Sportsmania

The only thing worse than a spoilsport is a spoilsport Bulls fan.

We've always been suspicious Michael Jordan quit basketball for a couple of years for reasons which have never been reported. No other top professional athlete in history ever quit his sport when he was in his prime (Michael was 30 years old). We saw a retrospective of Jordan's basketball career on TV Monday night in which he said in 1993 he wanted to spend more time with his family which was his reason for quitting playing basketball. He then left his family in Chicago while he spent many months away from them playing minor league baseball. Suspicious characters imply his gambling habits might have gotten in the way of his basketball playing and his Mr. Clean image. Unlike baseball's Pete Rose, the NBA and Bulls' owner Jerry Reinsdorf might have detoured Jordan's basketball career for a couple of years to

Realtor plans assisted care development on abandoned Jewish cemetery property

Protesters stall plan for MG senior housing

by Rosemary Tirio

A Chicago realtor with plans to establish an assisted living housing development on an abandoned cemetery now overgrown with wild brush and used as a fly-dumping site has hit a stumbling block in his negotiations with the Morton Grove Village Board.

Jeff Green of Devco Realty said the village board voted at its May meeting to table his firm's petition to relocate any remains that may be found when excavation begins for Miami Woods Place, the proposed senior housing project.

The site in question is located east of the 8600 block of Waukegan Road, close to the border with Niles. In fact, some of the cemetery is actually in Niles, according to Larry Arft, Morton Grove Village Manager.

The original owners of the property, a Jewish congregation in Chicago, abandoned the property when the congregation was disbanded a few years ago. No one had paid the taxes on the property for a number of years.

Green said he first became aware of the existence of the cemetery when he was bicycling on

by Rosemary Tirio

Glenview Park District officials were encouraged by the news that Dartmoor Homes missed the deadline for posting earnest money on the Wagner Farm property to estate trustees, Glenview State Bank.

John Winand, president of the Glenview Park District, said the defaulted payment would enable the trustees to reopen negotiations with the district, whose original $6 million bid trailed behind those of Dartmoor and reportedly several other bidders for the property.

Located at Lake Avenue and Wagner Road, the 20-acre Wagner Farm is one of the last undeveloped land tracts on the North Shore and one of the last working farms in the area. Dartmoor was to have built single family homes on the tract.

The Glenview Park District had hopes of acquiring the property for preservation purposes, and voters supported them March 17 when 54 percent approved a proposal to raise property taxes to provide funds for the park district to acquire the farm. However, the $6 million allocat-

Park Ridge resident goes the distance to fight leukemia

A marathon is a celebration of the human spirit, physical ability and mental endurance. For Allison Hammond, who is participating in the Leukemia Society of America's Team in Training program, it is also a celebration of life. The Team in Training program trains and prepares people of all ability levels to run or walk a marathon while raising funds to help in the fight against leukemia and related cancers.

On June 20, Allison, 27, of Park Ridge, will go the distance to help in the fight against leukemia. She joined Team in Training not only to get in shape, but, more importantly, to raise funds for the Leukemia Society's largest fund raiser. Hammond, along with 15,000 other runners and walkers nationwide, will be working to meet the Leukemia Society's national fund raising goal of $35 million. With a personal goal of raising $3,900, Allison will raise funds through friends, relatives and co-workers before participating in the Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon in Anchorage, Alaska. Other teammates will be raising $3,000 for the first ever Rock 'N' Roll Marathon in San Diego, California. Funds raised through Team in Training support research into finding a cure for leukemia and related cancers, and also help patients and their families through patient aid and services.

While in Team in Training, participants receive guidance from a personal coach, information clinics that focus on topics such as proper attire when running or walking a marathon, fund raising incentive items, advice from a Mentor and inspiration from a Patient Hero. For close to five months, participants train with both the team and on their own. Along with the physical preparation necessary to complete 26.2 miles, added inspiration is needed. Allison is partnered with a Patient Hero (a leukemia patient or survivor). Allison's Patient Hero, Jeffrey Kendrick, 39, has Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma and provides inspiration and support throughout the training period while she raises funds and walks in his honor. When Allison crosses the finish line, her aches and pains will end, but for her Patient Hero, the fight won't end until there is a cure.

To contribute to Allison Hammond's fund raising effort, please send donations payable to the Leukemia Society of America to Allison Hammond, 2400 Windsor Mall, Park Ridge, IL 60068 or call the Leukemia Society of America for more information at (312) 726-0003.

Osteoporosis screening to be held at Trident Center

Osteoporosis Screening: Osteoporosis is a disease that gradually weakens bones, so they become more and more fragile. It is called the "silent disease" because bone loss occurs without symptoms, affecting both men and women. This disease is a major threat to 20 million women and 5 million men in the United States at this time.

The Osteoporosis Evaluation Program in cooperation with the Village of Niles will be doing on site osteoporosis testing for Niles residents at the Trident Center, 8060 Oakton, on Tuesday and Wednesday July 21 and 22, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Thursday, July 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A simple painless five minute bone density scan of the forearm will be done. Female residents, 35 & up and men, 45 & up can receive this test for $25. By appointment only. Residents must come in to make an appointment and payment is due at this time. After 5 p.m., please call 692-3396. For more information, please contact Terry Sprengel, RN, BSN, at 588-8420.

Letters to the Editor

Board cited for "arrogance & blatant disregard"

Dear Editor:

The letter published in the Bugle last week from the Malone family, concerning the arrogance and blatant disregard for the wishes of parents as well as the welfare of students by the members of the Board of Education of Niles Elementary District 71 was an accurate representation of the feelings of many District 71 taxpayers.

Taxpayers elect members of a school board to make intelligent decisions to insure that their children receive the best possible education. This board, with its domineering president, a member who thinks "longevity" replaces common sense, a penchant for spending inordinate amounts of money for which it refuses to be accountable, and an expensive superintendent and administration to oversee the smallest district in the northern suburbs is disgraceful. District 219 boasts of the highest paid teachers, yet consistently fails to be number 1 in academic excellence.

The solution is to elect new school board members from the pool of capable parents. Our children would benefit from an intelligent, compassionate, unified board with no hidden agendas. A school board member volunteers to work for the taxpayers and their children, is honestly accountable without reservation, and has no "hidden agenda." If one cannot or will not adhere to this caveat, one should not serve.

With regard to the dismissed art teacher, who has been persecuted by this board for years: she has been highly respected by her peers and parents, very well liked by the majority, and completely supported by PTA officers a few years ago when she was under personal attack by a certain board member and administrators. It seems that our little school district has long been plagued by jealousy, dissension, and at the mercy of small, narrow-minded people who have resorted to vicious personal attacks, as in the case of an exemplary former board member.

We have raised our family in this district, and have volunteered many hours at the elementary and high school levels. It is unfortunate that we must tolerate a less than desirable school board.

Names withheld by request.

"The celebration will feature games, food, and plenty of other fun surprises," said Amy Robnik, Drop-In Center Manager. For more information, contact Amy at (847) 823-0650. The Drop-In Center was established in June 1992 to help deter gang activity, and provides a safe, supervised and drug-free place for youth throughout the Township to play sports and computer games as well as participate in arts and crafts and other activities.

Teachers wearing green ribbons for unity

Dear Editor:

The Niles Council of Teachers will be participating in a show of unity for the duration of the school year and into next year by wearing green ribbons. We are writing to share our motivation with the District 71 administration, our school board, and our community.

After 29 years of caring service, a tenured teacher has been dismissed. We would like to acknowledge that what our colleague is facing is very painful. We wish to publicly offer her our support during this time. We know that educating children is more than a job. After a long career in this profession, one would like to look back on his/her contribution as a life well spent in the growth and development of children. We hope that this end does not diminish her joy and sense of satisfaction for all that she offered to the children of this district for 29 years.

Secondly, one would think that there would be respect for the importance of a teacher's position. A teacher, especially one of 29 years who worked weekly with every child in the school district, is a well known presence in the life of the children. Something as disruptive as the termination of a teacher needs to be explained, both for the children's sake and the teacher's reputation. The loss of that presence must be addressed. The difficulty inherent in discussing uncomfortable situations does not allow the board and administration to shirk this responsibility.

Sincerely,
Len Palicki, President
Niles Council of Teachers.

Bridging generations at Summit Square

With today's families scattered all over the country, grandparents don't have the opportunities to spend much time with their grandchildren and children don't often get the opportunity to become close to a senior. To help the generations build bridges of understanding and communication, Summit Square invites school groups and children's clubs to visit with residents.

The children of the Park Ridge Inter-Cultural Montessori School are delightful visitors at Summit, as is the award winning Park Ridge Lincoln Middle School Jazz Band which excites residents with their talent and energy. Regular visitors to Summit Square are the Campfire Girls from St. Andrew's Lutheran Church as well as the Girl Scout Troop from St. Paul of the Cross. Resident Paula Nichols has become a special pen pal with one of the scouts, Julia Edwards. "Every time the Girl Scouts from St. Paul's visit Summit Square Julia dedicates a song to me. I find it so touching, says Paula. I've come to love that little girl."

Some Summit Square residents have also become pen pals with visiting children from the Old Orchard Middle School. On a visit to Summit, students were each paired up with a senior for an interview. The questions led the kids to some interesting revelations about growing up in the early part of this century. They were shocked to learn that the seniors did not have favorite TV shows when they were children, because there was no TV at the time!

For fifteen years Summit Square has made it a practice to hire high-school and college students to be servers in the dining room. The experience has been positive for both the teenagers and our residents. Says server Dawn LaBrase: "My sister and I started working as servers at Summit Square when we were sophomores in high-school. Now we are seniors in college and still serve at Summit during our vacations. We like serving familiar faces and realize that it's not just dinner to the residents, it's a social hour. So, we spend time talking to them and getting to know their personal tastes. My experiences at Summit Square help me see the relationships between the generations and the memories that I have acquired will last me a lifetime."

The inter-generational programs at Summit Square fulfill an important need by providing opportunities for young people and seniors to communicate, gain mutual respect and build bridges of understanding.

Cataracts and you

By age 75, nearly everyone has a cataract, a clouding of the lens of the eye usually brought on by aging. Fortunately, surgery can often correct any loss of vision.

Self-defense: Wear sunglasses and a wide-brimmed hat to reduce eye-damaging exposure to ultraviolet rays. And some studies suggest that getting plenty of vitamin C can also lower risk.

Emeritus student serves third term on OCC Board

Northbrook resident Margorie Whitman was recently elected to serve her third consecutive term as student trustee on the Oakton Community College Board of Trustees. The one-year term runs through July 1999.

Whitman is an Emeritus student who, as a homemaker, decided seven years ago that she needed to broaden her horizons. So, for the sake of her own enjoyment and learning, she enrolled in classes at Oakton's DesPlaines campus.

"I never thought returning to school would include participating in student government," said Whitman. "When I came to Oakton, fellow students urged me to run for student trustee. As a homeowner and taxpayer, I care about the issues that affect the quality of education and services Oakton provides to students, so I gladly accepted the invitation."

Whitman's agenda for this term is already in place. Over the next year, she plans to focus on technology, assuring that the College's strong technical infrastructure continues to support the teaching and learning efforts of students, particularly in the areas of math and science.

Whitman also plans to continue helping to strengthen the relationship between Oakton's Des Plaines and Ray Hartstein Campus in Skokie. As student trustee, she is pleased to see an increase in cultural programs, lectures and entertainment events at the Ray Hartstein Campus.

Hospice of North Shore hosts Benefit

Hospice of the North Shore Service Board hosts its annual benefit, 5:30 p.m., Friday, August 7, including a dazzling Cirque du Soleil production at the United Center and an Italian buffet in the tented garden setting of Chicago's Galleria Marchetti.

Cirque du Soleil's latest production, QUIDAM, brings the audience technological artistry and unique acrobatic performances accompanied by a dramatically intense score drawing from the strains of classical, electric, and contemporary sound.

Tickets are $175 for the event which will benefit the organization's newly expanded Pediatric Palliative Care Program. All proceeds will be matched through a generous 2-for-1 challenge grant from Amicus Foundation. This expansion of service-es will provide increased care and support for the needs of children with serious or terminal illness and their families.

The Service Board is a group of community-spirited volunteers who have raised funds and promoted awareness for the not-for-profit Hospice of the North Shore since 1987. For more information or to buy tickets to the 1998 benefit, please call the Development at 847-467-7423.

Holy Family Health Center has pitching power

It is not only about the home runs or the strike outs that bring this baseball team excitement, but it's the love, attention and enthusiasm from the interested residents and staff at Holy Family Health Center.

Holy Family Health Center, a skilled nursing facility in Des Plaines has sponsored a little league baseball team in the Central division of their community. Sister Elizabeth, Administrator, begins her weekly director's meeting discussing the scores of the baseball team and encourages everyone to go out and cheer their team on to victory. "It's a lot of fun and a great diversion for the residents and staff", states Sister M. Elizabeth, administrator. "We always believed that bonding of the different generations is important and therapeutic. This summer we have proven statistics."

The residents enjoy participating in the life of the community during the evening summer games, states David Luecht, Activity Director. It is also a trip, down memory lane, bringing back those fond memories of their own childhood and parenthood.

"Sometimes, I watch the Cubs or Sox and it breaks my heart, but when I watch our own baseball team, at the Holy Family Health Center, it warms my heart and makes me chuckle all the time," states resident, Royal Haughness.

The parents of the little league baseball team are very supportive of this sponsorship. It is educational for their families, as well. The residents from the health center visited the game on June 11. The MVP Banquet for the players, their families and the residents will be held at the end of the season, at the health center. The dinner will be sponsored by Sister Elizabeth. "What can I prepare to serve for these hard working players?" stated Sister Elizabeth. "I would go the gourmet route, stated Deacon Don Wehling, Hot Dogs and Potato Chips would be a great hit!"

ASSESSMENT FREEZE DEADLINE EXTENDED

Cook County Assessor, James Houlihan, announces that seniors can still apply for the Assessment Freeze Exemption (which substantially lowers their tax bill) through July 15, 1998. The Freeze allows qualified seniors to maintain the qualified assessed value of their home at the base year value and prevent any increase due to inflation. The base year is the year prior to the taxable year for which the senior first qualifies for the exemption. This does not freeze the amount of the property tax bill, which will still increase if the tax rate increases. To qualify a resident must be age 65+, have a total household income of no more than $35,000 in 1996, own the property and have it be their principal place of residence, and be liable for property tax payments in 1996 and 1997. For more information, call the Cook County Assessor's Office -- Senior Freeze Department at (312) 603-6600.

Friends celebrate Yukon's 70th Birthday

The residents and staff of Central Baptist Home gathered recently to celebrate Yukon's 10th birthday (that's 70 in human years). Yukon, a canine friend, has been visiting the home for over a year and has logged in more than 400 hours of volunteer service.

Just like all staff and volunteers he is easily identified as he strolls through the home by his name tag that dangles from his collar. His tag includes his name, title (Volunteer Dog), and his picture. When he leaves his home that he shares with a Central Baptist Home employee and his name tag is in place he knows he's in for a very active day filled with attention and unconditional love. Yukon moves a little slow due to his arthritis but always makes his rounds to see his special friends. Residents and employees can easily qualify as "special"; over the last year Yukon has formed deep bonds with those who stock dog biscuits in their rooms and offices. Lois Whittemore is a particular close friend, keeping a stash of hot dogs in her room for visits. Residents take turns taking him outside to play and for other duties. Residents also take Yukon to visit other residents in the Nursing Pavilion. His infatuation with food gets him into harmless trouble but keeps everyone on their toes when he's around. Although he's not allowed, at mealtimes you can find him in close proximity to the dining room.

Yukon brings smiles to every face he meets and on Thursday, June 4, his friends returned the favor. The birthday party was held in the Retirement Center. All of Yukon's friends, aged 2 to 100 years old (some human, some not) were on hand to celebrate this momentous milestone.

Dr. Altern honored by Norwood Park Home

Noted northwest side dentist and former resident of Glenview, Dr. Alf H. Altern, 86, (right) was presented with the Dr. Larsandrew Dolan Award for his many years of exemplary service to Norwood Park Home (NPH), 6016 N. Nina Ave., Chicago. This recognition cited his voluntary dental care to residents of the Home and his 20 years of service as a member of the NPH Board of Directors. Making the special presentation before a crowd of nearly 200 supporters at Gala '98, Norwood Park Home's annual dinner dance, was Norwegian Consul General and Mrs. Per Bye Othstrom. In addition to Norwood Park Home, Dr. Altern volunteered his services to Lydia Children's Home, in Chicago, and still serves on the Board of Visitors of Vesterheim, the Norwegian-American Museum, in Decorah, Iowa. He remains active in the Norwegian community. In 1981, he was appointed by King Olav of Norway to the Royal Order of St. Olav and, in the same year, was appointed a Knight First Class of the Royal Order of St. Oslo. He is a veteran of the U.S. Navy during World War II and the Korean Conflict, attaining the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve. The affair was held at the Park Ridge Country Club and featured a silent auction, a raffle and dancing the the Frankie Greene Orchestra. Proceeds from the benefit will be put toward Norwood Park Home's capital campaign, "Building A Second Century of Tradition."

Low-cost will preparation offered

Eligible senior citizens are offered low-cost will preparation services through the Senior Citizens Will Program on Friday, June 19, at the Niles Senior Center. Advance appointments are required and will be scheduled between 9:30 a.m. and noon.

Attorneys from The Chicago Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service will provide free consultations about wills to seniors who register for the service. At a client's request, an attorney will also prepare a simple will for a reduced fee. The cost for drawing up a will is not more than $50 for an individual ($75 for a couple).

Durable Power of Attorney and Living Will forms are available free of charge. A Durable Power of Attorney allows a senior to designate another person to make property or health care decisions in the event the senior becomes physically or mentally unable to do so. A Living Will allows an individual with a terminal health condition to express his or her desire to have death-delaying procedures withheld or withdrawn.

Seniors may complete the Durable Power of Attorney and Living Will forms themselves, or they may hire the attorney to help fill them out and to explain the various options available on the forms. The fee for the attorney to provide legal advice about a Durable Power of Attorney is $75 maximum for an individual ($125 for a couple). The charge for a Living Will is no more than $50 for an individual ($75 for a couple).

To be eligible for the Senior Citizens Will Program, a client must be age 60 or over, annual income must not exceed $15,000 ($20,000 for a couple), and assets, excluding a home and personal car, should be worth no more than $30,000.

The Senior Citizens Will Program is sponsored by The Chicago Bar Association Lawyer Referral Service, the Suburban Area Agency on Aging and the Cook County Legal Assistance Foundation.

"Spirituality" topic of Township & LGH program

Spiritual Speaker. Reverend Clint Moore, III, spoke to Maine Township seniors on the meaning of spirituality and the importance of spiritual well-being. Over 50 Township senior citizens attended the May 21st program at the Town Hall in Park Ridge.

Over 50 Maine Township senior citizens and others attended a joint program offered by Maine Township Adult & Senior Services and Lutheran General Hospital on "Spirituality and Healing" at the Township's Town Hall in Park Ridge.

Reverend Clint Moore, III, Chaplain of Rainbow Hospice and Lutheran General Hospital of Clinical Ethics was the speaker for the program and offered both insight and advice on how to best promote healing and achieve spiritual harmony. "Spirituality is an essential component of the human being," Moore told the attendees. "In the midst of all the challenges to physical, emotional and social well-being, we may often forget or even fear to address the one unifying component, that being our spiritual well-being."

Maine Township Adult & Senior Services and Lutheran General Hospital provided the program free of charge to those interested.

For information on future Maine Township Senior programs, contact Sue Neuschel or Barb Koss at 297-2510.

Home Health Agency selects new name

The Five Hospital Homebound Elderly Program, a multi-service agency providing home nursing and other essential services for homebound patients and the elderly since 1976, announced that it has changed its name to "Partners Home Care," effective March 6.

The agency is a not-for-profit affiliate of Catholic Health Partners, a mission-driven healthcare ministry that includes Columbus, St. Anthony and St. Joseph hospitals, Columbus and St. Joseph were two of the original five founding hospitals. Columbus-Cabrini Health System and St. Joseph Health Centers and Hospital merged to form Catholic Health Partners in November 1995 and the home health agency has been an affiliate of Catholic Health Partners since that time.

"Five Hospital Homebound Elderly Program has been a vital asset to our community for more than 20 years," said Sister Theresa Peck, D.C., president and chief executive officer, Catholic Health Partners. "Now as Partners Home Care, it is positioned to continue to work for patients at home, where more health care is being delivered as we prepare to enter into a new century."

Five Hospital Homebound Elderly Program was founded in 1976 to provide medical and social services to a large population of homebound seniors on the city's North Side, offering an alternative to nursing home or long-term placement. Over the years, the agency has added many services for patients of all ages including: skilled nursing; physical, occupational and speech therapy; psychiatric nursing; nutritional counseling; health education; home health aides; private duty care; infusion therapy nursing; phlebotomy services; long-term care; visiting volunteers; and Lifeline Emergency Response.

Partners Home Care also is home to the Long Term Care Program, which is a model program providing medical care and social services for elderly patients at home - helping prevent unnecessary hospitalizations and nursing home placement.

"Changing the name of Five Hospital Homebound Elderly Program to Partners Home Care represents a natural transition for the agency," said Dave Krupa, president, Partners Home Care. "So much of what we provide is dependent upon a true partnership between patients, physicians, families and the home care staff. This makes our new name truly appropriate."

Catholic Health Partners is a mission-driven health system with a goal of improving health and wellness within the community through collaboration and advocacy, with a special commitment to the sick and the poor. Catholic Health Partners includes three community teaching hospitals, Columbus, St. Anthony and St. Joseph; the Chicago Institute of Neurosurgery and Neuroresearch (CINN); Partners Home Care, a full-service home health agency; and more than 25 Medical Network satellite facilities.

St. Andrew Home hosts Spring festivities

Marie Wozniak

Parties highlighted the events at St. Andrew Home, 7000 N. Newark, in Niles this spring. Two occasions were particularly interesting to all who attended.

A fashion show brought clothes out from the closet that people had bought for special occasions and then got hidden away. Some outfits were funny including hula skirts, a "14 carrot" dress, a "tea" dress, and a business suit accented with a "brief" case. No one could decide who had more fun - the ladie who made finger sandwiches, the models, or the audience.

Castanets in concert was also a special event one spring evening. Matteo, a recognized dance Ethnologist, flew in from New York to entertain. St. Andrew residents tried their hand with the castanets at the end of the performance.

Refreshments were enjoyed by all at both events.

Help available for early stage Alzheimer's patients and families

Alzheimer's disease evokes feelings of fear, concern and stress. Fear of the unknown, concern about family and stress of facing a terminal disease become vital issues for those in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease. Fortunately, there is help and hope. The Greater Chicagoland Alzheimer's Association offers Early Stage Patient Support Groups at several Chicagoland locations.

Early Stage Patient Support Groups are designed to support the educational, social, emotional and coping needs of persons in the early stages of memory loss and their family members and caregivers. Groups provide a safe and positive setting to express fears, concerns and experiences and foster self esteem of Alzheimer patients by including them in planning their future needs.

"One of the best things that helped me was finding the Early Stage Group, said early stage caregiver Susana Dennis. "It's not just learning that other people are going through this, but learning how they cope."

Groups are eight sessions in length and registration is required. Requirements also include a diagnosis of dementia (memory loss); an intake interview and assessment; a commitment by the person to participate in all eight sessions; family responsible for encouraging participation and providing transportation; and membership in the Greater Chicagoland Alzheimer's Association. Group members must be aware of their memory loss and be willing to discuss it and must feel comfortable in a group setting.

"These groups are very helpful for individuals with Alzheimer's disease and their caregivers who are struggling to cope with issues unique to the earlier stages of the disease," said Sharon Roberts, Association President and co-leader of an Early Stage group.

"Early in the illness, individuals are concerned about being able to adjust their lives to live with their symptoms, their future as the disease progresses and how their caregivers will fare. Patients and caregivers alike will grieve their losses. Caregivers are concerned about how to best support the affected individual, manage current stresses and prepare for their future."

Sessions will include basic education and information about Alzheimer's disease and community resources; support to assist in the emotional adjustment and reaction to the diagnosis; coping strategies such as communication skills, memory aids and stress management; and discussions on problem solving, personal relationships and support systems.

More than 4 million Americans have Alzheimer's disease, and one in 10 American adults has a relative with the disease. There are more than 100,000 Alzheimer's patients in Greater Chicagoland with an additional four to five family members per patient affected via the role of caregiver.

Alzheimer's disease attacks the memory and impairs the ability to think, reason and judge and is the 4th leading cause of death among U.S. adults.

Services provided by the Greater Chicagoland Alzheimer's Association include a network of family support groups, a helpline for information and support, referrals to community resources, in-person assistance, educational programs and advocacy for research into the cause, treatment and cure for Alzheimer's disease.

For more information about the Early Stage Patient Support Groups and other programs, call (847) 933-1000.

Presbyopia - eye disorder common with aging

Ben Franklin was a man of vision. At least until he reached midlife. Then rather suddenly he found he could no longer read his newspaper without magnifying lenses. He had long worn glasses for seeing objects at a distance - street names and shop signs in the next block. But now he couldn't see well reading close-up either. Constantly taking off one pair of spectacles to put on the other exasperated him. Fortunately, Ben Franklin was a man of invention. He cut two pairs of spectacles apart, fastened the top halves of his distance glasses to the bottom halves of his reading glasses - and invented bifocals. (Medical Essay, supplement to Mayo Clinic Health Letter, October 1995)

This type of condition became known as presbyopia (prez-be-O-pe-uh), a term derived from the Greek word "presbys," which means "old man." Our ability to focus on objects at a reading distance begins to change between the ages of 40 and 50 when our arms are not quite long enough to read a menu, a newspaper listing for theater performances or a telephone book. However by the age of 60 our distance and reading visions begin to stabilize.

Unfortunately, there are other more serious eye problems that also can occur with aging, such as macular degeneration, glaucoma and cataracts, so it is extremely important to have regular eye exams.

Once presbyopia occurs, people with normal vision or with farsightedness (the inability to see clearly objects up close) will need reading glasses or bifocals. People who are nearsighted (the inability to see objects far away) will need to have their regular glasses turned into bifocals; or for reading, they will need to remove glasses used for distance vision.

Presbyopia can be corrected or improved by one of the following: reading glasses, bifocals, trifocals, progressive lenses, bifocal contact lenses or monovision contact lenses.

Reading Glasses. Reading glasses are the simplest solution to the "long-armed" problem. These glasses magnify reading material and bring the focal distance of your eye closer. A thorough eye exam is always in order to detect any eye disease, astigmatism or focal distance irregularities. If all is well and the power magnification needed for both eyes is the same with no astigmatism present, the eye care professional may even suggest the over-the-counter variety of reading glasses.

Bifocals. Bifocals give you two focal distances: the top part of the glass lens for distance vision; the bottom part for reading. This type of prescription eliminates the need to put on and take off your glasses for various everyday activities. Eventually, people with presbyopia may find the need to graduate from bifocals to trifocals.

Trifocals. By the age of 50, you tend to lose a good deal of your ability to focus on intermediate-distance objects without the aid of a glass lens. By the age of 60 you may have lost all of your accommodation powers. You will need mid-distance vision to see things, such as computer screens or name tags on people at business meetings or parties. The trifocal is a small segment of lens located just above the bifocal segment on the power part of the eyeglass lens.

Progressive Lenses. Progressive lenses are known as "lineless" bifocals, because the lenses are ground so that you cannot see the distinct line on the glasses where the bifocal starts. Some people prefer them; while others prefer the sharp vision you get with regular lined bifocals or trifocals.

Bifocal Contact Lenses. Bifocal contact lenses have vastly improved over the past five years since their inception around twenty-five years ago. They were only available in hard lens form, but now some manufacturers are making them in a soft lens.

Monovision Contact Lenses. Some people with presbyopia prefer not to wear glasses for various reasons and would rather wear monovision contact lenses. With this type of lens the dominant eye is corrected for distance vision and the other eye is corrected for reading vision. However, there is one point to keep in mind: you lose some depth perception.

For more information on the various correcting techniques for presbyopia, please contact your eye care professional.

Resurrection Rehab Unit promotes patient recovery

A nutritious diet, exercise and plenty of rest are all part of a good plan to stay healthy. Some things, however, can't be planned for, such as a sudden accident or illness. But when an accident or illness strikes, rehabilitation becomes an important part of any plan to return to good health.

At Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, 1001 North Greenwood Avenue, Park Ridge, the Subacute Rehabilitation Unit is an important step in the rehabilitation process. The unit provides a pivotal "mid-point" during rehabilitation that takes place between emergency and acute care and hospital discharge.

"Subacute rehabilitation is for patients who are improving but not quite ready to return home or begin intensive rehabilitation," said Rhona Greenspan, R.N., Director of Physical Medicine for the center. "The time on the unit helps patients to regain their strength and mobility."

Following subacute rehabilitation, patients often return to their nursing home room or their home. For some patients, the rehabilitation they receive helps them increase their tolerance for therapy to the level required to be admitted as an inpatient on a hospital rehabilitation unit.

Each patient's care is overseen by his or her personal physician who works with the unit's staff to coordinate rehabilitation. Other staff includes a case manager who evaluates each patient and communicates progress with family and staff; physical, occupational and speech therapists; registered nurses; rehab certified nurses; licensed practical nurses, and certified nursing assistants. Social service professionals assist with referrals for continued care and discharge planning.

Subacute rehabilitation patients also have access to several specialized services. Wound care specialists provide wound assessment and treatment. Nutritional counseling and pharmaceutical services also are available.

Resurrection Nursing and Rehabilitation Center's Subacute Rehabilitation Unit is Medicare approved and licensed by the State of Illinois.

Police News

Night driving and you

Night driving can be difficult and dangerous because of limited visibility and glare from oncoming headlights. Overdriving your headlights is one of the most common mistakes of night driving.

Q. What does it mean to overdrive your headlights?
A. Driving too fast to stop within the distance illuminated by your lights (approximately 350 feet).

Q. What should you do if blinded suddenly by the bright headlights of an oncoming vehicle?
A. Glance quickly between the right edge of your lane and the road in front of you. By moving your eyes back and forth quickly, you can avoid most of the headlight glare while maintaining peripheral vision on your left side.

Q. When must I dim my headlights?
A. Within 500 feet of an approaching vehicle or within 300 feet (the length of one football field) from the vehicle in front of you.

Q. Do I need to increase my following distance at night?
A. Yes. As in any driving situation that is not considered ideal, take actions to ensure safe driving, such as increasing your following distance. Increase your distance to approximately 650 feet at 65 miles per hour, 300 feet at 60 mph and 200 feet at 50 mph.

Finally, if you see a distant object on the road ahead, slow down until you are sure it is not a hazard.

She went back into the store to check out, and when she returned to the parking lot, she discovered that the microwave oven was missing. The victim told police the trunk lid may not have been locked at the time of the burglary.

A 37-year-old employee of a car dealership in the 9400 block of Milwaukee Avenue reported that unknown offender(s) entered and locked two 1998 Ford Explorers, removed the stereo from each vehicle and caused extensive damage to the interior of each vehicle. The total damage to both vehicles was estimated at $4,000.

The other party attendees, a 19-year-old male, a 17-year-old male, and two 18-year-old females were issued PP tickets.

Wanted subject

While on routine patrol around 2:19 a.m. June 13, police observed a car and a van parked in the rear of an establishment in the 9000 block of Golf Road. After running a computer check of the license plates, police found an active warrant for armed robbery on the owner. The Cook County Sheriff's Police and other Niles units responded to the scene. Police entered the establishment and founded the wanted subject, a 31-year-old Arlington Heights woman and placed her under arrest. She was turned over to the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department on a no bond warrant.

weighing around 180 pounds had an eye examination and received a pair of contact lenses. He left the store stating he was going to his car to get his wallet and fled the area without paying for the lenses, which were valued at $99 or the eye exam which costs $50. The address and the phone number the offender used to fill out his record do not register to him. The victim told police she will supply the video tape of the incident to them.

The witness told police he saw the arrestee, a 41-year-old Glenview man, pick up the victim's wallet off the table by the dressing room, place it inside his coat and exit the store swiftly. The witness said he followed the offender to the rest room area and observed the offender enter the ladies' rest room.

The victim's wallet was recovered but two credit cards were missing as was $100 cash. The arrestee had $683.53 in his pocket in denominations of twenty, singles and three $100 bills. The victim said her money was all in $20 bills.

The other party attendees, a 19-year-old male, a 17-year-old male, and two 18-year-old females were issued PP tickets.

Sale of last condominiums at Towne Square in Skokie is just around the corner

Four deluxe corner condominiums are still available at Towne Square in Skokie as the popular Norwood Builders community reaches close-out. Two homes with two bedrooms and two three-bedroom condominiums remain available to buyers who desire immediate delivery.

Towne Square includes a total of 95 condominiums in two six-story, classic brick buildings. Prices for the remaining homes are $191,500 and $193,100 for the two bedroom plans and $244,325 and $247,900 for the three-bedroom plans. All condominiums have many deluxe upgraded features.

"It is ironic that the last four homes are in corner locations because these homes are among the most desirable in the building," said Bruce Adreani, president of Norwood Builders and a specialist in condominium communities. "The corner locations provide more light and a feeling of greater privacy. In the two-bedroom Cambridge design, an extra window is located in the bathroom, while the three-bedroom Manchester has a window over the kitchen sink, a particularly popular feature. These homes have many other advantages, and they won't last long."

A well-respected home builder for nearly 50 years, Norwood Builders typically offers condominium communities in outstanding locations and Towne Square is no exception. It is centrally located in downtown Skokie, a well-established community with a wealth of cultural and recreational opportunities.

"Towne Square is designed for buyers who place a priority on convenience," Adreani said. "In addition to maintenance-free living, residents enjoy being within walking distance of stores, restaurants and the library. They can catch the bus in front of Towne Square which will take them to the Skokie Swift for a 1/2-hour ride to Chicago's Loop. Both the Edens Expressway (I-94) and the Tri-State Tollway (I-294) also convenient. Skokie is a community with extensive amenities and very limited opportunities for newly constructed state-of-the-art homes."

The Cambridge is a home with approximately 1,435 square feet of living space; two bedrooms; two baths; living room with private balcony; dining room; kitchen with serving peninsula; dinette with half wall capped by oak planter shelf; master bedroom with private bath with window and nearby laundry closet; and convenient second bath to serve living area and second bedroom. The homes are upgraded with ceramic tile floors.

The Manchester is a deluxe three-bedroom home with approximately 1,810 square feet of living space; two baths; elegant angled entry hall; extra-large living room with private balcony; formal dining room with window; kitchen with window and dinette area with views of the dining room; master bedroom with walk-in closet and deluxe bath with corner whirlpool tub and double-bowl vanity; second bedroom with walk-in closet; plentiful storage with two linen closets and large laundry room with washer and dryer; ceramic tile flooring; and two parking spaces in the heated indoor garage. One of the Manchester condominiums also has upgraded kitchen cabinets, garbage disposal and laundry tub.

Quality features included in the price of the condominiums are individually controlled air conditioning; wall-to-wall carpeting; intercom security system with television viewing of the main lobby; energy-efficient, double-glazed casement clad windows and extra-wide patio doors with screens; decorator mini-blinds on windows and heated indoor parking. In-unit laundry areas with hook-ups for washer and dryers are included in each home.

Well-equipped kitchens have furniture-quality cabinets, hand-crafted formica countertops with ceramic tile backsplashes and deluxe appliances including continuous-clean gas ranges with custom features, no-frost refrigerators, dishwashers and microwave ovens with exhaust fans. Bathrooms have ceramic tile floors, tub areas and bases, vanities with cultured-marble tops, integral bowls and no-drip edges, custom-made panoramic mirrors, high-powered bath fans and whirlpool tubs in some plans.

The monthly association fee covers radiant heat; hot and cold water; unlimited cooking, heating and dryer gas; indoor heated parking; maintenance of building exteriors; snow removal; and refuse collection.

The Towne Square sales office is on Oakton Street, just east of Niles Center Road. Call (847) 568-0200 for more information.

Kick this ball out of the laundry room

Several companies have recently been selling a laundry detergent substitute they claim is a real ball to use. That part might be true... but the results appear to be no fun at all.

The home economists at Whirlpool Corporation decided to take a close look at these so-called laundry balls whose manufacturers claim clean clothing as well as, or better, than traditional laundry detergents.

According to product information, these softball-sized devices clean by creating a negative charge in the water. A special ionic-enzyme solution is designed to use with the ball, but no detergent is necessary. Literature accompanying the product includes glowing testimonials from satisfied customers. Whirlpool, however, reports that, according to its tests, the ball struck out.

Using one of the company's Super Capacity Plus washers, the economists ran a series of experiments comparing the ball's performance to plain water and a leading liquid laundry detergent. Clothes soiled with ink, clay, grass and other tough stains were washed for 15 minutes at 95 degrees in the extra-heavy cycle.

USE THE BUGLE

Five cleaning combinations were used in the study. First the clothes were washed in water only. Then the laundry ball was tested. Next, the ionic-enzyme was used without the laundry ball. In the fourth test, clothes were washed with the laundry ball and the ionic-enzyme. Finally, a leading liquid detergent was used to wash the clothes.

And here are the results: Washing with water only or washing with water and the laundry ball only produced the same results. Using the ionic-enzyme by itself or with the ball produced identical results which were only slightly better than using only water. Washing with the liquid detergent produced dramatically better results than any of the other tests, and on all soil types.

Whirlpool concluded that the ball itself has no laundry cleaning power. Any cleaning power from the product comes from the ionic-enzyme solution, but the recommended dosage is not enough for a good cleaning performance.

Protecting your children during home renovations

You've found a builder, and you've fleshed out your plans to make the major addition to your home. You've reviewed it all a dozen times, and it looks like you've thought of everything.

Then the workers come, and despite the temporary inconvenience everything goes well until the moment you notice your four-year-old on top of a precariously stacked pile of lumber in the backyard. In a panic you rush to the stack and take her down.

Fortunately, she's no worse for the experience, but you realize that you didn't quite think of everything. What extra precautions do I have to take to protect my children during renovation?

Parents naturally want to protect their children, but it's surprising how even the most cautious parents don't think about the extra care necessary during a major building project," says Michael Klein, father of two and vice president of Lincolnwood-based Airroom Architects and Builders, the Chicago area's largest design/build firm for home additions, kitchens and custom homes. "A lot depends on the child's age, and the type of work being done, but regardless it means some extra diligence on the part of the parents."

There are two main reasons children and work sites don't mix. One is that kids are physically more vulnerable than adults to the dust and chemicals that might be involved in home renovation. The younger the child, the less resistant he or she will be to these temporary pollutants. The other reason is kids' curiosity. Where an adult would see a pile of building materials, a child might see a place to explore.

Klein recommends a number of precautions that parents of small children can take during home renovation. Keep them away from the site as much as possible. The most intensive week of renovation might be the perfect time for your children to visit their grandparents, if that's practical. It not, stay at a friend's house or an inexpensive nearby motel. "The kids will probably have a great time spending a few nights away from home," says Klein.

Scheduling time away from the construction site means knowing ahead of time when the work of it will be, such as when the workers plan to refinish a floor, which could create fumes hazardous to children (and adults, for that matter).

Physically block off the more hazardous areas. It may seem like a nuisance, but erecting physical barriers can go a long way toward protecting young ones. "We put up a tarp hanging over the stairway to the second floor," explains Deborah Silver, an Evanston homeowner who rebuilt her attic into a full second story when her eldest daughter was three years old. "It caught a lot of dust coming down from the construction area. On a day-to-day basis, dust was what concerned us the most. It might only bother an adult, but it's a more serious health matter for a child."

Some times even something as simple as a rope will serve as an effective safety device, especially for children old enough to understand that certain punishment awaits if they violate the barrier. Though not foolproof, anything that clearly defines a "no go" zone will often deter kids from dangerous places. Keep the kids away from the work site as emphatically as you keep them off a busy street, and they'll probably get the message. Also, double check doors that should be closed and locked each evening to prevent a child from wandering off where he or she shouldn't be.

Coordinate with the workers. The workers who come into your home have a job to do, and as much as possible, let them do their jobs unhindered. But in the end, they're working for you, and protecting your kids is something they have to take into account. "It should be understood from the beginning," says Klein. "The project manager, especially, needs to know your concerns. Usually it's easy for your construction team to accommodate you. Sometimes it's as simple as reminding the workers not to leave their tools or construction materials lying around after the finish."

Be extra wary. In the end, ropes and discussions with your workers will only go so far in protecting your children. Your children's safety during renovation is a function of your diligence. "You might be busy, but you shouldn't be so busy that you lose track of your children in a potentially hazardous situation," notes Klein. "There's no substitute for a parent's careful eye."

Founded in 1958, Airroom Architects and Builders pioneered the design/build concept in the Chicago area. Airroom is the largest home addition and kitchen design and building firm in the Chicago area, offering full-service project support for home additions, kitchens and remodeling. The company operates a 30,000-square-foot showroom at corporate headquarters in Lincolnwood and a satellite office in southwest suburban Hinsdale.

Partners for Clean Air prepares public for impending Ozone Action Days

As the warm days of summer approach, Chicago air will soon mix with the sun's radiation and pollutants - a recipe that produces dangerous levels of ozone air pollution or smog.

The Chicago area experiences some of the highest ozone levels of any city in the United States. To help reduce ozone levels and to protect public health, Partners for Clean Air, a coalition of businesses, government agencies and public health advocacy groups formed in 1995, initiated Ozone Action Days. When ozone pollution reaches dangerous levels, an Ozone Action Day is declared and the coalition distributes information about preventive measures and health risks associated with ozone.

Ozone is a respiratory irritant that can decrease lung function, cause respiratory distress and permanent harm to lung tissue. At particular risk are children and older adults, along with citizens with preexisting lung conditions. These include the 400,000 people with asthma and the 51,000 who suffer from emphysema in the Chicago area and northwest Indiana. According to a report by the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago, 50 percent of all hospital admissions for respiratory ailments are attributable to summer days when ozone levels are at their peak.

"Ozone is linked to increased emergency room visits and premature deaths," says David Cugell, M.D., chairman of the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago's Environmental Health Committee. "For the average citizen, ozone can cause eye irritation and coughing, but for those at risk it can be deadly."

On Ozone Action Days, everyone should try to avoid physical exertion between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., when levels are high. This is especially important for people with preexisting lung and heart conditions, children and the elderly, who should limit all outdoor activities.

During Ozone Action Days, Partners for Clean Air members make major efforts to curb ozone-causing emissions. The public is also urged to get involved because more than half of the emissions that cause ozone come from the actions of average citizens such as driving and the use of some personal products.

The Partners for Clean Air developed a Top 10 List of ozone-reducing activities to encourage people to take voluntary actions, which include carpooling and using public transportation, refueling vehicles after 7 p.m., deferring lawn mowing until late evening, postponing chores that involve oil-based paints and solvents, avoiding household products that release fumes and conserving energy in the home to reduce needs from power plants.

In addition to Ozone Action Days, Partners for Clean Air is sponsoring video public service announcement throughout the summer encouraging Chicago-area residents take simple actions to help reduce air pollution. Partners for Clean Air will also issue a daily air quality report to area weather forecasters, which supplements the Partners' existing air pollution forecasting system.

For daily air pollution levels, call the Air Pollution Hot Line at 708-865-6320 or the Chicago Air Quality Hot Line at 312-744-4365. For more information on becoming a Partner, call the partners for Clean Air at 1-800-451-5983.

On Ozone Action Days, use this list and help reduce your contribution to ozone (smog) formation.

1. Limit driving - rideshare, carpool, walk or bike.
2. Take public transportation.
3. Avoid excessive car idling and jack-rabbit starts.
4. Refuel cars only after 7 p.m.
5. Avoid using gasoline-powered recreational vehicles.
6. Defer lawn mowing gardening chores that use gasoline-powered equipment.
7. Postpone oil-based paint and solvent use.
8. Barbecue with electric starter not fluid starters.
9. Defer use of household consumer products that release fumes or evaporate easily.
10. Conserve energy in your home.

Do it yourself tips for a homeowner

If you're a first-time homeowner, you know that adding that personal touch will transform your house into a family retreat. Whether you're planning to restore a dated kitchen or refinish worn wood floors, free expert advice is yours for the asking. Here are some tips:

A small project that makes a dramatic difference? Wood finishing. If your new house or condominium seems bare, you can easily add warmth with decorative moldings, wainscoting, and wood shutters.

To match the color of a new fiberglass or steel door to existing wood moldings, simply wipe on gel stain. To make it even easier, remove the door from its hinges and lay flat to stain.

Thinking about investing in new kitchen cabinets? First try giving existing cabinets a facelift. Clean all exposed wood surfaces with mineral spirits to remove dirt, wax and grease. Then sand the old finish to give some "tooth" for the new stain and finish to adhere. For a two-tone, decorator look, choose a traditional wood tone for cabinet frames, and a contemporary color decorative stain for door panels. Top with crystal-clear finish. Finally, install hardware to complete the new look.

Save money on furniture by shopping at flea markets and yard sales. With a fresh finish, a second-hand piece can become a beloved treasure. Don't be fooled by a worn surface. Beautiful wood may be hiding under layers of old paint or a dulled finish. Remember, the type of wood will determine how you go about removing it.

If you're not sure of the finish, try the cotton ball test: Touch the wood in an inconspicuous place with a cotton ball dampened with acetone nail polish remover. If the cotton ball sticks or the finish softens, it's varnish, lacquer, or shellac. Use refinisher, which will gently dissolve the finish as it conditions the wood. If there's no effect when you apply the cotton ball, the finish is paint or polyurethane, and a paint remover is needed. Use one especially made for furniture, as opposed to all-purpose strippers, which tend to be harsh and may strip away the wood's rich patina or raise the wood grain.

Doing it yourself will save money and add value to your home.

The little touches that make a house a home can be used to attract potential buyers and entice them to buy, according to Brenda Cude, University of Illinois Extension consumer economics specialist.

A well-maintained, uncluttered home may be just what buyers are looking for.

"It does not necessarily cost a lot of money to make a few cosmetic improvements that will make your home more marketable," Cude said. "Think of the costs as an investment. You are more likely to have better success selling your home if you take the time to spruce it up."

Start by analyzing the outside of your home. Potential buyers who drive down the street will notice the outside first. Consider if the lawn and shrubs are well maintained. Does the driveway need resurfacing? Are the gutters, chimney and walls in good condition? Do the window casings, shutters, siding or doors need painting?

Make sure garbage and other debris are stored out of sight. Little touches, such as flowering plants on the front porch, will add to your yard's appeal. Once inside the home, potential buyers will be attracted to uncluttered, well-lit, fresh-smelling rooms. The first place to start when preparing a home for sale may be to get rid of the clutter. Take items off kitchen counters, eliminate some of the knick-knacks from tables, and clear out many items from closets.

Small home improvements can help make big profits

Hidden places, such as attics and basements can become cluttered, so remove excess items from these areas as well.

Cleaning is essential to attract buyers. Windows, floors and bathroom tiles should sparkle. Give the walls a fresh coat of paint, if needed. Broken or squeaky doors, dripping faucets and other broken items should be repaired before potential buyers enter the home.

Once the clutter is removed, the house is thoroughly cleaned and the repairs are made, add those small finishing touches that set a mood. If you're not sure how to make your house homey, you may want to flip through some home decorator magazines, to find out how they set the stage, Cude suggested.

Items to consider may be fresh flowers and fresh-baked cookies on the table and a throw quilt or afghan thrown over a comfortable chair with an open book nearby. These items evoke emotions and give the home a warm appeal. Also, put fresh guest towels in the bathroom. To make sure the home smells fresh, use scented oil candles on furnace filters.

These cosmetic changes do not have to be expensive or time-consuming, but they can be very effective aids in helping you get the price you are asking for, Cude said.

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois provides educational programs and unbiased research based information to help Illinois residents improve their quality of life, develop skills and solve problems, by "helping you put knowledge to work."

Ask the Home Ranger

Recently, we've noticed less and less water coming out of our bathroom and kitchen faucets. The only plumbing work we recently had done was replacement of a water heater. What can be done?

Glad you mentioned that water heater replacement, because that's probably the culprit. It's possible that some scale in the lines came loose during the installation and found its way to your faucets. So, the first place to check is the spout filters of your faucets...and that's easy to do. A spout filter usually can be removed by hand. If it's on too tight, wrap several layers of paper towels around the filter and use pliers to remove it. More than likely, you'll find the scale collected right there on the filter. Just wash it off and screw it back onto the faucet. If this doesn't solve the problem...well, don't get in over your head. It's time to call in a professional plumbing contractor.

We just had central air conditioning installed and the contractor suggested taking out a service contract. Since our unit is new, is there any benefit to this?

Absolutely...because there's nothing more frustrating than finding out your unit needs repair on the first steaming hot day of the season. With a service contract, you're assured that a trained technician will be out in spring and fall to make sure your total system is in tip-top shape.

Brian's Run X for Breast Cancer Research

More than 2,500 runners, walkers, wheelchair participants and hundreds of families are planning to spend Father's Day morning, Sunday, June 21, taking part in Brian's Run X for Breast Cancer Research. The annual event, initiated by the daughters of the late Chicago Bears running back Brian Piccolo in 1989, raises funds for breast cancer research at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago, as well as the Clearbrook Center for the developmentally disabled in Rolling Meadows.

The 5K Run begins at 8 a.m., with the Youth Mile following at 9:30 a.m., at the intersection of Park Blvd. and Pierce Rd. at the Chancellory (Wyndham Hotel) in Itasca. Entry fees for the run range from $17-$23 and $11 for the Youth Mile.

All participants receive a Brian's Run X T-shirt and are eligible for such prizes as round-trip United Airlines tickets, tickets for the Bears' 1998 regular-season home games and more.

Participants also are encouraged (but not required) to raise pledges in the fund-raising effort: Piccolo 100, a pledge of $100, earns the runner an official Brian's Run hat; Piccolo 250, a pledge of $250, awards the participant an official Brian's Run sweatshirt. The participant who raises the most in pledges wins the grand prize—a three-night stay at the Wyndham Hotel, Palm Springs, with round-trip airfare for two provided by United Airlines.

To prepare for the big race, participants are invited to a carb-load pre-race Pasta Party on Saturday, June 20, from 5-8 p.m. at The Chancellory (Wyndham Hotel), to be attended by Chicago Bears celebrities. Following the race on Father's Day, participants and their families will celebrate at a post-race party with refreshments and music on The Chancellory grounds.

Water Reclamation District earns awards for excellence in wastewater treatment

Commissioner Patricia Young announced today that the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago has received several outstanding awards from the Association of Metropolitan Sewerage Agencies (AMSA) for compliance with operating permits at each of its seven water reclamation plants in Cook County for the year 1997. The awards, called Peak Performance Awards, recognize publicly owned treatment works for excellence in wastewater treatment. The Platinum Award pays special tribute to agencies that have achieved complete and consistent compliance with their operating permits over a period of five consecutive years. Only thirty-five agencies in the nation qualified for this prestigious award.

Commissioner Young said, "The awards from AMSA are evidence of the strong commitment on the part of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District to protect the water environment here in Cook County. Our facilities include the world's largest treatment plant and several facilities that serve highly industrialized areas. These plants operate every day of the year maintaining consistently high marks from regulating agencies. The Board of Commissioners and the professional staff pledge to continue to uphold the highest standards in the field of wastewater treatment."

The Calumet Water Reclamation Plant, located on the South Side of Chicago, and the North Side Water Reclamation Plant in Skokie each received a Platinum Award for complete and consistent compliance with National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permits for five consecutive years.

History of Father's Day

The first Father's Day was observed in 1910 in Spokane. As the third Sunday every June. This year, it falls on June 21.

The "mother" of Father's Day was Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane Washington, who first proposed the idea of a Father's Day celebration in 1909. Mrs. Dodd wanted to honor her father, William Smart, a Civil War veteran. Mr. Smart was widowed when his wife died in childbirth with their third child and he raised the newborn and his other five children by himself.

The first Father's Day was observed in 1910 in Spokane. As about the same time in various towns and cities across America, other people were also beginning to celebrate Father's Day. In 1924, President Calvin Coolidge supported the idea of a national Father's Day. In 1966, President Lyndon Johnson signed a presidential proclamation declaring the third Sunday in June as Father's Day.

Finding an interesting gift to give your father for Father's Day is a tricky task. How many times can you buy your dad another tie, some tools, or a hammock? Contrary to popular belief, men like to receive flowers. A recent survey found that Dads enjoy getting flowers at work from their children. However, they preferred getting floral deliveries at home rather than at the office when sent by their wives or girlfriends. What are some of Dad's favorite blooms? Tropicals. Men seem to think that tropicals aren't too "mushy." One of 1-800-FLOWERS' best sellers around Father's Day is Tropical Paradise. This unique arrangement combines striking tropical blooms in a wicker basket. For beautiful Father's Day arrangements, call 1-800-FLOWERS anytime.

ward off Jordan having to endure the problems Pete Rose has contended with.

When the Bulls lost their first game the coach and several players were whining about the calls from the referee. When the Jazz coach and his players lost the series they never cried "foul" regarding the refereeing and complimented the Bulls on their skills at winning. The Jazz were a stand-up bunch of guys. The Bulls name should be changed to the "Whiners."

Jordan has been promoted by the National Basketball League as a role model, a symbol of clean living and a model family man. Why then do they allow Dennis Rodman to flaunt the most basic rules of civility? Last year the out of control Rodman stood before 250,000 mostly young people in Grant Park and spewed four letter words that made many witnesses cringe with embarrassment.

Since the Bulls management, the sportswriters and the fans have created this monster by cheering him on, we wonder if winning with the dirtiest player in the game is worth the success the Bulls have. Is winning the bottom line? Rodman symbolizes a sad commentary of our society.

Sixty years ago a famous writer, Paul Gallico, wrote "A Farewell To Sports" article, citing the corruption and seedy side to sports, particularly college sports. Gallico retired from sports-writing and became one of our better short story writers.

If Gallico was writing today he would be even more appalled about the role sports play in America, as well as throughout the world. Overseas the quadrennial World Cup soccer matches are always accompanied by riots and subsequent deaths and injuries to many fans. This year before the games began fans were rioting in the streets of Paris. In recent past years English and Scottish fans were in the middle of riots which resulted in the deaths of dozens of fans. In the USA the riots and fires after the Pistons' championships ten years ago, and the Chicago $2-1/2 million dollar riot costs speak reams about sports in the world today.

In America sports are completely out of control. Kevin Garnett was imported from South Carolina to play ball at Chicago's Farragut High School for one year enabling them to win the city championship. One year later he was playing professional ball in Minneapolis for tens of millions of dollars.

Street agents represent grammar school players and sell their services to local high schools outside their school districts. High school and college coaches are given sums up to several hundred thousand dollars to have their kids wear athletic shoes of companies such as Nike, Addida and Reebok. And while thousands of high school players, particularly inner city kids, waste their teen years playing basketball an abnormal number of hours everyday, only 10 or 15 ever reach their goal to play in the National Basketball League.

College and professional sports, which are one and the same, exploit young men and women for the teams' own bottom line. While big-time colleges make millions fielding winning teams, the young people providing the winning are not compensated. Why should the coaches make hundreds of thousands of dollars while the players are not even allowed to work during the season? The kids are being ripped off while the high-minded universities rake in the big bucks.

Why must taxpayers foot the bills for stadiums for free enterprise sports teams? White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf has no more right to expect taxpayers to foot his stadium bills while he profits from their efforts than we would expect residents to subsidize The Bugle.

Our era of abundance includes an abundance of topsy turvey machinations by sports people who manipulate the public and the young athletes for their own private gain. The little guys are being squeezed out of going to sports events and the teens are used and then tossed aside if they don't contribute to the teams' bottom lines.

There is little "sport" left in sports. And the camaraderie and sportsmanship which embodied what sports was supposed to be is no more. Big bucks have taken over....you might say sports have passed the buck.

ed for the purchase was not sufficient to swing the deal.

Pete and Rose Wagner, deceased former owners of the property, left the farm to the Glenview State Bank with the stipulation that it be sold to the highest bidder, with Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, which was founded by an ancestor of the Wagners, as main beneficiary of the sale.

The farm, which includes a barn and several head of Holstein cows, is zoned for three houses per acre. Although their bid was not disclosed, Dartmoor was named high bidder by the bank May 18.

The park district filed a condemnation suit May 22 seeking to invoke the right of eminent domain, which would allow the district to acquire the property at a fair market price as determined by a judge.

William Laytin, Dartmoor executive vice president and general counsel, denied that the firm had defaulted on its agreement and said they were in full compliance with the contract.

Laytin has also indicated Dartmoor's willingness to work out an agreement with the park district to resolve the conflict to the satisfaction of both parties.

though the fire caused more smoke damage than fire damage, according to Park Ridge Fire Chief Ed Dubowski, the wall and floor near the trash can were scorched.

The cause of the fire is still undetermined, but authorities have not linked the incident to the suspected arson fires that have taken place recently in Park Ridge, Niles and the Edison Park neighborhood of Chicago.

the bike path through Miami Woods and noticed an expanse of wooded land that seemed to be overgrown and separated from the forest preserve. He also saw the fenced section where a number of gravestones had been gathered on the rear of the property.

As very little vacant property exists in Morton Grove, Green envisioned the site as a perfect location for senior housing. He immediately researched the status of the property and found it on the tax delinquent rolls. He paid the undisclosed back taxes, "a huge, huge unpaid tax bill," as Green described it, and so acquired title to the property at a tax sale a year or two ago, according to Artf.

Green addressed rabbinical authorities regarding what is acceptable regarding relocation of remains on the site and was informed that he would be able to remove and re-inter any remains that might be found on the site. That is when a group of calling itself the Jewish Genealogical Society stepped in and objected to development of the site.

Green says he has expended a great deal of time, money and energy investigating the site, including metal probing. He says he is sincere in wanting "to do the right thing," and cites precedents in other real estate developments on former burial sites.

"The rules are established," Green said. "If we can show good cause to relocate the remains, the municipality has the authority to approve a petition to relocate."

Green said returning the property to the tax rolls thus supporting Morton Grove schools and other municipal activities, as well as improving the property and preserving the tree line along the perimeter of the site as well as providing much-needed senior housing as good reasons for the village to approve his petition and give the go-ahead to his proposal.

Negotiations with the genealogical group, which Green described as "literally a handful, maybe five people, only one of whom actually lives in Morton Grove," have proved frustrating for Green. "We made no progress at all. There is little momentum," Green said of the results of the May meeting.

Nonetheless, he quoted from the Illinois Code section 65ILCS55/11-51-1 which establishes the right to remove and re-inter remains if the property is in a distressed condition. Green and Artf both said that no burials have taken place in the abandoned cemetery since the 1930s.

Green said residents seem to favor the senior housing development on the location. One woman, a 45-year Morton Grove resident, approached him after the May meeting wanting to "get in on the ground floor" of Miami Woods Place when it is built.

Other neighbors whose property adjoins the overgrown cemetery that Green described as "a rain forest" see an improvement in their property values once the eyesore is removed and replaced by the new development, which will provide studio and one-bedroom rental units for area seniors, Green said.

Green said that the village board conditionally approved the indemnification agreement he presented, but tabled the petition to relocate the remains because of the objections raised by the genealogical group.

"Instead of progressing, everything is regressing," Green said of the negotiations. "I've been working at it almost three years. We've approached it with sensitivity and respect for the dignity of the remains."

No actual graves or remains have been found on the property to date. However, when and if they are, Green said he intends to "relocate and re-inter the remains to the existing (fenced) cemetery or to another cemetery that will accept the remains, but preferably on site."

Green said he is concentrating on finding a way to "reach consensus" with the protesting group so he can go ahead with the project.

Devco Realty has been involved in several developments in Buffalo Grove and Evanston. A few years ago Green's firm took over the Oak Mill Mall which had gone into bankruptcy and turned it around before selling it to the present owner.

"Dr. Hosler's experience, knowledge, insight and leadership skills will undoubtedly help both the Board of Education and the school district as a whole during this transition period," stated Board President Robert Silverman. "Working and sharing information with Dr. Barkavitch, I am confident that Dr. Hosler will be able to help guide District 219 during his time."

Hosler served as District 219's associate superintendent in charge of personnel and other matters for eight years, and was also briefly the interim superintendent in 1994 prior to the hiring of Dr. Markavitch. In addition to serving as principal of Niles North and Niles East high schools, Hosler has held the positions of director of social studies, department chair and teacher of history, sociology, English and political science. While a school administrator, Hosler was involved with many community organizations, such as the Niles Township Drug Task Force, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, United Way, Private Industry Council and others. He was recognized for his dedication to education with an Award of Merit in the State Board of Education's "Those Who Excel" awards program.

Silverman noted that the Board is currently examining the process which will be used in the search for a permanent superintendent.

Summer and Children

Summer is just around the corner and schools will be dismissing. Outdoor activities such as walking, skating and riding bicycles will be very popular, but parents need to remind their children to be alert of traffic and obey all traffic laws. Motorists also need to use caution when approaching areas where children are playing and respect bicyclists and pedestrians who will be sharing the road.

Q. What should parents tell their children about traffic safety?
A. Never run into the street to get a toy or pet. Young children should always play in the yard or on a sidewalk.

Q. How can motorists avoid traffic accidents with children?
A. Slow down in residential areas and look for children playing or riding bicycles on or near the street. When following a child on a bicycle, give the rider plenty of room to maneuver and be prepared for unexpected stops.

Q. Can children legally ride a bike on a sidewalk?
A. Yes. When riding on a sidewalk, however, bicyclists must obey traffic signals at cross walks and yield the right-of-way to pedestrians.

Q. Is the 20 mph school zone speed limit in effect during summer?
A. No. The special 20 mph speed limit is only in effect when school is in session, but motorists should still slow down because many children play at school playgrounds and attend summer school programs.

Q. How can motorists avoid traffic accidents with children?
A. Slow down in residential areas and look for children playing or riding bicycles on or near the street. When following a child on a bicycle, give the rider plenty of room to maneuver and be prepared for unexpected stops.

PETA urges: "Be a watchdog for neglected animals"

Spring may have already sprung, but with temperatures still dipping into the frigid digits, People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) is asking compassionate citizens to remember the less fortunate, forgotten "backyard dogs."

Dogs may be "man's best friend" but we don't always return the favor. Millions of dogs across the country spend their whole lives outside and alone, often with little or no food, water, shelter, or medical care.

"Dogs are pack animals who crave social contact," says PETA cruelty caseworker Jennifer O'Connor. "If we tried to invent the cruelest punishment for dogs, we probably couldn't come up with anything worse than 'solitary confinement' on the end of a chain."

Cold weather spells extra hardship for chained dogs, who can suffer from frostbite, exposure, and dehydration when water bowls freeze. PETA encourages witnesses to get involved. "If you see a neglected dog, report it to authorities," urges O'Connor.

Legion contributes to fireworks cost

In their effort to present the best 4th of July celebration for the village, the Morton Grove American Legion Post #134 has donated $2500 to the fireworks fund.

Traditionally in cooperation with the Morton Grove Days Committee, the village and the park district, the fireworks are presented in Harrer Park, adjacent to the Legion grounds.

Cost keeps increasing each year and the Legion Post delights in assisting so the youngsters may enjoy a safe and happy Independence Day.

They will also participate in the huge parade which is part of this festive weekend.

The annual Krazy Daze Carnival will be held through the 4th of July celebration on the Legion grounds, 6140 Dempster.

flood control, water quality, habitat protection, sustainable landscaping, land management and the enhancement of recreational opportunities. According to one conference organizer, Bill Eyring of the DesPlaines Watershed Team, there have been fifteen floods of increasing intensity along the DesPlaines River over the past sixty years. In 1986 more than 15,000 residents were evacuated and there was over $100 million in damages as the result of flooding in 1986 and 1987.

"Concerned neighbors are often the only hope for these poor animals."

PETA offers these tips to help backyard dogs:
• Educate owners of neglected dogs about proper care. Contact PETA for informational leaflets to distribute.

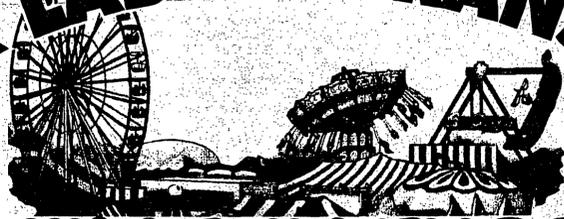

• Call the police and/or humane society as often as needed. (You can request anonymity.) Take photos and keep a diary; record dates and times the dog goes without food, water, and/or shelter. "Complain" about barking dogs. A barking dog is often a lonely, neglected dog.

• Offer to take "forgotten" dogs for walks and visit them regularly.

• Urge your local animal control department to prohibit chaining under existing animal cruelty laws, as the Washington Humane Society, which considers chaining "unnecessary suffering," does. Even better, the cities of Maudelle, Ark., and Tucson, Ariz., have enacted bans on chaining dogs. Urge your town council to do the same.
