

From the Left Hand

by Bud Besser

Most of us make resolutions and continuous lists of things to do. Everyone is about to resolve to take off five or ten pounds. And exercise more. And maybe drink a little less or drink a glass of red wine at dinner time, allegedly for health reasons.

I'm one of the great list-makers. There's seldom a day I don't write in a spiral book that's parked in my breast pocket, a note on things to do.

Perhaps my most brilliant listing is suggesting I divide the year into four 13 week periods. Since I'm into my seventies, I can look forward to many more 13-week quarters than the more limited full 52-week years (that also applies to the under-70 crowd). I make 13-week resolutions not dissimilar to year-end New Years' resolutions.

I next send a note to myself suggesting I shake things up a bit. WATCH T.V. LESS. That reads like a note to one of my grandchildren. I've gotten hooked on cable C-Span channels and am forever watching or taping Brian Lamb and his interview and call-in shows. It has become a disease or an addiction. I've got C-Spanitis.

READ DIFFERENTLY. Instead of reading so much biography try some mysteries. Sarah Paretsky's Chicago stories are fun. And Tony Hillerman's Navajo Indian mysteries are among the best.

New library to ease parking problems

By Rosemary Tirio
Relief is in sight for residents of Oakton Court north of the Niles Public Library, announced Library Board President Ted Przybylo at their June 19 meeting.

When library expansion is complete parking on their street should be a lot easier. Residents have complained in the past that popular library programs have

Renaissance of Niles building begins

By Rosemary Tirio
Farewell, Niles College, hello Renaissance of Niles.

Construction began on the much-debated 420-unit development June 24, as bulldozers began leveling the large tract of land at Harlem and Touhy avenues.

A formal groundbreaking ceremony will be held July 23 at 5 p.m. according to Chris Sloper of the Chicago-based Pontarelli Builders marketing department.

Pontarelli was awarded the project after the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese refused to sell the property to Northridge Prep, a Catholic school for boys run by members of the controversial Opus Dei movement.

Grading the land is the first step in the process, which will be followed by asbestos removal from the existing structures scheduled for demolition. The asbestos must be removed to prevent it from becoming airborne when the buildings are razed.

Because the buildings, which date back to around 1916, were extremely well constructed, demolition is expected to take until next spring, John Thomas, the firm's vice-president said.

By late spring or early summer of next year, 120 of the planned 420 units, three of the nine buildings, are expected to be completed.

Niles Greek Orthodox church gets rare icons

By Rosemary Tirio

The miracle of Caldwell Avenue in Niles goes on.

Started in 1983 by 140 families with almost no financial backing to speak of, the Greek Orthodox parish of St. Haralambos and Holy Taxiarchi was born with the purchase of two modest ranch houses near the intersection of Gross Point Road and Caldwell Avenue.

Today a handsome red brick school and even more handsome domed church, both striking examples of Byzantine architecture, stand on the site and serve the spiritual needs of 640 families.

"By any sense of logic, this [the church and school] should not be here," said the Rev. Dean Botsis, the pastor who has shepherded the burgeoning flock since 1982. Father Botsis credits the parishioners themselves: "By staying united and working together, the impossible happened," Father Botsis smiled proudly, "people selling baklava."

Completion date moved back to Nov. 1

Civic Center progresses despite rain delay

Now that the new Civic Center roof has been enclosed, bad weather should no longer affect the building schedule.

The building's completion date was set back from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 because of recent heavy rains, Village Manager Abe Selman said recently.

Financially, it's clear sailing for the project as the village board approved the final plans and okayed the last bid package at their meeting June 25.

The final phase of the $20 million complex, a 95,000-square foot health and wellness center which will be attached to the administrative offices by a glass-enclosed circular staircase and will also house the senior center, was set in motion when the board approved the final plans of architect Burnridge, Cassell and Associates. Completion date is scheduled for Sept. of 1998.

A $438,000 bid package awarding contracts to excavation, asphalt paving and concrete companies as also approved.

Selman said the builders, despite the unusually rainy spring weather, are working feverishly to complete the administrative offices by this fall.

Heating and air-conditioning installation and drywall construction will be done next. Interior design will not start until the fall, Selman said.

Doughnut shop employee charged in knife attack

by Rosemary Tirio

Things suddenly turned from sweet to sour at the doughnut shop in the 7500 block of Harlem Avenue around 3:15 p.m. June 24.

A 34-year-old employee from Des Plaines became irate when the 42-year-old general manager of the shop, mentioned that $300 was missing from the shop's bank deposit and attacked him with a 17 serrated knife.

The offender broke the plastic window of the kitchen door which the victim was holding closed to ward off the attack. The offender gained entry to the kitchen by physical force and began striking the victim with the knife on the back of the neck and back.

A 45-year-old witness attempted to hold the offender back while the victim went to the front of the shop and phoned Niles.

AAA National School Traffic Safety Poster Contest winner

Park Ridge resident Anny Huang (center), a graduating senior at Maine East High School, has been cited by the AAA-Chicago Motor Club for her winning entry in the 52nd annual AAA National School Traffic Safety Poster Contest.

Huang, who will be attending the University of Illinois as an engineering major this fall, earned second-place honors and a $125 savings bond. Art teacher Kenneth Orstead (right) also was honored for his support of the poster contest. Brian Sterling, manager of community relations for AAA-Chicago Motor Club, presented the award.

More than 70,000 students representing more than 2,000 schools in the United States and Canada participated in this year's contest. Themes include basic pedestrian, bicycle and seat belt safety, along with helmet use and safe driving practices.

Award-winning posters are selected by a national board of judges for their originality, visual impact and relationship to the designated theme.

Day at the Races benefit

America's abuzz with versatile pagers

Pagers are the most inexpensive form of instant, wireless communication, and nowadays everybody is carrying one. A recent survey revealed that over 35 million Americans use pagers, and more than 50 percent buy pagers for personal reasons.

Pagers can make family and social situations run more smoothly by preventing the scheduling hiccups that often disrupt a person's day. For instance:

- With pagers, day care centers and baby-sitters can reach parents no matter where they are.
- Parents can keep in touch with children who are out at the mall or driving the family car.

- Children can notify parents that they've arrived home safely from school.
- Changes in plans, like who is picking up the children from soccer practice, can be exchanged easily between parents.
- Forgotten ingredients on the grocery list can be relayed to the family shopper.
- Expectant parents can use pagers to make sure that when the big moment arrives, they're at the right place at the right time, together.
- Recent college graduates can avoid missing the call for the big job interview.

- Singles can give out their pager number instead of home phone number when out socializing.
- Many families have developed personal paging codes that children can use to communicate with their parents throughout the day. For instance, the number "777" on a pager might signal that the child has made it home from school safely, while "411" might mean the child needs to ask the parent a question.
- You can browse through a wide variety of pagers to select just the right one at your local Ameritech Cellular and Paging Center or authorized dealer. Just call 1-800-MOBILE-1 (1-800-662-4531) to find out the location of a store near you.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the Triathlon on July 12, 13, or 14 and helping the Red Cross should call (312) 440-2125 to register as a volunteer.

Free newsletter helps students battle financial aid

Chicago-hopeful high school students and their parents can learn how to navigate the financial aid maze and keep up with constantly changing requirements with the help of a FREE newsletter entitled, College Dollars and Sense, available from Strategies for Higher Education (SFHE), a Warrenville, Illinois-based company.

SFHE Director Steven H. Williams said that the combination of "confusing new financial aid laws passed recently by Congress and the growing need for aid by more and more families" convinced him to offer the newsletter as a community service.

Incomplete or improperly filled out forms account for nearly one-quarter of all applications received yearly by the U. S. Department of Education. Without complete paperwork, students lose all or part of the federal aid to which they are otherwise entitled.

In addition to providing the newsletter, SFHE also offers a comprehensive analysis of individual families' qualifications and helps them find and apply for scholarships, grants, loans, work study programs, tuition discounts and other college money. The company will also complete all of the hopelessly confusing financial aid forms, review any aid offers a student receives to ensure they reflect the maximum amount for which the student qualifies and write letters for the parents to appeal any unsatisfactory aid awards from the colleges.

For a free subscription to the newsletter or additional information, call Steven H. Williams, Director of Strategies for Higher Education at (708) 393-4001, or toll free at 1-888-787-2844 (1 888 STRAT4HED).

National Latin Exams at Regina

In March 1996, Regina Dominican High School Latin students took the National Latin Exam, a comprehensive test which assesses student knowledge of grammar, syntax, word derivation, Roman history, mythology and reading comprehension. Twenty-eight students earned medals and certificates for their outstanding performances on this national exam. Local recipients include: Latin I Cum Laude: Kathleen Steinfeld of Park Ridge and Leslie Go of Skokie. Latin I Magna Cum Laude: Ann Malooly of Morton Grove and Anjali Vij of Glenview. Latin II Cum Laude: Kristine Henderson of Niles and Melissa Patenio of Skokie. Latin IV-Poetry Cum Laude: Candace Ponsaran of Skokie and Mika Duda of Glenview. ### Local student president of college literary society

Michael Kostzewa, a junior at Illinois College from Niles, is serving as president of Phi Alpha Literary Society for the spring semester of the 1995-96 academic year.

The literary societies date from the early days of Illinois College and retain traditions that include debates, speeches, and literary criticism. The societies also provide a well-developed social program for all members.

Kostzewa, a finance major has also become the workhorse of the Illinois College pitching staff this spring. In seven starts for the NCAA Division III Blueboys, the Maine South High School graduate had a record of 3-5 with a team-leading 4.14 ERA. In 45.7 innings of work, Kostzewa struck out 26 batters while yielding 21 earned runs. He also has five complete games to his credit.

Illinois College entered the final stages of the regular season with an overall mark of 11-13 and a Midwest Conference record of 9-4. The Blueboys have already qualified as one of two South Division teams in the league's post-season tournament, which began May 10 on the field of the South Division champion.

Kostzewa, a finance major, is the son of John and Helen Kostzewa of Niles.

Summer Sizzler at Busse Woods

Experts conclude that a regular running or walking routine burns calories, improves the cardiovascular system, and might add years to one's life. To encourage residents to experience the benefits of exercise and nature, Cook County Forest Preserve District Board President John Stroger announced that the Forest Preserve is presenting the 4th annual Summer Sizzler, a 10K / 5K competition run and walk on Sunday, July 14, at 8 a.m. at the Preserve's Busse Woods, Grove #28, Golf Rd., just east of Route #53, Rolling Meadows.

Participants will run or walk along the Forest Preserve's paved bicycle trail. The runners will compete for prizes that will be awarded to the top overall male and female winners, and to the top three finishers in six different age groups. Everyone that finishes the race will receive a results postcard in the mail indicating their official finish time and place.

Registration for all participants includes free refreshments, T-shirts, awards and tickets to win raffle prizes. The advance registration fee is $15 for either the 10K or 5K runs and for the 5K walk. The day of the race registration starts at 7 a.m. and the fee is $17 for the runs and the walk.

Vacation security tips from Ameritech

School's Out, and families are busy planning summer vacations. But they often forget to take care of one important vacation item—making sure their home is secure when they're away.

"More burglaries occur during the summer than any other season," says Mitch Black, vice president of the residential security for SecurityLink from Ameritech, one of the nation's largest security providers. "To protect your home from burglary, start with the '3Ds' of proven security tactics—deterrence, defense, and detection."

*Put lights and a stereo or TV on a timer to give the appearance that someone is home.

*Don't stop your mail or newspaper deliveries; it signals you're away. Instead, ask a neighbor to pick them up.

*Install a professional home security system that's monitored 24 hours a day, and be sure to post signs and window decals to warn intruders that your home is protected. According to FBI statistics, a home with a professionally installed security system is 15 times less likely to be burglarized than a home without a security system.

*On your answering machine, never leave an outgoing message that you are not home.

*Remember to lock all doors and windows. Forty percent of home intrusions occur because a door or window was left unlocked. Secure sliding glass doors with pins to prevent both horizontal and vertical movement.

*Store high-value items such as jewelry, furs and firearms in a small closet with a solid core door, a non-removable hinge and a deadbolt lock.

*Keep important papers, valuable jewelry and large amounts of cash in a safe deposit box.

*Engrave your valuables with your driver's license or social security number.

To receive a free brochure, "Home Security Tips: Keeping Your Family Safe," call SecurityLink from Ameritech at 1-800-343-4726.

OCC offers new construction program this fall

Are you interested in building a career in construction management? Oakton Community College can help you become a valuable part of this growing industry.

Construction is among the largest industries in the United States encompassing over half a million construction-related firms. These range from single practitioners to large corporations. Yet, among Chicago area colleges, there is no formal education program that teaches the basics about managing the complexities of construction projects, until now.

Oakton's new Construction Management Program prepares students to work in the evolving field of construction. It also provides the means to upgrade the professional skills of those already employed in the construction and architectural industries and in associated fields such as heating and air conditioning, drafting, facilities operation and the building trades. It can expand the knowledge of construction management for those already in the industry and offers a cutting-edge professional program for those interested in pursuing a two-year construction management associate's degree.

Courses are taught by prominent members of the construction industry who are recognized experts in their areas. They include: Blueprint Reading for the Building Trades (FOE 107), offered on Mondays from 6:30-9:50 p.m., taught by Joe Papalardo of Loehle, Schlossman & Hackl; Construction Bidding, Contracts and Liability (CMG 211), offered on Wednesdays and Fridays from 6:30-9:50 p.m., taught by Stanley Sklar of Bell, Boyd & Lloyd and Ross Altman of Rudnick & Wolf; Construction Supervision and Safety (CMG 215), offered on Thursdays from 6:30-9:50 p.m., taught by Jim Zajac of C.R.S.S./Jacobs Engineering; and Construction Cost Estimating (ARC 212), offered on Wednesdays from 6:30-9:40 p.m., taught by Les Jacobs, chairperson of the Construction Management and Architecture Programs at Oakton.

These courses were developed after extensive and careful dialogue with architects, contractors and construction management firms. The construction firms Oakton has worked with, and those aware of what the college is trying to achieve with this new program, are enthusiastic and supportive. It has become clear that a program in construction management is needed and has not been provided in the Chicago area. Oakton will fill the need and supply the construction industry with an innovative new program.

For more information, call Les Jacobs, chairman, Architecture and Construction Management Programs, at (847) 635-1851.

**The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) on your Home Equity Line of Credit is a variable rate based on the Prime Rate as published in the "Money Rates" section of the Wall Street Journal. For a home equity line with an outstanding balance of $100,000 or more, the APR is Prime plus 1.75%. With an outstanding balance of $25,000 to $99,999.99, the APR is Prime, and for an outstanding balance of under $25,000, the APR is Prime plus 3.4%. For example, based on the Prime Rate of 6.25% as of June 17, 1996, the respective APRs would be 7.75%, 8.25%, and 9.0%. Maximum APR during the term is 11%. There is a $25 annual fee beginning with the second year. Property insurance is required.

For example, based on the Prime Rate of 6.25% as of June 17, 1996, 60-month fixed rate home equity loan would have 60 payments of $20.40 per $1,000 borrowed. 60-month fixed rate home equity loan would have 60 payments of $18.22 per $1,000 borrowed. Property insurance is required.

Motorcycle riding season
The motorcycle riding season is underway, and car and truck drivers once again are sharing the road with motorcyclists. According to the Illinois Department of Transportation, 140 cyclists were killed in 1994, and 85 motorcycle crashes involving vehicles were reported.
Q. What precautions should I take when following a motorcycle?
A. Always allow more following distance than when following a car. If a cyclist must stop abruptly and you are following too closely, you may hit the motorcycle or cause the driver to lose balance.
Q. What about passing a motorcycle?
A. Do not try to pass a motorcycle in the same lane it is using. Motorcyclists are entitled to use the full width of a traffic lane, and they may change positions within the lane to see more clearly or to avoid potholes and other subjects. Change lanes and pass the cyclist as if passing another vehicle.
Q. What other precautions are necessary?
A. Turn signals do not turn off automatically on most motorcycles. Therefore, before turning in front of a motorcycle that has its turn signal on, be sure the rider is turning and not coming straight ahead. The cyclist may have forgotten to turn the signal off after a previous turn.
When following a motorcycle approaching a railroad crossing or a graded bridge, stay well behind it to allow the driver room to slow down and maneuver the motorcycle over the rough surface.
If you are aware a cyclist has been in your driving vicinity recently and you are going to change lanes, make sure you double check all blind spots. Sometimes cyclists are not aware of the fact they are in your blind spot, and if you've seen one motorcycle there is always the chance of another one traveling with it that you may not have seen.

Ryan proposes 'Safe Driver Renewal' program

Secretary of State George H. Ryan proposed changes today in Illinois' drivers license system that will cut the number of times that safe motorists must visit a secretary of state facility to renew their licenses.
Under this "Safe Driver Renewal" initiative, each year about 1.1 million motorists with clean records would be able to renew their drivers license over the telephone or through the mail. Currently, these drivers are only required to take a vision test when they visit a facility to renew their licenses.
The proposal would require qualified drivers to visit a drivers facility in person only once every eight years to keep their licenses valid.
Speaking at the opening of the 1996 Chicago Auto Show, Ryan estimated that a "Safe Driver Renewal" program could save the state $400,000 every year and reduce waiting lines at driver services facilities throughout Illinois.
There are more than 6.5 million licensed drivers in Illinois. More than 1.1 million drivers would be eligible for the program every year.
Under the program, only motorists between the ages of 21 and 75 would be eligible. State law requires more frequent renewals for drivers aged 75 and older.
Participating drivers would have to have clean records with no moving violations and no traffic crashes that resulted in injuries or death.
No motorist with a drunk driving arrest would be eligible for the program. Also included would be school bus drivers, truck drivers and others who hold commercial drivers licenses.
Drivers who qualify would receive a notice in the mail along with instructions on how to complete the renewal process over the telephone or via mail. Eventually, Ryan hopes to offer "Safe Driver Renewal" via fax machine and over the Internet.
Motorists using the program would not have to undergo vision screening. Ryan is seeking changes in state law that would extend the time between required vision tests from four years to eight years. Currently, less than one-half of 1 percent of motorists flunk the vision screening test.
Ryan is proposing that motorists use existing "Touch-Tone" renewal technology that is currently in the place for the telephone renewal of license plate stickers.
Using "Touch-Tone," motorists would dial a number, pay the standard $10 renewal fee with a credit card, answer a few required questions and enter a renewal code number.
In about a week, motorists would receive in the mail a sticker from the Secretary of State Drivers Services Department marked with the driver's name, address, license number and new expiration date. The sticker would be placed on the back of the license.
Eligible motorists would still have the option of renewing their licenses in person when the license expires, or if they change their residence or other vital information.

But you don't have to read today's current books. Agatha Christie and Earle Stanley Gardner are great fun. And how about the greatest sleuth of all times - Sherlock? He and the good doctor can be read over and over again. The Hound Of The Baskervilles, hidden in the foggy moors, is classic literature.

Since this is the quadrennial year for political junkies SHAKE-UP YOUR POLITICAL GLANDS by absorbing the other guy's point of view. If you're a Democrat order the Republican's national magazine. And if you're a conservative read the Nation magazine and go to the library and read the Washington Post newspaper.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if you switched reading your daily newspaper. Instead of reading the guys and gals who you usually agree with, try the views from the columnists on the other side of town.

What about entertainment? Why keep going to the same restaurants all the time? I'm not a very adventurous eater. I like Italian and Greek restaurants. But I'm not big on curry and I never met a Chinese restaurant I couldn't pass by. I also never passed a rare slice of roast beef I didn't consider ordering. But a couple of years ago a fellow - roast beef-eater ordered the crusty end of the beef which was well done. It was a revelation biting into crispy well-done instead of red-blood rare.

I'm more adventurous about driving. If I care to take the time (that's one thing to change) I often take the longer two lane roads. Seeing America by traveling the interstate highways is like traveling by train at night-time. I once took a train from Milan to Antwerp leaving in late afternoon. At midnight I awoke, pulled up the shade and saw the Zurich train station. It is my only memory of Switzerland.

Traveling is just as habit-forming as any other phases of our lives. I'm one of those sophisticated travellers who likes to see ten countries in 10 days, the "If It's Tuesday It Must Be Belgium" syndrome. But one year we so-called-driving for two weeks

Niles Greek church ...

By running fund-raising events, such as the Christmas Bazaar, the Easter Bake Sale and the summer Greek Food Fest, which has become an annual event on the Niles social scene and this year will be held July 19 through July 21, the small congregation has raised more than $3.5 million to construct the buildings.

Now the task continues, as the church is gradually being filled with the sacred objects and precious ornamentation embodying the rich liturgical symbolism that makes a church a church.

Already in place are the magnificent mahogany screen, bishop's throne, chanter's stand, baptismal and pulpit that were hand-carved on the island if Crete and shipped in sections at a cost of $150,000. Massive chandeliers, also crafted in Greece, hang from the church's domed ceiling.

"We're improving very gradually since 1988 because we don't have the resources," Father Botsis said, "but we want to do things right, too."

The "desire to do things right" led the congregation to the next step in the completion of their beautiful church—the addition of 37 hand-painted icons, which is currently being accomplished by two world-renowned iconographers or Pachomaioi as they are known in Greece.

Father Theophilus and Father Chrysostomos are two monks who have journeyed from Mt. Athos, the Holy Mountain in one of Greece's most beautiful areas where 23 orthodox religions have their monasteries, according to George Arvanitis, owner of Arvey's Restaurant at Oakton Street and Waukegan Road. Arvanitis was chairman of the building committee when the church was started and continues as a member of the core committee that is overseeing the completion of the church.

Like other phases of the church development, the icon painting project is a group effort. Some very gracious parishioners made a Park Ridge apartment available to the artists for their two-month stay, Father Botsis said.

The two have been monks since they were 11 and 13 years old and they learned their trade by studying it themselves, not by any formal training, according to parishioner Chris Demopoulos, also a member of the core committee. "There are no other people who can do the work they do," Demopoulos said.

People of Christian orthodox faiths consider the monks the "Michelangelo and El Greco of iconography," Demopoulos said. They have worked all over Greece and Europe, including Austria and Serbia.

The pair started work at St. Haralambos May 1 and are scheduled to move on to another church early in July. They will spend the rest of the summer painting in churches in Canada and Germany.

In addition to installing several icons depicting the Apostles and Disciples of Christ in the hand-carved mahogany screen or iconostas that divides the altar from the main church, the monks are painting scenes of divine liturgy directly on the wall behind the altar.

"Most iconographers create their icons in studios by painting on canvas and then gluing the canvas to the wall," Father Botsis explained.

The curved wall or apse behind the altar is a place of honor reserved for the Virgin Mary because God became man through her. "She is the bridge from heaven to earth," Father Botsis said. The Platytera, as the icon of Mary is called, is a tradition in all Greek Orthodox churches. Below the Platytera are two scenes of Jesus giving communion to the disciples.

The icons are traditional Byzantine art, "and these are the finest artists of it in the world right now," Father Botsis said.

"There's no place in the world that has anything like this, with the exception of a church in Toronto," Father Botsis added. "You have the same scenes [in other churches], but it doesn't have this power. There's a tremendous amount of prayer and spiritual preparation involved in painting these pictures. It's not just skill," Father Botsis said.

The church already has scheduled the two master craftsmen to return in two years to complete painting icons on the beautiful domed ceiling.

When completed, the floor of church will represent the world. In the dome will be the icon of Christ as ruler of all creation. The dome represents heaven, Father Botsis said.

The entire project will cost the parish $210,000, which means that a lot more baklava will have to be sold. However, the church will be a unique repository of the finest and rarest Byzantine art in the world—the miracle of Caldwell Avenue.

caused library patrons to block their driveways and that parking on both sides of the street poses a hazard to both drivers and pedestrians.

The new parking lot will have an additional 43 spaces and will wrap around the west and north sides of the library building. An additional 19 spaces will be made available by employees who will have their own lot on the east side of the building.

The library's main entrance will be moved from the Oakton Court side of the building to the southwest corner near Waukegan Road, which should also alleviate parking problems.

Przybylo suggested that residents petition the Village Board to erect "No Parking" signs on one side of Oakton Court, noting that the Library Board has no authority to make parking regulations.

police. The witness told police the offender took a 3.5" knife and a 10" screwdriver off the counter and placed them in his left pant pocket. He then walked to the front of the store and attempted to stab the victim in the stomach, threatening to kill him.

The offender missed the victim's stomach but cut the victim on the left hip inflicting a superficial wound that did not require medical attention.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Graffiti problem at Golf Glen complex

To Whom it May Concern:
(Obviously not the Niles Police.)
I have in the past six months made 5 phone calls to the Niles Police Dept. re: graffiti at the Golf Glen Complex. On 6-24-96 I was told by Watch Commander Levitt it was not police responsibility to remove the graffiti. He told me it had been reported by letter to the management for the complex. He could not give me any names, he did not know! How do you report something and not know who it was reported to? As a parent of a teenager I am heartbroken that the police dept. would disregard gang promotion as not their responsibility. How do I explain this to my child? I want the Watch Commander to get off his butt, stand in the window at the Day Care and see what these little ones look out at every day.
You are the Police Dept.

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Sgt. Roger Wilson, Public Information Officer for the Niles Police Department stated the procedure followed on complaints such as that listed above are handled the way Officer Leavitt told the letter writer. The police department forwards a letter to the management of the property and there is usually a 72 hour waiting period allowed for action. If the problem is not corrected in that period of time, the village Public Services Department corrects the problem and management is cited.
Sgt. Wilson told The Bugle that upon checking the property in question on July 1, there was no graffiti on the walls. A member of the letter writer's family told The Bugle that the graffiti was evidently removed by the management on either June 27 or 28.

Bulldog Books

Twenty-six children published books as part of South School's Bulldog Publishing Center. The Publishing Center is a joint project of the Niles Elementary Schools PTA and South School staff. The following children published books during the 1995-96 school year: Rizwan Ahmed, Michael Anderson, Anna Marie Arboleda, Jason Bamaung, Anne Borkowski, Daniel Borkowski, Jennifer Casey, Meenank Gheewala, Alex Georgievski, Charles Guo, Isabel Heindinger, Robert Hilbrich, Amy Jensen, Marija Jermic, Nabeel Kassamali, Patrick Kough, Lois Kwon, James Lee, Joanna Lela, Hubert Marciniak, Florida Nitti, Patrick Ryan, Emily Scheler, Nael Shehade, Monica Wielgos, and Christina Yi.

Republicans impose new tax on suburbs

Bill Blaine, Democratic candidate for the Illinois State Senate District 28 objects to the new tax imposed on suburban District 28 voters by Marty Butler and the governor.
"In a few days" said Blaine, "the governor justifies this extension as necessary because of his proposal to build the $5 billion 'white elephant' Peotone airport."
"The I-355 extension will be a new tax on the suburbs," says Blaine. "Bonds will be sold to pay for this construction. Payments on these bonds will be about $50 million each year while the new road will only bring in $10 million annually. Where does the money come from to pay for this shortage? It comes from the tolls paid by those who use the rest of the toll system, residents of District 28 who use the Northwest and Tri-state tollway. This is not even fee for service. It is a straight tax imposed on tollway users!"
Blaine asks, "What do you think will happen if control of O'Hare and Midway is given to Pate Phillips and the anti-O'Hare group?" His answer is, "If the State builds the $5 billion Peotone airport you will see those costs shifted to the suburbs in terms of threatened jobs, threatened property values, and resulting pressure on taxes...hold your pocket book!"
Blaine's position is that we must keep O'Hare strong and aggressively minimize the problem of noise which is part of any airport. Peotone is a major and expensive mistake.

Volleyball Camps for boys and girls

Volleyball Camps for boys and girls entering fourth grade through high school will be held this summer at Northeastern Illinois University's (NEIU) Physical Education Complex, 5500 North St. Louis Ave., Chicago.
The one-week camps focus on technique and tactical application through discussion, demonstrations, movement patterns, skill work, game play, and tournament competition. An experienced coaching staff offers instruction for the "new player" and challenges the more experienced and advanced players with game strategies and advanced techniques.
Session I runs Monday through Friday, July 15-19 and is geared towards grade school and junior high school players. Session II runs Monday through Friday, July 29-August 2 and is suitable for junior high and high school players. Both sessions are from 9 a.m. to noon. The cost is $75 per session and covers instruction, a t-shirt, evaluation, and camp awards. If eight or more players from the same team register together, the cost is $55 per camper.
For more information about the program and to receive a registration application, call the NEIU Golden Eagle Sports Camp office at (312) 794-6293.

Intro to Microsoft Network for Windows and Internet

Unsure of how to access the wide variety of information that is available through your computer? This class will introduce you to many features of the Microsoft Network, accessing such things as headline news, weather & sports, stock quotes, e-mail, and live chat with other Microsoft Network members.
You will also learn about the worldwide web on the Internet and Yahoo, one of the largest search engines, so you can "surf the net." (Please note that this presentation will be viewed via overhead projection equipment provided by the instructor). This class will be held at the Ballard Leisure Center on Tuesday, July 9 from 7 to 9 p.m.
The class fee is $25. For registration or further information, call (847) 824-8860.

Niles architect grad and mom build home

Frances Michal (right) of Niles and Marion Varga of Storrs, Conn., measure a sheet of drywall to put up another wall in the Habitat house.

"Oh, there's no place like home. But many low-income families won't ever know what it's like to be in their own home for the holidays because they aren't capable of ever owning their own home. However, one Texas family's dream of owning their own home came true and they are spending their first holidays in their new home. University of Illinois 1995 architect graduate Mary Michal and her mother, Frances, of Niles helped them to be in their own home for the holidays.

The Michals were among 20 CSA Fraternal Life members from six states who were turned into carpenters as they worked alongside James Lafferty, mayor of Cameron, Texas, as a Habitat for Humanity work site in San Antonio. Habitat for Humanity, building affordable housing for low-income families, is CSA's National Charitable Project for 1995. CSA's 30,000 members in 115 lodges and units in 20 states across the country are working through volunteer activities and fund-raising efforts.

The San Antonio Habitat project, which kicked off CSA's 59th Annual Get-Together in San Antonio, was the first time CSA members from across the country had the chance to work side by side on a national project on a national level, according to CSA Vice President Deborah Zeman. Each year CSA, the oldest fraternal benefit society in the country, selects a National Charitable Project varying from medical to social to patriotic needs for its members to support. The Home Office matches all funds raised by its lodges and units.

The volunteer workers learned how to swing hammers, measure and cut drywall and use a drywall lift machine as they braved the walls and ceilings in a four-bedroom, two-bath home in the southern part of the Texas city. Fifteen of the workers were women, which helped get the project television coverage on the 9 p.m. San Antonio news.

Four of the 15 women volunteers also were four of the eight contestants from three states vying for the title of Miss National CSA held during the Get-Together conference. Volunteer Andrea Stranski of Lockport was selected the winner of the contest. Mary, who was last year's Miss National CSA, and the four contestants worked together to complete one of the rooms themselves. Michal and the contestants said they hoped a girl would occupy the room they built because, "Only a girl could appreciate our room."

The girls said working on the Habitat project provided them with an opportunity to get to know other contestants before the Miss National CSA Contest and enjoy themselves more throughout the contest and weekend.

One of the highlights of the Habitat project was getting to meet the family buying on the home construction. Miss National CSA 1990-91 Janel Mondrik and her mother, Roselee of Cameron, Texas, and last year's Miss CSA Contestant Charann Papuga and her mother, Candy, also helped build the home.

Mary said she was happy to have the opportunity to work on a Habitat project. Some of her college friends had worked on Habitat projects before through school, but this was her first time.

After returning home from Texas, she found a job with a small engineering firm in downtown Evanston, which specializes in electrical, mechanical and plumbing engineering for architectural projects. She does computer-drafting, as well as sizing and laying out pipes, ductwork and other equipment. She finds it exciting to see the field from a different perspective than in school. Next fall, she plans to continue her education to earn her master's degree in architecture.

CSA Fraternal Life was founded in 1854 by Czech and Slovak immigrants who wanted to form a benevolent and fraternal organization to provide security for themselves and their families. Today CSA provides life insurance and other financial and organizational support to help their members nationwide perform educational, cultural, patriotic and benevolent activities that benefit individuals and institutions in their local communities, states and nation. The national headquarters of the society are in Oak Brook, Ill.

At the End of His Rope

"The Rope Warrior," a.k.a. David Fisher presented a cardiovascular fitness program hosted by the Niles Public Library District Children's Department. The program focuses on the use of jump ropes for fun and fitness, and includes an amazing lights-out number with glow-in-the-dark ropes. This program is one of several special events planned during the Children's Department's Summer Reading Club, which is open to any child resident of the library district who has a library card.

Red Cross teaches kids home safety tips

With the school year at an end, parents are facing the predicament of what to do with their children during the workday. Because of this, many parents hire babysitters or let their kids stay home alone if the children are responsible enough to be by themselves or with other siblings.

The American Red Cross understands this situation and once again offers two courses, Home Alone and Babysitting. Both of these courses are constructed to teach children responsible decision making when they are on their own.

The primary goal of Red Cross Home Alone is to teach kids instructions and guidelines for staying home by themselves in a responsible manner. The one hour class is aimed at kids from kindergarten through sixth grade. Home Alone promotes simple and easy rules geared for kids to understand the responsibilities of being home by themselves.

Red Cross Babysitting for grades five through twelve, focuses on teaching potential babysitters how to prevent accidents in the home and handle unexpected emergencies. A main portion of the class deals with understanding and recognizing hazardous situations that are a threat to both babysitters and the children they are watching.

Another part of Red Cross Babysitting instructs the participants in how to properly supervise children, select appropriate toys and games, identify the characteristics of age difference in kids, diaper and dress babies, and feed infants and children.

The American Red Cross offers the following tips for babysitters and children home alone:

- Keep doors and windows locked at all times. When someone knocks, never open the door, always talk through the door. No matter what the person says, never let them come in to the house. Never say that you are alone and no adults are around.
- When the phone rings, answer it politely and never let strangers know that you are home alone. If they wish to speak to an adult, tell them he or she can't talk now and take a message.
- Always have emergency phone numbers handy.
- Know where emergency items like flashlights, extinguishers, and first aid kits are kept in the home.
- Never play with hazardous objects or appliances.
- Learn basic first aid skills.
- If a fire starts in the house, get out, then call for help.
- Know the rules ahead of time regarding: meals, bedtime, telephone calls, leaving the house, television, and guests.
- Home Alone and Babysitting are only two of the many courses the Red Cross offers to teach people how to deal with emergencies, prevent accidents, and live safely.
- Because Help Can't Wait, the Mid-America Chapter of the American Red Cross has over 6,000 volunteers ready to respond to emergencies in the seven county Chicago metropolitan area. These dedicated and fully trained workers are available to help prevent, prepare, and respond to disasters with food, clothing and shelter, and education.
- For more information on Home Alone and Babysitting courses, contact your local Red Cross Service Center or call (312) 440-2000.

Is your vehicle trying to tell you something?

Listen to your car this summer. It may be trying to warn you of needed repairs. It is crucial that you listen to its signals before they cause further damage and possibly an unsafe situation.

Let your engine idle after starting and step out of your vehicle. Walk around your car.

Is there a distinct color of smoke or odor coming out of the tailpipe, or from under your car? Check your tires. Do the sidewalls protrude, or are any of the sidewalls lower than others?

Next, step to the rear of your vehicle and stand directly behind the center of your bumper about ten feet away. Assuming your vehicle is on level ground, does it appear to be level on all sides?

Listen for a moment while you are still outside your vehicle. Listen for sounds coming from under your vehicle or under the hood of your vehicle. Take notes of the type of sounds you hear.

If sounds come from under the hood, try to locate the general area making the noises. Be very careful of hot and/or moving parts. Don't get near the engine with loose hair or clothing.

Take the time to go for a quiet, slow ride and listen for more of what your car is trying to say. Turn the wheel. Do you hear any growling, grinding or clicking noises? Is it difficult to turn the wheel?

Apply the brakes. Again, do you hear any screeching noises or feel any pulsation in the brake pedal?

Get onto the highway and feel your car's reactions to the road. Do you feel as if you are fighting the wheel to stay in your lane? When you hit bumps does your car bounce for a long time? Does the steering wheel shake at 55 miles per hour?

Often times, after hitting one too many potholes, motorists will notice that their car tends to pull to one side, or that its steering wheel is not centered, or that its tires have excessive wear on their outside edges. Each of these symptoms means that a car is experiencing alignment problems.

Motorists should also understand that when their car shakes at high speeds near 55 miles per hour, this is not an alignment problem, but rather a problem with the balance of their car's tires.

It's also crucial to make sure your fluid levels are adequate. Transmission, oil and washer fluid, along with all other critical fluids should be topped off regularly for your car's safety.

Regularly scheduled oil changes range in time and mileage according to your vehicle. If you don't know your car's specific needs, a safe approximation is every 3,000 miles.

Is it all in your head?

Your head is pounding. Is it a migraine or tension headache? Perhaps neither. It could be sinusitis. Sinusitis is an inflammation of the nasal cavities located above, behind and below the eyes that can cause symptoms similar to migraines and tension headaches.

The pain and discomfort caused by a sinus headache affects the entire head. Analgesics, such as aspirin, only provide temporary relief for a sinus-related headache, because they don't treat the underlying sinus inflammation and infection," explains Michael Kaliner, M.D., Medical Director, Institute for Asthma and Allergy at Washington Hospital Center, Washington, D.C.

Refer to the following information to help you differentiate among headaches:

*Type: Muscle Tension. Cause: Headache due to muscle strain, stress or lack of sleep. Description: Dull, intermittent, mild to moderate pain to the forehead; general feeling of tightness or stiffness often felt in the back of the neck.

*Type: Migraine. Cause: Headache may be caused by a vascular disturbance. Description: Moderate to severe pain on one side of the head, in or behind the eyes, or in the temporal region, often accompanied by nausea, vomiting, cold hands, tremor, dizziness and sensitivity to sound and light.

*Type: Sinus. Cause: Pain due to swelling and inflammation of the lining of any or all of the sinuses. Description: Depending on the affected sinus, there may be pain in the forehead, above the brow, behind the eyes, in the cheeks/jaw.

*Type: Myofascial Pain-Disfunction (MPD) Syndrome. Cause: Pain related to temporomandibular joint (TMJ) inflammation, caused by jaw clenching, tooth grinding habits, stress. Description: Unilateral, dull pain that radiates from the ears to the temporal region.

There is no single cure for sinusitis. However, the symptoms of sinusitis can each be treated effectively. A variety of prescription medications are available to help treat your sinusitis symptoms. Many physicians prescribe antibiotics to sterilize the sinuses and free them of infections and decongestants (e.g., Syn<sup>TM</sup>-Rx) to help relieve congestion, shrink swollen nasal tissue and promote drainage.

In addition, topical corticosteroids (e.g., Dexacort<sup>TM</sup> Turbinaire<sup>TM</sup>) can be prescribed to quickly reduce and prevent sinus inflammation. Analgesics (e.g. acetaminophen, aspirin, ibuprofen)

Regularly scheduled oil changes range in time and mileage according to your vehicle. If you don't know your car's specific needs, a safe approximation is every 3,000 miles.
