General Manager Terry Kueker and Sales Director Sue Waters agreed that the former bowling alley opened near the Milwaukee Avenue-Waukegan Road intersection at least 30 years ago.

Correction

The article titled "Resident preserves Niles farming heritage," which appeared on page 43 of the Sept. 9 editions of The Bugle contained a future-tense reference to Loretta Steil, the late wife of Ray Steil.

The article was based on an interview conducted some time ago and prior to Mrs. Steil's untimely passing. The Bugle regrets the oversight.

Overlays mean eleven digits to call next door!

by Rosemary Tirio

Despite the best efforts of the Citizens Utility Board, the imposition of three new area code overlays, which will bring about 11-digit dialing even to your next-door neighbor's phone, seems inevitable.

CUB filed a petition with the Federal Communications Commission in August seeking to rescind the rule requiring 11-digit dialing and establishing number conservation practices similar to those used in the 847 area code.

Conservation methods have at least delayed the implementation of the new area code overlays, which were assigned by Lockheed Martin Corporation, the national telephone number administrator, August 1998.

The new overlays will affect the present 312 and 773 overlay areas, which will share the new 872 overlay. The areas now served by the 708 area code will be assigned the 464 overlay, while the 630 area code will be gin to use overlay 331 when all the available numbers have been used up.

Implementation of the conservation techniques devised by CUB in the 847 region is expected to delay the imposition of a

Park Ridge ban on pool devices enrages many

by Rosemary Tirio

A tempest, not in a teapot, but in a swimming pool has erupted in Park Ridge.

A ban on the use of flotation devices in public swimming pools, similar to restrictions in force at virtually all local park district pools from Arlington Heights to Niles, has upset some Park Ridge residents who said the devices help ensure the safety of their youngsters.

Lifeguards noticed a marked increase in the use of inflatable flotation devices earlier in the summer. Park District officials consulted authorities who recommended banning the devices for reasons of safety and liability.

Steve Meyer, Park Ridge park district director, said in a Sun-Times article that the devices were inhibiting lifeguards from scanning the pools as thoroughly as they are supposed to.

Gail Wilkening, park board president added that the devices can give children and parents a false sense of security.

Now that school has begun and most pools have closed for the

Israel Cancer Research Fund Reception

Morton Grove residents Millie Burman (from left) and Charlotte and Marvin Levy shared a moment with Israel Consul General to the Midwest Tzipora Rimon (center) at a recent reception of the Israel Cancer Research Fund (ICRF), celebrating advances in medical research aimed at finding cancer cures. M. Celeste Simon, Ph.D. (right), associate professor of medicine, molecular genetics and cell biology at the University of Chicago, discussed new discoveries into ways to stop tumor growth. The single largest source of private funds for cancer research in Israel, ICRF, since 1975, has awarded nearly $23 million in grants to scientists at Israel's top research institutions. Breakthroughs made possible by ICRF support include the discoveries of a gene that prevents tumor growth and an abnormal chromosome found in leukemia; the development of a drug that effectively treats a form of cancer in AIDS patients, and improvements in bone marrow transplants.

How can I tell if someone I love is alcoholic?

Even though he was a practicing physician, Bob got drunk nearly every night for 17 years. Somehow believing he could hide his alcoholism from Anne, his wife, he constantly looked for new places to stash his liquor. "When my wife was planning to go out in the afternoon, I would get a large supply of liquor and smuggle it home and hide it in the coal bin, the clothes chute, over door jambs, over beams in the cellar and in cracks in the cellar tile," Bob recalled years later in the Big Book of "Alcoholics Anonymous."

Bob did not fool Anne forever. Eventually she took her husband to meet Bill, a man who called himself a recovering alcoholic. One month after that meeting, on June 10, 1935, Bob took his last drink. He and Bill began seeing other alcoholics, and soon they formed a mutual-support group called Alcoholics Anonymous (AA). Members of AA often tell the story of Bill's first meeting with Dr. Bob. But any full account of AA history must note that someone worried enough about Bob's drinking to arrange that meeting. If you worry about someone's drinking, you're not alone. According to the most recent figures from the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA), 13.7 million U.S. adults meet the criteria for alcohol abuse or alcohol dependence. Still, people might struggle for years with the question: How can I tell if the person I love is truly alcoholic? Fortunately you don't have to be a medical professional to answer that question and take appropriate action. One simple option is to use a four-item questionnaire developed by Dr. John Ewing. The first letter of a key word in each question forms the acronym CAGE: "Have you ever felt you should cut down on your drinking?" "Have people Annoyed you by criticizing your drinking?" "Have you ever felt bad or Guilty about your drinking?" "Have you ever had a drink-first thing in the morning to steady your nerves or to get rid of a hangover (Eye opener)?" You can pose these questions directly to your loved one, or come up with your own answers for that person. According to NIAAA, one "yes" answer signals a possible problem, and more than one means that it's time for your loved one to get help. To satisfy a diagnosis of alcohol dependence, a person must experience at least three of these criteria during a 12-month period.

People who are not alcohol dependent may still meet the criteria for alcohol abuse, a condition listed separately in DSM-IV. Alcohol abusers can limit the amount they drink when the consequences become severe enough. People who are truly dependent on alcohol cannot do this. Tim Sheehan, Ph.D., regional vice president of Minnesota Recovery Services for Hazelton in Center City, Minn., suggests that people can often trust their own judgments about a loved one's drinking as much as question-

The Equality of Women and Men

Women in Construction

On August 26 officers of the Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of Maine Township presented a groundbreaking statement on the equality of women and men to Mark Thompson, Maine Township Supervisor at the Maine Township Hall. The statement, entitled "Two Wings of a Bird: The Equality of Women and Men," issued by the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States, urges Americans to promote true equality of the sexes on the grounds that inequality retards the progress of civilization itself. Gordon Coates, secretary of the Maine Township Baha'i Assembly, made the presentation. Also participating were Roger Dahl and Terri Finch, Treasurer and Chairman respectively of the assembly. The Baha'i vision of equality rests on the central spiritual principle of the oneness of humankind. Baha'is believe that war will cease only when women enter fully into all areas of decision-making. The main theme of the Baha'i message is unity, that all the world's religions represent one changeless and eternal faith of God, and that all humanity is one race destined to live in peace and harmony. The Maine Township Baha'is is holding regular meetings on issues such as racial unity, overcoming prejudice, the power of prayer, gender equality. They can be reached at P.O. Box 4074, Des Plaines, IL 60016-8074, telephone (847) 604-2448 or (800) 22-UNITE.

The O'Hare Suburban Chapter #193 of the National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC) will meet Tuesday, September 21, at the Avalon Restaurant, 1905 E. Higgins Road, Elk Grove Village. Reservations for dinner at $20 may be made with Jennie Oratowski, Enger-Vavra, Inc. at (847) 678-4200. Social hour is at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m.

The program for the evening will be the installation of the 1999/2000 officers. A regular business meeting will follow the presentation. Guests and all women interested in construction are invited to attend. For membership information, contact Shari Ralish at (312) 908-4765.

Trample heart disease and stroke at Heart Walk

North Shore residents will help the American Heart Association trample heart disease and stroke at the 1999 Omron American Heart Walk on Sunday, September 26 at Northwestern University Campus in Evanston. Registration for the 3-mile course begins at 8 a.m.

A non-competitive event, the American Heart Walk will feature participants of all ages and will include families and friends who have formed teams to walk in memory of loved ones lost to cardiovascular disease. Red caps with the slogan, "Fighting Back" will don the heads of victorious walkers who have survived a stroke, heart attack or heart surgery.

RUSH North Shore Medical Center is a festival sponsor and Lutheran General Hospital is a water station sponsor. Route sign sponsors include Feinberg Cardiovascular Institute and Bally Total Fitness. Northwestern University also is contributing to the event.

Although each American Heart Walk participant is walking for a very serious health issue, the event promises to be entertaining and enjoyable with heart-healthy snacks, fruit and beverages, warm-up and cool-down exercises, free blood pressure screenings and a mini-heart health fair.

Depending on the dollar amount raised by each walker, participants will receive thank you gifts including AHA tee shirts, cooler chairs, deluxe travel kits, Berber vests and a Movado Museum watch.

For more information about the 1999 Omron American Heart Walk or to organize a company team, call the American Heart Association at (312) 346-4675.

'Italian American Reconciliation'

Enjoy a comic romp - Italian style - when Oakton Community College presents Italian American Reconciliation in October in Studio One of the Performing Arts Center at Oakton's DesPlaines campus, 1600 E. Golf Road.

Written by John Patrick Shanley, Oscar-winning author of Moonstruck, this modern folktale chronicles the antics of Huey Maximilian Bonfigliano as he attempts to regain his "manhood" by recapturing the affections of his shrewish ex-wife, Janice. The hilarious complications that ensue prove, once again, that the course of true love never runs smoothly.

Oakton's production of Italian American Reconciliation is directed by Patti Interrante, assistant professor of speech and theater and director of our hit comedy, Greetings.

Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 8, 15 and 22; at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 9, 16 and 23; and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 10, 17 and 24. Matinee performances are scheduled at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 13 and 20.

Edward Jones: Money Funds Brought Many Individuals Into Investing

When Jim Benham established the first money market mutual fund for individuals in 1972, little did he know that his invention would be one of the most potent forces in bringing millions of ordinary Americans into the stock market and helping to fuel the longest bull market ever.

Money market funds pool individuals' investments and invest them in short-term money market instruments such as commercial paper, bankers' acceptances, government securities, certificates of deposit and other highly liquid and stable securities. These funds pay interest rates that vary depending on rates in the money market.

In the early 1970s, the onset of double-digit inflation, combined with regulations limiting how much banks could pay depositors, meant money in the bank was rapidly losing purchasing power. Alternatives were few: Treasury bills paid as much as 16 percent, but you needed $10,000 to buy one. The average bank deposit at that time was less than $3,000. Going straight from bank deposits into the stock market was unheard of.

Benham felt that money market funds would give people who had never had their money anywhere other than a bank an almost risk-free entry into investing. They allowed small investors to earn yields that more or less followed inflation.

Individuals at first moved carefully; eventually, they began pouring money into money funds, which ended up being good for the country as a whole. It contributed to the lifting of restrictions on how much interest banks could pay and also encouraged capital formation. In turn, U.S. industry became more efficient, and living standards improved.

Eventually, however, interest rates began to fall. But instead of heading back to the banks, many of these new investors began looking at conservative investments, such as mutual funds and invested in government bonds. Investors gradually became more savvy and began searching out other funds that met their needs, eventually adding individual stocks to their portfolios.

Today, there are more than a thousand money market funds, with assets of more than $1 trillion. Nearly 8,000 mutual funds exist, with assets of more than $5 trillion, and individual investors have more than $5.5 trillion invested in individual stocks.

What began as a small idea opened the door to a myriad of opportunities, enabling individual investors to achieve the dream of financial security.

logue scenes, comic digressions and all of the other familiar hallmarks of the genre) based on audience suggestion and entirely made up on the spur of the moment. No Kidding."

Auditions scheduled at Oakton for 'Lebensraum'

Oakton Community College is holding auditions for its fall production of Israel Horowitz's "Lebensraum" from 7-9:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 28, and Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Oakton's Performing Arts Center, 1600 E. Golf Road, Des Plaines.

In vaudevilian style, "Lebensraum" explores what might happen if the German Chancellor - as an act of redemption - offers homes, jobs and German citizenship to six million Jews.

All roles are open in the cast of two men and one woman. Each actor is required to play 15-20 roles during the course of the performance, so versatility of acting style, the ability to make quick character transitions and the ability to speak with a wide variety of accents will be closely evaluated at the audition. Actors are encouraged to prepare a monologue for the audition and be ready to improvise and "play" engage in storytelling, and perform cold readings from the script. Copies of the script are on research at the Oakton Library.

Directed by Karol Verson, "Lebensraum" opens at Oakton on Nov. 19. Eleven performances are scheduled, including the weekends and two Wednesday matines. For more information, call (847) 635-1901.

St. John Brebeuf to host 33 foot statue

For the last couple months, there has been much media coverage of a beautiful statue of the Blessed Mother traveling around Chicago and the suburbs. This magnificent "tribute" to Christ's Mother will be hosted by St. John Brebeuf Parish, 8307 N. Harlem, Niles, the week of September 18 through 26. Everyone is invited to view this statue, which is a 33-ft. stainless steel sculpture, weighing 8,400 pounds.

At age 9, Carl Demma, a businessman in Oak Lawn, dreamed he would build a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary that could and would be seen by all the people in Chicago and the Midwest. Three and a half years ago, he commissioned Delaware sculptor, Charles Parks, for the project. The "wedding" alone took 18 months, as pieces of stainless steel were fabricated one strip at a time for the draperies on the statue.

St. John Brebeuf offers inquiry sessions

Each year the parish of St. John Brebeuf offers a program for interested adults who wish to inquire about the Catholic faith. The RCIA (Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults) is a process whereby adults gather for discussion, prayer, and study to explore their relationship with God and the Catholic Christian community.

Father Andy Barzyk and a team of St. John Brebeuf parishioners will conduct the sessions to be held on Wednesday evenings beginning in October. Any questions or other information regarding this program can be directed to Father Barzyk, 966-8145.

River Trail Nature Center

Historic Robinson Woods, a Cook County forest preserve along the DesPlaines River, will be the site of two special events this month.

On Sunday September 19, John Elliott, naturalist with the forest preserve district's River Trail Nature Center, will lead a walk through Robinson and Chevalier Woods, beginning near East River Road and Bryn Mawr Avenue. Hikers will pass through forest and prairie remnants on the way to the Robinson family cemetery marker near Lawrence Avenue. Migrant and resident birds, late summer flowers, the geography of the DesPlaines River watershed, and the human history of the Robinson Reserve will all be touched on during the 9:30 a.m. to noon hike. Pre-registration by phone at River Trail, 847-824-8360, is requested for this walk; exact location for the start of the walk will be given with registration.

"Down and dirty" volunteers are needed the following Saturday, September 25, when River Trail Nature Center and the Des Plaines River Watershed Alliance will sponsor a river and shoreline cleanup at Robinson Woods West, from 9 a.m. to noon. After a "bring your own" picnic lunch break there will be a walking tour of a prairie remnant and the woods along the river, beginning at 1 p.m. Call River Trail for more information.

Alexander Robinson, of British and native American ancestry, was given the Indian name Che-Che-Pin-Qua, or "Blinking Eyes," apparently because of a facial mannerism. Recognized as a chief of the Confederacy of the Three Fires at the treaty of Prairie du Chien in 1829, for his assistance to settlers Robinson was awarded a grant of two sections of land along the DesPlaines, most of which is now included in the forest preserves that bear his name and that of his wife, Catherine Chevalier. Robinson himself lived there until his death in 1872, and his descendants remained well into the 20th century. More of this story will be told along the walk on September 19.

River Trail Center is at 3120 Milwaukee Avenue, Northbrook. Please call 847/824-8360 for information and registrations. Join us soon!

Highly selective schools including Dartmouth, Harvard, and other "Ivy Leagues," the University of Illinois, Northwestern University, DePaul University, Indiana University, and Marquette University will be represented as well as colleges with flexible admissions policies. Representatives from area hospital schools of nursing, service academies, four-year specialty schools (art, culinary, business, etc.) and ROTC programs will also be available to speak to prospective students. Two financial aid sessions will be given in the school's auditorium.

These sessions will include information about new changes in financial aid, and help parents and students understand how to apply for need based aid. Financial aid may make the college of your choice affordable.

We're shaping the 'Character' of Nelson

Summer is over and a new year has begun. We are all interested in the way we spent our summer vacation, but now all the students are gathering in what will be their home away from home for the next ten months. The Sixth Grade Team at Nelson School is helping insure a positive learning environment for all the students.

Students discussed important character traits that help make people both successful and good role models, such as responsibility, perseverance, cooperation, honesty, loyalty and kindness. The class brainstormed examples of each, both in and out of school.

Clearly understanding that rules are necessary in all environments, students then chose what rights they felt are important for students, and with those rights, what responsibilities each has to continue possessing these rights.

Each classroom within the team is considered a state within the nation of Nelson. In cooperation, the students made a Bill of Rights, choosing the rights each student must have in order to have a successful year, and alongside these rights the responsibilities each student must exhibit for the success of their "state." Their "Bill of Rights" will be exhibited to help remind each student how important working together within a framework of limits is to each class.

Nelson School is located at 8901 Ozanam, Niles, Illinois and is one of the six schools in East Maine School District 63.

Goldman Home's joint food drive, a great success

On September 1, the Goldman Home along with the Niles YMCA and the Wells Lamont Co., presented the proceeds from a 3 month food drive to Mrs. Tamkin (Director of Assistance, Niles Township). During the summer months donations of non-perishable food items and toiletries decline considerably and as a result, the Food Drive was greatly appreciated. The Goldman Home, 6601 W. Touhy Avenues, Niles, is continuously developing joint projects with area establishments for the betterment of the community. These projects and other innovative programs are planned by the Activity Department.

Get out there and broaden your horizons

Frances Weaver, 72, says she feels younger today than when she was in her mid-50s.

She lost her husband at 55, slipped into alcoholism, boredom and depression, she says. But today, she's a senior correspondent on the "Today" Show, an enrichment speaker on Crystal Cruises, and an author of nine books, the latest "I'm Not as Old as I Used To Be" (Hyperion, 1997).

Among her inspirational messages is that life's second half can be as enjoyable and enriching - if not more so - as the first. Just "get out there and do it," she advises, whatever your dream.

Nothing fits that bill better than travel, which "can open doors to new relationships, get you out of the house and make you a more interesting individual," Weaver says.

A recent survey for Cruise Lines International Association found that first-time cruisers cited these attractions compared to land-based vacations: all-inclusive price, no packing and unpacking once you've set sail, fine dining, relaxation, having everything planned for you and the ability to visit several destinations. Many lines now offer theme cruises, which might have special appeal for seniors seeking favorite pastimes or people with similar interests. A good travel agent, especially one specializing in cruises, can help you here.

For example, Silversea Cruises, (800) 722-9055, has teamed up with National Geographic Traveler to offer a chance to learn about places on the itinerary. Lectures are given onboard by National Geographic Society photographers and journalists on such topics as geography, culture or oceanography. Passengers may also participate in shore excursions hosted by experts who've visited the regions while on National Geographic assignments.

Norwegian Cruise Line, (800) 327-7030, offers "Sports Afloat" theme cruises centered on football, hockey, basketball, baseball, volleyball or fitness, as well as cruises featuring big bands, blues, jazz, country music and comedy.

Elderhostel is a nonprofit organization that offers learning opportunities for people 55 and older who also seek informal, inexpensive lodging. Consisting of a network of about 2,000 educational and cultural institutions, it offers programs throughout North America as well as 70 countries overseas.

Most domestic programs are one week long while overseas programs last one to four weeks. Participants take up to three non-credit courses while living at their host institution or nearby hotels. Courses are challenging but there are no homework assignments, exams or grades.

Some typical Elderhostel opportunities include studying Greek philosophy while visiting Athens, staying with a family in India, identifying plants while walking through the meadows of Scotland or bicycling every day through the Netherlands.

To receive a free catalog of Elderhostel opportunities, write to Elderhostel, P.O. Box 1959, Wakefield, MA 01880-5959.

Smithsonian Study Tours each year offers more than 350 study tours and seminars all over the world featuring scholars in a chosen field of focus as well as pre-departure reading lists. Some examples of Smithsonian Study Tours include Southwest Native Art, Classical Greece, Astronomy in Hawaii, Impressionism on the French Riviera, Civil War and Folk Culture on the Delta Queen, as well as tours of specific regions such as Tuscany or Wales, or cities such as London or Hong Kong, or natural wonders such as the Grand Canyon or Swiss Walks.

For a catalog of tours, write to Smithsonian Study Tours, The Smithsonian Associates, 1100 Jefferson Drive, S.W. (MRC 701), Washington, DC 20560; (202) 357-4700.

Pick Your School.
A variation on the learning vacation might be to center travel on a course you wish to study, such as enrolling in golf or cooking schools. Combine the study with exploration of the destination.

Among the best golf schools, according to Travel & Leisure magazine, are: Arnold Palmer Golf Academy, 9000 Bay Hill Blvd., Orlando, FL 32819; (800) 523-5999.

Golf University at San Diego (founded by Ken Blanchard), 17550 Bernardo Oaks Drive, San Diego, CA 92128; (800) 426-0966.

Golf Digest Schools, offering 400 programs in 12 states, 5520 Park Ave., Box 305, Trumbull, CT 06611; (800) 243-6121.

Two top cooking schools that also offer short courses for avocational amateurs, according to Bon Appetit magazine, include:

California Culinary Academy, 625 Polk St., San Francisco, CA 94102; (800) BAY-CHEF.

Le Cordon Bleu (with sites in Paris, London, Tokyo, Sydney and North America), 8 Rue Leon Delhomme, 75015 Paris, France; 800/457-CHEF.

Or how about photography workshops? Close-Up Expeditions (858 56th St., Oakland, CA 94608; 1-510-654-1548) offers four-to-21-day trips to 30 destinations world-wide with photographic experts to help you focus on nature, landscape and traditional culture. For even shorter time frames, Nikon School of Photography (1300 Walt Whitman Road, Melville, NY 11747; 1-516-547-8666) offers weekend seminars in 21 cities in the United States.

Do Your Own Thing.
Give yourself a unique mission. Perhaps you've always been fascinated by maritime history; Trace that important industry by visiting museums dedicated to it as you drive along the coast of New England.

If you're a gardening enthusiast, nothing could be more enjoyable than visiting the highly revered gardens of England's historic public estates and parks.

Once you've decided on your own travel theme, research it. Go to the library or bookstore and get some guidebooks on the region you want to visit; locate the attractions as well as accommodations you seek. Make your own reservations or use a travel agent.

Traveling Light - Today's senior citizens are an adventurous set who seek offbeat travel experiences as a way to broaden their horizons.

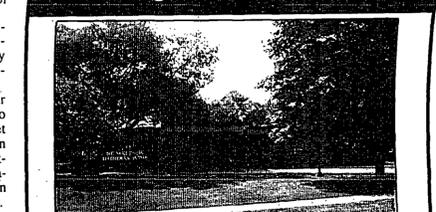

Or start subscribing to travel magazines to help you hone in on destinations as well as specific hotels and restaurants there. Among the best are Conde Nast Traveler, Travel & Leisure, National Geographic Traveler, Country Inns, and Historic Traveler.

Buy a motor home and take five years to visit every national park in the United States.

Exchange your own home with someone else's in another city, saving on costs while experiencing "real life" in some exciting destination. Some home-exchange directory services that screen clients, describe offerings and typically charge a membership fee between $50 and $85 per year, according to New Choices magazine, include Intervac, (800) 756-4663; and HomeLink, (800) 638-3841.

Oakton professor emeritus awarded

Helen Block Fields, professor emerita of early childhood education at Oakton Community College, was awarded the Steven L. Tunick Award for Outstanding Intergenerational Programming at the national conference of Generations United held recently in Washington, D.C.

Generations United, a national organization with a membership representing more than 100 national, state and local organizations, advocates for the mutual well-being of children, youth and the elderly. Steven L. Tunick, for whom the award is named, was a mentor and valuable resource to those involved in intergenerational work. Founded in his memory, the award is given for exceptional service in the intergenerational field.

"Receiving this award was a 'magical moment' for me," says Fields. "It is especially rewarding to look back at my years in early childhood education and realize how much the intergenerational movement has grown."

A professor at Oakton for more than 20 years until her retirement in 1994, Fields was an early proponent of intergenerational programs on the North Shore. In 1978, she co-founded Grandparents Unlimited, a volunteer program that places older persons in childcare settings, where they visit and work with the children for several hours each week.

"Because of the high number of divorces and the mobility of our society, many children are cheated of the presence of strong and caring older people," says Fields. "By utilizing older people in childcare facilities, Grandparents Unlimited helps to build mutual respect and interdependence between the generations."

More than two decades later, Grandparents Unlimited is still active at many childcare facilities, including Oakton's Early Childhood Demonstration Centers, located at its Des Plaines and Skokie campuses.

Fields' interest in fostering educational and social activities among the generations is propelled by a belief that intergenerational involvement is not merely enjoyable, but necessary. Often people refer to such programs as "sweet" or "cute," a perception she finds disquieting.

"There are many negative and stereotypical perceptions about older people," says Fields. "The children of today will be forming the social policy of tomorrow. With the senior population growing each year, now more than ever, there is a need for greater understanding and cooperation between the generations."

The early success of Grandparents Unlimited motivated Fields, who holds a bachelor's degree in education from Northwestern Illinois State College and a master's degree in early childhood education from the Erikson Institute of Loyola University, to explore other ways to link senior citizens and young children. In 1980, Fields took a sabbatical from her teaching duties at Oakton to travel the country, observing different infant/toddler, parenting and intergenerational programs.

"Children from one second grade classroom that I observed visited a nearby nursing home every day to read with the residents," says Fields. "The children knew that some of the residents were ill and that others had physical disabilities and limitations. But they quickly accepted the older people without bias, and the residents reciprocated, visiting the children's classroom once a month. It was a powerful experience, seeing the excitement and enthusiasm in the eyes of the nursing home residents."

"During my sabbatical, I saw shining examples of what could be through activities that deepen mutual understanding and respect among the generations. I returned to Oakton, excited and determined to promote similar programs in our area."

With the support and encouragement of the Oakton administration and Board of Trustees, Fields developed an introductory course in intergenerational programming, one of the first credit courses of its kind to be offered at a community college in the United States. In 1982, Oakton hosted the first intergenerational conference in the Midwest, drawing more than 100 participants. Also that year, she co-founded the Chicago Metropolitan Intergenerational Committee, a network of diverse organizations and agencies that provides a forum for professionals to share their ideas and to collaborate on projects. This committee is still in existence and is recognized nationally for its contributions to intergenerational projects.

Before her retirement from Oakton, Fields moderated a grandparent discussion/support group for eight years at Oakton's Ray Hartstein Campus in Skokie. Each month as many as 30 people came to discuss the joys and the challenges of modern grandparenting. Based on her experiences with the group, Fields wrote "Sore Tongues and Stiff Necks- Problem Solving Through a Grandparent Discussion/Support Group," an article that was published simultaneously in the Journal of Gerontological Social Work (Vol. 28, No. 1/2, 1997) and Intergenerational Approaches in Aging: Implications for Education, Policy and Practice (Haworth Press, Inc. 1997). For her contributions to the intergenerational movement in Illinois, Fields was honored by the Illinois Intergenerational Initiative in 1996.

"Helene is clearly one of the national pioneers in the intergenerational movement," says Shelley Levin, manager of Oakton's Early Childhood Demonstration Centers. "She is well known for her work in promoting the value of older people in the family and in childcare programs. Her passion, insight and caring have been significant in moving this important work forward."

"Say 'No' to plastic and paper bags! Bring your own Cloth bags to the store!"

Listening to Suzanne was the first step for our New Beginningssm Nurse

"When I first met Suzanne, it was clear that she was looking for a maternity program that would work with her to have a healthy baby. Especially important to her was a professional staff who respected her feelings and concerns."

That's probably the reason we got along so well. Our team approach and compassionate care made all the difference to Suzanne. It didn't take long for her to feel right at home with her doctor and me.

We worked with Suzanne throughout her pregnancy, resulting in a beautiful little girl. A week after the delivery, I gave Suzanne a call to make sure everything was going well, answer any questions and make sure she was setting up her postnatal appointments. Making a difference for women like Suzanne is what I love about my job."

The New Beginningssm Maternity Program at Holy Family Medical Center is based on a team approach that provides compassionate, comprehensive care for expectant mothers, their babies and their families.

- Compassionate care through all phases of your pregnancy
- Connected to you and your concerns.
- Committed to your well being.

NPH earns perfect survey rating

A recently concluded annual inspection by surveyors from the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) found the Norwood Park Home had "zero deficiencies" in providing quality care for its residents. The annual certification and licensure survey, which is mandated by the federal government to monitor compliance with federal and state regulations, is conducted of the more than 17,000 nursing homes in the United States.

"The 'zero deficiency' rating granted to Norwood Park Home puts us among the best in the country!" said Marcia Hagopian, Norwood Park Home President/CEO.

The results bode well for Norwood Park Home, 6016-20 N. Nina Ave., Chicago, a not-for-profit home which has been providing care for residents since 1896.

Recent findings indicate that not-for-profit nursing homes have fewer deficiencies than for-profit nursing homes according to a recent study by the Health Care Financing Administration. This Washington-based agency discovered that non-profit nursing homes had an average deficiency of 3.72. Similarly, for-profit nursing homes had an average of 5.45 deficiencies, and nursing homes sponsored by federal, state or local governments averaged 4.21 deficiencies.

"We are very pleased with the findings of the Illinois Department of Public Health because they reinforce our belief and philosophy regarding the importance of quality care," she said. "In effect, we are on target in performing our job of serving the needs of residents."

"Nursing homes are among the most highly regulated industries in the United States," said Hagopian. "Norwood Park Home and other similar facilities are examined annually as to the quality of care provided, compliance with regulations, physical appearance of residents, and implementation of resident needs, among other criteria. Surveyors check the Home's performance against a list of 386 standards."

Hagopian stated that the results of the IDPH survey and a number of other factors should be considered when families are in the process of selecting a retirement or nursing facility.

"We know that families today are more informed about the types of care offered at a nursing home or assisted living facility," she said. "The entire field of retirement care is constantly changing as health care providers become more knowledgeable about the aging process and treatment of illnesses related to longevity. Norwood Park Home is continuously assessing its role in this field to provide the highest quality of care for tomorrow that it has done in the past."

Glenview Terrace Nursing Center receives JCAHO accreditation

Glenview Terrace Nursing Center and its Alzheimer's Care Unit have received accreditation through Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO).

"Glenview Terrace chooses to follow the JCAHO strict national standards because we are committed to quality and excellence in our skilled nursing and Alzheimer's care," said Fred Berkovits, Administrator of Glenview Terrace.

Participation in the JCAHO accreditation program is voluntary. Glenview Terrace

Nursing Center, a 295-bed skilled nursing facility, is in a small percentage of skilled nursing facilities in the country that have attained JCAHO accreditation. And, only less than a dozen other Alzheimer's Units in the State of Illinois have received this distinction.

"Receiving accreditation is a significant achievement, one that recognizes quality health care," said Dennis S. O'Leary, M.D., president of Joint Commission. "Glenview Terrace should be commended for its commitment to providing quality care to the people in its community." JCAHO is the nation's oldest and largest accrediting body. Glenview Terrace Nursing Center is located at 1511 Greenwood in Glenview. For more information, call (847) 729-9090.

AARP in the forefront of national debate over prescription drugs

Let's face it - we're all getting older. There are more Americans over the age of 65 than ever before, and even the Baby Boomers are starting to think about retirement. Which is why the rising cost of health care is becoming a very serious issue, and nowhere is this more apparent than with prescription drugs.

Since 1965, there have been great strides made in medicine, including the dramatic difference prescription drugs have made in helping people live longer, healthier lives. While many employer health plans provide prescription drug coverage, Medicare does not. In fact, most of the prescription drugs used in the treatment and prevention of disease are still not covered by Medicare.

According to a 1998 Wall Street Journal poll, 80 percent of all retirees use a prescription drug every day. The average Medicare beneficiary takes 18 prescriptions a year. More than one-third of all Medicare beneficiaries had no drug coverage in 1995, and this figure is expected to rise to 40 percent -- 16 million Americans -- by next year.

A Medicare reform package

Congress is currently considering would give beneficiaries a modest prescription drug benefit in exchange for a slight increase in monthly co-payments. Since the program would be voluntary, seniors could opt out of it if they already enjoy drug coverage from a supplemental insurance plan or pension.

AARP believes that modernizing Medicare's benefit package to keep up with advances in medicines is a must. Any Medicare reform must be based on several principles including a guarantee of a defined set of health-care benefits that includes prescription drug coverage. Currently, Congress has focused its attention on a $792-billion tax cut package an action that has put Social Security and Medicare reform on the back burner.

For more information about Medicare, prescription drugs or other health issues, please contact the Illinois State Office at 222 N. LaSalle St., #710, Chicago, IL 60601, (312) 458-3600 or write AARP, 601 E. Street NW, Washington, DC 20049.

YMCA Senior representative wins awards and hearts of statewide panel

Ruth Chern proudly represented the Leaning Tower YMCA in the Ms. Illinois Senior Pageant capturing the Ms. Congeniality Award and the talent competition with a stand-up comedy routine.

Ruth recently competed in the statewide competition at the Hyatt Woodfield in Schaumburg. Ruth won the Ms. Congeniality award for her charm and captured the talent competition by doing what she does best - making people laugh.

"I love a challenge, I love being active and I love making other people smile," said the grinning Ruth Chern, an 18-year YMCA member. "I am honored to have won these awards and I was proud to represent the Leaning Tower YMCA. It is a second home to me."

The ageless grandmother of 6 and great grandmother of 4 was nominated by the Leaning Tower YMCA for her dedication to the senior programs at the YMCA. Ruth has been awarded YMCA Ambassador, raises money for the organization and writes a column for the YMCA senior newsletter. "Constantly entertaining, Ruth talks in rhymes and songs and always tries to bring a smile to the faces of those around

Emeritus lecture series welcomes author James McBride

James McBride, journalist, jazz musician and author of The Color of Water: A Black Man's Tribute to His White Mother, will discuss his poignant search for identity from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 5, at the Skokie Public Library, 5215 Oakton St. This presentation is co-sponsored by Oakton Community College's Edge of Emeritus 1999 Lecture Series and the Skokie Public Library.

In his best-selling book, McBride recounts the confusion he felt as a mixed-race child, the son of a black minister and his white wife. McBride's mother Rachel is the foreign-born daughter of an Orthodox rabbi, and her whiteness was a source of embarrassment and worry to her young son. Rachel's determination and indomitable spirit, however, sustained her 12 children as they struggled against poverty and prejudice in the housing projects of Red Hook, New Jersey.

McBride is a graduate of Oberlin College and the Columbia School of Journalism. A former staff writer for the Boston Globe, People Magazine and The Washington Post, he is currently collaborating on the authorized autobiography of musical legend

Quincy Jones. A professional saxophonist and composer, McBride has received several awards for his work in musical theater composition, including the 1996 ASCAP Richard Rodgers Horizons Award, the 1993 Stephen Sondheim Award, and the 1996 American Arts and Letters Richard Rodgers Development Award.

The fee for the lecture is $15. Early registration is recommended, as seating is limited. McBride will sign copies of The Color of Water after his presentation. To register for this event and to request a schedule of other Emeritus programs, call (847) 635-1414.

Rosewood Care Center names administrator

Rosewood Care Center in Northbrook has named Sheldon Novoselsky administrator of the new 147-bed skilled care facility. A 25-year veteran of the rehabilitation and health care field, Novoselsky spent the past 18 years with the Brentwood North Rehabilitation and Specialized Health Care Center in neighboring Riverwoods.

A resident of Skokie, Novoselsky is well-known for his commitment to Alzheimer's disease, both as a nursing home administrator and as a member of Governor Edgar's Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Committee for the State of Illinois. At Rosewood Care Center, Novoselsky's goal is to strive for better health, recovery and a quick return home whenever possible for guests.

For guests requiring long-term care, he seeks the best possible quality of life, frequently scheduling guests for outings outside of the care center. Novoselsky also maintains close contact and open lines of communications with family members, physicians, physical and occupational therapists and other health care providers.

Novoselsky's decision to join the Rosewood Care Center staff was based on a longtime goal to develop and build a rehabilitation and Alzheimer's care program. He's particularly excited about working in Northbrook, as he realizes that families along the North Shore are committed to providing the best possible care for aging relatives.

"I'm a people person and truly believe that Rosewood Care Center's guests will become a part of my extended family," he stated. "I have an open door policy and know that I will be spending more time at Rosewood Care Center than I will with my own family," Novoselsky laughed.

Novoselsky has been married to his wife, Doris, for the past 37 years and has 3 grown sons. Doris is an Administrative Assistant of Global Medical Operations, Asia Pacific, Latin America and Canada for Searle Pharmaceuticals. Together they are the proud grandparents of Carly, Nikki, Alec and Zachary.

The Rosewood Care Center, located at 4101 Lake Cook Road, emphasizes comprehensive therapy and professional care. The philosophy of the center is to conform to the needs of the individual, rather than having the individual conform to Rosewood.

Rosewood offers an intensive therapy program which includes occupational, physical and speech therapy. Social services and recreational programs are available on a regular basis.

For more information, or to schedule a personal tour at the Rosewood Care Center, please call 847-562-1770.

Managing finances when caring for an aging adult

Caring for an aging spouse, parent or a close relative can be a financial strain for families, sometimes even a financial nightmare. For example, the Journal of the American Medical Association reported that one-third of families caring for a seriously ill member spent most of nearly all of their life savings. Caregiving involves no small number of families, either. Roughly one in four households provide caregiving to persons aged 50 and over, according to the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Alliance for Caregiving.

Here are several strategies that can help minimize the financial impact of caring for an aging adult in your family.

Plan. The further ahead, the better. Start by writing down the current and potential needs of the person. Will they eventually have to move to a nursing home or other care facility, or require at-home health care? Can they use less expensive alternatives? Do they need someone to manage their finances, such as paying bills? Can family members or friends help? Review these needs both with the ill person and with family members.

Review personal financial resources. Locate and review bank and savings accounts, checkbooks, insurance policies (life, disability, medical, long-term care, etc.), will, living will, investment accounts, retirement accounts, stock certificates, outstanding loans and pension and Social Security payments. If the person is still employed, review employee benefits.

Put legal documents in place. Legal instruments such as a durable power of attorney, living will, health care proxy and a will are important for any adult, but especially for someone at risk of being declared legally incompetent. Without these basic documents, providing caregiving can become much more complicated and expensive. Review as soon as possible these and other appropriate estate planning documents, such as titling of assets or establishing a trust.

Review community and government financial resources. While most families prefer to draw on their own resources, it may become financially necessary to seek government or community assistance. Review the eligibility rules for Medicaid, Medicare, Social Security disability income, Veterans benefits and local public assistance. Community resources such as Meals-on-Wheels and Visiting Nurses also may be available.

Create a spending plan. With the person's needs and financial resources clarified, create a spending plan that will balance out expenses and income. If major expenses are still ahead of you, a spending plan should save as much as possible out of current income for future needs. Also take into account use of benefits and capital resources.

Review investments. Cash-flow needs are or will likely become paramount. While it's important to invest for long-term growth, a larger-than-average portion of the portfolio may need to be kept in lower-risk investments such as money market accounts or short-term bonds.

Buy long-term care insurance. If the aging adult can still qualify for long-term care insurance, buy a good personal policy. Children sometimes pay for the premiums if the parent can't; it's less expensive than paying out-of-pocket for care later.

Keep taxes in mind. Tax laws provide breaks for buying and using long-term care insurance, and the use of living benefits from a life insurance policy. A caregiver also may be able to claim the aging adult as a dependent if they provide more than half of their support and satisfy other dependent rules such as income limitations. Adults who share caregiving responsibilities with others, such as siblings, may need to rotate the expenses and the deductions claimed each year. Taxes also should be kept in mind when selling investments to provide more ready cash.

Take care of yourself. Caregivers often sacrifice their own needs. A caregiver's failure to save for their own retirement, carry adequate life and health insurance, and have basic legal documents could force the caregiver to later rely financially on others.

Seek professional help. A Certified Financial Planning Practitioner can help with cash flow, taxes, investments and overall financial planning. An attorney can review legal documents and government assistance rules, as well as set up any necessary trusts. A geriatric care manager can help find appropriate living facilities or at-home care.

WITH 25 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE,
NOBODY KNOWS ALZHEIMER'S CARE
BETTER THAN WE DO

For 25 years, Glenview Terrace Nursing Center has been quietly building a reputation of providing quality skilled nursing care to residents of Chicago's North Shore community. The compassion and clinical excellence of our nursing, medical and therapy staffs have been recognized with the highest accreditation possible by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations - Accreditation with Commendation.

It is with the same compassion and clinical excellence that we developed our Alzheimer's Care Unit - a unit that separates early, middle and later stages of the disease to enhance optimum health, dignity and physical functioning. Residents with early stage Alzheimer's can still enjoy an independent environment with structured activities and supervised outings. Middle stage residents receive the necessary redirection and cues to enhance existing abilities. And, residents with late stage Alzheimer's additionally receive the skilled nursing care required to address their changing physiological needs.

Our intensive, activity-focused programming is individualized and structured to meet the needs of the resident during every stage of the disease and is supervised by staff specially trained by Alzheimer's experts to provide exceptional clinical care and compassionate emotional support. Monthly family support groups and a resource center help provide needed information for families to help them cope in their role as caregiver.

EXPERIENCE — EXPERTISE — COMPASSION. Glenview Terrace has the Alzheimer's Care to help each individual during every stage of the disease. For information regarding our Alzheimer's Care Unit, call Barb Wilczynski at (847) 729-9090.

District 219 teachers are always learning

Sharon Swanson, an English and journalism teacher at Niles West High School, participated in the 1999 Workshops for Publication Advisers offered through the School of Journalism at Michigan State University.

During the one-week course, July 26 to July 30, fifty publication advisers and journalism education majors earned college credit in photography, newspaper advising, yearbook advising and publication design.

The workshops, offered every year, are designed to facilitate continuing education for veteran journalism teachers while giving new publication advisers the self confidence needed to help students publish top-notch yearbooks and newspapers in their schools.

"The camaraderie is phenomenal," said Cheryl Pell, coordinator of the workshops. "Many teachers come here feeling all alone in their respective schools. When they leave, they take away a briefcase of new ideas and knowing they have adviser friends all over the state they can call on if they need help."

Instructors this year came from Michigan, Kansas and Iowa, while students hailed from Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois.

Meet the Teachers at SJB

Mary Jean Delorenzo

After studying classical music at St. Margaret Mary School and Immaculate Conception Academy in Davenport, IA, I entered Nurses Training at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston, IL. Shortly after marrying "Red," we settled in St. John Brebeuf parish, where we've been for 45 yrs. From 1965-1985 I was the organist for the 6:30 a.m. Sunday Mass. For 8 yrs. I assisted Sr. Lolita Lange with the Piano program. When my youngest started school 16 yrs. ago, Sister asked Mrs. Beefink and me to take over the program. There have been many levels of accomplishment by my students, but interacting with each child has been my greatest reward.

For 33 continuous yrs. our 10 children attended St. John Brebeuf school. They all participated in the private music program - Dan is a professional string bassist and Margie is music Administrator at St. Juliana parish. We have 10 super grandchildren from 23 yrs. to 9 mo. and more expected. I like any fun activities - favorite are bridge, biking, hiking, cross-country skiing, traveling anywhere and watching my whole family play Ultimate Frisbee - it's great!

Carol Beefink

My name is Carol Beefink. I have been teaching piano for 30 years - 15 years at St. John Brebeuf School. My educational background includes a B.A. from Knox College with a major in Music, and a M.A. in Music Education from Northwestern University. I taught elementary and junior high school music in Skokie for five years, and left classroom teaching to stay at home with my children.

My husband, John, and I have been parishioners of St. John Brebeuf for 34 years, and our children, Michael and Karen, are graduates of the school.

I am a member of the National Guild of Piano Teachers, and attend several piano teacher's workshops each year. I have enjoyed accompanying the school musicals, and playing for the SJB festivals and galas in past years. Teaching has allowed me to share my love for music with students of all ages.

In my free time, in addition to playing the piano, I like to attend concerts, read, travel, and play tennis.

Former Glenview resident, Atlanta victim

Dear Editor:

My name is Roy Webb and I am writing on behalf of my son Scott, one of the nine victims in the Atlanta stock brokerage shootings last month. Scott and I were close as a father and son could be. In fact, we were more like brothers. He was the light of my life. Only 30, he was a kind soul who got along well with everyone and had a contagious energy about him, when he was snuffed-out by a sick man, Mark Barton.

A Chicago area native, Scott grew up in the suburb of Glenview and was a 1987 graduate of Glenbrook South High School. Upon his high school graduation, Scott moved to Los Angeles and attended Loyola Marymount University, where he graduated in 1992.

After working for a few years in the Los Angeles area, Scott joined me in the St. Louis suburb of Chesterfield. He lived with me for 3 1/2 years, earning his stockbroker's license and eventually landing a job at Dean Witter in St. Louis.

He worked at Dean Witter for a few months, then joined a friend and moved to Atlanta for a new opportunity with a brokerage house there: Momentum Securities. Scott had been in Atlanta for about a year, until a deranged man senselessly took my son's life. Funeral services for Scott were held Saturday, August 14 in the St. Louis area.

In Scott's memory, we have established a memorial trust. All funds for the trust will be used for the education of Scott's niece and two nephews, the three young children of his 27-year-old sister, Elizabeth, who lives in the Chicago area. Since Elizabeth became divorced at a young age, Scott served as a surrogate father to her children, ages 7, 6 and 4. They very much admired their Uncle Scott, and Scott treated the children as if they were his own.

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter. If you would be so kind as to write a piece on Scott and the memorial trust, our family would be deeply grateful. What's Happening to the Family?

The family doesn't seem to be what it used to be. If we listen to the media and to the politicians we hear that the family is falling apart at the seams. What is happening to the family?

Police News

Aggravated battery

A 40-year-old Glenview woman sustained a bruised face and was knocked unconscious by an unknown man described as between 20 and 23 years of age, muscular and wearing gray sweat pants. Five witnesses told police they observed the offender exit the passenger side door of a gray or silver sport model Chevrolet or Pontiac and approach the victim's car around 7:22 p.m. Sept. 11 when the victim stopped her vehicle for a red light at the intersection of Milwaukee Avenue and Dempster Street.

In a wild rage, the offender attempted to open the victim's door, which was locked with the window rolled up. He proceeded to kick at the window, which broke. Then he began punching the victim sitting behind the wheel. The offender returned to the other vehicle, which was driven by an unknown female subject described as blond and between 20 and 23 years of age.

When police arrived, they found the victim unconscious lying across the front seat of her vehicle, which was towed to the Niles Police Department. The five witnesses gave police the same account of what had occurred. At Lutheran General Hospital, the victim related that she resides in a condo complex on Dearlove Road and remembered the offender's vehicle exiting as she did. At a red light, the victim dropped her pager, causing her to delay in proceeding as the light changed or possible cutting off the offender in traffic.

The offender's vehicle followed the victim's vehicle and attempted to curb it and cut it off as they drove southeast on Milwaukee Avenue until they arrived at the red light.

The incident was turned over to the detective division, which will conduct a follow-up investigation with an Identikit. Complaints will be signed.

Suspicious activity, person

The mother of a 7-year-old Niles youth living in the 8200 block of Newland Street reported that an unknown 12-year-old male wearing a blue shirt and blue pants approached her son, took the toys he was playing with and threw them down a sewer before fleeing northbound on foot. The incident occurred around 7:15 p.m. Sept. 11.

Retail theft/vehicle tow

The night manager of a supermarket in the 8700 block of Dempster Street called police who found a suspicious 16-year-old DesPlaines youth at the front of the store. When the suspect told police he had no identification, they conducted a pat-down search that revealed the offender had a bottle of alcohol in his waistband and several packages of cigarettes.

In the gold 1980 Oldsmobile Cutlass the offender was driving, police found more packs of cigarettes and a CD player, all of which was inventoried at the Niles Police Department. Police also found a plastic bag containing a green leafy substance on the person of the offender which later proved to be 5 gram of cannabis.

Police contacted the parents of the offender before arresting him as a juvenile and giving him four tickets for driving without a driver's license, violating curfew, parking in a handicapped spot and possession of cannabis.

Theft from purse

A 58-year-old Chicago production worker reported that while she was visiting her husband's grave in the cemetery in the 6800 block of Milwaukee Avenue between 1:45 p.m. and 2 p.m. Sept. 12, unknown offender(s) entered her 1993 Pontiac Grand Am and removed her black leather purse from the front seat which contained $500 cash, the victim's driver's license, assorted credit and identification cards and a checkbook. The victim saw no one entering her vehicle.

Stolen motorcycle
A 32-year-old Niles computer graphics designer reported that unknown offender(s) by unknown means removed his black Suzuki GSXR 750 motorcycle from the rear parking lot behind a building in the 9000 block of Terrace Drive sometime between 5 p.m. Sept. 9 and 6:30 a.m. Sept. 10.

here in the junior programs," Waters said.

Now, the giant sports corporation is in the process of funneling between $1.7 and $2 million into the building to usher it into the new century with a whole new look and character and making it a family recreation center for the new millennium.

"Brunswick, a Fortune 500 company, is revamping all its Chicago centers," Kueker said, "but the most extensive renovation is being done in Niles."

Already installed is new glow-in-the-dark carpeting in an abstract design in hues of the brightest blues and hottest pinks. Yellow and gray "picnic seating" has also been put in place.

Waters predicted the new motif will make bowling at the center more fun. "It really needed a facelift," she said.

However, the renovations being completed go far beyond a facelift. For example, a whole new lounge area and snack bar, which will include a "Pizza Hut Express" will be built on the other end of the building from its present location, Kueker said. A sports and bar area along with big-screen TV and lounge area will be included.

Pizza Hut will supply the ingredients, and the newly installed ovens will be able to turn out the delicious pan pizzas, personal pan pizzas and even chicken wings, Waters said.

Everything electronic either has been installed or is in the immediate plans. New TV monitors have been put in place. With the automatic framework scorers, bowlers will no longer have to struggle with the complicated method of keeping tabs of strikes, spares and open frames. Instead, the electronic monitors will keep score for you. "You put in your name, and it does the rest for you," Waters said. Of course, you won't be able to cheat either.

The lighting system will be completely revamped, making bowling at the Niles Center a truly multimedia experience. Kueker said, "We added Light Works, a new lighting system to go with our cosmic bowling, when we turn off the lights, turn on the strobes (lights) and three screens come down to show music videos and pictures of the crowd," Kueker said. "Two cameras will cover the entire bowling area so we can show you up on the screen while you're bowling," he added.

Not all the changes will be on the interior. The front of the building will be painted, and dazzling new signage will add pizzazz to the exterior inviting bowlers and other sports enthusiasts to explore all the new leisure facilities offered at the Center.

The new focus of the Brunswick Zone Niles Bowling Center will be on families. "There will be something for everyone," Kueker said.

The unique new Ball Wall, "automated bumpers that come up so kids can't get gutter balls" and make sure the little kids get some pins" are among the improvements to be added. "We're trying to make sure this is a total family entertainment center," Kueker said.

Party rooms for birthday parties and other occasions and a family arcade will also be included in the new recreation center.

The emphasis is definitely on brighter and cleaner, especially in the completely new washrooms, which have been totally updated, Kueker said. New locker rooms are also planned.

A visit to the all-new Brunswick Zone Niles promises to be a completely new experience and far more than the old trip to the neighborhood bowling alley.

Renovation is scheduled for completion around Dec. 15. Look for a big celebration around that time. "We're going to do something," Waters said. "Corporate is planning it."

For more information about the Brunswick Zone Niles, call (847) 647-9433.

Patrols and Enforcement will be absorbed by the Illinois Department of Transportation primarily involving overtime, vehicle and equipment expenses.

According to Niles Police Sgt. John Fryksdale Project Coordinator, motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for Americans between the ages of 5 through 24. In Illinois, during 1998 1,398 persons were killed in fatal crashes. In 1997, approximately 134,960 persons were injured in crashes. The cost per death in Illinois for 1997 was $980,000 and the cost per nonfatal disabling injury was $34,100.

The Village of Niles remains committed to Traffic Safety. The departments' objectives are to achieve a higher use of seatbelts and child safety seats, increase enforcement of occupant restraint, impaired driving and speed laws and to ultimately reduce the number of fatal traffic crashes.

new overlay in that area for at least another year. CUB is petitioning the FCC to establish similar practices for the entire country.

Without implementing the number pooling policies, the 630 area code is predicted to run out of numbers in the fourth quarter of 1999, area code 312 in the second quarter of 2000 and 773 in the third quarter of 2000. Area code 708 will run out of numbers in the second quarter of 2001.

The various phone companies are now required to turn back to a central pool excess unused numbers assigned to them when phone numbers were assigned in blocks of 10,000. Now numbers are assigned in blocks of only 1,000.

In addition, phone companies will not be permitted to apply for additional numbers until at least 75 percent of their assigned numbers have been assigned.

If misery loves company, however, Illinois residents can take some small consolation in the knowledge that we are not the only region of the country undergoing "overlay abuse." Overlay area codes are also in use in Atlanta, Dallas, Denver, Miami and in the state of Maryland.

Financial planning for erratic incomes

The majority of workers receive regular fixed paychecks. Each year they get a modest raise, or if they move up the corporate ladder they get a bigger raise. But for an increasing number of workers, pay is becoming more erratic. Freelancers, consultants, small business owners, salespeople, project workers, piecework factory workers, executives who depend heavily on bonuses, temporary workers, even company employees whose pay raises are linked to productivity or profit gains find their pay varies month to month or year to year. For them, keeping personal finances under control takes a little extra planning.

Cash flow. While everyone should budget, it's especially important for those with irregular incomes. The key is to base your budget on income you can reasonably count on each month. Maybe that's your base pay. Consider bonus money, commissions, etc., as gravy. If that's too harsh, say, all or most of your income is unpredictable from month to month, at least try to estimate a monthly average you can reasonably expect. On months that income exceeds the average, bank the extra in a savings account or money market. Leave it there until you need to draw on it for those rainy months when income falls below average. Only after you consistently earn above-average income for at least several months, or better yet, a year or more, should you consider raising your standard of living.

The important thing is to resist the temptation to spend during the high times. This is what does in people whose income is unstable. They splurge when they are flush, and they have nothing when the lean times come. One trick is to use last year's bonus to buy a new computer or spend on that family vacation. Never spend money based on the bonus you expect this year. It may be smaller than you anticipate, or worse, it may not arrive at all.

Emergency funds and borrowing. Try to put away enough money in a bank account for at least three, and preferably six months, of bare-bones living. This will help you through tough times if you drain the overflow, or worse, if the money stops flowing in entirely.

If you must borrow, pay it back as soon as you get your next bonus, big commission, or freelance check. Debt's a killer for people whose income varies.

Smooth out taxes.

Wide swings in income can create havoc for tax planning. A lot of income piled into one year, and relatively little the next, usually means you'll pay more in total taxes for the two years than if the income was evenly divided between the years. It may be possible for you to smooth out your income to some extent by intentionally delaying income from a great year, say a year-end bonus, into the next year, which may not be as great.

A good year might be a time to make an extra charitable contribution, kick more into a tax-sheltered retirement account if you haven't already maximized your contributions, pay state taxes early or take other tax strategies. You might sell investment winners in lean years and investment losers in good years, but only if selling is first and foremost the right investment decision.

Cautious investing. Investment decisions depend on many factors: your financial goals, age, risk tolerance, and so on. However, financial planners often recommend that people with unstable incomes keep a slightly larger portion of their portfolio in cash instruments or short-term bond funds. If times get really tough, you may have to draw on those less-risky assets. That's better than being forced to sell higher risk assets such as stocks, which might be down at the time, or assets that might be difficult to sell quickly for cash, such as real estate.

Retirement accounts. What you definitely want to avoid if you find yourself cash short is to dip into your retirement accounts. Try to sell taxable investments first. Pulling money out of retirement accounts not only hurts your future nest egg, but you will probably pay income tax on the withdrawals and possibly penalties.

In fact, try to keep paying into your retirement accounts even during lean times. Cut other expenses first, if possible.

Protecting your home, maintaining peace of mind

Have you done all you can to safeguard your home against break-ins? A little common sense, some simple upgrades and good solid lighting may be just what you need to help protect you and your property.

Chris Carter, an expert with The Home Depot, offers the following suggestions as the first step toward feeling safer and making your home less attractive to burglars.

Use Common Sense
Avoid being an easy target by making your home look difficult to enter. Criminals don't want to work too hard to get in. Never hide keys in predictable spots. It's best to get to know your neighbors -- they can keep your key for emergencies and keep an eye on your home when you're away.

Update Your Garage Door Opener
If you have an attached garage, here's some important news. One of the most popular ways to enter a home is by stealing garage door opener codes. You have a one in ten chance that a criminal can use a generic opener with a code that matches your home, unless your opener is digital. The latest digital openers change those odds to one in 4.5 billion.

Make Your Home Look Occupied
Use inexpensive timers that will periodically turn on lights throughout your house. Consider leaving a television or stereo on when you're out.

Illuminate Entryways
Another major deterrent for burglars is a well-lit home. Keep extra bulbs on hand to replace outdoor lights as soon as they burn out. Install a motion-activated light for all shaded areas around your home.

Secure Doors and Locks
Start with a quality door, preferably steel with wood or steel frames. Use deadbolts with long screws that firmly attach the lock's plates to your door frame. Buy a security door with iron grates for added protection.

Children 12 and under are admitted free. For information on advance ticket purchases or directions to the ski hill, contact Steve Beyer, club member, at (847) 462-1159.

Replacing hot water heater may help to lower energy bills

Question: I understand that General Electric's new Smart-Water™ water heater will lower energy costs compared to standard models. Are water heaters difficult to install, or will I need to call a plumber?

Answer: Removing your old water heater and installing a new one can be accomplished by a do-it-yourselfer if the replacement unit is similar to the old one, according to Jack Duncan, a plumbing expert with The Home Depot.

You must turn off the power source (either gas or electric) and disconnect the water heater, including the exhaust duct if it is a gas unit. Working with the water supply lines is like working with any supply lines. To install the new unit, you simply reconnect the power source exactly as it was attached to the old unit, following the manufacturer's directions.

If you need to change from a gas water heater to an electric one, or vice versa, call a professional to do the work. Most building codes require a licensed installer to remove or install gas lines. After shutting off and disconnecting the power source and shutting off the incoming water valve, make straight cuts through the pipes below the level of the shutoff valve. Drain the heater and remove it using an appliance dolly.

Attach a threaded fitting onto the end of each pipe so that you can connect the new water heater with supply lines. Reinstall the exhaust duct if the heater uses gas. Follow the manufacturer's directions for starting the new unit.

SAIR offers hope after airline disaster

For one month each year John Wilson is on call for a unique kind of emergency -- an airline disaster. As part of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) Disaster Response Team he has four hours to respond to a call after a plane has crashed. His role? To provide pastoral care to the families affected by an airline disaster and train local clergy to respond to an airline disaster in the affected community. It could take him anywhere in the country.

After the TWA Flight 800 and ValueJet crashes, the single overriding complaint from surviving family members was a lack of emotional/spiritual support from the NTSB. There was no one to listen to them, to help them grieve. Their cries for support results in The Aviation Disaster Family Assistance Act of 1996 which is explicit about a victim's right to spiritual care that respects each person's spiritual values. It requires that adequate space and resources for meeting basic spiritual needs are to be provided.

Typically, a team of eight pastoral staff from across the country are called to the crash site to provide leadership in this role.

"There is so much involved when we arrive at the site," said Wilson. "We must take into consideration all faiths, all languages and tailor our efforts accordingly.

We tend to the families 24 hours a day and collaborate with them to create a meaningful memorial service that speaks to their loss and pain. We also consider the long-term effects of the trauma."

Wilson went through intensive training in May which focused on the role of the Aviation Disaster Spiritual Care Team as a component of the responsibilities assigned to the Red Cross when responding to aviation disasters. As part of a team of trained spiritual care professionals housed in a Family Assistance Center, Wilson helps to coordinate, establish and maintain the availability of appropriate spiritual care services for families affected by an aviation disaster. The SAIR Team works to mitigate the impact of the spiritual crisis experienced by survivors, family members, and rescue/recovery personnel after an aviation disaster.

"We minister to the different and overlapping groups after an air disaster," said Wilson. "Individual family members, whole families who have lost a loved one, survivors, workers and the community in general."

Services provided by the team include creating a quiet, private place for family members and friends to grieve and pray, providing daily prayer services, maintaining close communications with local clergy, arranging for memorial services, providing grief ministry for children and ministering to rescue workers at the recovery/crash site.

Wilson, the trauma chaplain, serves as the pastoral care representative in Lutheran General Hospital's emergency room heard about the NTSB team and applied. His experience in counseling patients and their families during a trauma served him well and he was accepted into the program.

Wilson will be on call the month of October.

He who neglects the present moment may throw away all he has.

TimeSmart Ask Carolyn

Q. There are all kinds of rinse agents you can buy for a dishwasher. Do I really need to use a rinse agent in my dishwasher?

A. Filming and spotting occurs when hard water evaporates from a dish or glass and leaves minerals behind. Rinse agents help minimize spotting and filming, and speed drying by causing water to sheet off dishes and glassware. If your dishwasher has an automatic rinse agent dispenser, fill it with a liquid rinse agent.

Q. Does it matter how old ice is? Does it lose its freshness? I notice an odd taste sometimes.

A. Cold surfaces, such as ice, absorb odor compounds faster than warm surfaces. However, there are some things you can watch for to lessen the incidence of odor in your ice cubes. Empty the bin once a week and wash the bin with soap and water. Remember, air circulates between the refrigerator and freezer, so wrap foods like garlicky pizza to prevent food odors from settling into ice cubes. Be sure that the ice is made with good quality water...you might need an in-line water filter to give you better tasting ice.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
 You who solve all problems, who lights
 all roads so that I can obtain my goals.
 You, who give me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life, you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine.
 Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days
 and a favor will be granted.
 Thank You.
