Put falling leaves to good use around yard and garden

After Mother Nature provides the seasonal assignment of picking up leaves, many homeowners are faced with the challenge of disposing of them in a way that maximizes their usefulness and minimizes their environmental impact. Here are some creative ways to put those fallen leaves to good use:

- Composting: Leaves make excellent compost material for adding nutrients to your soil.
- Mulching: Use leaves as a natural mulch to retain moisture and suppress weeds in your garden.
- Art: Create leaf collages, pressed leaf prints, or decorate your home with leaf-wreaths.
- Firewood: Leaves can be burned to produce firewood, but be sure to follow local regulations.

Looking to expand your knowledge of horticulture and gardening? Consider enrolling in Oakton's Horticulture and Gardening classes. Stay tuned for more tips on how to enjoy the changing seasons with your lawn and garden.

‘Save A Life Foundation’ grant approved

The Save A Life Foundation, a not-for-profit whose mission is to train children in life-saving skills, has been awarded a $5,000 grant from the Armitage Foundation to help fund a program for children in basic lifesaving skills.

The program is designed to teach children ages 6-12 how to perform CPR, use an AED, and provide basic first aid in case of emergencies.

“The grant will help us reach a larger number of children,” said Save A Life Foundation President, Dr. Stan Zydlo. “It will enable us to expand our reach and ensure that more children are trained in these essential life-saving skills.”

The Save A Life Foundation was founded in 2008 by Dr. Zydlo and other Illinois EMS professionals. The program inculdates children in basic lifesaving skills, with an emphasis on the importance of quick thinking and action in an emergency.

“The program is designed to save lives,” said Dr. Zydlo. “We believe that every child should be trained in basic lifesaving skills so that they can help themselves and others in the event of an emergency.”

The grant will be used to fund the program for children, including materials, training, and other resources needed to carry out the program.

“This grant is a significant step forward in our mission to train children in basic lifesaving skills,” said Dr. Zydlo. “We are grateful to the Armitage Foundation for their support and look forward to serving more children in the future.”

The Save A Life Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to training children in basic lifesaving skills. The organization is supported by donations from individuals, businesses, and organizations.

Consumers can buy cable set-top boxes

By the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), consumers can now buy cable set-top boxes from any provider and use them for any cable service. This new rule also allows cable operators to sell their own set-top boxes to consumers. The FCC believes this will provide consumers with more options and will increase competition in the cable industry.
