Niles reverses decision on branch bank petition

By Tracey Berk

The Niles Village Board reconsidered and approved a matter at its Tuesday meeting that had been previously denied.

At its July 26 meeting, the Board denied a request to put a branch bank office with an outside automatic teller machine and no drive-thru in the Village

Crossing Shopping Center, 5697 Touhy Avenue. However, the petitioner, Security Federal Savings and Loan, redesigned its plans and asked for reconsideration on Aug. 23.

The main concerns regarded the outside ATM and the threat of congestion and double parking.

To appease the Board, the bank redesigned its proposal and relocated the machine on the inside of the building rather than the sidewalk.

"We have redesigned the plan and moved the ATM to the interior to remove attractive nuisances," said the bank's attorney. Continued on Page 35

Drainage study underway for basketball court site

By Tracey Berk

Members of the Niles Park Board met at the Oak School property Friday to discuss alternate plans for a proposed basketball court.

The Park District's plans for development of the soon-to-be Oak Park included two half-court basketball courts to be located on the northeast side of the property along Ottawa Ave. Mayor Nick Blase asked us to relocate the basketball court," said Park Board President Elaine Heinen. "Residents were concerned about little kids on the basketball courts running into the streets."

Actions not enough to stop village lawsuits

Sprint/Centel reviews rate adjustment

By Tracey Berk

Following an unannounced increase in local telephone rates, Sprint/Centel made a move Aug. 18 in an attempt to reduce the bills of its many angry customers.

The company filed a formal request with the Illinois Commerce Commission last week designed to triple the 5 cent calling area and expand the discount period, in response to the negative reaction it received following the rate hike.

"We have listened to our customers and we are taking action, subject to ICC approval, with specific steps to address their concerns," said Thomas A. Norman, vice president and general manager. "We underestimated the impact our new, per-call rates would bring to many of our customers. The full impact was not revealed until the new pricing began appearing on customers' bills in June and July."

Customers became aware of the rate increase, which was approved earlier this year by the ICC and went into effect May 9, upon opening their June and July bills to find that some had doubled and tripled in amounts. Continued on Page 35

by Bud Besser

Three School District 63 board members, sitting as an electoral committee, rejected petitions from residents seeking to place $8 million bond issues on a ballot. The petitioners have ten days to appeal the decision and then a circuit court judge will decide during the following 30 days whether or not the appeal is valid. If it is not, then the school board will approve $8.1 million of bonds without any voter participation.

The board members rejected the petitions on technicalities. The petitions were not bound and were not consecutively numbered. Also, we were told the notice of petition was not correct.

This is the second time in the past two years when a public board in our area opposed the petitions from the people whom they were elected to represent. The former Niles Park Board also resisted the will of its constituents who favored disbanding the park district. In that case the courts upheld the park district's objections.

We know we are writing like we're in a sophomore high school civics class. But what ever happened to the people's right to petition their government? Since when do boards elected by these petitioners ever truly represent them?

Niles Parks seek to save college land

By Tracey Berk

Niles College Seminary is now officially St. Joseph Seminary, the Seminary College at Loyola University Chicago.

The seminary made the move last week from the Niles campus, 7135 Harlem, to the Lake Shore Campus of Loyola University.

"Only the seminary part is gone from the Niles location," said Reverend John Clair, vice president of the college. "The college is still in full operation and will be until the property is sold." Clair said the property has not yet hit the public market and officials are unsure what will take over the 21-acre of land.

"The Cardinal (Joseph Bernardin) has to go to Rome where the decision of what to do with the property is made," Clair said. "They said they would tell me Continued on Page 35

Sister Cities exchange students return with fond memories

The Niles Sister Cities Association held a welcome home party Aug. 12 for the local exchange students returning from Pisa after last month's foreign exchange trip.

The 11 students who traveled to Italy got an opportunity to share their experiences during the banquet at the White Eagle restaurant.

"Visiting Italy had always been a dream of mine, and I never thought I'd actually have the chance to go -- at least not at 15," said Jamie Martello, a junior at Maine South High School. "Last month's trip to Italy was, without a doubt, the most memorable, unforgettable time of my life."

A main theme through all the student's speeches was the friendships developed with both Italians and Americans.

"My new 'American Family', consisting of two brothers and eight sisters, have all helped me learn and deal with many problems," said Michael Marchi, a senior at Maine South. "Their diversity is something I admire greatly; we all had our differences but accepted each other at face value in the end. Continued on Page 35

Lieberman residents visit the past

Helen Dresser, a resident at Council for Jewish Elderly's Lieberman Geriatric Health Centre in Skokie, made a nostalgic trip to see "Becoming American Women: Clothing and the Jewish Immigrant Experience, 1880-1920," where a buttonhook she had used as a girl was among 500 artifacts procured nationwide for the exhibit.

Photographs, letters and other three dimensional artifacts help portray the difficulties that Eastern European Jewish women encountered as they took steps to Americanize themselves. Several Lieberman residents contributed oral histories to the Chicago Historical Society's exhibit which will be on display until November 13. The trip was made possible by funds provided by Friends of C.J.E.

When less medication is better

Today people are taking a renewed and proactive consumer attitude toward health care. It is demonstrated by an increased willingness by patients to ask their doctors the hard questions. It is more far-reaching than just health care plans and the necessity of medical tests. It has reached the most basic level—the need for prescription medications.

If you aren't already asking your doctor why and how much do I need of this medication, now is the time for you to feel comfortable and empowered to do just that.

There is a new catchphrase in long-term disease control with medication. It's called step-down therapy. Very simply it means that when a disease, such as high blood pressure, has been under control for a period of time by a certain dose of medication, it may be time for you to ask your doctor if a lower dose might be just as effective.

According to the Joint National Committee on Detection, Evaluation, and Treatment of High Blood Pressure, the doctor's treatment plan for a patient should include attempts to decrease the dosage of high blood pressure medication while maintaining life style modifications such as weight control, sodium reduction, and exercise.

This new concept has proven highly effective with many medications for other diseases, such as chronic depression. For the millions of Americans on daily medication for disease control, step-down therapy offers an opportunity to do more than save money. It also means taking less medication, which may lower the risk for experiencing harmful side effects. If you are on daily medication, ask your doctor if less would be just as effective. You have the right as a patient and consumer to be kept informed and keep your medications at the safest and lowest effective level.

Township Food Pantry helps families in crisis

by Mark Thompson
Maine Township Supervisor

Believe it or not, some very needy people live in Maine Township. They may be recent immigrants who are just settling in to learn English and the skills they need to support themselves. Or they may be neighbors, people you've known for years, who have suddenly fallen on hard times.

Whoever they are, these are people who often have barely enough money to keep a roof over their heads, much less pay for food and other necessities. When that's the case, Maine Township's Emergency Food Pantry can step in to help.

The pantry operates year-round to help area families who are in crisis situations. Some come to the township on their own while applying for general assistance, while others are referred by local churches, social service agencies or other organizations. However, when they come to the township, if they're eligible for the food pantry's help, they'll get it.

The pantry provides a healthy variety of staple foods: rice, beans, pasta, cereal, soup, juice and canned fruits and vegetables. It even provides diapers and other baby supplies to those who can't afford them. For many families, the supplies they receive from the pantry mean the difference between a lean week and a healthful, nutritious one.

Donations are needed year-round to keep the food pantry well stocked. Fortunately, Maine Township is a community full of people and organizations willing to come to the aid of the less fortunate. The Park Ridge Human Needs Task Force has been especially helpful in making sure we have enough food in stock to keep our doors open.

During the holidays, the Emergency Food Pantry also tries to ensure that needy families will be able to celebrate at their dinner tables. During this past Thanksgiving and Christmas, the pantry met that goal by distributing more than 500 holiday food baskets, which included items like turkeys, hams, and canned cranberries and sweet potatoes.

Donations always are welcome at the Emergency Food Pantry, as are volunteers to help organize the shelves and pack food boxes. If you'd like to offer your support, please call the Maine Township General Assistance Office at 297-2510, ext. 236.

Mayor proclaims School's Open Safety Week

Mayor Nicholas B. Blase proclaimed Aug. 22 through Aug. 26 1994 as "School's Open Safety Week" in Niles, joining the AAA-Chicago Motor Club in its 47th annual "School's Open" campaign. Motorists need to be alerted to use extreme caution when driving near schools as students return to classes.

The younger ones, especially the school children, frequently are not thinking about their own safety as they walk to and from school," said Mayor Blase. "With the invaluable help of the school Safety Patrols guiding students at busy crossings, and the special efforts of motorists, we hope to prevent traffic-safety related injuries."

Among recommendations for motorists, the Mayor advises reviewing drivers' rules that apply particularly to school zones and paying special attention to school Safety Patrols and other crossing guards performing their duties. He also reminds motorists and their passengers to always use their seatbelts.

Free open house at YMCA

The Leaning Tower YMCA, 6330 W. Touhy Ave. in Niles, will unveil its new Mazing Kids child drop-off center with a free public open house on Sunday, Aug. 28, from noon to 4 p.m.

Niles Mayor Nick Blase will be present along with other community leaders and YMCA officials to cut the ribbon on this colorful, imaginative and physically interactive child's playland.

Mazing Kids houses a double-decker unit that links tubes, nets, slides, webs, shoots and tunnels in a series of activity stations that challenge young minds while developing motor skills, agility and self-confidence. During Sunday's Grand Opening Celebration children and adults will be able to explore the maze together. Starting Monday, Aug. 29, adults can drop off children for up to three hours a day while they participate in programs at the Y or leave the child at the facility altogether.

"The Opening Celebration offers children and adults the opportunity to discover what Mazing Kids is all about," said Kathy Holland, Youth and Family Director at the Y. "The afternoon will include special guest appearances by the Lion King and a Red Power Ranger. We'll serve refreshments and raffle off several Mazing Kids birthday parties and a child's bicycle. Other facilities in the Y will be open to our guests and anyone who purchases a YMCA youth membership on August 28, will save the standard joining fee of $25."

The program is presented by the Gabriel Richard Institute, a non-profit, educational organization. The program is non-sectarian and open to all.

For more information, call Tom Rocks at (312) 792-3806.

"The Opening Celebration offers children and adults the opportunity to discover what Mazing Kids is all about," said Kathy Holland, Youth and Family Director at the Y. Parents Work-Out allows adults to leave children (infants to 12) at Mazing Kids while they enjoy a work-out or class at the Y. Cost is $2.50 an hour per child for members and $5 for non-members. Parents Time-Out invites parents to drop off their child (ages 3-11) for up to three hours while they leave the building to run errands or enjoy some private time. Adults will receive a deeper to carry with them while they are off the Y premises. The service costs $5 an hour per child for YMCA members and $7.50 an hour per child for non-members.

Tree seedlings available at Trees For Tomorrow

Red pine, white spruce, Elite White Spruce Hybrids (tm) and blue spruce tree seedlings are available for sale at Trees For Tomorrow, said staff forester Sandy Lotto who advised planting any of the varieties during the late summer and fall months.

"Many people plant trees in the spring, and may believe that's the only acceptable time," Lotto said, "but late summer planting is perfectly O.K. and trees can be planted in the fall right up until the ground freezes."

Lotto said she is available to advise property owners about soil and space requirements as well as tree placement to achieve the advantages of shade in the summer and windbreak in the winter.

"Proper planting of our tree seedlings around your yard can increase property value, improve the appearance of a home, and reduce home energy use by providing shade in summer and wind protection in winter," Lotto explained.

The Trees For Tomorrow fosterer said the seedlings will be available through September and an order form can be ordered by calling 1-800-TFT-WISC or writing to Trees For Tomorrow at P.O. Box 609, Eagle River, WI 54521.

Lotto said each seedling is grown and shipped in its own cell of soil and fertilizer, which means the tree generally survives better than bare root stock. Easy to follow planting instructions are provided with each seedling order.

Edgar signed the legislation during Veteran's Day ceremonies at the Illinois State Fair.

For six years, Mabel had been coming to Ballard to show slides of her trips around the world. "I never dreamed that 10 years later I would be at the rehabilitation suite getting first class treatment following my hip replacement."

Just five days after her 90th birthday, Mabel underwent hip replacement surgery to alleviate the osteoarthritis that was making it painfully difficult for her to get around. A world traveler and published author, this active, accomplished woman was not about to be set back by her surgery - or her osteoarthritis.

So, Mabel came to Transitions in Rehabilitation,™ Ballard's newly remodeled rehabilitation suite. Her therapists helped her to regain her mobility so that she could return to her active lifestyle in the community.

Transitions includes a simulated community, called the OUR TOWN Rehabilitation Center,™ that provides a realistic environment for tackling the everyday activities that become more difficult after surgery or illness. OUR TOWN has an automobile, a bank with an ATM machine, a market with realistically weighed produce, and a gazebo and park setting. There's also a model apartment in Transitions for mastering personal hygiene and home maintenance skills.

Now back at home, Mabel has graduated from a walker to a cane. And the cane is for support only. She expects to be driving again soon, but for now her husband, Al, is taking her to her to her meetings at church and wherever she needs to go.

For more information on Transitions or to schedule a tour, call or write Ballard, 9300 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, IL 60016. (708) 294-2300.

Alternatives to reverse mortgages for seniors

For the first time senior home owners have a choice of how to improve their cash flow.

First Suburban Mortgage Corporation, located in Inverness, is the only Illinois source offering senior home owners both the FHA Insured Reverse Mortgage and the new "Ever Yours" Equity Credit Line. Both programs allow seniors 62 and over the opportunity to use their home equity without repayment for as long as they own and live in their home. Unlike other loan programs, there are no income or credit restrictions used to qualify the borrower. All money received is tax free and does not reduce Social Security or Medicare benefits.

In both programs, the senior retains title to their home and still has responsibility for maintenance, property taxes and insurance. Typically, the loan including accrued interest is repaid when the home is sold. The borrowers or their estate retain any remaining equity. The debt can never exceed the value of the home.

Since there are significant differences between the programs, borrowers and their advisors are encouraged to use a First Suburban Mortgage Senior Lending Consultant to help evaluate which program best meets their needs.

The "Ever Yours" loan can be more attractive to borrowers whose homes are worth considerably more than local FHA lending limits. In northern Illinois this is usually $151,725. If the home's market value exceeds this limit, the "Ever Yours" program may be the more attractive choice. Borrowers should be aware that the "Ever Yours" Equity Credit Line sets aside a greater percentage of home equity for future interest payments. As a result FHA and the "Ever Yours" program can offer different amounts of available equity depending on the borrowers' circumstances.

The "Ever Yours" Equity Credit Line does not require mortgage insurance, reducing the borrowers' costs by hundreds of dollars. There is also no monthly servicing fee as there is in the FHA Reverse Mortgage program. The interest rates may be higher in the "Ever Yours" program.

Both the FHA Insured Reverse Mortgage and the "Ever Yours" Home Equity Credit Line are available to condominium and single family home owners. The "Ever Yours" program is available to more condominium owners than the FHA program.

Call (708) 797-8027 or 1 (800) 600-8353 for more information.

Suburban Home

Landscape designs add glamour to communities

With the advent of a fresh new wave of condominium conversions, many developers are turning to landscape design to put a new "face" on an existing community.

"The rationale for re-landscaping a converted community is much the same as why an individual homeowner would want to redesign the landscape that has been in front of his home for 15 years—to break with the past and put forth a new identity, to match with the new community," said Don Jorgenson, landscape architect for The Brickman Group, Ltd., the country's largest design-build landscape architecture and horticultural management company.

The Brickman Group recently redesigned the landscape at Britany Place, a community of 230 condominium apartments being developed by Home by Invsco. Britany Place is located in Arlington Heights, on Algonquin and Goebbert roads.

Georgia Petropoulos, sales manager for Home by Invsco at Britany Place, echoes Jorgenson's thoughts. "When creating a conversion community, you have to go the extra mile," she said, "and appearance is an important part of presenting that 'extra mile' to the home buyer."

"When we first acquired the property for conversion from rental apartments to condominium ownership nobody had taken the time to improve the landscape," said Ms. Petropoulos. "With Brickman's help we were able to transform the community's certain quality into ownership quality."

Among the improvements made to the site were removing the fencing around two large ponds on the property. The area was then transformed into an "outdoor leisure area" with trellises, a gazebo, benches and a jogging/walking trail. Perennial planting and the use of flagstone added visual interest. The site's many mature trees, including several willows, were treated and corrective pruning was initiated as part of the new plan.

Purchasers of first-floor condominiums were given the option of expanding their patios by almost 60 percent with the addition of brick paver stones. Brick was also a major player in the community's refurbished entryway, combined with wrought iron to match the buildings' Georgian-style exteriors.

"The strong identification with Georgian style meant that the landscape had to match it as well," said Jorgenson. "We had to walk a fine line in designing the landscape to blend with both contemporary sensibilities and Georgian architecture." The pool deck was also resurfaced in the new design, with the addition of a trellis to visually link it to the site's other leisure areas.

Brickman also contributed to other aspects of the renovation at Britany Place, said Petropoulos. "They were involved in updating the outdoor lighting plan, and worked with us and the contractors in such areas as relocating the building maintenance areas and refuse to pickup points."

Brickman, founded in Chicago more than 30 years ago, is now headquartered in Langhorne, Pa. with its Midwest base of operations in northwest suburban Long Grove. Chicago-area branch offices are located in Crystal Lake, Northbrook and Warrenville, as well as downtown Chicago. The company has more than 25 offices in 10 states throughout the East Coast and Midwest.

Ceiling insulation help available

A Northern Illinois Gas program makes it easy for customers who live in single family homes to determine if their ceiling insulation measures up.

Adequate ceiling insulation is one of the most effective ways to keep heating bills low. In fact, ceiling insulation works year-round. By resisting the flow of heat, insulation keeps inside air cool in the summer and warm in the winter. This layer of protection helps conserve energy and keeps the indoor air temperature more uniform throughout the year.

Northern Illinois Gas is offering a free ceiling insulation inspection to single-family residential gas space heating customers. A qualified contractor will inspect ceiling insulation at no obligation to the homeowner. People who decide to install additional insulation may finance it through Northern Illinois Gas. Subject to credit approval, customers can finance up to $1,000 at an annual interest rate of 14 percent. No down payment is required.

In the August/September bills from Northern Illinois Gas, customers will receive a brochure with more information on the program, as well as a reply card to request an inspection appointment. Customers may also call the Northern Illinois Gas Customer Service Department to arrange for a contractor visit. The customer service number is listed in the local telephone directory and on the bills.

Home sales and prices up this year

Chicagoland home sales and home prices both increased during the first half of 1994, according to Roger Peake, regional director of the Century 21 Metropolitan Region in Des Plaines.

"Rising interest rates propelled strong gains during the first quarter of this year," he said. "The reality of higher rates taking hold softened residential real estate advances during the second quarter."

Home sales transactions increased 25 percent during the first quarter of 1994 vs. the first quarter of 1993. Second quarter gains were 3 percent, yielding a 12 percent year-to-year increase for the January to June period.

"Residential sales remain potent, with more buyers than sellers in many neighborhoods and homes selling at a near-record rates," Peake said.

The average sales price rose 5 percent during the first quarter 1994 vs. first quarter 1993. A loss of 1 percent during the second quarter produced a 2 percent average price increase for the first six months of 1994 vs. the same period in 1993. The average home price in metropolitan Chicago is now $124,247.

Realtor tops division

Miguel (Mike) Campuzano, GRI, continues as a top performer for Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors® residential division, recently closing on $84 million in residential sales.

Campuzano was one of the top residential sales producer for Kunkel in 1993, and this year has consistently led the company in sales.

"I try to give my clients the best service possible, and to have the best experience when buying a home," Campuzano said. "It must work, because many of my sales come from referrals."

Acupuncture: Ancient & Modern Therapy

Acupuncture is a complete medical system that is used to diagnose and treat illness, prevent disease and improve well-being. It is effective for physical, psychological and emotional problems. Acupuncture originated in China more than 3,000 years ago and, due to its proven effectiveness, has been embraced throughout the world.

Recently science has determined that human beings are complex bioelectric systems. This understanding has been the foundation of acupuncture practice for several thousand years. Energy circulates throughout the body along well-defined pathways. Points on the skin along these pathways are energetically connected to specific organs, body structures, and systems. If this energy circulation is disrupted, optimum function is affected and this results in pain or illness. Acupuncture points are stimulated to balance the circulation of energy, which influences the health of the entire being.

Treatment with acupuncture needles is the most commonly used technique. However, acupuncturists may utilize other forms of treating these acupuncture points. Since acupuncture promoted the body's natural healing ability, as does chiropractic manipulation, most conditions include: allergies, asthma, anxiety, arthritis, joint problems, back pain, colds, constipation, fatigue, headaches, dizziness, smoking, knee pain, pre-menstrual syndrome, sciatica, stress and many others too numerous to mention.

Prior to their first treatment, many people do not believe that acupuncture can be painless. Different sensations such as warmth or pressure may be felt, but the energetic sensation differs from pain. People often comment that the feeling is pleasant and relaxing. In some cases it is not necessary to use needles at all. Acupuncture points can be stimulated in a variety of ways. Since each person is unique, the number of treatments needed will vary. Just as with chiropractic spinal manipulation, the determining factors are the type of condition, whether the condition is chronic or acute, and the vitality of the individual.

In Illinois, acupuncture can be performed only under the supervision of a physician. Many chiropractic physicians as well as some allopathic physicians (medical or osteopathic) are able to perform acupuncture treatments as well as diagnose the underlying problems. Most practitioners use disposable, pre-sterilized needles and many health insurance policies cover acupuncture treatment. For further information, contact Dr. Bayer of Bayer Chiropractic in Park Ridge at (708) 825-8855.

Medical Center wins major award

Rush North Shore Medical Center is proud to be the recipient of the Silver Award in the Direct Mail category of the 11th Annual Healthcare Advertising Awards. The publishers of Healthcare Marketing Report recognize the excellence of Rush North Shore's New Attitude publication. The competition is the oldest and one of the most prestigious awards programs in the healthcare marketing industry.

There were 2,500 entries from all over the United States in the competition. Rush North Shore faced 103 other hospitals in the direct mail category, some having nearly twice our 289-bed capacity.

Criteria for judging New Attitude included marketing objectives, results and benefits, design and the unique concept.

The award winning issue of New Attitude, which was distributed in the fall of 1993, was only the second issue produced. This second issue was devoted to heart disease and its prevention, and accompanied the opening of our new open heart surgical wing. The main objective of this issue of New Attitude was to acquaint women in the community with the services and free programs provided by Rush North Shore Medical Center. The other objective was to promote a major event that was held in January, "Looking Good: Feeling Good" featured a lecture by Dr. Holly Atkinson from the NBC Today show.

Participants sought for study

Aachoo! Sniffle. Sniffle. Aachoo!

If that's your style these sneezin' days, then you should call the AAAA Drug Study Center, in Des Plaines, where doctors are conducting a series of clinical tests of rhinitis medications.

Rhinitis is the inflammation of the nasal membranes, a particularly common affliction this time of year.

According to Carol Evans, a registered nurse who is manager of clinical research at AAAA Drug Study center, doctors at the Center are looking for patients who have either perennial allergic rhinitis, with significant symptoms now, or seasonal allergic rhinitis.

To determine whether you are eligible to participate in one of the clinical studies, call the Center's special screening hotline, (708) 657-3600. The hotline is open 24-hours a day.

P.R. nursing pavilion changes name, expands services

Resurrection Nursing Pavilion, 1001 N. Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge, has been renamed Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

"The new name reflects the increasing need in our community for rehabilitation services and our continued growth in this area," said Vice President Patricia Tierman.

The 295-bed nursing home has experienced a continuing demand for rehabilitation services. In the last year, the volume of physical therapy and occupational therapy has doubled, and speech therapy has increased 50 percent. The facility now offers therapy six days a week.

This trend is typical in nursing homes today, according to Tierman. "With patients discharged from the hospital sooner, many individuals are sicker when they enter a nursing home and in need of more extensive therapy," she said.

Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center now has specially designed rehabilitation beds. A physician, a physician specializing in physical and rehabilitative medicine, evaluates these patients and prescribes an individual treatment program for each.

Rehabilitation services help patients build their strength and achieve their maximum mobility so they can function at home or in one of the other units of the nursing home. They also assist patients recovering from a stroke or other disabling illness to build up their tolerance for therapy to the level required for more intensive rehabilitation services in the Rehabilitation Unit at Resurrection Medical Center.

The expanded rehabilitation services at Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center enhance patient services and maximize the continuum of care available through Resurrection Health Care. Resurrection's network of rehabilitation services allows continuity of care by the patient's personal physician as well as consultation with a physiatrist.

"We are pleased to offer these new services as we continue to develop programs to meet the changing needs of our residents and our community," Tierman said. "Our name may be new, but the same quality care and compassionate service that our residents have experienced at Resurrection Nursing Pavilion will continue at Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center."

Simple measures can help deter intruders

He has been watching the house for several nights and is ready to strike. The living room lamp surprised him last night when it turned on unexpectedly at 7:43 p.m. Tonight, he figures the pattern will repeat itself and he can enter the empty home. But when the light switches on at 7:36 p.m., he moves on to an easier target.

Although the burglar stalking this home didn't know it, the residents were actually away on vacation. They relied on lamp and appliance timers to create the impression that the family was at home.

"Household timers are an important element in deterring prowlers, but it's essential to avoid an obvious timer-controlled look," said Mike Einstein of Intermatic Inc., a manufacturer of home security and safety products. "In this case, the homeowners used a timer with a random pattern that varies the on/off times slightly each day. As a result, the intruder was frightened away."

Timers are most effective when they create the impression of movement throughout a home at different times of the day or night. The best approach is to combine several timers so that they vary the times lamps and appliances operate.

To help safeguard your home during vacation, consider using a variable timer that enables you to schedule different on/off times for each day of the week. A programmable 24-hour security timer is ideal for controlling entrance lights and other incandescent fixtures. Designed to replace a standard wall switch, it features up to 24 on/off settings per day, as well as a random pattern setting.

It's also a good idea to consider installing low voltage outdoor lighting to illuminate your walk and the perimeter of your home.

Homeowners who like electronic devices will find several different electronic timers available.

Intermatic offers a digital model with a random pattern and four on/off settings each day for controlling lamps, televisions, stereos and appliances.

If you're planning a vacation,

Einstein suggests you follow these other simple measures before leaving town:

• Notify the police to check your house regularly during their patrols.

• Have the post office and your newspaper service hold deliveries.

• Arrange for lawn and shrubbery to be cut if you'll be away for awhile.

• Ask a neighbor to park a car in your driveway to give the impression that someone is home.

• Use a telephone answering machine, but don't indicate you're away from home.

• Following these few simple measures can help reduce your chances of being burglarized," said Einstein.

Evenflo Child Safety seats being recalled

The Illinois Department of Transportation, Division of Traffic Safety, has been informed by the National Highway Traffic Administration (NHTSA) of a recall of Evenflo child safety seats manufactured by Evenflo Juvenile Furniture Company, Inc.

The seats are being recalled because a plastic sleeve intended to serve as a latching aid sometimes slips over the buckle tongue and causes difficulty when buckling a child into the seat. Without proper buckling, the seat may not provide adequate protection in the event of a crash. The plastic sleeve is located at the base of the webbing where the webbing joins the seat buckle tongue.

The child safety seats involved include Evenflo's Champion Model No. 224, Ultra I Model No. 231 and Ultra II Model No. 232. All were manufactured between February 8 and August 4, 1993.

Owners of the seats can contact the manufacturer to learn how to remove the plastic sleeve latching aid. Owners can contact the manufacturer by calling 800-837-4002, or write Evenflo Juvenile Furniture Co., Inc., 1801 Commerce Drive, Piqua Ohio 45356.

Ryan began working on his "zero-tolerance" proposal in spring 1993, assembling a traffic safety coalition to craft the measure and then work for its passage last spring.

Ryan applauds signing of 'Use It & Lose It'

Secretary of State George H. Ryan recently applauded Gov. Jim Edgar for signing the "Use It & Lose It" bill into law, calling the measure the most significant action taken against drunk driving in nearly a decade.

"The last time an anti-drunk driving bill of this magnitude passed was in 1985, when Illinois law was overhauled to automatically suspend the driving privileges of anyone arrested for DUI," Ryan said.

"The number of alcohol-related highway deaths has plunged ever since that law took effect. This law is going to help us save even more lives, especially the lives of our young people."

Ryan's "Use It & Lose It" proposal, which takes effect Jan. 1, will make it illegal for anyone under age 21 to drive with even a trace of alcohol in their systems.

Violators will receive a three-month suspension on a first offense or a yearlong suspension on a repeat offense. Minors refusing to be tested on a first arrest will face a six-month suspension or a two-year suspension on a subsequent arrest.

"This law, for the first time, provides appropriate penalties for minors who drink and drive," Ryan said.

"In the past, minors who drink and drive have been held to the same standards as adults, even though it's illegal for minors to drink at all."

Drivers under age 21 are greatly over-represented in traffic fatalities, and alcohol is a factor in too many of those crashes, Ryan said.

"This is a law that's going to help more young people make it to adulthood," he said.

"We've already begun working on an educational effort to drive home the message, and I invite parents, law enforcement, schools and municipalities across Illinois to join me."

Teach children pedestrian safety rules

By George H. Ryan

Parents and legal guardians are encouraged to teach young children pedestrian safety rules before the start of the school year. Pedestrians are the most at risk in traffic, but they share responsibility for their safety with motorists.

Q. How can I best educate my child about pedestrian safety?
A. Walk with your child along the school route to become familiar with traffic conditions and to point out potential hazards.

Q. What are the most important pedestrian safety tips to teach my child?
A. Look left, right, then left again before crossing a street, and cross only at crosswalks. Do not cross from between parked cars.

• Look for any approaching vehicle and make sure the driver sees you and stops before crossing the street. Try to make eye contact with the driver.

• Stay on sidewalks whenever possible. Walk facing traffic if there is no sidewalk.

• Know the meanings of and obey traffic signs and signals.

• Obey crossing guards and school bus drivers.

Q. What other pedestrian safety sources are available from the Secretary of State's office?
A. The Rules of the Road booklet and Seemore the Safety Clown coloring book are free at all driver's license facilities.

'Zero tolerance' legislation signed

Gov. Jim Edgar recently signed "zero tolerance" legislation that will result in the automatic suspension of driving privileges for underage drinkers found to have even a trace of alcohol in their system.

"We have made great strides in combating drunk driving in Illinois, but too many people under 21 still drink and drive. Those underaged drinkers should be ready to face the responsibilities and consequences of their adult actions," the Governor said.

"We know that the best deterrent to drunk driving is swift and certain punishment through driver's license sanctions. This legislation sends a clear message to underage drinkers that consuming alcoholic beverages and driving will not be tolerated."

The legislation, proposed by Secretary of State George Ryan, allows the Secretary of State to impose administrative driver's licence sanctions against any driver younger than 21 when a chemical test reveals any amount of alcohol concentration following arrest for traffic violations.

"The last time an anti-drunk driving bill of this magnitude passed was in 1985, when Illinois law was overhauled to automatically suspend the driving privileges of anyone arrested for DUI," Ryan said.

"The number of alcohol-related highway deaths has plunged ever since that law took effect. This new law is going to help us save even more lives, especially the lives of our young people."

Violators of the law will receive a three-month suspension of their driver's license for a first offense and a one-year suspension for repeat offenses. The penalties are doubled - to six months and two years - for young drivers who refuse to be tested. It is effective Jan. 1, 1995.

Four arrested in elaborate credit card fraud

Montgomery Ward security observed four subjects and an unidentified male enter the store at 6:21 p.m. Aug. 21.

The subjects separated and two went to a register attended by a 19-year-old Chicago man. They purchased $242.39 in clothing with an Express Riverboat Casino credit card.

While security contacted the credit card company to figure out if the purchase was legal, two of the other subjects attempted to make a $37.81 purchase with a credit card. The purchase was denied and the two attempted to leave. When approached by security, the subjects tried to flee on foot.

After a brief foot chase, the two were apprehended by police. Another offender was taken into custody near a car. The three said they were with two subjects who gave them a credit card and told them to see a specific cashier when making purchases. That employee came to police as requested after work and was released without charge.

Police determined that the magnetic stripping on the credit card had been replaced with an American Express number belonging to a Chicago man who wished to prosecute.

At 11:30 p.m., assistant state's attorney Ina Kantor approved felony possession of an altered credit card for the three subjects arrested; a 22-year-old Chicago man, a 25-year-old Chicago man and a 19-year-old Glenview man. A fourth subject, a 20-year-old Chicago man, came to police to claim his towed car. He denied involvement in the theft and allowed police to search his car. The officers found the $242.39 illegal purchase in his trunk and he was charged with possession of stolen property.

The manager checked the bill with a marker. The marker changed colors indicating that it might be counterfeit.

Police contacted a secret service agent who said that the serial number appeared to be good. The bill was from 1950, markers do not work on them at times, according to the agent.

The Niles man was released without charge.

Housekeeping suspected in ring theft

Unknown offenders removed one diamond ring, valued at $1,500 from a 48-year-old Alabama woman's hotel room between 9:30 a.m. Aug. 19 and 1:30 p.m. Aug. 20.

The ring was the only piece taken from a pile of jewelry that included necklaces, earrings and six other rings.

Police said the victim believes that housekeeping may be responsible for the theft at the hotel, located in the 6300 block of West Touhy. The woman filed a complaint with hotel management.

The Niles man was released without charge.

Counterfeit bill investigation

An 18-year-old Niles man used what appeared to be a counterfeit $10 bill to buy food at Arby's, 322 Golf Mill, at 12:47 p.m. Aug. 21.

The manager checked the bill with a marker. The marker changed colors indicating that it might be counterfeit.

Police contacted a secret service agent who said that the serial number appeared to be good. The bill was from 1950, markers do not work on them at times, according to the agent.

The Niles man was released without charge.

Officer discusses safety tips for disabled

Given Sorell, coordinator of Community Unity Week, presents a National Night Out Against Crime hat and t-shirt to Park Ridge Officer Peter Bostrom in appreciation for his presentation on safety tips for the disabled. Bostrom recently spoke to members of A-SCIP, Maine Township's support group for disabled people, a part of community Unity Week, a series of events aimed at bringing township residents closer together.

Lindquist urges use of township tax money for flood control

Dear Editor:

From reliable sources I have learned that Mark Thompson, Supervisor of Maine Township Government is stonewalling against the expenditure of tax monies for flood control in Maine Township. Thompson says that there is no money and that State Statutes won't allow spending of tax monies for flood control. Bill Fraser, Commissioner of Roads and Bridges said that $1,000,000 is available in Maine Township Government coffers.

The mayors, aldermen, and city trustees in Des Plaines, Niles, and Park Ridge have committed to flood control in Maine Township. Also, Illinois Department of Transportation said "YES" to flood control in Maine Township. These Governments and IDOT back their commitment up with tax dollars, and flood control is top priority for tax spending in Maine Township. Flood control ranks far above tax giveaways to charities, or building an unneeded building. Just listen to people who have come to Maine Township government begging for flood control, and a few in tears because they fear for the health of their children during floodings.

Thompson, judging by his last letter about a unity walk in unincorporated Maine Township, has been spending too much time on sidewalks under the hot sun and not enough time planning for the long term safety and welfare of Maine Township residents. Please listen and act now. Maine Township government, because the golden moment to carry plans for flood control into actual flood control will soon pass. Unplug the hoarded Maine Township tax coffers and let them flow out to end the flooding nightmare in Maine Township. Act now before "flood plain" designation becomes a reality in unincorporated Maine Township. Please heed the anti-flooding directives that have been given Maine Township government for years, or the idea that Supervisor Thompson and the government he supervises are in water over their heads, will be very current now and at election time, April, 1997.

Sincerely, Bonnie B. Lindquist

Funding your child's education

"Even though school has let out for the summer, investing for your child's education should be a year-round commitment," said Robert J. Mortimer, Jr., senior president and branch manager of the Kemper Securities' Northbrook office. Kemper Securities, Inc. cites the high cost of post-secondary programs and the duration of a student's education as primary factors that make education a year-round requirement.

"Not only must parents be aware of today's college costs, they must also estimate those costs in tomorrow's inflated dollars," said Mortimer. "The duration of a student's education is an added uncertainty."

Many college programs now take more than four years to complete, and an increasing number of college graduates are seeking advanced degrees. For some families, this can mean one to four extra years of education fund reserves. Furthermore, many families believe in private education at all levels, thus extending even further their funding needs.

Kemper Securities offers several plans in creating an investment program to fund post-secondary education. The first step is to establish a timetable. "Time really is money, at least where your investments are concerned," said Kristine Coffey, Kemper Securities senior vice president responsible for the firm's education funding programs.

Investing early allows the family the potential to earn more from compounded earnings Coffey said. For example, if parents invest $10,000 when their child is six, assuming a hypothetical eight percent taxable return (28% tax rate with earnings compounded monthly), that child may accumulate $19,600 for his or her education by age 18. (All examples are for illustrative purposes only and are not indicative of any specific return an investor may receive from a particular investment).

Parents should be sensitive to tax considerations of the investments used in their education portfolio. They should manage the risk of the investment appropriately depending on the time frame. If they are investing early, they may wish to consider investing in growth stock investments.

These investments are not subject to taxation on unrealized appreciation. Another option to minimize tax liability is to invest in municipal bonds. These fixed income investments are exempt from federal taxation on earnings.

The second step is to outline exactly how the money will be used. Coffey recommends that parents ask themselves the following questions to help clarify their education investment goals:

- How many years do I have until my child starts college?
• Which school is my child likely to attend?
• How many years will he or she require funding?
• What percentage of a total college education will my contribution represent?

Lastly, parents must decide on a saving strategy based on their personal financial situation. Parents may opt to make a single payment toward their child's education. This lump sum payment can often be made through investing job bonuses, inheritances, or gifts from relatives. By investing nearly $38,000 when the child is one-year old, assuming a six percent after-tax return on investments, they will be able to pay nearly $29,000 per year toward a four-year college education for their child. Given the same after-tax return, parents may achieve the same results by investing $323 per month, over the same 17-year period. While the total investment is greater, the smaller payments often fit easier into an active family's budget.

District seeks funding for canoe facility

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan announced that the Forest Preserve District of Cook County is seeking funding from the State of Illinois' Boat Access Area Development Program for the development of a canoe access facility on the upper Des Plaines River at the Allison Woods Forest Preserve, Northbrook.

The District's proposed plans include the development of a paved access to the waters edge and a structure to launch the canoes. The project would be financed on a cost-share basis with the District providing up to 50 percent of the cost.

The state's Boat Access Area Development Program provides monies for assistance to local agencies from revenue generated by the marine motor fuel tax. The funds are administered by the Illinois Department of Conservation and are reimbursable.

Development of a canoe access area will enable residents to follow the lead of Native Americans who at one time portaged from the Des Plaines River at Lake Ave. Woods or at Dam #2, to the North Branch of the Chicago River.

Artists on hand in Evanston

Art often leaves us wondering: "How'd they do that?" That's a sentiment overheard at many art festivals, but not one likely to be uttered at Evanston's second annual "Show of Hands" art celebration.

"This year, people will experience the rare opportunity to meet artists and witness first-hand the creative process," said Ron Isaacson, owner of Mindscape Gallery.

On Sunday, Aug. 28, works by more than 2,000 celebrated artists will be exhibited in Evanston, and many of these craftspeople will be on hand to participate in demonstrations, seminars and workshops at the more than 25 galleries involved in the celebration. The event runs from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Show of Hands: A Sunday Afternoon of Arts in Evanston," held in conjunction with the 10th Annual American Craft Exposition and sponsored by Evmark, the Evanston Chamber of Commerce and Mindscape Gallery, will offer visitors and Evanston residents the opportunity to sample and enjoy the city's rich and varied cultural community. Free trolleys, sponsored by American Express, will transport visitors between the city's many galleries, art centers and artists' studios, as well as to a variety of local dining establishments and the American Craft Exposition held at Northwestern University.

Visitors will have the opportunity to view artists crafting jewelry with beads at Originals; a frameworking demonstration at Mindscape Gallery, where artists will demonstrate this intricate glassmaking technique; and a kaleidoscope-making demonstration and discussion at Off The Hoof Gallery.

For further information regarding the event, contact Adam Rod at the Evanston Chamber of Commerce, (708) 328-1500 or Mary Kay Wenders of the Show of Hands Committee at (708) 864-2660.

Ko-Thi auditions

If you are a dancer, musician, 18 years or older and in love with African culture, Ko-Thi Dance Company, Inc. wants you.

The company will conduct auditions for musicians and dancers on September 1 at 5:30 p.m. in Mitchell Hall 256, Mitchell Hall, located on the campus of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, at the corner of Downer and Kenwood Avenues.

Participants need not prepare a performance piece for the audition. The assessment of the artists will occur during a master class conducted by senior Ko-Thi members. Dancers should come prepared to dance and musicians should bring their own instruments.

The Milwaukee-based company has earned an international reputation in African and African American dance and music. It is the only professional company of its type in the state and one of the few, nation-wide, training performers in the African-based performing arts.

Ko-Thi has 25 years experience in nurturing performing artists. In fact, many of the former members of the company have gone on to perform with some of the biggest names in the industry.

Those selected during the auditions are invited to participate in the scholarship training program. This involves a series of classes, provided free of charge by the company. Successful completion of that training, which often takes a year or more, will lead to the opportunity to perform on stage with company.

Performers interested in working with the company should attend the auditions on Sept. 1. For more information, please contact the Administrative office at (414) 273-0676 during business hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Everyone (students, faculty, staff and community members) are invited to attend this free performance on Friday, Aug. 26 from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the courtyard at Oakton Community College's Des Plaines Campus, 1600 E. Golf Rd.

Kenning & Company, consisting of four local musicians, are known for their ability to perform a wide range of music, while maintaining a distinctive group sound which blends well with reggae and blues tunes.

The performance is co-sponsored by Oakton's Board of Student Affairs (BSA) and the College Program Board (CPB). For more information regarding this and future BSA or CPB events, call (708) 635-1900.

Lightship to benefit children's telethon

Blockbuster Video's Blockbuster Lightship is coming to Chicago! Currently in the second year of its "Children's Miracle Tour," the lightship is touring the country in support of The Children's Miracle Network.

On Sunday, Aug. 28, the lightship will arrive in Chicago as the highlight of Blockbuster's fundraising promotion to benefit The Children's Memorial Medical Center.

Participating Chicago-area Blockbuster stores are currently conducting the "Give a Kid a Lift" promotion which offers customers the opportunity to win a ride in the lightship. Customers who purchase a paper "Blimp" for $1 will have their name entered into a drawing. Three lucky winners will be drawn from all entries. All of the money raised from the paper blimp sales benefits The Children's Memorial Medical Center. There is no purchase or rental required for contest entry.

The money raised by Blockbuster Video will support patient care programs and research at Children's Memorial. Recently named in U.S. News and World Report as one of the nation's top 10 pediatric hospitals, Children's Memorial is a 265-bed medical center dedicated to the care of children's pediatric research and medical education. Each year, Children's admits nearly 11,500 patients, has close to 200,000 outpatient visits and performs approximately 11,000 surgeries.

College class on aging to be offered

The Sociology and Psychology Department at Illinois Benedictine College will offer a new course this fall semester entitled, "Sociology of Aging." The course will be offered off campus at Devonshire Retirement Center in Lisle.

Jane Boumgarden, associate professor of social work at Illinois Benedictine, will be instructing the class. It is her hope that by offering the class off campus in a retirement center that the class will reflect a mix in ages, which is conducive to teaching a class on aging.

"As our post-industrial society increasingly becomes older and age-segregated," Boumgarden said, "it is important in undergraduate curriculums to provide opportunities for traditional college age students to be exposed to older students in the classroom. For many students considering the helping profession, consideration of working in the field of gerontology has not been seriously looked at due to lack of exposure to the older population and/or feeling their own age prohibits them from having any meaningful clinical contribution. An inter-generational class can provide meaningful opportunities for both age groups as they interact in the classroom."

If you would like more information on the new course or if you would like to speak with Boumgarden, contact the Office of Institutional Relations at Illinois Benedictine College by calling (708) 960-1500, ext. 2900.

The fall semester begins Monday, Aug. 29 and will run through Saturday, Dec. 10. Students may apply for academic credit or audit the class. There is a 50 percent tuition reduction for individuals 65 and older. Interested students may register by calling the Registrar's Office at the college at (708) 960-1500, ext. 4500.

MONNACEP registration is underway

Registration for fall classes offered through MONNACEP, Oakton Community College's Adult Continuing Education Program, is currently underway.

A variety of classes in arts and culture, business, career assistance, data processing, psychology, photography and more are offered at Oakton's Des Plaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road and Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie, and at local high schools throughout the district.

In-person registration is available at either Oakton campus Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Evening registration is held Monday through Thursday from 5 to 7 p.m., Sept. 6, 8, 12 and 14 at the Des Plaines campus and Sept. 12 to 15 at the Ray Hartstein Campus.

Weekend registration is held on Saturdays Sept. 17 and 24 from 9 a.m. to noon on both Oakton campuses.

Students who have registered for Oakton or MONNACEP classes within the last five years and have a correct social security number on file, may register using the Touch-Tone system by dialing (708) 635-1616.

For a brochure or more information about spring fall classes, call the MONNACEP office at (708) 982-9888.

Newspaper & Yearbook staff banquet held

The newspaper and yearbook staffs at Maine East recently held their annual banquet to announce '94-'95 editors and recognize individual achievement.

Ten students from the two publications were presented staff recognition pins. They include yearbook staff members Stacie Elder of Park Ridge, Jennifer Lee of Morton Grove, Megan McCoy of Niles, and Mary Peter of Des Plaines as well as newspaper staff members Don Baron of Morton Grove, Jariya Chengcharoen of Niles, Scott DeWulf of Niles, Pete Gayness of Des Plaines, Heidi Lapin of Niles, and Melissa Walters of Park Ridge.

Newspaper editor-in-chief Eunice Park of Glenview and yearbook editor-in-chief Sun Lee of Des Plaines made the presentations to the ten, who have worked on Maine East publications for two years and have demonstrated responsibility, diligence, and a genuine interest in providing students a true and thorough picture of Maine East.

In addition, newspaper editors were announced for next year. Don Baron of Morton Grove and Pete Gayness of Des Plaines will head the Pioneer staff as co-editors-in-chief. News editors will be Neela Ghoshal of Des Plaines and Alice Lee of Morton Grove, editorial editor Riva Khoshaba of Niles, features editor Vince Rock of Des Plaines, and sports editor Heidi Lapin of Niles.

Yearbook editors will be officially named next fall.

Back to school means required immunizations

It is nearly back to school time and the Illinois Department of Public Health recently reminded parents that besides buying school supplies they should check to be sure their children have received all of the state required immunizations.

Illinois law mandates that children in elementary and secondary public and private schools be immunized against seven childhood diseases, and children entering kindergarten for the first time must show proof they have been screened for lead poisoning.

"Preventable childhood diseases continue to be a threat to our children because parents often forget to follow the immunization schedules," said Dr. John R. Lumpkin, state health director.

"The surest protection we can provide children, and those around them, is to see they are properly immunized."

Lumpkin said children without the mandated vaccinations may not be permitted to attend school until the immunization requirements are met. The only exceptions are for those parents who have filed a religious or medical exemption with the school district.

In addition to proof of immunizations, state law requires children 6 months to 6 years of age entering a licensed day care, preschool or kindergarten provide proof of a screening for lead poisoning.

"Lead poisoning is a problem that knows no socioeconomic boundaries," Lumpkin said. "Even a small amount of lead in small children can inhibit their ability to learn and slow their development because their bodies absorb lead more easily than an adult's does."

The state lead screening law does not exclude children from school if they have not been tested for lead poisoning, however, school districts can require the screening as a prerequisite to enrollment.

Children entering Illinois elementary and secondary schools for the first time must meet the following immunization requirements:

- Measles - Two doses of live measles vaccine, with the first dose at age 12 months and the second dose at least one month after the first; a physician-diagnosed case of measles; or laboratory evidence of immunity.
- Polio (TOPV) - Three or more doses administered at appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster and received on or after the fourth birthday.

- Diphtheria, Tetanus (lock-jaw), Pertussis (whooping cough) (DTP) - Four or more doses administered at the appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster received on or after the fourth birthday.
- Mumps - Vaccine at age 12 months or later as a physician-diagnosed case of mumps.
- Rubella - Vaccine at age 12 months or later or laboratory evidence of immunity.

School districts must demonstrate at least 90 percent compliance with state-mandated immunization requirements by October 15 each year or face a 10 percent loss of state aid.

Students born after 1956 who are entering public or private universities or colleges in Illinois for the first time must provide proof of the following:

- Measles - Two doses of live measles vaccine at age 12 months or later, with the second dose at least one month after the first; a physician-diagnosed case of measles; or laboratory evidence of immunity.
- Tetanus/Diphtheria - Three or more doses of DTP or tetanus and diphtheria vaccine, the last dose being within 10 years of enrollment.

- Measles - Vaccine at age 12 months or later or proof of a physician-diagnosed case of mumps.
- Rubella - Vaccine at age 12 months or later or laboratory evidence of immunity.
- Vaccines are made available statewide to local health departments and public clinics through state and federal resources," Lumpkin said. "There is no reason any child in Illinois should not be properly immunized because of an inability to pay."

For information on obtaining immunizations, individuals may contact their physicians, local health departments or the Illinois Department of Public Health Immunizations Section at (800) 323-GROW (TDD and voice).

Mario J. Scaduto

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Mario J. Scaduto, son of Laura Scaduto of Des Plaines, was recently promoted to his present rank while serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS George Washington, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The 1991 graduate of Maine West High School joined the Navy in July 1991.

Teach youngsters early about school bus safety

Riding to school on the traditional yellow bus is an exciting activity for a new student, but parents should stress safety from the beginning, says AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

Although more than 22 million pupils nationally ride school buses each day, being transported to school generally poses few dangers.

However, AAA-Chicago Motor Club warns it is not completely without risk. During the 1991-1992 school year (the latest national statistics available), an estimated 110 persons, including 35 pupils, were killed in school bus accidents. Another 8,300 students were injured.

Knowing where to stand and being alert to traffic while waiting for the bus, behaving while riding it and exiting safely can make an important difference in a student's life.

"As you'd expect, students are injured most often when the school bus approaches or leaves a loading area," said Anne Blanchard, AAA-CMC's administrative manager of public affairs. "Incidents usually occur when children near the bus move out of the driver's line of sight. This might happen when they bend down to pick up a dropped article, or walk behind the bus or where they can't be seen by the driver."

To ensure that the ride to and from school is as safe as possible, AAA-CMC offers safety tips for parents of first-time school bus riders:

Make sure the student leaves home early enough to arrive at the bus stop on time.

See that your child waits for the bus in a safe place well off the roadway and remains quiet and orderly. Remind him or her that horseplay can cause someone to fall or be pushed into the path of the bus or another vehicle.

Tell youngsters to remain seated while the bus is in motion.

Stress the importance of keeping aisles clear at all times. Bookbags or lunch boxes should never be left where someone might trip over them.

Make sure your child knows the dangers of throwing things inside the bus or out the window. An object might hit the school bus driver or another motorist who might lose control and cause a collision.

Let children know the importance of keeping their head and arms inside the bus at all times.

When exiting, remind students to avoid snagging backpack straps, drawstrings or loose clothing on bus handrails. If they need to cross the street, tell them to do so well in front of the bus where they can see the bus driver. This way, there's a good chance the driver can see them, too.

AAA-CMC also has tips for motorists who drive through school zones or on roads with school buses.

Obey posted speed limits in school zones, remembering that schools are open.

Be alert to directions from school crossing guards.

Be alert when approaching corners patrolled by members of the School Safety Patrol.

When a school bus is loading or unloading children, motorists must stop by law and remain stopped until the bus driver turns off the stop lights and the bus resumes movement, or the bus driver signals motorists to proceed.

Stay back at least four to six seconds when following a school bus.

College bound students may need extra insurance

Students' insurance needs have changed dramatically over the past ten years. Today, young men and women are packing more than just clothes, textbooks and highlighters into the back of their cars as they head off to college. Some own expensive personal computers, printers, stereos and other electronic equipment. Many have their own automobiles with sophisticated sound systems.

"Whether they live in a dormitory or an off-campus apartment, college students may not always be covered by their parents; homeowners and auto insurance policies," said Lowell Beck, president of the National Association of Independent Insurers (NAII). "That is why it makes good sense for parents and students to check their insurance coverage with their agent or insurance company representative before going off to college this fall."

The housing shortage on many college campuses has forced students to live in apartments, homes and a variety of other off-campus accommodations. In some cases, students living in a dormitory may be covered by their parents' homeowner's policy. However, limits vary from insurer to insurer and there are special restrictions on virtually all policies. If a student lives off-campus, or if they have more than just clothes and books in their dorm room, a renter's or tenant's insurance policy may be needed.

It may also be a good idea to take students off their parents' auto insurance policy and buy a new policy for the students' vehicle. Students from urban areas, where average insurance premiums are higher, who attend college in a more rural community, may find their premiums reduced by making such a change.

Additional liability insurance is also something to consider, according to the NAII. "In most cases," said Beck, "a parent's homeowner's insurance policy will provide sufficient liability protection for the student's actions if he or she should happen to injure someone else in an auto accident, dormitory mishap or fraternity prank. But in certain circumstances, parents may want to obtain an umbrella policy to provide additional financial protection."

Beck suggests that parents and students sit down with their insurance agent or company representative before school begins to review their insurance needs. If additional insurance is necessary an endorsement can be added to the parents' policy or a new policy can be purchased to cover the student while attending college.

Cross country summer camp

St. Patrick and Resurrection High Schools participated in their first cross country camp this summer, held at Catherine Chevalier Woods in Chicago.

The camp was created with a mixture of fun as well as honing skills for the runners. The students range from freshmen to seniors, with incoming freshmen participating also.

Runners worked on the basics of starts, pacing and flexibility. Drills, relays and practice races were conducted and racing strategies were planned.

Camp coordinator Casey Ramel-Hockesema said that the camp was a success.

Project Schoolroom continues

Project Schoolroom will continue at Maine East next year, but computers used for Project Homeroom will be returned to the classroom. Both programs use an interdisciplinary approach to teaching which allows teachers to work together to share ideas and show students the connections between subjects, but Project Homeroom allowed up to 96 students to use computers in their homes to supplement the interdisciplinary approach.

Project Homeroom began three years ago as a joint project between District 207 and Ameritech Telephone, Centel, and IBM. About 100 freshman students received computers for their homes which linked them to the school's mainframe computer and computerized library via telephone lines. District 207 continued the project last year with a new group of freshman students, but also developed Project Schoolroom, another control group of students who covered the same curriculum without the aid of technology.

A study completed for the district by Jeffrey Hecht, an assistant professor at Illinois State University, showed that Project Homeroom students generally performed better than other freshman students in algebra, English, world cultures, and biology during the first semester of this year. But Project Schoolroom students performed statistically better than Project Homeroom students. According to Hecht, the difference in the performance of Homeroom students and Schoolroom students may have been caused by the technology itself.

The decision to end Project Homeroom was also prompted by the end of corporate sponsorship for the program; however, many of the technology activities incorporated in Homeroom will be incorporated into Schoolroom.

According to James L. Elliott, superintendent, the district may extend the interdisciplinary approach to Maine South and Maine West in the future.

In other findings, the study also showed that the grade point averages of the first group of Project Homeroom students, who are now juniors and dispersed in other classes, are statistically higher than their classmates in English, social science, and science. Math grade point averages are about the same.

Niles store launches school supplies drive

Greg Oehn, owner of Mail Boxes Etc., 8926 Greenwood Ave., Niles, is collecting back to school supplies for youngsters lacking funds to purchase items not provided by the schools. The drive ends Sept. 10.

His store is among 43 Mail Boxes Etc. stores throughout the greater Chicago area inviting customers and the general public to drop off donations of needed items which he will ship to the Homeless Helpline. The program was initiated six years ago by the Helpline, a coalition of agencies based in Chicago, which recognized that children going to school without such necessities as notebooks, folders, glue sticks, pens, crayons, book bags or index cards resulted in loss of self-esteem, embarrassment, truancy and the inability to perform at their best in class.

Last year, almost 1,000 children received supplies distributed by the Helpline. Fliers listing supplies needed by preschoolers to high school seniors are available at Mail Boxes Etc.

College scholarships available

Remarkably, over $6.6 billion of this funding goes uncollected each year simply because people do not ask for it according to a report by the National Commission on Student Financial Aid. Now, a new academic funding publication, updated for 1994, is available to help step students through the process and to outline their options and identify sources for assistance.

For information on how to receive academic funding and scholarships, send a No. 10 self addressed, double stamped envelope plus $2 to cover handling to the National Academic Funding Administration, 26 Coe Drive, Suite 1300, Durham, NH 03824.

Illinois students benefit from state grant increases

ISAC Executive Director, Larry E. Matejka, said, "Even more so than in previous years, eligibility for MAP was affected by funding constraints during fiscal year 1994. The increased funding provided to MAP will enable ISAC to restore purchasing power lost by students in previous years."

Slow down in the school zones

Most children think of school as their second home, a place where they feel safe. Youngsters may be inattentive as they cross the street to enter or exit a school bus.

The National Safety Council reminds motorists to use extra caution when driving in school zones. Watch for children, slow down and pay attention to school zone signs.

Transportation plan expands public involvement

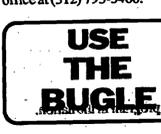

Increased public awareness and participation in northeastern Illinois' transportation decision-making process is the focus on the Chicago Area Transportation Study's (CATS) proposed Public Involvement Plan.

The proposed plan was released August 8 for a 60-day public review and comment period ending October 6 at 4:30 p.m. The plan identifies CATS' efforts to include those groups and individuals who want to be involved in transportation decisions.

One of the features of the proposed plan is a new committee structure responding to the need for more direct public access to decision-making. Other elements include a speakers bureau made up of representatives from the area's transportation planning and programming agencies that will be available to groups requesting speakers for meetings and other activities. A new 24-hour hotline, (312) 793-7818, with recorded information on upcoming committee meetings and other activities will inform the public of events that they can attend.

A public open house to discuss the plan will be held at the offices of the Chicago Area Transportation Study, 300 W. Adams, 2nd floor, on Tuesday, Sept. 20, from 3 to 7 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend the open house, to ask questions and make formal comments on the proposed plan. The document can be obtained by calling CATS Public Information office at (312) 793-3460.

Volleyball tournament to aid abused children

The Beacon Tap and Miller Lie present "The Maryville Challenge" Volleyball Tournament on Sept. 1.

Teams are being recruited to participate in coed play. Entry fee is $100, and entails teams to a pitcher of Miller Lie and a free pizza. Prizes for the top three teams include a limousine ride and sky box seating for a professional sporting event, a $100 gift certificate, and much more. A raffle will also be held for weekend getaways and airline tickets.

"This event will benefit the children of Maryville Academy," said Tom Jahnke, of Town & Country Distributors. "We hope to raise several thousand dollars to help Maryville's mission."

Beacon Tap owner, Kathy Felice, stated, "We had great success with last year's tournament, helping the flood victims, so we know we can benefit Maryville for years to come."

Maryville Academy is the largest residential child care facility in the State of Illinois, and one of the largest in the nation. A leader in the treatment of physically, sexually and emotionally abused, and neglected children, Maryville will care for over 12,000 such children annually on 16 different campuses.

Polish pre-school and regular language classes

With the beginning of the new school year, the North Suburban Language School, sponsored by the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America and partially funded by the Illinois Arts Council, will offer a Polish pre-school as well as regular classes in the Polish language.

This year, Polish language classes will give basic instruction in use of the Polish language on computers. Students in Polish language classes will have an opportunity to operate a computer and to play Polish computer games.

The school also has classes in Classical Ballet, Polish Folk dancing and a children's choir. The choir sings children's songs in Polish, English, French and Chinese. These classes will be given at the Ballard Leisure Center, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles. Classes will start Sept. 1.

Pre-school is aimed at children 2 to 5 or primary school children with no knowledge of or experience with the Polish language. It will prepare them for the study of Polish by introducing them to the Polish alphabet and basic Polish phrases thru play, singing, storytelling and crafts. Recent studies by a variety of educational authorities have determined that it is best to begin the study of foreign languages at as early an age as possible. Such action on the part of parents will facilitate the acquisition of bi-lingual abilities. These classes are offered Thursdays 3 to 5 p.m. and Saturdays 9 to 11 a.m.

Reading and Conversation in the Polish language is for children 5 and up. The reading material in this course will be tailored to the individual ability of each child. This class is designed to form a basis for the future study of Polish. This class will be offered on Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The children's choir will offer children on all age levels an opportunity to increase their interest in and knowledge of Polish and the Polish culture by introducing them to a wide variety of modern children's songs as well as songs that are centuries old. The choir also sings a number of songs in English, French and Chinese and has plans to include songs in German, Japanese and Italian. In addition to singing songs with the entire choir, each child will learn at least one song tailored to his own individual ability and which he will be able to sing by himself. The choir has rehearsals once a week on Mondays, 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Wednesdays 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Classes in classical ballet are offered once a week on Mondays 6 to 7 p.m. Classes in Polish Folk dancing are given on Saturdays 2 to 4 p.m.

The most important purpose of these classes and programs is to capture the imagination and the interest of children in order to learn the languages and cultures of other countries.

For further information about any of these programs in Polish or in English at any time, call (708) 470-1536. Polish speaking families may also call (708) 581-0569 in the evening.

Beauty contest for repainted homes

The eighth annual "Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies" competition is now in full swing.

This is a "beauty contest" for houses. Any home that has been colorfully repainted this year is eligible. Entries are judged on beauty of paint application, how the colors chosen fit the home, and how the colors fit the surroundings that house the property.

Considering the amount of time and effort it takes to repaint your home, you may wish to enter your "beauty" in this competition, and receive some well-deserved recognition.

Eligible for the "Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies Competition," are homes within a 50-mile radius of Chicago. Homes or businesses repainted need not be Victorian in style, any residential or commercial property repainted within the last year is eligible. There is a "professional" and "non professional" category so that all may enter.

At the end of summer the homes will be judged and the winners will receive special awards. Some of the homes chosen have gone on to national fame and have been featured in books, newspapers and magazines.

For information and applications, write the Chicago Paint and Coatings Association, Suite 975, 1051 Primrose Drive, Schaumburg, IL 60173, or phone (708) 240-0930.

Effort boosts organ donor registration

A major statewide awareness campaign helped fuel a 50 percent increase in the number of drivers license applicants who signed up as organ donors in the last couple of months. Secretary of State George H. Ryan announced recently.

Since the "Life Goes On" effort was launched in June, 33 percent of all Illinoisans applying for a new drivers license have agreed to be listed as potential organ donors, compared with just 22 percent in June and July 1993.

For June, the percentage of donors was at 45 percent or higher in 19 counties and at 50 percent or more in three counties - Pike, Jo Daviess and De Kalb.

Ryan said the increase in organ donors held steady for the month of July, bringing the total number of people on record as willing organ donors to about 1.5 million.

Illinois became one of just three states to establish a central registry for donors in October 1992, when Ryan's office began using its drivers license database to keep track of people who agreed to be listed.

That month, staff began asking all drivers license applicants if they wished to be donors, entering their answers in the secretary of state computer banks.

Beginning January 1, when Ryan's office started issuing the new hologrammed drivers license, the answer also appeared as a "Y" or an "N" on the front of the license.

The percentage of applicants agreeing to be donors averaged about 24 percent statewide through January. The new mark of 33 percent was set in June with the introduction of the "Life Goes On" campaign, Ryan said.

"The response, in a word, was outstanding," Ryan said. "With the help of many people, we used a powerful message to mount an effective campaign that got the people of Illinois thinking about organ donation - and then doing something to help."

The $1 million awareness campaign was financed by part of the first-year receipts from Ryan's 1993 funding initiative - "Live & Learn."

The program this year also funded the first statewide conference on organ donation, creation of a donor curriculum for medical schools and training for license facility staff.

Ryan said his office also discovered marked increases in donor registrations at facilities where employees had recently undergone training in organ and tissue donor awareness.

At the news conference, Ryan introduced a Champaign County woman - Debbie Ackerman - who called his office saying she believed the "Life Goes On" campaign played a major role in her 16-year-old daughter Kelly's recent cornea transplant.

Kelly had waited several months for a donor cornea before learning in the midst of the "Life Goes On" campaign that a cornea had become available from a 19-year-old Chicago-area accident victim. Kelly's mother believes the secretary of state-sponsored commercials may have helped convince the victim's family to donate the organs.

Nationwide, about one third of those on transplant waiting lists die before donor organs or tissue become available. National estimates are that 12,000 to 15,000 Americans die each year under circumstances that would allow them to become donors, but that only 4,500 a year actually donate. A single donor can provide as many as six organs for transplant.

Anyone interested in receiving more information about organ donation can call the Secretary of State's office at (800) 210-2106. People can register as donors over the telephone by calling 1 (217) 785-1444.

cash fund and $2.5 million for early retirement bonds.

There's no doubt the school district needs money. And there's little doubt they could never pass a referendum for $8 million in bonds. From the board's standpoint it realizes approving these bonds without going to the voters is their only way to solve their dilemma.

There is another solution to their problems. The board could increase class sizes reducing the teaching staff. And the board could meet the teachers' union head-on and tell them not only is there no money for ever-increasing salaries, but for the immediate years the board will need a reduction in teachers' pay.

The board is the union's payroll. There is no way any school board can outmaneuver union representatives.

In the private sector when it's crunch time you squeeze and cut and reduce until you can balance the books. If you're losing $X amount of dollars you cut expenses by X. But in the public sector the same economic laws don't apply. You first okay union salary increases and then worry about where the money is coming from. For years District 63 people have been warning about the future money crisis. But still the teacher raises were continued. And the $100,000 superintendent's salary also crept up year after year even though there was no money in the till.

The whole education machine has gotten out of whack. In the Maine High School district administration salaries are up around the $1 million mark. A couple of computers and two or three $20,000 secretaries could take over the million dollar administration costs, saving taxpayers over $900,000 in that district.

The whole education equation is out of whack. And it's now crunch time. Throwing more and more money at a decaying system is certainly not the answer.

Lastly, there's many parents who send their children to private schools but still pay for the public schools. That's as it should be. But they shouldn't have to be continuously punished by raising their taxes over and over again. And the stay-at-home seniors on fixed incomes shouldn't have to diminish their expendable income in favor of early retirement teachers who then begin travelling the world.

The whole education equation is out of whack. And it's now crunch time. Throwing more and more money at a decaying system is certainly not the answer.

The Park District recently hired a new Superintendent of Finance and introduced him at the meeting.

David Erb was offered the position on August 6 and accepted the position two days later, Balling said. He is currently Assistant Finance Director at the Village of Bartlett. Balling said the search was a month long process.

The first step of the process, he said, was placing an ad in park industry job bulletins and sending more than 100 letters to other park districts announcing that the position was open.

Balling interviewed six candidates initially, narrowing the field down to two. Erb was chosen for his degree in finance from the University of Iowa and for his work in the public sector in Bartlett.

Erb said that he is excited to start with the park district and he wants to be a part of the exciting things he sees happening.

In an effort to calm their angry customers, Sprint/Centel is attempting to more than triple the area for 5 cent-per call, untime calling for residents living in the affected areas including Niles, Park Ridge, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect.

"When we more than triple the size of the local, untime calling area," Norman said, "customers will be able to reach more adjacent communities at the 5 cent rate."

In addition, the company is seeking to begin the off-peak discount period at 8 p.m. rather than the current 9 p.m. Local calling charges are reduced 25 percent over the discount time period.

"We feel it is a positive move, but until we see the results, it is hard to measure the impact it will have on the rates," he said. "A lot of peoples' bills went up 50 percent. It will be months before we see the impact this step will have on bills. Until we see the response of the public, we will continue in our efforts."

The ICC has 45 days to respond to Sprint/Centel's filing. If approved, the changes could go into effect by Oct. 3.

"I want to make it clear that we needed that increase," Norman said. "However, we have decided to give up a substantial portion of that increase because of the extraordinary impact it had on many of our customers."

"At Sprint/Centel we're neither inflexible nor uncaring. We have listened to our customers' concerns and we are doing something about them."

of Parks Mike Rea. "no decision was made" when park officials met at the site Aug. 19.

"We chose to monitor the flow of rain water to see where it settles," Rea said. "Residential concerns are important to us; so is the run of water. We don't want the site to flood."

Rea said that people are currently shooting grades and elevations to determine where the water will flow after a major rain.

"I still think it is a good possibility that a basketball court will be included in the development plans (at Oak Park)," Rea said. "We will make a recommendation and then leave the decision up to the Board."

es," said Kevin Breslin, attorney for the Center's owner. "The design change will make it a more secure facility as a result."

Breslin said the shopping center's owner also agreed to put up signage to discourage double parking. In addition, the owner will work with other tenants in an effort to relocate employee parking to a more distant place.

The ATM, which by law must be open 24-hours a day, will be located in a small area of the 900-square-foot bank and will be card accessible. The door will lock behind an entering patron and there will be a security camera for safety, but Mayor Nicholas Blase still recommended the bank speak with police regarding further safety measures.

The Village Board also approved a previously heard petition by Forest Villa Nursing Home, 6840 Touhy Ave.

The nursing home came before the Board on July 26 requesting a variation to expand its dining room and construct rooms for 10 additional beds for its increasing residents. The Board had postponed the issue, stating that it wished to hear from a Niles consultant regarding the addition.

"Forest Villa has been in compliance more so than any other facility in Niles," said RNC Juanita Lott at Tuesday night's meeting. "They have done many things to help the community."

Lott, who has been a Healthcare Surveyor and Consultant for the Niles Department of Code Enforcement for five years, recommended six additional beds and the expansion of the dining room.

"It is important that the residents are all able to eat at the same time," Lott said. "Presently they have two (eating) shifts. The additions will be a welcome addition to the Village of Niles."

Finally, the Board approved a petition that calls for the installation of new islands, gas pumps and canopy at Joe's Marathon, 8401 Milwaukee Avenue.

The Board approved the request under the guidelines set by the Zoning Board that a new fence be installed on the northern end of the property and that all water drainage be kept on the property to the Village of Niles.

when it does go on the market." There have been rumors that the land would be sold for commercial purposes, but the possibility of residential development is still on the table.

Niles Park Board officials recently contacted Clair with a request of their own. The Board, according to Commissioner Bud Skaja, is interested in a portion of the land for neither commercial nor residential use.

"We are trying to get some green space in this town," Skaja said. "We would like to get a portion of it."

Clair said he directed the Niles Park Board to the Archdiocese where Skaja said a letter has been sent regarding the request. According to officials, the Park District is not looking to pay for the land, but will take whatever steps are necessary to get it.

"We can't compete with businesses and condos," said Shauna Litrell, Administrative Coordinator. "The rumors they are expecting are high and out of our price range."

"We are prepared to condemn part of the land to save green space, but we don't want to do that. We are trying to get a portion in a positive way."
