Park Board prepares for fall celebration, winter season

Niles Park District staff are preparing the grounds for winter, but are first looking forward to a fall celebration -- the district's 40th anniversary.

The celebration was announced several times by different department heads at the district board meeting Tuesday night. Board president Elaine Heinen gave a brief overview of the first years of the district.

The district's first fieldhouse and baseball field were built in 1955, Heinen related. Since that first construction, the district has grown to include 18 parks and two pools. But it's the attention to detail, Heinen claimed, that sets the Niles district apart from other park districts.

"When you go to other surrounding Villages, you don't see flowers or bushes or trees (at their parks)," Heinen said.

Weeklong teachers' strike settled with compromise

District 71 teachers OK contract

By Lisa Hemminger

The mood at Niles Elementary School South was described as "businesslike" Monday, the first day back for staff and students after a weeklong teachers' strike.

"People got right back to business," said South principal Glenn Grieshaber. "I think that's where we wanted to be."

The 42 picketing teachers in the two-school elementary district put down their signs Friday on a tentative contract agreement. The union-backed strike, which began Nov. 7, was the first teachers' strike in the history of Niles Township elementary teachers. The contract dispute revolved around salaries and the length of annual working days, according to union negotiator Ray O'Keefe. Six members of the teachers' bargaining unit and members of the Dist. 71 Board of Education negotiated 26 hours last week before the Friday truce. Teachers were expected to ratify a three-year contract Tuesday. Originally, members of the Niles Council of Teachers were seeking a one-year package, said O'Keefe. Other details of the new contract were released Tuesday night. The teachers' last contract expired June 30.

South and Culver Middle School teachers had been working on a 185-day yearly work contract, reportedly one of the longest schedules among Niles Township elementary teachers. During talks, teachers proposed knocking two days off that calendar, O'Keefe said. The bargaining unit proposed combining two partial days -- one for teacher record keeping and one for handing out report cards -- into one working day. They also proposed eliminating a day normally scheduled for a teacher-student picnic. While it wasn't reported Monday whether or not those par-

Niles fire official to retire

By Anne Louise Bannon
The Niles Fire and Police Commission officially accepted notice of Fire Department District Chief Walter Blase's retirement Monday.

Blase, 52, is leaving to join the new Palatine Inverness Fire Protection District after 32 years with the Niles Fire Department. His retirement will be effective Nov. 25.

As a result of the vacancy, the commission must hire a new firefighter. Blase's position will be filled from within the department, at the lieutenant level, setting off a chain of promotions that will leave an entry level position open.

Commissioner Sam Bruno said registered letters were sent out Nov. 10 to the top three applicants. Oral interviews are expected to take place in December.

by Bud Besser

You may have read the story previously but it is worth repeating. More than 200 teachers from the Niles Township Federation of Teachers pledged an average of $10 to be deducted from their paychecks for the next 40 pay periods to help pay for the cost of a liver transplant for the seven-week-old son of a Niles high school teacher. He received 20 percent of his father's, Mark Pace's liver, last Thursday.

The total bills for the surgery are likely to be about $350,000 and the initial fundraising was for $100,000 of "good faith" money that Wyler Children's Hospital required before performing the surgery.

In nine days, $103,000 was raised by 275 teachers in District 219, which includes Niles North and West high schools. Eighty percent was raised by salary deduction pledges and $20,000 to $40,000 was raised through other efforts, many involving students.

October 14, Niles North principal, Dave Schusteff, approached the union to help out the Pace family. Realizing teachers and other community people would quickly raise the "good faith" money, the federation used its $60,000 to $70,000 in assets and the deduction cards to float a loan. But before union officials consummated a loan with various banks, Wyler waived the good faith requirement. But officials decided to continue with

District 63 in rapid growth period

by Ben Rieck

Enrollment projections in East Maine School District 63 mark this last year as the largest growth in five years with a trend toward a larger student population.

Associate Superintendent Dr. Donald Stetina reported the rapid growth to the board of education at its meeting Nov. 8.

"Overall, our growth for this last year is 5.3 percent," Stetina said. A substantial number of additional students, he said, accounted for the largest surge in district growth since 1988.

A graph showed the district's projections from 1988 to the year

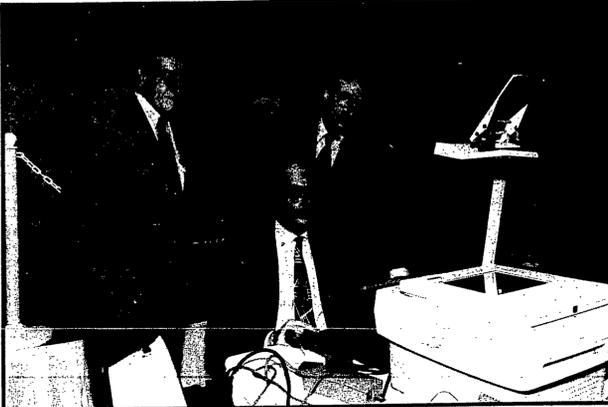

1999. The figures show an approximate addition of 800 students.

"Although the district is growing against projections, some of our schools have increased at a greater rate than projected," he said.

Stetina reported that the largest pocket of growth was in the primary grades, kindergarten through third. He said that the district kindergarten program began the year in 1993 with 316 students. That number grew to 365 this year and an excess of 350 stu-

Early Alzheimer's housing option

With President Reagan's recent disclosure of his Alzheimer's diagnosis, the public has peaked interest in the disease and the options available to its victims. Although there are more than 100,000 victims residing in Kane, Lake, Cook and DuPage counties alone, until recently, metropolitan Chicago has offered no appropriate housing options for individuals with early stage Alzheimer's Disease.

As of June 1994, New Perspective opened its doors to the State's first sheltered care facility for individuals afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease. Family members and caregivers dealing with placement of a loved one have found this a much needed and welcome housing option. New Perspective is a non-institutional, homelike residence offering three sixteen bed homes centrally located on a five acre campus in northwest Wheeling. Many individuals suffering from this disease are physically healthy and yet they need around the clock supervision and assistance with care.

New Perspective incorporates design features, programming and staffing specially geared to address the unique needs and behaviors of individuals with this disease. New Perspective sheltered care provides a safe, secure environment, around the clock supervision, through this programming, assistance with dressing, grooming, toileting, hygiene, meals and laundry services.

Niles Fire Department thanks local students

Deputy Chief Lonnie Jackson of the Bensenville Fire Department and member of the Illinois Fire Inspectors Association (left) and Firefighter Bill White of the Niles Fire Department congratulate Dawn-Marie-Tarica-Kemp of Culver School on winning the eighth grade category of the "Check Your Battery For Life" poster contest.

The Niles Fire Department would like to thank all the students who participated in the 1994 Illinois Fire Inspectors poster contest. The theme for this year was, "Check Your Battery For Life." The posters are on display at fire station 2.

Congratulations to Dawn-Marie-Tarica-Kemp, who won first place in the eighth grade category for the state.

A special thanks goes out to Roseann Dulski for having the only entire classroom in Niles to participate; her second grade class is from Our Lady of Ransom.

Other winners include: Brian Jung and Deanna Greco, from St. John Brebeuf; Michael Ernst, Kristopher Rottmuller, and Amish Kuvadia, from Our Lady of Ransom; Dawn-Marie-Tarica-Kemp and Sarah Ann Stopka, from Culver School; Gray Naples, Katie Waller, Alison Balaskovits, Gina Heiderman, David Kaye, Meghan Garstka, Alex Shehadeh, Jennifer Bendyk, Shefali Shastri, Daniella Chovan, Anna Gunther, Anthony B., Maria Kozonin, Nick Jochim, and Erin Sexton.

Police to station CSOs for show

Conversely, Jan Altmaier, also of Niles, usually avoids shopping at Golf Mill, and was only there to get out of the rain. She doesn't like the gangs and young people she believes the mall attracts. Even if the CSOs were able to arrest offenders, a substitution would do no good.

"The kids are still here," she said. "The gangs are still here."

Casey Zalowski of Chicago said he comes to Golf Mill because he doesn't see as many young people making trouble. "It's kind of quiet here," he said.

He thinks the police booth would be a good idea, but the department "should find a way to get [offenders] arrested."

Chicago resident Donica Weinberg also feels comfortable at the mall. She felt the police booth would be nice, but if the officers can't arrest anybody, "what's the point of having them there?"

Wilson agreed that the booth would be "just for the perception of safety. But that's what people want these days. In law enforcement, we're usually reactive instead of pro-active. We're being pro-active. We're shutting the gate before the horse is gone."

Niles school gets grant

St. John Lutheran School, Niles, has been awarded a $500 grant for the 1994-95 school year by Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL), a fraternal benefit society based in Appleton, Wisconsin.

The AAL Lutheran Elementary School Grant Program is designed to provide in-service training for Lutheran elementary school faculty. The funds may be used for consultants, speakers and resource materials. Activities may concentrate on such areas as teaching strategies, classroom organization and management, interpersonal relationships and communication, a teacher's role in the promotion of the school and in ministering to the needs of families.

Shopper Jean Mill, of Niles, feels confident about Golf Mill's safety already and doesn't think the booth will add or detract from that.

"I have no fears," she said.

Voters support local authority

Cook County voters sent a clear message to Springfield that they want spending decisions to be made locally, as the local control referendum question passed overwhelmingly on Tuesday. The question was on the ballot of 56 municipalities in suburban Cook County.

The referendum question asked voters who should decide how local money is spent, state legislators or local officials.

The vote showed that citizens clearly understood how government works, that the local level is where the electorate has the most power, and citizens want to retain that local control," said Mayor Wietecha, Park Ridge, and Vice-President of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

The Cook County voters also voted that they want a cap on property tax increases. In reflecting on the responses of both referendum questions, the Cook County tax payers clearly indicate that although they approve a lid on taxes, they want this done

Youths to gather for Prevention Conference

Governor Jim Edgar has proclaimed Sunday, Nov. 20 and Monday, Nov. 21 as "Drug Free Youth Days" in recognition of the 12th annual Illinois Drug Education Alliance (IDEA) Prevention Conference being held at the Peoria Civic Center in Peoria.

Over 1,000 Illinois youth will gather at the Civic Center to rally around this year's theme, "Join the DRUG FREE Round-Up."

The conference is designed to educate participants about the illicit use of alcohol and other drugs, to share success stories, to encourage participants to become part of the state prevention network, and to showcase successful prevention programs around the state.

IDEA began inviting youth to its annual prevention education conference in 1988. More than 400 eager students participated that year, and youth attendance has steadily increased each year since. The 1,000 students and 500 adults who attended the 1993 conference represented 175 towns and cities throughout the state.

IDEA is a not-for-profit, all volunteer organization, and its members donate what sometimes seem like endless hours to its goal of drug free youth," said IDEA President Judy Kreamer of Naperville. "Experiencing the enthusiasm and dedication of the young people of Illinois as they gather for their own day to learn how to affect their own future and the futures of their communities, is a truly rewarding experience. We are proud to sponsor this annual conference in part by a grant from the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse.

The 1994 conference will feature more than 50 state and national experts on subjects relating to substance abuse and prevention, with 63 workshop topics and four general sessions. The conference is open to students in grades 8 through college age, and adults. Registration fees are $125 for adults, and $65 for youth. For information, phone (217) 793-3733.

On to the next election

The local election for Trustees of the Village of Niles will be held on Tuesday, April 4, 1995. Three incumbents are announcing their intention to run for office of Trustee of the Village of Niles. Pictured with Mayor Nicholas B. Blase are Trustees (left to right) Tom Bondi, Bart Murphy and James Mahoney. Mayor Blase stated he is very supportive of their candidacy and that Niles needs the experience of these Trustees for the coming years which will be very challenging to our community and to the State of Illinois.

of a tax reform alliance. The alliance would join a broad base of government, school, business and other interested parties in an effort to develop real tax reform.

"It is our hope the alliance will come up with a proposal that can serve as the foundation for any discussions next spring between the Governor and the General Assembly on comprehensive revenue reform," said Forest Park Mayor Lorraine Popelka, President of the West Central Municipal Conference.

The results of the local authority question will also assist municipalities with issues that will be discussed in Springfield this session, the possible increase of municipal workers' pensions, environmental regulations upon local governments, and local revenue authority. These issues are part of the disturbing trend in Springfield that shift decision making away from the village hall to the state capitol that voters want to see cease.

The results of the local control referendum question do not require a particular action to be taken, but the Suburban Mayors Action Coalition (SMAC), a coalition of more than 100 municipalities, will act upon the results by urging the development

Local chiropractor holds Thanksgiving food drive

Norridge chiropractor Frank Martusciello has a big heart when it comes to providing food for needy children at Thanksgiving.

For the last 10 years, the local chiropractor has organized a Thanksgiving food drive, soliciting non-perishable items from patients in exchange for his professional services. Last year, he collected over 2,000 lbs. of food and delivered it to both a Chicago children's shelter and the local Salvation Army.

"It's our moral obligation for everyone to do his or her own part," said Dr. Martusciello. "I feel both morally and spiritually, motivated to sponsor this annual drive to provide food for the needy," he adds. "And having a business in Norridge allows me an opportunity to do something special for them."

His food contribution will be made on behalf of "Dreams for Kids," a non-profit organization that supports a number of Chicago-area youth initiatives.

On Thursday, Nov. 17, the Norridge Chiropractic Clinic, 7830 W. Lawrence Ave., will be collecting canned goods and other non-perishable food items for the drive. A few days before Thanksgiving, the food will be delivered to Clara's House, a Chicago West side children's shelter, as well as to the Salvation Army. Interested donors can either drop off their items at the Norridge clinic, or contact Dr. Martusciello at (708) 457-8484.

United Way/Crusade of Mercy Celebration of Caring

One-hundred volunteers from 12 corporations in the Chicago-land area participated in one-day projects with nine United Way-supported agencies in the north and northwest suburbs on Saturday, Sept. 17 at the North Shore Senior Center in Northfield.

United Way/Crusade of Mercy North region Campaign Chair James Donnelly, vice chairman of the board of R. R. Donnelly & Sons Company said, "Caring citizens have an important choice to make. Either we can become overwhelmed by the social problems facing our nation and our metropolitan area or we can do something about them. We have chosen to do something, with our hands and with our hearts."

Volunteers met for a brief rally at the North Shore Senior Center in Northfield at 8:30 a.m. and dispersed at 9:30 a.m. to the nine United Way-supported agencies where they completed their individual projects. Volunteers participated in a wide range of one-day community service projects including cleaning and painting offices and bookcases, landscaping and stuffing Christmas stockings that will be provided to victims of fires this winter.

Celebration of Caring is a year-round program that enables employees of Chicago-area corporations to learn about United Way-supported agencies through participation in group volunteer community service projects with agencies and their clients. Typical projects include painting, landscaping, sporting events and book, food and clothing drives.

Seniors, students share insights on technology

FDR's "Fireside Chats" were more than a museum exhibit for many of the Maine Township Seniors who visited the Motorola Museum of Electronics in Schaumburg last week -- they were a very real memory of childhood. For the young students who toured with the seniors, though, nostalgia will likely one day mean recollections of video games, CD-ROM and electronic bulletin boards.

Both seniors and students from the gifted program at Algonquin Junior High School in Des Plaines were able to share their perspectives on changing technology throughout the tour. Along the way, both groups tried out working World War II field phones, learned about everyday electronics through an interactive computer program and shared a few minutes in a typical 1935 living room, complete with radio broadcasting excerpts from "The Shadow," "Fibber McGee and Molly" and the Hindenburg disaster newsreel.

The 27 Algonquin students were paired with seniors during the tour, a first-time intergenerational program organized by Maine Township and School District 62. Future programs may include a senior-student forum to discuss the ethical implications of technological developments.

Acting on a need she has seen in the community, Sue Neuschel, Director of Adult & Senior Services for Maine Township, recently has focused on expanding the number and kinds of intergenerational programs offered by the township. Other programs she has introduced include an annual Grandparent Fair with attractions for all ages; "The Grand-Connection," a newsletter with information from experts and fellow grandparents on how seniors can enjoy time with their grandchildren; "Hello Grandma," a telephone service that puts area children in touch with volunteer "grandmothers" for advice or a friendly ear; and an annual musical production with a cast of both seniors and local school children.

Chief Rabbi of Israel to deliver tribute at 18 year celebration

In his first Chicagoland appearance since his election, the Chief Rabbi of Israel, Rabbi Israel M. Lau will deliver a tribute to the Lubavitcher Rebbe, Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, at the Chai Tribute celebration of the 18 years of Lubavitch Chabad in Illinois. The event will take place Nov. 21 and will also feature the Moscow Jewish Choir in concert in their first Chicagoland performance.

The theme of the event, according to Rabbi Daniel Moscovitz, Regional Director of Lubavitch Chabad of Illinois, is "rededication to carrying out the Rebbe's mission of bringing Judaism to every Jew and preparing the world for Moshiah through increased acts of goodness. We will showcase the increased commitment to furthering Lubavitch Chabad activity at this time, as we build upon the accomplishments of the past 18 years."

Rabbi Lau is a well-known author, Talmudist and rabbinic authority, and scion of a rabbinic family spanning 35 generations. He knows first hand both the tragedy of Jewish history and the triumph of Jewish spirit. Rabbi Lau came to Israel as a child after being liberated from Buchenwald concentration camp. In Israel he studied in Yeshiva and entered the Rabbinate. After serving in a number of prominent rabbinic posts, in 1993 he became Israel's Ashkenazic Chief Rabbi. The Moscow Jewish Choir is the first Jewish choir in Russia since 1918, and was founded with the mission of presenting the Jewish musical heritage to Jews searching for their roots in post-communist Russia. They travel to communities large and small throughout the former Soviet Union, inspiring revived interest in Jewish study and participation.

All of the members are accomplished musicians, who have pooled their talent to bring the Jewish musical heritage to Jews everywhere. Since 1991, they have won international acclaim, and are touring the United States in response to widespread demand.

The Chai tribute and Celebration will take place at the Evanston Township High School, and will include the tribute, the performance and a reception at which the Chief Rabbi and other individuals will be recognized for their accomplishments on behalf of the community.

For more information, call the regional office of Lubavitch Chabad of Illinois at (312) 262-2770.

New organization helps divorcees

Help is on the way for divorced men and women, thanks to a new organization, the National Association for Divorced Americans.

Open to divorced or separated men and women with full or joint custody of their children, the organization plans to lobby for equality in divorce, child custody and family laws, provide networking opportunities for members, and work to change attitudes about single-parents raising children, says Mr. Steven R. Erickson, the organization's founder. Mr. Erickson has started his efforts off in the right area. State Senator Fawell, who was invited to sit on a lawyers' committee that deals with child support issues, has agreed to meet with Mr. Erickson to discuss the issues affecting the membership.

"I feel it is important to try to bring some unity and cohesion together for men and women of divorce," Erickson said. "We deal with some very tragic and difficult issues. The most difficult is the trauma the children go through."

The men and women feel very alone and no one can really understand what they're feeling and going through. Not even well meaning friends and family, Erickson says. The Association will address issues affecting both men and women.

"The largest growing segment in divorce is the men taking on the primary custody roll of their children," said Erickson, who has primary custody of two of his three children. "And the men are very capable parents. But too often these men don't receive the recognition they deserve."

People often assume children are being raised by their mothers, and this can affect the children, Erickson says. Erickson's daughter has been embarrassed when her teacher has consistently told her to bring school papers home for her mom's signature, for example.

"It's important to these children that others acknowledge their fathers are raising them and that it's OK," he said. On the other hand, women deal with many of the same issues, as well as some unique to them. Such as sometimes facing an unaccepting work environment and raising the children as single parents. "Parenting is a very tough full time job. But being a single parent is one of the most difficult tasks ever required of a man or woman."

The organization's mission is to promote unified, effective collaboration; to assist the people of divorce and provide a forum to deal with the issues effecting all aspects of the pre and post divorce process. The organization will also publish a quarterly newsletter and special periodic alerts regarding legislation and other issues.

Cold weather precautions and safety tips

With the chilling winds and relentless snowfalls that Chicago winters are famous for, now is the time to learn how to prevent winter injuries. The American Red Cross, in recognition of Winter Storm Preparedness Week, Nov. 14-18, cautions people to take special care when venturing outside on wintry days. The frosty weather can be hazardous and lead to life-threatening conditions such as frostbite and hypothermia.

Stay warm by wearing several layers of dry, lightweight, loose-fitting clothing. Wool and cotton make good insulators, and outerwear should be tightly woven and water repellent.

A hat is recommended to cover the ears, as well as mittens which allow fingers to move freely and warm one another. Also, shoes and stockings should fit loosely and remain dry.

Frostbite
Prolonged exposure to colder weather can result in frostbite. Frostbite develops when body tissues, such as skin on the nose, ears, chin, cheeks, fingers and toes, freeze because of exposure to the elements.

Flushed-looking skin is the first sign of frostbite. As the condition worsens, skin color changes to white or grayish yellow and finally to grayish blue. The victim may not be aware of the damage initially, because frostbitten areas feel cold and numb. To treat frostbite, first get the victim into a warm place and remove any cold or damp clothing. Next, place frostbitten body parts in water that is between 100 and 105 degrees. Handle body parts delicately and never rub or massage them, as this can cause serious tissue damage. Finally, remember that frostbite is a serious injury, and seek immediate medical attention.

Hypothermia
Extended exposure to wintry weather can lead to a life-threatening condition called hypothermia. Exposure to cold or cool temperatures for long periods of time can cause the body temperature to fall below normal, causing hypothermia.

Shivering, dizziness, numbness, confusion, weakness, impaired judgement, impaired vision and drowsiness are all signs of hypothermia. Hypothermia moves quickly from these symptoms to apathy, loss of consciousness, decreasing pulse and breathing rate to death.

To treat hypothermia, the American Red Cross recommends the following actions:

• Call 911 or contact your local emergency medical system.

• Bring victim out of the cold to a warmer place.

• Remove any wet clothing and cover victim with dry clothing or blankets to warm the body slowly.

• Do not provide the victim any food or drink unless conscious.

• If the victim is conscious, provide a warm drink, sweetened if possible.

• Do not allow the victim to smoke or drink alcoholic beverages.

For more information about winter safety or free copies of "Are You Ready for a Winter Storm?" brochures, contact your local Red Cross chapter or call (312) 440-2000.

Baby born from sperm injection technique

A local baby born last week is the first in the midwest conceived through a new technique in which a single sperm from the husband was injected directly into the wife's egg to achieve fertilization.

K.Paul Katayama, M.D., Ph.D., an internationally recognized reproductive specialist, said the procedure was developed to help men with very low sperm counts and motility to produce offspring. The unique feature of this technique is that only a single sperm is needed.

The single sperm injection technique is known as ICSI, an acronym for intracytoplasmic sperm injection. Under a high-powered microscope in the laboratory, this procedure involved picking up a single "weak" sperm in a microscopic tube and inserting it through the outer shell of the egg, directly into the egg itself.

The Schaumburg area parents are typical of the severe male factor infertile couples who can be helped by this technique. In their late 20's the couple had failed to conceive for two years using conventional infertility treatments. Both mother and baby are doing fine.

Hospital to showcase famous AIDS quilt

A portion of the AIDS Memorial Quilt will be on display at Columbus Hospital, 2520 N. Lakeview Ave., from Nov. 20 through Nov. 27. To inaugurate the exhibit, "A Celebration of Hope," a free, public reception and opening ceremony will be held at 10:30 a.m., Monday, Nov. 21. The quilt has been shown in locations across the United States and in 1989 was nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize.

"We are honored to have the quilt with us," said Michele Williams, L.C.S.W., who lead an AIDS/HIV support group at Columbus Hospital. "It is a symbol of hope for the devastation caused by the AIDS epidemic and an educational tool for everyone."

Two panels from the quilt will be displayed in Columbus Hospital's south lobby, which is open daily from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. For more information, call the Columbus Hospital Pastoral Care Department at (312) 883-7342.

Intoxicated man arrested for resisting police

Police responded to a call of service at an apartment in the 7900 block of Caldwell Nov. 13.

When they arrived, a 32-year-old Niles man told the officers that someone had stolen his taxi cab's radio and meter.

The officers saw the items on the man's kitchen table and realized that the man was highly intoxicated.

The officers also noticed that the two front windows had been smashed out. The offender admitted doing the damage himself and said he would pay for it.

The officers told the man to go into his house and go to bed. He did, but five minutes later he went back outside and attempted to drive away. Because of his intoxicated state, the officers tried to stop him. The man got out of his car and pushed one of the officers. Both officers grabbed the man and a fight ensued. All three fell to the ground and the offender was handcuffed.

The offender was charged with battery to police and resisting arrest. He is to appear in court Nov. 23. The officers informed the apartment's management that they could charge the subject with criminal damage to property if he doesn't pay for the broken windows.

Expired plates gets suspect arrested

A Niles police officer saw a white Dodge being driven on Dee Road at 8:09 p.m. with expired plates. The officer began following the car which sped up, turned off its lights and made an abrupt turn into a lot.

The officer followed the car into the lot and requested to see the driver's license. The driver could not produce a license. He also gave a false name so license information could not be obtained. The driver was taken into custody.

The female passenger admitted having marijuana in her purse and gave the officer a bag containing a green, leafy substance and a pipe. She was taken into custody as well.

The woman, an 18-year-old Glenview resident, was charged with the ordinance violation of possession of cannabis under 10 grams.

The driver, a 20-year-old Des Plaines man who eventually gave his real name, was found to have a warrant out of Niles for assault. He was charged with violation of bail bond. Bond was set at $1,000 and the offender is scheduled to appear in court Nov. 23.

Second time offender arrested

Police responded to a report of someone taking tires behind Sears Automotive Nov. 8.

Sears security said that a security camera recorded a 27-year-old Chicago man removing tires and placing them in a truck.

A security agent said that it was not the first time the offender had done this and had been warned not to do it again.

Assistant state's attorney Casey Bartnik approved felony theft charges on the offender, who was also charged with criminal trespass to real property. The subject was placed in lock-up pending a bond hearing.

Man robbed in alley

A 29-year-old Park Ridge man said he was walking in the alley of the 9100 block of Golf Road around 2:10 p.m. Nov. 10 when he was robbed by two men.

The man said a black Cadillac pulled up and two men got out. One put something against his back and said, "You got any money?" The victim said no, but was frisked. The offenders found a black wallet in the man's front pocket, then went back into their car and drove away.

The victim said that he had an envelope containing $480 in his wallet from his father for Christmas presents. No one in the area heard or saw anything unusual.

Patient found at police station

An officer saw a 32-year-old Harwood Heights woman sleeping in her '84 Olds Cutlass at the Niles police station Nov. 8.

A check of the license plate revealed that the woman was under a suicide watch in Harwood Heights. Police notified the Niles Fire Department which transported the subject to Resurrection Hospital.

Drunk driver hits parked cars

A 20-year-old Chicago man driving an '85 Chevrolet struck three parked cars in the 6000 block of Touhy Ave. at 4:22 p.m. Nov. 7.

A witness on the scene told police that the driver appeared to be intoxicated. An officer spoke with the offender who had slurred speech, glazed eyes and a strong odor of alcohol on his breath. The man failed field sobriety tests and was taken into custody.

The arrestee was charged with DUI, improper lane usage, possession of open alcohol and a blood alcohol level over .10 (.17). Bond was set at $3,000 and a court date scheduled for Dec. 16.

Restaurant averts fire

A Niles restaurant owner said his cook observed smoke emanating from a wall behind the stoves in the kitchen of the establishment in the 7500 block of Oakton Street Nov. 7.

Niles firemen broke into the wall after seeing smoke and smelling burning wood. They found the problem and extinguished the fire to prevent further damage.

The award was given by the Illinois Fire Inspectors Association and the Fire Safety Alliance in their annual fire safety activity yearbook contest.

The contest is open to all departments in the state and awards are classified by the population that the department serves. Niles was awarded in the Class III Division. The award was given out at the 53rd annual Fire Prevention Luncheon held in Hickory Hills on Oct. 13.

The yearbook is now on display at the fire administration offices located at 8360 Dempster.

Degrees are conferred monthly as credit requirements are fulfilled.

Pavement patching contracts awarded

Six contracts have been awarded for pavement patching in Cook and McHenry Counties, the Illinois Department of Transportation said today.

Local contracts include Oakton Street, between Wolf Road and Lee Street, Des Plaines; $196,525; Triggs Construction Co.

In addition, contracts were awarded for two other pavement patching projects.

One contract for $445,604 was awarded to Triggs for U.S. 62, between Roselle Road and Illinois 53, to be completed this month, and for Illinois 58, between Interstate 290 and Illinois 62, to be done next spring. Both are in Schaumburg.

The other contract for $397,441 was awarded to Capitol Cement Co., Chicago, for First Avenue, between Lake Street and the Des Plaines River, to be completed this year, and for York Road, between Illinois 56 and Interstate 88/294, to be done next spring. Both are in Melrose Park, River Grove and Maywood.

On each project, motorists are urged to drive carefully in the area and, when workers are present, to "Give 'Em a Brake - Slow Down."

Police have suspect in rash of garage burglaries

Niles police have a potential suspect in the series of garage burglaries that have hit the Village over the last week.

"We have a person that we're looking into," said Detective John Huinker.

Given the nature of the four burglaries, detectives believe that more than one person was involved. They also have an idea of what kind of vehicle was used.

"From what they've taken, it's probably a larger vehicle," Huinker said. In each burglary, four to five different power tools were taken, all have and some fairly large. "You're not going to put those in a Volkswagen."

The burglaries mainly took place during the night Nov. 9.

The offender removed more than $900 worth of items from a garage in the 8300 block of Octavia, including a chain saw, an electric saw and two bicycles.

"Found on the floor of the garage was a flashlight that does not belong to the homeowner. The item is considered evidence.

A saw and a stereo were among the items taken from a garage in the 8300 block of Octavia. The offender wore some kind of cleated boot witnessed by dried mud left on the garage floor. The culprit also left cigarette ashes on the floor.

The offender entered another garage in the 8300 block of Octavia and attempted to remove a snowblower. When unsuccessful, the subject went into the victim's unlocked car and removed $15 in change.

Huinker said that garage burglaries are a popular crime this time of year.

"I would suggest to anybody to keep their sheds and garages locked at all times," he said.

Maine Township Rep. Woman's Club Day designated

Maine Township Republican Woman's Club President Joan Hall (right) teams with the club's legislation chairman Kay Jarzombek to welcome Cong. Henry J. Hyde (R-16th) to the club's annual fall luncheon recently in Des Plaines. In speaking at the luncheon, Cong. Hyde saluted the club on its 50th anniversary. Proclamations were presented at the event, issued by the mayors of Des Plaines, Morton Grove and Park Ridge and the supervisor of Maine Township, designating Oct. 16 as Maine Township Republican Woman's Club Day in their respective jurisdictions.

Keep Illinois Beautiful grants awarded

Lieutenant Governor Bob Kustra recently awarded $75,000 in Keep Illinois Beautiful grants to 11 community organizations that will promote and enhance environmental education and solid waste management throughout Illinois.

"These grants will allow local organizations to continue grassroots efforts to help make Illinois communities cleaner," said Kustra, who coordinates the state program. "This year I'm happy to announce that there will be more emphasis on training and education for teachers and students."

"With part of their grants, many of these organizations will establish and conduct environmental teacher training workshops and provide environmental education assistance to schools in their communities."

"For example, Chicago Clean Streak will hold teacher training workshops for 400 teachers in Chicago. Keep Evanston Beautiful, Inc., plans to offer schools help with reusable lunch bags and recycling bins and to establish a student essay contest about recycling."

Carbondale Clean & Green will hold teacher workshops and provide educational activities for students, including an environmental fair and a recycling library. Centralia Clean & Green will hold teacher workshops and establish a recycling/environmental resource library for schools."

Des Plaines - Keep Des Plaines Beautiful will use $4,800 to produce a curbside recycling booklet and a hazardous waste collection booklet.

Evanston - Keep Evanston Beautiful, Inc., will receive $5,655 in grant funds for use in establishing a volunteer program at recycling sites, developing a rental dweller recycling program and undertaking several education programs.

Any Illinois city or county certified by Keep America Beautiful, a national non-profit environmental education organization, can apply for Keep Illinois Beautiful grant funds. Each city or county has agreed to forward the grant funds to a not-for-profit community organization for implementation of the program.

Funding for the FY 95 grants is being provided by the Solid Waste Management Fund through the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources. Revenue for the fund is generated by tipping fees collected from owners and operators of sanitary landfills. Local organizations and businesses provide matching funds to qualify for the state grants, which were selected with the help of an advisory committee.

For more information on the Keep Illinois Beautiful grant program, contact Mary Slegler at the Office of the Lieutenant Governor at (312) 814-5220.

Board defends Forest Preserves

The Cook County Forest Preserve Board went on record as being absolutely opposed to changes in state law proposed by State Representative Lee Daniels, House Minority Leader, allowing forest preserve land to be taken for riverboat gambling facilities. The action was taken at its regular meeting Nov. 1. The state legislature is urged to reject several bills which would allow condemnation of Forest Preserve holdings for gambling casinos.

Sponsored by Commissioners Carl R. Hansen (R-Mt. Prospect), John Stroger (D-Chicago), Richard A. Siebel (R-Northbrook), and John P. Daley (D-Chicago), and co-sponsored by seven other members of the Board of 17, the resolution urges members of the General Assembly to reject any and all bills which would allow municipalities to condemn forest preserves for any purpose whatsoever. Such condemnation has been prohibited for over 80 years.

Hansen noted that the proposals were filed with little publicity.

"If this is such a good thing, why were the amendments (of five different bills) filed surreptitiously," he said. "Why does this apply only to Cook County, when it is introduced by a Du Page County legislator?"

At a public hearing of the Board's Committee on Legislation and Intergovernmental Relations, representatives of many community and conservation groups testified. All were strongly opposed to any tampering with the preserves. Testimony was heard from speakers from the Nature Conservancy, the Sierra Club, the League of Women Voters, Open Lands Project, and several others.

"When word of this got out, people from all over the county called my office," Hansen said. "They were outraged that we in Cook County were asked to stand by and allow our forest preserves to be stolen and handed over to those whose only interest is satisfying their unlimited greed."

The legislation is applicable only to Cook County. It would allow an almost unknown state board dealing with riverboat gambling to, in effect, authorize condemnation of forest preserves for gambling boats within as many as 55 home rule municipalities.

Hansen, who introduced the resolution, observed that the Forest Preserves have been untouched since their inception, some 80 years ago, and must remain that way.

"To allow our open lands to be seized for gambling is just out of the question," he said. "It is appalling that such a measure could even be considered, much less taken seriously. Despite any denials by its sponsors, we cannot assume this is dead until it is, in fact, defeated."

Hansen, who has long played a role in protecting the Forest Preserves from encroachment for various schemes, noted that the resolution opposing the Daniels legislation was adopted unanimously by the Forest Preserve Board.

"This is a strong bi-partisan statement in favor of protecting our heritage," Hansen said. "These open lands were established long ago after a protracted struggle. Many of the arguments in favor of allowing them to be destroyed are very similar to those offered in opposing their establishment in the first place."

"We cannot turn our back on our heritage. This is a very real threat, and it has to be stopped before it goes any further."

Commissioner Hansen urged all citizens to contact their state senator and state representative to voice their opposition to the Daniels amendment.

Medical center offers free flu shots for seniors

An average flu season claims about 20,000 U.S. lives -- the majority of which are over 65, as well as those with chronic conditions like asthma, heart disease or diabetes.

However, flu-related complications can be avoided with a yearly vaccination, and Broadway Medical Center, 5930 N. Broadway, will offer free flu vaccinations to persons over 65. Flu vaccinations will be available from 10 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday, from now until doses are exhausted. Walk-ins are welcome, and vaccinations for those under 65 are provided at a reduced rate of $10.

Because the flu exists in many strains that change from year to year, it is important that vaccines are updated annually in order to develop an effective immune response. Health experts recommend vaccination in the fall so that the body will have time to build an adequate defense in time for the peak flu season.

For more information, call Broadway Medical Center at (312) 334-0600.

New program for older adults

Come and bring your friends, neighbors and relatives to a very new and comprehensive program. For further information, call (312) 973-1000, ext. 243.

The Acting Up! and Acting Up Too troupes

The Acting Up! and Acting Up Too troupes are very special performing groups, based at Oakton Community College. They are made up of people over the age of 60 who use humor, music and drama to deliver the message to audiences of all ages that growing older can be a time for self-discovery and creativity.

Acting Up!, consisting of a 13 to 16 member cast, has been dispelling the myths of aging through their humorous skits since 1977. Acting Up Too, a new troupe, made its debut in 1992 with original songs and stories poking fun at communication in the '90s.

Goldman Home leads the way

The Illinois Association of Homes for the Aging (IAHA) has reorganized and changed its name to the Life Services Network of Illinois (LSN) to better reflect the diversification and programs its members represent.

The statewide Association with offices in Hinsdale and Springfield, represents 300 organizations providing nursing services, retirement housing, assisted living and community services to over 35,000 older adults in Illinois.

The Goldman Home, 6601 W. Touhy, Niles, is a proud member of Life Services Network of Illinois.

"As part of this association, the Goldman Home has the additional support we need as we continue to meet the changing needs of the different populations we serve. Our dedication to quality care is enhanced by our professional affiliation with Life Services Network of Illinois," said Pam Seefurth, Administrator.

The troupes have been featured on Chicago television, Good Morning America, in books and in magazine and newspaper articles. Their performances have also taken them across the country. Currently both troupes are preparing for a trip to Las Vegas the week of Jan. 8, 1995, where they will perform at the National Senior Theatre Festival, University of Nevada, Jan. 8, 1995.

Acting Up! was created by Oakton Community College with continuing support from the Skokie Fine Arts Commission and the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Dennis Bozzi, President of Life Services Network of Illinois is also excited about the changes approved by his members, because all these changes will enhance the Association's effectiveness to better respond to member needs and is not a departure from the historical mission of IAHA.

"There has been no change in our goals or in the quality care our members represent. We are retooling to meet the challenges of a rapidly changing health care environment. We feel renewed," he said.

The name change was approved on Oct. 5 at the Membership Meeting during IAHA's Fall Conference and Exhibition in Peoria, IL, and is effective immediately. The Goldman Home has been an active member in IAHA and now Life Services Network of Illinois. Life Services Network of Illinois is an affiliate of the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging, located in Washington, D.C.

SJB Golden Agers weather the Spooky Storm

The ghosts and goblins were ready. Costumes on, bags ready for treats, it was Halloween. It should have been fun. But happy Halloween was not happy! Torrents of rain and blustering mischievous gales of wind that bespooked many an umbrella forced all trick or treaters to find refuge in their homes.

The day after, things calmed down and the Golden Agers held their business meeting as usual, where they discussed the following items.

On Nov. 9, 41 members of the club will attend the Candlelight Theatre to see the Will Rogers Follies.

Carl Ferina thanked Irene Panico for her excellent handling of the trip to the Mississippi Belle. Everyone had a "belle" of a ball!

Carl announced that at the club's Nov. 15 meeting, Windjammer Travel will entertain club members with a movie about Caribbean cruises. Turkey sandwiches will be served. Everyone should try to attend.

On March 16, a Mayflower Tour for eight days to the Gulf of Mexico and several country music spots is being planned. The cost is $689. More details to come.

Carl Ferina then gave a poignant beautiful tribute to his wife

Alfreda. All the members loved her for she was a very kind and loving lady. It was a great shock about her loss and everyone surely will miss her very much.

Felix Jach spoke to the club about the club's Halloween party, which was a great success. Felix thanked all of the volunteers who worked so hard. It was a truly enjoyable party. The food from Kissane caterers was delicious. Entertainment by Penny Pryor was enjoyed by all -- particularly moving was her rendition of "Wind Beneath My Wings."

The club's yearly bake sale will be held Nov. 19 and Nov. 29. Chairladies Lillian Miller and Joan Provenzano expect all members to help make this a great success. Joan, get well soon; everyone misses you!

Vice President Henry Piontek announced that the club's Christmas party will be held Dec. 13 at Chateau Ritz.

Rose Majewski, the club's spiritual director, thanked all the club members who were in the group at the 5 o'clock Mass. She also would like to see more members take part in the Masses. The Mass this month will be on Nov. 26.

The subject of "wake" calls came up. All members must realize that it is important that everyone seriously take the responsibility of making their calls. Hopefully, members can do better on these calls.

President Mike Provenzano presented all the volunteers who worked for Little City and the contributors with an "Angel" pin as a "thank you" from Nicholas Blase. The Niles group collected $6,625, a total that more than doubled the amount collected by the last three villages on the volunteer listing by cities.

Mike Provenzano's great love and dedication to Little City prompted Rosella and Frank Gloriana to encourage the AT&T Volunteer Pioneers to make some of their Hug-A-Bears for this worthy cause. One hundred and eight Hug-A-Bears were delivered to Little City by the AT&T Volunteer Pioneers -- and these bears were received with great thanks from the residents who live there.

Camille Dimaggio celebrated her birthday on the club's meeting day. May many more happy and healthy years be yours, Camille.

Would you believe that the Christmas decorations are up already at Marshall Field's -- it's not even turkey time yet!

It's amazing how we get from Halloween to Christmas without passing turkey or collecting snow!

December is an exciting month for seniors who enjoy taking one-day excursions with the Northbrook Park District.

Immerse yourself in the magic of "Les Miserables," one of America's most popular shows, on Dec. 1, at the Auditorium Theatre in downtown Chicago. A complete Italian dinner at the Como Inn Restaurant will follow the performance.

Or, enjoy a trip to the famous Christmas House in Racine, Wisconsin, including lunch arrangements, on Dec. 6. This journey is a holiday treat you won't want to miss.

Both senior excursions include round trip transportation by deluxe motorcoach. Buses depart from and return to the Park District Sports Center located at 1720 Pingston Rd.

If you would like to join your fellow Senior Center members for either or both of these memorable trips, call the office at 291-2988 to reserve your place.

Few seniors make use of Medicare benefit

Thousands of serious illnesses, hospitalizations, and deaths can be prevented if older Americans receive flu shots before the onset of fall and winter. But, a recent study by the U. S. Department of Health and Human Services found that only about one-third of seniors enrolled in the Medicare program used their Medicare benefits to pay for the flu shots.

Health and Human Services Secretary Donna E. Shalala has announced the start of a major public information campaign to encourage everybody age 65 and over to get a flu shot.

"Severe illness is especially tragic when it could have been prevented by immunization," Secretary Shalala said.

The HHS study found that only about thirty-five percent of all Medicare beneficiaries took advantage of the program's payment for flu shots during the 1993 flu season. The rate for minority group seniors was even lower, about seventeen percent.

Secretary Shalala vowed that "1994 will be different. Our goal is to reach every older American with information on the Medicare flu immunization benefit, with special emphasis on hard-to-reach populations." HHS is making a concerted effort to spread the word about flu shots in areas with high concentrations of minority populations.

The flu shots are given at no cost to Medicare beneficiaries who receive them from "participating physicians" - doctors who agree to accept the Medicare amount as payment in full. The usual Medicare deductible and copayment requirements do not apply to the flu shot. Beneficiaries must be enrolled in Part B (Medical Insurance) of the Medicare program in order to be eligible for the flu shot.

Older Americans concerned about out-of-pocket expenses should be able to find providers who will administer flu shots at no cost to beneficiaries," said Bruce C. Vladeck, administrator of the federal Health Care Financing Administration. Medicare beneficiaries can get a list of participating physicians by contacting the Medicare carrier for their state.

The shot is also available at hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, and public health clinics.

Alive with entertainment

Harbor Village Retirement Community at 3121 N. Sheridan Rd., takes advantage of its bright and spacious facilities to host activities and events for Chicago seniors. The elegantly decorated Harbor Village lobby and living room with comfortable seating, grand piano, and balconies, makes the ideal stage and backdrop for live entertainment. Here, after soprano Diane Klima packed the house with her nostalgic Jeanette MacDonald performance, several gentlemen from the audience appeared on stage to present the entertainer with flowers. Studies find most die without a will

More than $8 trillion will be passed on to the next generation through inheritances over the next decade, according to current estimates. Yet studies have found that despite the increasing financial worth of today's estates, more than 70 percent of all Americans die without leaving a valid will. That's unfortunate because of the problems it can cause.

Writing a will is much more than just a way to express one's wishes for the future. It can be a very practical part of financial planning that can someday save your family and loved ones needless trouble and expense.

Many people believe they don't need a will because the estate they will be leaving is not very large. But even for a small estate, the directions that are outlined in a will can avoid family squabbles and provide many benefits. Most importantly, a carefully planned will can help heirs and other beneficiaries avoid complications and unnecessary legal costs.

Often the hardest part of writing a will is simply getting started on the project. That's why the American Institute for Cancer Research has prepared a free brochure and workbook which explain the process and make it all much easier to organize. The special workbook also helps organize information needed to write a will, which can mean a much smaller bill when you visit an attorney to write your will.

To order a free copy of "Six Steps to a Thoughtful and Practical Will" and the AICR Will Organizer, call toll-free 1 (800) 842-8114, ext. 61, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time.

Those Golden Years

A look at the Department on Aging

With an eye toward future needs of an aging population, the Illinois Department on Aging was created in November 1973 to coordinate a system of services and assistance for senior citizens.

The two largest programs operated by the department are for alternative care and community support services. The primary objectives of these programs are to offer services that help the elderly remain in their homes, thus preventing premature or unnecessary institutionalization.

During the early years of the department's existence, a major portion of the agency's funding was provided by federal sources. However, since fiscal 1990, the General Revenue Fund has accounted for more than 70 percent of the agency's total expenditures.

Living revocable trust offers many advantages

Do you worry about how your assets will be handled after you're gone? Will they be distributed to your children and other beneficiaries as you wish? Will that distribution be subject to probate, unnecessary delays and high legal expenses?

Those are common worries for most people, but today there is an alternative to the common will that might help you avoid most of those problems. A living revocable trust could help your estate avoid probate, have more privacy, and minimize estate taxes.

One benefit of a living revocable trust that many people appreciate is the privacy it offers. The directions for property disposition that a will specifies are open to public scrutiny when the will is probated. But assets passed on through a living revocable trust generally avoid probate and being made part of the public record.

Living revocable trusts also provide protection for your investments while you are still alive. The trust agreement normally includes designating a successor trustee to manage the assets of the trust if you become ill or incapacitated, or are simply away on travel for an extended time. The designation of the successor trustee, who can be a family member or a financial professional, is made by the person establishing the trust.

It is important to see an attorney in order to establish a living revocable trust. Each trust is individually planned to meet an individual's needs and to meet the laws of the state in which it is written. An added benefit of the living revocable trust is that it can be modified or even cancelled as our needs change over the years.

You can find out more about a living revocable trust and its benefits from the free booklet "Gaining Maximum Benefits from a Living Revocable Trust," write to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. LRT, Washington, DC 20069.

New firm checks up on kids, elderly

Ken Stall, MSW, and his wife Judy, realized the problem the elderly, shut-ins and many children of single people face - the need for someone to check to see how they are.

Today's lifestyle leaves little time to fulfill our good intentions, such as calling daily to check on our elderly parents. In addition, working parents worry about their "latchkey" children returning home from school to an empty house.

The Stalls developed a business idea to help the elderly, shut-ins, and latchkey children, called Computerized Monitor Service, a computerized telephone calling service which calls a loved one at a set time of day, any (or all) days of the week. If no one answers, the computer service calls up to three help numbers provided by the customer for assistance.

"I wish I had had this service for my children when I was a single parent and had to work every day when they were coming home from school," Judy said. "I didn't always have time to call them every afternoon, and I always worried about them until I got home."

"My Dad could have used this service, too, when he was a widower living alone the last few years of his life," Ken added. They both agreed that many middle-aged working couples have elderly parents living independently who want and need to be checked on daily, but there isn't always time to do it. Now, Computerized Monitor Service will do it for them, faithfully, as many as three times each and every day.

Here's how it works. The computer calls Mrs. Jones according to her wishes at 8 a.m., 2 p.m., and 8 p.m., with a customized message: "Hello, Mrs. Jones. This is Computerized Monitor Service calling. If you are okay, press 1 on your phone. If you need assistance, press 0. Thank you." If there is no answer to any of the three calls, or if Mrs. Jones presses 0 on her phone, the computer then calls up to three pre-selected help numbers, such as a relative or neighbor with a key.

"We also wish to emphasize that while the computer is making these pre-recorded phone calls, each call is customized to the client's wishes in a male or female voice. We can even remind someone to take their medication at regular intervals," the Stalls said.

The Stalls believe that their service is the first of its kind in the Chicagoland area. For more information on this service, call Judy or Ken at (708) 234-6300.

Eldercare Locator helps seniors find local support resources

U.S. Assistant Secretary for Aging, Fernando M. Torres-Gil announced recently that the Eldercare Locator—a nationwide, toll-free, directory assistance service providing access to information about home and community services that help older persons—has been funded for an additional three years.

Torres-Gil also stated that since its inception as a demonstration project three years ago, the Eldercare Locator reached a landmark number of 100,000 calls.

"We are very pleased with this record number of phone calls primarily because it means that the Eldercare Locator service has helped thousands of callers locate resources that help people lead healthy, independent lives in their later years," Torres-Gil said.

Anyone can call the Eldercare Locator at (800) 677-1116, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. The service helps link callers to information about community organizations that provide meals, transportation, housing, home care, legal and other community services, enabling older persons to remain independent in their own homes.

"Whether there is an immediate need or information is required for long term planning, calling the Eldercare Locator is the way to find the best source of information about the community where the older person lives," Torres-Gil said. "Plus, as a nationwide service, the Eldercare Locator helps ease the strain of long-distance caregiving."

The Eldercare Locator is a public service of the Administration on Aging, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and is administered by the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging and the National Association of State Units on Aging.

A handy brochure describing the Eldercare Locator service is available by writing the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging, 1112 16th Street, N.W., Suite 100, Washington, DC, 20036-4823.

Meals on Wheels program for seniors

The holidays should be a time of family and sharing. But sometimes distance separates older persons from their loved ones and they find themselves alone for the holidays. This holiday season, the Suburban Area Agency on Aging service network is offering Meals on Wheels Illinois to make sure homebound seniors in need receive some special attention on Thanksgiving.

All across the state, Meals on Wheels Illinois reaches out to isolated older persons who are not able to prepare a special holiday meal. Last year, in suburban Cook County, 354 seniors received meals served by volunteers recruited by local service agencies. This special holiday program supplements the Home Delivered Meals program which supplies an average of 7,570 meals weekly to older persons in suburban Cook County.

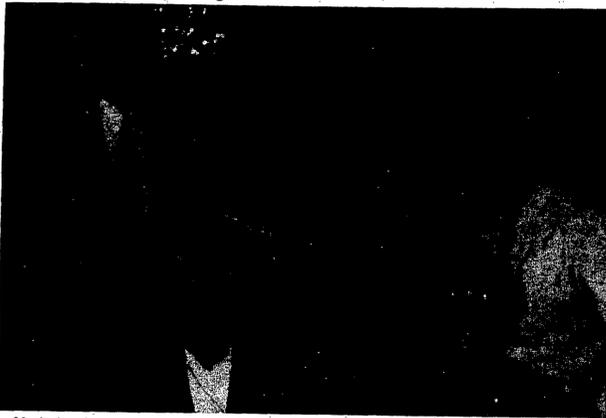

A home delivered holiday meal through the Meals on Wheels Illinois program costs just $7. Each meal will be accompanied by a gift of personal grooming supplies, generously donated by the Colgate-Palmolive Company.

Special commemorative holiday cards are offered for $3 each by the Area Agency to help support the program. It is the perfect way to make the holidays a true cause for celebration for a lonely, homebound elderly person. The entire donation for each card is used exclusively for the cost of a meal and is tax deductible.

If you would like to purchase cards, if you know of an older person in need of a special holiday meal this Thanksgiving, or if you would like to make your own holiday a little more special by delivering a meal to a grateful senior, call the Suburban Area Agency on Aging at (708) 383-0258 and ask for the "Meals on Wheels Illinois Program." Your contributions of time and money will help to make the holidays especially memorable to a senior who may feel forgotten and alone.

If you know of an older person in another area of Illinois who would appreciate a special holiday meal, call the Illinois Department on Aging at 1-(800) 252-8966 to locate the local service agency coordinating the Meals on Wheels Illinois program.

Township seniors enjoy lyrical luncheon

More than 3,800 residents are part of the Maine Township seniors, which offers monthly luncheons, bingo, trips and other programs. Most activities are limited to members, but there's no cost to join and new members always are welcome. Residents who wish to enroll must be at least 65 years old and live in Maine Township. For a membership application, or for more information about trips and other activities, call Neuschel at 297-2510, ext. 240 or 241.

Seniors offered low-cost wills in Park Ridge

Eligible senior citizens are offered low-cost will preparation services through the Senior Citizens Will Program Wednesday, Dec. 7, at the Center of Concern in Park Ridge. Advance appointments are required and will be scheduled beginning at 9 a.m. that day.

An attorney from The Chicago Bar Association will provide free consultations about wills to seniors who register for the service. At a client's request, the attorney will also prepare a simple will for a reduced fee. The cost for drawing up a will is not more than $50 for an individual ($75 for a couple).

Durable Power of Attorney and Living Will forms are available free of charge. A Durable Power of Attorney allows a senior to designate another person to make property or health care decisions in the event the senior becomes physically or mentally unable to do so. A Living Will allows an individual with a terminal health condition to express his or her desire to have death-delaying procedures withheld or withdrawn.

Seniors may complete the Durable Power of Attorney and Living Will forms themselves, or they may hire the attorney to help fill them out and to explain the various options available on the forms. The fee for the attorney to provide legal advice about a Durable Power of Attorney is $75 maximum for an individual ($125 for a couple). The charge for a Living Will is no more than $50 for an individual ($75 for a couple).

Other speakers included Myrna Hochberg, who has multiple sclerosis, and Des Plaines residents Mary and Tom Snyder, who talked about learning to cope with Mary's cataract-caused vision problems.

The Town Hall is accessible to the disabled, and a sign-language interpreter is available for anyone who needs one. Rehab services expand at Glenview Terrace Glenview Terrace Nursing Center is expanding its rehabilitation department to better integrate its physical, occupational and speech-language therapy services. The result of these efforts will be to restore individuals to their maximum level of function in the shortest amount of time and assist patients in maintaining optimum independence.

The team behind this comprehensive rehabilitation department, Achievement Rehab, combines strong clinical experience in geriatrics with an integrated approach that better serves the patient.

Susan Bagnieski, Rehabilitation Services Director at Glenview Terrace, will supervise the day-to-day operation of the department including all clinical work done by the therapists. One of her first duties will be to assist in planning the move of the department to a larger space-adjacent to the first floor dining room. This move will more than double the current space used for therapy. This larger "Therapy Gym" will allow patients to be treated with greater privacy and more services.

"I'm excited about the opportunity we have at Glenview Terrace to serve both the short term rehabilitation patient and the long term resident," Bagnieski said. "Both have unique, highly individualized rehabilitation needs that we will be able to help."

Physical therapy helps individuals increase strength and physical mobility; it also improves balance and coordination. Physical therapy can be very effective in speeding recovery from some types of injuries. Occupational therapy increases the ability of individuals to carry out the activities of daily living, such as eating and dressing. Speech therapy focuses on enhancing communication and swallowing skills in order to maintain nutrition and hydration.

Glenview Terrace Nursing Center, 1511 N. Greenwood Road in Glenview, is a 293-bed skilled nursing facility. For more information regarding the Rehabilitation Department, call Susan Bagnieski, at (708) 729-9090.

New TDD number for Senior Agency

The Suburban Area Agency on Aging, Oak Park, has recently installed a separate telephone line for its TDD (telephone device for the deaf). A TDD is a small type-writer-style machine which allows a hearing or voice impaired person to make a telephone call directly to a person with a compatible unit. A TDD either displays conversation on a visual screen or prints words on paper. The Area Agency's new TDD number is (708) 524-1653. (Previously the Area Agency TDD was on the same line as the general telephone number (708) 383-0258). The Area Agency hopes the new line will make it easier for hearing impaired individuals to contact us and learn about the many benefits and services available to senior citizens in suburban Cook County.

An open letter to MY SON,

Dear Son - A mother knows when her son is worried about her. I could tell when I visited that you didn't like my living alone. Yes, son, I don't like living alone but I know that you have your own family and your own life. That is why I couldn't even think of living with you. I only wish that I could live some place where I won't be lonely, and where I could be near you and the children. Love as ever Mom

Plan wise tax strategies for retirement

If you're retired, or soon will be, don't make the mistake of thinking that tax planning is only for people who are still working or who have large retirement incomes. The changes made by the 1993 tax law take a bigger tax bite out of many levels of income, including the moderate incomes of many retirees. But with just a little planning, it's still possible to minimize those taxes and enjoy more of your retirement income.

That's especially important if you have only a moderate income in addition to your Social Security payments. The new tax laws could reduce that income considerably by taxing as much as 85 percent of your annual Social Security payments. And if those extra taxes mean you need to generate additional income by selling appreciated property, such as stocks or real estate, you could find yourself facing expensive capital gains taxes, and possibly even higher taxes on your Social Security benefits.

How do you steer around the obstacles to get the most financial security? A free booklet, "Tax Strategies to Increase Your Retirement Income," can help you make your retirement finances more rewarding by identifying five important areas to consider in light of the new tax law. The booklet gives tips on minimizing the tax on your Social Security benefits, planning for itemized deductions, tax planning with your IRA, keeping the gain on your personal residence and avoiding a capital gains tax.

This informative and easy-to-read booklet also discusses charitable remainder trusts and charitable gift annuities as financial planning techniques that may dramatically increase your spendable income and also reduce your current income tax liability.

To receive the free booklet, "Tax Strategies to Increase Retirement Income," write the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. TXS, Washington, DC 20069, or call toll-free 1 (800) 843-8114, ext. 52, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays Eastern time.

Alzheimer's patients needed for drug studies

The Northwestern University Medical School department of psychiatry and behavioral sciences is seeking patients for studies of two drugs for the treatment of symptoms of Alzheimer's disease.

The first study will evaluate an experimental drug to treat the psychotic and behavioral disturbances in patients with Alzheimer's disease. The study begins with 10 weekly clinic appointments followed by an optional 14-week extension period.

Patients must be older than 65, in good general health but with moderate to severe Alzheimer's disease, with psychotic symptoms and/or behavioral disturbances of sufficient severity to warrant treatment. Nursing home residents and outpatients are eligible for this study, but outpatients must have a caregiver willing to attend visits at Northwestern Memorial Hospital and supervise the patient taking the medication.

The second study involves an experimental drug for treating memory loss due to Alzheimer's disease.

To qualify for this study, patients must have a history of at least one year of gradual, progressive memory loss and impaired thinking that is severe enough to interfere with social or occupational functioning. Patients must be able to swallow medium-sized tablets and be in reasonably good physical health. They also must have a caregiver willing to attend each clinic visit at Northwestern Memorial Hospital and supervise patients taking the medication.

The study will last 26 weeks with 11 clinic visits, followed by an optional extension of treatment.

For more information on these studies, contact Carolyn Cooler, R.N., at (312) 908-8813.

Specialized Center treats hernias, hemorrhoids, varicose veins

The Center for Vascular and Hernia Repair at Lincoln West Hospital has helped a large number of patients find relief from conditions such as hemorrhoids, varicose veins, hernias. "The types of conditions we treat are much more prevalent than people realize," states Ralph Gradman, M.D., board-certified surgeon and Medical Director of the Center.

"There are a lot of people walking around with hemorrhoids, hernias, varicose veins, and related conditions. Many of these conditions can be treated with simple outpatient procedures that can mean tremendous relief for the patient."

The Center also treats peripheral vascular conditions which are the result of narrowing or blocking of arteries in the legs, arms and neck. Patients with these conditions may complain of soreness in their legs during activity, scaly or dry skin, numbness or cold feet. Physicians utilize the latest medical technology to diagnose and treat these conditions.

The Center for Vascular and Hernia Repair is located in suite 488 inside Lincoln West Hospital, 2544 W. Montrose Avenue, on Chicago's north side. If you are suffering from discomfort as a result of hemorrhoids, varicose veins, a hernia, or a related condition, call and schedule an appointment at the Center for Vascular and Hernia Repair. Patients visiting the Center for the first time receive a free evaluation. Appointments can be scheduled through Lincoln West Hospital's Health Connection Line at (312) 533-CARE (312) 533-2273.

Norwood Park Home now offers skilled nursing care

Norwood Park Home, a residence for seniors located on Chicago's far northwest side, further expanded its services this fall. The Home is now licensed by the Illinois Department of Public Health to offer Skilled Nursing Care, a more advanced level of nursing care that allows for procedures such as the use of I.V.s, treatment of residents with advanced skin problems, swallowing difficulties, and much more.

"We're delighted to be able to expand our continuum of service," said Executive Director Marcia K. Hagopian. "Our new status allows us to handle more medical procedures right here on the premises, instead of transferring residents to the hospital."

For decades, Norwood Park Home has been licensed to offer "Intermediate Care"—an industry term meaning more moderate nursing care—as well as Sheltered Care, a level for relatively independent seniors. In August, the Home passed with flying colors a survey administered by the Illinois Department of Public Health, the agency that granted the expanded licensing. Typically, even well-run homes generate pages of comments by inspectors. The August survey resulted in only one comment—a remarkable record. The agency's report is available for public inspection during business hours in the Home's main office.

In the recent past, Norwood Park Home has also added two other important services. The first is Hospice Care, through the Hospice of the North Shore, which provides comprehensive hospice services to terminally ill residents and their families. The second is Respite Care, or short-term care, for residents who wish to stay for one to four weeks only to recuperate from a hospital stay, for example, or to provide a rest, or respite, for their caregiver.

Norwood Park Home has operated on the same site (6016 N. Nina Ave., Chicago) for nearly 100 years, and will celebrate its Centennial year in 1996. An information packet, as well as information about the Home's monthly Open Houses, is available on request at (312) 631-4856. Also, a video on Norwood Park Home is available on a 30-day loan basis for the asking.

A new tradition begins at The Claremont

The doors of The Claremont Rehab and Living Center officially opened on Oct. 17, marking the beginning of a new concept in complex care, skilled and rehabilitative residential care services in the North Shore. Located at 150 North Weiland Road in Buffalo Grove, this premier 200-bed facility, is unlike any other offering in this region. Residents will enjoy an elegant and gracious home-like setting with a wide variety of services and programs to meet every care need. From a state-of-the-art complex care wing, to cutting-edge therapeutic techniques and innovative rehabilitation programs, the objective is to help residents regain and maintain maximum independence while enjoying a quality lifestyle.

Immediately upon walking through the front doors of The Claremont, it is evident that the facility was designed to emphasize gracious living in elegant surroundings. Amenities such as a charming library, cheerful ice cream shop, gracious dining rooms, gift shop and a beauty salon/barber shop encourage an active lifestyle for every level of independence. Community events and activities are also a regular part of The Claremont's social offerings. Mealtime is undoubtedly a highlight of each day, with delicious menus designed by culinary experts.

Residents of The Claremont are able to take advantage of extensive rehabilitation services, which include both traditional and cutting-edge therapies. Resident participation and family involvement is encouraged in a wide variety of physical, occupational and speech therapy offerings, including alternative therapies such as the Feldenkrais® Method. This innovative therapy teaches residents to tap innate abilities and strengths in order to regain mobility or skills impaired by a stroke or other physical ailment. A fully-equipped apartment in the rehabilitation department allows residents to practice daily-living skills that accommodate their special needs.

Family involvement in the treatment plan plays a very important role in the philosophy of the rehabilitation program at The Claremont. "Our goal is to work with family members first to help them better understand their loved one's health situation and care needs and then to get them involved in the rehabilitation program," Dr. Mrunal Panchal, Director of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Services explains. Supporting A Wide Variety of Resident Needs

Located on the first floor of The Claremont, The Springwood offers a choice of elegant accommodations, from suites to private and semi-private rooms. These well-appointed living quarters feature mahogany wardrobes and nightstands, as well as private baths with a shower. Interior accents create a pleasant and inviting environment for the most discriminating resident. A concierge is available to assist with personal needs such as planning a special celebration or ordering flowers for a friend. The recreation staff offers social activities, interesting programs and creative workshops.

Specialized services for residents with Alzheimer's disease or other thought-process disorders are available in another, secured wing. Intensive nursing care and customized therapy programs address mental and physical needs while providing a care setting focused on maintaining resident dignity. Support groups will also be available to assist family members in understanding these unique health problems.

"While a cure has yet to be found, we have learned a lot about Alzheimer's disease over the years," said Martha Larson of Arthur Shuster, Inc., the interior design firm for The Claremont. "And what we've learned has made it possible for us to create care environments for these people that are definitely more conducive to their health and well-being."

One of the trend-setting offerings at The Claremont is the complex care services. This type of care, traditionally offered only in an acute hospital setting, is available in rooms designed to accommodate state-of-the-art equipment. The Renew Rehab program at The Claremont is appropriate for patients requiring post-surgery and complex wound care; ventilator care and weaning; kidney dialysis; antibiotic, chemotherapy, nutritional and other infusion therapies; pain or respiratory management; and orthopedic and neurological rehabilitation.

"What makes the Renew Rehab concept unique," said Zubin Tantra, physical therapy director, "is that it uses both traditional and non-traditional therapies to improve health and mobility. Therefore, the opportunities to enhance resident wellness are greater than ever before."

Hospice services are also available for those with life-limiting illnesses who desire a comfort-care setting. These services, which are provided through Hospice of the North Shore, include a wide range of physical, emotional and spiritual support programs for both patient and family members, with an emphasis on easing suffering and grief. The diversity of living opportunities, services and programs offered by the Claremont is certain to position it as the North Shore's premier residential care facility for discerning residents and caring families.

Maine Township offers senior programs A to Z

Demand for senior services is strong and growing in Maine Township, which has some 40,000 residents over the age of 55. And whatever the need, Maine Township's Senior & Adult Services Department is ready to help.

The Maine Township seniors, for example, offers social programs and events for more than 3,800 adults ages 65 and up. Its regular activities include two monthly bingo games, two monthly theme luncheons with entertainment, crafts instruction, theater outings and trips.

Another program, Options 55, is aimed at pre-retirement adults ages 55 through 65. Now serving about 1,300 Maine Township residents, Options 55 allows adults nearing retirement to explore a wide variety of activities, including evening and weekend trips, and meet other people with similar interests.

Widowed and other single adults ages 45 through 65 can enjoy socializing and other activities through One + Options, a group with about 500 members. One + Options offers seminars on subjects of interest to older singles, a Cuisine Club for dining adventures, a Sunday Strollers group, and both weekend and long-distance trips.

Membership in the Maine Township Seniors, Options 55 and One + Options is free. Seniors of all ages have many opportunities for volunteer work with Maine Township. Among the programs in which they can help is "Hello Grandma." Introduced last year, "Hello Grandma" allows area children ages 6 through 13 who are home alone after school to call a senior volunteer to discuss homework and classmates or just to chat.

Maine Township also offers a Senior Citizen Information and Assistance Service, which is a guide to resources for senior citizen housing, medical services, social and mental health services, nutrition, home-delivered meals, employment, energy assistance, social activities, the "circuit breaker" property tax exemption, shared housing and other services. Nearly 5,000 residents used this service last year.

Through the Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP), Maine Township also provides help with filing Medicare claims and reviewing long-term care policies.

Maine Township also offers several publications targeting seniors, including "The Handy Book," a guide to reliable people who perform home-related services; "The Homebound Newsletter," a periodic mailing with useful information and inspirational thoughts; and "Moving On," a booklet about community resources and activities for widowed or divorced adults. For more information on Maine Township's senior and adult programs, call Sue Nuschel at 297-2510, ext. 240.

Formation of Goals 2000 Panel announced

Gov. Jim Edgar and State Superintendent of Education Joe Spagnola recently announced the formation of the Goals 2000 Panel, a group which will focus on designing a comprehensive plan that will chart a course for improving student and school performance in Illinois.

Spagnola said, "The Goals 2000 Act serves as a catalyst for states to provide school improvement from an integrated rather than a fragmented approach. In Illinois, the State Board of Education has already taken action to address school reform from an integrated perspective.

"These federal dollars will aid the State in furthering its commitment to bring about educational changes that improve the academic performance of students. Illinois recently received $4 million through the Goals 2000: Educate America Act. Besides developing a systemic plan for school improvement, the Goals 2000 Panel will advise the State Board of Education on the use of this money to boost academic standards for students.

Of the money awarded, $3.8 million will be used for state and local school-improvement activities, some of which will be in the form of competitive grants offered by the State Board of Education. The remaining $150,000 is to be used to promote technology.

After receiving approval from the State Board of Education, the Goals 2000 Panel's plan will be submitted to the United States Department of Education for approval. The federal government will provide funding to states under

Suburban mayors and police support Safe Neighborhoods Bill

Mayor Daley and a number of suburban mayors and police chiefs today highlighted the gang provisions of Daley's crime bill to emphasize the need for new statewide laws to fight gangs and drugs. Daley's Illinois Safe Neighborhoods Bill will be considered during the fall session of the General Assembly.

The bill has been endorsed by the Illinois Municipal League, the Fraternal Order of Police, the Illinois Chiefs of Police, the Illinois Police Association, Illinois State Police, and the Illinois State's Attorneys Association, and the Policemen's Benevolent and Protective Association. Daley explained that the Illinois Safe Neighborhoods Bill balances the need for tougher sentencing for repeat violent offenders while promoting alternatives like community-service and community-based programs for first-time minor offenders.

"We must be tougher on repeat violent offenders while doing more to save the kids who can be saved. This bill strikes the right balance and I'm pleased to have the support of mayors and police chiefs from throughout the state," Daley said.

Jesse White to receive award

Jesse White, Cook County recorder of deeds and founder of the Jesse White Tumblers, will be honored with the first annual "St. Francis Reach for the Stars Award" Saturday, Nov. 19.

The award will be presented to White during Reach for the Stars, the annual black tie dinner dance for St. Francis Hospital & Health Center, Blue Island.

"We're honoring White for his exemplary commitment to the underprivileged children of Chicago," said Soo In Lee, M.D., chairman of the Reach for the Stars planning committee. "His achievements reflect the mission of St. Francis Hospital & Health Center."

The "St. Francis Reach for the Stars Award" honors an individual who has distinguished himself or herself within the fields of medical science, technology, health education/awareness or community service.

In 1959, White founded the Jesse White Tumbling Team to help children in Chicago's Cabrini-Green housing complex. The team has grown over the years, motivating more than 1,800 young men and women to strive for success. They have performed across the United States, Canada and Japan.

White is also active in the political arena. He was elected Cook County recorder of deeds in 1992. Prior to this election to recorder of deeds, White served in the Illinois General Assembly for 16 years.

The St. Francis Reach for the Stars Award will be presented to White during the Reach for the Stars dinner dance Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Fairmount Hotel, Chicago. The event benefits the St. Francis Health Care Foundation.

PIC opened the REPRO X facility in July of 1993 to meet the expanding needs of economically disadvantaged individuals in the northern Cook County communities. Since its inception, the facility has grown from a one-shift operation with a staff of three to a two-shift operation with a staff of fifteen. The program offers eligible individuals long-term temporary employment (up to two years) with vocational training.

While economically disadvantaged individuals benefit from a combined employment and training program, the public and the environment benefit through its intensive recycling operation. Within its first year, REPRO X was able to divert almost three million pounds of plastic from public landfills.

For more information on REPRO X, PIC or its programs, contact Amy Roberts at (708) 699-9040, ext. 158.

Tips on starting a family business

The most successful family businesses are started by one or two individuals who later on, on a gradual basis, involve other family members, and who are lucky enough to find the right business at the right time.

That observation comes from Terri Friedman Zeiger, president of the Family Business Association of Illinois (FBAI).

Zeiger noted that family members should already have a strong personal relationship before taking on the additional stress of working together.

To those who contemplate starting a family business, Zeiger offers the following advice: Be aware of each other's talents. This is far more difficult than it sounds, according to Zeiger. Family members often have pre-conceived notions of what others can or cannot do. "Someone who was lazy when young may have become hard-working as an adult," she said. "Conversely, too much credit may be given to a family member when it is not justified. The background experience and strengths of each person must be evaluated objectively."

Consider using a consultant to help pick a business target. Selecting a business that is right for the mix of family members who plan to operate it, is critical, said Zeiger. An outside expert can provide objective advice - from the search for the business to final negotiations - which can lead to the best decisions, she said. Family members who eventually will join the business should continue earning income outside the business during the early stages. "These family members may actually help subsidize the company in the beginning," said Zeiger. "If this is the case, they should be allowed to participate in major decisions of the company." These decisions include determining who will have decision-making powers, compensation issues, training needs, selection of outside advisors, and the extent to which the business is willing to have non-family members involved in management.

Plan to become involved in trade, business or community organizations. Family businesses more than most tend to insulate themselves, according to Zeiger. Involvement in outside organizations can provide a fresh perspective and contribute to the overall growth and success of the business, she said.

The Family Business Association of Illinois can help individuals cope with these and other challenges encountered in operating and working for a family-owned business. Founded in 1971, FBAI offers seminars, workshops and a newsletter that help strengthen family relationships inside and outside the business; learn from the experience of other family companies; and network with other family-owned businesses.

Fourth annual Precision Metalworking Competition

The Tooling and Manufacturing Association (TMA) is pleased to announce sponsorship of its fourth annual Precision Metalworking Competition. The competition is designed to recognize outstanding manufacturing technology high school students for skill and excellence in precision metalworking and to recognize the teachers who provide instructional support to these students.

TMA's Precision Metalworking Competition is open to any student in a manufacturing technology educational class, or accredited metals class (cooperative education, extended campus, etc.) in any Illinois public or private high school. Students will select prints from three levels of difficulty. Each student may enter up to two projects, which will be machined to comply with blueprint specifications. All projects must be the individual work of the student. Instructor participation is restricted to guidance and supervision of the student's selection, planning and implementation of the project. The project must be completed during the 1994-95 school year. Instructors are encouraged to incorporate the competition projects into the instructional curriculum. Projects may be delivered to TMA no later than Wednesday, April 19, 1995; they will be judged Friday, April 21, 1995 on the basis of criteria developed by the competition judging committee.

This year's competition features an all new prize structure, with U.S. Savings Bonds being awarded for the first, second and third place winning project in each of the three divisions. All prizes, which include savings bonds with a total face value of $11,550, trophies, ribbons, plaques and textbooks, will be awarded at the Precision Metalworking Competition Awards Luncheon, scheduled for Saturday, April 29, 1995 at the Holiday Inn O'Hare in Rosemont. All participating students, instructors and parents are invited to attend the awards luncheon.

In conjunction with the competition project exhibition on Friday, April 28 and Saturday, April 29, 1995, TMA will host a Manufacturing Career Fair, designed to present students, teachers and parents with an overview of the opportunities available in the manufacturing industry. TMA member volunteers, including tool makers, machinists, apprentices, and engineers, will be on hand to discuss their company's role in the industry, present samples of their company's work and discuss TMA's Job Referral Service. While the career fair is not a job fair, TMA members will also have the options of offering summer employment to career fair guests. The Career Fair offers an excellent field trip opportunity to area high schools and junior high schools.

In order to receive additional information on the 1995 Precision Metalworking Competition, contact Karen Mills at TMA (708) 825-1120 ext. 341.

Leisure Education is offered during the Fall, Winter, and Spring program sessions in conjunction with the school year. The purpose of leisure education for all children, including those with special needs, is to allow the child to enjoy leisure time experiences in a safe environment that will provide success rather than failure. M-NASR provides "season specific" programs as well as everything from canoeing to swimming. M-NASR takes programs into the classroom or provides transportation to the recreation area. Sessions are held in the morning or afternoon to coincide with teacher schedules.

Contact Glen Barklow at (708) 966-5522, for information regarding the Leisure Education program.

The Culture Bus rides again

The Notre Dame High School Culture Bus program is back for its third year. This program was conceived as a way of giving students the opportunity to sample the rich culture resources available in the city of Chicago. Due to the success of last year's program, we are opening certain outings to parents, alumni, and friends as well as students.

The calendar promises a taste of many different experiences. The first trip which took place on Thursday, Oct. 13, was the anniversary performance of the Who's rock opera "Tommy." Other trips include: three trips to the "Les Miserables" on Nov. 23 and Dec. 13 and 27; the world premiere of a dramatic performance by the star of Paul Simon's Graceland Tour, Ladysmith Black Mambazo, in April and the Culture Bus nine day theatre tour to London, England on June 12.

For more information, contact George Rattin at (708) 965-2900, #227.

Best students name best teachers

A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics, their former students, in the third edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers®, 1994.

All of the 65,500 teachers being honored were selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students®, or The National Dean's List®, publications which recognize the top 5% of our nation's high school and college students respectively.

The students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence. Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level.

Families that read together grow together

Secretary of State George H. Ryan invites parents to participate in family reading night, Thursday, Nov. 17.

Family reading night ideas for parents:

- Choose a special time and read together. Turn off the television and the radio. Ignore the dirty dishes and the telephone. Reserve the evening for "family time"
- Take turns reading aloud.
- Read with expression! Change your voice to fit different characters. Change your pace, sometimes reading very slowly, sometimes quickly, to suit the text.
- Read poems, magazines, or the newspaper. Many older children who won't read a book often enjoy magazines.
- Ask questions as you go along. Talk about the pictures. Your child will get more out of the book if you talk about it together. With older children, talk about the author or the illustrator.
- Curl up in a blanket with the whole family and read.
- Find ways to bring the books you read to life. Take turns being the troll or the goats if you read The Three Billy Goats Gruff. If you read Blueberries for Sal, eat blueberries. At bath time, read Max's Bath or King Bidgood's in the Bath.
- Tuck the children into bed and read bedtime stories.
- Invite grandparents for dinner and include them in Family Reading Night.
- Let your children know how much you admire them for reading. Tell other people what good readers they are. We all like to be praised! Hearing this will make them read more.

Sporting goods sought for resale to benefit ALS

"Sports Replay," a two-day sale of new and used sporting goods to benefit the Les Turner ALS Foundation, will take place the last weekend in April of 1995. In preparation, the public is urged to donate used sports equipment at any of the 10 drop-off sites located throughout Chicago and its suburbs. For larger items, volunteers will provide pickup service.

Presented by the Associate Board of the Les Turner ALS Foundation, sports from which items will be accepted include baseball, basketball, tennis, football, soccer, golf, exercise, scuba, camping, biking, skiing, fishing, hockey, in-line skating and ice skating.

Items which will not be collected include toys, clothing, helmets and any items in non-working condition. Clothing and shoes will be accepted from retailers and manufacturers only.

"Sports Relay" is modeled after the annual Old Orchard Mammouth Music & Record Mart, an 11-day tent sale of more than 400,000 new and used musical items which raises funds to support research and patient services at Northwestern University Medical School.

Amiotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), better known as Lou Gehrig's disease, is a terminal, progressive neuromuscular disease that attacks the muscles of the body while leaving the mind unaffected. There is no known treatment or cure.

The Les Turner ALS Foundation is the nation's largest independent organization dedicated to finding the causes and a cure for ALS. The Foundation has raised more than $7 million since its inception in 1977.

The Associate Board of the Les Turner ALS Foundation is a group of young professionals who assist with the foundation's fundraising efforts through special events and educational programs. Formed three years ago, the Associate Board raises funds for clinical and laboratory equipment and educational projects.

Add muscle to your workout

The many benefits of strength training are a powerful argument to include it in your regular exercise routine. These benefits include improved appearance with a leaner, firmer body; enhanced weight loss by improving metabolism or the rate at which you burn calories; reduced risk of injury by strengthening supportive muscles; and increase athletic performance. But the ultimate benefit of strength training is that it can improve one's "quality of life."

Surprising to many Americans is the fact that not all forms of strength training are the same. The kinds of resistance used with different strength training machines offer different features and benefits.

Most strength training equipment uses one of two basic forms of resistance - isotonic or isokinetic. There is a tremendous difference between the features of each type.

Isotonic resistance uses what is called constant resistance (free weights or weight stacks). This traditional form of resistance works the muscle at the same resistance level through the full exercise movement. The disadvantage of this is that muscles are weaker at some points during the exercise than at others. Another disadvantage is that isotonic exercise has been shown to cause excessive post-exercise muscle soreness and discomfort.

Isokinetic resistance. By definition, the term isokinetic means "same speed" and this form of resistance gives muscles maximum workout through the full exercise movement. A positive-only resistance method, it is the newest form of resistance in the area of training and conditioning and has gained tremendous popularity.

With isokinetics one can experience all of the benefits of strength training without the negatives of negative resistance.

For years, isokinetic products such as Cybex® were used by athletic trainers and sports physical therapists only for rehabilitative purposes because they were more effective, efficient and safer than equipment using isotonic. Because isokinetic equipment had typically been very expensive, its availability to the general public was limited.

Today, isokinetics are available in both commercial and in-home strength-training equipment. Using what is known as "accommodating" resistance, isokinetics automatically adjusts to accommodate the user's strength.

For example, as you push harder during an exercise, the resistance increases. Conversely, the less force you push with, the less resistance from the machine.

For more information on strength training, call The National Exercise For Life Institute at 1 (800) 358-3636 or write to P.O. Box 2000, Excelsior, MN 55331-9967.

Ryan announces increased library per capita grants

Secretary of State and State Librarian George H. Ryan, recently announced that Chicago Public Library will receive more than $3.9 million in general purpose grants this year and 181 suburban libraries will share more than $5.4 million.

Under Ryan's "Live & Learn" program, population-based funding for the state's public libraries rose last year from $9.5 million to more than $12 million. Ryan boosted the funds even higher this year, awarding $13.1 million to 594 public libraries, a 30 percent increase over the pre-"Live & Learn" funding level. "Libraries can use this money to add staff, expand collections, extend library hours—whatever services their patrons need most," said Ryan. "The funding is particularly important at this time, since many libraries face cost increases that outstrip revenue growth. In the suburbs, for instance, many libraries are hard hit by property tax caps." "Per capita funds make a real difference, helping public libraries stay on top of local information needs," Ryan said.

the drive realizing future bills may be more than $350,000. Lorenzo, my friendly barber on Oakton Street, used to jokingly suggest Niles accountant, Jim Callero, might be the next Niles Mayor after Nick Blase retires. It was our little joke. Two weeks ago Jimmy was appointed head of Niles Zoning Board. Since Nick will be running at least one more term, Jim might be Niles' first elected "da Mayor" in the 21st century. Meanwhile, Blase may be closing in on a record which could make him the longest running elected official in the United States. After Nick's next term he will have served 40 years. There's one local official today in the country who has served about this amount of time. Nick could become a record-breaker.

Drason's mother, Carolyn Pace said Friday, "It takes a generous spirit to do this" and she said, "After this is over, we'd like to have a big party for everyone who has helped us so much."

bond issue towards site preparation including removal of the underground storage tanks. In order to have sufficient money to clean the site, we had to presume there is contaminant present. We assumed that there may be contaminant present, Weides said. "You have to be ready to pay for sins that may have been innocently committed two or three generations ago."

The initial cost of the removal, coordinated by an outside environmental consultant, was about $12,000. Contamination can come from spillage and drips from filling vehicles, leaking pipes, overfills and leaks in the tank. The oldest tank was taken out of use and filled with sand about 1980. It was replaced by a 2,000-gallon steel gasoline tank, which had corrosion protection installed in 1985 to comply with manufacturer's recommendations.

A new fire department will be built over the area, with more administrative space. Construction is planned to begin in spring of 1995.

After the tanks' removal, soil samples will be sent to a private testing lab. Test results of the soil and groundwater will be completed at the end of November, Weides said.

changes are expected, O'Keefe said teachers are satisfied with the Friday settlement.

"They are happy with the compromise," he said. "They wanted to get back to work, to their job of teaching kids."

He commended the board for diligent negotiating last week and also their decision not to replace workers. "It really helps people get back into a better frame of mind" when they aren't replaced with temporary substitutes, the negotiator noted.

Board president John Lombardi never tried to downplay his elation about the teachers' return to work. He said he was enlightened by the first strike he had to deal with personally.

"I feel a lot better today than I did last week," he said Monday. "It was the most interesting, trying and ultimately, the most exhilarating week of my life."

"If I had to do it again, I would like to see anybody who is interested be able to get involved, even to the point of open negotiations," said Lombardi, who now supports the idea of open table talks. He also commended parents' patience throughout the strike week, calling them the "motivating factor for both sides."

The Niles Elementary PTA held a forum last week, allowing parents to hear from both sides of the contract battle. Lombardi said he knew exactly how parents felt. His daughter attends Culver.

"I tried to put a positive spin on things when talking to her about it," Lombardi said. "I told her, 'Nobody's wrong and nobody's right. Sometimes adults just disagree on things.'"

And sometimes, as in this case, they compromise.
