several years.

The Hindales will receive an initial payment of $200,000, minus 31 percent for federal and state taxes, followed by 19 payments of $200,000 less taxes. Quality Liquors will receive a 1 percent bonus of $40,000. Thousands of players matched four or five numbers in the April 6 lottery and received smaller prizes.

Safety tips for older drivers

By the year 2020, the number of licensed drivers over age 75 will more than double to 17.5 million, according to Lowell Beck, president of the National Association of Independent Insurers.

The growing population of older drivers, and the number of auto accidents involving them, raises concerns about highway safety and questions about what can be done to help senior citizens remain drivers for as long as possible.

Men over the age of 80 have the highest auto accident death rate of all drivers, and women between the ages of 80 and 84 have motor vehicle death rates equal to teenage girls aged 16 through 19, even though fewer elderly people have licenses compared with younger groups, and they drive fewer miles.

The rate of fatal auto accidents for both males and females begins to increase at age 65.

"As we get older, we process information, make decisions and react more slowly, while our hearing and vision decline," said Beck. Night vision also is affected and it gets harder to see in poor light. "Reflexes aren't as quick and many elderly people take prescription and non-prescription drugs that impair vision, equilibrium, judgement and reaction time," he added.

When older drivers do get into accidents, they may be more vulnerable to injury. Federal car safety regulations are geared to protect 5 foot-10 inch, 170-pound men involved in 30 miles-an-hour head-on crashes. But the elderly typically aren't that big and they often get hit on the side.

Their short stature may force them to sit close to the steering wheel, which increases the chance of injury from airbag deployments.

Almost half of the accidents involving the elderly occur at intersections, and elderly drivers are more likely than younger ones to be ticketed for failure to yield, improper turns and running stop signs.

Beck advises senior citizens to be safe drivers by:

- keeping a safe distance from the car in front of them;
- avoiding driving during rush hours;
- avoiding driving if they are on medication that may affect their skills;
- limiting their driving in congested areas, or on limited access roads with high speed traffic and complex interchanges;
- pacing themselves while driving by planning shorter trips and taking frequent breaks;
- limiting night driving during inclement weather;
- using extra caution when approaching intersections.

Beck also advises older drivers to take a defensive driving course that is specifically designed to help them be aware of the physiological changes that may affect their reaction time, reflexes, and other driving-related skills. Information regarding courses and schools can be found through state driver licensing offices, the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) or state chapter National Safety Council.

For example, the AARP 55 ALIVE/Mature Driving course increases the awareness of aging as it affects driving, offers compensating techniques, provides a thorough review of the rules of the road and emphasizes defensive driving techniques.

"Taking extra precautions not only protects you from unexpected accidents but also from higher insurance rates," said Beck. Some insurance companies offer discounts on their automobile policies for people over 50 who have good driving records. It is best to check with your own company to find out whether they offer the safe driving incentive, what courses qualify and the amount of the discount.

Rehabilitative Therapy at Ballard Focuses on Skills Needed for Independent Living

Rehabilitation at Ballard is aimed at making the world outside a friendlier place. Our emphasis is on the practical.

We stress the physical skills needed for living - grocery shopping, banking, doing the dishes, dealing with heavy doors and different ground surfaces, handling yourself in a car.

This is the type of rehabilitative therapy that helped Sara, an active woman of 65, after she broke her hip. Upon completion of therapy, Sara was able to work in the garden, take walks with her husband, go to dinner and the theater and even make

Because our focus is on re-learning the skills necessary for daily living, we are now remodeling our rehabilitative therapy suite to make learning these practical skills easier.

With the addition of our new rehabilitation suite, Transitions in Rehabilitation, clients will be able to practice everyday activities in a simulated community setting. The simulated community will include components such as a car, bank, grocery store and model apartment.

Each aspect of everyday life can be mastered in the safe and uncumbered confines of Ballard, so that our clients can return to the independence of their own homes.

Spring showers increase risk of skidding

Spring showers can make driving hazardous by increasing the risk of skidding and hydroplaning. Surface oil and grease form a slick film on the roads that is not washed away until after 20-30 minutes of hard rain. Therefore, slow down during rainstorms and maintain optimal tire pressure and tread to avoid an accident.

Q. What is hydroplaning?
A. Hydroplaning occurs at about 35 miles per hour on wet roads when tires begin to lose contact with the road surface. At speeds up to 35 mph, most tires "wipe" the road like a windshield wiper. As speed increases, tires actually ride up on a thin layer of water like water skis.

Q. What should I do if I begin to skid?
A. If you start to skid at speeds less than 55 mph, you should be able to regain control by taking your foot off the accelerator and letting the car slow down. Avoid any sharp braking, and steer in the direction you want the front of the car to go.

Q. What if I'm traveling more than 55 mph?
A. The faster you drive the more dangerous and difficult it will be to get out of a skid. At speeds 55 mph and above, you will be unable to brake, accelerate or corner because the tires lose all contact with the road. As a result, a gust of wind, curve in the road or slight turn can throw your vehicle into an uncontrollable skid. If this occurs, release the accelerator and ride out the skid.

Ryan explains right-of-way law

Illinois' right-of-way law determines who must yield and who may go first in many traffic situations. Although all motorists should be familiar with and obey the right-of-way law, they also should practice courtesy and common sense to avoid an accident.

When two vehicles approach an intersection from different roads at the same time and there are no stop signs, yield signs or traffic lights, the driver on the left must yield to the driver on the right. However, the driver on the right should be prepared to yield if the driver on the left does not.

When more than one vehicle arrives at a four-way stop intersection, the first driver to stop should go first, and the others should take their turns, proceeding cautiously. When two vehicles reach the four-way intersection at the same time, the vehicle on the left should yield to the vehicle on the right.

Drivers must yield the right-of-way to oncoming traffic when turning left at an intersection, alley or driveway. If you are in an intersection with traffic lights, you may finish your left turn even if the light changes to red. If not in the intersection when the light turns red, you must wait for the green light before turning. You also must wait until all cross traffic has cleared the intersection safely before turning.

Ryan announces 'Use It, Lose It' plan recently

Secretary of State George H. Ryan filed specifics of his "Use It & Lose It" plan to immediately suspend the licenses of under-aged drivers caught with even a trace of alcohol in their systems.

Ryan's proposal to establish a zero blood-alcohol tolerance for drivers under age 21 will be sponsored by state Sen. Carl Hawkins, R-Galesburg. It has the support of Mothers Against Drunk Driving and several major traffic groups and was endorsed today by Gov. Jim Edgar.

The "Use It & Lose It" proposal would establish the following sanctions for any driver under 21 who registers a BAC of anything but .00.

A three month administrative suspension of driving privileges within 45 days of an arrest which results in a BAC reading of .01 or above - any trace of alcohol.

A six-month administrative suspension for refusing to take a BAC test based on a police officer's reasonable suspicion that a minor driver has consumed alcohol.

Second-offense suspensions of 12 months or 24 months for failing or refusing the test, respectively.

Administrative relief, through Ryan's office, for those who can show that BAC readings above .01 were caused by substances other than alcohol.

Careless smoking habits cause fires

One of the most common causes of deaths in home fires is careless smoking. It has been estimated that 35 percent of all home fire deaths, approximately 1500 a year, and 17 percent of all home fire injuries are caused by cigarette fires. Over $300 million in property is lost in these fires.

The North Maine Fire Department recommends that special precautions be taken to avoid a cigarette fire. Always provide a large, deep ashtray for smokers to dispose of their ashes and smoking materials. Do not place ashtrays on the arms of furniture. Most cigarette fires involve dropping a hot cigarette on beds or upholstered furniture or clothing. Never smoke in bed or while reclining in upholstered furniture. A lit cigarette can smolder for 20 to 30 minutes before igniting anything, so be sure to check furniture before going to bed.

When disposing of ashes or smoking materials, be sure they are completely cold before emptying them out of the ashtray. Try wetting the ashtray contents before throwing them into the trash. The combination of smoking and drinking alcohol could lead to tragedy, be sure to keep an eye on individuals who may be endangering themselves and others.

Be sure to install smoke detectors in smoker's bedrooms and in other areas where they spend time, and make sure that all smoke detectors have working batteries.

Harold P. Katz

Navy Lt. j.g. Harold P. Katz, a 1986 graduate of Glenbrook South High School of Glenview, recently returned from a six-month Mediterranean and Adriatic Sea deployment aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Scott.

He joined the Navy in July 1986.

Sheriff combats suburban gang activity

The Cook County Sheriff's Office is preparing to implement a high-speed computer link that will give suburban police departments direct access to intelligence information on Chicago-area gang members released from or housed at the Cook County Department of Corrections, Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan announced recently.

The link with Cook County Jail will be established using the Sheriff's existing G.R.I.P. (Gang Relational Information Program) system, a countywide intelligence network and computer repository for gang information. Information stored in the G.R.I.P. system is available by telephone hookup to suburban, state and federal law enforcement agencies.

The system, continuously updated and maintained by the Sheriff's Gang Crimes Narcotics Unit, contains information and visual records on gang members such as tattoos, scars, graffiti and even photos. The system contains a sophisticated file on individual gang members that includes the person's gang affiliation, alias names, physical characteristics, hangouts, friends, associates and cars. Officers from the Sheriff's Gang Crimes Narcotics Unit can search for gang members by physical description, street nickname, or those that match up with evidence such as a car. Sheriff's Police and Department of Corrections officials are presently putting the final touches on a computer linkup that will hook the G.R.I.P. system into records information at the Jail. Persons being released from the Jail with a known gang affiliation as well as known gang members within the Jail's population will be entered into the system.

In addition, photos from the Jail will be available for transmission through the system. There are presently an average of 9,000 detainees housed daily in the Cook County Jail and more than 80,000 persons booked through the Jail each year.

Gang-related arrests by the Sheriff's Police have nearly tripled over the last three years as the suburbs have experienced an increase in gang activity and the proliferation of drugs. In 1991 Sheriff's Police made 348 gang-related arrests. In 1992 that number jumped to 750 and total of 1,026 arrests were recorded.

CONSUMER ALERT

by Attorney General
Roland W. Burris

Q. I recently purchased my first automobile. Because it is a used car and no longer under warranty, I need some advice on what I can do to maintain the car. Also, how should I go about finding a trustworthy auto mechanic?

A. Congratulations. Buying an automobile is one of the most important and expensive purchases the average person makes. Proper maintenance will help to ensure that your car runs well and will cut down on repair costs. Maintaining your vehicle requires some basic knowledge of general automobile maintenance (a good place to start is to thoroughly read the manual) and finding a reliable auto mechanic.

If you will write to my Consumer Protection Division at 500 S. Second St., Springfield Illinois, 62706, we will send you a free booklet called "Taking the Scare Out of Automobile Repair." The booklet provides many tips on how to identify and prevent automobile problems before they occur and offers advice on how to find a qualified mechanic when repairs do become necessary.

Marijuana smokers arrested in Niles

An officer on uniform patrol in the 8600 block of Milwaukee Ave. April 9 observed a vehicle traveling in front of him that reeked of burning marijuana.

Four occupants were traveling in the car and the windows were rolled down allowing the fumes of Cannabis to enter the car. The officer pulled the car over in the parking lot at 8743 Milwaukee Ave. and he, and another officer, approached the car.

An officer asked the driver for his license, then asked all four if they had been smoking and if they had any marijuana in the car. One of the subjects in the back seat said that the substance was all gone.

The officers asked the occupants to exit the car and to produce identification. The driver was informed that the car was going to be searched and, when asked whether he objected, he said no.

Trace amounts of Cannabis were in plain view on the seating area of the car as well as the floor carpet, however, a search provided no other evidence. All four subjects were run through criminal inquiries.

One of the occupants was 14-years-old and two of the adults had past criminal histories so those three were taken into custody to the Niles Police Department.

During a custodial pat down of the juvenile, a bag containing a green leafy substance was found in the waist band of his pants. The substance was field tested with positive results for marijuana. The juvenile was processed and turned over to his mother.

The two adults, a 22-year-old with a history of drug involvement and weapons violation, and an 18-year-old with known gang activity in a gang called the Freaks, were charged with possession of a controlled substance and contributing to the delinquency of a child.

The vehicle was inventoried and towed.

Police investigate sudden death of Niles woman

A 68-year-old Niles woman was found in a lifeless state on the bathroom floor of her home in the 7300 block of Cleveland by her husband just before 7 o'clock in the morning April 7.

The victim's husband told police that he had last spoken to his wife around 11 p.m. when she had gone to bed. During the night she went to the bathroom and expired for an unknown reason.

The woman's husband said that she had no medical history and that they have no medical doctor. She was pronounced dead at Lutheran General Hospital at 7:20 a.m.

The doctor told police that there were no signs of trauma to the woman's body. No autopsy was performed as the medical examiner needed a request from a family member, and the victim's husband did not want one performed. The victim's body was turned over to the family.

Gun-wielding husband threatens wife

A 33-year-old woman told police April 3 that her husband had returned home the night before and threatened her.

The 33-year-old man allegedly returned to their home in the 8200 block of Caldwell heavily intoxicated and began yelling at his wife. During the argument, the man pushed his wife over a chair and onto her back. He told her that he wanted a divorce and that one way or another he would get the house, even if it meant getting rid of her.

The woman does not want any police action and does not want the police department to contact her husband in any way, although she did mention that her husband is very violent and has a large gun collection.

Police gave the woman, who is still living with the offender, an Illinois Domestic Violence Act form.

Two car thefts during one night

Two automobiles were attacked between 9 p.m. April 3 and 9 a.m. April 4 in Niles.

The first occurred in the 9200 block of Courtland Ave. where unknown offenders damaged the steering column on an '88 Ford Mustang in an attempt to steal the vehicle. The passenger-side door was damaged in the process and the car suffered $200 in damages.

The second car, an '87 Lincoln Mark, was attacked in the 8400 block of Shermar Rd. when offenders removed the hub caps, valued at $95, from the left rear of the car.

Second-time traffic offender charged

On April 2, a Niles police officer had investigated a suspicious automobile in the YMCA parking lot.

The officer interviewed the driver of the car, a 27-year-old Morton Grove man, then checked his driver's license and found it to be suspended. The subject said the car belonged to his roommate. The officer did not let the man drive on a suspended license and instead drove him to his residence in the 8700 block of Narragansett.

Two days later, on April 4, the officer saw the same man driving the same vehicle in Niles. The officer performed a traffic stop and confirmed that the driver's license was still suspended. This time the offender was transported to the Niles Police Department where he was charged with driving while suspended and no proof of insurance.

The vehicle was towed and impounded until its owner could be contacted.

Ex-employee suspected in auto theft

A sales manager of a car dealership located at 5757 W. Touhy told police April 5 that he noticed that two cars were missing from the lot around 9 a.m. that Tuesday morning.

The cars, one white and one beige, were both '93 Nissan Altima GXEs and were removed without permission and by unknown means.

The sales manager named a former employee as a possible suspect. The ex-employee, an Evanston man, left the dealership in the beginning of April.

Man shoplifts baby formula

A man filled a plastic handheld shopping basket with baby food and left without paying for it at Osco Drugs, 8201 Golf Rd., around 2:35 p.m. April 7.

The man, described as balding, took at least 30 cans of SMA baby formula, exited the store and fled in a Ford Silver vehicle.

Police traced the license plate number of the car to a 43-year-old Downers Grove man. The formula was valued at $2.59 apiece.

Payment not rendered for services

Five men entered Pizza Hut, 6959 Dempster, around 10:20 p.m. April 9, ate and left without paying.

The men, described as in their late teens to early 20s, ordered two large pizzas, two family orders of breadsticks and five soft drinks, consumed it all and then left the restaurant.

The meal came to a total of $41.54.

Exploding mailbox

On April 4, an unknown offender placed a package of firecrackers in a mailbox that extends into a home located in the 7500 block of Kirk.

The package exploded, sending debris into the house. The resident of the home, a 63-year-old woman, looked outside immediately after the incident, but saw no one. The woman told police she had no idea who could have done this.

The package exploded, sending debris into the house. The resident of the home, a 63-year-old woman, looked outside immediately after the incident, but saw no one. The woman told police she had no idea who could have done this.

Man attacked by girls

A 20-year-old Schaumburg man told police that he was attacked by four females around the age of 16 April 8.

The victim said that the girls kicked him and one broke a bottle over his head, though he sustained no injuries.

The man could not describe the offenders and did not get a license plate number from the car the four fled in.

The victim also stated that one of the girls took a key to the victim's '82 Honda Civic that he had dropped.

Video game burglar charged

A manager at the game room in Golf Mill mall noticed that the monitor light was off on a game April 1.

The manager went to the rear door and found a 17-year-old Skokie boy inside the machine.

The manager took the youth into custody and called police. After a further look into the machine, the manager found several sheet metal screws missing from the coin box.

Police found 13 tokens on the offender as well as a screwdriver and a pair of pliers. A motor check revealed that 50 tokens were missing for a $12.50 value.

The youth was charged with theft from a coin-operated machine and possession of tools used to open a coin-operated machine.

The manager of the game room said he found another machine tampered with as free games had been given out. Two clamps were broken on the machine and the cash box had been entered. The total loss for the day was $113.75.

Pay phone murder threat

An unidentified woman called the fourth floor pay phone at a nursing home on Milwaukee Ave. March 31 and asked for a nurse by her first name.

The 38-year-old Chicago woman came to the phone and the caller said, "When you go home today, someone will kill you." The victim stated that she had no idea who the caller could be.

Suspended driver caught speeding

While on stationary radar patrol around 7 a.m. April 10, a Niles police officer obtained a radar reading of 73 m.p.h. in a 35 m.p.h. zone in the 8600 block of Milwaukee Ave.

The driver, a 22-year-old Chicago man, was stopped at the intersection of Milwaukee and Ballard Rd. where it was learned that he was driving on a suspended driver's license.

The offender was arrested and charged with speeding and driving with a suspended license. The man posted a $100 bond and received an April 29 court date.

Wedding Registry Program

Couples engaged to be married or making plans for a wedding will be interested in a new concept which will enable them to afford their first home together. "We believe this will become a very popular program among engaged couples, their parents, relatives, and friends. This is a unique opportunity to begin saving for a home. It can be difficult to accumulate enough savings to afford a home soon after marriage. We have made it easier than ever," says Moran. The program also involves American Suburban Mortgage Corporation's Priority Approval Program which offers potential home buyers the opportunity to be pre-qualified for the amount of mortgage they can afford which allows them the advantage of shopping for a home like a cash buyer.

According to Linda Moran, president of American Suburban Mortgage Corporation "The program involves a "Bridal Registry" whereby the engaged couple has the opportunity to open a deposit account at any of the area banks previously mentioned.

A minimum amount is required to open the account and once opened, wedding guests may "register" by depositing money into the account on behalf of the couple. The money may be used toward the down payment of their first home together. "We believe this will become a very popular program among engaged couples, their parents, relatives, and friends. This is a unique opportunity to begin saving for a home. It can be difficult to accumulate enough savings to afford a home soon after marriage. We have made it easier than ever," says Moran. The program also involves American Suburban Mortgage Corporation's Priority Approval Program which offers potential home buyers the opportunity to be pre-qualified for the amount of mortgage they can afford which allows them the advantage of shopping for a home like a cash buyer.

Along with the Priority Approval Program couples will be offered home buyers counseling to help them understand the entire mortgage process and the responsibilities of home ownership. This is an important component of the program because it educates future home owners about the realities of purchasing, maintaining and keeping a home. Another component of the program is state backed Illinois Home Start Program with a low down payment feature which can be a definite benefit by freeing up money which can be used for other wedding or after wedding expenses. In conjunction with its Wedding Registry Program, American Suburban Mortgage Corporation is working with a north suburban builder with their offer to pay for the engaged couple's honeymoon, wedding gown and tuxedo rental. For more details on this new program, call American Suburban Mortgage Corporation at (708) 623-8833.

Registering securities in firm name can be a bargain

by Jeffrey Cardella
Edward D. Jones & Co.
8143 N. Milwaukee Ave.
Niles, IL 60714, (708) 470-8953

In this day and age of $150 designer purses, $50,000 cars and $1 million homes, bargains can be difficult to find. One bargain that's no secret, however, is registering securities in firm name.

When you register securities in firm name, a bank or brokerage firm takes physical possession of and manages the day-to-day responsibilities associated with your securities. Even though you no longer physically possess your stock or bond certificates you retain control of the securities and can do with them as you wish.

Registering securities in firm name is truly a bargain when you consider this service typically costs little or nothing and offers so many advantages.

When securities are registered in firm name, the bank or brokerage firm that takes possession of your certificates:

- Collects all interest and dividends from the securities for you; provides regular updates on the status of your securities; notifies you whenever your bonds are called or mature; forwards any pertinent quarterly or annual stock reports; and furnishes one simple annual tax-reporting form.

All of these are attractive services; however, the biggest advantage of registering securities in firm name is the safety this service provides. When your securities are registered in firm name, you no longer have to worry about them being lost, stolen or accidentally destroyed.

Consider, for example, this true story of a Washington investor. This self-made millionaire invested regularly in bonds. Although he registered some of his bonds in firm name, he didn't trust his investment firm's computer system with all his bonds.

Unfortunately, this proved to be a costly mistake. When a group of children started a fire while playing with matches, the local fire department couldn't control the inferno. When the last ember had died, an entire apartment complex and 32 homes, including the home of the bond investor, were completely destroyed. Even though the fire department was located just two blocks away.

Fortunately, no one was injured in the fire, but the bond investor lost $1.2 billion worth of securities in the blaze! Of course, the bonds can be replaced, but the cost of doing so will be about $24,000. That's an expensive lesson.

Many investors find it comforting to keep possession of their stock and bond certificates. If you insist on retaining physical possession of your securities, remember to keep a written record of all your stock and bond certificates. Record the description, amount and certificate number of each security before placing it in a safety-deposit box.

No one plans to lose a security, to have their property stolen or to lose their possessions in a natural or man-made disaster. Unfortunately, these are everyday occurrences. Why take a chance with your stock and bond certificates when registering securities in firm name is one of the best bargains available today?

District 219 School Board needs to establish order

Dear Editor:

It is time for The District 219 School Board to put its own house in order, specifically the School Board House the Board Members collectively occupy.

I rarely missed District 219 Board Meetings over an 18 year period. I am very familiar with the process, the diversity of issues that come before a Board, the responsibilities of a Board, and the responsibilities of administration and staff. The finger pointing of finding whom to blame for this problem, or that problem is really wearing thin. The errors causing the problems which are adding tax dollars to everyone's property bill annually without desired results and progress is wearing even thinner.

The policy of the School District, hiring of personnel, negotiation of all and any contracts, hiring of consultants as needed, knowing what is negotiated in every aspect, more simply knowing what it is all about, the short and long range ramifications is all part of the job description of each Board Member(s).

While the position of a School Board Member is non-paying, and requires a goodly amount of time in doing homework, preparing and attending meetings, it is an office each Board Member was aware of at the time each was willing to make a commitment to, a personal decision at best, seeking to run for election to the position of Board Member(s).

It is the responsibility of the School Board to perform all of the preceding. It is the School Board who sets and approves the final annual budget. It is the School Board who must consider all elements of the budget, and to the residents of the entire residential community comprising District 219. The Board sets policy.

The line and staff, meaning the Superintendent, the teaching staff, Supervisors, and all support positions administer the School Board's policy. The Superintendent, Advisors/Supervisors, and teachers/information systems personnel are the experts in education, etc., concerning themselves with the best educational, informational practices, and I mean this in the fullest sense. It is the educators who carry out the policy and also serve as experts in making recommendations on educational issues, concerning themselves with the best educational practices, setting forth all of the available options to the Board, and the Board then decides on the most viable and best option for the students, within a realistic budget decision. This includes the computer department, finance department, and buildings/grounds, all part of the total scenario.

Perhaps you visit the classrooms in session, as a Board Member, perhaps you don't. Observation firsthand of what is happening, is worth its weight in gold. If you do visit the classrooms in both schools on occasion, you are to be commended. If you don't, you should.

If the District 219 School Board feels it is getting undeserved bad press, it is the responsibility of the District 219 School Board to select and designate a representative from amongst your own to respond honestly, factually and responsibly.

One of the best decisions you made as a School Board in recent weeks is your selection of interim Superintendent Galen Hosler. I know Mr. Hosler well from the time he served the District as an Administrator for a goodly number of years. It was during a time when my family had our children attending the District 219 High Schools, each through all 4 years of their High School education. Superintendent Hosler was always people-sensitive...students, parents, teachers and advisors alike. He is a very professional educator and administrator, excellent in every aspect in both of these roles. To our family he was, and is a professional's professional, and he always will be.

We always felt at the time when Dr. Gibbs retired that Dr. Hosler was a natural and the best choice for a successor to Dr. Gibbs. I still feel that way to this very day. As a matter of record and fact, Dr. Hosler was passed over twice for the position of District 219 Superintendent of Schools. The District 219 High School Boards of Education had a diamond in their midst in Dr. Hosler, and apparently never even realized it. Hopefully the events that have transpired in recent years and months have taught this School Board a lesson from the problems that have evolved from poor judgments and resulting decisions. Dr. Hosler has the experience this District needs now, from his past employment and excellent performance for this District. I as a resident of this district am both appreciative and thankful to Dr. Hosler for coming out of retirement to once again give of his experience, skills, knowledge and professionalism to our community. Dr. Hosler has an impeccable reputation of being top notch in his field.

A school district in turmoil is a sufficient enough catalyst to set an entire community into turmoil, with disastrous long range, if not indeed disastrous ramifications. I am certain none of us want that to happen, or continue on a path that leads in that direction.

"Colorectal cancer affects men and women equally and has mortality rate among cancer cases second only to lung cancer," Dr. Smalley said. "Early detection can be achieved in many individuals by testing stool samples for the presence of small amounts of blood, using a special test kit," he said. Free test kits will be given out at the programs.

Advance registration is requested. For more information and registration for the programs at either location, call (312) 792-5161.

Rush North Shore begins angioplasty

Rush North Shore Medical Center has opened a second Cardiac Catheterization Lab in which coronary angioplasty will be performed. The new lab opened on March 21.

In angioplasty, more technically known as Percutaneous Transluminal Coronary Angioplasty (PTCA), a thin, flexible tube with a balloon at the tip is inserted into an artery blocked with plaque.

The balloon is inflated to compress the plaque against the artery wall. This widens the passage-way, relieving symptoms of coronary artery disease by improving blood flow to the heart.

Angioplasty is an interventional procedure. John Phelan, MD, cardiologist, has been named medical director of interventional cardiology.

Rush North Shore has planned a comprehensive array of cardiology services for several years. The first step toward implementation of that goal took place in 1989 when cardiac catheterization was introduced at the hospital. In the last fiscal year, almost 600 cardiac catheterizations were performed. Open heart surgery services were begun in September 1993 under the direction of a world class team of cardiovascular/thoracic surgeons: Thomas Murphy, MD, director of the program; Marshall Goldin, MD, and Ali Shariatzadeh, MD.

Open heart surgery provides emergency back up for coronary angioplasty. Since the introduction of open heart surgery, the number of cardiac catheterization procedures has been increasing.

Presented by Apollo Solecik, M.D., this program will provide information about the disorders and methods of treatment.

On Friday, April 22, Suzette Rush, Psy. D., will discuss "Enhancing Family Life: Surviving the Rough Spots." Also scheduled from 7 to 8:30 p.m., this program will examine ways to improve communication and negotiation skills for a stronger family network.

Both programs will be held at the hospital, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines. Because of limited seating, registration is requested. To register or for further information, call (708) 635-4100, ext. 224 or 225.

Niles students in 'Music Man' leads

Preparations for this year's spring musical, The Music Man, are in full swing at Maine East. Although set construction and choreography are still in their early stages, leads Erika Dakoff and Kevin Doerr are busy with rehearsals.

Junior Kevin of Niles has come a long way in the past year. He first became attracted to theatre when he saw V-Show his freshman year. Kevin attended performances of other shows and decided to try out for last year's winter play at the urging of David Jeffers, Maine East fine arts department chairman. Kevin's eagerness and talent must have shone through his audition because he landed a lead role as the Stage Manager in a Maine East production of Thornton Wilder's Our Town.

Kevin's first musical was last year's Camelot. He played the part of Pellinore, the crazy friend of King Arthur and the show's comic relief. Although he didn't get to sing, Kevin was in many scenes and, best of all, "I got to make the audience laugh."

After the success of Camelot, Kevin took the lead again as the greasable Danny Zucco in the summer drama production of Grease. "I loved being Danny,"

he said, "because I could relate to the part...and the whole cast was a lot of fun to work with. I definitely liked doing a summer show."

This year Kevin performed in the Homecoming weekend "anti-play" The Bald Soprano, V-Show, and the Tennessee Williams' classic The Glass Menagerie. When asked how his involvement in theatre has affected him, Kevin responded: "It's definitely helped me mature. Taking a part is a huge responsibility...everyone in the cast depends on everyone else in the cast, crew, and orchestra to make the show work. You can't let people down...sometimes that's a really heavy burden. But the only way to do a show is through teamwork."

He definitely plans to continue in theatre for the rest of his life: "I'd like to be a theatre major...maybe go to school somewhere in New York...and win an Oscar by the time I'm twenty-five. Or thirty!"

Playing opposite Kevin in the lead role of Marion the Librarian is senior Erika Dakoff of Niles.

Erika has been involved in the fine arts department since her freshman year as a member of Swing Choir, Concert Choir, and hearing-impaired. Tickets are $3.50. Reservations are recommended by calling 674-4620. Birthday parties, scout and school groups are welcome.

Maine East grad and teacher retires

Dedication, the single world most students and staff members at Maine East would use when asked to describe John Ball, a Maine East social science teacher who will retire at the end of this school year.

Ball has not only been a teacher for 30 years; he once walked the hallowed halls as a student. He was a member of the Class of 1960.

He knew exactly what he wanted to do with his life; his love for history made his career choice easy. He earned his bachelors degree from North Park College and his masters from Northeastern. Ball returned to Maine East in 1964 to be a full-time substitute teacher. By the following year he had proven his dedication to what he believed in and was hired as a full-time social science teacher.

One might say that a model student is not only devoted to school work but also involved in extracurricular school activities. A model teacher is the same. Ball devoted 8 years to work with Student Council and has proudly co-sponsored the Maine East Historical Society for the last 8 years.

Unlike many who will retire to travel or move to new places, Ball simply explains, "I'm going to keep doing what I like to do and try to teach part-time at a junior college." He also enjoys the hobby of carving carousel horses.

Collies aid in Hynes special ed classes

The special education children hurried into the gym for their favorite activity of the week to begin, time to train the dogs.

Their eyes lit up as fourth graders put leashes on the six Collies and walked them to the middle of the gym. The dogs' owner, Judy Belluomini, watched as the area in which she had just led pupils in an Olympic gym class competition transformed into a setting for the enhanced development of special education students.

Belluomini has been a physical education teacher at Hynes Elementary School, 9000 Belleforte Ave., Morton Grove for 32 years. Her dogs became a part of the school in 1983 when she brought one of her Collies, Maggie, to the school grounds. Something happened that day, she had an obvious impact on a 10-year-old boy with special needs, Belluomini said.

"Maggie had a very calming effect on the boy who had behavioral problems," Belluomini said. The special education teachers witnessed the Collie's positive effect on the boy and they wanted the dog to be available when necessary. "So, Maggie came to school with me and she was 'on call,'" Belluomini said.

While her owner taught gym classes, Maggie stayed in Belluomini's office waiting to play when children visited or when she got called by a special education student. Belluomini said Maggie was her inspiration for the existing, weekly involvement of her six Collies at Hynes.

Reni, Maxi, Nike, Primo, Sneakers and Roxie have contributed a lot to the children's lives, said Bart Levin, a special education teacher.

A group of fourth graders, who Belluomini calls "peer tutors," aid the special education children working with the Collies. One peer tutor is matched with a special education student and a dog, and the training begins. The students lead the dogs along a black, painted line on the gymnasium floor as they command the dog to heel.

Two children, who used to scream in fear of the dogs, watched others play with the dogs, overcame their fear of animals and now look forward to this session each week, said Donna Barlow, a special education teacher.

Since the Collies have been coming to school to work with the special education children, Belluomini has received only positive reactions from children, staff, parents and administrators.

The principal of the school, Larry Mishkin, is very supportive of this program and said even he can benefit from having the dogs around as he occasionally brings one into his office.

Home safety tips from Com Ed

Safety in the use of everyday household products is simple to achieve, yet often overlooked. Each year, hundreds of thousands of Americans are treated in emergency rooms for injuries that resulted from preventable household hazards.

Periodically, check electrical outlets and switches. If any of them are unusually warm to the touch, the wiring may be unsafe. Unplug cords from such outlets, don't use the switches, and have an electrician check the wiring.

Lightbulbs of too high a wattage for a fixture can lead to fire through overheating. This is especially true of ceiling fixtures, recessed lights, and hooded lamps, which trap heat. If you don't know the correct wattage, use a bulb of no more than 60 watts.

Space heaters should not be placed near carpets, furniture, or drapes, or where they can be easily knocked over. Be sure to be familiar with the operating instructions for the space heater.

Three-prong plugs for space heaters and other appliances are designed for proper grounding to lessen the risk of electric shock. Don't try to defeat the purpose of this safety feature; if you don't have a three-hole outlet, use an adaptor for a two-hole outlet.

Appliances and electrical cords can cause shock or electrocution if they contact water, and can be damaged by excessive heat. In the kitchen, they should be placed as far as possible from the sink and stove.

Small appliances, especially in the bathroom, should be unplugged when not in use. If it contacts water, an appliance that is plugged in can cause a severe shock even though it is not in operation.

By spotting such hazards and adopting some easy practices to prevent them, one can use all electrical products safely.

Aluminum siding ends soffit painting

Some homeowners have an unpleasant chore hanging over their heads: scraping and painting wood soffit.

Soffit? It's the paneling that covers the bottom of roof overhangs, porch and balcony ceilings, and other exterior overhead structures.

Nobody enjoys standing on a ladder for hours, scraper in hand, head tilted upwards, while flakes of old paint fall in his face. But if you neglect wood soffit boards, they'll turn into an ugly eyesore.

Soffit sufferers can end their misery by replacing wood soffit with maintenance-free aluminum soffit panels that never need painting. Aluminum is lightweight and easy to work with, says Gary Heitsch of Rollex Corporation, which manufactures aluminum and vinyl soffit. High-quality aluminum soffit has a durable baked-on acrylic finish and comes in a range of updated colors.

"Many people choose white soffit panels out of habit," Heitsch says, "but builders and remodelers have begun using aluminum soffit in attractive contemporary colors for architectural accents. You can mix and match soffit colors with siding, gutters, and downspouts."

The solution, he explains, is to ignore conventional scheduling. Mowers and other power equipment are used only on weekends or before 7 a.m. in areas around the building. Tree spraying is done between 1 and 4 a.m., and weed control, when necessary, is applied at daybreak.

Several steps are taken to make

Municipal landscape maintenance takes many forms

Maintaining your back yard may seem like a chore, but when your back yard is hundreds, or even thousands, of acres of publicly owned land, keeping it looking good can be a difficult task. Equipment must be bought and maintained, manpower must be hired, paperwork processed, etc.

For just such reasons, many municipalities are looking to private firms to attend to such duties. The operative description is "outsourcing." The Brickman Group Inc., the country's largest design-build landscape architecture and horticultural management company, is involved with the municipal maintenance in many different forms.

The Brickman Group, founded in Chicago more than 50 years ago, is now headquartered in Langhorne, Pa. with its Midwest base of operations in northwest suburban Long Grove. Chicago-area branch offices are situated in Crystal Lake, Northbrook and Warrenville, as well as downtown Chicago.

Among the public properties maintained by Brickman are the grounds of Evanston High School in north suburban Evanston. And though the landscape may serve only as a minor backdrop to the campus activities, it can be an around-the-clock job, says Bruce Wiley, branch manager of Brickman's nearby Northbrook office.

"The challenge is to complete the work in the sporadic number of hours that the campus is available for maintenance," said Wiley. "With students all over the grounds from sunrise to sundown, our crew has to be very flexible and efficient."

The solution, he explains, is to ignore conventional scheduling. Mowers and other power equipment are used only on weekends or before 7 a.m. in areas around the building. Tree spraying is done between 1 and 4 a.m., and weed control, when necessary, is applied at daybreak.

Several steps are taken to make sure that the herbicides and pesticides used are not harmful to the many people who will be on the campus soon after such controls are applied. Brickman subscribers to the Integrated Pest Management (IPM) system, which evaluates the severity of the pest in relation to the health of the plant, and concentrates on keeping plants healthy through proper feeding, pruning and watering so they are able to decide which solution is the most effective and environmentally sound. Even when chemicals are used on the turf as a last resort, they are applied as long as possible before students arrive and are safe for human contact, which is important when people use the site day after day.

Because Evanston High School is an open campus, students are on the lawn areas not only for physical education and sports activities, but lunch periods also. This means plenty of litter, so Brickman crews police the grounds three times a day during the school year and twice a day during the summer months.

Also falling under the maintenance team's jurisdiction are the playing fields, and it is up to Wiley's staff to keep each of them in optimum playing condition. "Each sport has its own specifications for the turf," Wiley explained. "The baseball coaches want a closely clipped infield and longer grass in the outfield. Soccer coaches always want short grass on the field, preferably mowed on game day. Areas of the field, taking the most abuse from the sport are renovated during the summer."

"School grounds are a unique site to work on," said Wiley, "if for no other reason than the limited access to the site and the heavy use of the grounds by the students. No commercial site is so busy, or so widely used."

Municipal maintenance takes other forms as well, however. One example is the work by Brickman in conjunction with the Chicago Park District, by which 50 percent of the landscaping over the Grant Park garage has been kept in good order by the company's crews.

Other projects may not be as daunting, but hit home just the same. For example, the Brickman staff, led by Vice President Mark Hunner, recently contributed to the "Save Our Streetscape" Committee in north suburban Winnetka with plans to renovate the town's West Elm Street business district. This involved relocating several trees and adding 42 new specimens, from seven species, to be planted between the sidewalk and the curb and encircled by both a grate and a guardrail for protection from cars and pedestrians.

Curbed "islands" of trees, with underplantings of broadleaf evergreens, spring bulbs and ornamental grasses, will be installed at each intersection.

Hunner said that while urban landscape - surrounded by cars, road salt and pets - are tough on plant life, the plan for Elm Street is "tolerant of its environment" because of the choice of hardy plants and the use of brick paving blocks used where snow and road salt would otherwise put the chance of survival of grass or shrubs at risk.

"If there is one common denominator of municipal maintenance, it's preparing the landscape for the heavy traffic it will endure, while at the same time working around the traffic itself," said Hunner.

Besides its Philadelphia- and Chicago-area offices, The Brickman Group has offices in St. Louis; Indianapolis; Atlanta; Princeton, Far Hills and Freehold, N.J.; Baltimore, Laurel, Silver Spring and Columbia, Md.; Herndon, Va.; Bethlehem, Berwyn and Willow Grove, Pa.; Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; and Palm Beach Gardens and Boynton Beach, Fla.; serving the Midwest and eastern corridor from New York to Florida.

Gas lighting being used for home security

More and more security-conscious consumers are choosing natural gas lighting for the outdoor areas of their homes," according to the American Gas Association. Gas lights safely and attractively illuminate yards, driveways, sidewalks, pools, gardens, patios and decks at a very low cost.

Unlike electric lights that give off a harsh glare, natural gas lights provide an aesthetically pleasing glow while providing ample illumination. And gas lights usually do not attract bugs.

Some new models have an automatic dimmer feature that reduces illumination during the daylight hours and burns brilliantly at night. This energy-saving feature reduces the already low cost of gas lighting by using two-thirds less gas during the day.

Kitchen and Bath Improvements

Home remodeling and addition projects - especially kitchens and baths - can return up to 104 percent on investment, according to a recent national survey reported by Remodeling magazine.

"Being able to enjoy the new comforts and conveniences of the improvements immediately, however, is the best return," says Jim Sutter, vice president and general merchandise manager of Handy Andy Home Improvement Centers, Inc. "If and when it comes time to sell, homeowners can recoup all or most of what they invested," he noted.

While kitchen and bath improvement projects generally yield a direct return of more than 100 percent on the project investment, the added value goes beyond just measurable dollars. For people selling their homes, well-executed project improvements can also:

- Increase immediately the market appeal of the home
- Shorten the home's selling time
- Put the seller in a better position to name his/her price
- Make the key difference

Design a home/office

America was always a country of entrepreneurship, and in today's world that means home offices springing up all across the nation. In fact, almost 30 million Americans now work out of their homes.

If you're one of the many who have decided it's time to work out of your house, be prepared for a whole new lifestyle. So warns Westinghouse Micarta, a company with more than a passing interest in the home office trend. Micarta decorative laminate is, after all, used in conventional offices, so it stands to reason that at-home entrepreneurs, too, can benefit from this material's good looks and easy care.

When you work at home, you will love such benefits as leaving commuting and dressing-up behind. On the other hand, the dog is almost sure to bark just as an important client calls and cat hairs are the bane of laser printers.

According to Wade Ferguson, Westinghouse Micarta's design expert, at-home entrepreneurs must try to create as professional an environment as possible.

"You work best in a space that's efficient," notes Ferguson. "You must be able to shut out kids, pets and other distractions, and the space must impress a visiting client with its professionalism."

Choosing Space
A separate room is best, of course. The garage, basement or an extra bedroom could yield office space, but remember that if clients are likely to visit, you must have direct access to the outdoors.

"See a company that designs and fabricates custom furniture," advises Ferguson. "They will create a divider, or indeed, a roomful of furniture, to suit your special needs."

Whether you have a separate office or just a corner, put decorative high-pressure laminate to work. Using this good-looking and tough material on cabinetry, shelves, files, desks and even walls will boost your between the house selling or not selling at all.

Major kitchen remodel
Current lifestyle trends are leaning towards more informal dining and entertaining, and people are spending more time in the kitchen than in the past, notes Sutter. Kitchens are becoming the focal point of a home today.

A complete kitchen overhaul can give an older home a new look. Projects to consider include adding new cabinetry, modern, resilient flooring and attractive ceiling treatments. All key improvements should incorporate an efficient layout and design. "At sale time, a home with a kitchen that doesn't need a lot of work and blends utility and visual appeal, will attract a potential buyer more than one with an outdated kitchen," adds Sutter.

Retailers offer Design/Installation

To get the most bang for the buck, non-do-it-yourselfers might consider using the services of a professional, says Sutter. Retailers as Handy Andy, he says, offer in-house installation experts who can execute entire projects. Design experts are also on staff and routinely assist customers seeking direction and help in planning a remodeling project. Using in-store computers and a specialized software package, Handy Andy professionals can generate blueprints and layout options based on the basic room dimensions supplied by the customer.

Bath Remodel
A thorough update of the bath is also among the best investments for a home, especially if it is 25 years old or more.

"Leisure and glamour are two increasingly popular features that homeowners seek in a new bathroom, a room to work out and relax in," notes Sutter. A bright, spacious look is important; skylights in bathrooms are great additions.

Also pay particular attention to storage, advises Sutter, as most older homes don't have enough space for this function. When choosing new return on investment, according to the Remodeling report. A second full bathroom is a must with young buyers who have children or plan to start a family. Complete bath additions should include cultured marble vanity tops, molded sinks, linen storage and bright, attractive lighting. Additions of a family room, master suite and attic bedroom are projects that also yield a good return on investment, note the Handy Andy experts.

Lexington's "Old Salem" Collection, born of two centuries of tradition, provided Lexington Furniture Industries with a wealth of creative and historical subject matter. More importantly, the Moravian legacy of simple craftsmanship, civic discipline, and an awareness of personal values is in sync with today's American consumers who are striving to develop lifestyles with more emphasis on family relationships and a sense of community.

Des Plaines residents to be honored

Des Plaines residents Stuart and Arlene Rosenthal will be honored for their outstanding commitment to Maine Township Jewish Congregation Shaare Emeth at a breakfast benefiting the Jewish United Fund on Sunday, April 17.

Mervin F. Verbit, a specialist in the sociology of religion and in contemporary American Jewry, will be the guest speaker at the event, to be held at the synagogue, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines. The breakfast begins at 9:45 a.m. and costs $12 per person. Reservations can be made by calling Beth Rosenthal at (312) 444-2826.

Funds raised for the 1994 JUF-Israel Emergency Fund campaign help maintain essential human welfare, health care and Jewish education services for people in Chicago and Jews in Israel and 50 other countries worldwide.

Additional monies raised for JUF's Continuing Operation Exodus campaign will pay for the rescue and resettlement of hundreds of thousands of Jews from the former Soviet Union.

The Rosenthals have been active members of Maine Township Jewish Congregation for sixteen years. Both Stuart and Arlene have served on numerous synagogue committees. Stuart has served on the Board of Directors as Treasurer and Vice President and is currently Ritual Vice President. Arlene is active in the Sisterhood. Stuart works for R. Lavin and Sons, Inc. and Arlene is a kindergarten teacher at Sager Solomon Schechter Day School and Music Director of Keshet Sunday School.

Guest speaker Verbit is a professor of sociology at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York. He has written articles on a wide range of Jewish themes, including Jewish identity, Israel-Diaspora relations and the development of Holocaust memorial rituals. He is currently working on a study of religion and ethnicity among American Jewish university students.

Children need Social Security numbers

Does your child have a Social Security number? If not, you should be aware that Federal law now requires that most children have a Social Security number, according to Thomas A. Curin, Social Security manager in Des Plaines.

One of the provisions of the law, Curin noted, "is that 1993 tax returns, to be filed by April 15, 1994, show the Social Security number of any child claimed as a dependent who reaches age 1 by the end of this year."

It is easy for a parent to obtain a Social Security number for a child if he or she has not already done so, Curin said. All the parent has to do is contact the local Social Security office to request a Form SS-5 (Application for a Social Security Card). It's a simple, one-page form that can be completed in a few minutes.

"A person applying for a number for a child will need to submit evidence of the child's age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or lawful alien status," Curin stated. "The person also must provide evidence of his or her own identity."

A public birth record may be used as evidence of age and U.S.

citizenship for a person born in the United States. Another document to establish identity - such as a medical record or day care record - may be required. If the child was born outside the U.S., a birth certificate or passport and a U.S. immigration document can be used as evidence of age, identity, and lawful alien status. The application lists examples of documents that can be used. Only original, or certified copies will be accepted.

"Once we have examined the documents, we will give them back to the applicant and issue a Social Security card for the child usually within 2 weeks," said Curin.

"If you are expecting a baby in the near future, chances are you'll be able to apply for a Social Security card when you're in the hospital," Curin said.

"We urge all parents to get Social Security numbers for their children before the end of 1993 so that they do not have to worry about this matter when they get ready to file their tax returns in 1994," Curin said. To obtain a Form SS-5, call 1-800-SSA (772)-1213 any business day between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Ryan announces computer grants for libraries

Secretary of State and State Librarian George H. Ryan recently announced that 119 libraries in the Greater Chicago area will benefit from three separate grant programs positioning them to use the latest library technologies.

"Over the past few years, my office has been taking steps to pave the way for the interstate system of the future - the nation's 'information highway,'" Ryan said in a news conference at Peoria.

"Each of these new grant programs will help position Illinois libraries to hit the road now that the highway is open for travel."

Greater Chicago area libraries will share approximately $238,000 in grants to buy micro-computer hardware and software through a program called Access Local Library (ALLY). Of these 119 libraries, 76 are school libraries.

The ALLY program is providing up to $2,000 each to 504 public, school, academic or special libraries to facilitate access to the state's electronic library network, as well as other emerging state-wide and national information highways. Approximately $1 million will be distributed state-

Local students earn degrees

Several residents of the north-west suburban area were among the more than 300 men and women who received degrees in Winter Commencement ceremonies recently at Lewis University in Romeoville.

Bachelor's degrees were earned by Howard W. Franzen III and Renata R. Wszolek, of Des Plaines and Laurie Anderson and Daniel P. Terpstra of Park Ridge.

IU Bloomington graduates

The following local students completed their degree requirements from the Bloomington campus of Indiana University in December, 1993: Charles D. Lindley of Des Plaines, and Maria B. Kesala and Kayo K. Kimuro of Park Ridge.

St. John Brebeuf's Golden Agers spring into action

At long last, cabin fever is over and spring is in full swing. What with the Cubes' opener setting off the season, the tulips persistently pushing up their leaves, the gradual greening of the grass, St. John Brebeuf's Golden Agers obviously have more spring in their steps and more bloom in their faces!

Club President Michael Provenzano opened the April business meeting. Henry Piontek led members in a prayer and the pledge of allegiance.

Matt Araszewski conducted the installation of club officers for 1994, who are as follows: President, Michael Provenzano; Vice President, Henry Piontek; Recording Secretary, Virginia Morris; and Treasurer, Steve Bochenek.

After the installation, Michael Provenzano thanked everyone who helped make the club the success that it is, Henry Piontek asked all members to continue cooperating with the officers to keep the club running smoothly.

Felix Jaeh reminded everyone of the club's Anniversary Party, which will be held May 10 at Mr. Peters restaurant in Mount Prospect.

Rose Majewski, the club's spiritual director, spoke of the religious trip being planned for June 16 to the Carmelite Fathers in Munster, IN.

Mildred Licita, the club's perky Sunshine Lady, gave members an up-to-date report on the club's sick members. Birthdays and anniversaries also were men-

Visual Imagery of World War II to be addressed

As part of National Library Week festivities, George H. Roeder, Jr. presents a slide-talk at Skokie Public Library on April 21 at 7 p.m. Roeder is the author of The Censored War: American Visual Experience During World War II.

His book, published by Yale University Press last year, tells the intriguing story of how American opinions about the war were manipulated both by the wartime images that citizens were allowed to see and by the images that were suppressed. Roeder will show what Americans saw during WWII, why they saw it and how it affected the way they perceived the world then and later.

Censorship and propaganda are central to the story. During the war the government made the most systematic and far-reaching effort in its history to shape the visual experience of its citizens.

For example, World War II censors placed all photographs of dead and badly wounded Americans in a secret Pentagon file known as "the chamber of horrors." Later, as leaders became concerned about public complacency, they released some of on Milwaukee Avenue. They had previously had their business on Touhy Avenue between Harlem and Milwaukee Avenues. Nancy said the village sought the Touhy Avenue location for a water reservoir and traded the Milwaukee Avenue location in the 6900 block. It worked well for both parties.

In those early years, after World War II, Edison Lumber's business boomed along with the building developers who were putting up 250 home projects in Niles' Oakton Manor, Grennan Heights, Kirk Lane, NICO and Greenwood Terrace areas. In later years Bob concentrated his business on home remodeling construction and interior alterations.

Four years ago Bob sold the business to four of his employees. He remained the CEO until last December.

Bob's friend, Herb Rapport, told me they had been friends for 57 years, since their high school days at Amundsen High School. He said that entire time they had only one argument. He left no doubt Bob was a lovable guy. He emphasized he loved him dearly.

Herb said Bob and he remained a part of the Gas-House Goosers, a high school club, whose members kept in touch through the years. He said Bob was the leader in the group. He ran the lunches and the golf outings. Herb said Bob was always a go-er. He was hard to travel with because he was always on the go. Herb said Bob would be up at the crack of dawn, ready to conquer that day. He loved breakfasts, and attacked them with gusto. We had the impression that was Bob's modus operandi. He attacked all of life with gusto.

Nancy, who was made an honorary member of the Goosers, told us what a lovable guy Bob was. She said he had one son, Mark and four of her children and seven grandchildren. Nancy and Bob had been married 23 years and she said her children were as much Bob's kids as his own. He said they were his kids and grandchildren, and Nancy's children returned the affection.

Nancy considered Bob a "travel bum." This winter they had been in New Mexico, in the Virgin Islands and then in Palm Desert, California. Previously, they had been in Europe. Nancy thought Bob had a virus infection in Belgium which she believed may have contributed to his heart attack.

In Niles, Bob was a member of many of the active service groups in town. He was a member of the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. Many years ago he was Niles "Businessman Of The Year."

Bob had a good productive life. He had sadness, his daughter passed away ten years ago. But life treated Bob well. He had a great sense of humor. He was warm and lovable. His laid back demeanor belied his always being on the go.

His 57 year friend said it best when he said "I loved the guy." And his wife Nancy added, like a golfer who dies on the greens, if Bob had to go, there was no better place than while he was travelling. She affectionately called him a "Travel Bum."

Like his new-found family, we all cared for Bob. He was a giver. And he received much in return from his family and friends.

screamed, "I'll kill you." According to police, the officer drew his weapon, aimed at the woman and ordered her to drop the knife. She tossed the weapon onto the counter top and was forced to the ground. Another officer arrived at the scene and the offender was handcuffed. Other Niles units arrived and the woman was transported to the Niles Police Department. Police recovered the knife which was photographed and inventoried.

Police said that the couple has a history of domestic disputes which have resulted in numerous calls to the police department, however, the offender's husband refused to sign any complaints.

During processing at the station, the woman expressed anger toward the officer for not killing her and "finishing everything." She also made numerous other statements of a suicidal nature, police said.

The officer signed the complaints charging the woman with two counts of aggravated assault and one count of unlawful use of a weapon. The offender received a recognizance bond and an April 29 court date.

The police officer spoke with a crisis intervention worker who arranged to have the woman admitted to Forest Hospital. She was then subsequently transferred there.

ter. "But there are no guarantees. This is a competitive program."

Royster said Canizzo and the park district are currently working on a master plan which would include development plans for at least three existing parks, as well as plans to acquire more land to bring the park district closer to the national average of 10 acres of park land per 1,000 residents.

Currently, Niles has approximately 3 acres of park land per 1,000 residents. Although the master plan will not be completed until September, the district's grant application must be submitted by the end of June. To apply for a grant, a district must provide proof of ownership or lease rights, a development plan by a landscape architect, maps displaying project sites and costs of the project; all which will be based on the master plan.

According to Royster, when a district applies for a grant, it can propose development of one entire park or one common element, such as tennis courts, in more than one park.

"We have done a lot of work over the last three years," Royster said, "and there is still a lot to be done. Right now we are reviewing everything and should decide which project to focus on in the next couple weeks."

If the Department of Conservation approves the district's June grant submission, Niles will receive the money in December or January for work to be done in the spring and summer of 1995. Royster said the park district plans to apply for a grant every year for the next three years.

"We're hoping to get three grants over a three-year period," he said. "We have every reason to believe that our grant application is just as viable and important as others. But, again, there are no guarantees."

Legion Auxiliary attends patriotic conference

Known as the American Legion Auxiliary Patriotic Conference, a huge assemblage is held each year for the entire state of Illinois emphasizing national security and Americanism.

The 66th such event was recently held at the Marriott Schaumburg and attended by more than a thousand delegates from throughout the state.

Representatives of the Morton Grove American Legion Auxiliary Unit #134 who attended were president Arlene Rook, Americanism Chairman past president Julie Karsten, National Security Chairman past president Nancy Morrison and Public Relations Chairman past president Lorry Nehart.

Dodde Connelly, another past president of the Morton Grove Unit was also in attendance in her role as 7th Dist. American Legion Auxiliary President.

In addition Sandre Kapelanski, past Unit and District President; and her husband Richard, American Legion Cook County First Division commander-elect, also participated.

JoAnn Shafer, Dept. Auxiliary President from Cicero, IL was in attendance and addressed those assembled.

Past National Legion Commander John Geiger gave an impressive speech. The highlight of the day which included luncheon was a talk by Dorothy McDaniel, wife of retired Navy Captain, Eugene McDaniel, who was a former prisoner of war in Vietnam.

Also addressing the group was the Springfield, IL Legion Post Commander who welcomed all to the yearly department convention to be held there this summer.

National Auxiliary president Helen Holcomb of Odessa, TX was a part of the conference also. Her theme for the year is Investing in the Youth-Ensuring the Future.

Delegates in attendance also participated in a social event the night before, a large card party which is hosted by past presidents of the Department (state) of Illinois.

Paying taxes on your Social Security benefits

When Ben Franklin first talked of the certainty of death and taxes, some people would argue he didn't have to take into consideration programs like Social Security. After all, that program didn't come around until much later.

And, for many of today's taxpayers who are Social Security beneficiaries, trying to decide if and how much tax they may owe on their Social Security benefits may be somewhat confusing. The amount of benefits subject to tax and the amount of the taxes themselves have been changing and it's hard to keep up with everything. Here's some information that may make the task easier.

Most Won't Owe Taxes - First, if you're like a majority of Social Security beneficiaries, when you received your Social Security Benefit Statement (Form 1099) in January, the odds are you learned you do not owe any taxes on your benefits. In fact, about 80 percent of all Social Security beneficiaries won't pay taxes on the benefits they received during 1993. Those beneficiaries who do owe taxes are generally in the upper-income brackets.

Income Limits - Second, a word about income: You owe taxes on your benefits when your "combined income" exceeds certain limits. Combined income refers to your (and your spouse's) adjusted gross income as reported on line 31 of your tax return plus one-half of your Social Security benefits plus your nontaxable interest (generally, that's interest received from bonds issued by a state or local government). The Social Security Form 1099 will help you figure your combined income because it shows your total Social Security benefits for the past year. An Internal Revenue Service (IRS) worksheet, Notice 703, is part of your Social Security benefit statement.

Tax Return for 1993 - If you file an individual 1993 tax return and your "combined income" (as defined above) last year exceeded $25,000, up to 50 percent may be taxable.

Tax Return for 1994 - If you plan to file an individual 1994 tax return and you expect your "combined income" in 1994 to be between $25,000 and $34,000, up to 50 percent of your Social Security benefits may be taxable. If you anticipate income above $34,000, up to 85 percent of your benefits may be subject to tax.

Couples who file separate tax returns for 1993 or 1994, probably will pay taxes on part of their Social Security benefits, no matter what their income.

For More Information - Although the focus here has been Social Security benefits, questions about taxes need to be answered by the Internal Revenue Service. So, if you need more information, call IRS toll-free telephone number, 1-800-829-1040.
