Dist. 219 teacher contract extended through 2003

by Rosemary Tirio

There will be no more labor disputes in Niles High School District 219 for quite some time.

while memories of the bitter 11-day strike of 1996 continue to fade, the school board and teacher's union have reached a tentative agreement to extend the current contract rather than start negotiations anew and face the prospect of another strike. The present contract, including salary increases of 2.4 percent in each of the first two years and a cost of living raise in the last year, will be carried through to June 30, 2003.

The present contract would have expired in the fall of 2000. However, both sides began discussing the extension in talks last fall, and both sides concurred that a peaceful extension of the contract would be in the best interest of the district, according to Supt. Griff Powell.

All systems are go, as the Niles

New parking lot and awards for MG park district

by Ryan Bergin

As part of the Capital Projects Plan, the Harrer Park Museum parking lot has been scheduled for resurfacing during the 1999 calendar year. A total of $150,000 was budgeted for the project with a completion date set prior to the season opening of Harrer Park Pool. Specifications were developed by the Park District staff and the project was placed out to bid. Offers included alternates for installation of a speed bump and a unit price for removal and replacement of asphalt areas with major defects. Bids were received and publicly opened on March 4. Three groups vying for property; District 71 will continue to hold title on land

Senior housing likely to be built on South School site

by Rosemary Tirio

Niles Elementary School District 71 Superintendent Eugene Zalewski has issued a call for all persons or groups interested in leasing the South School building, 6935 W. Touhy Ave., to present their proposals to the school board by April 14.

So far, three serious condenders have entered the field, all with the same idea in mind for the property: a 100-unit Assisted Care Living Facility (ACLF).

With the large new addition to the Culver School, expanding that facility into a kindergarten through eighth grade school, the smaller and older South School, which became a kindergarten through fourth grade school after Culver was built in 1965, is no longer needed by the district. As the former South School students started attending Culver School last September, the South School did not reopen and the "For Sale" sign was put in place.

Although district officials first expressed the hope that another school would lease the building, and Joseph Academy, a private special education facility seemed interested early on, they quickly withdrew their offer and the district has been soliciting interested parties to submit proposals.

Zalewski said that the likelihood of the district's ever needing the South School as a school

Leaning Tower Y offers safety training for kids on spring break

by Rosemary Tirio

Timed to coincide with the various spring breaks of local elementary schools, the Leaning Tower YMCA, 6300 West Touhy Ave. is offering fire and drug safetry training for students from kindergarten through seventh grade, according to Program Director Denise Sotiriu.

The Niles Fire Department will conduct fire safety training from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, March 30, primarily for Chicago Public School students, and again on the following Tuesday, April 6, for area parochial school students. Training activities were conducted last week for students in Niles, Morton Grove and other area suburbs.

Featured in the training sessions are the Niles Fire Department's "Smoke House," a large trailer in which an actual fire is simulated. After hearing a talk and viewing a movie on fire safety procedures, students are then invited to enter the "burning" second floor of the trailer where they practice what they learned by crawling on the floor, escaping

District 207 Educational Foundation welcomes three new trustees

The Maine Township High School District 207 Educational Foundation welcomes three new Trustees effective January 14, 1999, including Mr. James H. Diehl.

Mr. James B. Blue, Chairman of the Maine Township High School District 207 Educational Foundation, proposed Mr. James H. Diehl of Park Ridge for a three year term on the Foundation Board. The Foundation Board unanimously and enthusiastically approved Mr. Blue's motion.

Mr. Diehl, Banking Center President-Park Ridge, First National Bank brings to the District 207 Educational Foundation over thirty three years experience in the banking industry. In addition to his work in private enterprise, Mr. Diehl has many years experience working with public education, including nine years experience working with public education, including nine years service on the Elementary School District 25 School Board in Arlington Heights during the 1980's. He also served seven years on the board of trustees for Talk Line, an information referral and crisis hot line in Elk Grove, Illinois.

Mr. Diehl is well known in the local business community, having served six years on the Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce board as well as President of the Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce in 1997. Mr. Diehl was a member of the Park Ridge Economic Development Corporation for three years.

Mr. Diehl is joining the Maine Township High School District 207 Educational Foundation Board of Trustees "because it seemed to be a worthwhile way to be involved in the community".

The Maine Township High School District 207 Educational Foundation hopes to raise in excess of $20,000 this school year to provide extended learning opportunities for students. Established in 1993, the Maine Township Educational Foundation is a non-profit tax exempt organization that operates independently of the district Board of Education. Since 1993 the Foundation has enhanced education for district students by providing funds to support enrichment programs and meet specific educational needs that are outside the district's regular budget.

The use of pesticides in schools and child care centers

Americans use hundreds of millions of pounds of pesticides, herbicides (plant killers), and fungicides each year, for non-agricultural purposes, including in and around schools and child care centers. Pesticides are, by nature, poisons, and exposure - even at low levels - may cause serious adverse health effects. Our nation's children, because of a variety of age-related factors, are at increased risk of cancer, neuro-behavioral impairment, and other health problems as a result of their exposure to pesticides. The National PTA is particularly concerned about the use of pesticides in and around schools and child care centers because children are there for much of their young lives.

The national PTA, long an advocate for a healthy environment, supports efforts:

• at the federal, state and local levels, to eliminate the environmental health hazards caused by pesticide use in and around schools and child care centers. these efforts will result in cost-savings when use of chemical controls is reduced; decreased health risks; and safe school and child care center environments.

• to encourage the integrated pest management approach to managing pests and the environment in schools and child care centers. Expansion of integrated pest management policies in schools and child care centers is an excellent long-term solution for control of pests that will significantly lower children's exposure to harmful chemicals by using the least toxic mix of pest control strategies.

• to retain authority for governmental bodies, at the state and local levels, to regulate the use of pesticides in and around school and child care center buildings. This authority is critical to retaining maximum state and local control over an issue so basic to children's health and well-being.

Integrated Pest Management Contacts. Robert Kusel, Skokie parent and school board member, 847-933-1822.

Bob Kusel has worked to bring Integrated Pest Management (IPM) to Skokie since he learned that his children's school was spraying pesticides on its athletic fields. He had recently read in a New York Times article that children exposed to pesticides at home had a 400% higher cancer rate and vowed to learn more about the pesticides his children, Ben (9), and Carolyn (6) were being exposed to at school.

Kusel requested a chemical fact sheet from the lawn care company that was spraying the athletic fields and sent the information to an environmental scientist, where he learned that the pesticides used in Skokie are considered a possible carcinogen by the U.S.EPA. During his subsequent search for a safe alternative he learned about IPM. Since that time, he has been working with the Safer Pest Control Project on its school pesticide reduction campaign and has served on its Task Force on Pesticides and Children's Health.

Sue Kamuda, IPM Coordinator, 630-887-1350, ext. #224.

Sue Kamuda has served as IPM Coordinator for Community Consolidated School District #181 since 1993. The district includes eight schools located in Hinsdale, Clarendon Hills and Burr Ridge. Since concerns expressed by school parents prompted the adoption of a district-wide IPM procedure.

Oakton welcomes noted scholar Martin E. Marty

"Community on the Eve of the Millennium" is the theme of the 1999 lecture series presented by Oakton Community College's Edge of Emeritus, a program designed for lifelong learners age 40 and older.

The series begins with the presentation, Illinois: Criss-Crossing Loyalties, from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 30, at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave., Skokie. Respected scholar and award-winning author Martin E. Marty will explore the literature and the history of Illinois, a state - literally and figuratively -- at the crossroads of America.

Marty, an ordained Lutheran minister and a University of Chicago professor emeritus, is the author of more than 45 books, including The One and the Many: America's Struggle for Common Good (Harvard University Press, 1997), and Righteous Empire: The Protestant Experience in America, the 1972 National Book Award winner for philosophy and religion. His many commendations include more than 50 honorary degrees, as well as the National Humanities Medal in 1997; the Medal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1995; and in 1998, the medal of the Lincoln Academy and the University of Chicago Alumni Medal.

Marty is currently the director of the Public Religion Project, an endeavor to better relate religion to American public life by connecting religious leaders and scholars to those who influence public life: artists, educators, the media, lawmakers and business leaders. He also serves as the George B. Caldwell Senior Scholar-in-Residence at the Park Ridge Center for the Study of Health, Faith and Ethics.

The Edge of Emeritus program is co-sponsored by Oakton Community College and various community organizations and is supported by a grant from the Skokie Fine Arts Commission, the Illinois Arts Council and the Illinois Humanities Council.

The $15 fee includes refreshments. Early registration is recommended, as seating is limited. To register and to request a complete listing of the 1999 Edge of Emeritus lectures, call (847) 635-1414.

Presiding judge of Skokie court to retire in July

Judge Harold Sullivan will retire July 2 from his position as presiding judge of the 2nd Municipal District in Skokie.

Sullivan's retirement was announced Feb. 23 by Chief Judge Donald O'Connell of the Cook County Circuit Court. O'Connell also said that Sullivan will be replaced by Judge Stuart Nudelman, presiding judge of the 4th Municipal District in Maywood, and Judge Themis Karnezis, a trial judge in the 4th District, will replace Nudelman.

First elected a municipal court judge in 1960, Sullivan assisted in the creation of the Illinois Judges Association and chaired the Illinois Supreme Court Judicial Evaluation Project.

While commending Sullivan's long tenure as presiding judge and the wealth of experience and knowledge he brought to the bench, O'Connell said the court's interests will be well served by the appointments of Nudelman and Karnezis.

Nudelman was appointed acting presiding judge of the 4th District in 1995, while Karnezis has been a highly respected jurist of the criminal division for 14 years during which he has acquired formidable trial experience, said O'Connell.

An easy way to volunteer

Do you want to try to make a difference in someone's life? Perhaps you want to be more connected to your community, more involved in making where you live a better place.

America's volunteers answer "yes" to these statements. If you're not already a member of this special group, all it takes is one telephone call and you can join. That important number is 1 (800) VOLUNTEER (1-800-865-8683). And a perfect time to become a volunteer is during National Volunteer Week, April 18-24.

While projects vary between the different Volunteer Centers, there is usually a continuous demand for volunteers to work on both short and long term assignments ranging from a few hours on one special day to several hours every week.

48 Park Ridge restaurants get clean bill of health

Forty-eight Park Ridge eateries were recently recognized for excellence in the semi-annual food sanitation inspections.

The restaurants were praised for achieving 80 percent or higher on a minimum of two visits by City Inspector Brian Emanuel. Emanuel uses a unique scoring system he developed, which is now being used by municipalities across the country.

The traditional Food and Drug Administration food code developed in 1976 starts with 100 points and deducts points for violations. Emanuel's method follows the FDA guidelines but uses a percentage method for scoring which can take into account multiple violations.

All of the 123 Park Ridge restaurants are inspected at least twice each year. Return inspections are made two weeks after any restaurant is found to have a violation. Emanuel said he will keep returning to a particular restaurant until he is satisfied that they have removed the violation.

Most violations Emanuel cites have to do with good temperature and can be remedied even before he leaves the restaurant, he said. Emanuel said he and his department throw out food they deem to be contaminated every year in an order to protect the public.

A score below 60 percent on an inspection can result in fines or even immediate closure. Emanuel said during his 20 years as inspector, he has levied some fines but has rarely had to close a Park Ridge restaurant.

Based on scores from routine, surprise inspections, the following 48 Park Ridge restaurants were cited for excellence:

All Occasion Deli, Avenues to Independence, Boston Market, Chicago Hot Dog Factory, China House, Chinese Dragon, Colonial Coffee Shop, Dairy Queen, Dairy Freeze, Deli Delights, Devon Avenue Meats, Domino's Pizza, Erberts and Gerberts, Fannie May Candies, Fritz's Grill, Gianfranca's, Giappo's, Gourmet Chalet Red-Eye, Hay Caramba, Jade House, Jeanine Schultz School, J.D. Kidds, Jewel Food Stores, Kelly's Meat Market, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Lou Malnati's Pizza, Lutheran General Hospital, Mac's Restaurant, McDonald's, Messiah Lutheran Day Care, Morningfield's, Mr. Rib, Beef and Pizza, Park Ridge Health Care Center, Pickwick Theater, Prime Choice European Deli, Protection Mutual, Quizno's Classic Subs, Resurrection Nursing Pavilion, Robert's European Deli, St. Mary's Merry Go Round, St. Matthew Lutheran Home, two Subway Sandwich Shops, Sugar Plum Tree Day Care, Walter's Restaurant, What's the Scoop and White Hen Pantry.

Help send a child to Burn Camp

Robert O. Kruger, retired member of the Morton Grove Fire Department will be participating in a cross country bike trip to raise funds for the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn Camp. All proceeds received from this bike trip will be donated to the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn Camp.

The Illinois Fire Safety Alliance provides a one week summer burn camp for young burn survivors ages 8-16. These children have endured more than most of us ever will as adults. IFSA Burn Camp is made possible through donations that we receive.

The special programs we make available at camp help the children build self-esteem while learning to deal with the obvious burn scars and the deep psychological trauma they often suffer. It costs approximately $650 per child to attend camp. The campers' families never incur any expense. Camp is only possible through donations we receive. Seventy-seven children attended our Burn Camp in 1998. Burn Camp 1999 will be held June 20-26.

IFSA Burn Camp can only be provided by donations that are received. For more information, call (847) 967-7138.

Boy Scout Troop 175 feeds the homeless

On the night before St. Valentine's Day most people concentrate their efforts on providing their loved ones a special treat of candy, flowers or even a dinner out - the Boy Scouts of Troop 175 had thoughts of giving on a much larger scale. They came together to provide a home-cooked meal for the homeless people of Chicago.

On Saturday, February 13, over 70 people of the Sousa House, a homeless center at 70th St. and Aberdeen on the south side of Chicago, enjoyed a special pasta meal with all the trimmings prepared and served by the members of the troop. The meal was prepared at St. John Brebeuf Church, Niles, and transported to the shelter for the patron's enjoyment.

This special meal, planned by Mrs. Penny Guerrieri, of St. John Brebeuf School, provided the patrons special treats by serving a delicious Valentine's dessert of various types of cupcakes, cakes and brownies. Each of the patrons also received an individual Valentine's card, wishing them well. Many of the patrons expressed their thanks for the dinner the scouts provided.

Among the volunteers providing the meal were 5 members of the St. John Brebeuf Holy Name Society and the North American Martyrs Council 4338, Knights of Columbus, Niles. The sponsoring organizations for the troop.

The scout leaders are very proud of the boy scouts for their many charitable efforts throughout our community. Scoutmaster David Okun wants to express his thanks to the entire Guerrieri family for all the effort they put into making this evening a success.

Women's Business Development Center

The Women's Business Development Center (WBDC), in conjunction with the Child Care Initiatives of the Hull House Association, will sponsor a workshop entitled, "Get Organized: The Business Plan for Your Child Care Business," on Tuesday, April 6, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., at WBDC headquarters, 8 S. Michigan, Suite 400, in Chicago.

Those interested in starting their own child care business or expanding an existing one should attend. The workshop will focus on how to create a high-impact plan for a child care business; business plans are often used to obtain financing and guide business growth.

This workshop is an offering of the Child Care Business Initiative, a program supporting women starting or expanding their own child care businesses. The Initiative is supported by the State of Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

The cost is $25 and includes materials. Scholarships are available. To register or for more information, call the WBDC at (312) 853-3477 and press 0 for the receptionist.

Partnership helps streamline adoption preparation

If you have ever considered adoption, now may be a perfect time to take the next step of providing a permanent home for a deserving boy or girl. Catholic Health Partners and Catholic Charities of Chicago have partnered together to offer a streamlined adoption training/licensing program, which can help families become eligible for adoption within a few months.

The adoption initiative is the product of a program started last year by former Illinois Governor Jim Edgar and the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services called the Corporate Partnership for the Recruitment of Adoptive Families. The initiative pairs Chicago area hospitals and social service agencies -- like Catholic Health Partners and Catholic Charities -- to promote adoption opportunities among hospital employees and within the communities they serve. The program's goal is to speed the placement of hundreds of children currently available for adoption. In the first year of the initiative, dozens of families were recruited, trained and licensed for adoption, and many children already have been placed.

The program includes nine hours of adoption training at a Catholic Health Partners hospital, taught by Catholic Charities staff. After training, families become licensed by the state and are eligible to adopt children who are wards of the state. Catholic Charities provides assistance in matching children and families.

The adoption training program is available to persons of all faiths. Qualified prospective adoptive parents:

- can be single, legally married or divorced;
- may or may not have their own birth children;
- must be emotionally prepared to meet the particular needs of the child;
- must be able to financially manage the addition of a child into the family (although there are no specific income requirements);

Orientation sessions have been scheduled for Monday, April 5, at Saint Joseph Hospital, 2900 N. Lake Shore Drive, and Thursday, April 8, at Saint Anthony Hospital, 2875 W. 19th St. Any family interested in this no-obligation orientation should contact Dan McCarthy at Catholic Health Partners, (773) 665-3445, to register.

Girl Scouts of Chicago pays tribute to community leaders

Nearly 350 business and civic leaders gathered at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel to honor two prominent community volunteers -- one a leading woman executive and the other a philanthropically-committed corporation -- for their outstanding achievements.

Girl Scouts of Chicago presented Sheila Penrose, president of Corporate & Institutional Services of The Northern Trust Company, with its Luminary Award and Andersen Consulting with its Corporate Appreciation Award during the council's annual celebration and fundraiser, Tribute to Achievement.

"As a non-profit organization dedicated to serving the needs and interests of girls, Girl Scouts of Chicago is committed to honoring individuals who through their personal successes and accomplishments inspire girls to set goals and act with confidence," said Karen Case, president of Girl Scouts of Chicago.

Kenneth Bergren, managing partner for the Chicago Metro division, accepted Girl Scouts of Chicago's Corporate Appreciation Award on behalf of Andersen Consulting.

According to Brooke Wiseman, executive director of Girl Scouts of Chicago, "Andersen Consulting is a valued corporate friend. The company drafted the council's current technology plan pro bono.

Girl Scouts of Chicago's 1999 Tribute to Achievement event, which generated more than $240,000 for Girl Scouting, was chaired by Frederick A. Krehbiel, chairman and CEO of Molex Incorporated; William C. Foote, chairman and CEO of USG Corporation; and Edward J. Mooney, chairman and CEO of Nalco Chemical Company. The Girl Scouts of Chicago board event chair was Portia Owen Morrison, partner with Rudnick & Wolfe. For more information about Girl Scouts of Chicago, call (312) 416-2500.

Search is on to find the world's greatest granny

The search is on to find the world's best grandma.

The Washington Apple Commission announced the official beginning of its annual Search for Granny Smith - a nationwide hunt to find the perfect grandmother to promote the state's famous green fruit.

"We're looking for on-the-go grannies," said Jim Thomas, search coordinator for the commission. "Someone who personifies the healthful attributes of our apples."

Thomas said a successful candidate should meet the following guidelines: Be sweet to the core and have good moral fiber. Be hand-picked by children, grandchildren, spouse or friends. Have beauty that's more than skin deep, and just the right amount of maturity. Have "a-peel."

Those wishing to nominate a grieworthy grandma should write, in 100 words or less, why the nominee should be considered and enclose a non-returnable photo. Nominations should be sent to Granny Smith; P.O. Box 18; Wenatchee, WA 98807, and received no later than April 2, 1999.

"Nominees don't need to have the last name 'Smith,' and the photos sent to us, like our Granny Smith apples, should be in good taste," Thomas said.

Last year's winner was 58-year-old Joan Phillips of Plano, Texas, an avid community volunteer, fitness enthusiast and grandmother of three. Phillips was selected out of thousands of entries from across the United States and Canada to be the official "spokesgranny" for Washington's apple growers.

She's been busy.

"It's been a great year," Phillips said. "I've traveled quite a bit making TV and public appearances. Getting to meet so many people and seeing so much of the country has been a tremendous experience."

Twenty grandmothers, and the person who nominated each of them, will be chosen to participate in the "Granny Finale," held in May at the Washington State Apple Blossom Festival in Wenatchee, Wash.

The winner will be featured on grocery store posters and will make promotional appearances in the upcoming year.

"We have another crop of high quality Granny Smiths this year, so we need an even bigger crop of granny nominees," Thomas said. "The search has really turned into something special. We give people a chance to tell us why grandmothers are a special part of their lives.

"From the nominations we've received, it seems many grannies have traded in their rocking chairs for tennis shoes."

Northern Illinois Civil War Round Table

The next meeting of the Northern Illinois Civil War Round Table will be held on Friday, April 2nd at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 3500 N. Dunton Avenue. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Hendrickson Room.

The program for the April meeting, "Too Afraid to Cry: Civilians and the Battle of Antietam," will be presented by guest speaker Kathleen A. Ernst. The Battle of Antietam on September 17, 1862 has been identified as the "bloodiest day in American History." By nightfall, more than 23,000 men were dead, wounded, or missing. The children, women, and men who lived in the village of Sharpsburg and surrounding farms were left to confront the battle aftermath. Kathleen Ernst will provide insight into the civilian experience of September 1862 with her slide presentation.

Meetings of the NICWRT are held twice a month, September through June. The regular meeting is the first Friday of each month. There is no charge, and the public is invited. Informal discussion are held on the third Saturday of each month, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, at the Barrington Area Library, 505 N. Northwest Highway in Barrington.

Anyone interested in further information about the meeting or membership should contact Liz Feltmann at (847) 824-4510 or Bob Ziegler at (847) 358-6355.

For Healthy Body & Mind Through "Ki (Energy)

The "Dahn Holistic Health" seeks to keep the energy channels open.

In Korea, 100,000 people flock to the country's parks daily to practice a 10,000-year-old system of wellness called Dahn-training. In Glenview, The Dahn Holistic Health opened its doors last August in hopes of bringing its ancient message to people. According to Dahn philosophy, the guiding force of life is the body's energy, or Ki. A human being is essentially made up of both a visible body and an invisible mind. Ki connects these two parts. Ki, like mind, is not visible and like mind, Ki, has no size, no smell, no color and no weight. However, both of them obviously exist as a motivating force for the body, and they are both transmitted as sound, light, and wave. Illnesses of injuries happen when the body's Ki is blocked. Dahn-training masters use meditation, dance and other movement to keep the body's Ki flowing. Korean practice Dahn-training on a daily basis. A typical class lasts an hour, beginning with a 20 minute warm-up including breathing and stretching exercises and ending with deep meditation. Hanned Strong of Crestone has traveled the world as a writer and companion to her husband, Maurice, undersecretary general of the United Nations. A year and a half ago she went to Korea to investigate Dahn-training. Now she practices it.

The Dahn Holistic Health is located in 2630 Golf Rd., Glenview. One-hour classes Monday, Wednesday and Friday: 7 a.m., 10 a.m., 4:30 p.m., 7 p.m., 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday: 10 a.m., 6:30p.m., 8 p.m. For information, call (847) 998-1377.

Take a tour of Athens and Greek Islands

Travelers looking for another place to visit will want to consider a trip to the cradle of democracy and birthplace of western civilization with the Pullman Pillars Club during their 12-day tour of Athens and Delphi in addition to cruising through the Greek Islands, beginning Oct. 18.

This combination land and water excursion will include round-trip international air, three nights at a first class hotel in Athens with buffet breakfast, a full day tour to Delphi with lunch and a sightseeing tour of Athens and the Acropolis, all before boarding the Stella Solaris for a seven-day cruise through the Greek Islands. The cruise will then depart Athens for: Heraklion (Crete), Santorini, Rhodes, and Patmos, all in Greece; Kusadasi (Ephessos), cruising through the Dardanelles, Cankkale (Troy), and Istanbul, all in Turkey; and Mykonos and Pireus (Athens), all in Greece followed by the return flight home.

Costs range from $2,713-#3,409 per person (double occupancy) based on location of cabin selected. All port and air taxes are included. A down payment of $300 will be required to make a reservation, and the final payment will be due July 20.

To make a reservation for this land and cruise trip to Greece and Turkey or for information on the Pullman Pillars Club, call or visit Pamela Major or Frank Pugliesi, at Pullman Bank, 6100 Northwest Highway, Chicago, phone (773) 594-2226 or (773) 594-2227.

Sixth graders "Sing the Blues"

The sixth grade team at Nelson School was fortunate enough to be able to participate in a new program funded by The House of Blues. Two classes at a time journeyed to downtown Chicago where they were introduced to the world of the Blues.

The students were first given a visual tour where they saw magnificent folkart created by many different artists using unusual materials and subject matter to tell their story visually.

But, the best was yet to come! A house band led by a phenomenal blues singer put on a program that traced the beginnings of the blues to its African roots. She told the story of how the slaves would use music to send messages to each other as they made their way to freedom on The Underground Railroad. The blues were shown to be the root of jazz, as well as the rock music listened to today.

For the adventurous among the students and teachers, an opportunity was given to get up on stage. Using a common pattern of blues music and lyrics, they were able to sing an original song, backed by the incredible musicians.

The trip was a feast for all the senses. Most of the students wanted to return to The House of Blues as soon as they could. Now, the modern music they listen to will have a different meaning to each and every one.

River Trail Pancake Breakfast

The annual miracle of spring renewal is beginning once more in our Cook County Forest Preserves, and that means its maple syrup time at River Trail Nature Center, Northbrook. As sweet sap rises in sugar maple trees, the nature center will be giving demonstrations of sap collection and syrup making, culminating with the 30th annual maple syrup festival on Sunday, March 28.

Demonstrations of maple syrup making by Indian and pioneer methods will be given continuously from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and the syrup evaporater will be operating throughout the day. Everyone is invited to join hourly walks into the sugar bush, accompanied by a draft horse from the Brookfield Zoo, for tree tapping talks and demonstrations, beginning at 10 a.m. Demonstrations by the Forest Preserve Police canine and equestrian units will also be presented.

All-you-can-eat buttermilk pancakes with pure maple syrup will be served from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at a cost of $4 for adults and $3 for ages 12 and under.

Parking will be at Allstate Corporation, directly across Milwaukee Avenue from the nature center, with free shuttle service to the festival, or at Lake Avenue East and Allison Woods picnic areas.

River Trail Nature Center, at 3120 N. Milwaukee Ave., Northbrook, is open year round. Phone (847) 824-8360 for information and registrations.

North Shore Radio Club

What happens during a natural disaster -- a hurricane, earthquake, flood or tornado -- when communication lines are down?

Who helps get the word out during a power outtage, search-and-rescue mission or brush fire?

One answer to "who you gonna call?" is the amateur radio emergency service, volunteers trained and organized to help fill in critical communications gaps.

How hams help during a disaster or emergency will be discussed at the April 13 meeting of the North Shore Radio Club.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Karger Recreation Center, 1850 Green Bay Rd., Highland Park.

The program will be presented by Wauconda resident Bernie Moritz of Lake County R.A.C.E.S. -- the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service. Groups like Lake County R.A.C.E.S. provide -- at no charge -- vital communications link during an emergency.

At these times one of the big technological casualties is the cellular phone. In reality, cell phones are radio links to the wired telephone network. When wires come tumbling down, everyone tries to use cell phones. Remaining lines get overloaded and there is no service. That's when hams work with government and community organizations to help with such essentials as evacuations, moving people to shelters, collecting supplies and damage assessment.

During the meeting there will also be information on how to become a ham and get involved in providing emergency and other community services.

The meeting is free and open to the public. for further information, call 847-272-8347; or check www.NS9RC.org.

Brickton Montessori School to host Spring Swing

Brickton Montessori School will host the Spring Swing Dinner Dance and Silent Auction on April 10. The event will be held at the O'Hare Hyatt Regency in Rosemont from 6 p.m. to midnight. Tickets are $45 per person, and include dinner, admittance to the Silent Auction and Swing dance lessons.

The fun-filled evening will begin with a cocktail hour and viewing of the Silent Auction items at 6 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. and the Swing dance lessons will commence at 8:30 p.m. The Swing dance lessons will be provided by Patricia Kassanits and her dance troupe from Roselle.

The Silent Auction will feature many fabulous items. Included is a vacation at a private home on the Caribbean Island of Roatan; a stay at a condo in the mountains outside of Vancouver, British Columbia; a baseball autograph by Mr. Cub Ernie Banks; Beanie Babies; tickets to Chicago area attractions and sporting events; and much, much more.

All proceeds from the evening will benefit Brickton Montessori School. For more information, contact Tom Ramsden, Director of Development at (773) 714-9897.

Maine East cheerleaders take first

In its last tune up before the state competition, the Maine East High School varsity co-ed cheerleaders took first place at the 11th Annual Stevenson High School Spirit Revolution Cheerleading Championships (held in March) three weeks ago at Rolling Meadows and used this competition debut a more difficult routine. Led by captains Erika Jedrzejek, Tim Karth, and Melissa Noparstak, the co-ed squad took the first place trophy with a score of 370 out of 390. Not only did the Demons win the championship, but the squad also defeated two-time defending state champion Round Lake High School.

The changes began right away in the performance with three basket tosses. Melissa Noparstak and Colleen Bercyn performed pike basket tosses simultaneously with a toe touch basket toss by Mattea Cirrincione. The two pike basket tosses were then thrown into hitches caught by Cirrincione. After tumbling, the girls' solo dance, and more stunts, the cheer portion began with seven toss chairs that cradled. All seven male members of the co-ed squad performed this stunt for the first time in Maine East history.

The last part of the routine began with a brand new liberty mount set to music. Noparstak and Cirrincione hit liberties attached to Erika Jedrzejek in a shoulder stand that popped down and back up into hitches. The liberties were held by Karlo Familara and Jeff Tackes, while the hitches were caught by Lisa Yee and Anne Maris who were in shoulder stand hitches of their own. This mount transitioned into the partner dance and the brand new guys' solo dance. For the fourth straight year, the male Demons performed an original eight count dance that will be copied but never duplicated.

Northwestern University-Clarence E. Culver

Christa Boske, the Director of the Family and Community Involvement Program for Niles District 71, and Helene Blangin, a 7th grade Social Studies teacher, have formed a working partnership with Northwestern University's student political organizations. The goal of this innovative program is to help students become more politically aware of the role of politics within their school district, community, county, state and nation. Students will learn how to ask educated questions regarding policies, procedures and legislation. Most important of all, students will learn how their values and personal philosophies affect the political arena. Students will become familiar with decision making within different systems, how to write proposals to groups that govern systems and how these systems structure meetings in order to make executive decisions. This exciting educational program is possible because of the outstanding efforts made by Northwestern University students who have dedicated their time to speak with the 7th grade students regarding their interest in grass root organizations and politics. They will also help students process this pertinent information and discuss how adolescents impact political agendas. The Political Awareness Program encourages adolescents to be positive leaders within their community and to learn how to help communicate their thoughts so governing groups perceive adolescents as valuable contributions to a systems existence. Below is a general outline of the curriculum:

I. School Policy
- Review newspaper articles
- Focus on "Dress Codes"
- What is the School's Policy?
- How are Decisions Made in a School Environment?
- Group Discussion

II. Community Policy
- Student Interests
- Child/Adolescent Community Issues
- Examples of Youth "Grass Root" Organizations
- What Can Youth Do To Become More Involved In the Community?

III. County Policy
IV. State Policy
V. National Policy

Creativity and the Seventh Grade Religion Class

With Easter just around the corner, the Seventh Grade Religion Class of St. John Brebeuf School is preparing the production of the Passion and Death of Jesus.

The stories in the Bible come alive for the Seventh Grade through hand puppets made by the students in Religion class. Each character is individually designed and when the puppets are finished, people from the Bible are able to be portrayed in plays written and produced by groups of students. Seasonal plays for Advent and Lent, and stories selected as the students' favorites are the choices for use as their productions.

These plays are performed for other grade levels to enhance their preparations for special holydays and areas of study when related to stories found in the Bible.

The students are very creative in this project as the base for the puppets are plain brown lunch bags.

A new vision of race unity

The Bahá'ís of unincorporated Maine Township will present a viewing of "The Power of Race Unity" video, recently broadcast on the Odyssey and BET Cable Channels, followed by a discussion of the Baha'i teachings, experience and models of unity within a diversified community, the unity of all religions and brotherhood of mankind. Friday, March 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the North Maine fire station, 9301 Potter, Des Plaines. Inquiries can be directed to (847) 604-2448.

Jewish United Fund launches website

On March 15, the Jewish United Fund of Metropolitan Chicago will launch its new website, "Chicago Jewish Community Online." This comprehensive resource, located at juf.org, will be the most inclusive and up-to-date information resource on Chicago's Jewish community.

"Our leadership has made the commitment to create the best community website the Jewish world has seen," said Steven B. Nasatir, JUF's president.

At "Chicago Jewish Community Online," users can find information on the agencies, events, and connections they need to enhance their active and involved Jewish lives. The familiar JUF News "Guide to Jewish Living in Chicago" is presented in its entirety, in a searchable format. Users will be able to search categories from kosher restaurants to Jewish gift galleries, synagogues to community groups.

These resources also include the dozens of humanitarian, social-service and educational agencies supported by the Jewish United Fund/Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago. Those agencies with their own websites will be linked directly to "Chicago Jewish Community Online." The vast network of local services accessible through juf.org offers help for members of the community at every stage of life, regardless of ability to pay.

A calendar of upcoming community events - presented by JUF and a host of other organizations - also is available, and searchable by date, location, and field of interest.

Highlights of each monthly issue of the JUF News will be featured online, along with frequently updated news stories affecting and involving the Jewish community in the Chicago area, in Israel, and worldwide.

Users also will be able to register for volunteer opportunities - or make a pledge to JUF - at the site.

A section on Jewish identity includes a glossary of Yiddish and Hebrew words, thumbnail sketches of Jewish holidays and explanations of religious practice, areas of scripture and other aspects of Jewish life.

"Chicago Jewish Community Online" is designed to become an indispensable resource for Chicago's Jewish community. Whether planning a wedding, checking out when Chanukah falls, or simply looking for something to do on a weeknight, click on juf.org for "Chicago Jewish Community Online."

Holy Family recognizes National Doctor's Day

Finding a physician that's right for you and your family can be a challenge. As the area's leading health resource and a member of the community for more than 38 years, the experts at Holy Family Medical Center can help make your search easier.

As a community service and in recognition of National Doctor's Day on March 30, Holy Family Medical Center offers the following tips to consider when choosing a physician.

Access.

• Office location and relative convenience to your home or employment.

• Office hours. Are they convenient for you?

• Specialties.

Physicians Credentials.

• Medical school attended and undergraduate degree received.

• Board certification: A board certified physician has completed a residency program in a specialty or subspecialty and passed examinations to test his or her knowledge of that specialty. Board-eligible physicians have completed their residency but have not taken the examinations. At Holy Family Medical Center, 87 percent of physicians on staff are board certified.

• Fellowship: This is recognition received from peers, usually for research or other intellectual endeavors. A fellowship is often indicated on a physician's business card: "M.D., F.A.C.S." for Medical Doctor, Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Financial Matters.

• Insurance plans accepted.

• Billing procedures: Do you pay in full and file claims for reimbursement from your insurance?

• Does the doctor's office file claims for you, and is there a fee for the service? Is there a co-payment for HMO members?

• Don't be afraid to ask about office visit fees and costs for tests and treatment.

For more information on choosing a physician, please call MedConnection®, Holy Family's free physician referral and appointment service at 847-297-1800, ext. 1110.

Healthtalk: New joints relieve old pains

Aches and pains are an unavoidable part of growing older and we have to accept that...or do we? For years, many of us have treated the occasional sore back or stiff leg simply with over-the-counter pain medications and a little rest. But when persistent pain or severe arthritis settled into our joints, it typically marked the end of an active lifestyle.

Now, total joint replacement surgery is relieving pain and restoring mobility for thousands suffering from arthritic or injured joints. Performed most frequently on the hip or knee, the procedure consists of removing the damaged joint and replacing it with a synthetic one (called a prosthesis) made of metal and plastic.

Total joint replacement was once considered an option mainly for older people, who are less likely to put a lot of stress on their artifical joints. While the majority of patients who undergo the procedure are still over the age of 60, the durability of the prosthesis has improved in recent years, slowly making joing replacement an option for younger people as well.

If you and your doctor decide that total joint replacement is right for you, planning ahead will help to ensure that your surgery and recovery are as smooth as possible. Prior to surgery, your doctor may suggest that you:

• Lose weight. Excess weight puts extra stress on your joints. Slimming down before your surgery will ease the strain on your new artificial joint, making it less likely to loosen or be knocked out of place.

• Exercise. If you are not capable of doing any strenous activity, even light exercise can help to speed up your recovery. Check with your doctor before beginning any exercise program.

• Donate blood. Many patients need a blood transfusion after joint replacement surgery. You, or a relative or friend with the same blood type, can donate 1-2 pints before surgery in case you need it after surgery.

• Stop taking aspirin one week prior to surgery. Aspirin inhibits blood clotting which can lead to excessive bleeding during surgery. Some anti-flammatory arthritis medications should also be avoided. Check with your doctor.

• Prepare for your homecoming. Make your home "recovery-friendly" by placing frequently used household items within reach to avoid uncomfortable stretching or bending. Stock your refrigerator with meals that require little or no preparation like frozen dinners or canned soups that only need heating.

• Let others help. No matter how well you prepare yourself and your home for your recovery, there will still be tasks that require a second pair of hands. Arrange for friends or relatives to help out with household chores during the first weeks of your recovery.

• Be patient. Complete recovery from total joint replacement surgery may take several months. When it is over, however, you will join the many others who have resumed healthy, active lives.

Online shoppers do have recourse

By the year 2001 an estimated $300 billion in commerce will be conducted via the internet, according to U.S. Department of Commerce forecasts. As the number of retail web sites and the volume of business transacted online surges, disputes about online marketplace transactions would also be expected to increase.

"Overall, customer satisfaction among consumers who shop online is quite good," said James E. Baumhart, president/CEO of the Better Business Bureau of Chicago and Northern Illinois. "For those who do experience glitches, help is available from the BBB."

The BBB launched its web site (www.chicago.bbb.org) in 1996 that provides consumers with an online complaint form. More than 7,500 consumers last year accessed the BBB's complaint process through the internet and over 20,000 across the BBB system nationally.

"While not every complaint filed online concerns an online merchant, a significant number do. Some consumers report that they have been scammed or defrauded online; others need assistance resolving disputes with legitimate online merchants," said Baumhart.

Information on how to file a complaint with the BBB is available on our web site by clicking "Complaint online." Once the consumer completes the form, it is automatically forwarded to the appropriate BBB for handling based on the zip code of the company involved. Consumers receive an e-mail receipt for their records.

The BBB does not take either side in the dispute. "We work to facilitate communication between the company and the consumer. Our goal is to help both sides come to a satisfactory resolution to the complaint. If necessary, dispute resolution, including mediation and arbitration, is available to help resolve the dispute," Baumhart said.

The most common complaints filed against online merchants concern misleading advertising, non-delivery of goods or services, unhonored guarantees or unsatisfactory service, and credit/billing problems.

"To prevent such disputes from arising, the single best piece of advice we can offer to online shoppers is to check the reliability of an online merchant before you make a purchasing decision," said Baumhart. "There are 150 Better Business Bureaus in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico with information on more than a million companies. If the web site you're interested in doesn't display a BBBOnLine seal, you can obtain information from the BBB website on how to contact the Better Business Bureau in the city in which the company is located."

A BBBOnLine seal, which consumers can "click" to check, indicates that the business is a member of the BBB and has agreed to abide by BBB standards, including truthful advertising and fair and prompt resolution of complaints. More than 2,000 online retailers have qualified to display a BBBOnLine seal, identifying themselves as reliable and trustworthy.

To further ensure a safe surfing and shopping experience online, the BBB advises consumers to educate themselves on potential scams. Particularly prevalent are unsolicited e-mail promising extraordinary financial opportunities or investment riches; business opportunity and multi-level marketing advertisements that guarantee instantaneous success; and work-at-home offers that claim you can earn top dollar, "no experience necessary," for easy work done in your home.

The BBB web site offers alerts, news releases, publications and a consumer assistance center to help consumers shop safely online and avoid Internet scams. To further bolster efforts to stop scam and con artists from deceiving online shoppers, the Better Business Bureau of Chicago and Northern Illinois forwards complaints we receive from consumers about Internet fraud directly to a binational law enforcement database. U.S. and Canadian law enforcement organizations search the complaints through a secure web site, tracking patterns of fraud and problematic companies or individuals.

again is very remote. "We don't think we'll need it base on all the calculations," he said.

During the intervening months, the district has advertised the school to other school districts. "We even took ads in the Tribune," Zalewski added. There was some interest from a private religious school, but they were not able to lease the entire building and couldn't find another school to partner with them, Zalewski said.

The district is now willing to lease the property to a non-school entity, but may run into problems as Illinois law prohibits the leasing of school property for more than 25 years. The district will have address the State Board of Education or possibly the state legislature to obtain a waiver to extend the lease to 50 years, Zalewski said.

District officials are also resigned to the fact that the present 50,000-square-foot building will probably be razed by any future lessee and a new facility erected on the property.

John Driscoll of Alter+ Care said his firm has proposed a 100 unit ACLF to be built on the property. He described the ACLF concept as "a new method of providing housing for senior citizens developed in the 1990s." Several such facilities already exist in Chicago, he said.

Residents in the proposed facility would receive assistance with daily activities, such as dining, dressing, bathing and transportation. Each resident will have a private living unit, but meals will be provided in a common dining facility, Driscoll said. If residents need further assistance with bathing, dressing, taking medications or transportation, staff will be available to assist them.

Residents who need to receive more care in a hospital for a time can then return to the ACLF when their need level returns to normal, Driscoll said.

No entrance fee will be required at the proposed facility. Residents will pay monthly rental feels based on the location of their unit and the level of assistance they require.

Driscoll said the South School site would be an appropriate location for senior housing. "The large numbers of seniors in the Niles area will be well served by the addition of an assisted living facility," he said.

Driscoll added that many such seniors wish to remain in their current areas where they can be near children and grandchildren, and the ACLF's enable them to do that.

Another bidder for South School is Family Care Management, Ltd., which currently runs the Forest Villa Nursing Center across the street from the South School site at 6840 Touhy Ave.

Spokesperson Michael Kaplan said Family Care made a full proposal and presentation to Dist. 71 "a while back."

Kaplan characterized the other two bidders for the school are essentially builders and not in the long-term care business. "We're not builders," he said, "we're in the long-term care business."

Kaplan said that his firm would like to expand upon the skilled nursing facility at Forest Villa, where, he said, they send 12 to 18 patients home every month who would be better served by going to an assisted living facility.

"It isn't always appropriate for them [released patients] to be at home without additional services," he said,"but ehrer are no assisted living facilities in the area."

As most of the patients at Forest Villa are from the Niles area, "it would be natural for us to provide a continuum of care [for them]," he added.

Kaplan gave the example of someone becoming ill, receiving hospital treatment, going to a nursing home facility and then being ready to go home, but, not having a spouse or family member to care for them, still needing some assistance with daily living.

Shayman and Salk, architects for Family Care Management, Ltd., have presented detailed plans to the District 71 board. Family Care have designed and developed five other nursing homes around the state, including one in Elmhurst. They are currently in the process of building an ACLF next door to an existing skilled care facility, a situation very similar to their Niles facilities, in Morton, just outside Peoria, Kaplan said.

Kaplan said finding vacant land in Niles is a major problem in providing the community with an assisted living facility. He also mentioned that the ACLF concept was developed to "fill the void" between nursing care and home health care. The government and HMOs are always trying to find the most economical way to care for people, Kaplan said.

The facility Kaplan's firm is proposing would provide one-bedroom or studio apartments. "Our goal is to keep residents as independent as possible," Kaplan said. In the facility his firm proposes, residents will be able to have their own apartments but will receive housekeeping, meals and nursing and other assistance as needed.

Kaplan said he feels his firm is more qualified to build an ACLF on the site because they have been in the geriatric and long-term care market since the mid-'70s. They have operated the 212-bed Forest Villa nursing facility in Niles since the early '80s.

A third contender for the now-coveted property is Demetrios Kozonis, president of the Delco Construction Company.

Kozonis said his firm is still working on a formal proposal for the property, which is adjacent to a 50,000 square-foot parcel his firm already owns where the Ballen Manufacturing Company was formerly located. That firm closed in early February, according to Kozonis.

Although the plans are not completely formulated, Kozonis said his firm can offer a larger development, possibly including a medical building because of the additional land that will be available for development.

Kozonis said that the school board's wavering on the length of time they could offer in a lease caused his firm to delay their proposal.

"We'll do a nice proposal," Kozonis said. "They will love it and take it."

Kozonis' firm has plenty of experience in building commercial buildings. They have built many schools, post offices, libraries, and commercial buildings throughout the Chicago area, Kozonis said. His firm has built several small shopping areas along MIlwaukee Avenue in Niles, and they also built the Veterans Square development near the Jefferson Park terminal along Milwaukee Avenue in Chicago, he said.

Also in Chicago, his firm provided project managers for a large senior houseing development at Lawrence and Elston avenues.

Kozonis said that Norwood Builders, also of Chicago, may join the project as a joint venture. Bruce Adreani of Norwood Builders was not available for comment, however.

Anyone seeking futher information or wishing to make a proposal for the site can contact Dr. Zalewski at (847) 966-9280, extension 107.

Township Federation of Teachers ratified the contract extension Feb. 26, and the school board began working out specific language of the contract at their March 15 meeting.

School board president Robert Silverman said that without the threat of a strike looming, the board would be better able to focus on other more important educational issues.

The two sides met briefly after Powell's appointment last August to make plans to begin negotiations for the 2000 contract. Silverman and the board expressed their willingness to extend the contract without further negotiations, Powell said.

The 2.4 percent raises agreed to in the extension are slightly lower than the 2.7 percent increases in the 1996 contract. However, the contract extension does include the 1.6 percent annual step increases and merit raises based on student performance which were negotiated in 1996. A change in insurance coverage has been added to the extended contract which will allow employees to shelter contributions for unreimbursed medical expenses, dependent care and term insurance, a common practice in other school districts and businesses as well as a cost-cutting feature for the district.

Though not yet agreed upon, other teacher benefits which will be investigated for future inclusion in the contract are day care and technology proficiency.

In a statement issued by the teacher's union, the extension was hailed as a sign of a new cooperative spirit and willingness to communicate with the board that began with Powell's assuming leadership of the district. Union president Jim Dougherty said the contract extension would enable both sides to work cooperatively on district goals without the distractions that frequently accompany labor negotiations.

The average District 219 teacher salary is $66,439, while the state average is $43,806. However, Silverman noted that with the extended contract District 219 teachers would no longer be the highest paid in the area as they were in 1996. They now rank seventh among the nine largest area districts, including Palatine, Maine Township, Evanston Township, Arlington Heights, Northfield Township, Highland Park/Deerfield, New Trier and Lake Forest.

Starting salaries under the contract extension will be increased to just over $40,000 in the 2002-03 school year, but the large number of retirements expected will more than offset those increases. Retirements are expected to keep the total teacher salary cost increases at about 1.5 percent, district officials said.

With labor negotiations and teacher salaries settled, the board will now turn its attention to building needs and the possible referendum that may be in the offing next year. Building, technology and life-safety projects are among the areas that need immediate attention, according to Silverman.

dealers, with the low bid coming from Northwest Ford Truck Center of Franklin Park. The new equipment would run the Village $169,950. The Village has dealt satisfactorily with Northwest Ford Truck Center before.

Later, the Board approved the spending of $10,600 for the replacement of two gates and a fence on the north side of the Public Works Facility. The construction would consist of the removal and replacement of the existing gates, one of which would be electrically operated. The low bid was received from Tru-Link Fence & Products of Skokie. Work is scheduled to begin this spring.

At Monday's meeting Trustee Moll introduced a Resolution that would create an agreement between the Village of Morton Grove and Evanston Northwestern Healthier Home Services to provide influenza and pneumonia immunizations to Morton Grove Senior Citizens. This service would commence on October 5, 1999, and extend until November 4, 1999. Please contact the Village for more details.

The evening's final piece of important business involved the authorization to execute a contract with Allied Asphalt Paving Company for the 1999 Local Street Resurfacing Program. Allied's bid of $1,231,849 was the lowest out of the four received by the Village. Although no date has been sent to begin the resurfacing project, the following streets would see construction some time this year: Main, Merrill, Foster, Normandy, Palma, and Linder.

Last Thursday's Park District Meeting was also a time to recognize two park employees: Officer Ted Gregory and Sue Dawson. The park district was notified recently that it would receive a Loss Control Safety Award for its Bike Helmet Safety Program, a concept brought to the district's attention by Officer Gregory. The program is operated by the park police and awards kids found wearing their bike helmets. Park Police Chief Pavone was on hand to present Gregory with an award certificate.

The evening's second honor went to Sue Dawson for her 10 years of full-time service with the park district. As Office Services Coordinator Sue has handled the very busy job of coordinating program registration. Dawson also worked on the seasonal brochures, and was the district's Safety Coordinator and Chair of the Employee Safety Committe. During Dawson's tenure, the District has had high safety rankings every year. Dawson's hard work and dedication were greatly appreciated.

Ansul announces 1999 fire school schedule

Ansul Incorporated offers an expanded fire school schedule for the 1999 season. A variety of classes will meet the needs of industry and firefighting professionals. New for 1999 is the addition of optional training in SCBA or First Aid/CPR in select schools.

Three-day fire schools in Marinette, Wisconsin begin May 4 and run through September 30. The Industrial sessions provide the widest possible range of incipient stage firefighting experience. The Petroleum/Chemical courses focus on the extinguishment of large flammable liquid and propane fires. A Utilities school for personnel from electric, gas and nuclear power plants emphasizes firefighting with hand portable and wheeled units. Participants who have graduated from an Ansul Fire School session are eligible to enroll in a Train-The-Trainer class designed for firefighting instructors.

Two, 3-day Firefighting/Service and Maintenance schools that combine service and hands-on firefighting training for hand portable and wheeled extinguishers will again be offered on June 22-24 and September 14-16.

The ABCs of mutual fund classes

A quiz, mutual fund investors. After consulting with your financial planner, you decide to buy a specific mutual fund you both think will fit well with your needs. But before you buy the fund through your planner or another intermediary, you're given three options for buying shares in that particular fund: Class A, Class B or Class C. Which share class do you choose?

The answer: It depends.

First, let's clarify what the various share classes are. Each class is a different way of paying for the advice you receive in helping you select the fund (no-loads don't have share classes). Some brokered funds have only one share class - usually Class A - while some funds offer all three. (A few funds offer a fourth, Class D, and some funds use different names or letters, but we won't get into all that.) Which class you should choose will depend primarily on how much you are going to invest and how long you will likely leave it in the fund.

Class A shares.

This is the front-end sales charge - or "load" - that brokered funds traditionally have charges (roughly 2.5 percent to 6 percent). The fund also will likely (but not always) charge a small annual 12b-1 fee. This is the same type of fee some "no-load" funds charge (up to 1 percent) for their sales and marketing costs. The 12b-1 fee for A shares typically runs around 0.25 percent.

Class B shares.

The sales charge is deferred, or "back-loaded." You pay the back load only if you sell shares within a certain number of years. The load normally declines each year until it reaches zero. The fund also will charge a 12b-1 fee that's initially higher than the 12b-1 for A shares, but which usually declines to the A share level after a certain number of years. (Not all B shares lower their 12b-1 fee, so be watchful here).

Class C shares.

Sometimes called a "level-load" share, this is similar to no-load funds that charge 12b-1 fees. Generally, there's no upfront sales charge nor a back-end redemption fee (unless you redeem shares within the first year). You pay a 12b-1 fee (usually one percent) for as long as you stay invested in the fund.

At this point, many investors would pick Class C, since it doesn't have an upfront sales charge and usually doesn't have a back-end charge. But that can actually be the worst choice. The following are some guidelines most investment advisors agree on, and which were statistically documented by two professors in an article published in the Summer 1998 issue of The Journal of Financial Research.

Choose Class A or B, if you intend to stay invested for at least several years (B shares actually did sightly better than A, according to the professors' research). Let's say you want to invest $1,000. With A shares, you might pay a 4 percent upfront charge ($40) and an annual 0.25 percent 12b-1 fee on the remaining $960 ($2.35). After ten years, you would have paid a total of $63.50. But with Class C shares, you would have paid one percent a year for ten years - or $100.

In addition, keep in mind that your shares probably will grow in value over those ten years. Let's say they double. That means that you're paying $5 in 12b-1 fees that tenth year with Class A shares (you've still only paid the $40 up front), but you're paying $20 a year with Class C (one percent of $2,000).

The reverse is true, of course. If you intend to invest only a short time, Class C shares make more sense. The Journal of Financial Research article calculated that A and B shares become the better deal than C shares after about seven years.

Class A shares also can make more sense than B or C shares the larger your investment. That's because funds typically reduce or even waive the sales charge if you invest enough money

Mayor Daley to co-host Fatherhood Summit

The Illinois Fatherhood Initiative's 1999 Fatherhood Summit is being hosted by Honorary Co-Chairmen Mayor Richard M. Daley, Governor George H. Ryan and U.S. Senator Peter Fitzgerald. The 1999 Fatherhood Summit will take place on Friday, March 26, and Saturday, March 27, at the Congress Hotel, Chicago.

Jeffery M. Leving, a nationally-recognized attorney and pioneer of fathers' rights, and Dr. Mark A. Rogers, President of Honisa Behavioral Treatment Centers, are guest presenters at the 1999 Fatherhood Summit: Fathering and the Whole Family. Guest speakers also include Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White and Dr. Wade F. Horn, President of the National Fatherhood Initiative.

Mr. Leving and Dr. Rogers will be speaking on Fathers' Rights: Reframing the Joint Custody Process and Recommendations for Reform. The U.S. Bureau of the Census reports the number of currently divorced adults quadrupled from 4.3 million in 1970 to 17.6 million in 1995. Research indicates children of separated parents exhibit significantly more conduct and mood disorders, including a significantly higher incidence of teen suicides.

Mr. Leving coauthored the 1986 Illinois Joint Custody Law and has testified before both branches of the Illinois Legislature on Joint Custody and Grandparents' Visitation bills. He has been a frequent lecturer on family law issues and made numerous television and radio appearances.

Mr. Leving and Dr. Rogers will make themselves available for interviews and guest appearances prior to the Fatherhood Summit.

Edward Jones:
March Madness takes on new meaning as the Dow breaks 10,000

March Madness: For years sports enthusiasts have associated this phrase with college basketball playoffs. This year, however, March Madness has taken on a whole new meaning as investors have watched the Dow Jones Industrial Average surpass the 10,000 mark.

This milestone is amazing when you consider that a decade ago, the Dow was below 3000. Indeed, the market's remarkable growth didn't start until recently. The Dow started the decade at 2910.15 points, but by the beginning of 1999, it had gained more than 6371 points to reach 9181.43.

What is responsible for this remarkable growth spurt in the stock market? The obvious answer is that more people are investing more money. But why? Its because we are living in remarkable times, economically speaking.

Over the past 10 years, the U.S. economy has consistently outperformed the expectations of economists. Not only has the economy continued to grow, it has maintained a perfect balance with inflation while doing so.

Such economic indications as strong job creation, rising income and higher consumer confidence are keeping the U.S. economy growing at a promising pace.

These three factors are especially noteworthy, because when people are earning more money and their confidence is high, they spend more money, which is critical to the U.S. economy. In fact, personal consumption accounts for two-thirds of the nation's total economic activity. Last year alone, consumer spending rose 4.8 percent, the largest increase in five years. This jump has led some to believe that experts have overestimated the impact of weak foreign economies and have underestimated the importance of domestic spending.

Another factor helping stroke the U.S. economic fire is increased productivity. Last year's 2.2 percent jump in productivity doubled the average 1.1 percent rate recorded in the first seven years of the decade. Increased productivity is a powerful catalyst, because it helps offset rising wages without cutting into corporate profits or triggering inflation.

Inflation, or the lack thereof, has also been impressive in recent years. Last year, inflation rose just 1.6 percent. This came on the heels of a 1.7 percent rise in 1997. This is the best back to back performance since 1961 and 1965.

When you consider economic growth and inflation, it is obvious we are experiencing an exceptional economic period.

With that in mind, what should the average investor do? Here are five suggestions.

Don't Fall Victim to Temptation. With the Dow at 10,000, some investors may be tempted to sell and take profits just because they can. Don't. The long-term sacrifice may greatly outweigh the short-term reward. Consider this: Since 1995, the market has averaged an annual growth rate of 20 percent. If even growth slows by more than 50 percent and averages just 8 percent annually, the Dow will reach 20,000 in nine years. That's a lot of potential profit to pass up.

Don't Lose Your Balance. The stock market's phenomenal growth over the past decade has resulted in hand-some gains most investors' stock holdings. If you haven't reviewed your investment portfolio within the past year, now is the time to do so. You may find your equity holdings account for much more of your total portfolio than you think. If this is the case, sell some stocks (The recently lowered capital gains tax make this an excellent time to claim a long-term profit) and use the proceeds to rebalance your portfolio. This is important because a balanced portfolio offers maximum profits while minimizing risk. In short, it prepares you for anything the market can dish out.

Remain Optimistic but Realistic. While the economy looks promising, it's important to maintain realistic expectations. Those who expect 17 percent annual returns will most likely be disappointed. Enjoy exceptional returns while they last, but recognize them for what they are: exceptions rather than the norm.

Quality Counts. When choosing a stock, look for a company with a solid track record of earnings and growth. Any company can flourish during good economic times, but during difficult times, it's the well-established, quality companies that have what it takes to survive.

A final word of advice for individual investors. Keep your perspective. The market has rewarded investors with attractive profits over the past decade, but there have been, and will continue to be, bumps along the way. When the market dips keep your perspective. In a 10,000-point market, a 100 point drop translates into a 1 percent dip. For a bear market to occur, the market would have to fall at least 2000 points. That's not to say it won't occur. Historically speaking, we are overdue. However, investors with well-diversified, quality portfolios will be prepared to ride out these short-term market declines and enjoy the more profitable times ahead.

No-maintenance an option for Delaine Farm owners

Emancipation from snow-blowers, lawnmowers, rakes and hedge trimmers and other time- and energy-consuming home maintenance chores has been fueling the condominium boom for many years.

At Delaine Farm of Morton Grove, Elliott Homebuilders is offering a maintenance-free option to buyers who want the same freedom without having to share common walls with their neighbors.

The company is in the final phase of transforming the former horse farm at 6511 W. Beckwith Road into a neighborhood of 51 customized single-family homes and 31 luxury duplex townhomes. Buyers of the single-family homes have the option of acquiring the common area maintenance services that are provided to the townhome owners.

Single-family owners are not required to buy a complete package of services. Indeed, many are selecting only snow removal or only grass-cutting.

Those services range from $25 to $30 per visit for snow removal of driveways and walks to $75 to $150 per visit for cleaning of gutters and downspouts. Elliott even retains contractors to install holiday lighting and decorations.

Elliott is kicking off 1999 with an expanded lineup of eight customized single-family homes and seven duplex designs.

The single-family home designs are available in a choice of two architectural exteriors, range in size from 2,310 to 3,558 square feet of living area, and are priced from $415,900 to $489,900.

The spacious duplex townhome plans, including one ranch and six two-story designs -- three of which feature first-floor master bedroom suites -- contain 1,791 to 2,713 square feet of living area. Prices range from $269,900 to $354,900. (Prices and availability are subject to change without notice.)

Customized features that are standard in both the single-family homes and townhomes include nine-foot first-floor ceiling heights (one plan has 10-foot ceilings), solid masonry wood-burning fireplaces, full basements, central air conditioning, architectural ceilings, wall-to-wall carpeting, ceramic tile or oak flooring in selected areas and two, 2-1/2 or three-car garages.

Kitchens boast custom-designed cabinets with all major appliances built in and include separate breakfast areas with glass sliding doors to the rear yard.

Master baths feature Jacuzzi soaker tubs and separate shower enclosures with ceramic tile surrounds, double-bowl cultured marble vanity tops with integral bowls, dressing areas and compartmentalized toilets.

The community also has a park and playground with a fully equipped tot lot, basketball half-court, pergola, park benches and picnic tables.

To visit the community from Edens Expressway (Interstate 94), exit at Dempster Street, go west to Waukegan Road and proceed north about six blocks to Beckwith Road. Go east about one mile to the sales center.

From Interstate 294, exit at either Dempster or Golf Road and proceed east to Waukegan Road. Go south from Golf about four blocks to Beckwith or north from Dempster to Beckwith and then proceed east to the sales center.

For additional information, telephone (847) 470-9000.

Buyers of single-family homes like the 3,558-square-foot Drake model at Delaine Farm of Morton Grove have the option of acquiring the common area maintenance services that are provided to the community's townhome owners

Apartment hunting tips offered by Citadel Management

Though it's still winter, the time to search for a new apartment is just around the corner. The prospect of looking for a new home shouldn't make potential movers apprehensive, provided they arm themselves with the right information.

"There's a lot to consider when looking for a new home," says Audrey Wanamaker, leasing and marketing coordinator for Des Plaines-based Citadel Management Inc., owner and manager of Hinsdale Lake Terrace Apartments in Rolling Meadows. "Location, price, construction, maintenance, community service, and amenities are all factors in finding an apartment you'll be satisfied with for the long haul."

• Location. "It's a lifestyle decision. Those looking for a new home need to target locations based on their work and play," Wanamaker says. "Some people want to live close to their job while others want to be near family and friends. Hinsdale Lake Terrace offers a convenient location for anyone with ties to the western suburbs, as does Woodfield Gardens, for those who want to be in the northwestern suburbs."

• Price. "Renters are becoming more price conscious and want the best value possible," Wanamaker says. "Having a budget in mind when you begin your search can save time and also make the experience of finding a new home more enjoyable."

• Inclusions. "Renters should always investigate what utilities and additional services are included in the rent," says Wanamaker. "Failure to do so can dramatically affect your real monthly rent payment. "Heating and cooling are only two of the amenities those living at Woodfield Gardens and Hinsdale Lake Terrace receive at no extra charge. Citadel Management also pays for water and cooking gas, offers free parking for residents and their guests, and makes each community's leasing office fax and photocopy machines available to residents."

• Services. Find out what kind of services are available if something should happen to go wrong in your apartment, Wanamaker says. "The time to ascertain what kind of service you will receive is before something goes wrong. At Hinsdale Lake Terrace and Woodfield Gardens, a 24-hour professional maintenance staff is on-site to handle any emergency."

"Maintenance isn't the only kind of service a potential renter should consider. The demand for community service continues to increase as people juggle family, work and other obligations," Wanamaker notes.

"Renters want and deserve the conveniences of community services, such as on-site voter registration, school sign-up days and children's programs. Citadel Management has been cited numerous times for excellence in community services at both properties.

• Amenities. Some apartments got 'em, some fall short. Many apartments at Hinsdale Lake Terrace and Woodfield Gardens include private balconies or patios, ample closet space, and separate dining areas. Laundry tasks are easier, thanks to computer debit cards that record washer and dryer costs, eliminating the need for coins or tokens. Residents have the added convenience of fax, copier and package delivering services.

Hinsdale Lake Terrace residents have use of the recreation center; Olympic-size swimming pool and tennis courts; and children's playground, as well as a jogging/fitness path throughout the 40-acres of landscaped grounds. Woodfield Gardens has a clubhouse, playground, jogging paths, an Olympic-size swimming pool, and large courtyards for socializing. As well as an on-site pre-school.

Hinsdale Lake Terrace, conveniently located one mile south of Interstate 55 on the Kingery Highway (Illinois 83), features 470 one-, two-, and three-bedroom apartments and 102 three-bedroom, two-story townhomes. The apartments are 800 to 1,300 square feet and have rents from $699 to $949 per month; the townhomes offer 1,843 square feet and rent from $1,089 to $1,119 per month. Heat, air conditioning, and cooking gas are included in monthly rents.

The Hinsdale Lake Terrace leasing office is at 16 West 450 Honeysuckle Rose. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (630) 323-5049.

Woodfield Gardens features one-, two-, and three-bedroom apartments ranging from $719 to $1,014 per month. Each apartment features a private balcony or patio, spacious room sizes, individually controlled central heat and air-conditioning, walk-in closets, fully applianced pass-through kitchens for entertaining, and free parking.

Woodfield Gardens is located at 4700 Arbor Drive, one block west of Illinois Highway 53 and just south of Algonquin Road. Leasing office hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 12 noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (847) 397-8468.

The James Companies: Three generations of excellence in homebuilding

Beginning in 1949 and extending into the 1950s, Jeremiah S. James made a name for himself as a residential developer, pioneering and building successful highrises along Sheridan Road in the Edgewater neighborhood of Chicago. Today, nearly 50 years and over 3,000 residences later, his children and grandchildren carry on as the James Companies, a name whose reputation for excellence endures.

Edward and Kenneth James, the sons of Jeremiah, took over their father's business after his sudden and unexpected death in 1958, when both men were in their 20s. In the last 40 years, the James Companies has been successfully involved in all areas of residential real estate development and management.

With success has come recognition. Most recently, the James Companies was named Builder of the Year by Today's New Homes, a weekly Pioneer Press publication covering the Chicago-area new-construction residential real estate market.

According to the James, they have developed a number of guiding business philosophies over the years that have served them well.

Build to the land, not just on it. The James' philosophy is to use existing topography and vegetation when possible. The principals walk the site with their planners and architects as they begin the planning process. In many cases, homes are individually sited and located in order to save trees.

Create value for the buyer and for the community. Every development should add to the community. The James Companies meet with neighbors to seek their input about preliminary plans, before meeting with the area's plan commission. This is especially important for in-fill developments.

Think long-term. The James Companies recognize that they are stewards of the land, and the environment, and are fully aware that what they do will change the land to create a legacy for generations to come. Their land-planning, architectural design and materials must meet the test for long-term value.

Listen to your consultants. The James make sure their consultants know their thoughts and then give them the opportunity to be creative.

After the young James brothers took over the business, they became developers in their own right in the early '60s by building 1630 Sheridan Road (Vista del Lago) in Wilmette, Illinois. From the 1960s to the 1990s, the James Companies followed that early success with many more, demonstrating expertise in a variety of properties. Along the way, a third generation of Jameses grew up and entered the business, each becoming principals and assuming responsibility for developments under the James Companies' umbrella: Edward's sons Jerry and Warren, and Kenneth's son and daughter, Carl and Merrily.

"Success can be your worst enemy if it breeds complacency," says Jerry James, who has been in the business since 1985, previously working for Continental Bank, and is President of Edward R. James Partners LLC and the James Building Corp. "Fortunately, we have a very talented and dedicated group of employees, professionals and trades. As a team, we expect a lot from ourselves and each other. That has translated into value for our customers -- our residents and the communities in which we build."

"A variety of disciplines go into land development and home-building," says Warren James, who joined the business in 1987 from Illinois Tool Works, and is President of Edward R. James Homes LLC. "Our job is to integrate these harmoniously. It's like a symphony. Each player knows his part, but the whole has to be orchestrated by a knowledgeable conductor with a score."

The principals of the James Companies are quick to credit the people with whom they work as integral to the James' successes, past and present -- James Companies seeks out the best employees, subcontractors, tradespeople and other professionals. Long-term relationships with key vendors have also been ingredients in the James Companies' home-building excellence, say the principals, especially their relationships -- just to mention a few -- with JEN, a land planning firm; Lakota Design Group and Wehler Peterson & Associates, both landscape architects; Orn & Associates and Bloodgood, Sharp & Buster, both architects; and Cowhey Gudmundson Leder Inc. and Greengard Inc., both civil engineers.

The James Companies continues their legacy of successful development today. Each residential and commercial property now in progress embodies the James Companies' commitment to excellence, born of three generation's experience.

Recently James has been very active in north suburban Glenview.

Water exercise class registration underway

Registration now is under way for the spring water exercise classes offered by the Lutheran General Fitness Center, 1875 Dempster St., Park Ridge.

The 12-week session runs from Monday, April 5 through Saturday, June 26. Daily class times are available.

The water aerobics classes are designed to enhance cardiovascular fitness, increase strength and improve flexibility. No swimming skills are required.

"Water aerobics is safe and fun for persons fo all ages and physical conditions," said Marilyn Duschl, exercise physiologist at the Fitness Center. "The buoyancy of the water reduces weight-bearing stress on the joints while the resistance of the water provides a medium by which to strength-train the muscular system."

In addition, water exercise classs provide a refreshing way to shed extra pounds, tone up and stay physically fit.

Classes being offered include: Aquacise (a moderately intensive cardiovascular workout incorporating strength and flexibility training in the water); Arthritis Water Exercise (a low intensity aquatic program to help those who suffer from arthritis to improve muscular strength and joint mobility); Natal Wave Aerobics (water exercise for women who are pregnant or recently have delivered); and AquaFit (a water aerobic program for individuals looking for an intense cardiovascular workout. This workout is enhanced by deep water training and the use of aquatic equipment).

A physician's approvial is required. In addition, all class participants must complete a health history and emergency contact form when they register.

For more information about water aerobics, registration for the session and class fees, call the water exercise program coordinator at the Lutheran General Fitness Center, (847) 723-6138.

Located in the Parkside Center adjacent to Lutheran General Hospital, the fitness center houses a four-lane, 25-year swimming pool, an aerobic performance room featuring a variety of cardiovascular exercise equipment, and a strength enhancement room with a full complement of specialized, progressive resistance weight equipment.

The fitness center is staffed by exercise physiologists with master's degrees, athletic trainers, registered dietitians, certified massage therapists and other health care professionals. Services include everything from individual testing and consultations, massage therapy and sports medicine to nutrition counseling.
