From the Left Hand

by Bud Besser

Wordsmiths have made a cliche of Yogi Berra's "It's deja vu all over again." And older readers are fond of quoting F. Scott Fitzgerald who wrote, "There are no second acts in American lives."

Several weeks ago we wanted to write, it is time new people should get involved in the local political scene in Niles. It's been 40 years since we were part of a mini-political revolution which turned Niles around. Forty years later we thought it might be time to repeat the 1961 experience by bringing new and younger people into Niles government.

We though Yogi's "deja vu" might describe another political revolution in Niles. But then we thought of Fitzgerald's "no second acts in American lives" and we knew another rebirth in Niles

Niles likely to sell unused Trident Center

by Rosemary Tirio

The Niles Board of Trustees will consider selling the Trident Center this year mainly because both the Senior Center and the Family Services Department were moved to the new Family Fitness Center building next to the Village Hall, according to Village Manager Abe Selman.

Although the fate of the Trident Center has not yet been officially disucssed, Selman said the village would not hold on to an empty building unless something useful can be put there. Leasing the property is also not likely, Selman said.

If no use can be found for the building, it will be sold and put back on the tax rolls, Selman said. The village would also derive revenue from the sale of the building, Selman said.

Morton Grove Public Hearing Notice

The Village Board of Trustees has scheduled a formal public hearing for 7:30 p.m. on Monday, February 22, in the council chambers of the Richard T. Flickinger Municipal Center, 6101 Capulina Avenue, Morton Grove. To discuss amending the Intergovernmental Agreement between the Village and the Cook County Forest Preserve District regarding an extension of time to complete rock spoil removal operations as approved by Village Ordinance 93-30; the possible retention of the haul road for use as a Village street will also be discussed.

Candidates list for Niles spring election April 13

by Rosemary Tirio

The petitions are in, the applications are filed and the candidates are lining up for the upcoming April 13 election.

The following is a comprehensive list of the candidates Niles residents will find on their ballots when they go to their polling places to cast their votes.

Candidates for the three 4-year Village Trustee terms are Tom Bondi, James Mahoney and Bart Murphy.

Running for two 4-year terms on the Niles Library Board are Irene Costello and Jack Sugar.

Four candidates will run for the two 4-year terms open in the Niles Park District: Walter

Possible plan calls for 100 senior units; Facility would provide assisted living to residents

Senior housing proposed for South School site

by Rosemary Tirio

The fate of the now-unused Niles Elementary School (South) building was discussed at great length at two town hall meetings Feb. 2 and Feb. 6, but nothing definite has yet been decided.

At issue was the proposal of Alter+Care to tear down the existing school building and construct an assisted living senior facility on the site after the district enters a 50-year lease with the developers.

If Dist. 71 officials approve the proposal, they will have to obtain a waiver from the state on the number of years the property can be leased (school districts are limited to 25-year leases of school property under the present law).

Because the property is currently zoned for a public school a zoning change would have to be granted by the Village of Niles before the senior facility could be built on the property.

The village would also be involved in regulating demolition and other areas of constuction, said John Driscoll, president of Alter+Care.

Driscoll answered residents' concerns about the village's willingness to permit the proposed use of the site by disclosing that he had already had some informal discussions during which village officials were receptive to the idea.

Dist. Supt. Eugene Zalewski quelled fears expressed by some parents and residents who attend-

Former Maine committeeman Phil Raffe dies in Florida

The four grandchildren of Phil Raffe, former Maine Township Republican Committeeman, euologized their grandfather at funeral services held in Wilmette Jan. 27.

Mr. Raffe, a former longtime Niles resident, passed away in a Hallandale, Florida, hospital near his retirement home. He was 73.

In addition to his service as Republican Ward Committeeman, Mr. Raffe was also Maine Township Clerk and a member of the Regional Transportation Authority Board.

Mr. Raffe, who was born on the West Side of Chicago, served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He later went into the meat business and owned a wholesale meat company.

Mr. Raffe is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, four grandchildren and a sister.

Officer Tornabene receives Distinguished Duty Declaration

Officer Robert Tornabene was presented with a Distinguished Duty Declaration at the January Village Board Meeting. He was chosen as the 1998 Midwest Gang Investigator of the Year by the Midwest Gang Investigators Association. Officer Tornabene has developed a Gang Awareness Training Education program which he presents to the 7th graders of local elementary schools. Pictured (left to right) are Trustee James Mahoney, Police Chief Ray Giovannelli, Officer Tornabene, Mayor Nicholas B. Blase, and Trustees Tom Bondi and Bart Murphy.

European Imports to hold spring events

by Rosemary Tirio

Move over Beany Babies and make room on the shelf for some real collectibles.

Walt Disney enthusiasts will be excited to learn that European Imports at Oak Mill Mall, 7900 Milwaukee Ave., Niles, will hold a special one-day-only sale of the new spring Disney release: "Dancing Partners," an exquisite handmade and hand-painted porcelain figurine of Dopey and Sneezy, right out of the 1937 Snow White movie.

The dwarves, paired in an eight-inch tall sculpture titled "Dancing Partners," will be available at European Imports from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 20, for a remarkable $150.

"The special event piece was made in a very small amount," said European Imports owner Eddie Delgau, "but we have a good supply."

After Feb. 20, no more "Dancing Partners" will be made or sold. Collectors will have to resort to the much more expensive secondary market to obtain one.

Disney has produced about a dozen series of figurines based on scenes from the classic animated films; three series featuring Mickey Mouse, three Donald Duck series, Three Pigs, Cinderella, Tinkerbell and Little Mermaid series among them.

All the classic series figures recreate the movie scenes they're based on, especially in exact color duplication. "The pieces are really perfectly done," Delgau said.

What makes the Classic Series figurines so valuable and collectible is the fact that they are produced for one year only, beginning on Jan. 1 and continuing through Dec 31. Then the molds are broken and no more of that particular figurine will ever be made. The only way collectors can obtain them after that is through the secondary market, i.e., from other collectors.

Delgau said European Imports, which handles over 70,000 different items, is the largest Disney Classic Collections store in the U.S. where there are about 2,200 dealers selling the Hummel quality figurines. Throughout the world, Delgau estimates there are only about 3,500 Disney Series distributors.

Delgau said that when Disney first started producing the tiny replicas of the beloved characters featured in the animated classics in 1994, they first intended to have them made by Hummel artists in Germany.

The cost of Hummel-made figures (a minimum of about $400 each) would have been prohibitive for most U.S. collectors. So, Disney hired some Hummel artists and sent them to Thailand where they taught Thai artists the Hummel techniques.

The statues must be assembled, fired, painted and fired again--and all is done by hand. "It takes a lot of skillful artists to produce a gorgeous figurine like the Walt Disney Classics," Delgau said.

That is why the $150 pricetag on the "Dancing Partners" release is so reasonable, Delgau said. In May, the Snow White in rags and Prince Charming figurines will be available, and European Imports will be among the first dealers to have them. They also have a large collection of the already released series, including Snow White in a yellow dress, her house, all seven dwarves and the wishing well, Delgau said.

Of course, one of the most important aspects of collecting is the appreciation in value. Delgau said that one relatively inexpensive Disney figurine that sold originally for $165 just a few years ago is now worth over $1,000.

During the one-day four-hour limited sale of "Dancing Partners" a Disney Cinderella and Prince Charming wedding cake topper and a Ratko glass ornament made in Poland will be raffled.

The following week on Saturday, Feb. 27, European Imports will host another very special one-day event: Bette, the Cherished Teddies 1999 Adoption Center Exclusive Event Figurine, will be sold for just $19.95 at the 600 adoption centers throughout the country. Although there are about 6,000 shops selling the Cherished Teddies in the U.S., only 600, European Imports among them, are official adoption centers.

The two-inch ceramic figurine was produced exclusively for the very limited one-day event that will be held only at the 600 adoption centers, Delgau said.

Although not as pricey as the Disney Classics Series figures, Cherished Teddies also appreciate in value. One that sold for about $10 four years ago now commands over $200 in the secondary market, Delgau said.

Cherished Teddies are made by Enesco, the world's largest giftware manufacturer and maker of the Precious Moments figurines.

Niles Park District employee celebrates 25th anniversary

The Niles Park District is pleased to announce that Joan Demming, Bookkeeper, celebrated her 25th anniversary on January 16, 1999. Demming has experienced a variety of changes during her 25 years as an employee of the Niles Park District. She started at the District on January 16, 1974 as a receptionist in the 7877 Milwaukee Administration Office. In 1979, Demming was transferred to the Finance Department. She recalls that at that time all accounting procedures were done manually. Checks were hand-typed and all reports were typed on stencils. The only copy machine was a wet copier. There were no plain paper copiers and fax machines were unheard of at the time. The first computer system was installed back in 1984.

Demming has seen many improvements in the last 25 years such as O'Shanter's Restaurant & Clubhouse, Oasis and Iceland Pools, Grennan Heights, Iceland and most recently Pioneer Park.

Since 1996, the Niles Park District Finance, Administration and Recreation Departments have been located at the Howard Leisure Center, 6676 W. Howard Street. Demming has enjoyed working with a variety of Directors and Board of Commissioners over the past 25 years. She currently works with Executive Director Joseph LoVerde and Finance Director Tom Elenz.

St. John Brebeuf registration & open house

St. John Brebeuf School will accept new family registrations for its preschool, kindergarten and grades one to eight for the 1999-2000 school year on Sunday, February 21 from 10 a.m to 1 p.m. The school is located at 8301 N. Harlem Avenue in Niles. Open House will be held in the preschool and kindergarten. Families will be able to visit the classrooms, learn about the curriculum and meet the teachers and parents of current students.

Early childhood education consists of full-day or half-day (AM only) kindergarten, and preschool programs of three half-days a week (T, TH, F) for four year olds and a two half-days a week (M,W) for three year olds. Children must be five years old by September 1 for kindergarten and three or four years old by September 1 for the respective preschool classes.

Parent/guardians need to bring copies of the child's children's birth and baptismal certificates and a copy of the latest report card for children in grades one to eight. Please call the school (847) 966-3266) for information concerning tuition and fees.

Fire Department Winter Tips

Cold weather puts a strain on your heart, even without exercise. Be careful when shoveling snow, pushing a car, or performing other tasks. Regardless of your age or physical condition, avoid over exertion in the winter.

Frostbite is a severe reaction to cold exposure of the skin. If the individual has a pale appearance and experiences a loss of feeling, seek medical help. Hypothermia is a condition brought on when the body temperature drops to less than 95°F. Symptoms include slow or slurred speech, disorientation, drowsiness, and apparent exhaustion. Seek medical attention immediately. Do Not give the person alcohol, drugs, coffee, or any hot beverage or food.

Watchdog group digs up secret plan to expand O'Hare

by Rosemary Tirio

A suburban airport watchdog group has charged Chicago with harboring secret plans for a massive expansion of O'Hare Airport and has won a Supreme Court verdict ordering Chicago officials to turn over to DuPage County officials 60,000 pages of documents to the .

Suburban O'Hare Commission attorney Joe Karaganis charged Dec. 31 that the city was still withholding documents proving that airport officials are planning expansion of the terminals, roads and runways.

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled Dec. 17 that the city had no right to withhold the documents City officials, invoking the privilege of government agencies to hide evidence of wrongdoing because "exposure would chill candid conversation by government employees," had withheld the incriminating documents. The state Supremen Court, however, ruled that there is no such privilege in Illinois.

Later, on Jan. 6, Chicago officials tried to invoke a different privilege in the DuPage Circuit Court, but again were shot down when the court which ruled that the city had waived its rights to any other privileges.

Karaganis said he unearthed a 40-year-old statue that has been "buried and ignored until we found it. The statue stipulates that any alteration of airport facilities must first be approved by the state.

"Since 1992, there have been $2 billion worth of alternations [to the airport] without permission from the state of Illinois," Karaganis said. "It would be like building 10 Sears Towers in Niles without ever getting a building permit," he added.

Karaganis charges that airport officials knew about the statute but didn't want any investigative bodies to find out about it

Karaganis said he has received many additional documents, "but we're still not finished," he said. While he is not disclosing his findings as yet, he did find evidence to support charges of a "secret plan they [O'Hare officials] had for dramatic expansion of O'Hare," Karaganis said

Karaganis said he will seek an injunction stopping airport officials from initiating any airport expansion, construction or alterations without first seeking permission from the state.

"We have a governor who says he's not going to permit expansion at O'Hare," Karaganis concluded.

Karaganis represents Elmhurst, Bensenville, Woodale and all of DuPage County.

Vehicle Sticker Design contest winner announced

The Village of Niles is pleased to present the winner of the Centennial Vehicle Sticker Design Contest. Miss Kerri Aitken, Nelson School, grade 6, was selected as the winner! The design was based on its creativity, presentation, and neatness in response to the Village's Centennial Celebration. Miss Aitken will have her design featured as the 1999-2000 Village Vehicle sticker. Plus, she will be honored by the Mayor and Board of Trustees at the April 27, 1999 Village Board Meeting.

Potholes cause few problems: Noriega

Public Works Director Jun Noriega said his crews are winning this year's battle against potholes.

Pothole repair crews are out every day filling the perennial post-snowstorm problem, Noriega said. Although he admits this year's weather has caused more potholes than usual, he his crews were on the filling-up detail immediately after the snow was cleared.

In addition, preventive measures taken in the summer, such as widespread crack-sealing, also help combat the pesky wintertime problem, Noriega said.

East Maine School District to meet

A meeting of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education of East Maine School District No. 63, Cook County, Illinois will be held on: Tuesday, February 23, 1999 at 6:30 p.m. in the Dr. Donald C. Stetina Educational Service Center located at 10150 Dee Road, DesPlaines, Illinois.

This meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing financial matters.

East Maine Caucus endorses candidates

The East Maine Township General Caucus endorsed three candidates running for the Dist. 63 school board at its Jan. 27 nominating meeting:

• Nonincumbent John Jekot of Niles, a Niles Park District employee who is president of the Optimist Club in that community. He has been active in youth programs associated with the park district and St. John Brebeuf Parish.

• Incumbent Mary Pat Jordan of Morton Grove, a former principal of Hynes School in Morton Grove who now runs a home improvement business. Jordan was elected as a write-in candidate for a two-year unexpired term in 1997.

• Sonja Witschonke-Mess of Glenview, a radiographer at Ravenswood Hospital who has been active with the PTAs of Washington School and Gemini Junior High.

No candidates applied to the East Maine caucus for endorsement for the Maine Township High School Dist. 207 board, so the caucus made no endorsement in that race. (One potential candidate for that board appeared at the caucus meeting, but chose not to address the group.)

School board elections have been moved up to April to coincide with municipal and park board elections. The candidates elected in April will not begin their terms until November, to allow board members elected in November 1995 to fill out their terms.

Niles resident honored for volunteer work

Emma Condl, left, of Niles receives a certificate of recognition for her volunteer work with Village of Niles Senior Center from Diane Slezak, Deputy Director of the Suburban Area Agency on Aging.

Emma Condl of Niles was honored for her distinguished volunteer work during the 24th Annual Volunteer Recognition luncheon sponsored by the Suburban Area Agency on Aging of Oak Park. She was nominated by Village of Niles Senior Center.

During the award ceremonies held in November before a gathering of 160 community leaders and senior service professionals, the Area Agency praised Ms. Condl for her "work as a volunteer exercise instructor who also helps homebound seniors with Medicare issues."

The Suburban Area Agency on Aging is one of 13 agencies in Illinois designated by the Illinois Department on Aging to advocate, plan, coordinate and fund services for people over age 60. In its Fiscal Year 1998, the Area Agency distributed nearly $9,000,000 to more than 30 local community agencies to provide services for older persons in suburban Cook County. Services, which include home delivered meals, housekeeping help and transportation assistance are supported by the Older Americans Act, Illinois general revenue funds and individual contributions. For information about volunteering opportunities in the suburban Cook County network of senior service agencies, or for information about any issue concerning older persons in suburban Cook County, contact the Area Agency at (800) 699-9043.

Women's health services targeted for gala funds

In recent years healthcare has witnessed an important national shift toward the unique health needs of women. Holy Family Medical Center's 13th Annual Gala, to be held Saturday, March 27, at the Rosemont Convention Center, will benefit Holy Family's women's health programs and services, including their New Beginnings Maternity Program, providing pre- and post-natal care for women regardless of their financial neds.

This year's Gala, "It Don't Mean a Thing If You Ain't Got That Swing," will sweep guests into the vibrance, charisma and unbounded energy of the 1930s and '40s swing era. On tap for entertainment will be "Big City Swing" dance ensemble, performing and teaching guests how to swing, slide and spin across the floor to the percussive jazz and blues of the acclaimed Gentlemen of Leisure.

Holy Family provides comprehensive health services for women of all ages including physician specialists, advanced diagnostic testing, osteoporosis screening, support groups and preventive services. Funds raised will help further Holy Family's 38-year commitment to meeting the unique health needs of women.

Tickets are on sale now for $250 per person. The event is black tie preferrd or period dress. For more information, or to purchase tickets, call Holy Family Medical Center's Development Office at 847-297-1800, ext. 1718.

Holy Family Medical Center's Women's Board was established in 1982 to further the community service mission of the Medical Center and to support new and existing Holy Family prgrams and services through fundraising activities. The 100-member Women's Board consists of Medical Center staff physicians' wives, community members and female Medical Center physicians.

Holy Family Medical Center is a not-for-profit community healthcare facility accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations. The Medical Center, located on the corner of Golf and River Roads in Des Plaines, is a Level II Trauma Center and a member of the Rush System for Health.

Wysocki sisters named to GLVC all-academic team

Maine East High School junior Kinga Wysocki and her sister, sophomore Sawa Wysocki, Des Plaines, of the Lewis University women's tennis team are among 42 Flyer student athletes recently named to the Great Lakes Valley Conference All-Academic Team for fall sports.

Kinga Wysocki made the team for the second time, while Sawa Wysocki is a first-time honoree.

To re selected All-Academic, a student athlete must be a starter or important reserve on his/her team. Freshmen and first-semester transfers must earn a 3.20 grade-point average (4.0 scale), while student athletes who have completed two or more semesters at their institution must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 or a GPA of 3.25 or better for two successive semesters.

Interfaith Housing Center in Northern Suburbs

Interfaith Housing Center of the Northern Suburbs (Interfaith) recently received a grant from the Chicago Foundation for Women in the amount of $4,000 to expand their Homesharing Program. Interfaith is a fair housing agency whose overall mission is to help develop inclusive and diverse communities in the north suburban Chicago area.

In the northern suburbs, there are many older, frequently single women living on low incomes, who find it increasingly difficult to afford housing. Interfaith is expanding its Homesharing Program to include single women with children. The program assists women in seeking affordable housing by matching them with home providers, primarily older women who wish to remain in their homes and communities. Arrangements can involve sharing living expenses, chores, or companionships with maintaining the independence of the individuals. Homesharing for older persons can be an alternative to assisted living or retirement homes, while at the same time providing additional units of affordable housing by utilizing existing housing stock.

Chicago Foundation for Women (CFW) is a nonprofit, public grant-making foundation dedicated to increasing resources, expanding opportunities and promoting positive social change for women and girls. CFW raises funds to provide grants for programs such as the Homesharing Program offered by Interfaith Housing Center of the Northern Suburbs. CFW also advocates that others increase their giving and develops both men and women as philanthropists for women and girls. Chicago Foundation for Women is one of the largest women's regional funds in North America.

This recent round of grants has raised the Foundation's total giving amount to nearly $6 million in just over one decade of grant-making. The twice-yearly grants are targeted primarily to projects serving low-income and minority women, providing opportunities and promoting solutions that move their lives and the lives of their families forward.

For information on applying for a grant from the Chicago Foundation for Women, or on how to give, call (312) 266-1176.

Motorcycle ride for women to kick off activity day

The Field Museum will celebrate Women's History Month in March by highlighting the growing appeal of motorcycling among women. The Museum is showing the exhibition, The Art of the Motorcycle, through March 21.

A Women's Motorcycle Ride on Saturday, March 6 will kick off a series of Field Museum events that day. The ride will begin at the Billy Goat Tavern, 1535 West Madison (corner of Madison and Ogden) and will end at the Field Museum. Registration for the ride will begin at 7 a.m. March 6; the line up time is scheduled for 8 a.m.; and the first bike will head out at 8:15. Tickets are $16 in advance or $20 the day of the ride. Ticket price includes admission to The Art of The Motorcycle exhibition.

The theme of women and motorcycles will continue during Activity Day: Biking Together, which will be held from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m., March 6 at The Field Museum. The activity day will feature lectures and films. Interactive theater pieces in which visitors are invited to design a miniature motorcycle or take an imaginary motorcycle journey will also be featured during the day. All activities are free with Museum admission.

Highlights include the following lectures:

11:30 a.m. - Kim Barlag, associate editor of American Motorcyclist Magazine, will give a lecture detailing the accomplishments of women involved in early transcontinental motorcycle rides, those women who formed women's riding clubs such as the Motormaids, and those who ride today.

12:30 p.m. - Susie Hollern, a writer and motorcyclist, will discuss "Women and Motorcycles: The Early Years." The lecture/video presentation will present the adventures of women riders in their own words.

1:30 p.m. - Dr. Rebecca Hunter, President of Conspicuity Inc., a supplier of products to the motorcycle industry, will discuss the contribution that motorcycle safety pioneer Marjie Jennings made to motorcycling.

Films to be shown during the March 6 activity day include:

11 a.m. - Sturgis '90. A rough and tumble documentary of the annual bikers' rally in Sturgis, North Dakota. (120 minutes).

3 p.m. - Easy Wheels. She-Wolf and her gang hatch a plot to take back the world from the guys in this freewheeling parody. (94 minutes).

On Sunday, March 7, the Museum will also show the following films as part of its Zoom In!! Motorcycles in the Movies film series:

1 p.m. - Quadrophenia -- The high energy drama of the British rock scene in the 1960s with the clash of the Mods and the Rockers set to the music of The Who. (115 minutes).

3 p.m. - If... -- A film which examines the dark underbelly of British society through the eyes and actions of rebellious boarding school students. (111 minutes).

Maine East Circus Club

First semester was busy for Circus Club members at Maine East. The group performed at the Homecoming Firelight Rally and in V-show, and it looks like the start of second semester will also be hectic. The group -- led by (from left) Michelle Beauvoir of Des Plaines/secretary, Lisa Summerhill of Niles/president, Paula Anantzoutzoulas of Niles/costumes chairman, Lauren Schultz of Niles/treasurer, and (not pictured) Jeff Tackes of Niles/vice-president -- has scheduled a program of tumbling, unicycling, and stilt-walking for Gemini eighth graders on Wednesday, February 24. Prior to performances, practices are held daily so members can work on a variety of tumbling and vaulting skills along with juggling acts, riding a unicycle and walking on stilts. Circus Club is "for fun, good experiences, self-confidence, and learning to perform skills."

Internet help at Lincolnwood Library

Help is at hand at the Lincolnwood Public Library about how to use the Internet in the form of individual tutorials. The adult services staff has prepared a simple, free, 6-page World Wide Web Tutorial handbook for neophytes, which gives the basic steps to finding informtion on the Internet, explains the toolbar and highlights some useful features of the main menu.

It has a glossary of basic terms, explains a Web page, gives search procedures and hints, describes search engines and commands and provides a list of web directories. It also offers these consoling words to new users: "Searching the Web can be frustrating when you come across messages, such as, 'Unknown Host' or 'Failed to Parse.' Don't get discouraged, everyone encounters them."

Lincolnwood cardholders who want a one-to-one free lesson should call the Adult Services department to make an appointment. The best days are Tuesdays and Thursdays. The library is located at 4000 W. Pratt Ave., phone 847/677-5277.

Book Discussion Group at the MG Library

Thinking Out Loud, the Library's book discussion group, will meet Tuesday, Feb. 23 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. to discuss Under the Tuscan Sun: At Home in Italy by Frances Mayes. Would you rather be in the gorgeous Italian countryside in February instead of in cold Chicago? In this memoir about buying, renovating and living in an abandoned villa in Tuscany, Mayes reveals the sensual pleasure she found in the simple lifestyle of rural Italy. Cooking, gardening and painting are not chores but rather skills to be practiced and enjoyed. Mayes gives a literary and intellectual account of her rural idyll. This book discussion is free and open to everyone.

The Morton Grove Public Library is located at 6140 Lincoln Ave. For more information or for mobility and communication access assistance, call (847) 965-4220, TDD 965-4236.

Clothesline Project displayed at West

Juniors and seniors at Niles West High School faced the grim reality of the topic of violence against women. Over 100 decorated T-shirts, created by survivors of violence, were displayed on a huge clothesline during a seminar presented by the North Shore Center Against Sexual Assault (CASA). Dena Lichterman, Prevention Coordinator for North Shore CASA, addressed the students about the issue of sexual violence against boys as well as girls. She shared the history of the agency and explained the numerous free services available to the public, including a 24-hour crisis line.

The T-shirts all reflected personal experiences involving violence. Some displayed a message to the victim's attacker. Others, created by a friend or family member, memorialized a woman who had been killed. After Ms. Lichterman's discussion, the students were permitted to approach the powerful display and read all of the decorated shirts. The intense messages expressed many emotions including sadness, shame, hurt, anger, and hope. According to Ms. Lichterman, "The purpose of taking this display to schools in Cook County is to help others gain some understanding of what a victim goes through."

Dena Lichterman (right) Prevention Coordinator for North Shore CASA, and Joyce VanAlstin, Niles West Health & Physical Education teacher (left), read the heartfelt messages of survivors of violence. The Clothesline Display was part of a year-long program at Niles West focusing on RESPECT.

This presentation was scheduled by the high school as part of a year-long effort of monthly activities and events focusing on the issue of RESPECT. Niles West began the 1998-'99 school year by holding a highly successful Respect Summit highlighting Respect for Self, Respect for Others, Respect for the Community, and Respect for the Environment.

Res students receive National Science Merit Awards

Ten seniors and two juniors from Resurrection High School, 7500 W. Talcott, received the National Science Merit Award in Physics: Tracy Bucholz, Joyce Chau, Jolena Covelli, Kristen Greene, Beata Karwowski, Elizabeth Laske, Liss Palamkunnel, Natasha Polimenakos, Julia Socke, Karolina Stadnicki, Mary Welk, and Jill Wickery.

Requirements for the award include the academic excellence in physics: leadership abilities, exemplary character and a genuine interest in pursuing a scientific career. Physics teacher Mark Choi also nominated students based upon their creativity in problem solving and participation in class.

LGH Children's Hospital hosts free lecture series on children's health

Lutheran General Children's Hospital, Park Ridge, has scheduled a free nine-part lecture series featuring presentations and discussions led by children's hospital pediatric specialists and health care professionals.

The children's health issues series will be presented in the Olson Auditorium at Lutheran General Hospital. Registration is required for each of the 7 to 8:30 p.m. programs. To sign up, call 1-800-3-ADVOCATE (1-800-323-8622).

The series opens Tuesday, February 23, with "The Joy Filled Child ... Spirituality and Children." Antoinette Saunders, Ph.D., clinical child psychologist, will present this nondenominational program that will center on ways to help children feel better about themselves and connect with their inner spirits. Practical strategies will be discussed including helping children recognize their talents, practice traditions, share their feelings and dreams, care for others, enjoy nature and use their imaginations.

On Thursday, March 18, the topic will be "The Dangers of Antibiotics and Children." Prudence Krieger, M.D., director, pediatric infectious disease, Lutheran General Children's Hospital, will discuss the growing resistance of bacteria to common antibiotics, and situations when the use of antibiotics are not appropriate.

"Child's Play: Choosing the Right Toys and Activities for Every Child" will be the focus of the Thursday, April 22, program featuring Grace O'Connor, Lutheran General Lekotek Center; Maureen Lenke, occupational therapist, and Colleen Curle, speech pathologist, Lutheran General Children's Hospital. This session will help parents and educators choose appropriate toys and activities to enhance children's development. Information will be provided about the selection and use of toys and activities to enhance children's fine and gross motor skills, speech and language. Ways to adapt toys for children with special needs also will be discussed.

On Tuesday, May 18, "Non-Traditional Medicine: Is It Appropriate for Children?" will be discussed by Youngran Chung, M.D., medical acupuncturist, director, pediatric pulmonology and co-director, Cystic Fibrosis Center, Lutheran General Children's Hospital; and R. Charles Dumont, M.D., medical acupuncturist, Ohio State Children's Hospital. Various types of alternative medicine and their use in children will highlight this presentation, along with a special emphasis on the use of medical acupuncture in children.

"Preventing and Stopping Teen Smoking" will be addressed Tuesday, June 8, by Garry Sigman, M.D., director, adolescent medicine, Lutheran General Children's Hospital. The discussion will center on parents' roles in the prevention of smoking, a review of the health risks of smoking, and an update on smoking cessation techniques. Teens are welcome to attend.

Lauren Witcoff, M.D., director, inpatient pediatrics and pediatric pulmonologist, and Richard Pervos, M.D., pediatrician, Lutheran General Children's Hospital, will present "Getting Your Child to Sleep Through the Night" on Tuesday, July 27. This talk will review ways to get children to sleep through the night, and sleep abnormalities in children.

The series continues Tuesday, September 28, with "Successful Approaches to Toilet Training in Children." T.S. Gunasekaran, M.D., director, pediatric endoscopic and motility services, and Richard Kaplan, M.D., director, pediatric nephrology and hypertension, Lutheran General Children's Hospital, will present helpful ways to deal with toilet-training, bed wetting and constipation in children.

On Wednesday, October 20, the topic will be "Managing Ear Infections in Children: What Can You Do?" David Walner, M.D., otolaryngologist, and Georgette Schroeder, audiologist, Lutheran General Children's Hospital, will discuss current treatment options for recurrent or chronic ear infections in children, including ear tube placement and antibiotic use. Hearing loss associated with ear infections also will be addressed.

The children's health issues lecture series will conclude Tuesday, November 2, with "Honoring the Children." Speakers Marjorie Getz, Ph.D., educational consultant/diagnostician; Andrea Shelton, educational consultant/diagnostician; and Ingrid Thompson, RN, Lutheran General Children's Hospital, will put a new spin on discipline, stressing mutual respect and ways parents can experience discipline by honoring their children. Strategies will be discussed that are known to be effective with typically developing children, as well as youngsters with special needs.

The Victor Yacktman Children's Pavilion of Lutheran General Children's Hospital houses pediatric outpatient services including more than 20 specialty clinics for children with complex illnesses and chronic conditions, and one of the largest centers in the state for children with developmental disabilities and delays.

Recovered firearm

An 18-year-old Niles man observed a sawed off 12 gauge shotgun in a dumpster in the rear of his apartment building in the 8200 block of Elizabeth around 8 a.m. Feb. 5. He transported the weapon to the Niles Police Department where he turned it over to police for processing and inventorying. The leads were checked but proved negative.

Theft

A 33-year-old Chicago mechanic who was employed by an auto supply store in the 5600 block of Touhy and who will return to his job there in the spring discovered that unknown person (s) had removed tools valued at $1,585 from his locked toolbox sometime between June of 1998 and 5 a.m. Feb. 5. Police are investigating the disappearance of the tools. It is unknown whether a key or force was used to gain entry to the toolbox.

Deceptive practice

A 31-year-old engineer from Chicago was charged with a deceptive practice and given a $1,000 bond and a Feb. 23 court date when the security agent of a retail store at 400 Golf Mill Center approached him around 1:45 p.m. Feb. 6 as he was writing a check on an account that had been closed Sept. 17, 1998. Store personnel were on the lookout for the offender after he wrote a check on the closed account at the store Feb. 1 and used it to pay for $962.67 worth of merchandise.

Deceptive practice

An unknown male described as 30 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches tall with a scar on his forehead and driving a gray 1995 Nissan Pathfinder presented a bogus check in the amount of $3,023.14 at the bank in the 7800 block of Milwaukee Avenue around 12:49 p.m. Jan. 30. The offender signed the back of the check, and it was cashed. It was later found to be forged.

The same offender had attempted to cash a check in the amount of $2,167.78 Feb. 1 but was refused as there was a hold on the account and the offender left the bank. A videotape of the incidents and the checks have been inventoried by Niles police who are conducting an investigation.

Burglary

The 33-year-old daughter of a 59-year-old Niles woman found the rear door of their residence open when she returned around 1:15 p.m. Feb. 8. Brute force was used to force the door damaging the jamb and the locks. Three bedrooms were ransacked, and a video recorder, an unknown amount of jewelry and cash were removed. The offender(s) exited via the rear door. A canvass of the neighborhood proved negative, but police are investigating evidence found at the scene.

Theft

The co-manager of a supermarket in the 7900 block of Milwaukee Avenue observed an unknown tan station wagon with wood grain sides in beater condition driven by an unknown man in his 30s with dark hair and an olive complexion around 4:45 p.m. Feb. 8. In the vehicle were five wooden store pallets. The described vehicle was observed before in several ongoing pallet-related thefts. The vehicle fled southbound onto Milwaukee Avenue. The complainant will sign criminal complaints when the offender(s) are apprehended.

The manager of a retail store in the 8700 block of Dempster Street reported that a 28-year-old male employee from Chicago confessed to removing $120 from the store safe around 9:30 a.m. Feb. 8 and gave the complainant a written statement to that effect. According to store policy, charges were filed around 4:28 p.m. Feb. 10.

Retail Theft

The manager of a retail store in the 8600 block of Dempster Street reported observing an unknown man described as 30 years of age, weighing 250 pounds and 5 feet 8 inches tall in the area of the exit door around 3:35 p.m. Feb. 10. When he was told that he must pass through the check out line, the offender ran from the store with a radio valued at between $100 and $150 and entered a maroon Ford Tempo, which then fled westbound on Dempster Street.

The complainant obtained the car's license plate which was traced to a 1989 Mercury at a Chicago address. Police are conducting a follow-up investigation of the incident.

Theft of purses

Two Mt. Prospect women, ages 58 and 54, reported that unknown person(s) removed their purses from table 28 in a banquet hall in the 7700 block of Milwaukee Avenue sometime between 11:15 p.m. Feb. 6 and 12:01 a.m. Feb. 7. The 58-year-old woman's black leather purse valued at $50 and containing $12 cash and a gift certificate valued at $290 was removed from the table. The 54-year-old woman's white pearly purse valued at $100 and containing a compact valued at $25 was removed.

Theft by deception

The general sales manager of the auto dealership in the 6200 block of Touhy Avenue reported that a man purchased a Ford Explorer April 9, 1998 using the name and address of an Evanston resident and producing several forms of identification bearing the name of that person. It was later discovered that no payments were being made on the described vehicle and investigation revealed that the information provided by the offender was fraudulent.

An unknown male suspect purchased a 1998 Ford Expedition April 10, 1998 using the name of Chicago man and a traffic ticket issued by the Chicago Police Department and a paystub bearing the same name as identification. It was later discovered that no payments were being made on the described vehicle, and investigation revealed that the application for the vehicle loan was fraudulent.

An unknown man purchased a 1992 Honda Civic Jan. 16, 1998, using the name of a Chicago resident and producing several forms of identification in that name. It was later discovered that no payments were being made on the vehicle, and investigation revealed that the application for the vehicle loan was fraudulent.

Lost or stolen auto

The sales manager of the car dealership in the 9400 block of Milwaukee Avenue reported that 10 vehicles taken in by the dealership as trade-ins between Dec. of 1998 and Feb. 10 were discovered missing. The vehicles were to have been towed to an east side fenced area. The missing vehicles are a 1998 Oldsmobile, a 1994 Chevrolet Cavalier, a 1986 Pontiac Grand Am, a 1984 Plymouth Conquest, a 1981 Volkswagen, a 1992 Mazda, a 1979 Cadillac, a 1985 Oldsmobile '98, a 1985 Mercury Cougar and a Chevrolet G20 van. Niles police are conducting a follow-up investigation.

Students complete Sheriff's D.A.R.E. Program

More than 110 students from Twain School in were recently awarded certificates of graduation for completing the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) Program, according to the office of Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan.

The students participated in a 17-week anti-drug curriculum designed to equip them with the skills to resist peer pressure and the use of drugs. The program provides students with information on the dangers of drugs and alcohol and teaches them decision making skills by providing positive alternatives to drug or gang involvement.

D.A.R.E. is a successful, national program that is conducted locally by the Cook County Sheriff's Office. The program puts specially trained Sheriff's officers in the classroom to teach grade school children about the perils of drug use.

For more information about the Cook County Sheriff's D.A.R.E. program or for information or parent D.A.R.E. sessions, contact the Sheriff's Office of Preventive Programs at (708) 974-6772.

Two Chicago Police Officers serving in Senate

The Illinois State Senate has two members who are also police officers. State Senator Walter Dudycz (R-7th, Chicago), who has served in the Senate since 1985, is a detective in Area 4 on Chicago's west side.

Newly elected State Senator Antonio Munoz (D-1st, Chicago), (at right) is a patrolman in the 11th District.

Sheriff advises parents to 'Mind Their Kids' Business'

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan recently announced a new Internet safety program designed for parents who would like to more closely monitor their children's Internet usage.

"Mind Your Kids's Business" is a program designed to alert parents of the potential dangers their children face when using the Internet and how to safeguard against them. It covers a wide range of material, from the basics of the Internet to prevention strategies to examples of and information that are inappropriate for kids.

For more information on "Mind Your Kids' Business," or to schedule a presentation, contact the Sheriff's Department of Youth Services at (708) 865-2900, or visit the Sheriff's website at http://www.cookcountysheriff.org.

Chicago Playworks presents Coyote and His Brothers

Coyote (Adrian Casas, right) and his desert friends Bobcat (Katie Jeep, center) and Buzzard (Jason McLin Pierce, left) set out on a hunting expedition in Coyote and His Brothers (Tales of the Pima Indians) by Lin Wright and the original cast of the production, based on Pima Indian Legends by Anna Moore Shaw. People, plants and animals are all important to the beautiful and delicate balance of nature. The mischievous, vain and boastful Coyote - a trickster who is much too clever for his own good - upsets the delicate balance and lands in one predicament after another. Coyote and His Brothers runs through March 6, 1999, at DePaul University's Merle Reskin Theatre, 60 E. Balbo Drive, Chicago. Ticket prices are $6 per person. Group rates available. For information and to purchase tickets, call the Box Office at (312) 922-1999.

'Skylight' and 'Sylvia' at Oakton

Tickets are available at the Oakton Community College Box Office for the College's production of two plays that focus on contemporary relationships.

Skylight, by acclaimed British playright David Hare, examines whether two former lovers should attempt to rekindle their romance after life has taken them in different directions. This production is directed by Karol Verson, an adjunct instructor at Oakton who has directed many productions at the College. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. on Friday, March 5 and 19, and Saturday, March 6 and 27. Matinee performances at 2 p.m. will be held on Sunday, March 7 and 21, and Wednesday, March 24 and 31.

Sylvia, by A.R. Gurney, is a laugh-filled romantic comedy about a husband and a wife -- and a dog. Laura Lewis, an adjunct instructor at Oakton and a veteran actor, director and playwright, directs this production. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. on Friday, March 12 and 26; Saturday, March 13 and 20; and Wednesday, March 31. Matinee performances at 2 p.m. will be held on Sunday, March 14 and 28, and Wednesday, March 17.

All performances are staged at the Studio One auditorium at Oakton's DesPlaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road. General admission is $7 and $5 for students and seniors. Special admission for the Wednesday matinees is $3 (no discounts for this performance).

For ticket information, call the Box Office at (847) 635-1900. For group sales, call Karol at (847) 635-2185.

Sportsmen's Show filled with family entertainment

The 2nd Annual Sportsmen's Show of Chicago, February 25 to 28, 1999 at McCormick Place (Lakeside Center) will have lots of entertainment for the entire family.

A hugh Main Stage will be the site of the World Champion Sheer Lumberjills of Hayward, Wisconsin who will thrill the audience with log rolling, ax throwing and wood chopping. Also, the Center for Endangered Cats will bring Panthers, Puma, Leopards and other big cats to the Sports Show and describe the threatened habitats of these animals.

Returning from last year's successful exhibition is the very popular Backyard Cooking School which will feature a host of "north" country grillers along with Bill Cullerton of WGN Radio and John Husar of the Chicago Tribune demonstrating their favoirte fish and game recipes.

Also on the Main Stage will be Doug Janes of Donneybrook Kennels teaching dog training and retrieving.

Throughout the Sports Show there are interactive areas for attendees of all ages from the Kmart Trout Pond, to the Kmart Fishing Simulator, the Rock Wall and the incredible Shark Tank. Plus miles of fishing tackle, sport fishing boats and lodges, resorts and fly-in camps.

The Museum of Science and Industry's Kinetic Council - its junior board comprised of young professionals from the Chicagoland area - will host its fifth "An Uncommon Evening" event on Saturday, April 24. The event will be held at the Musuem of Science and Industry, 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, in the West Hall from 6:30 p.m. until 11 p.m.

The theme for the "An Uncommon Evening" event this year is "Swing into the Millennium" and will include swing dancing and music performed by the Blues Swingers, one of the top swing bands in Chicago. In addition, the event will include an after hours, museum-wide Scavenger Hunt, which allow attendees to enjoy and explore the Museum of Science and Industry's many spectacular exhibits while searching for the answers to a series of questions. Companies can form scavenger hunt teams and compete against other corporate teams as a part of the "Corporate Challenge."

Winning corporate and noncorpomte participants will receive a magnum of champagne, and the winning corporate team will receive a traveling trophy. Individuals not participating in the scavenger hunt can also take the opportunity to explore and enjoy the Museum of Science and Industry's many exhibits throughout the evening.

Additional highlights will include a silent auction, a raffle, dancing, hors d'oeuvres, a buffet dinner, dessert and an open bar, all of which are included in the ticket price.

The chairs of the 1999 "An Uncommon Evening - Swing Into the Millennium" event are Scott Stanton and Laura Celesia, both of Chicago. "An Uncommon Evening" raises funds to support the Museum's educational program - Role Models and Leaders, Science Club Network, Summer Science Camps, Teacher Workshops and Learning Labs, and attracts nearly 1,000 of Chicago's young professionals.

For more information on the Museum of Science and Industry Kinetic Council's 1999 "An Uncommon Evening" event, please contact Kristen Hobbs at the Museum at (773) 947-4172.

Chicago Percussion to perform at library

Variety is the key to their program, "Percussion Around the World" when the Chicago Percussion Quartet plays calypso, salsa, reggae, Dixieland, and cartoon music on the vibraphone, marimba, and xylophone at the Lincolnwood Public Library at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 21. The program features music and instruments from four continents.

The musicians augment their three keyboard percussion instruments with a large variety of drums and small percussion instruments such as the agogo bells, tamborin, bending gong, and temple blocks, adding the color and rhythmic flavor of the music from different regions of the world. The unique instruments are from Africa, Brazil, China, Cuba, and Mexico as well as the United States. The quartet demonstrates each percussion instrument individually and features it in an arrangement.

Tickets are required for the program and are available at the circulation desk now to Lincolnwood residents and one week before to non-residents. The library is located at 4000 W. Pratt Ave., phone (847) 677-5277.

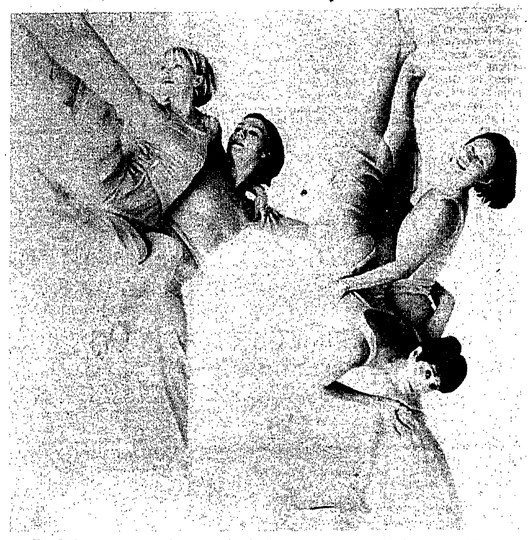
The Ruth Page Dance Series announces 1999 season



The Ruth Page Dance Series, now in its eighth year, unites many of Chicago's most dynamic dance companies in performance showcases featuring ballet, modern jazz, and tap dance. In response to the popularity and success of last season's "Primarily Premieres" focus, this season the series will again present world premiere works by every dance company featured. "Our audience's response to Primarily Premieres was overwhelmingly positive, so we have decided to continue this format," notes Series Artistic Director Venetia Stifler. "In addition, this year each choreographer has agreed to create a new work inspired by Ruth Page to help celebrate the centennial of her birth."

Showcases Performances: February 25, 26, 27, 1999 at 8 p.m., February 28, at 2 p.m.

All performances are at the Northeastern Illinois University Auditorium, 5500 North St. Louis Avenue, in Chicago; Free Parking available in Lot "D" at Central Park and Bryn Mawr. Tickets: 16/general admission, $10/students and seniors. Subscriptions and Group rates available.

For tickets; 773/794-2538.

Library exhibits water colors by Mikhail Kanevskiy

Water colors by Skokie resident Mikhail Kanevskiy are being featured at the Lincolnwood Public Library, 4000 W. Pratt Ave., through February 27. His wonderfully eclectic subjects range from scenes of Chicago's downtown to a Western motiff, to yachts and carnations. A graduate of Lvov University, Ukraine, he worked for more than 40 years as an artist and an architect. His main interests are watercolors and graphic arts. He has lived in the U.S. since 1993 and is a member of the Skokie Arts Guild.

was not likely.

In 1959 the late Ken Scheel came into our office on Milwaukee Avenue and announced he was running for election as an independent trustee candidate. It was unlikely one man could beat a political machine but Ken thought he would make a statement that it was time for a change in Niles. Ken garnered about 1,000 votes but fell short of being elected. But village officials were impressed with Ken's effort and appointed him to the zoning board along with another 35 year old, Bob Wente. During the next two years Ken and Bob led the fight against an invasion of multiple dwellings and high rise buildings which a developer eventually built in the unincorporated area on Golf Road.

Two years later Bob and Ken formed an independent political party along with District 71 school board member Len Szymanski and chose a Niles newcomer, Nick Blase, and Marge Lieske to complete their ticket.

The incumbents were backed by the Niles Township Democrats. Second and third party candidates were supported by other township Democrat and Republican parties, and Ken's independent group competed in a rousing four-party election.

In 1961 Niles was a very young community. The majority of families were headed by people who came out of World War II, having moved from Chicago to the suburbs. There was energy busting out all over the community. There were people named Hazucha who led the way to the creation of the library. Door-knockers were continuously banging on their neighbors' doors asking for support for more grammar and high schools. Churches were busting their seams resulting in new and larger church buildings. Niles was being transformed from a quasi-rural community into a highly energized vibrant suburb (Campbells Soup Company was still picking tomatoes in the fields at Dempster and Milwaukee Avenues).

Young people, uninitiated to politics, jumped into the 1961 campaign, many rallying behind the young turks in Scheel's independent party. The cry for change caused the 30's crowd to spurn the old line established politicians, rejecting the township political parties' tickets and overwhelmingly voted for the new young independents. The changing of the guard brought to the village hall the young 30 year olds to replace the older incumbents who ran Niles during the 1940's and 1950's.

When the 2001 year rolls around that old 1961 revolution will be 40 years old. Only Nick Blase is still around from the original independent political ticket. Among today's village trustees, Blase hand-picked most if not all of them.

We thought the new millenium might bring another mini-revolution that would thrust younger people onto Niles political stage. But it's not likely to be. Blase will continue as village president as long as he remains in good health, continuing to oversee the village's workings.

Today, Niles prosperity is everywhere. The sales tax money from all the shopping centers insures a successful future for Niles. Today's Nilesites see the new village hall and wellness center. They ride the free buses and make use of the services of the social workers. They see a park district with two beautiful pools and a great nine hole golf course, and they see the huge new library building, while they pay lower taxes than most of their neighbors. So why would they vote new people into office?

At the start of the new millenium Blase will be seated at the head of the village's government. When he decides to step down he'll anoint one of the officials from one of Niles public boards to replace him.

Could outsiders re-kindle another revolution like the one we had in 1961? Sure they could. But Fitzgerald's "there's no second acts in American lives" will likely prevail. And the long distance runner, Blase, will pass his baton to one of his appointed officials and Yogi's "deja vu all over again" will only be a cliche.

ed the Feb. 6 meeting that the district might run out of space should enrollment increase in the future. Zalewski said the recently expanded Culver School was capable of absorbing any enrollment increases projected for the foreseeable future.

Zalewski said the district reached its peak enrollment of 850 in 1965, adding that he doubted enrollment would even reach 800 again. Current enrollment is around 500, and the building could accommodate an additional 150 to 175 students, Zalewski said. Some non-classroom space could be converted to class room use when and if the need arises, he added.

Zalewski said that in any case, the South School building is no longer appropriate for school use and that Culver can be further expanded if necessary to accommodate enrollment increases.

Board member John Lombardi dismissed a resident's suggestion that the district demolish the school building and keep the property vacant, which would be an economical way of retaining the property for future use, should it be needed.

Lombardi said that option had been dismissed because retaining vacant land would not generate any benefit for the district, even though it does not cost much to maintain.

Driscoll presented a conceptual plan of the proposed facility at the Feb. 6 meeting. The preliminary plan calls for construction of the facility at the north end of the property, with a large parking area at the south end. Location of the facility at the north end will distance it from residences on the south and also promote visibility along Touhy Avenue, Driscoll said.

Driscoll projected that the average facility resident would be a woman in her 80s, and the average stay would be between two and three years.

The goal of the facility would be to provide a more cost effective care facility than a full-fledged nursing home, something between independent living and full-time custodial care, Driscoll said.

An in-depth market evaluation will be conducted to determine how many units will be needed, Driscoll said, although present projections call for about 100 units in a multi-story facility, he added.

SJB third grade animal study

The third grade classes at St. John Brebeuf School recently extended their science unit on animals by exploring the range of wildlife inhabitants in our local area. A naturalist from the River Trails Nature Center brought the outdoors to the classrooms. Students examined wildlife exhibits ranging from beetles to mammals. They had the chance to handle pelt of different animals to compare the characteristics. The food chain was discussed, and the students could see how animals were equipped for finding food. The naturalist assured the group that all the pelts and stuffed exhibits were from animals that had been fatally wounded by a predator or had died from natural causes. The program reinforced a respect for all living creatures.

Why Select A Family Owned Funeral Home?

*Prices are traditionally much lower than those of corporate owned funeral homes.

* Our funeral directors and staff do not work on commissions. They will never pressure you to buy something that you don't want or need.

*All of our preparation work is done at our funeral homes by licensed funeral directors. Your loved one will not be transported to a "factory like" embalming facility.

*You will be treated with the respect and appreciation that only a family owned business can offer.

*We consistently upgrade our facilities and equipment to offer families only the best.

*The comfort of knowing the person you're dealing with. You will always see a familiar face at our chapels. Our staff is not rotated among dozens of funeral homes.

Housing choices for seniors

Gathering information about senior housing options and planning a move are an important way for seniors to ensure maximum control over their lives and get peace of mind. Today's senior housing market provides many choices. One of the most popular choices is moving into a rental retirement community, such as Summit Square in Park Ridge.

At Summit Square no endowment is required. A monthly rental fee includes either a spacious studio or one-bedroom apartment with maid and linen services, utilities, including cable TV, and three meals served daily. A full program of recreational activities is included. Community amenities, such as banks, shops, churches and medical facilities are close at hand. They are made even more accessible by the transportation provided in Summit's chauffeur driven automobile and 25-passenger bus. For added peace of mind, the Wellness Center staff provides health care services.

If you, or a family member, are considering moving into a retirement community, check out your choices, compare services and compare rates. The staff at Summit Square will be pleased to answer any questions you may have and to explain the many benefits that living in a retirement community provide. (847) 825-1161.

11th Annual Heart Fair to be held at LGH

Lutheran General Hospital's 11th Annual Heart Fair will feature specially priced lipid tests, free blood pressure screenings, presentations by physicians and health professionals on reducing cardiovascular risk factors, exhibits and a "HeartSteps" walking clinic.

The event will be held from 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, February 20, in Olson Auditorium, Grainger Atrium and other locations in the hospital.

For more information, to schedule a lipid test or reserve a place in the "HeartSteps" clinic, call HealthAdvisor at 1-800-3-ADVOCATE (1-800-323-8622).

From 7 to 11 a.m., specially priced lipid screenings (cholesterol profiles) will be provided to individuals 18 and older for a $10-per-person fee in the hospital's Nursing Resource Center. A 14-hour fast is required for this blood test, which screens total cholesterol, HDL, LDL and triglyceride levels. In addition, free blood pressure screenings will be provided.

The lecture schedule for the day begins at 8:45 a.m. in Olson Auditorium with opening comments, followed by "Lipids ... It's More Than Cholesterol" presented from 9 to 9:30 a.m. by Walter Myalls, M.D., cardiologist, Lutheran General Hospital; "Women's Cardiac Health Issues" addressed from 9:40 to 10:50 a.m. by Barbara Dudczak, M.D., cardiologist, and Edward Linn, M.D., chairman of obstetrics and gynecology, Lutheran General Hospital; "Complementary Medicine: Magic or Myth?" discussed from 11 to 11:30 p.m. by Kristin Yager, Pharm. D., Lutheran General Hospital; and "Caring for the Heart of Your Family" addressed from 11:40 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. by Charles Kanakis, M.D., cardiologist, Lutheran General Hospital.

Other lectures presented in the 10 East cafeteria at the hospital include "Making Exercise A Family Affair" from 9:40 to 10:10 a.m. featuring Brian McDermott, manager, Lutheran General Fitness Center; and "Fat: Friend or Foe?" from 10:20 to 10:50 a.m. with Paula Pfluger, dietitian, Lutheran General Hospital.

In addition, a 45-minute "HeartSteps" walking clinic will be offered by the American Heart Association in the Nursing Resource Center at 8 a.m., 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. Participants will learn about the health benefits of walking, different walking styles, proper walking techniques and how to buy the right kind of walking shoes. Registration for this program is required by calling HealthAdvisor at 1-800-3-ADVOCATE (1-800-323-8622).

Everyone who attends the Heart Fair will receive a comprehensive information packet with details about preventing and reducing cardiovascular risk factors.

Exhibits will be available focusing on Lutheran General's cardiovascular services, complementary/alternative medicine options, Lutheran General Women's Health Resource Center, Lutheran General Fitness Center, HealthAdvisor, older adult services, behavioral health, nutrition and the American Heart Association.

Pastoral Care Department of Holy Family committed to patients

How does an Adult and Geriatric Long Term Care and Physical Rehabilitation Center deal with the enormous amount of personal, emotional and spiritual needs of their residents, patients and family members?

At Holy Family Health Center the Pastoral Care Department and their committed team members realize the spiritual consequences that take place and the issues that are brought into the minds of the sick, elderly and disabled individual. They pride themselves in reaching their residents and patients spiritually, providing a connection between the mind body and spirit. "As we age and life changes become out of control, especially for people entering LTC facilities, we need to make sure that patients and family members are receiving the support they need. To make sure a resident is not feeling warehoused, but feel they just have a different "address," a sense of purpose, and their own beliefs that will guide them in strength," states Pastoral Care Director, Deacon Don Wehling.

The Chaplains (ministers of care, sister visitors, clergy, rabbinical support, and community parish member's) at Holy Family HealthCenter work together with the clinical staff to help a resident express their own belief system and faith in order to instill a sense of wholeness and spiritual strength. For the patient going home after rehab it is important to maintain the level of spiritual awareness that they came in with creating an environment that allows them to go back with support. Whether it be a support group, church or synagogue; partaking in the life of their community is an important outreach. For the resident who remains in long term care it is important to make their life at the facility feel like a community with accessible resources to help carry out their personal and spiritual needs. "We endeavor to keep the patient or resident as close to the real world as possible and maintain relationships with the community they have just left," states Deacon Wehling.

Within the first few hours of an admission to Holy Family Health Center the patient/resident is visited by a Pastoral team member, whether it be the Priest, Deacon or Sister and within 24-48 hours an assessment and availability of services are discussed. "With a majority of people, the knowledge of a spiritual presence in a facility is comforting," states Father Ron Scarlatta, (who resides at Holy Family Health Center and assists other parishes in the community) "and people are touched when they know someone is praying for them no matter what religion they follow."

The Pastoral Care at HFHC is also the connecting link between residents and families. Their purpose is to help a resident no matter what their faith is, to secure the sources that help them heal spiritually. "It is an emotional rollercoaster when a family is deciding on a living will, determining that their loved one can not go home due to safety issues, or just trying to cope with an illness and/or decision processes. It is also important to keep in mind where a patient is psychologically and spiritually, and not determine where we want them to be," sates Deacon Wehling.

The Pastoral Care Department at Holy Family Health Center also missions themselves to draw groups of people to a better understanding and strengthen relationships that have been strained because of life stresses. States Deacon Wehling, "In the midst of someone's difficulty and pain a person can find a core of spiritual truth that lightens the darkness of every situation. That is what we are here for. We also allow grieving to take place in a compassionate setting even though he/she is not in the comfort of their own home."

At Holy Family Health Center the Pastoral Care Department models itself after a Hospital's Pastoral Care Program with very similar guidelines. It is also one of the few Long Term Care and Rehabilitation Centers that provide an extensive Pastoral Care Department. With a number of religious services, available weekly, holiday observances and pastoral support for the resident and their families; Holy Family Health Center is confident that their mission of pastoral care is focused on the right direction, helping to heal wholistically.

The Power of Strength Training

by Amy Joy Lanou, Ph.D.

For many years, older people have been urged to walk or swim for better health and endurance. And while these activities remain extremely important for maintaining a healthy weight, reducing cancer risk, and keeping the heart healthy, strength training is another form of exercise that can also benefit your health and well-being in some amazing ways.

As individuals get older, peak strength can drop by as much as 30-40%, making it more and more difficult to maintain an independent lifestyle. Weak arms and legs make simple tasks, such as climbing stairs, shopping, dressing and even getting up from a chair, much more difficult. As muscle strength diminishes, balance also declines, increasing the risk of falls. In fact, falls are responsible for roughly one-half of all injuries in persons over 65 years of age.

Luckily, many age-related changes in muscles are due more to lack of use than to age. Researcher William Evans states, "The capacity of older men and women to respond to strength training is preserved into very old age." Strength training produces very similar results in older and younger muscles both in terms of size and strength increases.

Exercise specialists all over the world recommend strength training as a way to help older people regain much of the strength that has left them over the years. In addition to muscles, strength training is also good for strengthening bones. Because the use of the bones stimulates increase in bone density, strength training can significantly reduce the risk of fractures. Individuals who maintain or increase their muscular strength can protect themselves better from falls and other injuries, and are often able to maintain their independence much longer.

Until recently, many doctors shied away from recommending strength training for older people because they feared individuals might injure themselves. Now, it is universally recognized that, with some basic training on proper techniques, older individuals can safely strength train. Furthermore, using just a little weight will still yield impressive results.

Many community centers, YMCA's, parks and recreation departments, and private gyms have workout facilities that include weight machines or free weights, as well as instructors to help you get started. If you prefer to exercise in private, resistance machines are available from sports equipment companies for in-home use. Less expensive yet effective strength training aids, like sand-filled wrist and ankle weights, are also good choices. Even heavy household objects, such as soup cans or detergent containers, can make good hand weights.

When starting a strength training regimen, make sure to get some personalized direction or good written instructions on safe techniques from your local exercise center, senior center, or library. It is also very important to get your doctor's permission before you begin any exercise program. Start slowly and work up to regular sessions, lasting at least 20 to 30 minutes, three to six times a week. Begin with weights that feel heavy, but that you can lift at least eight times before having to rest. Rest between exercises and avoid working the same muscles on consecutive days. If you feel sharp pain while doing any exercise, stop doing it. Strengthening exercises should make your muscles tired, but they should not hurt.

Aerobic exercise and strength training are two different types of exercise that provide unique health benefits. Aerobic activities, such as walking, biking and swimming, require moving large groups of muscles thousands of times against small amounts of resistance.

DesPlaines Valley Geological Society

On February 18 the DesPlaines Valley Geological Society will have the second program of the mini series on "karst." It will be presented by Dr. Rickard S. Toomey of the Illinois State Museum in Springfield.

He will speak on caves archeology and why some caves were used by animals for shelter and why human habitation occurred in only a few selected caves.

Dr. Toomey is a member of the National Speleological Society's section Paleontology and Biology.

The public is invited, all ages are welcome, and refreshments will be served.

Monthly meetings of the Des Plaines Valley Geological Society are held on the third Thursday of each month at Our Lady of Ransom School, 8300 N. Greenwood Ave., Niles, at 8 p.m. We encourage all interested persons to attend. Bring a friend.

Township Officials Dress Up

Victorian Valentines Day Sweetheart 'High Tea' a grand time for seniors

With fancy hats, white gloves and little fingers pointed skyward while sipping tea, over 130 Maine Township Seniors and staff members recreated the atmosphere and fun of a Victorian age "High Tea" celebration. Besides tea and sandwiches, the seniors also learned how to decorate cookies for Valentine's Day and how to create colorful baskets to contain them for their special Valentine, family member or friend.

"This special celebration tried to recreate how people of the Victorian era would experience a traditional High Tea, which was an opportunity for all to show off the latest fashions and meet new friends at a major social affair," said Sue Neuschel, Maine Township Director of Senior Services. "We want to show how to include romance and elegance in our last Valentine's Day of the century."

The gala affair was held at the Karrington of Park Ridge, 1725 Ballard Road, a new senior citizen assisted living complex, who also co-sponsored the event providing the location and food for the seniors attending.

Both Maine Township staff and elected officials, along with Karrington staff members, dressed up in either traditional garb or formal wear to add to the flavor while acting as servers during the social. "Everyone at the Karrington had a great time with this event," said Karrington Director of Community Relations Fred Gafnick, who hoped to work with Maine Township Seniors again soon.

Medication and communication

Few people think about their eyes when they take their medication," says Paul Klein, O.D., a member of the Better Vision Institute Advisory Council. Individuals should be aware that some medications may cause reactions to their eyes.

It is a good idea to keep your eye care and health care professionals up to date on ALL your prescription and nonprescription medications, including vitamins.

Many people are taking multiple medications that could make them more susceptible to complications affecting the eyes.

Some common drug classifications that may cause vision irregularities include: analgesics, antidepressants, antacids, antihistamines, antianxiety, medications, anticoagulants, antihypertensives, antibiotics, corticosteroids, diuretics, anticonvulsants and oral contraceptives.

Joseph Toland, M.D. also a member of the BVI Advisory Council, states that "patients react differently to different medications," and that-"a medication that causes visual changes in one person may not affect another."

Some common visual side effects from medication which may occur include: blurred vision, dry eyes, poor night vision, sensitivity to light, teary eyes, changes in color vision, puffy eyelids, droopy eyelids, brown spots around eyes, double vision or dilation.

If you think your medication may be causing changes in your vision, consult your eye care professional. "It's critical that you follow your doctor's recommendation," adds Dr. Toland.

Volunteer computer instructors needed for SeniorNet

The Northbrook SeniorNet Computer Learning Center, at the Bernard Weinger Jewish Community Center, has immediate openings for mature, energetic classroom instructors, assistant instructors and 'open lab' monitros who can spend at least one hour per week helping people age 55 and over learn and/or expand their computer skills.

This an ideal opportunity for retired or semi-retired men and women to remain active and vital, to share and enhance their computer skills and to receive a great deal of personal satisfaction. All volunteers are trained to use a specially designed curriculum for older learners.

A variety of classes, including Introduction to Computers, are offered days, evenings and weekends at the Center. Classes are taught in a Windows environment and are usually held once a week for eight weeks.

The Northbrook SeniorNet Learning Center, a cooperative program between Council for Jewish Elderly (JCC) and Jewish Community Centers of Chicago (JCCs) offers classes at the Bernard Weinger JCC, 300 Revere Drive, Northbrook. The Center is equipped with computer terminals, printers, software and access to an online service.

SeniorNet is a national, not-for-profit organization that serves more than 19,000 members through 90 Learning Centers. Its mission is to provide older adults access to the information age and to allow their wisdom to influence and benefit the technology shaping our society.

For more information, please call Laurie Schnittman at 847-205-9480, ext. 3061.

Sheahan sponsors Law Enforcement Academy

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan invites all senior citizens interested in law enforcement and crime awareness issues to enroll in his department's Senior Citizen Law Enforcement Academy to be held at the Morton Grove CNN Lunch Site, 6101 Capulina Ave., in Morton Grove, beginning March 5.

The Sheriff's Office designed the program to open the lines of communication between senior citizens and law enforcement officials. Participants will gain a better understanding of the responsibilities and duties of law enforcement officials as well as receive advice on personal safety and crime prevention.

Sheahan's top staff members will conduct the eight-session Academy. Each speaker provides pertinent information on an array of topics, including law enforcement agency operations, crimes against seniors, gang and drug awareness, understanding the criminal justice system and functions of the Cook County jail.

The Academy at the Morton Grove CNN LUnch Site will meet Friday mornings, 9:30-11:30 a.m., through Monday, April 30, when all participants will be honored at a graduation ceremony. The Sheriff's Office offers the program free of charge to all seniors living in Cook County.

Sheriff Sheahan will bring the Academy to any senior citizen club, organization or center throughout the county. For more information, or to register for the Senior Citizen Law Enforcement Academy in Morton Grove, please call the Sheriff's Office at 773-869-7725.

Oakton's Emeritus Program offers art seminars

Oakton Community College's Emeritus Program offers two non-credit seminars that will increase your knowledge of and appreciation for art. These seminars, designed for the older student, are held at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

The Tribes of South Africa: Artists as Guides (ART S97-71, Touch-Tone 9094) features work of the Zulu, Xhosa, and Ndebele peoples and others who reflect the South African experience. Instructor Linda Rubin, a former resident of South Africa, will also share her collection of fine beadwork from the area. The four-week class meets from 9:30-11 a.m. on Thursdays, beginning March 4.

The American Impressionists and "The Ten" (HUM E72-71, Touch-Tone 6979) focuses on a group of successful New York and Boston artists who joined in an informal alliance to exhibit their art. This new generation of American painters - including Theodore Robinson, John Twachtman, J. Alden Weir and Childe Hassam - were influenced by Impressionism and remained faithful followers into the 20th century. The four-week class meets from 10-11:30 a.m. on Thursdays, beginning March 4.

The fee for each of these seminars is $80; in-district residents age 60 and over pay half this price. Students who have registered for Oakton in the last five years and have a correct Social Security number on file may register for the lecture by using the Touch-Tone system at (847) 635-1616. Registrations can also be taken via FAX at (847) 635-1448. Both methods require payment by a major credit card (Visa, MasterCard or Discover).

For more information about this class and a listing of future Emeritus programs and events, call (847) 635-1414.

Oakton offers courses in contract bridge

Whether you're a newcomer to contract bridge, or an old hand wishing to perfect your game, Oakton's Emeritus program has a class designed for you. These non-credit classes meet at the Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie.

Bridge for Beginners (REC S60-81, Touch-Tone 5404) teaches the basics of contract bridge. Come learn from a patient and fully accredited bridge teacher. This class meets for six weeks on Wednesdays, beginning March 17, from 1-3 p.m. Course fee is $98.

Advanced Bridge (REC S64-81, Touch-Tone 5418) is a skills-building class for advanced players. Students at separate tables play the same pre-arranged hands, followed by instructions on how to bid and play each hand. Questions are encouraged. The newest bidding conventions and subtle playing skills are taught in a relaxed, fun atmosphere by an accredited Teacher of the American Contract Bridge League. This class meets for eight weeks on Mondays, beginning March 15, from 1-3 p.m. Course fee is $120.

In-district residents age 60 and older pay half the listed fee. Students who have registered for Oakton in the last five years and have a correct Social Security number on file may register for these classes by using the Touch-Tone system at (847) 635-1616. Registrations can also be taken via FAX at (847) 635-1448. Both methods require payment by a major credit card (Visa, MasterCard or Discover).

For more information about these classes and a listing of future Emeritus programs and events, call (847) 635-1414.

Niles Public Library to show movies

The Niles Public Library District will be showing movies on Tuesday afternoons in the Large Meeting Room for Niles District Library residents only. Tickets will be given out at 1:30 p.m. on a first come, first serve basis. The movie will begin at 2 p.m. Maximum Room Capacity is limited to 125 people. Please have your Niles District Library card ready to show to receive your ticket. We are unable to hold or reserve any seats. The Library policy of "No Food, No Drinks" will apply. The Niles Public Library District is located at 6960 Oakton, at the corner of Oakton and Waukegan.

March 9, 2 p.m., Deep Impact (PG-13, 121 minutes) starring Robert Duvall, Tea Leoni, Elijah Wood, Vanessa Redgrave, Maximilian Schell and Morgan Freeman will be shown. Fourteen-year-old Leo Beiderman did not expect to make an earth-shattering discovery when he joined his high school astronomy club. He didn't expect to make any discoveries at all. He simply hoped that classmate Sarah Hotchner would discover him. Yet a photograph he takes through his small telescope makes him co-discoverer of Comet Wolf-Beiderman...a comet that scientists determine is on a fatal collision course with the Earth. This sets off a thrill-packed mission.

March 23, 12:30 p.m., Titanic (PG-13, 194 minutes) starring Leonardo DiCaprio, Kate Winslet, Billy Zane, Jonathan Hyde, Danny Nucci, Gloria Stuart, David Warner, Victor Garber and Bill Paxton will be shown. Two people from different worlds meet and fall in love on the brief, tragic maiden voyage of the grand ocean liner Titanic.

Home Delivered Meals program

Advocate Older Adult Services at Lutheran General Hospital offers a Home Delivered Meals program in Park Ridge and Des Plaines for home-bound seniors and persons recovering from illnesses who are unable to cook or shop for themselves.

Meals are delivered by volunteers to participants' homes between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Each meal costs $4 and is planned by a registered dietitian. Hot and cold selections are available, and extra meals can be ordered for weekend use.

Persons interested in signing up for the Home Delivered Meals program will be visited and assessed by a social worker.

Oakton Emeritus seminars on artistic vision

Using different media, artists have unique ways of interpreting and expressing their visions of the world. Join Oakton's Emeritus Program for a non-credit seminar exploring the works of various artists.

Gustave Dore: Inconographer of the Imagination (ART S98-71, Touch-Tone 9066) examines the art of the influential 19th century illustrator of Dante's Divine Comedy and Milton's Paradise Lost. Slides and video clips shown by graphic designer Daniel Bernstein will examine why Dore's lush illustrations became icons. This seminar meets from 10:30-11:30 a.m. for nine Fridays, beginning March 5. Course fee is $100.

Four More From France: The Cinema of Ambiguity (HUM S68-71, Touch-Tone 7053) features screenings, lectures and discussions of a select group of contemporary French filmmakers, including Bertrand Tavernier (Sundays in the Country and The Clockmaker), Patrice Leconte (Monsieur Hire) and Claude Miller (The Accompanist). Moviegoers who revel in the complexities and ambiguities of life will enjoy this four-week seminar, which meets from 9:30 a.m.-12:45 p.m. on Tuesdays, beginning March 9. Course fee is $80.

The seminars meet at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie. In-district residents age 60 and over pay half the listed price. Students who have registered for Oakton in the last five years and have a correct Social Security number on file may register for the seminars by using the Touch-Tone system at (847) 635-1616. Publishing your genealogy

Have you collected a book's worth of information about your ancestors and relatives? Tips for putting your book together will be given at the February 18 meeting of the Northwest Suburban Council of Genealogists. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Forest View Educational Center, Room 100, 2121 S. Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights.

"Producing Your Book Some Options" will be discussed by speaker Allen Carr, who has worked in the publishing business for 33 years. He will offer tips on producing different types of genealogical books, from simple personal histories to scholarly works.

Prospective members and visitors are welcome to attend. For more information, call (847) 398-1884, or (847) 593-8160.

Symptoms and treatments of arthritis

A doctor diagnoses arthritis based on specific symptoms, a physical exam and testing. While there are more than 100 different types of arthritis, each with different signs and treatments, the following are common symptoms found in most types of arthritis.

- Swelling in one or more joints
- Early morning stiffness
- Recurring pain or tenderness in any joint
- Inability to move a joint normally
- Obvious redness or warmth in a joint
- Unexplained weight loss, fever or weakness combined with joint pain
- Symptoms, as described above, persisting for more than two weeks

According to the Arthritis Foundation, if any of these symptoms persist in or around a joint for more than two weeks, a doctor should be consulted. If arthritis is diagnosed, the doctor can prescribe the appropriate treatment for the specific type of arthritis. Common treatments include:

- Medicines (prescription or over-the-counter) to help reduce pain and swelling
- Exercise to lessen pain, increase movement and reduce fatigue
- Rest/relaxation to save energy (periods of rest should be intermingled with periods of activity)
- Heat or cold over joints or muscles to give short-term relief from pain and stiffness and help prepare for exercise
- Self help aids with special features outlining ways to make everyday tasks easier
- Joint protection to avoid extra stress on the joint
- Surgery, only when other treatments have failed (most people with arthritis will never need surgery)
- Self-help techniques which teach arthritis sufferers how to manage their symptoms, and how these symptoms affect daily life activities.

For more information on specific symptoms and treatments of arthritis, contact the Greater Chicago Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation at (312) 616-3470, or 1-800-735-0096.

Property tax deferral program for seniors

"Tax bill time can be worry time for senior citizens who have a hard time making ends meet," says Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas. "That's why I want to remind them of a property tax deferral program my office administers."

The program provides low-interest loans issued specifically to pay real estate taxes. The money comes from a special State of Illinois fund. And it need not be repaid until the home is sold or the owner passes away.

The rate on these loans is 6% simple interest. People who qualify may participate in the program for several years, as long as they make a new application every year before the 1st Installment tax payment deadline.

The program generally is available to senior citizens who own their own residence, who have lived in that residence for three years, and whose annual household income (whether a single person or a married couple) is less than $25,000. Specifically, a person must be 65 by June 1st. A husband and wife can own the property jointly and qualify, as long as one of them is 65. A residence can be a house or an apartment in a condominium or cooperative building. Household income includes Social Security and other pension or disability payments, as well as money that's earned working and income from rents or investments.

"Only a very small number of people have applied for this help in the past," Pappas said, "when we know there are a lot more senior citizens participating in other programs that affect their real estate tax bill - the senior freeze, the homestead exemption or the circuit breaker. We want them to know about this program, too."

Pappas added that the program is better known in some suburban communities than in other towns "where the world is spread through active senior citizen activities. This program should become just as well know in the City of Chicago and in other suburbs as it is in these suburban communities."

The deadline for filing the froms is March 1st. To obtain the forms necessary, or for other information, people can call the Cook County Treasurer's office at 312-443-5100.

Skokie SeniorNet Learning Center

The Skokie SeniorNet Learning Center, which operates out of the Mayer Kaplan Jewish Community Center, 5050 Church St., Skokie, is offering two new classes this March during its Winter Mini Session. SeniorNet is a computer learning program for people 50 and older. Classes are taught on state-of-the-art IBM compatible computers using Windows 95. The two new classes are:

•Are You Computer Phobic?

The introduction to computers preparatory course is for those who have never faced a computer, booted it up, used a mouse or a keyboard, or even know what any of this means. In three weeks, this course will identify parts of the computer, teach you how to turn it on and off, handle the mouse, open and close a program and file, use a typing tutorial to learn the keyboard, and other basics. This course will prepare you to take the eight-week Introduction to Computers course.

•Tax Preparation With Turbo Tax

Learn to use its tax software which smoothly guides you through your tax preparation. It interviews you, completes the forms, and prints them out ready to file.

In addition to these two new classes, Skokie SeniorNet will offer Introduction to Computers, Word Processing, Money Management, and Internet/Online during this Winter Mini Session.

If you are interested in learning more about these programs, or would like to register for a class, please call Edie Friemark at (847) 675-2200 ext 273.

Call Catherine Dean at the Prairie View Community Center, 965-1200 for a reservation.

SENIOR CITIZEN ASSESSMENT FREEZE

The Cook County Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption is a valuable form of property tax relief. Those who qualify will have their property tax assessment frozen at the assessed value of the year prior to their application. This "frozen" value will be maintained for as long as the homeowner continues to qualify. All taxpayers receiving the Senior Freeze will also automatically receive the Senior Citizen Exemption and the Homeowners Exemption, with no further application process necessary. To qualify for the Freeze, the following conditions must be met by the homeowner:

1. Be 65 years of age or older in 1998.
2. Have a household income of no more than $35,000 for 1997.
3. Owned and resided in the home since January 1, 1997.
4. Be liable for the payment of 1997 and 1998 property taxes.

Contact the Cook County Assessor's Senior Freeze Department at (312) 603-6600.

MORTON GROVE HOMECARE SERVICE

The Morton Grove Homecare Service is a program offered by the Village of Morton Grove and funded by a Cook County Community Development Block Grant. The service is for residents age 62 and older who may need assistance with a combination of the following: bathing, laundry, personal care, companionship, preparing meals and light housekeeping. The amazing thing about this program is that all services are provided at no charge for a duration of up to six months through Evanston Northwestern Healthcare. To qualify, a person must be age 62+, be a Morton Grove resident, demonstrate a medical need for home care, meet income (less than $28,150 annually) and asset (less than $50,000) eligibility criteria. For more information, contact Morton Grove's Senior Citizens Services at 965-4100, ext. 6110.

INCOME TAX RETURN ASSISTANCE

Skokie Nursing Home offers Shabbat Services

by Cory Fosco

A little over a year ago, ManorCare Health Services of Skokie, 4660 Old Orchard Road, realized that they could do more to service their resident and patient population which was of the Jewish faith. The skilled nursing facility was offering Shabbat services to its resident and patient population two times a month and, admittedly, was not doing much more than that. Jamie Weibeler, Administrator at ManorCare states, "We came to understand that the needs of this unique population were not being served. Several members of our staff began investigating some of the additional services we could provide to our residents and patients." The staff members learned that in addition to offering Shabbat services every Friday night, the facility could order traditional Kosher "take-out" meals from a local caterer. "Every Friday night, we now have 15 to 20 people coming to our facility to worship and have a traditional kosher meal," Weibeler explains. "The residents, patients and their family members enjoy the spiritual interaction with one another and have asked us to extend these services to the community."

ManorCare Health Services was built over thirty years ago and provides short-term rehabilitation services and 24 hour long-term skilled nursing care. Residents sometimes feel disconnected with the members of the Skokie community. "Many residents have told me that they used to love going to Shabbat services and seeing their neighbors during services," Laura Alterio, Admission Director at ManorCare of Skokie, states. "We are hopeful that by opening the Shabbat services to the community, some of our residents and patients can reconnect with that special part of their lives."

ManorCare Health Services is now offering the weekly Shabbat service to the North Shore community. "We want the community to embrace our patients and residents and be able to worship and build new relationships," Weibeler says. Anyone interested in coming to the weekly Shabbat service at ManorCare Health Services should contact the facility by 5 p.m. on the Thursday before any Friday service. The number is (847) 676-4800. A traditional kosher meal will be provided.

Patients with cardiac chest pain identified by immediate testing at LGH

Physicians at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge are utilizing a novel approach for patients who come to the emergency room with chest pains. The treatment protocol enables physicians to determine which patients are having true cardiac pain and need to be admitted; or non-cardiac pain, and be treated safely in the emergency room and sent home.

Traditionally, patients experiencing chest pain are admitted and over the next 12 to 24 hours their blood is tested for enzymes to detect if a heart attack has taken place. In an effort to determine the patients' status more quickly, and diagnose a cardiac cause for chest pain, cardiolyte testing is used at Lutheran General Hospital.

"Patients who come to the ER with chest pain are evaluated using a resting cardiolyte test which enables us to determine whether they are suffering from acute ischemia (lack of blood supply to the heart). If they are, they are then taken to the cardiac catheterization lab and the appropriate intervention is performed," said Nagui Sabri. M.D., cardiology, Lutheran General Hospital. "We can determine in an hour or so, what used to take 24 hours."

Patients treated with an appropriate intervention in the catheterization lab are often home within a day or two.

"To date, the patients we have sent home from the emergency room with a negative cardiolyte test have done very well," said Dr. Sabri. "None have been readmitted with a reoccurrence."

Cardiologists at Lutheran General Hospital have been assessing chest pain patients this way for two years with excellent results. Non-cardiac patients are identified, treated, sent home from the emergency room and followed closely, eliminating an unnecessary admission while maintaining a high quality of care and follow-up. This method of patient evaluation has resulted in a 25% reduction in admissions to the Cardiac Care Unit.

"There are so many benefits to diagnosing chest pain patients this way," said Dr. Sabri. "The patients who need treatment get it more quickly, they have a shorter hospital stay, and patients who do not need to be admitted are sent home safely and not burdened by a costly, unnecessary hospital stay."

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, is a recognized leader in cardiology services, with 42 board certified or board eligible cardiologists, and 3 cardiac surgeons. Three state-of-the-art catheterization labs, operating 24 hours a day / 7 days a week, perform over 3,000 procedures each year with 2 physicians present at each interventional procedure to ensure that experience and quality are always provided. Surgery is performed in two operating rooms dedicated to cardiac surgery around the clock.

In-patients have access to a 10-bed Cardiac Intensive Care Unit (CICU) and a 56-bed Telemetry Unit.

Lutheran General Hospital cardiology research activities focus on nearly one dozen clinical trials, and quality assurance protocols for chest pain and congestive heart failure provide full treatment plans resulting in reduced readmission rates for patients.

In 1997, Lutheran General Hospital performed invasive cardiology procedures that included 1,400 adult and pediatric catheterizations; 1,100 interventions; 67 pace maker insertions; and 270 adult and pediatric electrophysiology studies.

Non-invasive testing included 6,165 nuclear cardiology; 28,410 ECG's; 750 Holter monitoring; 230 Transesophogeal Echo; 975 Stress Echo; 8,363 adult and pediatric Transthoracic Echo.

Looking for a few good men & women

The award winning "Speechcraft" program, sponsored by Pak Ridge Toastmasters, is looking for you. The Book of Lists shows that the fear of public speaking is the number one fear of individuals, even out-ranking the fear of dying. Participants in the aforementioned workshop will overcome this fear - and learn to be more confident while speaking - in just six weeks.

"Anyone who is in business today needs good speaking and listening skills," says Club President Melinda Mitrovic. "At Toastmasters, we pride ourselves in belonging to an organization that has helped thousands of individuals improve their communications skills and gain more self-confidence." There is a fee of $48 for the workshop. The first session is February 18. Sessions begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be held on consecutive Thursdays. For more information, contact Speechcraft Coordinator Bob Carr at (847) 967-5662 or VP of Membership Dick Storer at (847) 296-3853.

What is Stroke Connection?

Stroke Connection is a unique service coordinated by the American Heart Association. It demonstrates a part of the association's dedication to serving survivors and their families and educating the public about stroke, or "brain attack."

Stroke Connection is a grass-roots network of alliances, coalitions, outreach programs and support groups dedicated to improving the quality of life for survivors and caregivers. These community partnerships provide hope and encouragement to stroke families while promoting post-stroke education, prevention, early treatment and rehabilitation.

Stroke family volunteers in the national phone bank provide hope and encouragement, daily living tips, resource information, and support group referrals over the toll-free "warmline" 1-800-553-6321.

This is the only such resource in the country where stroke patients, their families and their caregivers can call for free and talk to people who can answer most any question about stroke. Callers can also be assured that the person they are talking to when they call Stroke Connection has a strong link to stroke. It is a more comfortable feeling for callers when they know they are talking to someone who has been through what they are going through.

Stroke Connection works with over 1,200 stroke groups or clubs and more than 130,000 stroke survivors, caregivers and professionals throughout the country. Stroke Connection supports the development of stroke groups and offers program ideas and activities (such as workshop guidelines) to groups that are registered in the Stroke Connection directory.

Stroke groups and clubs may register by calling 1-800-553-6321. Registered groups receive several benefits.

Stroke Connection Magazine is the main publication and one of the benefits of registration. For information on ordering Stroke Connection Magazine and subscription rates, call 1-800-553-6321.

Holiday basketball tournaments

For the 33rd consecutive year, the North American Martyrs Council 4338, Knights of Columbus, sponsored the Holiday Basketball Tournaments at St. John Brebeuf, Niles. During December and January, one hundred nineteen teams, covering 4th, 5th and 6th grade boys and girls from all over the area, competed for first place honors in the single elimination tournament. All proceeds from the tournament, approximately $3000, were donated to St. John Brebeuf School's Athletic Fund to assist in the many programs provided.

Tournament Chairmen Ken Lee and Dan Kosiba along with Grand Knight Rich Zaprzalka and PGK Bob Bianchi of Council 4338, presented special trophies to all first and second place teams in each category. The winning teams are: Girls: 4th Grade - Mary Seat of Wisdom School; 5th Grade - Queen of All Saints School; and 6th Grade - St. Thecla School. Boys: 4th Grade - Queen of All Saints School; 5th Grade - St. Luke School; and 6th Grade - St. Mary of the Woods School.

The officers and brothers of Council 4338 offer their congratulations to all the winning teams and a special thanks to all teams that competed in this year's successful tournament.

Book Discussion Group at Morton Grove Library

Thinking Out Loud, the Library's book discussion group, will meet Tuesday, February 23 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. to discuss Under the Tuscan Sun: At Home in Italy by Frances Mayes. Would you rather be in the gorgeous Italian countryside in February instead of in cold Chicago? In this memoir about buying, renovating, and living in an abandoned villa in Tuscany, Mayes reveals the sensual pleasure she found in the simple lifestyle of rural Italy. Cooking, gardening, and painting are not chores but rather skills to be practiced and enjoyed. Mayes gives a literary and intellectual account of her rural idyll. This book discussion is free and open to everyone.

The Morton Grove Public Library is located at 6140 Lincoln Ave. For more information, or for mobility and communication access assistance, call 847-965-4220, TDD 965-4236.

MG Park District offers writing class

Deadline for Oakton scholarship application

Numerous scholarships have been established at Oakton Community College through the generosity of businesses, organizations and individuals. These scholarships reward student achievement, encourage student leadership and accomplishment, and provide financial assistance.

All individuals wishing to be considered as candidates for the 1999-2000 academic year must submit a Scholarship Application by March 1, 1999. The Scholarship Selection Committee will notify all candidates of award decisions in June.

Scholarships are open to 1999 high school graduates, district residents and Oakton students. Criteria for each scholarship vary, depending upon the donor, and may differ according to the candidate's residency, enrollment status (e.g., full-time or part-time), academic achievement, earned college credit or pursuit of a particular college major.

To request an Oakton scholarship application, call the Financial Aid Office at (847) 635-1708 or pick up the application at the DesPlaines campus (Room 1250) or at the Ray Hartstein Campus (Room A100).

Nationally acclaimed speaker to speak at Notre Dame

Nationally recognized motivational speaker, Mark Scharenbroich, Minneapolis, Minnesota, will address an all-school assembly at Notre Dame High School, 7655 W. Dempster St., Niles on Thursday, February 18, 1999 at 1:45 p.m.

Scharenbroich's powerful and affirming message, tailored to inspire students is delivered with the precise timing of a stand-up comedian. The presentation will focus on the importance of participation and personal growth during the high school years.

Scharenbroich performed in the film entitled "The Greatest Days of Your Life...(so far)" which has been seen by over ten million students worldwide. He is also the author of two award-winning films, "One of a Kind" and "Pathways to Performance". Mark also wrote and performed in the ABC Television special, "Doing Great" which earned him an Emmy award. Scharenbroich is also the author of three award-winning courses which deals with positive self esteem, goal setting and leadership training.

Mark has personally spoken in over 2,500 high schools from above the Arctic Circle to below the Panama Canal.

Resurrection

RES-MA-TAZZ

A red, fully loaded 1999 Volkswagen Beetle will be raffled off on February 27, 1999 at Resurrection High School, 7500 W. Talcott. Only 350 tickets will be sold. Winners need not be present to win.

The 1999 Beetle raffle is just one of the many attractions planned for Res-ma-tazz 1999 Mardi Party, a fundraiser for the school. Other activities include:

• Beanie Baby Game - Resurrection High School has made a special purchase of 400 Beanie Babies for this event, each sporting a Resurrection T-shirt. Guests have the chance to win retired and rare Beanie Babies.

• Silent, Live and Celebrity Auctions - Guests have the opportunity to bid on one and two-week vacations, a role as an extra in a movie or a television show or a custom-framed photo of Michael Jordan's LAST championship shot from the 1997-98 season.

• Dance Contests and Karaoke - All aspiring Freds and Gingers can put on their dancing shoes to compete for great prizes by performing their best Twist, Swing and Polka. DJ Greg Lynch from Innovations in Music will also lead the Karaoke as guests belt out their favorite tune.

• Grand Buffet - The dinner buffet will feature an array of Creole specialties, as well as chef-carved sirloin of beef.

• And much more!

Cherry Pie Festival to be held

Maine East's Maine Historical Society is currently organizing the school's annual Cherry Pie Festival for late February. Officers (front Bumika Gor of DesPlaines/president, (middle, l-r) Jucy Panicker of DesPlaines/treasurer and Kara Beil of Niles/secretary, (top) Noel Jani of DesPlaines/activities director, and (not pictured) Sheryl Thomas of Niles/vice-president want the group's members to maintain an important Maine East tradition while still finding time to organize new activities. For example, after finishing first semester finals on Thursday, January 21, several Maine Historical Society members visited with residents at the Holy Family Nursing Home.

Dominican

Open Figure Drawing Sessions

The Art Department of Dominican University, 7900 West Division Street, is offering open figure drawing sessions on Thursdays through April 29, from 6-9 p.m. All sessions will be held in room 422 of Lewis Hall. Sessions will not be held on March 4 or April 1.

Participants will be able to use their imagination and their choice of medium. The first half hour of the session will consist of five minute gesture poses for participants to draw. The remaining part of the session will include one or two poses.

All sessions are open to the public and cost $6 per session. Participants are asked to bring their own supplies. No registration is required. For more information, call (708) 524-6842.

Maine East

Debate Tournament

Maine East will host the fifth annual Maine East Debate Tournament, Friday through Sunday, Feb. 19 to 21. Nearly 400 high school students from 30 high schools are expected to compete. Last year there were 56 teams in the open division, and 40 teams in the novice division.

Awards will be presented, according to Jerry Kantrovich / Maine East's assistant debate coach, to top 11 speakers in each division and all elimination-round participants.

The '98-'99 topic is Resolved: That the United States should substantially change its foreign policy toward Russia.

In previous years, high schools throughout Illinois as well as from Colorado, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, and Wisconsin participated in the Maine East Debate Tournament.

Area residents graduate from Purdue

Purdue University awarded approximately 2,585 degrees to students during commencement ceremonies in December. The university presented about 1,985 undergraduate degrees and about 600 advanced degrees during commencement ceremonies.

Area graduates are: Iksan Lewono, Richard James Warren, and Lainie M. Christopher of Des Plaines; Evia Yee-Wai Cherk of Glenview; David Ronald James of Park Ridge, and Pravit Leo Kopsombut, Alexander Chen-Yu Wei, and Rowena Dacumos of Skokie.

NIU Dean's List

A total of 1,485 Northern Illinois University students have been named to the dean's list for their outstanding academic work during NIU's Fall 1998 semester.

The dean's list is compiled by NIU colleges according to varying criteria. The Colleges of Education, Liberal Arts and Sciences, Visual and Performing Arts, and Health and Human Sciences use a minimum semester grade point average of 3.75 on a 4.0 scale. The College of Business bases selection on class rank among the top ten percent of their class.

Area students are: Tossaporn Bhudvanbhen, Luke Joseph Datberl, Brooke M. Dankowski, Brittany R. Fulle, Laura Beth Glueckert, Diana Margaret Illing, John Anthony Lamonica, Matthew M. Reimann, Marzena E. Siedlarz, Anthony J. Sigismondi, Jack Kenneth Sorenson, Holly Kay Szalajka, and Anthony William Waski of Des Plaines; Jessie George, Leslie Marie Roberts, Daniel M. Roubitchek, and Corey Parker Wolf of Glenview; Lori Ruth Janus, Christie Ann Mahnke, Natalie Ovetsky, Rachel B. Rubenstein, and Kelly Anne Szlak of Morton Grove, Melissa Ann Dauksch, Mary A. Staunton, and Janet M. Wasilewski of Niles; Daniel Joseph Bratek, Heidi Lynn Funk, Samantha D. Lazich, and Lorena Samaniego of Park Ridge; Esther Fuller and Julie Young Kim of Skokie.

Dominican University to host career development workshop

The School of Business of Dominican University in cooperation with JA Human Resource Initiative will host, "Career Resiliency: What Have You Done For Yourself Lately?" an informational workshop on career development. The program will be held on Saturday, February 27 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Presidents' Lounge, Lewis Hall, 7900 West Division Street.

The seminar will present an overview of how to maintain career resiliency in the changing environment of work. Participants will learn how to evaluate their potential, the appropriate strategies to market themselves and methods of developing a personal career plan of action. An individual assessment survey will be administered. The workshop also will offer specific information on the labor market, future employment trends and salaries.

Cost for the workshop is $145 and includes seminar manual, related materials, refreshments and lunch. Cost for current students and alumni of Dominican is $50. For more information about the seminar, call (708) 524-6810.

Career Options Explored Through Guidance Activities

Maine East sophomores, juniors and seniors have the opportunity to explore career choices in-depth--thanks to the efforts of Verne Farrell, Maine East college/career counselor. From mid-February through mid-March, she's organized several activities, including a careers' options fair, field trips, and a guest speaker discussing internships and apprenticeships.

A Careers' Options Fair is scheduled for Thursday, February 18, in the Maine East student cafeteria from 7:30-10 a.m. Representatives include: specialized schools (art, beauty, technical, business, and trade); community college programs (printing, medical, construction, etc.); military (Air Force, Army, Marines, Navy, and Army and Air Guards); Explorer posts (out-of-school career clubs); and part-time and full-time employers (such as UPS and Accurate Temporaries).

Five field trips have also been organized: Engineering on Tuesday, February 23; Women in Business on Wednesday, February 24; Heating and Air Conditioning on Thursday, March 4; Culinary (chef) on Tuesday, March 9; and Art on Thursday, march 11. Attendance on field trips is first-come, first serve so Maine East students need to pick up permission forms immediately in the Career Resource Center (CRC).

The special careers' opportunity concludes Friday, March 12, with a presentation titled "How To Put Career Experiences in Your Maine East Schedule." Martha Heck, Maine East's school-to-work coordinator, will talk about career oriented classes in Maine East curriculum, internships and apprenticeships at Maine East for high high school credit, and summer seminars for high school students through Oakton in manufacturing, business technology and health careers. Students planning to attend the second period presentation in the CRC must pick up a "Speaker Pass" prior to March 12.

"High school students have a very narrow picture of the career opportunities that await them and even less idea of the training and education necessary for many occupations. Understanding this can help them to make wiser choices in high school and be happier employees someday," explains Farrell.

Dudycz sworn in as 7th District Senator

Walter W. Dudycz of Chicago was sworn in as the State Senator for the 7th District Jan. 13 during inaugural ceremonies in the Senate Chambers.

Illinois Supreme Court Justice S. Louis Rathje administered the oath of office to Dudycz and his Senate colleagues as the General Assembly convened its 91st biennial session.

State Sen. James "Pate" Phillip (R-Wood Dale) was reelected as Senate President, after a nomination speech by Senator Dudycz, and State Sen. Emil Jones (D-Chicago) was chosen for Minority Leader. Philip then reappointed Dudycz to his fourth term as a member of the Senate Majority leadership team.

"This is an exciting and challenging time to be involved in state government," Dudycz said. "As Assistant Senate Majority Leader, I have an even greater opportunity to address the issues that matter to 7th District residents in a meaningful and effective way. Together we wil continue to work to accomplish our goals."

A detective for the Chicago Police Department, Dudycz has served as a legislator in the Illinois senate since 1985. He and his wife, Oksana, have two daughters.

Walter W. Dudycz

The 7th District Senator's offices are located at 6143 N. Northwest Highway, Chicago, IL 60031 (773/774-7717) and M114 State House, Springfield, IL 62706 (217/782-3650).

What should investors do about Y2K?

It's the sort of plot only The X-Files fans could love. At the stroke of midnight, at the turn of the Millennium, the world comes to a screeching halt, like an engine that's just lost its oil. The oil in this case refers to computers that interlink the world's economies and financial markets, as well as many other aspects of our lives. They simultaneously stop working at midnight like a...vast conspiracy.

The conspiracy in this case is really a simple, non-alien problem. Many computers and software programs won't be able to read the year 2000 date because, to save limited and expensive memory, programmers over the years shortened four-digit dates to two digit. Computers and software operating on those two-digit dates won't know whether it's 2000 or 1900. Systems that aren't fixed in time won't function properly or won't function at all. That, warn some people, could cause a worldwide financial disaster.

How serious is the potential problem? What will it mean for you as an investor? Should you make portfolio changes in order to prepare for this potential problem?

The financial impact the computer problem will cause is anybody's guess at this point, but lots of people are guessing. On the one hand, some predict a worldwide recession, perhaps as deep as the 1973-74 U.S. recession, which knocked 45 percent off the value of the stock market and took investors years to recover. They see a collapse of essential government services, including Social Security and Medicare payments, as well as banking and financial systems. It's enough of a concern to some investment managers and advisors that they factor in a company's readiness for the year 2000 when studying whether to buy or sell its stocks or bonds.

Other experts dismiss the whole Y2K issue as empty Doomsday rhetoric. They agree there will be interruptions due to limited computer failures, but they will occur only in isolated pockets with minimal impact. Some think the world and U.S. economics might suffer a downturn, but not a widespread interlinked economic meltdown plunging the world into a long-term depression. Their worst fear is that investors will panic, pull all their money out of the market and create the very problem the investors feared.

One thing is certain at this stage. The cost of fixing computers and software so they will function in 2000 will amount to tens of billions, maybe hundreds of billions, in the United States alone.

Some estimates have put the worldwide total repair bill at $2-$3 trillion. That's money that could have gone to improving productivity or to the corporate bottom line, and that will likely have some impact on the economy. A study commissioned by Business Week, for example, thinks money diverted to fixing the Y2K problem will knock half a percentage point off of growth in the U.S. economy in 2000 and 2001.

What should you do as an investor in light of this uncertainty? Certainly it warrants a watchful eye. One area of concern among many Certified Financial Planner practitioners is foreign markets and economics, whose efforts to fix the Y2K problem is well behind efforts in the United States. But they caution against taking any drastic actions at this point. They worry about people dropping entirely out of the market and stuffing cash under the mattress and buying up gold, which is being advocated by those most alarmed.

What if major economic and financial problems do occur because of the year 2000 computer failures? One question you might ask yourself is, "How did I feel when the U.S. stock market dipped 20 percent at one point in 1998?" If you felt extremely uneasy being invested in stocks, you might want to take a more conservative approach to your portfolio if you are worried about the year 2000. On the other hand, many investors took the decline in stride and stayed invested, perhaps at most making minor adjustments. People who invest for the long term take the view that they can ride out market declines.

Which college planning strategies are right for you?

Families funding their children's college education face an array of confusing, and sometimes conflicting, choices and strategies: the education IRA, prepaid state tuition plans, tax credits, saving or non saving in your child's name, using a Roth IRA and more. It's best to talk to a college-funding expert, such as a Certified Financial Planner practitioner. In the meantime, here are several financial scenarios to think about, each with suggested strategies.

Low income, few assets. Financial aid will most likely be a big part of your planning. Look for scholarships and grants, too, since you don't have to pay them back. Many are given on a financial-needs basis. You also can save up to $1,500 a year in taxes by using the Hope Scholarship and Lifetime Learning credits when your child is in college.

Middle income, modest assets. Financial aid will likely be part of your picture, but try to save as much as you can. The majority of financial aid these days is in the form of loans. Saving in your child's name probably won't be worth it, since the tax benefits will be minimal and it will reduce the child's financial aid.

Consider an education IRA, in which you can invest up to $500 a year. Contributions are not tax deductible, but earnings grow tax-free and are not taxed when used to pay for college. However, there are drawbacks. Assets in the account will be treated as your child's and may reduce your financial aid more than if you'd saved money in your own name. Second, currently you can't use the Hope or Lifetime credits in a year you take money out of an education IRA. You'll have to weigh which one is likely to be more valuable at the time. (Basically, you can earn more tax free in the IRA than what you would receive in tax credits?)

High income, high assets. One avenue is to invest in growth assets assuming you've got at least five years until your child enters college. Growth assets will keep your tax bite down while the assets grow, and when you sell, the tax bite will be at low capital gains rates. A prepaid state tuition plan is an option, but if you're a confident investor you'll probably do better on your own.

Investing in your child's name will reduce the tax bite, and won't hurt financial aid prospects since you probably won't receive aid, anyway. Just be sure you're confident your child will use the money for college.

Forget using the new college tax credits. They start phasing out for famlies with joint income above $80,000. The same goes for the new education IRA if your income exceeds $150,000 annually, though your child could put his or her own money in an education IRA.

Little time left. Apply for financial aid, scholarships and grants. You may be able to borrow against the equity in your home, or borrow against your retirement plan, though it's better to leave that money alone for retirement. Don't both with an education IRA. It won't earn enough in a short time and it may disqualify you from using the more valuable Hope or Lifetime credits.

A nervous investor. A state prepaid tuition plan may be a good choice. You don't have to make investment decisions, and some of the loans guarantee to cover tuition. Don't bother with an education IRA, since it conflicts with the tuition program.

You're an older parent. If you will have children in college when you turn 59 1/2, consider a Roth IRA. You can put more into a Roth (up to $2,000) than an education IRA. Once the Roth has been open for five years, you can withdraw the earnings, tax free, to pay for college. Again, however, it may be best to leave the Roth alone for retirement.

Regardless of your financial situation, don't neglect saving for your retirement in order to fund college.

Essay contest winners announced

"The North American Martyrs Council 4338, Knights of Columbus, again hosted a special essay contest for students of the 7th & 8th grades for three area schools. Over 160 students submitted their essay on the subject, "Is Excellence in Achievement an Old-Fashioned Concept?" to the essary contest committee.

Throughout November & December, 1998, each of the essays were evaluated for content, reader appeal, correct use of English, Spelling and overall neatness by 3 qualified judges. The top ten essays were then presented to qualified representatives of the Knights of Columbus for final judging and determination of the top three essays.

Contest chairman Randy Greco proudly announces the winners to this year's essay contest for 1998. Congratulations to:

1st place: Michael Lushniak, St. Juliana School;

2nd place (tie): Rocio Illera, St. John Brebeuf School;

2nd place (tie): Bernadette Tonietto, St. Juliana School.

The winners will be presented their savings bond and a special plaque at the council's Awards Night, Wednesday, March 17, 1999, in St. John Brebeuf School's Flanagan Hall, 8301 N. Harlem Ave., Niles. Essay contest chairman Randy Greco offers these individuals his heartiest congratulations & special thanks to all the competitors. Even if they did not receive a prize - each young adult is a winner for competing!

White announces license replating plan

Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White announced a license replating program which would produce newly designed plates at no additional cost to motorists who operate the state's 9.1 million motor vehicles.

White originally supported this plan in his successful campaign for secretary of state. The major reason for replating now is that it has not been done since 1984 and law enforcement agencies find many of the old plates worn and difficult to read. A high percentage of crimes involve motor vehicles, and as a result, the two new plates on every Illinois car is an important law enforcement tool.

State Rep. Joel Brunsvold (D-Milan) and State Senator Kathleen Parker (R-Northbrook), the sponsors of the bill, joined White at a press conference in the State Capitol.

Key to the proposal is requiring registration of motorists who currently are driving without proper vehicle registration. Law enforcement officials estimate between 4 and 7 percent of Illinois motorists are driving without current registration and are in violation of motor vehicle law.

Assuming a conservative estimate of 5 percent (450,000) of Illinois motor vehicles are not currently registered, the state will gain an estimated $21.6 million in motor vehicle registration fees by requiring scofflaws to purchase new plates. The White proposal also calls for an advance from the state road fund of $9.1 million to cover the remaining cost of the project.

White noted that the last time Illinois replated in 1984, the secretary of state observed a 7 percent increase in registration fees in the first year after re-issue.

"Experts in law enforcement have expressed to me the importance of this issue in order for them to do their job and better protect the public," White said.

The secretary pointed out the state of West Virginia recently saw a 7 percent increase in registration fees in the first year of replating, and the state of Iowa last year experienced a 5 percent registration fee increase in the first six months of its replating program.

White said the legislation has bipartisan support, and he noted that similar legislation passed the General Assembly in 1997, but was vetoed by the Governor.

"I commend Secretary White for taking on this issue as his first major initiative. Without new license plates the road fund will continue to lose $20 million per year that could be used to fix our ailing roads," said Senator Parker.

White's proposal has three main components:

- It would place 75 cents from each $48 registration fee in a special account to pay for future re-issues.
- It authorizes the secretary of state to begin replating immediately and to issue new plates periodically thereafter.
- It would increase the fine for failure to purchase plate renewal stickers from $75 to $100 with any additional fine revenues earmarked for the Road Fund.

"Illinois drivers have paid more than $5.6 billion for license plate fees since 1984 and it is about time that this important issue of replating be addressed," White said.

Move-down doesn't apply to luxury, amenities

As the move-down market becomes more specialized, and buyers become more sophisticated, builders are finding that "less is more" may apply to square footage, but when it comes to style, luxury and amenities, move-down buyers are actually moving up.

Highland Property Development, L.L.C., in joint venture with Focus Development, is building 2000 Green Bay Road in downtown Highland Park with the high expectations of this market segment in mind.

2000 Green Bay Road will consist of 61 new-construction condominiums in two four-story buildings overlooking a private, landscaped park. Six floor plans, base-priced from $279,900 to $429,900, range from 1,495 to 2,374 square feet. The homes include two to three bedrooms; 2 to 3 1/2 baths; and one or two heated, indoor parking spaces.

Residence C-1 is a three-bedroom, 2 1/2-bath floor plan with 2,022 square feet. To the left of the Carrera marble-tile entry foyer are two halls closets and a powder room. On the right is the kitchen. In addition to the building's standard GE Profile white-on-white appliances, the 20' by 10' kitchen features a pass-through overlooking the living and dining rooms, as well as a large breakfast area and pantry.

The 18'4" by 12'10" dining room has ample space for entertaining family and friends; while the 14'6" by 13'4" living room offers a setting for more intimate gatherings. Beyond the living room, the east-facing 15'10" by 6' balcony is perfect for a morning cup of coffee. First floor units have a private patio.

A hallway leads to the home's guest bedroom and bath, master suite and optional den/bedroom. Both the guest bedroom and den/bedroom feature double bay windows, and the 12' by 16'10" master suite has a triple bay. The den/bedroom can be connected directly to the master bedroom to create a separate sitting room, or the den can be converted to a bedroom. This allows the guest bedroom to be opened to the living room.

The master bath has split his and hers vanities; a 6' soaking tub with whirlpool option; separate shower with a Kohler base and built-in tile bench; and Kohler fixtures. His and hers walk-in closets and additional linen storage provide plenty of closet space for the master suite.

Standard kitchens at 2000 Green Bay Road include 3/4" granite countertops; Kohler double-bowl porcelain sinks with Kohler faucets; 8" by 8" ceramic-tile flooring; Canac European designer cabinets; prewiring for telephone and cable; and GE Profile white-on-white appliances including: refrigerator/freezer with ice maker; multi-cycle dishwasher; built-in double oven, one of which is self-cleaning; gas, four-burner cooktop; disposal; and microwave/exhaust hood vented to exterior.

Baths feature 4 1/4" by 4 1/4" ceramic wall tile; 8" by 8" ceramic floor tile; Canac designer cabinetry; solid surface vanity tops; a separate shower stall with Kohler base and ceramic tile seat (per plan); a soaking tub with whirlpool option in master bath; mirrored-door medicine cabinets; and Hollywood-style lighting above all mirrors.

Other interior features include: 12" by 12" Italian white Carrera marble tile in entry foyers, plush carpeting in the main living areas, bedrooms and dens; solid-core oak veneer entry doors; and wood-clad, double-pane, insulated glass windows and French balcony doors with screens.

The residences at 2000 Green Bay Road offer in-floor radiant heat and individually controlled forced air heating and air conditioning; in-unit washer/dryer hook-ups; secured lobby with alarm and intercom entry; sprinklers, smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors; two high-efficiency elevators; party room; full exercise room; individual storage lockers; and indoor parking with elevator access to home.

2000 Green Bay Road is located at Park Avenue West and Green Bay Road in downtown Highland Park, walking distance to the Metra station and a two-minute drive to U.S. 41, which turns into the Edens Expressway and I-90/94. Express trains reach downtown Chicago in 34 minutes.

Highland Park's established suburban downtown offers world-class shopping, restaurants and entertainment. Renaissance Place, just one block from 2000 Green Bay Road, is currently under construction, and will feature Saks Fifth Avenue, Williams Sonoma, The Pottery Barn, movie theaters and restaurants. Northbrook Court, one of the northern suburbs' largest shopping malls, is only minutes away.

How to rid your home of rodents

Is there a mouse in your house? Have you seen rodent droppings, heard scampering sounds, or recognized signs of recent gnawing? These are all good indications that you have a rodent problem. The question then becomes, what do you do about it? According to Richard Poche, rodent control expert for the maker of dCON® rodenticides, the keys to rodent control and elimination are early detection and prompt action. "Once you've established that there are rodents in your home and have pinpointed possible sources and entry points, the next step is to select the proper rodent control products," says Poche. "Cats, contrary to popular belief, are not the most effective means of ridding your home of rodents. The two most commonly used, and most effective, rodenticide products are baits and traps."

Use baits in low human traffic areas such as basements, garages and attics. Baits are an ideal way to avoid contact with rodents because once they've eaten the bait they leave the area to die. Multiple baiting is a good rodent control strategy since mice are nibblers by nature and may visit various sites to eat. Check the baits every few days to discard wet, dirty or contaminated bait, replacing what has been consumed. If a large amount of bait has been consumed, indicating a significant rodent population, set out larger portions. Also, baiting areas where there one was a rodent problem will help avoid a reoccurrence.

Traps are better suited in high rodent traffic areas where you can see or suspect mice. The two most commonly used traps are snap traps and glue traps. Baiting snap traps with peanut butter, nuts or cheese makes the trap much more appealing to rodents and increases your chances of catching the critters. Check the traps periodically; if mice are not caught in 4-5 days, move the traps to a new location.

The d-CON Ultra Set® Covered Mouse Trap features an easy one-touch setting mechanism, making it easy to bait, easy to set and easy to empty. The unique covered design helps you avoid having to look at or touch the dead mouse or can be emptied, cleaned and reused time and again.

"Set baits and traps close to walls and in dark corners such as behind the stove, refrigerator, washer and dryer," states Poche. "It is also a good idea to set baits and traps simultaneously in various spots in the home to ensure better control of the problem. And remember to always keep baits and traps out of the reach of children and pets."

The maker of d-CON rodenticides offers a free brochure that provides tips on spotting, controlling and preventing rodent infestation. A copy of the brochure is available by calling 1 (800) 395-3266.

Free Colorado blue spruce trees

Ten free Colorado blue spruce trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during February 1999.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

Colorado blue spruces have silver blue-green color and a compact conical shape. They can be used as individual ornamentals, an energy-saving windbreak, a privacy screen, or as living Christmas trees.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between March 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to Ten Free Colorado Blue Spruce Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by February 28, 1999.

Chicago Botanic Garden 1999 programs

The Chicago Botanic Garden presents a variety of educational adventures for children including an indoor sleepover, crafts and scientific investigations with its Planting Families programs, February through May, 1999.

Planting Families programs offer children the opportunity to learn and discover the world of horticulture in a fun and exciting way. Young children will explore the four seasons of nature through stories, songs, games and take-home crafts. Older kids can enroll in workshops to learn about wind and rain with weather instruments they make themselves and investigate optics with kaleidoscopes.

Parents can join in the fun through family activities. The Garden will host a family sleepover with a flashlight tour of the greenhouses, a spring veggie workshop and a family bird-watch to excite and encourage awareness of the environment together.

Programs and activities are geared to specific age groups from ages 3 to 12.

Planting Families activities take place at the Chicago Botanic Garden, 1000 Lake Cook Road, Glencoe. To receive a Planting Families schedule and registration form, please contact the Education Registrar at 847.835.8261.

The Dark Side: Gardening in the Shade

Is your garden solar-challenged? An expert from the Chicago Botanic Gardens will give a lecture on The Dark Side: Gardening in the Shade Thursday, February 25 at 7 p.m. about how to grow colorful, productive, and satisfying gardens in shady areas. Participants will receive handouts for take-home reference.

The program is free, but limited to 100 people. Please preregister for this program beginning February 8 by calling the Reader's Service desk at 965-4220. Priority will be given to Morton Grove residents with a valid library card. Non-residents may also register and will be notified by phone if space is available.

The Morton Grove Public Library is located at 6140 Lincoln Ave. For more information or for mobility and communication access assistance, please call (847) 965-4220. All programs are free and open to everyone.

Lincolnwood's Dad and Son Jamboree

The Lincolnwood Recreation Department's Dad and Son Jamboree will take place Saturday, March 13, 1999 from 10 a.m.-12 p.m. in the Lincoln Hall West Gym, 6855 N. Crawford, Lincolnwood. The fees for residents are $20 per couple - $10 each additional son; non-resident fees are $30 per couple - $15 each additional son.

Boys and their dads, uncles, special adults and grandfathers are welcome.

Included in the program will be refreshments, sports, games, relays, trivia, beat the clock and an action photo memento.

For more information, call 847-677-9740.

USE THE BUGLE

Booklet to help design accommodating, accessible kitchens

Universal, adaptable and transgenerational kitchens, three design buzzwords, share one important goal: accessibility. The challenge, say experts at Maytag, is to create kitchens that will remain comfortable over the years for all family members - toddlers and seniors, folks in the middle preparing for life's changes, and others with special requirements.

Sounds like a tall order, with so many factors to consider when remodeling a kitchen, or planning a new one. The height of cabinets and countertops, placements of appliances, materials used - they're just the tip of the iceberg when designing an accommodating kitchen.

They key to accessibility is thoughtful planning. Think about family members, how each person uses the kitchen and what makes each cook special. Then project needs into the future, and imagine what kitchen layout and design features will best accommodate anticipated changes.

To help this planning process, Maytag offers a 24-page illustrated book, The Accommodating Kitchen: Accessibility with Substance...and Style.

Ideas both creative and practical are incorporated in a series of sketches of kitchen settings. Some solutions are quite simple, like replacing door knobs with easy to grasp levers, selecting colors that allow older eyes to see counter edges more clearly, or staggering counter heights and lowering cabinets to different people's comfort zones. Other recommendations include raising appliances six inches of the floor to eliminate bending; using non-glare finishes and glare-free lighting; lowering wall cabinets; installing vertical pull-outs, roll-outs and lazy susans for maximum accessibility, and leaving the area under a cooktop and sink open so a wheelchair or other seat can fit below.

The book also provides a handy checklist of convenience and safety features for readers to consider before remodeling or building a kitchen.

For a copy of The Accommodating Kitchen, send a check or money order for $2 to Maytag, Dept. I.E, Newton, IA 50208.

America's Disabled, Inc. cares for elderly also

America's Disabled, Inc., is a non-profit organization designed to provide for the medical needs of the homebound elderly and disabled. America's Disabled brings back the old-fashioned medical home visit with the technological advances of today. Many disabled homebound people live without proper medical attention due to inability to visit a doctor's office, and lack of finances. This problem has been increasing with the aging segment of our society.

America's Disabled has developed a program geared toward keeping homebound elderly and handicapped persons as independent as possible, with an emphasis on prevention. Physical evaluation, diagnostic testing and lab work are provided in the home by specialists trained in various areas of medicine. A well-trained staff coordinates all aspects of a patient's individual needs, including ancillary support services, and then maintains close contact with the caregiver and/or relatives. Through this total care, the homebound person continues to live in familiar surroundings, avoiding the inconvenient transportation problem to medical facilities, as well as the prospects of becoming institutionalized.

A wide range of professionals are available through America's Disabled, including physicians, psychologists, medical assistants, social workers and counselors. Specialized care is provided for cardiac and diabetic patients, as well as for conditions such as hypertension, emphysema and arthritis. All patients receive regular monthly home visits by licensed Medical Doctors.

America's Disabled will work with the homebound's personal physician, or one of our doctors can become the primary care physician, if desired. Ancillary services include physical therapists, visiting nurses, homemakers and medical equipment suppliers. Some patients can qualify for government subsidies to help cover the cost of medications and home meal delivery.

These services are available to people in the Chicagoland area. Medicare and most private insurance accepted.

For complete details and more information, call Richard Ansfield at (773) 685-7111.

Army Pvt. Phillip M. Rubow has entered basic military training at Fort Benning, Columbus, GA. Rubow is the son of Bonnie Rubow of Glenview, and Kenneth J. Rubow of Chicago. He is a 1998 graduate of Lane Technical School, Chicago.

Rammy P. Gewargis

Navy Seaman Rammy P. Gewargis, son of Paul and Juliet Gewargis of Skokie, is one of more than 380,000 active duty Sailors celebrating the Navy's 223rd birthday this month. Gewargis is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian oceans and Arabian Gulf aboard the amphibious transport dock USS Duluth as part of the USS Essex Amphibious Ready Group. The 1995 graduate of Niles North High School joined the Navy in July 1997.

Outstanding Volunteer nominations being sought

Do you know someone who has made a difference? Someone who volunteered to help the needy, the elderly, the homeless? Someone who helped a child expand his or her horizons or taught an adult to read or helped in countless other ways? Now is the time to salute these caring people -- and the organizations they serve -- by nominating them for the 1999 Golden Rule/Outstanding Volunteer Awards. The top seven winners will receive not only commemorative sculptures and plaques, but also $1,000 cash awards for their non-profit organizations (except in the category of Outstanding Youth Volunteer, where $500 will be presented to the organization served and a $500 scholarship awarded to the youth) and will automatically qualify for consideration in the National JC Penny Golden Rule Awards Program. Ten other finalists will be presented with Golden Rule certificates and plaques, plus $250 for their organizations.

Three years ago, we were honored to have one of our own local winners, club friend (High School volunteers of School District #300 in Carpentersville who work in an after school mentorship Program with at-risk children) go on to attain recognition as a National Winner. They were awarded $10,000 for their program!

The Golden Rule Awards/ Outstanding Volunteer Program is sponsored by The Volunteer Center of Northwest Suburban Chicago in Partnership with the JC Penny stores at Stratford Square, Woodfield, Randhurst, Spring Hill Mall, Golf Mill, Lincolnwood and Hawthorne. Winners will be chosen by a panel of community leaders. Act now. Take the time to thank the people who have so generously given their time to make a difference. Nominate a volunteer.

For more information or to receive a nomination form, contact The Volunteer Center at 847-228-1320. Deadline for nominations is February 10, 1999.

Des Plaines Camera Club to meet

The Des Plaines Camera Club will hold its inter-club Monthly Slide and Print Competition on Monday, February 22nd at 7:30 p.m. The Club meets at the Des Plaines Park District Leisure Center located at 2222 Birch Street (North of Touhy Avenue) in Des Plaines.

A brief business meeting is held prior to the Competition. Members may submit four color slides and/or print. There are several categories for both color and monochrome (black and white) photographs. The submissions will be judged by a panel of three judges from local camera clubs.

The Des Plaines Camera Club meets twice monthly on the second and fourth Monday, September through May at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments are served between the business meeting and competition.

Guests are always welcome. Whatever your level of interest in photography, you are cordialy invited to attend a meeting. For additional information regarding the Club, call (847) 255-2825 or (847) 824-5926, or check out the Des Plaines Camera Club's website at www.ChicagoTribune.com/link/dpcamera.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF Cook County, Illinois County Department — Chancery Division Fleet Mortgage Corp., Plaintiff, vs. Bouna Jacie, et al., Defendants. No. 96Ch 13076
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on July 15, 1997, The Judicial Sales Corporation will at 10:30 a.m. on March 2, 1999 in its office at 33 N. Dearborn Street, Suite 201, Chicago, IL 60602-3100, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, as set forth below, the following described real estate:
Commonly known as 8345 Kay Street, Niles, IL 60714.
The real estate is improved with a single family residence.
The judgment amount was $218,941.68.
Sale Terms: This is an "AS IS" sale for "CASH". The successful bidder must deposit 10% down by certified funds. Balance, by certified funds, within 24 hours. NO REFUNDS.
The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments or special taxes levied against said real estate, water bills, etc. and any prior mortgages of record and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to plaintiff. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.
Upon payment in full of the bid amount, the purchaser shall receive a Certificate of Sale which will entitle the purchaser to a Deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.
The property will NOT be open for inspection. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information.
For information contact the sales clerk at SHAPIRO & KREISMAN, 4201 Lake Cook Road, Northbrook, IL 60062 (847) 498-9990 between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. only. Please refer to file number 96-4668.
NOTE: Pursuant to the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act you are advised that the Law Firm of Shapiro & Kreisman is deemed to be a debt collector attempting to collect a debt and any information obtained will be used for that purpose.

PERSONALS

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
You who solve all problems, who lights all roads so that I can obtain my goals. You, who give me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life, you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days, without mentioning the favor and publish. A favor will be granted. Thank You. L.D.

St. Jude's Novena
May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the helpless, pray for us. Say this prayer nine times a day, for nine days. On the eighth day your prayers will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you St. Jude. B.D.
