Protest not over in Forest Preserve battle

by Rosemary Tirio

Mary Lou Quinn was busy in her Northwest Side real estate office running off copies of selected pages from "Miracle Under the Oaks," Jan. 21, not yet satisfied that the campaign she spearheaded last fall to stop a controversial restoration project of the Forest Preserve District had been successful.

Last fall Quinn organized a protest among the residents of Niles and the Edgebrook and Sauganash areas of Chicago where groups of volunteers had been removing brush and non-oak tree species from the Forest Preserves in an effort to restore the native prairie that grew in the area during the 1830s when the first settlers arrived.

Quinn's protest succeeded in prompting County Board President John H. Stroger to declare a moratorium on the restoration project in late September, but at the Jan. 22 Board meeting, the moratorium is expected to be lifted except in Niles, Edgebrook and Sauganash.

"We only won half the battle," Quinn said. "I'm making copies that I'm going to deliver to all the members [of the County Board] in hopes that they will keep the moratorium on in all areas."

Quinn said that she and the citizens

Municipal Group Proposes Model Cable Ordinance

The Northwest Municipal Conference (NWMC) approved a model cable television ordinance which is designed to further competition and improve cable TV service and safety for cable TV viewers throughout the Northwest suburbs.

The cable ordinance complements a broader model telecommunications ordinance that many NWMC municipalities have already passed. The proposed ordinance is voluntary: a municipality decides on whether it should enact it before it can become law. In recent years, NWMC has written other model ordinances on diverse issues such as parental responsibility, business district parking, and traffic mitigation.

According to NWMC President Sidney Mathias, "We believe it promotes two important public policy goals: competition and safety and reliability. Regarding competition, this document -- combined with the broader telecommunications ordinance -- creates a common, region-wide set of guidelines, creating the proverbial "level playing field" which is so important to effective competition." Competition in telecommunications and particularly in cable television is needed to ensure a good product, good customer service, and good value.

Niles Police investigate Shermer Road death

by Rosemary Tirio

A 47-year-old Chicago man who was staying at his ailing 70-year-old mother's Niles home was found dead at 1:19 p.m. Jan. 10.

When Shirley Trojan, 70, of 8313 Shermer Rd. opened the door of the bedroom in which her son Leonard E. Trojan, 3942 N. Richmond, Chicago, was staying, she found him lying on his right side in a lifeless state on the floor, an insulin syringe with needle just three inches from his hand.

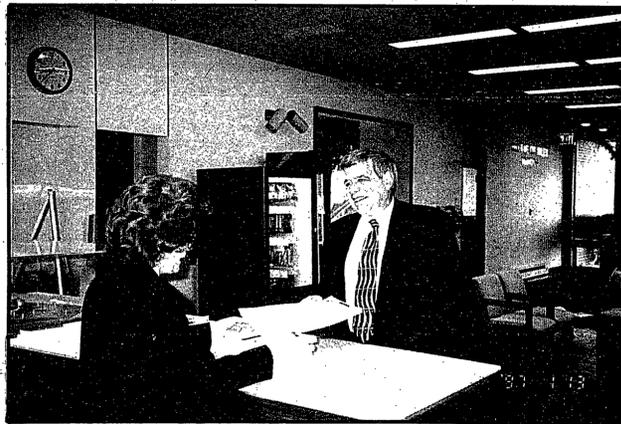

As of Jan. 21, Niles police officials

No reason was given for the postponement, but Tritz said that the celebration may be rescheduled in the future.

Cops arrest adults, juveniles in forgery ring

by Rosemary Tirio

Niles police rounded up a gang of juveniles along with their fagins at the Montgomery Ward store in the Village Crossing Shopping Center between 6:30 p.m. and 7:24 p.m. Jan. 15.

Two Chicago men, Rosedell Chester, 41, and Theodles Newton, 20, were charged with forgery, and eight to 10 juveniles were also arrested and held pending identification.

One credit card was used in all the incidents. When police arrived at the store, the loss prevention agents informed them that they had identified a store employee who was allowing the subjects to purchase merchandise with the stolen card.

Two of the subjects were seen on a video tape purchasing $148.66 worth of merchandise and signing a receipt. They were stopped at the west foyer by police and taken into custody.

Newton was also observed on video using the credit card to

Edward Jones: Don't pay taxes on money you don't use today

Would you rent a house and not live in it? Would you subscribe to cable television and never turn on the TV? Of course not. Yet many people continue to pay taxes on money they don't currently use.

Many people have money socked away in conventional savings accounts and certificates of deposit (CDs) earning regular interest left to compound. That's good, except that at the end of the year, taxes are due on that unused interest. Even mutual funds shareholders who reinvest dividends are faced with tax liabilities at year-end. Like it or not, that's paying taxes on something you probably don't plan to use until the future.

Rather than paying taxes on unused earnings, you could let some of your money work for you tax-deferred until you decide to use it. A variable annuity, offered by most major insurance companies and mutual funds, lets you do just that.

Variable annuities may be a reasonable place for part of your money. Most variable annuities offer a variety of mutual funds within an insurance contract. Mutual fund managers invest the money, and the insurance company provides the guarantees and the tax deferral.

To see the difference tax deferral can make, let's look at two hypothetical $100,000 investments with an average annual growth rate of 10 percent over 10 years. (A reasonable rate, considering that the average annual return for the Standard & Poor's 500 Index from 1926 through 1995 was 10.5 percent.) A $100,000 taxable investment would have compounded to $188,689, assuming the investor was in the 36 percent federal tax bracket.

A tax-deferred, would have grown to $286,506. That's a difference of nearly $80,000 in only 10 years - more than $600 a month! During that 10 years, the

Community Caucus Party files petitions

The Community Caucus Party filed its nominating petitions on Monday, January 13th, the first day of filing for the April 1, 1997 Niles Township election.

The candidates are Thomas J. McElligott of Skokie seeking re-election as Township Supervisor; Charles Levy of Lincolnwood running for re-election as Township Clerk; Scott Bagnall of Skokie for Township Assessor and Lester Brownstein of Morton Grove seeking re-election as Township Collector. The incumbent Trustee candidates are Suzanne (Sue) Schwartz of Skokie; Levon (Lee) Tamraz of Morton Grove; Judith-Rae Ross of Skokie and Marshall J. Belgrad of Skokie.

"I am proud of the job we have done for the people of Niles Township. I look forward to presenting our record to the people of our community and to serving them for four more years", McElligott said.

"Our ticket is composed of talented, enthusiastic people, who have done a very good job representing the taxpayers of Niles Township, and in the case of Scott Bagnall, a newcomer to our slate, we have a qualified candidate for Township Assessor who will act as an advocate for taxpayers in obtaining tax treatment for them," McElligott added.

First Morton Grove Party

The first Morton Grove Party has consistently advocated more open and ethical government. To embody these ideals, we have adopted a policy to allow and encourage the voters to decide on the adoption of new taxes or tax increases through the use of referendums.

We believe this policy will enliven citizen interest and participation in government, thereby, increasing the responsiveness of our municipal government and also acting to enrich the political process with new ideas.

Furthermore, it is our belief that this policy embodies a higher standard of ethics for taxation than has been the norm. By utilizing referendums to decide tax issues the majority of citizens will be directly deciding on what and how much of the money they have earned and how it will be spent on the community. Therefore, we would argue that this approach is more ethical because it utilizes the direct consent of the citizens to being taxed instead of being compelled to pay taxes they may not agree with that arise from the desires of a small group of officials.

Illinois joins 1 other states in requiring voters to at least look at all the seats or offices being contested before voting.

"This doesn't keep a person from voting a straight-party ballot," Edgar said. "But it does require that they consider each candidate individually."

The legislation, under House Bill 444, amends the Illinois Election Code to eliminate single straight-party voting in non-partisan, primary and consolidated general elections. It is effective immediately.

Take Precautions Against Frozen Water Pipes

During the past few weeks, the Village of Skokie has received numerous phone calls from residents about frozen water lines. These water lines are located in various areas throughout the house and front yard. Following is a list of the areas that seem to be most often affected:

Closets near outside walls with no ventilation.
Ceilings, both in the basement near an outside foundation wall, and in the attic.
Water pipes running near outside windows in the basement.
Water pipes under an enclosed kitchen sink area that has no ventilation.
Water lines that run through a floor control system in the front yard.

All frozen lines seem to be adjacent to places where outside air is leaking in. The Village's Water & Sewer Division recommends that all water lines in these areas

Morton Grove Official Announcement

Straight-party voting in Illinois to be eliminated

Gov. Jim Edgar signed legislation that ends one-vote, straight-party balloting in Illinois.

"This legislation will encourage voters to be more thoughtful in making their ballot choices," the Governor said.

Illinois joins 1 other states in requiring voters to at least look at all the seats or offices being contested before voting.

"This doesn't keep a person from voting a straight-party ballot," Edgar said. "But it does require that they consider each candidate individually."

The legislation, under House Bill 444, amends the Illinois Election Code to eliminate single straight-party voting in non-partisan, primary and consolidated general elections. It is effective immediately.

Low-Cost Will Preparation at Center of Concern

Eligible senior citizens are offered low-cost will preparation services through the Senior Citizens Will Program on Wednesday, February 5, 1997, at the Center of Concern in Park Ridge. Advance appointments are required and will be scheduled beginning at 9 a.m.

Attorneys from The Chicago Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service will provide free consultations about wills to seniors who register for the service. A Living Will allows an individual with a terminal health condition to express his or her desire to have death-delaying procedures withheld or withdrawn.

Seniors may complete the Durable Power of Attorney and Living Will forms themselves, or they may hire the attorney to help fill them out and to explain the various options available on the forms. The fee for the attorney to provide legal advice about each Durable Power of Attorney is $75 maximum for an individual ($125 for a couple). The charge for a Living Will is no more than $50 for an individual ($75 for a couple).

Tax deferral deadline near Cook County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell reminds property owners that the filing deadline for the Senior Citizens Real Estate Tax Deferral Program is March 1, 1997. This program allows qualified senior citizens to postpone all or part of the real estate taxes on their personal residence.

To qualify for the program, a senior must be 65 years of age by June 1, 1997; have a household income of not more than $25,000; own the property for at least three years as a principal residence. Taxes for all prior years must be paid in full.

Rosewell said that under this program up to one hundred percent of a senior's real estate taxes can be deferred. If there is a mortgage on the house, the lender must agree to the tax deferral.

"This program is designed for senior citizens who have lived in their homes for a long period of time and who cannot afford to pay the escalating cost of their real estate taxes," Rosewell said.

tal income, and capital gains. Forms to apply for the real estate tax deferral program are available at the Treasurer's downtown office and all five suburban offices. Senior citizens can also call the Treasurer's Office (312) 443-5100.

Rosewell said that qualified senior citizens must reapply for the program each year they wish to have their taxes deferred. Once approved, a senior citizen will automatically be mailed an application each January. Also, seniors can opt in and out of the program as they wish, he said.

Under the program, the deferred taxes need not be repaid until the taxpayer's death or the sale of the property. In the event of death, the heir need not repay the deferred taxes are charged a 6% simple interest rate per year.

"This program is designed for senior citizens who have lived in their homes for a long period of time and who cannot afford to pay the escalating cost of their real estate taxes," Rosewell said.

Stroke and Spasticity

The damage to the brain from a stroke essentially causes a "breakdown" in communication between the brain and the muscles. Messages sent to or from the brain are incomplete, causing the muscles to move too much or not at all. Because of this breakdown, the muscles may be overstimulated by the brain, or become weak or flaccid.

Spasticity occurs when muscles are in a constant, abnormal state of contraction or flexion. Muscle spasticity resulting from stroke can include muscle tightness, rigidity, cramping, and pain. Besides being painful, spasticity can interfere with normal daily functions, such as dressing, eating, walking and personal hygiene. If left untreated, spasticity can cause further disabling conditions, such as contractures and deformity.

Spasticity is a complex and challenging problem. There are numerous treatment options available to manage spasticity resulting from stroke and other disorders.

The Movement & Mobility Center has the clinical expertise needed to assist patients in choosing the best treatment options. For additional information, call the Movement & Mobility Center at 847-294-2475.

Tips for safe snow shoveling

It's something people do every winter. And it causes back injuries. Concerned about the potential dangers of snow shoveling, Rausch Rehabilitation Services provides the following tips for safe snow shoveling. So take note of the information and wait for the snow to fall.

"When shoveling snow you are bending forward, twisting and lifting which can cause an injury," says Rick Rausch, President of Rausch Rehabilitation Services.

Two major kinds of injuries are associated with snow shoveling: back sprain or strain where the muscles are injured, and disc protrusion or herniation, commonly known as a slipped disc.

"Injury would be more prominent in people 30-50," said Rausch. "There are more degenerative changes in the spine and this age group as a whole tends to over work their back," he added.

Rausch suggest the following tips for safe snow shoveling:

*Try to lift while keeping your back straight or a bit arched and lift with your legs rather than your back.

Use a "back-saver" shovel with a handle that curves up and back. The scoop is lower and you will not have to bend so far.

*Stop frequently and stand up straight, bend backwards or just walk around to change your back position.

*Avoid twisting your back. As you unload the shovel, move one foot in the direction that you will throw the snow. This keeps your back straight.

*Pick up small loads of snow each time. If an injury occurs and a person is not well within 36 hours it is suggested that you consult your doctor or physical therapist.

Heartburn products that make big promises

Every month, about a quarter of the population in the United States experience heartburn, a burning sensation felt behind the breastbone near the heart. Many sufferers seek relief in the form of an over-the-counter remedy, but consumers should be wary of products that seem too good to be true, warns a physician at Loyola University Medical Center.

Recently the makers of one product have claimed that it "helps take the acid out of your food." Although this sounds good, the acid coming from food is not what causes heartburn, said Dr. Sohrab Mobarhan, a Loyola gastroenterologist.

"The foods we eat are not that acidic," Mobarhan said. "If they were, they would burn our mouths."

The heartburn sensation is derived from hydrochloric acid, which the stomach produces during digestion. People feel discomfort when this stomach acid comes in contact with the esophagus, a process called acid reflux.

Acid reflux occurs when the sphincter, the valve between the esophagus and the stomach, does not function properly. Normally, the sphincter acts like a one-way door, allowing food to pass through to the stomach. When not functioning properly, the sphincter fails to keep acid in the stomach, causing burning of the inner layer of the esophagus.

Although food itself does not directly cause heartburn, certain compounds in food can adversely affect the functioning of the valve. Compounds in fatty foods, fried foods and orange juice have all been shown to affect the valve and contribute to acid reflux. Not all of the compounds that lead to heartburn have been identified, Mobarhan said.

So instead of buying products that really do not help, heartburn sufferers can do a number of other things to reduce their discomfort. They should avoid foods that tend to sit in the stomach for a long time, such as items with high fat content. Other foods that can cause discomfort include: coffee, tea and cola drinks (with or without caffeine), carbonated drinks, spicy foods, mint and chocolate, onions and tomatoes. Any other foods that seem to irritate the stomach or cause pain should also be avoided.

Three types of medicines are available to reduce or prevent heartburn. The most commonly used treatment is antacid. Antacids neutralize the stomach's digestive chemicals, but do not affect their production. Antacids come in liquid or tablet form and can be purchased over the counter.

H-blockers reduce the amount of acid the stomach produces and some of them, in low doses, are also available without a prescription. However, consumers would be wise to consult a physician before taking H-blockers because they may interact with other medications.

Proton inhibitors turn off acid production in the stomach completely, but can have some side effects. Taken once a day, they work faster to relieve heartburn

Little City's Family One Program

Being a parent is a tough job even under the best of circumstances. But when a child has a severe or profound developmental disability, such as mental retardation or autism, the pressures placed on parents and other family members can become overwhelming.

Parents who have a child with a severe developmental disability face a wide range of issues that can have a serious impact on them physically, emotionally and financially. This is especially true of families who are committed to caring for such a child at home.

But help is available for these parents through Families One, a program provided by Little City Foundation that is designed to empower families in this situation to meet the daily and long-term challenges they face in raising a child with a developmental disability.

Funded through a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, Families One provides parents with the knowledge, skills and support they need to provide appropriate in-home care for children that have even the most severe of developmental challenges.

"Services range from providing respite for stressed-out parents to teaching specific techniques for working through difficult behavioral situations, depending on the needs of each family," according to Maryann Mahlman, Little City Foundation's associate director of family support services.

The Cohns of northwest suburban Wheeling are typical of the 18 families currently being helped by the program. Jamie, her husband Ed, and their 11-year-old daughter Sydney, who has autism, have been receiving services from Families One for five years.

She noted that the program has developed a behavior-strategy plan that is specific to Sydney's needs, adding that Families One staff members have accompanied the Cohns to school staffings in order to ensure that Sydney's plan is followed in a consistent manner. Jamie added that for Sydney's three-year school review, Families One provided a school advocate who worked on behalf of Sydney to make sure that her educational needs were being met.

The Cohns also appreciate the help they and Sydney receive from the program, both inside and outside their home. At home, Jamie said, staff members help Sydney with her daily living skills, such as using utensils at mealtime, personal grooming and teaching her how to communicate more effectively. Outside the home, staff members take her to the park, where she can meet and interact with other children, as well as to restaurants and movies, where she can practice her social skills.

Jaimie added that as a full-time working mother, the Families One program has enabled her to work outside of the home. "A staff member is at my home most days in time to get Sydney off the school bus, and then she calls me at work to update me on her day at school," she said. "It's also fun for Sydney to have someone from outside the family with whom she can develop a rapport."

While Families One is currently helping 18 families raise children with developmental disabilities at home, Mahlman noted that funding for the program through the Illinois Department of Mental Health is extremely limited. She said, however, that the program's services also are available on a private-pay basis, and that families can pay for services with funds they receive through Individualized Care Grants, which are awarded by the Department of Mental Health.

For more information about Families One, call Maryann Mahlman at 847/358-5510, ext. 890.

Women's News

GOP Woman's Club to review Watergate facts

Was the Watergate break-in really a bungled political stunt or was the story part of the cover-up?

What was the stately Mrs. John Dean's interest in sitting through every day of the Watergate hearings? Was it wifely devotion while her husband's career was on the line, or were her own personal interests at stake?

Did president Nixon's inner circle gather loyally about the nation's chief executive, or did they use his political weakness in a plot to build their own power?

These questions and other fascinating insights on the history of the Watergate period will be explored by Maine East history teacher Paul Carlson when he speaks before the Maine Township Republican Woman's Club on Saturday, Jan. 25, at 9:30 am in

Silvestri announces "Unsung Heroines" awards

In recognition of Women's History Month, the Cook County Commission on Women's Issues will be sponsoring their second annual awards breakfast on March 11 at which seventeen women will be honored as the County's "unsung heroines". The selection of these heroines is being organized by a district basis to ensure that women county-wide will be recognized for their contributions to their own communities. Nominees must be residents of the County District from which they are nominated. They should be women who, either in a professional or volunteer capacity, have made significant contributions to the well being of their community and have not received widespread recognition. Commissioner Peter N. Silvestri (9th County District) applauded the award program citing the important contributions women have made to the progress and development of Cook County. "I strongly support the Commission on Women's Issues in its effort to acknowledge the women who have selflessly contributed to their communities and welcome the opportunity to honor them."

Anyone who would like to nominate a woman of the 9th County District can obtain a nomination form by contacting Commissioner Silvestri's office at (773) 774-8554. Nomination forms must be received by January 27.

Information or a membership application may be obtained by calling Miss Pullen at (847) 823-1004.

Hunger Weeks sets highest goal

Each December, Loyola Academy conducts Hunger Week which works to raise funds and food for area emergency pantries. Each student is asked to bring in 30 cans of food for the pantries, or $15 toward the purchase of food. Many area pantries depend upon the products brought in by Loyola students each year and the effort continues year after year.

Faculty and staff also become involved by participating in an auction to add funds toward more purchases. The auction includes items submitted by the faculty and staff for bidding by the students. Some of the items include breakfast, lunch or dinners with teachers, famous desserts or dishes such as a dozen homemade cookies each month, authentic eggrolls, brownies or pizza; as well as student vs. teacher football games, tennis matches and knitting lessons.

Willows starts unique service program

It's no longer enough to simply get good grades at The Willows Academy. For the first time in the school's history, students must complete a mandatory service program in order to be promoted to the next grade. High school students will complete 40 hours of service (junior high, 20 hours) in the community projects of their choice by the end of the academic school year.

The Willows administration established the program so students can put into action what they learn, according to Program Coordinator Annette Babione. "You can talk all you want about charity and humility, but it's only when you have to serve and pick up food for people having every disease possible that you really learn those virtues," she said.

Willows students have chosen various ways to fulfill their annual service requirements. Some help at soup kitchens, homeless shelters and nursing homes. Others lend a hand at parish offices or teach Sunday school religion classes. Students must give a presentation at the year's end on what they've learned from their experiences. Babione hopes students continue their service even after they've fulfilled their service requirement.

"We want to make it part of their everyday lives," she said. Service to others is one value that The Willows staff teaches students. The school was founded in 1974 by parents and educators as an independent college preparatory school for girls in grades 6 through 12. The school's founders wanted to provide top-notch academics and character formation for young women. Inspired by the teachings of the Catholic Church, The Willows is an accredited member of the Independent Schools Association of Central States.

1. Children of parishioners:
    - a. Children from families with children already enrolled.
    - b. Children now reaching school age.
  2. Transfer students from other Catholic schools:
    - a. From schools that are merging or consolidating.
    - b. From schools not offering full programs 1-8.
  3. Children of non-parishioners:
    - a. Children from families with children already enrolled.
    - b. Children from families newly moved into the parish and whose children have been in Catholic schools where such were available or from public schools where Catholic schools were not available.

Battery

A 57-year-old Niles customer service employee reported that a 26-year-old man who was a former friend of hers approached her in the parking lot in the 9100 block of Terrace Drive, called her a "bitch" and pushed her with his open hand in the chest area before fleeing in his 1995 Suzuki Tracker.

The victim had already filed a prior report on Jan. 12 because the offender had gone to her residence and rung the doorbell continuously for no apparent reason.

Disorderly conduct

A 19-year-old Chicago woman was given a $50 fine and lost her job at the discount store in the 6100 block of Touhy Avenue after she admitted calling 911 and reporting that her supervisor had sexually assaulted her.

Police responded and asked the 19-year-old woman who denied making the call. They questioned all female employees who also denied knowledge of the call.

The suspect later admitted making the call as a joke. She was transported to the Niles Police Department where she was fined.

Criminal property damage

A 17-year-old former employee of the Theatre in the 9100 block of Golf Road discovered that a 2-ft. by 12-ft. window had been shattered while waiting for a bus near the theatre around 12:50 p.m. Jan. 14. Police checked the building but found nothing had been tampered with.

A board-up service was notified.

Theft

The 29-year-old director of the toy store in the 9500 block of Milwaukee Avenue reported that a suspect took an entire case of baby formula valued at $50, left the store without paying for it and placed it in a blue hatchback automobile which was driven eastbound on Golf Road by a second offender.

The license plate number of the offenders' vehicle was obtained, but no record of it is on file. A tracer has been requested.

A Chicago man was observed via videotape placing miscellaneous jewelry items valued at $395 down his pants and exiting the retail store at 400 Golf Mill around 3:55 p.m. Jan. 14. He was arrested.

by Niles police and given a Feb. 27 court date.

A 28-year-old Morton Grove man was observed by store security agents in the electronics store in the 9500 block of Greenwood as he opened two display boxes of complete fax modems, each consisting of a modem, a/c adaptor, phone cord, software packet and user guide. The subject concealed the items in his jacket and attempted to exit the store. Once past the last point of purchase, the subject was detained by the security agent for the Niles Police Department.

The subject made verbal statements admitting to theft. The offender said he had been sick and hoped to sell the stolen items to pay for expensive medicine.

The 59-year-old manager of the Mill outlet store in the 7300 block of Harlem Avenue reported that unknown offender(s) used a pry tool to gain access to a walk-in safe and then pry open a two-drawer file cabinet from which they removed $2,186.14 and an unknown amount of petty cash. The money was located in a yellow bank deposit box.

The manager told police that access to the area could be gained by patrons who used the washrooms.

Theft of dog

A 46-year-old systems analyst reported that the family dog was removed from the doghouse in the backyard of her home in the 7100 block of Riverside Drive sometime between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Jan. 10.

On Jan. 13 the victim received an anonymous letter from "neighbors," informing her that the dog is fine and was taken because of continual neglect and inhumane treatment by the victim and her husband.

The victim requested a follow-up investigation.

Ambulance assist

Police were dispatched to an apartment building in the 8600 block of Milwaukee Avenue around 9:05 a.m. Jan. 11 on a report of smoke coming from an apartment and filling a hallway.

Police attempted to alert tenants while units of the North Maine and Niles Fire Departments forced entry to the victim's apartment, where they found more smoke and burned food after gaining entry.

Fire Department personnel observed the victim sleeping in a bedroom with covers over her head. When the victim was roused, it became obvious that she had been drinking and at one time had been drunk. No alcohol or drugs were visible in the apartment, however.

When the victim refused to be transported to Lutheran General Hospital, police officials contacted a doctor at the hospital and together they decided to transport the victim to the hospital.

An "O" ticket was issued to the victim for Disorderly Conduct. The apartment building manager was contacted and said the door of the victim's apartment would be repaired by the building management.

Getting tough on gangs

Gov. Jim Edgar issued the following statement as he and Attorney General Jim Ryan released recommendations from the Governor's Commission on Gangs:

I created and appointed this commission to address one of this state's most serious problems: gang crime. And, under the strong leadership of the Attorney General, it has responded with an action plan that I believe will be very helpful and effective.

It addresses this intolerable threat to public safety by getting smart as well as getting tough -- a combination we have used to fight crime ever since I became Governor.

It mobilizes communities in battling community problems.

It marshals advanced technology to provide immediate and important information to police and community groups that are waging war against gangs.

It establishes a clearinghouse that will allow communities and law enforcement groups to benefit from successful programs elsewhere in Illinois and throughout the nation.

It establishes special training programs for prosecutors and targets greater parental involvement.

I already have signed into law two of the commission's early recommendations: a state-funded witness protection program and a requirement that reports be filed when guns are found in schools.

That's getting smart on gangs. But this commission also has gotten tough on gangs.

I already have signed into law a recommendation it made early in its proceedings to impose tougher penalties on gang-related crimes.

And I look forward to working with the Attorney General and other commission members in implementing other recommendations.

I appreciate the work done by the Attorney General and the entire commission. It is work that I believe will save many lives and make our neighborhoods safer.

Stroger warns residents about cold weather

With temperatures expected to drop into the teens over the next several days, Cook County Board President John Stroger is advising residents to take the proper precautions to prevent health and safety problems and appealing to citizens to check on elderly relatives and neighbors. "Our communities need to band together and make sure those most vulnerable to health complications are okay. A five minute phone call or visit to a senior citizen to make sure they have what they need to handle the extreme temperatures will help out significantly," said Stroger. The Cook County Department of Public Health offers the following tips for beating the cold weather.

When dressing:

- Wear several layers of lightweight clothing rather than one or two layers of heavy garments. The air between garments acts as insulation to keep you warmer.
- Cover your head. You lose as much as 50% of your body heat through your head.
- Cover exposed skin (face, hands) to protect against frostbite.
- Wear waterproof boots or sturdy shoes with good traction to prevent slipping.

When driving:

- Keep your car healthy by making sure you have enough gas, antifreeze, windshield wiper fluid and oil.
- Keep a blanket and gloves in the car in case you stall unexpectedly. Allow extra time for heavy, slow-moving traffic so you don't have to rush.
- If you skid, don't panic. Take your foot off the brake, then steer in the direction of the skid. Once the car regains traction, you can straighten the wheel.
- In the home: Do not use an oven as a heating device. Read all directions before using space heaters and other portable heating devices. Never leave them on while unattended.
- Hang blankets over windows at night. Stuff cracks around doors with rugs, newspapers and towels.
- Keep extra food and water (especially types that need no cooking or refrigeration) on hand.
- Keep a flashlight and extra batteries on hand.
- Cold weather strains the heart of even those in the best physical condition. If you are strong enough to handle shoveling, you should rest often and pace yourself.
- Use a proper snow shovel and lift with your legs not your back.
- Do not smoke or drink while you shovel.

For your health:

- Drink non-alcoholic beverages such as coffee, tea, hot chocolate and soup.
- Check with your doctor or pharmacist about any medications that could cause problems in cold weather.

Carbon Monoxide poisoning

Each year, hundreds of people die as a result of accidental carbon monoxide poisoning from motor vehicle gases. Statistics show that these deaths are seasonal, with the largest proportion (35 percent) occurring in the winter months.

Q. How does carbon monoxide poisoning occur?
A. It usually occurs as a result of a motor vehicle being left idling in enclosed spaces or in areas without adequate ventilation, such as garages.

Carbon monoxide poisoning can occur in both stationary and moving vehicles. In 1993, a total of 353 people died in accidental carbon monoxide poisonings. Stationary vehicles caused 245 of the fatalities and 108 involved moving motor vehicles.

Q. What can be done to prevent accidental poisonings?
A. Check your exhaust system for holes that may cause carbon monoxide to leak into your vehicle.

After heavy snowfalls, make sure your tail pipe outlets are not blocked by snow before the engine is started. When warming up your vehicle, keep the window cracked a bit. Many people die as they are warming up their car and a snow-blocked exhaust pipe fills the vehicle with carbon monoxide.

Do not sit in a vehicle that is idling in a closed space.

To help prevent carbon monoxide poisoning, many vehicles today are equipped with more modern catalytic converters that turn carbon monoxide into carbon dioxide, which is not poisonous. Some cars are equipped with on-board computers and oxygen sensors. However, even with the most modern equipment, carbon monoxide can be lethal without proper precautions.

Winter parking regulations

Residents are advised to utilize their garages and driveways since parked vehicles during snowstorms cause the greatest hardship for the snow removal operations.

Residents living on a designated snow route are reminded that parking is prohibited on either side of the street after a one-inch snowfall, and until snow removal operations have been completed.

Because of the nature of the Village, certain areas in town do not have driveways; therefore, residents must park on the street. These "exempt" streets are obviously not affected by the snow parking regulations; however, residents NOT living on a designated snow route or exempt street must comply with the following: however, residents not living on a designated snow route or exempt street must comply with the following:

• After a 3-inch snowfall, no parking is allowed on the odd numbered side of the street for 24 hours after the snow stops, or until the street is plowed. The same applies for the even numbered side of the street during the next 24-hour period.

Regina Dominican-A school for the next millennium

by Stephanie M. Garrity

What happens when a small school environment and a nationally recognized curriculum meet the Internet? The direct result is Regina Dominican High School. Regina Dominican, located at 701 Locust Road in Wilmette, implemented the first phase of their comprehensive four-year technology plan throughout the summer of 1996. The plan is intended to enhance the learning environment of the schools interdisciplinary college preparatory curriculum. Over the next three years, Regina Dominican will invest nearly $1,000,000 in the technology program, an average of $2,200 per student.

Through implementation of the first phase, access to academic technology is no longer limited to the library and computer center, but serves the students immediate needs in each and every classroom. Students can now enjoy the many benefits of a technology rich learning environment as they prepare for the world of the future. Hardware, software, a transparent infrastructure and professional development of faculty/staff all contribute to promote critical thinking and communication within the global community and demonstrate Regina Dominican's commitment to integrating the system into education.

Students at Regina Dominican can access the World Wide Web to search out a college or university and may download an application or financial aid forms. They can search other libraries or talk to other students worldwide. Teachers can tailor web sites for their class to direct students to certain research sites. Students also use Microsoft Office for word processing, spreadsheets, databases or to help them prepare a presentation. The computer skills that these students acquire now will encourage effective communication, problem solving, creativity and critical thinking at both the college and professional levels. While Regina Dominican's Technology Plan includes continual computer resource upgrades and professional development, it contains three more levels of planning, as well. Phase II will add computer resources in the counseling/career planning department, a new state-of-the-art networked administrative system and additional computers for the art department. Phase III will introduce a smart classroom complete with computer based sound and light systems, CD and VHS drives and the room will be sound modified. In Phase IV, the administration will institute a planned replacement process. During the past summer, a structured cabling system was installed throughout the building to support a local and wide area network. Students can now "surf the net," participate in interdisciplinary and cross-curricular lessons, use E-mail and interact with global communities and schools through projects and programs that teachers have located on the Internet.

The students have access to the Computer Resource Center's 30 new computers and the third floor computer center. The library's computer system remains a convenient tool for students researching in the library. Students use the library's CD-ROM System Resource Service (SIRS) and the Magazine Article Summaries (MAS) database which include both citations and full-texts from hundreds of journals, magazines and newspapers. The North Suburban Library System (NSLS) database and Illinet on-line provide the means for searching academic, public and school libraries and can facilitate inter-library loans throughout the state of Illinois. The Firstsearch database offers resources from several databases. These may provide information from books, microfilm, videos, music, dissertations, etc. to provide citations and full texts. The Government Printing Office (GPO) gives students access to all government publications in electronic format.

A new Arts and Publications center for desktop publishing through Pagemaker and graphic arts design is in place for students enrolled in Art, Yearbook and Journalism. In addition, each department has its own mobile computer. In all, Regina Dominican's student/computer ratio is an impressive 5:1. Regina Dominican's technology coordinator, Leslie Baker, is impressed with the plan thus far. "The long range vision of the administration is a real credit to Regina Dominican High School. It's an exciting time to be a part of Regina Dominican whether you're a student or a member of the staff." Baker supervises the school's new Internet Club and has helped them to sponsor a series of workshops to demonstrate the use of Windows 95, Microsoft Office, the Internet and the applications of technology in everyday life. Marilee Ewing, OP, PhD, Regina Dominican High School principal, realized that computer her students in a Spanish-only chat site. Students must conduct all conversations in this site in Spanish. This encourages students to not only practice Spanish, but add to their vocabulary, as well, so they can keep up with conversations in the site.

On a recent visit to Regina Dominican High School to view their progress in the technological arena, Superintendent of Catholic Schools for the Archdiocese of Chicago, Elaine Schuster, PhD, commended Regina Dominican, "I was so impressed and excited by the technology I saw in the building. You are to be congratulated for impressive technological planning and for the courage to forge ahead with a comprehensive and future oriented project and plan. Your present and future students are blessed to be the recipients of such creative educational planning."

Teachers for the next millennium will need a new view of the educational process. A teacher is no longer a "sage on the stage" but a demonstrator of and facilitator for the endless search for knowledge. Regina Dominican High School has reached the ideal for the next millennium today.

Letters To The Editor

Coalition, a "political reality?"

Dear Editor:
The Maine Township Democrat Organization is continuing its efforts to pull the wool over the eyes of township voters.

First Democrat Committeeman Andrew Przybylo, flanked by democrat officials and party worker, announced his intention to form a "coalition" ticket to run for township office. The announcement, held at democrat party headquarters, was the first step in putting together a supposedly "bi-partisan" slate.

At that time even Andy was hard pressed to maintain the ruse, saying that the reason for forming a coalition was "political reality".

with one that sounded better.

Now Andy's slate is complete and the efforts to dupe the public continue. He says his slate is comprised of seven democrats and two republicans (hardly a serious effort at "bi-partisanship").

But looking further at the credentials of the so called "republicans" on their ticket puts the credibility of their entire slate in question.

Assessor candidate Gail Vieneisel was described as a republican, and indeed she did vote in the republican primary-one time. In every other primary election, Ms. Vieneisel consistently voted in the democrat primary. Voting in one election hardly makes her a republican.

Mr. Robbin White, according to the "coalition's" public relations team, is a member of the Maine Township Republican Organization. I've been president of that organization for two years and a member for over ten, and I've never met, nor even heard of Mr. White.

There's nothing wrong with being a democrat or independent. The party affiliation of these candidates does not preclude them from seeking public office.

But should a candidate's first public act be manipulation of the press in order to deceive the public? I wonder what other tricks the "coalition" slate has planned for us as the campaign progresses.

Sincerely,
John Dini
President
Maine Township Regular Republican Organization

Sincerely,

P.R.I.D.E. and PUPILS

What do "you" do all day?
- Gabby Fidanza -

We patrol our assigned areas of the Village, we have 3 areas 1,2,3, or we are assigned to a "ROVE" car, where we can randomly patrol the entire town. We answer radio calls, stop cars for speeding, etc. Generally we look for suspicious people and things, before a crime takes place.

Are you afraid if someone had a gun and could shoot you?
- Ann Golebiowski -

Yes, I would be very afraid. Sometimes people think Police Officers are like "Superman" and cannot get hurt, but we are just like you, REAL PEOPLE, and we do get hurt just like anyone else. Besides being a little scared keeps you alert and this help keep you safe and out of trouble.

What kind of protection do officers use during crimes?
- Danny Garcia -
Besides our firearms (guns) we use bullet proof vests, ba-

Niles Police P.R.I.D.E. program

The Niles Police Department formed a team program 9 years ago to educate school children on the dangers of Drug and Alcohol Abuse. The P.R.I.D.E. (Positive Response In Drug Education) TEAM of Niles Police officers speaks to students in Niles schools in grades Kindergarten through High School. Their message is that drug abuse is wrong, harmful and unlawful. By making regular visits to the schools they try to instill and reinforce this teaching throughout adolescence.

Other goals of the P.R.I.D.E. program are to encourage a positive self-image, self-esteem, self-discipline and to demonstrate socially acceptable behavior during later unsupervised activities. In addition the program encourages children to stand by their convictions when pressured to participate in drug experimentation and related abuse patterns.

The officers are full-time members of the Police Department and incorporate various teaching methods such as lectures, video and drug awareness literature.

Niles Police team up to educate students on drug abuse

Niles Police Officers Tony Fidanza and Vince Genualdi responded to students of Nelson School in Niles.

Officers Fidanza and Genualdi, along with other Niles Police Officers, pepper spray and handcuffs, they all require intense training and certification before we are allowed to carry these items.

If you see a burglar running from a house do you shoot them?
- Amanda Riend -
No, using your gun is very dangerous, yes it can be used in certain situations, but not in this situation, the burglar probably took property and did not hurt anyone. If however someone is trying to harm you or someone else, under certain circumstances like a real bad crime, we could use our gun.

Do bad people bang on the plastic window you have in your police car?
- Amanda Riend -
Yes, sometimes if they are on drugs or are drunk, perhaps very upset and emotional they will punch and kick the inside of our car, or try and spit on us, or they try and bang their heads on the plastic window. It is used to protect us from them and to protect them from hurting themselves as well.

How do you become a police officer?
- Linda Senkowski -
We take a series of tests, for example a written test a psychological exam, physical testing, and an interview process to determine the best available person for the Police position. After that you attend a Police Training Academy for 3-4 months, the your train further

Did you ever shoot anyone?
- Christian Fidanza -
No I have not had to thus far, there are times that I have come very close to using deadly force with my firearm but we realize that using a firearm (gun) is a last resort; and that it can be potentially dangerous to not only the public but us as well. We rely on our training and back-up officers in these potentially dangerous situations.

Niles Police Officer Vince Genualdi #114 with an experience officer we call a Field Training Officer of FTO, where we are evaluated and further tested on a daily basis.

Dads by Night, Teachers by Day

If you are an upperclassman, you have probably had the nightmare in which you wake up to find your parents teaching the class in their pajamas. Well, Maine East senior Leah Welty could tell you a thing or two about the subject. Although Leah did not have this exact nightmare, she did have quite an experience last year. The Welty's are one of three senior student-father combinations at Maine East. The other two are the Kantrovichs and the Jeffers. All three families live in Des Plaines.

When Leah was asked why the in-school relationship ran so smoothly, she replied without hesitation, "We have a lot of respect for each other. He respects me and my privacy, and I respect him and his. We try to separate home and school as much as possible." The biggest obstacle that they had to overcome occurred last year when Mr. Welty had Leah in his physics class. When he was confronted with having Leah in his class, he stated, "Having a daughter in the same institution is definitely interesting, however, having Leah in class was the most difficult thing I have ever had to do."

When Leah was asked to comment on having her father as a teacher in the same school, she replied, "Over all, it's pretty good except it puts a little added pressure on me knowing I have to constantly watch my behavior. It's also beneficial knowing I always have a parent at school when I need one."

When asked what their most interesting experience has been at Maine East, they both brought up the same moment. Last year in physics Leah managed to go the entire year without referring to Mr. Welty as "Dad," but on the last day of school, she shouted out, "Dad, can you please help me with this problem?" The entire class busted out in an uproar because they had waited an entire year for her to say that one word.

In addition to the Welty's, there's also senior Neil Kantrovich and his father Jerry Kantrovich, who's been teaching English and Oral Communications at Maine East for twelve years. Unlike Mr. Welty, Mr. Kantrovich has been down this road before because older son Adam and daughter Rachel graduated from Maine East while he was a staff member.

When Mr. Kantrovich was asked what it is like having Neil as a student in the same institution, he replied, "Having Neil in school with me isn't that bad. The disadvantages are far greater for both of us, however, there are also some advantages. Neil has an advantage because he has quick access to funds for lunch, books, etc. because I'm around."

Although Mr. Kantrovich hasn't had Neil in class, he still thinks that having a son or daughter in school is very difficult. "A lot of people think that it would be hard not to give Neil a good grade when in fact it's the opposite. It would be hard not going overboard trying not to be partial. I've been lucky not to have had the challenge of having Neil in class, and right now I'm not looking forward to having it."

There's one thing for certain—Maine East seniors Leah Welty, Neil Kantrovich, and Kristin Jeffers don't have their dads ask every night, "So, what went on at school today? Anything interesting?" After all, they were there!

Local students given opportunity to study abroad

Qualified high school students are offered a unique opportunity to spend an academic year or summer holiday in Scandinavia, Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Great Britain, Holland, Spain, Portugal, Czech Republic, Slovakia, Poland, Mexico, Japan, Thailand, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand or Canada (French or English speaking) as part of the ASSE International Student Exchange Program," announced Becky Ankeny, Midwestern Regional Director of ASSE.

Students, 15 to 18 years old, qualify on the basis of academic performance, character references and a genuine desire to experience life abroad with a volunteer host family in one of the many ASSE host countries. "ASSE families abroad are carefully screened to provide a caring environment in which students can learn the language and culture of their host country," explained Ankeny. Summer exchange students live with a family abroad who might speak some English. Year students need not have learned a foreign language as they receive language and cultural instruction as part of the ASSE program. ASSE students attend regular high school classes along with their new teenage friends. "ASSE exchange students learn by living the language and culture of their new host country," added Ankeny. ASSE also provides international opportunities for families to host students. These select students are 15 to 18 years old and will attend the local school for an academic year. Students or families interested in more information about the ASSE program should contact: MICHAEL & LOIS CIPALO at (708) 388-2323 or call 1-800-736-1760.

tomer service, and fair prices, adds Mathias.

NWMC has supported other moves to open the cable market to competition. For example, the association supported a pro-competition bill last year (House Bill 2737) that would have removed some barriers to entering the cable TV market. The cable TV industry opposed this measure, and it did not pass.

The cable TV industry has commented on the broader model telecommunications ordinance, and has been sent copies of the complimentary cable ordinance. The Northwest Municipal Conference is an association of 34 municipalities and 5 townships in northern suburban Chicago.

Technology improvements at Notre Dame

The Computer Service Department at Notre Dame High School has taken many steps this past summer to update the software and technology to better prepare the current students on what they can expect to encounter once they have graduated from the high school.

This past summer many projects have been put into the works. All of the computers in both labs (about 65) along with 5 computers in the Library and 2 in the Brother Andre Learning Center are all running on the Microsoft Windows 3.11 platform instead of the menu driven database they were operating on last year. These computers have been networked together to a central server operating on Novell. Once logged onto the network the students have a variety of Glass and metal containers should be thoroughly rinsed, and lids, tops and rings should be removed. Labels also should be removed from cans. Newspapers, magazines, catalogs and cardboard must be bundled separately and tied with string.

Maine Township's recycling program is aimed at providing a convenient recycling site for residents who do not have curbside recycling, and for those who wish to recycle acceptable items that are not collected by their local waste haulers. Collection is held on the fourth Saturday of every month, except during holidays.

purchase clothing totaling $166 and signing the receipt. He was apprehended at the base of the escalators.

Another of the group used the card to purchase clothing valued at $109.01. He was taken into custody at the west foyer doors. Police also arrested the cashier who was allowing the subjects to purchase the items with the stolen credit card number.

The cashier was also observed via video tape using the stolen credit card number to purchase $500 worth of gift certificates.

All the subjects were transported to the Niles Police Department. Police contacted the credit card company to determine the issuing bank who provided them with the cardholder's information.

When police contacted the cardholder, he said that he was aware that his card was being illegally used and that he had never given permission to anyone to use his credit card.

Store officials provided police with another videotape from Jan. 13 showing the alleged offenders committing similar crimes, police said.

Forest Preserve ...

Zens in the protest group don't want to be "not in our backyard" kind of people as we've been portrayed."

If the County Board votes to lift the moratorium as is expected, in addition to exempting the Niles and Edgebrook and Sauganash Forest Preserves, the restoration group will be required to meet much stiffer guidelines. For example, District officials will be required to keep detailed records of tree removals, site and location of trees slated for removal and clear statements of reasons why a tree must be removed.

Nearly residents will have to be notified by mail at least 30 days in advance of prescribed fires which trained workers will conduct after consulting with local fire departments. State-licensed workers will be the only officials empowered to apply herbicides used to prohibit regrowth of plants and trees that have been removed, and only after the public has been forewarned by the posting of signs that herbicides will be used in an area.

Niles Mayor Nicholas B. Blase, whom Quinn praised for supporting the protest, said, "I'm very pleased that they're not going to change it [the moratorium in the Niles area]. I called [County Commissioner] Pete Silvestri and John Stroger and said it was very important to the people of this area."

Quinn said that if the moratorium is lifted, the volunteer restoration group will spend the next few months removing large size trees. "They do it in January, February and March because people are not in the woods and on the bike paths and they won't be criticized," Quinn said.

Quinn, who has lived in a 102-year-old home in the Old Edgebrook area since 1958, said she is not satisfied that the moratorium will remain in effect in her area. "If it's wrong for Edgebrook and Sauganash, it's wrong for all of Cook County," she said.

Quinn urges residents interested in protesting the restoration of the Forest Preserve District to 1830 prairie conditions to express their thoughts to County Board President John H. Stroger at (312)443-6398 or (312)443-6400 or Fax (312)443-4397. They can also call Joseph Nevius, Superintendent of the Forest Preserve District at (708)771-1511.

Nursery School at Niles North seeks students

The Niles North High School child development class is seeking nursery school aged students for their Fall 1997 semester. Students must be four years old by September 1, 1997 in order to attend. The classes meet three days per week, and each session lasts for approximately two hours. The cost is $90 per semester.

Preschoolers enrolled in the program work to develop math, socialization, and large and fine motor skills. Activities include playing at science and math tables; discussions centered around specific themes, such as the changing of the seasons or the world of nature; and the reading of children's books. A nutritious snack is also served each day.

The nursery school sessions are taught by high school students under the supervision of Niles North teacher Debbie Meyer. "I have great, great students," notes Ms. Meyer, referring to her teachers. "A certain percentage are interested in early childhood as a career and a certain percentage are interested in special education as a career. And this class is really a good way for them to prepare for their chosen careers."

For information on registration, contact Debbie Meyer at 847/568-3323.
