by Bud Besser

Rabbi Lawrence Charney died last week. He was rabbi emeritus at Northwest Suburban Jewish Congregation in Morton Grove from 1958 until 1986.

He was the essence of a truly good human being. He was a gentle, soft-spoken man, diffident and refined. He was the embodiment of what we would expect in a moral and religious leader.

Like many of us, I grew up respecting teachers and religious leaders. I was somewhat in awe of these professions. But this rather naive sentiment clashed with reality when we began our day to day contact with these people in our role reporting and covering the news. We came across Rabbis who were dallying with their women congregants. And we came across other religious leaders who were arrogant and bigoted and lacked the humility and selflessness we expected from these men.

We had a racist periodically drop by the office who led his church in the community while he resisted the most elementary of human values. When Niles first black family moved into town he imported outside rabble rousers to protest the black family's living here.

We knew a Niles religious leader who was forced out of his church because of his liberalism.

Niles church denied zoning for day care

Lakeview Korean Presbyterian Church's petition for a variance to open a child care center at 8257 Harrison Street, was denied by the Niles Plan, Commission and Zoning Board.

Although several reasons were cited for the decision, it appeared that the Board relied heavily on the concerns of the nearby residents.

The zoning matter, which had been continued from June 2, brought about 25 people from both Niles and Glenview to the Village Hall on Monday night to hear the Board's resolution.

In June, the Board had tabled making a decision on the issue because the Church had failed to present proper documentation about its proposed plans. At that time concerns from surrounding residents about the problems they had already encountered regarding the congested parking was another reason for the delay.

by Kathleen Quirsfeld

At this hearing, Yun Chang-Lyu, a representative from Lakeview brought the plans of the proposed day care center for the Board's review. He began his presentation with an attempt to assuage the public's opinion of

Edward Jones: How to Be the Neighborhood Millionaire

Millionaires. They drive fancy cars, hang out at ritzy country clubs and live in the swanky part of town. Right?

Think again. There's a good chance your next-door neighbor is a millionaire. Wait—before you turn to the comics, read on.

Thomas J. Stanley, who has studied the wealthy for more than 20 years, is the author of a new book called "The Millionaire Next Door." He first became interested in studying millionaires while working for a trust company. In that job, he was assigned to do a study on people with a net worth of $10 million or more. Stanley arranged an elaborate function orchestrated by a food designer and gourmet wine consultant.

To his surprise, the people attended drank beer. They were just "good old boys" and first-generation millionaires," Stanley said.

This discovery led Stanley to profile the American millionaire. He found that most people who accumulate wealth in one generation are self-employed. They are self-reliant and disciplined, able to blend their business investing habits with their personal investing.

According to Stanley's studies, more than 80 percent of millionaires in America are first-generation rich. The New York City apparel manufacturer differs little from the welding contractor in Tulsa. They typically have traditional values and live frugally. Would you believe that 37 percent of millionaires buy used cars?

Most millionaires don't fit the popular image of "The Great Gatsby." They're hard-working people: paving contractors, rice farmers, scrap metal dealers. Millionaires work 45 to 55 hours a week in their own businesses. They don't throw their money around. According to Stanley, an IRS study on the wealthy concluded that "these people are more interested in saving than they are in consuming. That's how they accumulate wealth."

In a recent interview, Stanley distinguished between millionaires in assets and millionaires in income. Earn $250,000 a year for four consecutive years and politicians classify you as a millionaire. Not so, said Stanley—that's income. The traditional definition of a millionaire is a person with net worth of $1 million or more. In fact, according to Stanley's book, the average millionaire had an annual household income of $131,000.

How do you become a millionaire on $131,000 a year? The trick is to accumulate wealth. The people Stanley calls "under-accumulators of wealth" spend tremendous amounts of money on leased cars, credit, and other culprits of wealth. About 85 percent of millionaires, on the other hand, seldom spend more than $4,360 on a suit or $27,000 on a car.

Would you like to be the neighborhood millionaire? Follow the example of the self-made millionaires: Be self-reliant, live frugally, and invest wisely. Jeffrey Cardella can be reached at Edward Jones, 8141 N. Milwaukee, Niles, 470-8953.

Des Plaines year-round school opens smoothly

by Rosemary Tirio

School bells started ringing a bit early this year at one Des Plaines school, the first in the northwest suburbs to adopt year-round classes.

Four hundred students in kindergarten through eighth grade reported for class bright and early Monday morning at the Iroquois Community School in Des Plaines. Only 13 students were absent.

Even more amazing is the fact that the students and their parents actually wanted it this way. Iroquois is known as a "school of choice." No one was forced to accept year-round schooling, even though all the educational research points to the great benefit of year-round classes. Those who opted not to participate in the year-round school could have their children transferred to other traditional schools in the district.

Creation of the alternative calendar school was just the first step in a comprehensive plan that also includes enlarging the student body at Algonquin Junior High with Iroquois students who opt to continue at a school on a traditional calendar, according to District 62 Superintendent Robert Willis.

A third step in the plan is the large building addition that will be started in August at Chippewa

Junior High School to accommodate all of the sixth grade students from all of the district's elementary schools. A middle school will be created there to accommodate students in grades 6, 7 and 8.

"This is the most efficient utilization of classroom space without having to build many additions," Willis said. "If we didn't do this, we would have to build additions at three elementary schools."

Opposition was substantial. Residents protested to the Des Plaines City Council. Teachers gave Supt. Robert Willis, who brought the idea from Rock Island where he launched a successful year-round school before joining District 62 five years ago, a vote of no confidence. Hundreds of parents packed school board meetings since plans for the year-round facility were announced to express their concerns and opposition.

Withal, Willis and his supporters forged on believing that once the school was established, people would have a better understanding of and appreciation for the benefits of year-round education.

School Board Vice President and parent of an Iroquois Community School student Jan Kucera attributed much of the opposition to a vocal minority and said that the school board received numerous letters and phone calls from parents and teachers who supported the alternative calendar, integrated curriculum, multi-age classroom plan for what she termed the demonstration site.

Regarding the alternative calendar, the actual number of days of school attendance days and vacation days are virtually the same. The difference is that instead of the traditional 12-week summer vacation, students will attend school for approximately nine weeks and then have approximately three weeks of vacation.

During the quarterly breaks or inter-sessions as they will be known, parents will be able to enroll their children in day care, outside classes or review sessions.

"Opposition to year-round schools tends to be because of convenience," said Iroquois Principal Tom Ray. "Parents are used to taking vacations in July and August."

"Educationally, there is no question it's better for children," Ray continued. "They don't have the long span of time away from school. Children will lose from two to five months of what they learned. At risk students will lose most," Ray said.

INTERNET: Is censorship required?

The internet has been in the news incessantly for months. It seems that we cannot live with, nor can we live without it. Our local schools are all getting connected. Teachers are learning to use it to enrich their curriculum; to take students on an exciting learning adventure never before possible with a variety and diversity of information, pictures, and other graphics available through the internet.

Each of us and our children can access this same information from the haven of our own home and through our public library. Many adults learn from their children how to "access" and "surf" the internet. Whether it be browsing, serious research or merely to obtain airline information, weather, sending and receiving e-mail, participating in a chat group, or downloading software, adults and children have a treasure chest at our fingertips.

The problem arises when we become aware of some of the information available through the internet that some people find objectionable, and some information that most people find objectionable. In a library environment as it applies to this limited amount of controversial information, how do we handle the questions of First Amendment rights? of privacy rights? of parental control? and of "community standards"?

PLAIN SPEAKING addresses these and other related issues through Aug. 9th with host Bill Blaine and guests Michael Madden, Executive Librarian, Schaumburg Township Public Library, and Lesley Williams, Reference Librarian, Evanston Public Library.

PLAIN SPEAKING can be seen on TCI channel 65/68 on Tuesday, 5:30 p.m., Wednesday 11:30 a.m. and Sundays at 6 p.m. Viewers who have comments about PLAIN SPEAKING or suggested topics may contact us at 847/255-8410 or you can email us at: bblaine@interaccess.com.

Free back-to-school vision checks offered

If a student's vision doesn't meet the grade, his or her performance in school may not be a true indicator of academic capabilities. Give your child a head start in school this year with a vision check, free of charge, at the fifth annual All American Eye Check Day, on Sunday, August 3, from noon to 4 p.m., at more than 750 Sears locations across the country. No appointment is necessary. The vision check takes five to seven minutes to complete and is open to adults as well as children.

Further visual evaluation and a comprehensive eye examination will be recommended when the check indicates a possible vision problem. While a vision check is a good first step in protecting eye health and preventing unnecessary blindness, it does not take the place of a regular eye examination.

For children as young as 2-1/2, the Lea Symbols Test will be used to measure sharpness of near and distance vision. Developed by Finnish ophthalmologist Lea Hyvarinen, MD, an international specialist in visual assessment of children, the Lea Symbols Test creates a play situation by using familiar shapes - a circle, a square, a house and a heart - instead of letters of the alphabet. For older children and adults, the Snellen chart (E-chart) will be used to measure sharpness of distance vision. The Near Vision Reader Card will be used to check near vision.

According to PREVENT BLINDNESS AMERICA, the nation's leading volunteer eye health and safety organization, the following are signs of possible eye trouble in children:

- Appearance
- Crossed or misaligned eyes.
- Red-rimmed, encrusted or swollen eyelids
- Inflamed or watery eyes.
- Recurring sties (infections on eyelids).
- Presence of white pupils in color photos instead of typical red or no reflection.

- Behavior
- Rubs eyes excessively.
- Shuts or covers one eye.
- Tilts or thrusts head forward.
- Has difficulty with reading or other close-up work.
- Holds objects close to eyes.
- Blinks more than usual or is irritable when doing close-up work.
- Is unable to see distant things clearly.
- Squints eyelids together or frowns.

- Complaints
- Eyes itch, burn or feel scratchy.
- Cannot see well.
- Dizziness, headaches or nausea following close-up work.
- Blurred or double vision.
- If a child exhibits one or more of these signs, seek professional eye care.

All American Eye Check Day ushers in National Exam Month, an educational and philanthropic effort co-sponsored by Sears and Prevent Blindness to increase vision awareness, assist children in their educational efforts and raise money for sight-saving programs. Sears will donate $1 to the non-profit organization for every vision check performed. On All American Eye Check Day, during the past eight years, Sears and the independent Doctors of Optometry have contributed more than one million dollars to Prevent Blindness.

For a copy of Signs of Possible Eye Trouble in Children, or other information on a broad range of eye health and safety issues, consumers can call PREVENT BLINDNESS AMERICA at (800) 331-2020 or visit them on the World Wide Web at <http://www.prevent-blindness.org>.

Financial security women should know

If you are a woman who has been putting off taking steps to secure your personal financial well-being, it's time to reconsider. The best time to start doing something about your future is now. And, the perfect time to get started taking control of your finances is during the summer when things are a bit more relaxed.

Financial planning is a lifelong process that should start the day a woman receives her first paycheck. For a woman who is about to be married, facing a job change or possible downsizing, sending children to college, anticipating divorce, the illness or death of a spouse, or retirement, it is critical to be financially prepared. Fortunately, it is never too late to start planning, but the sooner one sets goals and works toward meeting them, the less financial stress one encounters. Being financially prepared is difficult for many women, as they never had an opportunity to gain money management skills, much less learn how to invest their hard earned dollars.

Each planning guide focuses on a specific topic and contains work sheets plus references for further reading. The series is divided into three sections: Planning for Financial Independence, Developing Your Financial Independence and Thinking Ahead, which includes information on investments and retirement. The regular cost of the series is $25, but during the month of August it is available for $19.95, including postage.

To place an order for yourself or as a gift, send a check or money order payable to the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service to: Financial Planning Guides, University of Illinois C.E.S., 98 South U.S. Highway 45, Grayslake, IL 60030-2202. More information on the series and how to order can be found on the World Wide Web at <http://www.aces.uiuc.edu/~uplink/wv>.

Polish Women's Alliance of America

It is 1997. Poland is free, so life should be good. But like a thief in the night, an unsuspecting monster had other plans for her. Heavy rains and major, massive flooding have interrupted the lives of 4-1/2 million people causing severe damage and unsanitary living conditions. The devastation occurs along the Odra River and spreads outward the East of Poland along the Vistula River's path. Tragically, over 1/4 of Poland is in ruins with the people being left to exist in these conditions.

One of the hardest hit area is Wroclaw (population 600,000). Poland, a people of peace and honor, is unable to deal with its new silent enemy alone.

Current conditions confirm that bridges and roads are out, communication is scarce or non-existent, fresh water and food are lacking, electrical power is not available, crops are destroyed, animals dead and human casualties still being counted. Poland has had more than its share of hardships under regular everyday circumstances and recovery from this tragic devastation will only be obtained from the outside. Continuous help is necessary to prevent spreading of disease and epidemics from the raw sewage and rats that are taking over the most badly affected areas. We, the members of the Polish Women's Alliance of America, invite you and call out to you, in the name of humanity and common decency, to join forces with us to aid us in our "DROP-OFF FLOOD RELIEF DRIVE."

The 23rd Annual Lambs Antique Show

Every possible type of antique and collectable will be on display Sunday, August 17 (Raindate Sunday, August 24), from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the 23rd Annual Lambs Farm Antique Show. Lambs Farm is located on Route 176 at Interstate 94 in Libertyville, Illinois.

Open air markets originated in another century, and offer a quaint atmosphere for selling items from another time and place. Heritage Guide is a passport to Wisconsin history

For the growing number of travelers seeking out heritage sites—45 percent of 1996 summer travelers planned to visit a historic site on vacation according to a survey by the U.S. Travel Data Center—the Wisconsin Department of Tourism has created the Wisconsin Heritage Traveler, a new free 72-page publication covering heritage tourism sites, state historic sites, Wisconsin museums and a guide to the state's Heritage Signage Program. Historical importance, along with the address, telephone number and hours of operation, is listed for most sites, plus maps pinpoint locations. To receive the free Wisconsin Heritage Traveler, the public can call the state's 24-hour hot line, 1-800-432-TRIP/8747.

Wisconsin's historic sites and museums tell the evolving story of Wisconsin and its people. Logging towns, mining communities, Native American art, the Ice Age Trail, fur trader routes and Old World customs are just a sampling of the treasures that have been maintained for travelers to enjoy and explore in Wisconsin. While no single publication could capture its entirety, this guide is a handy reference to many places central to that history. The guidebook is divided into four sections:

Wisconsin's Heritage Tourism Sites—eight project sites spread across the state that demonstrate a progressive mix of preservation and tourism.

Wisconsin's Heritage Signage—more than 140 historic sites, districts, museums and heritage areas are identified for the traveling public through a series of numbered highway signs. Sites are referenced by number so they can be easily located by travelers in the guide—and on the road.

State Historical Sites, Native American Heritage & African American Heritage—descriptions of 10 Wisconsin State Historical Society sites and information about places to learn about the state's Native American and African American heritage.

Wisconsin Museums—a listing of museums open year-round and deal with Wisconsin history and heritage, plus information about historical collections.

Travel information about Wisconsin is also on the state's Web site, <http://tourism.state.wi.us>.

accomplished its longtime goal of buying its own school facilities when it signed the final contract to acquire the former Ballard School from the Village of Niles. After following all the necessary steps for local approval, including zoning hearings and various public notifications over the past several months, the Niles Village Board unanimously approved the sale on Tuesday, July 22. The Chairman of the Northridge Board of Directors, LeRoy Wauck, Ph.D., finalized the contract with Village officials saying, "This is a dream come true. The Village has been very supportive of our purchase, and we are pleased to help keep Niles on the map as a hub of excellent schools."

Northridge purchased the two-acre site with a 40,000 square-foot building for $925,000 and intends to spend an initial $500,000 to upgrade the facilities. Northridge administrators are already hard at work with plans to prepare to open this September. Headmaster Robert Pasquesi says "The new site will have everything we need, plenty of classrooms, a library, computer and science labs, a chapel, nearby playing fields and one existing gym with another bigger gym to be built."

Northridge was founded as an independent school in 1976 by a group of parents who wanted to provide quality academics, personal attention, sound character formation, and close parent-teacher relations. At the request of the founding parents of the school and with the permission of the Archbishop of Chicago, the Catholic Prelature of Opus Dei provides spiritual guidance and religious education for Northridge, as well as for its sister school, The Willows Academy in Des Plaines. Religion classes are optional for non-Catholics.

Northridge's high academic and character tone attracts students with diverse racial, economic and religious backgrounds from some 52 different communities. Presently operating from a rented site at 8101 Golf Road in Niles, Northridge is preparing to move immediately, and plans to host an Open House for the local community as soon as it's practical.

Health records required to start school year

The Niles Township High Schools are urging all parents and students to complete or update student health and immunization records so that they can attend classes when school begins on Tuesday, August 26.

State law requires that students new to District 219, including freshmen and transfer students, have a complete physical done by a doctor licensed in Illinois. The physical must be completed before the first day of school. The law also requires evidence of immunization against measles (two doses of live vaccine), mumps, rubella, polio, diphtheria and tetanus. A tuberculosis skin test is also highly recommended.

If you do not have a family physician who can administer these inoculations, the Skokie Health Department has free immunizations available (immunizations only, not physical exams). In addition, for Niles North students, the Skokie Department of Public Health has scheduled a visit to the school, located at 9800 N. Lawler Ave. in Skokie, by the Immunization Caravan on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 23 and 24. They will administer, at no charge, measles-mumps-rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and polio inoculations for Niles North students only. A letter of permission must be signed by the parents if this service is to be used. Letters are available through the school registrar and health center. The phone number for Niles North is (847) 568-3200.

Students who are not current with their immunizations or do not submit this letter will not receive either schedules or books until their records are complete.

Register now for school

Students who have moved into Maine Township High School District 207 over the summer and who have not yet enrolled in school are urged to contact their school immediately to register for classes. Students who start the registration process now will be ready for the first day of school and avoid delays caused by the large number of students who wait until the first day of school to register.

Students may contact the director of student personnel services at their respective school to arrange for an appointment. At Maine East, they should call Vic DiPrizio at 825-4484; at Maine South, Maryanne Kelly, 825-7711; and at Maine West, John Rauch, at 827-6176.

In order to register, the student's original birth certificate, three proofs of residency, and a copy of the student's grades or transcript are required. Entering freshmen and transfer students who do not have a physical on record must also have a physical exam. Physical forms are available in the Student Personnel Services offices at the three schools. Other items may be required depending on individual circumstances. The first day of classes is Wednesday, August 27.

Ten free Colorado blue spruce trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during August 1997.

They can be used as individual ornaments, an energy-saving windbreak, a privacy screen, or as living Christmas trees."

The trees will be shipped post-paid at the right time for planting between October 1 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the Foundation's colorful bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, which includes regular features about tree planting and care.

Red Cross water safety tips

Follow these Basic Safety Tips Whenever and Wherever You Swim:

- Never swim alone.
- Swim only in supervised areas.
- Know your swimming limits and stay within them.
- Never drink alcohol or use drugs and attempt to swim.
- Obey "No Diving" signs, which always indicate the area is unsafe for headfirst entries.
- Always enter feet first into water rather than headfirst if you don't know the depth. In addition, learn the correct way to dive from a qualified instructor.
- Watch out for the "dangerous too's" - too tired, too cold, too far from safety, too much sun, too much strenuous activity.
- Do not chew gum or eat while you swim; you could easily choke.
- Know local weather conditions and prepare for electrical storm because water conducts electricity.
- If you come upon a person in an emergency, remember CHECK-CALL-CARE: CHECK the scene to ensure it's safe and CHECK the victim.

CALL 911 or your local emergency number, and CARE for the person until help arrives.

- Don't swim if you can't see the bottom of the pool at the deep end or if the water is cloudy.
- Stay close enough to the shore or pool's edge so you can get to safety by yourself.
- Keep an eye on younger swimmers at all times.
- Follow the lifeguards' instructions and respect their judgment. Never fake an emergency.
- Obey all swimming rules.
- When You're at the Beach:
 - Locate the nearest lifeguard stand.
 - Know the water conditions before you enter the water. Check to see if a warning flag is flying.
 - Swim well away from piers, pilings and diving platforms.
 - Look out for potentially dangerous aquatic life.
 - Save enough energy to swim back to shore safely.
 - If you are caught in a current, try to swim toward the shore while moving along with the current.
- When You Swim in Lakes, Ponds, Rivers or Creeks:
 - Swim only in areas supervised by lifeguards. Find out where and how to get emergency assistance.
 - Avoid swimming near dams, diving platforms or boat ramps.
 - Find out about the local aquatic life.
 - Check water depth. The first time you enter the water, walk in carefully.
 - Find out about dams, locks or other facilities that might affect the water level.
 - Look for underwater obstacles and dangerous debris, such as bottles or cans.
 - Be aware of changing river currents. Avoid rivers and creeks when there is any chance of flooding.
 - Swim only in slowly moving water.
 - If you are caught in a current, try to swim toward the shore while moving along with the current.
 - If Another Swimmer is in Trouble:
 - Do not go into the water unless you are a trained lifeguard.
 - If the victim is close enough, firmly brace yourself on the ground, reaching out to them using a long object in one hand and use your other hand to support yourself.
 - If the victim is beyond reach, throw a floatable object such as a ring buoy or life jacket. Call for help if necessary.

Libraries offer help online

What is the life span of a Queen Bee? Who are the Kurds and why does Saddam Hussein want them out of Iraq? When do babies learn to smile?

Those are among some 3,000 questions asked by students during the first year of a unique online service called "KidsConnect." In return, students received not just answers, but guidance on how to find the answers using the vast global network of computer databases known as the Internet. "It personalizes the Web," says Barbara Stripling, president of the American Association of School Librarians, a division of the American Library Association, which administers the project with funding provided by Microsoft. "Whether they're at school, at home or the library, kids can get the help they need."

A crew of about 150 volunteer school library media specialists, including some from other countries, responds to e-mail messages sent by children, their parents or teachers. Answers are promised within 48 hours. To ask a question, send an e-mail message to: AskKC@connect.syr.edu.

The project is one example of how librarians across the nation are using their professional skills and savvy to help children and adults take advantage of new information technology. As more and more public and school libraries log on to the Internet, many offer special classes for children, teens, their parents, seniors, business people and others wishing to learn their way around "the Net."

More than 300 public and school libraries now have Web pages, making it possible for would-be browsers to check out the collections of other libraries as well as their own. In addition to the library's online catalogue, typical offerings include listings of library hours and services, scheduled programs, answers to frequently asked questions, homework resources and other helpful information about the library and its community. Like libraries, these Web pages generally have special sections for children and teens. Unlike libraries, they are open for browsing 24 hours a day.

A sampling of library Web sites for parents and kids: "American Library Association/ParentsPage," <http://www.ala.org>. Tips for how to raise a reader, child safety on the Internet and more.

"Association for Library Service to Children," <http://www.ala.org/alsc>. Lists of award-winning books, videos and recordings, and links to other sites for parents and kids.

"Internet Public Library," <http://www.ipl.org>. A wide range of helpful resources for kids and adults, including an extensive reference division. The Youth Division includes book reviews "by kids for kids" and StoryHour, a collection of stories in both plain text and illustrated/audio format and more.

"Indianapolis-Marion County Public Library," <http://www.imcpl.lib.in.us>. Check out the "Booker's Funzone" with puzzles, games and other fun activities, "awesome" sites to surf, "cool reads" and a "Mom and Pop's Surf Shop" with extensive resources for parents on how to encourage their kids to read.

TYC reunion & volunteer appreciation picnic

The Youth Campus (TYC) will honor Bill and Connie Manika of Des Plaines, in the presence of their friends and loved ones, at an upcoming dedication ceremony of a new sports court and playground, during the "3rd Annual TYC Reunion & Volunteer Appreciation Picnic." This picnic will celebrate our tremendous volunteer efforts, the reunion of many children who have come through the Haake Diagnostic Home with the many staff, volunteers and families who have cared for them, and the generosity of the Manika's in bringing such wonderful additions to the Park Ridge Campus.

The Youth Campus is a private, not-for-profit, non-sectarian agency overseen by a Board of Directors, that has been addressing the critical needs of children and their families in the Chicagoland area for over 120 years. Bill and Connie Manika have been dedicated volunteers and supporters of The Youth Campus for several years. Through a generous donation from the Manika's TYC was able to build a sports courts and playground on the 13 acre Park Ridge Campus for the young people who reside there. A basketball court was constructed last fall, and a special playground, designed for our youngest residents at the Haake Diagnostic Home, was completed this June.

This year's picnic will be held on August 9 on the Park Ridge Campus, located at 733 N. Prospect, Park Ridge, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. The picnic will feature games, food, prizes and pony rides for small children; followed by the dedication of the sports court and playground at 12:30 p.m. For more information on this event, please call the Haake Diagnostic Home at (847) 823-8116.

New digital drivers licenses approved

Secretary of State George H. Ryan commended Gov. Jim Edgar for signing legislation into law that clears the way for the next generation of Illinois drivers licenses—a digitally-produced card that can carry more information and the latest in high-tech security features.

The measure, House Bill 1169, allows the secretary of state's office to place digitally-produced images on drivers licenses and identification cards. The old law restricted those images to "photographs."

"I'm very pleased with the governor's action. There are many, many advantages to a digital driver's license," Ryan said. "It looks more like a credit card and is virtually tamperproof. The images are sharper and we will be able to encode and store the information in ways that will be useful to law enforcement."

Ryan has contracted with Visage Technology, Inc. of Acton, Massachusetts, to lead the implementation of a new drivers license system based on a digital imaging process. The first new digital licenses are scheduled to be produced in 1998. Although the cost of each license will rise from the current 75 cents-per-issue to $1.11-per-issue, the fee paid by motorists for a license will remain at $10. Ryan anticipates that it will take between five and six years to completely replace the current style of license with the new digitally-produced model.

The digital license allows the secretary of state's office to encode a motorist's information in a bar code on the license as a security feature and, for the first time, allows the secretary of state to store the photographs of all licensed drivers and the holders of state identification cards for use by law enforcement.

Beware of 'Highway Hypnosis'

Driving long distances, whether 100 or 1,000 miles, can be tiring and stressful, and "highway hypnosis" is particularly hazardous. "Highway Hypnosis," or driver fatigue, is caused by dull scenery and the monotonous sounds of wind, tires on the pavement and steady hum of the engine.

Q. When does "highway hypnosis" typically set in?
A. Usually after driving two to four hours.

Q. What can I do to combat driver fatigue?
A. If possible, change drivers frequently. Otherwise, keep your body and mind active.

• Shut off the cruise control and vary your speed.

• Change the radio station often and turn up the volume.

• Sing along with radio or talk with other passengers.

• Adjust the air conditioner or open a window.

Q. What if fighting fatigue becomes too difficult?
A. Stop at a rest area or gas station and stretch, exercise, or wash your face. Try taking a short nap; 15 to 20 minutes of sleep may refresh you enough to keep going safely, and little time will be lost.

Q. Is it safe to drive long distances at night?
A. No. Driving during hours that you usually are sleeping is not recommended. Your biological time clock will have difficulty adjusting to the change.

Public urged to report crimes

To increase the odds that polluters are caught and punished, Attorney General Jim Ryan is asking Illinois residents to report environmental crimes to his environmental crimes hotline: 888-ATTY-GEN (888-288-9436).

"The great majority of environmental crimes go unpunished because they are never reported. Incorporating the public into our effort to identify and track down polluters will result in a cleaner, safer state. We can send the message that crimes against the environment are truly crimes against everyone and simply will not be tolerated in Illinois," Ryan said.

He urged the public to be observant and make note of activity that might harm the environment. "Remember the hotline number and be aware. Call us if you see abandoned drums, burning trash heaps or tires, large waste dumps that shouldn't be there, or liquids being dumped into our streams and sewers. Call us if you hear trucks unloading drums at odd hours or smell and taste unusual chemical smells or smoke," Ryan added.

Operators at the Attorney General's Chicago Office receive the hotline calls and ask a series of questions about the possible environmental crime. That information is then reviewed by prosecutors from Ryan's Environmental Crimes Bureau and an investigation determination is made. Since the hotline's December establishment, five criminal investigations have been initiated from tips reported to 888-ATTY-GEN. Information that could result in civil charges being filed are first referred to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for investigation.

Most environmental crimes are profit motivated. Polluters clandestinely dump, burn or release wastes that are costly to dispose of safely and legally. "These 'enviro-criminals' know we can't be everywhere; that's why we need everybody. Together, we can make Illinois cleaner and safer for our children and ensure that those who would place our environment and health in jeopardy pay for their crimes," Ryan added.

The hotline is one part of Ryan's environmental enforcement strategy based on charging the state's most flagrant polluters criminally. Upon taking office, Ryan created the Environmental Crimes Bureau within the Environmental Enforcement Division to prosecute the most serious environmental violations. "Violations that are charged criminally include the creation of public health hazards, hazardous waste offenses, repeat violations, and those in which polluters intentionally break the law for profit."

In June, 1996, Ryan created the Environmental Crimes Investigator's Network to link the resources and expertise of environmental prosecutors with officers on the street, greatly increasing environmental enforcement's "eyes and ears" and, thus, ability to catch and punish polluters. More than 500 police officers statewide have received training on the proper identification, investigation and evidence preservation of environmental crimes.

Battery

A 26-year-old salesman at the car agency in the 6200 block of Touhy Avenue reported that while he was explaining a problem regarding automobile financing to a 35-year-old Chicago woman, she jumped out of her seat and punched him in the left cheek with her right clenched fist.

The victim was not injured and refused medical attention. The offender apologized to the victim, and the victim declined to press charges. The report was taken as a matter of record.

Bomb threat

A 24-year-old employee of the food store in the 7800 block of Waukegan Road notified the store's co-manager that she received a phone call indicating that there was a bomb in the store at 4:55 p.m. Aug. 3.

The co-manager notified Niles police and was later advised by phone by the store's vice president of operations and the head of security not to evacuate the store. The report was taken as a matter of record.

Criminal trespass to property

A 54-year-old Des Plaines woman notified police around 11:49 p.m. Aug. 3 that there were people on the roof of a small strip mall in the 7500 block of Milwaukee Avenue.

Police responded, and when the Niles Fire Department arrived, a ladder was used to get up to the roof where three offenders were found and given "P" tickets. No damage was found on the roof.

The offenders were an 18-year-old Lincolnwood man, a 19-year-old Niles man and a 19-year-old Skokie man.

Forgery/theft by deception

Police contacted a Plymouth, Minn., man after a 24-year-old Chicago man was apprehended using his credit card to purchase $1,329.80 worth of audio and video equipment along with extended service contracts.

The incident took place in the department store in the 5600 block of Touhy Avenue around 1:17 p.m. Aug. 3. Two store employees witnessed the suspect sign the sales slip.

The cardholder told police he suspects that the card was stolen when he was on a recent business trip to Chicago. He said he did not authorize anyone to use the card.

The offender was charged with forgery and theft by deception pending an Aug. 6 court date.

Theft

The 26-year-old daughter of a 60-year-old resident of the 8700 block of Bruce Drive reported that sometime between June 22 and July 21, a green velvet jewelry box containing approximately $13,500 worth of gold jewelry that had been taken from a safe deposit box to wear to a family wedding, was discovered missing.

On June 22, the jewelry box was placed on a dresser in the victim's bedroom. On July 21, when the family spoke about who had returned the jewelry box to the bank, they learned that no one had taken it to the bank and that the box could not be found.

The complainant told police that on June 24 they had an air conditioning unit serviced by a heating and air conditioning firm. The family believe that the service technician may have taken the jewelry.

A follow-up investigation was requested, and a complaint will be signed if the investigation proves positive.

A 35-year-old employee of an elevator company working at a condominium development in the 7100 block of Touhy Avenue reported that an electric saw, a drill, a tool box with assorted tools and a Magnavox "Boom Box," all of which is valued at $1,500, was removed from a "gang" box by unknown offender(s) who pried off the top of the box sometime between 3:30 p.m. July 29 and 7 a.m. July 30.

The 38-year-old executive director of a social service agency for children in the 8300 block of Ballard Road reported that sometime between 5 p.m. July 24 and 10 a.m. July 29, unknown offender(s) removed a desk top copier valued at $1,000 from inside the building.

Attempted suicide

The 36-year-old husband of a 30-year-old bartender on Neva Avenue contacted police around 5 a.m. July 29 when he returned home from work and found his wife bleeding from a 3-in. laceration on her left wrist.

The Niles Fire Department transported the victim to Lutheran General Hospital. Police observed a 10-in. serrated carving knife on a kitchen counter.

The complainant told police that when he returned home from work and went into a bedroom to change his clothes, he heard the wife cry out in pain and then found her bleeding and called police.

The victim had been out drinking with her sister earlier in the evening, but the husband could give no explanation as to why his wife would have done such a thing.

The victim denied cutting herself on purpose and maintained that it was an accidental injury.

The victim denied cutting herself on purpose and maintained that it was an accidental injury.

Criminal damage to property

The 56-year-old custodian of the school in the 8900 block of Ozanam Avenue reported that unknown offender(s) used a piece of broken asphalt to break a 3' x 5' window on the south side of the building sometime between 1:40 p.m. and 3 p.m. July 31.

No entry could be made through the window. Damage was estimated at $500.

Criminal damage to auto

A 45-year-old Niles woman reported that while she was shopping in the fruit market in the 7900 block of Milwaukee Avenue between 1 p.m. and 1:15 p.m. August 1, unknown offender(s) using an unknown object shattered the left side rear window of her 1995 Safari van which she had parked in the southeast parking lot of the store.

No projectile could be found or identified. The victim could not provide any leads, and no witnesses have come forward.

Theft to automobile

A 44-year-old office manager of the car agency in the 5700 block of Touhy reported that unknown offender(s) took four tires and wheels off a white 1997 Nissan Maxima sometime between 11 p.m. July 30 and 10:15 a.m. July 31.

The total loss was estimated at $2,600.

A 54-year-old clerk from Morton Grove reported that unknown offender(s) used an unknown type of striking force to break the driver's side door window of her white 1989 Toyota Corolla and gain entry to the locked vehicle while it was parked in the lot near 229 Golf Mill Center sometime between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. July 31.

The victim's am/fm radio was removed, and the dashboard was severely damaged by a cutting-type tool. The estimated cost to repair the vehicle was $500.

Governor signs Dudyecz's False I.D. legislation

Individuals with fictitious identification cards could now face felony penalties, under a new law sponsored by Assistant Senate Majority Leader Walter Dudyecz (R, 7th, Chicago).

Signed by Gov. Jim Edgar, Senate Bill 452 amends that section of Illinois law dealing with fictitious or altered identification cards, which include Illinois Identification Cards and Illinois Disabled Person Identification Cards.

"The new law makes the penalties for possession or use of fictitious cards the same as possession or use of fraudulent cards," Dudyecz said. "A fictitious card is one obtained by giving false information to the Secretary of State. A fraudulent card is one that resembles a real card."

The 7th District Senator says the penalty for possession of a fictitious or a fraudulent card is that of a Class 4 felony (1-3 years imprisonment, up to 2-1/2 years probation and a minimum fine of $500 or 50 hours of community service). A second or subsequent offense is a Class 3 felony (2-5 years imprisonment, up to 2-1/2 years probation and up to a $10,000 fine).

The new law has an effective date of Jan. 1, 1998.

Midwest Accounting & Business Show

How do we manage our businesses better? Keep our employees happier and more productive? How do we remain on the cutting edge so that we can compete in an increasingly larger global market?

At the Midwest Accounting & Business Show at the Rosemont Convention Center on August 26-28 experts will share insights on how individuals can achieve a more productive and successful professional life.

As part of the three-day professional show extravaganza, seminars will cover communication skills, business manners, as well as managing change and time more effectively.

Barbara Pachter, president of Pachter & Associates in Cherry Hill, New Jersey, will teach business professionals how to develop assertive communication skills. In her seminar "Assertive Communication Skills," Pachter will show how to use these skills to create a positive work environment by handling situations in a confident and honest manner. Her second presentation, "Business Manners: You Want Me to Do What?" will teach those attending how to handle themselves, others and business situations with tact, diplomacy and respect.

Every manager and supervisor now faces the challenge of trying to get today's work done while implementing changes for tomorrow. Jack Retterer, president of Retterer & Associates will show how to do just that in his presentation "How To Manage Change Effectively." In this seminar, participants will gain a better understanding of how to be more successful in planning and implementing change in their jobs.

For more information about the show or to find out how you can attend any of the above sessions, contact Wendy Sech, Show Manager (ext. 244), or Ilene Zurlo, Trade Show Exhibit Manager (ext. 203) at 1 (800) 993-0407 (in Illinois only) or (312) 993-0407. Individuals can pay taxes electronically

Some time in early June, about 9.4 million taxpayers took the time to sit down, write checks for their estimated tax payments that were due on June 16, filled in the proper voucher, went to their closest mailbox or post office and sent their payment off to the lock box designated for their state.

When they opened their next bank statement, they were able to give a sigh of relief because their check had arrived on time, or in a few cases, a cry of anguish because the check had not yet cleared or was received late. And they will go through the same process again on September 15, and next January 15, 1998 to make their third and fourth annual payments.

At the same time, 350 individual taxpayers, who took the time to enroll in the Electronic Federal Robert Wright, founder of Living Visions and Visions in Action, will also discuss changing jobs, that is, The Wall Street Journal reported that Job Bank USA found that the majority of all people who sought resume advice hated their jobs. But due to fear, inertia or laziness, few were willing to make a change. In this seminar Wright will teach participants how to start leading a more fulfilling business and personal life by re-defining success, identifying purpose and creating an empowering vision.

The Midwest Accounting & Business Show, with its theme of "Business & Technology Solutions," will provide those attending with comprehensive information on business and technology issues in more than 50 two-hour sessions. The show, which will run from August 26-28, is expected to attract more than 12,500 business and financial professionals to the Chicago area.

Besides addressing management issues, the show will place a special emphasis on developments in technology and how they will affect the way the world conducts business in the future. This will include a special technology track on the Internet.

For more information about the show or to find out how you can attend any of the above sessions, contact Wendy Sech, Show Manager (ext. 244), or Ilene Zurlo, Trade Show Exhibit Manager (ext. 203) at 1 (800) 993-0407 (in Illinois only) or (312) 993-0407. Ameritech files FCC slamming complaints against AT&T and MCI

Tens of thousands of consumer and business phone customers in five Midwest states have been slammed by AT&T and MCI over the past year, according to complaints Ameritech files with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The filings charge that the companies were responsible for 36,940 slamming complaints from customers between July 1996 and June 1997. Complaints against AT&T and MCI accounted for 48 percent of the 71,033 slamming complaints Ameritech received over that period. Slamming is the practice of switching a customer's phone service provider without permission.

"Slamming is an illegal, anti-competitive and anti-consumer practice - it is a direct assault on consumer choice," said Kelly Welsh, executive vice president and general counsel for Ameritech. "Our hope is that the FCC will act quickly on our filings, so that consumers and businesses will be better protected from slamming. Not only is slamming continuing in long-distance, it's spreading to the local side of the market, with AT&T and MCI leading the way."

According to Ameritech's filings, AT&T and MCI accounted for 83 percent of all local toll slamming complaints since February, when Ameritech began tracking local toll slams. Out of a total of 14,741 slamming complaints, AT&T and MCI accounted for 9,334 and 2,888 respectively.

The anti-competitive nature of slamming has clearly been an issue for the FCC. In a recent statement, the Commission said, "Slamming distorts telecommunications markets by enabling companies engaged in misleading marketing practices to increase their customer bases, revenues and profitability through illegal means."

In its filings, Ameritech asked the FCC to investigate AT&T and MCI's procedures for switching a customer's long distance or local toll provider. Ameritech also charges the companies with unauthorized changes in customers' local toll service when submitting authorized changes in long distance service.

"AT&T and MCI have a track record on slamming," said Welsh. "Last year, both companies reached settlements with the FCC over slamming complaints. While positive steps toward eliminating slamming, those settlements didn't specifically cover local toll service and, based on customer complaints, haven't stopped AT&T and MCI from slamming."

Ameritech began tracking slamming complaints last year because of the growing number of complaints from consumers. During the last six months of 1996, Ameritech recorded a total of 25,285 slamming complaints for both long distance and local toll service. That number rose by 81 percent during the first six months of 1997 to 45,748. Ameritech tracks local toll slamming complaints in Illinois, Wisconsin, and parts of Michigan, where local toll calling is competitive.

NOTICE
PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETING
to be held for proposed improvement project on Beckwith Road and Church Street

Notice is hereby given that the Village of Morton Grove will hold two public information meetings concerning proposed improvements on Beckwith Road and Church Street between Washington Street and Linder Avenue in Cook County. The first meeting will be held at the Mansfield Park Field House, 5830 Church Street, Morton Grove on Monday, August 25, 1997. The second meeting will be held at the National Park Field House, 8325 Marion Avenue, Morton Grove on Tuesday, August 26, 1997. Both meetings will begin at 6:30 p.m. and end at 9:00 p.m. A formal presentation explaining the study process and extent of improvements will be made at 7:00 p.m.

Personnel from the Village of Morton Grove will be available to discuss the proposed project between 6:30 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. and immediately following the presentation. Interested citizens and organizations from the affected area in Morton Grove may comment on the proposed design features. Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to oral statements at the public meeting will be received at the time of the meeting or at the Village of Morton Grove, 6101 Capulina Avenue, Morton Grove, Illinois 60053-2985 for a period of ten days subsequent to the holding of the public meetings.

The proposed improvement will consist primarily of milling, patching and resurfacing of the existing pavement. Due to the extent of patching and curb replacement needed, the pavement will be reconstructed between Washington Street and Oriole Avenue, and between Austin Avenue and Linder Avenue. New turning lanes and a modernized traffic signal system will be provided at the Beckwith Road intersection with Waukegan Road and the Church Street intersection with Harms Road. The existing rural pavement section between Lehigh Avenue and Narragansett Avenue will be modified with curb and gutter to create an urban pavement section. New "left-turn-only" lanes will be added at Natchez Avenue, Narragansett Avenue and Austin Avenue. The existing storm, sanitary and combined sewers will be repaired throughout the length of the project. New water mains will be constructed between Washington Street and Ozark Avenue, and between Waukegan Road and Narragansett Avenue.

To construct this improvement, additional right-of-way will be required at the Beckwith Road intersection with Waukegan Road. Personnel from the Village will be present at the meeting to discuss right-of-way acquisition procedures.

Engineering and environmental studies completed to date will be discussed at the meeting and public comments and questions will be solicited on the proposed improvement. The draft Project Development Report will be available for review and comment.

Maps, sketches and other information pertinent to the design of the proposed improvement will be available for inspection at the public meeting or later at the Department of Community Development, Village of Morton Grove, 6101 Capulina Avenue, Morton Grove.

Questions regarding the public meetings may be directed to Charles Schreck, Director of Community Development at (847) 965-4100 or (847) 470-5231.

tered Mitsui's shop via the rear employees' entrance, went into Mitsui's office and began yelling at him.

Vasquez, 31, is the father of the victim in the child pornography case. Mitsui's wife, 32, called Niles police when she heard the yelling in her husband's office, and Vasquez left the scene.

Mitsui told police that Vasquez, who stands 6 ft. tall and weighs 240 pounds, punched him with a closed fist on the left side ear area.

Police contacted Vasquez by phone and he agreed to surrender at the Niles Police Department at 9:45 p.m. Vasquez expressed disbelief at the charge being made against him by Mitsui. Vasquez told police he was "talking with my hands" and only tapped Mitsui on the side of the face.

Vasquez was arrested and charged with battery. Bond was set at $1,000 and an August 15 court appearance was scheduled.

The windowless but air-conditioned school that was built 30 years ago as one of only two prototype schools with special sound insulation because of its proximity to O'Hare Airport, should lend itself nicely to year-round classes, Ray said.

Willis said that bucking 150 years of the traditional calendar would not be easy. "Kids used to help with the crops, but we don't have many kids going home in June to help with the crops anymore," Willis said.

Another difference in the nation's nearly 2,400 year-round schools that draws much opposition is the practice of mixing pupils of different ages in the same class.

According to Willis, students will be mixed according to grade level rather than strictly age. There will be no more than two grade levels or three age levels mixed in any one classroom, he said. By putting 8- and 9-year-olds together, for example, a balance can be achieved and the younger students can learn from the older ones, Willis said.

The integrated curriculum component of the plan will implement a top-centered curriculum in which language arts, social studies, math, science and even art classes will deal with a central theme or event, such as the U.S. Constitution, Kucera said.

To Kucera, the most important component of the multi-faceted plan is the component of choice. "We are giving parents a choice of two good schools, their neighborhood school or the demonstration site [Iroquois Community School]. Our primary goal is to make sure that we are offering our community 11 good schools, every one is unique and has its own personality," Kucera said.

Teachers also had a choice of being included in the Iroquois facility or staying at one of the more traditional schools. A rigorous selection process was implemented to gather a faculty for the new facility, Kucera said. More teachers and staff applied than the number of positions needed, Kucera said.

"Not one teacher was involuntarily transferred," she said.

Kucera quoted the motto of the new Iroquois school—"Together with One Heart,"—to underscore the attitude of teachers, staff and community who are coming together to show that many components can be changed in the traditional educational picture.

Principal Ray is enthusiastic. "We expect achievement will improve, and we think this will be an excellent environment for learning," he said.

Letters to the Editor

Become a board member of Oakton College

Dear Editor:

Do you believe in the mission of your community college? Of course you do. Do you want to serve on your community college board? Why not? You can contribute from personal and professional experiences to the policy decisions of a board.

The timing is right, for a start. The voters have become much more aware that the community college will shoulder an even greater education demand from the labor market. Education is the best ladder for economic and social improvement. This dialogue has been taking place across your kitchen table and on editorial pages for decades.

Because most minority students attend community colleges, it is important that college boards have the benefit of minority representation. But you just don't know the process, how to get started, or what is expected of a trustee. Here's how.

First, contact your community college president's office for a set of instructions on how to put your name on the ballot.

Are you still having inner conversations and feelings of anxiety about your candidacy? You must believe you are going to win and take nothing for granted. Build your support group: friends, friends' children and their friends, neighbors, husbands, wives, children, etc., and everyone you know and have known. Then go everywhere in your district to have "honest dialogue" about the college.

Of course, you've done your homework. Read up on the college and its activities. You must feel ambitious and committed that education should be the focus and investment of our nation. You may want to keep up your energy level and look your best for all newspaper interviews and photo sessions. Acknowledge all invitations from the press; they can help.

You will want to attend as many board meetings before the election as possible. This will help to understand the role of a trustee in policy governance -- setting policy.

The question is no longer "Can I and should I?" but "I will" and "Just do it!" If you need help, call me at (847) 635-1801.

Maxine T. Hill
Trustee, Oakton Community College
Member, Minority Affairs Committee, Illinois Community College Trustees Association

Nilesite agrees with LA Police

Dear Editor:

I agree wholeheartedly with the LA police who chided you for that ridiculous column asking for "Sympathy or compassion" for the murdering mother of the newborn baby. You know the one-strangled and thrown down the laundry chute like garbage.

Your "50-year old bleeding heart... etc." needs to live in this decade. People are losing all moral fiber--how many more kids are going to hide their pregnancies and then throw their babies away like garbage?

Punishment for this crime will deter it from happening again and again. Of course the taxpayers will pay for trying to "help and rehabilitate" these murderers. But they MUST be held accountable for these actions starts with punishment.

I have no sympathy or compassion for O.J. Simpson, John Gacy, Andrew Cunanan, etc. And I have no sympathy for this murdering young lady. And don't be so righteous to think people should agree with your views. Come out of the 40s and deal with the reality of the 90s.

Dean Mantzavrakos

Dean Mantzavrakos of Des Plaines had made the spring quarter Dean's List at MacCormac College. Mr. Mantzavrakos is a Court Reporting major at MacCormac's Elmhurst campus.

Fall class registration at Oakton

The fall semester at Oakton Community College will begin soon, and students are encouraged to register early to secure a place in the class of their choice.

For your convenience, Oakton offers morning, afternoon and evening courses. Most classes begin the week of Aug. 25 and end Dec. 16. However, meeting times for some courses vary, including media-based classes (broadcast on television); distance learning (taught interactively between both Oakton campuses and other colleges, universities and high schools); and weekend college (held Friday evenings or Saturday or Sunday in the morning or afternoon).

Students can register in person Monday - Thursday from 8:30 a.m. - 8 p.m. at the Des Plaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road, and at the Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie. Both Oakton campuses are closed on Fridays during the summer term, May 30 through Aug. 17.

Students who have applied and registered for Oakton classes since spring of 1994 may use the Touch-Tone Registration system Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. - 8 p.m., Friday from 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. - noon. To register by phone dial (847) 635-1616 and refer to the computer ID number listed by the course title in the Fall Credit Class Schedule.

Enhance your Human Relations skills

Learn to communicate more effectively with your co-workers. Enroll in Human Relations in the Workplace (OST 117), an Office Systems Technology course, offered this fall at Oakton Community College's Des Plaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road.

The course is designed to provide an awareness of the "people" skills essential for career success. Topics include diversity in the workplace; discrimination and biases in the workplace; intercultural relations; positive self-image; ethics; human relations skills; and social and business etiquette. The class meets on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30-10:45 a.m., August 25 to December 16.

For more information regarding this or other Office Systems Technology courses, contact Hollis Chalem-Brown, department chairperson, at (847) 635-1954.

eral stance over the aforementioned racial conflict which didn't square with some of his church members' beliefs. They, too, actively resisted the black family's move into town.

We had a new religious leader come to town and accuse us of possibly cheating his church because we told him it owed a bill of $25. We had provided thousands of inches of free news space for many years for his church when the newcomer arrogantly suggested the bill may not have been authorized long before he arrived.

There were many leaders of goodwill who certainly outweighed the few bad apples. And Rabbi Charney was among them.

His congregation likely started in someone's home and then moved to a storefront on Lincoln Avenue. The early membership was about 75 families. At its zenith his congregation grew to 750 families, primarily from Niles and Morton Grove.

Rabbi Charney was a forerunner in providing full equality to women in all areas of ritual participation. In 1974 he established an intensive two year B'nai Mitzvah program for women and 250 women have now completed the course.

Charney's accomplishments were many. He was chaplain at Hines Veterans Hospital from 1966 to 1984. Three weeks ago he told me at lunch how he actively sought overseas military duty after being on duty in the States for many months. He served in the Pacific Theatre.

Locally, he led an annual joint Thanksgiving service with neighboring churches in the area. In Chicagoland he was the first chairman of the Chicago Rabbinical Association and was the first president of the Chicago Board of Rabbis from 1985 to 1987.

His wife Lillian reported he was chairman of the Commission of Radio and Television for the Chicago Board of Rabbis and began the first half-hour Jewish TV programming on WTTW.

Rabbi Charney was chairman for eight years of the Chicago Board of Rabbis Chaplaincy Commission. He expanded and professionalized its chaplaincy corps to cover additional hospitals and develop a para-chaplaincy to cover many nursing homes.

As we noted, he was the essence of what a religious leader should be. In past years I was briefly in the hospital and he never failed to drop by. He spent equal time with everyone, whatever his denomination. One time when he left my four-patient bedroom, the other non-Jews said how impressed they were of Charney for also giving them unlimited time to visit.

Once he came to my office to report of a private family matter which was disturbing. He handled the matter with incredible aplomb and seemed to feel the same anguish as I did when I received the news. His goodness was most admirable.

I never knew him well. He seemed to be a very private man. Yet, the private man was very open when he was needed.

Synagogues and temples are run by its members. There has never been a synagogue in existence that didn't have discontented members who periodically criticized their Rabbi for his alleged shortcomings. It goes with the territory. Charney was not free of such travails. A small minority of members didn't think he was forceful. They said he was not outgoing. His gentleness was not admiring by these dissidents. But he weathered such criticism and was beloved by the great majority of his congregants. The outpouring of warmth and love and affection for Rabbi Charney at his funeral attested to their feelings.

There are good men and women who pass away and are missed by their loved ones. There are few good men and women who pass away and have made a difference to hundreds and hundreds of people. Rabbi Charney was among them. He was special and he made a difference. We who knew him were the better for his having passed our way.

vert to the village. Debate at the meeting concerned the charge by some trustees that the licenses would discriminate against "high quality restaurants" that might not be attracted to the area if they were prohibited from having a bar area for patrons waiting for a table. However, Mayor Jacqueline Gorell maintained that the new class D licenses were designed to be more restrictive and that the village wanted to ensure that liquor would be sold only in connection with food.

grants with a combination of traditional folk music and more recent tunes. The music itself is lively and upbeat with a twinge of influence from the blues. Originally from Eastern Europe, Klezmer was the music of wandering self-taught Jewish musicians who would show up to play at births, weddings, and deaths.

The second concert of the series, the Steve Meisner Band, will be performing their famous polka music. The Steve Meisner band has been playing together for 20 years during which time they have toured throughout the United States, as well as Europe, giving a total of 215 performances in 1996. The four member band consists of the following instruments: banjo/guitar, saxophone, drums, and of course the accordion.

Enzo Incandela, an Italian soloist, will be giving his second performance at the Leaning Tower Plaza. Incandela and his accompaniment brought the entire crowd of 500 plus people at the dedication of the Leaning Tower Plaza on June 26, 1997 into dancing and clapping frenzy in his first performance.

"The opportunity to host concerts such as these is one of the reasons we renovated the Plaza of the Leaning Tower. It provides a relaxed, park-like setting in which people from Niles and around the region can come out and enjoy musical and cultural performances," said Martorano.

"Next year we plan to put together a whole summer full of concerts with performers from throughout the Chicagoland area," added Martorano.

All three of the performances are free, open to the general public, and will take place at the Niles' Leaning Tower. The site is located at 6300 W. Touhy Avenue and can be found to the east of the Milwaukee/Touhy intersection. For further information, contact the Village of Niles at (847) 588-8000.

the church with a solution to the parking dilemma.

Lyu told the Board that the Church had secured additional off-site parking for their four services held on Sunday at 9870 Milwaukee Avenue, the former Ponderosa Restaurant. He believed this change would alleviate congestion problems suffered by the residents on Harrison Street.

Chairman James Callero, however, attempted to dispose of the conversations regarding the parking issue.

"That is not in front of us," he said. "If they (the church) wish to be a good neighbor and have the parking elsewhere that is fine, but that is not in front of us."

The proposed parking site is approximately a mile from the church. It is planned that congregational members will be bussed from this lot to the church for the services.

Lyu told the Board that he and other church leaders are also looking for a second parking site. "We won't be able to solve over night," he said, "it will take time to relieve this traffic problem."

When Commissioner Edward Main expressed concerns that this solution violated the Zoning Code, which prohibits business districts from serving as parking facilities if they are over 300 yards from another building, Callero again stated that the parking issue was not what the Board was there to resolve.

"Trying to be fair to the church," Commissioner Angelo Troiani stated that its attempt to reduce the crowded parking problem was the church's way of trying to be a good neighbor and comply with the Board's earlier request of June 2.

"We said that the church had not been a good neighbor because of the parking and we told them to resolve the situation with the neighborhood. The church tried to correct the problems on church days and showed good faith and got off-site parking. We should applaud their efforts at trying to eliminate a bad situation. I don't think there is anything illegal about this."

Once again Callero stated, "We are not here to hear a parking situation. They want to put in a child day care center. If they want to be a good neighbor they can work out the parking."

Lyu responded that when the church came on June 2, the emphasis was on the parking situation.

was the only issue. Lyu said that the first year approximately 30 children would be enrolled, but noted that there were 80 potential children from the congregation who could attend the center.

Commissioner Winter attempted to pin him down, until he finally stated that, at this time, he was seeking permission to have a center that would serve 50 children.

Several Niles and Glenview residents spoke to the Board members about their troubles with this issue.

Mrs. Eileen Mueller, 412 Sheryl Lane, expressed her opinion that "a day care center is really a business disguised as a school and is not an appropriate activity for an otherwise completely residential neighborhood."

She also said that she had a real problem with "placing very young children in the same building with the individuals who attend the Joseph Academy, who are developmentally and emotionally disturbed young people."

In response, Mr. Lyu said that "DCFS (Department of Children and Family Services) visited the church twice and the only problem we had was a bathroom facility," Lyu said that dysfunction had since been repaired.

Dave Harken, 2926 Harrison, said that "the church has taken advantage of the residents. The (park) area is wide open and some of the children chase out the Glenview residents."

"On Saturdays there are many children who go to Saturday School at the church, but it is the parents who speed down Harrison Street." His remarks generated applause from the 25 gathered residents.

The Senior Pastor of Lakeview, Mr. Lee, addressed the Board saying that "the purpose of this day care center is for people who work full time. We want to serve this community and working parents."

Although the Board voted unanimously to deny the petition for a variance, both Troiani and Michel voted with the majority but with reservations.

The matter will go before the Village Board for its approval of the Zoning Board's vote.

formed into a community landmark and a symbol of true community cooperation. "There seemed to be overwhelming community involvement in this project," stated Mick Rosendahl, grant administrator for the Department of Natural Resources. "Morton Grove Park District stands out in my mind for their project administration including a very active Park Board and a knowledgeable and professional staff."

This award, given out at the June meeting of the Park Board, was a complete surprise to the District. "We're very excited about this award," Administrative Manager Gary Balling said, "not only because it's the first award of excellence ever given out by the DNR but because it recognizes all of our efforts in carrying out the requirements of our grant and reflects the partnership we have developed with the DNR over the past 8 years or so."

"We didn't have to apply or be nominated for it or submit any information for this award which makes it really special," added Park Board President Dan Staackmann. Morton Grove was one of 69 agencies who received Open Space Lands Acquisition and Development (OSLAD) grants in 1996 totaling $11.7 million in funding assistance.

It was all part of a community wide fundraiser to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association in which Morton Grove pulled together to post bond for its notorious jailbirds. Throughout the day over $7,500 was raised to benefit hundreds of local North Shore families affected by neuromuscular diseases.

The day's top prisoner was Lenny Walker of Platz Flowers. Walker singlehandedly posted over $2,500 in bail money. Other jailbirds included Village Trustee's Terry Liston and Jim Karp, John Bravos of LaSalle Chemical, Carl Maniscalco of the Park District, Rosalyn Grossman of R&R Real Estate; Sue Rezman of Liberty Federal Savings Bank, Roberta Johnson and Kate Johnston-Legg of the Morton Grove Public Library, Wayne Cobb of ABT Television, Lisa Locascio and Kevin Werner of Anheuser-Busch, Vickie Hoffman of Rusty's Tavern, Ellen Wilkerson of Linne Woods Stone, George Foster of Revell Monogram, and Andreas Hogg of Uni-Tress Ltd.

It takes an entire village...to build an historical museum

In all of Niles there probably isn't one person with the professional qualifications necessary to have earned the title of museum curator. Even if there were one, the salary that type of professional would command and deserve, would be prohibitive for the limited funds of the Niles Historical Museum.

Yet, the Niles Historical Museum is one of the finest in the Chicagoland area. It has a dozen or so permanent exhibits on display, a good collection of maps and photographs of the history of the area, and modest, but important, archives. It brings in new exhibits several times a year, hosts historical and social programs almost monthly, and has just concluded its first year of assistance to the Niles Elementary School History Club which it helped to organize.

How does so much happen? Meet Howard J. Brown.

I never did and neither did many in Niles. I won't have that opportunity and neither will anyone else in Niles.

Howard J. Brown passed away May 31, 1997. Everyone who ever passed by, visited, or spent time near the Niles Historical Museum, 8970 W. Milwaukee Avenue, saw, walked over, leaned against, or remembers "tasting" the work of Howard J. Brown for the Niles Historical Museum.

Howard, vice-president of the museum since 1987, sort of inherited the post since his wife Marilyn was president of the museum several years before '87 and continues in that office until today.

Hours and hours and hours

Timing belt neglect could lead to expensive engine repair

Be it an Acura or a Yugo, a failed timing belt is not a pretty sight.

The engine, of course, will stop if the timing belt breaks, gets stripped of enough teeth or ratchets excessively.

But the real danger lies not in the inconvenience of being stranded on the road. It is in the real possibility of severe engine damage, warn engineers from The Gates Rubber Company.

Automobile engines can be classified as either free-running or interference, depending on what occurs if the piston-to-valve synchronization is lost due to a failed timing belt.

In the free-running (free-wheeling) engine with the crankshaft still moving, there is still enough clearance between the valve and piston, even if the cam stops with a valve fully open.

However, an interference engine may allow the piston and the valve to collide. The least damage could be a bent valve. The most damage may be a hole in the piston, or damage to the head, or gouged cylinder heads, or worse yet, a completely ruined engine.

Most domestic cars are free-running. Several notable exceptions are some models of the Chevy Spectrum and Chevette, Plymouth Colt, and the Pontiac LeMans and Sunbird. (The majority of these models have foreign-made engines.)

Most import cars, however, have higher compression engines, and are most likely to be the interference type. More than a dozen manufacturers, from Acura to Yugo, have produced this type of engine.

Timing belt neglect could lead to expensive engine repair

Also, all diesel engines are interference. A compression ratio of 20:1 doesn't leave much combustion chamber space to spare.

Rather than risk an expensive engine repair, Gates suggests car owners heed the advice of the auto manufacturers and most independent repair technicians.

The auto makers say that timing belts should be replaced at the time or mileage interval specified in their owner's manuals, regardless of the physical appearance of the belt.

Independent technicians agree with the OEM's, but to be safe, they also recommended that the belt be inspected between 30,000 and 50,000 miles.

This inspection process can vary depending on the engine placement, and the number and location of engine accessories.

The most practical time to check the belt is during a tune-up, while the spark plugs are out and there is no engine compression.

A simple inspection may involve rotating the drive and feeling for slack or play in the belt. This may indicate a worn or stretched belt, or a loose tensioner. On some engines, the belt guard can be partially pulled away for a quick visual inspection.

The most thorough inspection, however, involves removing the belt cover to check every tooth and land (the flat area between the teeth). Care should be taken when handling the belt, though. Do not twist the belt more than 90°, or the tensile cords could be damaged.

Look carefully at the sides and top of the timing belt. Watch for worn or frayed fabric tooth facing, glass fibers protruding through the belt, tooth cracks, scratches or grooves on the back of the belt, or oil on the belt or sprockets.

A timing belt can have hidden damage. Gates explains that sometimes the tensile cords can fail due to an engine malfunction resulting in a shock load to the belt. Cords can also be damaged by a foreign object as small as a pebble coming between the belt and sprockets.

Also, the integrity of the belt environment is especially important. If dirt, grease and oil are permitted within the timing belt cover, the chances for belt failure are greatly increased.

Especially if it's a valve-crunching interference engine, it shouldn't be too hard to convince anyone to check the belt, and replace it at the first signs of fatigue.

If you wait for the belt to break, you'll be sadder and wiser - but poorer.
