Saluting the Architects of the 21st Century: The World War II Generation

In our communities, the most striking feature of the past century is the contribution made by those who endured the Great Depression and World War II. It is these people who built the secure world we enjoy as we enter the 21st century.

With values molded by the unfathomable hardships of the Great Depression and then steeled by the fires of World War II, this generation did nothing more than return from war, finish school, marry, create families and build our communities. Along the way they created the finest public school systems in our nation's history along with our libraries, hospitals, community colleges, churches and charities.

This is the generation, men and women, who were repeatedly tested and proved to themselves and the world that they would endure. They had the audacity to believe they could send men to the moon while finding the compassion to help feed and clothe much of the world.

While most in this generation would say they were just doing their jobs, nonetheless, this is the generation whose hands we hold as they lead us into the years ahead. These are the people whose memory will help their children and grandchildren continue to prevail through the countless challenges ahead.

This is the generation which leaves to the 21st Century the only inheritance which has real meaning.....their example.

Niles resident remembered at Brookfield Zoo

On November 20, more than 50 family members and friends of the late Chester J. Bochnik of Niles, gathered at Brookfield Zoo to honor him and to dedicate a small plaque in his memory. Bochnik had served as a docent (volunteer educator) at Brookfield Zoo for more than 13 years and was a member of the zoo's Living Legacy society for individuals who have made an estate plan commitment to the zoo. In addition to his regular duties as a docent, Bochnik volunteered in Brookfield Zoo's Zoo Adventure Passport (ZAP) program in which the zoo helps the wonders of the animal world to inner-city youth through local libraries.

Many of his fellow Brookfield Zoo docents, members of his 400 Ski Club, and many members of his family, including his sister, Josephine Brod of Niles, attended the memorial celebration. Several friends said eulogies, including Bochnik's close friend Larry Derorre of Chicago, and his fellow docents Sid Madura of Willow Springs and Russ Evans of Indian Head Park.

For more information about volunteer opportunities at Brookfield Zoo, call (708) 485-0263, ext. 852. For information on memorial gift opportunities at the zoo, call ext. 379.

Open every day of the year, Brookfield Zoo is located at First Avenue and 31st Street in Brookfield, just 14 miles west of downtown Chicago. The zoo is accessible via the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I-290) expressways, Tri-State Tollway (I-294), Burlington Northern commuter line, and PACE bus service. For more information about Brookfield Zoo, visit its Web site at: www.brookfieldzoo.org

MG Park meeting looks back

The Morton Grove Park District Board of Commissioners' meeting on December 16, 1999 covered several issues to be worked on in the new millennium, but also took the opportunity to look back at the past year's accomplishments.

Among these accomplishments are capital improvements like the Oriole Pool renovation, changes in the administrative staff, the receipt of numerous donations, contributions and grants, and the continued development of programs offered to residents. Administrative Manager Gary Balling, in his written report dated Monday, December 3, 1999, stated that he is "proud to be part of an organization that has the majority of its parks and facilities infrastructure in good shape as we go into the year 2000," and that "the park district can take great pride in all the accomplishments for this year."

Looking ahead to the year 2000, and the possibility of receiving a bite from the Y2K bug, Mgr. Balling reported that the Park district is prepared for the New Year. The Y2K committee has been working to ensure preparedness. However, should problems arise, the District is developing a call list, so that administrative staff and employees can be called in as needed.

The year 2000 will see the completion of the Oriole Pool renovation. Most of the outside work has been completed. A few final steps, such as caulking, will be performed as weather permits. The Park District anticipates taking bids for the bathroom renovations, which will provide handicapped accessible shower stalls, toilets and fixtures, as well as additional storage and staff space, by the end of January.

The Board has approved a facilitator for Harter Park as well. They have contracted with Davis & Associates, Inc., Glen Ellyn, to develop a master plan for the project. School District 70 will be involved in the renovation.

MG man indicted in truck license bribe scandal

Attorneys for three men indicted for allegedly selling truck drivers' licenses to unqualified truckers, said their clients are hashing out plea agreements with federal prosecutors.

One of the accused is a 40-year-old Morton Grove resident who formerly managed the truck-licensing facility in Elk Grove Village.

He allegedly received an undisclosed amount of bribe money from driving school owners and instructors in exchange for truck licenses given to unqualified drivers. Prosecutors also charge that he converted the bribe money into campaign contributions for then-Secretary of State George Ryan's campaign chest in last year's governor's race.

Gov. Ryan thus far has not been mentioned as a target of the investigation, but prosecutors have charged that at least $155,000 in bribe money obtained at two other licensing facilities being investigated also found its way into Ryan's campaign funding.

Also indicted were a 56-year-old former state examiner from Arlington Heights accused of taking bribes for licenses and the 51-year-old Chicago owner and operator of a truck driving school who paid him up to $500 per week over a period of more than two years.

Both officials also allegedly issued regular driver's licenses to illegal immigrants, under assumed names, according to the indictment.

A Jan. 18 trial date has been set by U.S. District Judge Suzanne B. Conlon.

Civilian suspected of dumping mail in Niles recycling box

Postal authorities suspect that a civilian is responsible for dumping 100 and 150 pieces of mail in a recycling box in the 8000 block of Milwaukee Avenue sometime between the evening of Dec. 5 and the afternoon of Dec. 6 when it was discovered by an area resident.

The envelopes, which were addressed to Niles residents, was metered mail from local addresses. Several envelopes containing Christmas cards were opened as was one envelope mailed by a brokerage firm.

Post office authorities are investigating the incident, but a Chicago postal inspector said evidence indicates the mail was stolen from an overstuffed mailbox by a civilian rather than by a postal employee. Regular collections

Unexpired term of deceased trustee filled in L'wood

by Rosemary Tiro
With the approval of the Lincolnwood Village Board, Lawrence Froman, Mayor Madeleine Grant's appointee to the unexpired term of the late Robert G. Abelson, was sworn in Dec. 16.

A 26-year Lincolnwood resident, Froman will act as liaison between the Village Board and the Economic Development Commission, from which he will retire to assume the trusteeship.

Abelson's term was to expire in April 2001.

Froman, a Niles native, attended Maine East High School before going to Bradley University in Peoria. He praised Lincolnwood for its prime location both in the suburbs and contiguous with near Chicago without the city's problems.

Froman said he was happy to be appointed trustee because he had no plans of moving from Lincolnwood and he is interested in maximizing benefits and minimizing burdens for Lincolnwood residents and business owners.

Hadassah lights up lives with day of social action

Reminding us that Hanukkah is a time to give and not only to get, Hadassah's National Mitzvah (Good Deed) Day is a single day, when - all across the country - Hadassah members perform good deeds to help others less fortunate. Many of Chicago Chapter Hadassah's groups were inspired to take part in this day of community based social action.

The Young Leaders Council with the help of the Florence Heller JCC organized a drive for Bottomless Closet - a non-profit that collects business clothing for women who are moving from assistance to work. The Young Leaders set up drop-off sites all across Chicagoland and succeeded in collecting 4 racks or professional coats and clothing as well as bags and bags of shoes and purses. Zahava-Deborah, a group in the Southern suburbs, collected new toys for the Jewish Children's Bureau. Thanks to an extremely successful campaign, the group filled a truck and a car with toys to be donated to children in need or in foster homes as well as the Jewish Children's Bureau's center and school. Cochatvim, a group made up of young women who live in Chicago, gathered together to serve dinner to children at the Ronald McDonald House. More than 20 nurses and their families from the Nurses Council helped serve a Hanukkah celebration dinner at the Ark. Over 1300 meals were

Vitro Fertilization program marks 10th year at LGH

The In Vitro Fertilization (IVF) program at Lutheran General Hospital, a recognized leader in the treatment of infertility since 1989, is marking its 10th anniversary this year.

"We are very proud of our history," said Laurence Jacobs, M.D., section head, division of reproductive endocrinology. "In the past ten years we have served 1,460 couples which resulted in 612 live births and 64 ongoing pregnancies."

Lutheran General Hospital's state-of-the-art IVF laboratory is equipped to perform the most advanced procedures:

- Assisted Hatching - a process whereby a tiny hole is made in the outer coat of the embryo so that it might have a better chance of implanting.

- Blastocyst Transfers - a process in which embryos are kept in a culture for an extended period of time before transfer in order to look at the embryo's ability to develop.

- ICSI - a process in which a single sperm is injected into an egg.

"We have made significant advances in the IVF lab in the last ten years," said Nancy Bossert, Ph.D., IVF lab director, embryologist, Lutheran General Hospital. "For example, we now have the ability to insert a single sperm into an egg, or to grow an embryo for longer periods of time. These advances in the lab have enabled us to help more people achieve pregnancy than ever before."

A detailed quality control program ensures that all equipment and instruments are checked.

Step by step protocols are also used to test cultures, media (solution that embryos grow in), plasticware, and lab supplies prior to use, to see whether they have any toxic effects on embryos.

"For the past ten years, the IVF program at Lutheran General Hospital has consistently been recognized as an outstanding resource for infertile couples," said John Rapisarda, M.D., IVF program director, Lutheran General Hospital. "We're looking forward to continuing to provide the most current infertility treatment to couples who need it."

The In Vitro Fertilization Program at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, has been recognized leader in the treatment of infertility since 1989, and has served 1,400 couples resulting in over 600 live births to date.

Accredited by the College of American Pathologists and the American Society of Reproductive Medicine, Lutheran General Hospital's state-of-the-art IVF laboratory houses 12 incubators, each patient has their own, 2 embryo freezers for cryogenic preservation of embryos; and 7 storage tanks that hold frozen embryos and sperm.

Advanced procedures such as Assisted Hatching, and ICSI, are performed at Lutheran General Hospital with the newest micromanipulation technology equipment. Blastocyst Transfers are also done, resulting in higher occurrences of implantation and lower rates of multiple births.

LGH offers new Off-Pump Coronary Bypass

Physicians at Lutheran General Hospital are now performing coronary bypass procedures in a new way - without the use of a heart-lung machine. The new method, Off-Pump Coronary Bypass (OPCAB), uses new technology, a stabilizer arm, that attaches to the device which holds the chest open during surgery. The arm touches the heart and temporarily stops the movement in one spot as the rest of the heart continues to beat. This allows the surgeon to attach the grafts to the arteries as needed without stopping the entire heart, and avoids the use of the heart lung machine.

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, is a recognized leader in cardiology services, with 42 board certified or board eligible cardiologists, and 3 cardiac surgeons. Three state-of-the-art catheterization labs, operating 24 hours a day/7 days a week, perform over 3,000 procedures each year with 2 physicians present at each interventional procedure to ensure that experience and quality are always provided. Surgery is performed in two operating rooms dedicated to cardiac surgery around the clock.

An entire range of the latest cardiac technology is offered: Electrophysiology (adults and Peds), Noninvasive Cardiac Testing, Pacing and Monitoring, Cardiac Rehabilitation, Adult and Pediatric Cardiac Catheterization and Cardiac Nuclear Imaging.

Park Ridge senator receives half a pie from the Half for Tobacco Prevention Campaign

As part of "Operation Half the Pie," Senator David Sullivan received half a pumpkin pie from a Half for Tobacco Prevention Campaign volunteer during the legislative veto session. The campaign is urging the Illinois General Assembly to spend half of the state's tobacco settlement funds on tobacco prevention and control programs. The Half for Tobacco Prevention Campaign represents more than 65 organizations throughout Illinois, including the American Heart Association, American Lung Association, American Cancer Society, Illinois Academy of Family Physicians, and the Illinois State Medical Society.

Tips for Smart & Healthy Living from Richart Chiropractic

Keep your weight in check. One of the toughest challenges during the holidays is keeping off extra pounds -- especially when the party circuit starts in full swing. Here are some tips to prevent going overboard on your calories when you attend business, friend, or family events:

1. Don't go to a party hungry. Eat something before you go.
2. Weight your food choices. If you really have to have that cherry jubilee for dessert, then make up for it by not eating the hors d'oeuvres or chips or other snacks being served.
3. Socialize. Make meeting and talking with people your main focus. Keep your back to the buffet table and mingle. In fact, if you're at a business event, make it a goal to meet someone new.
4. Watch your drinking. Not only do alcoholic beverages have lots of calories, too many will lower your inhibitions.

Wear a reminder. Put on a particular tie or piece of jewelry to remind yourself to eat in moderation.

Stress relief for executives. If you see your vice president standing on his head after a particularly stressful meeting, consider yourself lucky. It's better they stand on their heads to relieve stress than to use you as their verbal punching bag. Here are other ways that executives have been spotted venting their frustrations:

1. One executive often walked up and down the 24 flights of stairs to the office. And then he'd crawl under his desk to take a nap.
2. One boss ripped confidential papers into millions of pieces, very slowly, one at a time. One manager operated a remote-control car in the office.
3. One boss played with a yo-yo at meetings.
4. One executive threw around a rubber arm with a shirt attached to it.

Daniel L. Glatz

While most Americans are celebrating the holiday season at home or with family, Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Daniel L. Glatz, whose wife, Sara, is the daughter of Carl and Martha Redemske of Des Plaines, is scheduled to spend the holidays forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan aboard the guided-missile cruiser USS Chancellorsville.

Understanding Your Skin

Skin Saving Tips To Keep Skin Safe From The Cold

Just as it's wise to layer on extra clothing in cooler weather, it may also make sense to provide your skin with some extra protective care.

As temperatures drop, skin may become dry, irritated and flaky.

"The cold temperatures and brisk winds can strip skin of essential moisture it needs," says dermatologist Dr. Karyn Grossman. "It is crucial to add extra steps to your regimen during the winter to maintain healthy skin."

Women bracing for cold temperatures need to adapt their skin routine -- from head to toe.

Here are two easy tips for winter skin relief:

Put Your Best Face Forward. In a recent Olay survey of women across the country, 57 percent claimed to suffer from dry facial skin.

"Winter dry" discomfort can be eased by switching from a lotion to a cream to boost moisture levels during cold weather months.

Don't forget sunscreen: even in gloomy winter weather, harmful UVA and UVB rays can still cause damage to the skin.

Try Olay Complete UV Protective Moisturizer. Available in a lotion and cream form, it not only provides excellent moisturization but is formulated with microfine zinc oxide for broad spectrum, UVA/UVB protection with SPF 15.

Maintain Healthy Skin From Head To Toe. Olay found that 52 percent of women suffer from dry skin all over their body. To help keep skin soft and hydrated, switch to a moisturizing body wash for winter instead of soap.

Olay Daily renewal Moisturizing Body Wash is a great choice. Formulated with petrolatum, it provides a full 24 hours of moisturization and visibly improves the skin's resilience and skin tone in just one week.

Hustle Up the Hancock to be held

Tired of the monotony of the treadmill or the boring routine of your usual run? If so, join the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago in the ultimate workout challenge by climbing the 1632 stairs of John Hancock Center in the 3rd annual Hustle Up the Hancock ... The Marathon of Stair Climbs.

The 1,000 foot vertical climb takes place on Sunday, February 27, 2000, in the two fully ventilated stairwells of John Hancock Center. Individuals of all ages are welcome to participate in one of two divisions: the competitive and non-competitive climbs. Competitive climbers test their endurance against the clock by climbing up the 94 floors of John Hancock Center. Non-competitive climbers attempt a 42 floor climb, then take the elevator up to The John Hancock Observatory upon completion of the course.

Entry fees for the event are $30 for the competitive climb and $25 for the non-competitive climb, plus a $20 pledge minimum. Climbers receive a Hustle Up the Hancock t-shirt, refreshments, goody bag, stainless steel travel mug, and entry into the Observatory for finish line festivities.

For those who want to participate in the climb as a group, the Team Challenge is ideal. Benefits include a special t-shirt, team photo, awards for largest and top fund raising team and more. There is a fee of $85 per team, in addition to the individual registration and pledge minimum.

Climbers raise pledges for the event to help the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago fight lung disease. Incentive prizes for participants who go the extra step over and above the pledge minimum include a Carnival smoke-free cruise, airline tickets, sports apparel, brunch for two at The Signature Room and much more.

Proceeds from the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago's Hustle Up the Hancock benefit the lung association's research, advocacy, and education programs. For more information call (312) 243-2000, or

Lewis & Clark at Washington School

Washington School students in grades 1 through 6 were delighted by the "Amazing Adventures of Lewis & Clark," a PTA-sponsored cultural arts program presented at the school on Friday, December 3, 1999. This exciting and comical musical taught students about the journey made Lewis & Clark and the teamwork and courage they showed throughout their expedition. This program was very informative as well as extremely enjoyable for all.

Job seekers, alumni attend job clubs reunion

John Lamers, left, of Lisle, job club alumnus from the first Lisle Township Job Club group started in 1992, chats with Ken Stasiak, job club alumnus from Niles. Job seekers attending the reunion, held Nov. 22 at the Lisle Library, had an opportunity to network with Job Clubs "alumni" as part of their job search efforts. Attendees brought food, snacks and desserts to share with the group, as well as food items for the Lisle Township Food Pantry.

History professor from MG wins Editor's Award

Charles M. Barber, Ph.D., a Northeastern Illinois University history professor since 1967, has been chosen winner of the 1999 Editor's Award, sponsored by the State Historical Society of North Dakota. Barber's winning article, "A Diamond in the Rough: William Langer Reexamined," appeared in the Fall 1998 issue of North Dakota History, the quarterly journal of the State Historical Society. The award was presented recently at the Fort Abraham Lincoln State Park Commissary during the 12th annual Governor's Conference on North Dakota History.

The editor's award is given annually to a full-length article published in North Dakota History in the preceding year. The winning article best exemplifies the highest standards of research, writing and scholarship.

Barber won praise from the panel of judges for his fresh look at legendary North Dakota politician, William Langer. Of particular importance was Langer's post-World War II efforts to alleviate the suffering of the Volksdeutsche, ethnic Germans who had emigrated to Russia or other neighboring nations.

Barber has presented numerous papers on German-Americans, Illinois politics and educational reforms, and has published articles in various journals. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Princeton University and a doctorate from the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Blues & Swing band to perform

Phil Baron & Jump City blues and swing band in the style of Cab Calloway, Louie Prima and Louis Jordan will set a first for Flatlander's Restaurant and Brewery entertainment program when they appear there Friday, January 7 and Saturday, January 8.

This will be the first time one band has appeared at Flatlander's twice in the same month and on two consecutive nights. Baron, of Lincolnwood, said by an entertainment publication to be "Chicago's king of boogie-woogie piano," brings a high energy and versatile eight piece band to the Lincolnshire stage.

Baron, who also plays in the style of Wynonie Harris, Big Joe Turner and Bull Moose Jackson, said he will have people dancing with music from the 40s as well as with the contemporary sounds of blues, jazz, New Orleans, ballads, rock, rhythms and beats.

Baron has twice performed at the Chicago Blues Festival and at other festivals in the United States and throughout Europe as well as on NBC and National Public Radio in Europe.

He grew up in Lincolnwood and moved to Cleveland for training at the Cleveland Institute of Music and Cleveland State. Baron perfected his music in Cleveland and has returned to reside in Lincolnwood. Since coming back to Chicago, Baron has worked with Jimmy Rogers, James Cotton, Sugar Blue and Otis Rush.

Flatlander's is a huge upper scale restaurant critically acclaimed with a world famous award winning microbrewery, all in a family setting. It is located on Milwaukee Avenue and Olde Half Day Road just north of Route 22 in Lincolnshire. For information call 847/821-1234.

Flake Out Festival celebrates 10th anniversary in 2000

Twenty-thousand visitors from throughout the Midwest are expected to attend the 10th annual Wisconsin Dells Flake Out Festival, held at Noah's Ark Waterpark, January 21-23, 2000.

Flake Out Festival centers around Wisconsin's only state-sanctioned snow sculpting competition. In this three-day contest, 40 three-person teams transform six feet by six feet by eight feet blocks of snow into incredible, larger-than-life sculptures, and vie for the opportunity to attend the national snow sculpting finals. Winners will be announced at an awards ceremony on Sunday, January 23 at 2:30 p.m.

Flake Out Festival also hosts a number of unique participatory activities for all ages. New in 2000 is a snowman-making competition, and the totally Tubular Snow Slide, a massive slide made entirely of snow where guests race down its banks on inner tubes. These events join activities such as an armchair quarterback competition, Eskimo Pie eating contest, tricycle races, slap-shot hockey contest, turkey bowling and Bag the Yeti contests for prizes. Ice carving demonstrations, kite flying demonstrations, live entertainment, hot air balloons and balloon animals by "Da" the Clown are also popular Flake Out Festival events. Outdoor enthusiasts will enjoy open ice skating, sleigh and pony rides, and cross-country skiing. A warming tent, welcomes all, with refreshments available.

Flake Out Festival offers free spectator admission and free parking. There is a $4 fee for pony rides. In addition to the 10th annual Flake Out Festival, Wisconsin Dells is home to a diversity of accommodations, restaurants, attractions and retail stores - many offering special savings during the weekend.

For more information about Wisconsin Dells Flake Out Festival, to receive a Flake Out Festival brochure with Wisconsin Dells discounts, or to request a copy of the 1999-2000 Wisconsin Dells Winter Getaway Guide, call 1-800-223-3557, ext. R, or visit our web site at www.wisdells.com.

Stand up and be counted in 2000

Maine Township Supervisor Mark Thompson is telling unincorporated residents that there's no reason not to cooperate with the upcoming census in 2000. In fact, Thompson joins other community leaders encouraging cooperative reporting of the changing population so that federal funds are fairly distributed according to an accurate count of residents that reflect realistic demographics.

Concerned that apathy or unfounded fears may cause some residents to be less than cooperative, Thompson maintains there is no basis for suspicion. "Participating in the census is in the individual's own self interest," said Thompson. "People who answer the census assist their community's effort to obtain federal and state funding provide valuable information needed to plan for schools, hospitals, roads, and more. Census information helps decision makers understand which neighborhoods need what level of services. But they won't be able to tell what your neighborhood needs if you don't fill out your census form."

"We were recently able to pave the alley behind Sumac Avenue through a Community Development Block Grant that was obtained using census data concerning population," Thompson added as a local example. "On the other hand we were denied a grant in another area where census data was not accurate - a good example of how lack of cooperation with the census last time may have contributed to losing funds."

Thompson hopes residents concerned about privacy will consider the fact that census data is, by federal law, protected and for the most part nameless. "The numbers published by the census bureau are combined with thousands of answers from people in your neighborhood and all over the United States," said Thompson. "No one, except sworn Census Bureau employees, can see individual questionnaires or link your name with your responses."

According to information provided on the Census Bureau's own web site, at <http://www.census.gov>, the Census Bureau by law cannot share respondents' answers with others, including welfare agencies, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, courts, police and the military. In fact, the Census Bureau points out that the law provides severe penalties for any census employee that makes your answers known. Anyone who breaks this law can receive up to five years in prison and $5,000 in fines.

"We're hoping people will answer accurately and completely with this important count that gives legislators a realistic look at who their constituents really are," said Thompson. "It's the best way to help your community get its fair share."

Food pantries could use leftover Y2K stash

Thousands of residents in the area may be stocking up on extra food "just in case", but Maine Township officials are banking that everything will turn out OK, and that there will be no mass food shortages after the clock ticks away past the last century. One way to deal with those extra stores, they suggest is to donate it to the Maine Township Emergency Food Pantry. To encourage donations, Maine Township is unofficially declaring the first month of 2000 as "Y2KIK" month, and will be accepting food donations from residents clearing their emergency food inventories at home.

"We're hoping that the many people who have stocked up on canned goods and packaged food may not want to keep storing it if not need after January 1st," said Maine Township Supervisor Mark Thompson. "We thought it would be a good idea if those fortunate enough to stockpile food might want to celebrate the fact they don't need it and donate to those who do."

The emergency food pantry attempts to stockpile food all year, every year. "Over the Christmas holiday season alone, we've have over 300 requests for food baskets," said Township General Assistance Director Marsha Warnick. "That's from the unincorporated areas of Niles,

Park Ridge, Morton Grove and Glenview, and by our estimation donations to date will help feed nearly 1,000 hungry kids over the holidays. What better way to start off the new century than by helping others who find it difficult to plan for the following week, much less store food for an emergency."

As always, food donations should be non-perishable, canned or prepared boxed foods as normally requested throughout the year. "We're gambling that Y2K will turn out OK, and that people will want to make room for the next millennium," joked Warnick. "Hunger is a serious thing though, and we can really use the extra food."

The Maine Township Emergency Food Pantry is the only food pantry in the area that is open 5 days a week, and is located at Maine Township Town Hall, 1700 Ballard Road in Park Ridge. For information on drop off locations, contact Marsha Warnick at (847) 297-2510.

The Veterans' Memorial, Prairie View Park

At the southwest corner of Prairie View Park is a special grove of twenty trees on and about a knoll. This living memorial stands in honor of the twenty Morton Grove men who gave their lives serving in the U.S. Military. A wall set into the knoll makes a sheltered site for reading a plaque that records the names of the remembered men and the wars they fought, and delivers one message of the memorial.

The Past
This Veterans Memorial originated as the Vietnam Veterans Living Memorial of eight trees dedicated November 7, 1976, to honor the eight Morton Grove men who died serving during the Vietnam War. It acknowledged a debt of recognition for all Vietnam Veterans who had the lonely ordeal of answering that call to serve and who did so with courage, endurance and patriotism. It was an achievement of the Village Beautification Committee for the Nation's Bicentennial that endures for our heritage. The trees as well as a plaque bearing the eight names which is mounted on a stone atop the knoll, were provided by citizen donations and, along with two stone benches donated by the Women's Club, remain integral now with the Veteran's Memorial.

Through the initiative of Chapter 311, Vietnam Veterans of America, the memorial has been a place for vigils honoring dead and missing comrades, and tributes of flowers, pictures, and poems.

The Present
Our Veteran's Memorial today is the result of a development opportunity offered in 1994 by the Park District Board of Commissioners who requested input from local Veterans.

Chapter 311, VVA, requested that the Living Memorial become a unifying one for all Veterans. Accepting this, the Park District preserved the existing Memorial and around it, constructed the present Living Memorial, the new Memorial consists of twenty trees, plus the flag, plaque, wall, cove, seating, landscaping, walkway, and lighting. The plan retained the theme of a scene that can be entered as well as viewed. With the slogan "Trees to Remember the Veterans" American Legion Post 134 and VVA Chapter 311 raised the funds for the additional twelve trees, and, with the Park District, they conducted the dedication of the unified Memorial during a cold blizzard on Veterans' Day, 1995, the Village Centennial Year.

The 1995 dedication took place at a world-wide significant moment. It was held at the 11th hour on the closing day of the year-long commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of the end of World War II. It affirmed a bond shared by all Veterans of the U.S. Military through their sacrifices for freedom, belief in service to their country, and their demonstration of the character of the America we value and need.

Orientation to Computers (DPR E70) is a "lecture only" course designed for the beginner. The instructor will introduce different types of software and answer students' questions. There are three sections of this class offered this spring: DPR E70-01 (Touch Tone 09439) meets from 2-4 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at the Ray Hartstein Campus, 7701 North Lincoln Avenue, Skokie. DPR E70-02 (Touch Tone 09438) meets from 5-7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 11, at the Des Plaines Campus, 1600 East Golf Road. DPR E30-03 (Touch Tone 09437) meets from 5:30 - 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 30, at the Des Plaines campus. The course fee is $20.

Sharing God's Gifts and Talents

On Wednesday, November 17, 1999, the sixth grade class at St. John's Catholic Church in Niles held a Thanksgiving Prayer Service. Members of the community as well as the school joined the students as they reflected upon the many gifts God has bestowed upon His children.

John Johann shared the first reading from the Book of Sirach, thanking God for the many gifts in our lives God has been there to guide us when we are lost or alone. Katie Stasiak read from Corinthians reminding us that we are all one in Christ.

West Word earns 'All American' honor

West Word, the Niles West student newspaper, has been named an "All American" newspaper by the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA). This is the highest honor the organization gives.

For the last three years West Word has received a "First Class" rating. The "All American" ranking is a First Class paper that receives marks of distinction in at least four of the five categories the NSPA uses for evaluation. West Word received marks in five of the five categories: writing and editing; coverage and content; photography, layout and design; art and graphics; and leadership.

The paper was hailed for its breadth of coverage, especially on national and international issues. The award stated the paper "reported on all aspects of school, from snow storms to handgun control and showed the links to students."

The judges wrote that West Word contained "strong editorial and opinion writing" where the "logic used in arguing specific viewpoints was outstanding." The editorial section was also commended as a forum where all students could voice their opinions.

This award is based on last school year's output. The 1998-

Theft

The owner of a business in the 8400 block of Golf Road reported that unknown offender(s) removed $2,300 cash in $100 and $50 denomination in a bank deposit box, one personal check and a bank ledger from the rear office file cabinet sometime between 1:10 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. Dec. 23. A Niles police evidence technician dusted the file cabinet for fingerprints with negative results. A follow-up investigation is underway.

The manager of a restaurant in the 7000 block of Dempster Street reported that an 18-year-old woman also employed at the restaurant admitted taking $180 the previous week when the complainant noticed that sum was missing. When the complainant noticed $590 missing Dec. 23, she suspected that the same woman had taken the money. The suspect is also a manager of the restaurant who has keys. The complainant thinks she took the money sometime between 11 p.m. Dec. 22 and 9:54 a.m. Dec. 23. A follow-up investigation was requested.

An 88-year-old Niles resident saw an unknown driver of a red Jeep take his red Village of Niles recycle box and leave the area around 10:06 a.m. Dec. 24. The victim requested another recycle box as part of the follow-up investigation.

Missing person

A 39-year-old Niles woman reported that a 44-year-old cousin-in-law from California, who had been working in Glendale Heights for the past two weeks and was due to return to California on a 6:55 p.m. flight out of Midway Airport Dec. 23 left her apartment in the 6600 block of Wood River around 7 a.m. Dec. 23 and failed to return at the scheduled time to pick up his luggage and plane tickets before leaving for the airport. The missing person's rental car had not been returned to the rental agency at the airport. The missing person works for a chemical company and was complaining of feeling sick this week and believed his malaise was from exposure to an unknown substance involved in his work.

Burglary

Niles police reserve officers while on patrol located a trailer in the rear of a retail store in the 8500 block of Golf Road with an unsecured rear door. The unlocked door was open approximately two feet. The store manager was contacted by the police and determined that between eight and ten boxes of assorted women's clothes valued at $8,000 were missing from inside the trailer. The manager said she was the last one in the trailer on Dec. 10 and she used a padlock to secure the door when she left. She also told police the door on the trailer is very difficult to open and employees usually used a forklift to get the door open. The broken lock was not found at the scene, and other merchandise was left inside the trailer.

Criminal damage to property

A 45-year-old designer reported that he heard loud popping noises coming from the front yard of his home in the 8300 block of Monroe around 10:25 p.m. Dec. 13. When he investigated, he observed a 16-year-old youth smashing Christmas lights which lined the sidewalk.

The complainant took the suspect into custody and called Niles police. The offender told police he had had five to six beers because he was in a bad mood because of problems he had had during the day. He said he broke the lights because he was full of uncontrollable rage, and that earlier in the day he had thought about suicide.

Because of the offender's statements and his intoxication, police called for an ambulance to transport the arrestee for a psychological evaluation. The arrestee's parents were notified and responded. The arrestee was turned over to his parents.

Fight in progress

A 21-year-old man sustained a cut on his right ear when he was struck by an unidentified youth wielding a 2-ft. length of pipe in the parking lot of a restaurant in the 9100 block of Golf Road around 1 a.m. Dec. 25.

Three 17-year-old youths, two from Chicago and one from San Jose, Calif., and an 18-year-old Chicago man were charged with mob action after the 1986 Lincoln Continental they were driving was stopped near Golf Road and Oleander by Morton Grove police responding to a bulletin issued by Niles police. The offenders were transported back to the restaurant for a show-up, but neither the victim nor any of his three companions, ages 16, 17 and 18, was able to identify which offender struck the victim.

The pipe along with a metal car jack were recovered from the back seat of the offenders' vehicle, which was impounded. All the offenders posted their $75 bond and were released. They will appear in court Jan. 27.

Caution when shoveling snow suggested

With the arrival of the season's first snowfall, area residents will be forced to make the decision - to shovel or not to shovel. David H. Cooke, M.D., president for the American Heart Association, Midwest Affiliate, has new information that might make you think twice before you pick up that shovel. "In persons who are normally inactive with known or hidden heart disease, snow shoveling can trigger heart attacks and even sudden cardiac death."

The American Heart Association says that if you are middle-aged or older and haven't been physically active, you should be extremely cautious. Don't lift a heavy shovel piled high with snow. The combination of sudden physical exertion and the cold increases the heart's workload. It's natural for blood vessels to temporarily narrow in cold weather. The cold can even be more dangerous if vessels are already narrowed due to fatty deposits. Too much strain on the heart during these conditions can result in a heart attack or even sudden cardiac arrest.

Hypothermia is an additional danger that should be guarded against. Hypothermia is a drop in body temperature to a subnormal level and it is potentially fatal. Symptoms are slowed breathing and heartbeat, lack of coordination, confusion and drowsiness. Here are some more tips from the American Heart Association for younger healthy individuals who make the decision to shovel snow.

- Wear several layers of clothing instead of one heavy layer.
- Put on a hat or scarf because most body heat is lost through the top of the head.
- Protect ears and hands from frostbite.

Before you make the decision to shovel snow the American Heart Association strongly recommends consulting with your physician. If you experience any of the following symptoms, you should contact 9-1-1 immediately.

- Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest lasting for more than a few minutes.
- Pain spreading to shoulders, arms or neck.
- Chest discomfort with lightheadedness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath.

For more information, contact the American Heart Association at (800) AHA-USA1 or visit our web site at <http://www.americanheart.org>. The American Heart Association spent about $327 million during fiscal year 1998-99 on research support, public and professional education, and community programs.

Property Titles, Tax Deadbeat Records Are Safe from Y2K

Cook County Commissioners John Daley (D-11) (left), Peter Silvestri (R-9), and Cook County Recorder of Deeds Eugene "Gens" Moore (2nd from right) review the Recorder's new property title digital imaging system. Moore announced that all homeowner and business owner property deeds are secure from any potential Y2K mischief. "On January 1, 2000, there will be no dispute of who owns what property in Cook County," Moore said. "Our property title records are Y2K compliant." Unfortunately, for those Cook County residents who have federal or state tax liens placed on their property, their records are secure, Moore noted. "For tax delinquents, I am sorry to say, your files are safe also," Moore added.

Skokie police investigate barrage of hate literature

Skokie police, alerted by complaints from 15 area homeowners Dec. 19, collected about 150 copies of a 32-page booklet dumped over the weekend on lawns in the same Skokie neighborhood where Northwestern basketball coach Ricky Byrdson was shot and killed last summer by Benjamin Smith.

The second page of the booklet carried a greeting from the founder of the World Church of the Creator founder Matthew Hale. Smith, a one-time follower of Hale and devotee of his so-called religion, was on a rampage of hate murders over the July 4 weekend that ended in his taking his own life.

America's railroads carry almost 40 percent of the nation's inter-city freight; 70 percent of motor vehicles shipped from manufacturing sites; 65 percent of the nation's coal, used to generate nearly 60 percent of the electricity; and 40 percent of all grain and farm products.

Atlantic fisheries conservation was recently given a boost when commercial and sport fishing association members agreed to protect the fish spawning and nursery areas in U.S. waters off our Atlantic coast.

Prepare your vehicles now for cold weather

* As the first cold front of the season descends on the U.S., Pennzoil wants to remind vehicle owners to take a moment to make sure that their automobiles are prepared for unpredictable winter weather.

Cold temperatures, particularly those below freezing, significantly influence vehicle performance. October is National Car Care Month, the ideal time to make a few common-sense preparations to help protect your vehicle against harsh winter conditions and avoid an untimely breakdown.

"Engine fluids play a vital role in a car's ability to stand up to harsh winter weather, particularly engine oil and antifreeze," said Mike Maddox, national manager of technical service for Pennzoil. What should be done to get your car or truck ready for winter? Pennzoil offers these basic tips and suggestions:

* Belts and hoses: Check all belts and hoses for signs of cracking or wearing. If necessary, have them replaced.

* Motor oil: Make sure that you are using a multiviscosity motor oil. These oils, such as Pennzoil® with PureBase®, are identified with a "W" in the grade designation, which stands for winter. A multiviscosity motor oil contains a viscosity modifier that helps oil flow well, even at temperature extremes. Cold winters usually require a light-viscosity motor oil, but as a general rule, always consult your owner's manual and follow the manufacturer's recommendation according to the reading on your thermometer.

* Antifreeze: Antifreeze level, cleanliness and concentration are very important when cold weather rolls around. Visually inspect the coolant level, as well as its color to check for dirt or rust. Also have the antifreeze concentration checked; most manufacturers recommend a 50/50 mix of antifreeze and water, which provides protection to -34°F. With the exception of some new vehicle systems, most vehicle owners should consider flushing and changing their coolant once a year.

* Battery: Batteries, even new ones, will lose power in cold weather. Then temperatures drop below freezing, a battery could lose as much as 15 percent of its starting power. Below zero, starting power is further reduced. A strong battery can help avoid problems.

* Tires: To insure that your vehicle's tires are prepared for potentially hazardous driving conditions, visually inspect each tire to make sure it is properly inflated and that its treads are at least 1/4 of an inch deep. Additionally, it might be necessary to monitor tire pressure throughout the winter months, as cold temperatures tend to deflate tires. If your vehicle is not equipped with snow tires, Pennzoil also urges motorists to keep a set of tire snow chains in the trunk.

What to do if stranded. Even properly maintained vehicles break down on occasion or get stuck in a sudden storm. Pennzoil suggests that you pack a winter survival kit in your car for such emergencies. Include water, heavy blankets, snacks, jumper cables, flares, a first aid kit, a flashlight, a small shovel, an ice scraper, a small bag of sand or cat litter for traction and other items needed in case of a breakdown. If you own a cellular phone, be sure it is fully charged and take it with you in case of an emergency. Remember, do not leave your car.

unless you know exactly where you are and the distance to possible help.

Pennzoil® brand products are manufactured by Pennzoil-Quaker State Company, a leading automotive consumer products company. Pennzoil-Quaker State Company markets premium quality lubricants and some 1,300 other car care products, and is the parent company of Jiffy Lube International, the world's largest franchiser of fast oil change centers.

New vision implants debut in Gurnee

The latest technique in vision correction has arrived in Gurnee. Walter Fried, Ph.D., M.D., recently became the first doctor in Illinois, and among one of the first in the country, to offer intracorneal rings, i.e., vision correction implants, to treat myopia, or nearsightedness.

Approved in April by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) under the trade name Intacs, the vision implants are tiny, clear crescents that reshape the cornea, improving vision.

Located at 3477 Grand Avenue, Dr. Fried's practice is one of six Chicagoland facilities to offer the intracorneal rings. Other facilities will offer the procedure as doctors are trained.

Intacs are precision-engineered crescents that, once inserted, are about as undetectable to other people as a contact lens. They are designed to flatten the cornea of a myopic eye so that light rays are correctly focused on the retina.

The treatment takes about 15 minutes and is usually performed under a topical eye drop anesthetic.

"Following the procedure, patients see better than they ever have in years. Plus, they have comfort in knowing that the Intacs can always be removed if they change their minds," Fried said. He also noted that the intracorneal rings are the first FDA-approved non-laser approach to surgically treat myopia and the first to be designed especially for people in the mild to moderate range (in medical terms, -1.0 to -3.5 diopters of correction).

According to some industry experts, more than one million corrective laser vision procedures will be performed in the U.S. this year. The boom is expected to continue skyrocketing well into the next century.

"Now the introduction of vision implants will further contribute to that growth, they give people the possibility for correction without having to make a permanent choice with their eyes," said Fried.

Since 1977, Dr. Fried has been practicing in the North Lake County area. He opened his private practice in Gurnee in 1979 and has been at his current location since 1984. Dr. Fried specializes in small-incision cataract surgery with intraocular lens implantation, and refractive surgical procedures, including excimer laser correction of nearsightedness and astigmatism.

Dr. Fried earned both his Ph.D. in physics and medical degree at the University of Miami in Florida. He completed his medical training in Chicago through an internship at Michael Reese Hospital and an ophthalmic residency at the University of Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary. He has written numerous scientific/medical research papers on physics, medical instrumentation and clinical ophthalmology. He holds a patent on an ophthalmic surgical microscope.

A board-certified ophthalmologist of the American Board of Ophthalmology, Dr. Fried also is a Fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Last Minute Y2K Preparation for PC Owners

Does the dawn of a new millennium have you feeling a little uneasy? While experts are predicting everything from gas shortages to communication complications, there are a few simple things you can do to insure that as long as you have power on January 1, 2000, you will have a functioning PC.

• Make Sure Your Antivirus Software is Up-To-Date. If you haven't done it already, now is the time to make sure your antivirus software is up-to-date. Experts anticipate a slew of viruses will be released in sync with the new millennium. Anti-virus software that is able to identify a malicious virus if it attempts to infect your system. Without the latest database, your software will not be able to protect your PC from the most recent onslaught of viruses. Consult your antivirus software manufacturer's Web site.

How Much Should You Be Paid?

Two competing Internet sites now provide statistically-valid, free, salary survey results for competitive pay for over 3,000 different jobs in 4,800 U.S. cities. Example: as of November 1, 1999 median pay for a Cost Accountant in Chicago, Illinois earned $41,638 as reported by Baker, Thomsen Associates Salary & Wage Survey. BTA analyses are created from its on-line Internet survey; extracts are available at: www.SalariesReview.com/freedata

And/or as a comparison: also as of November 1, 1999, on average, an Accountant and Auditor in Chicago, IL PMSA earned $40,989 as reported by the Redmond, WA based ERI Economic Research Institute's trend analyses using the US Government's new prevailing wage data; see: www.eri.com/doltrends (Results vary between these two sources because the organizations surveyed within a geographic area differ, means and medians differ, and the content of the jobs surveyed differ.)

All survey results are provided free to any Internet inquirer. ERI's site illustrates starting levels, averages, and the compensation of those fully experienced. (with pay defined as the combination of bonus and salary). BTA's site reports the competitive median rate of pay as collected and reported by an on-line Internet interactive salary survey (Baker, Thomsen Associates is a consulting firm providing fee for service consulting; ERI-Economic Research Institute is a compensation & benefits research firm supported by over 5000 annual corporate subscribers which use its analyses to set pay rates for millions of employees world-wide.)

for the most recent downloads and updates. And for those of you who do not have antivirus software currently installed on your PC, there is still time to protect yourself before 12 a.m. on January 1, 2000.

• Is Your PC BIOS Y2K Compliant? With the make and model of your PC in hand, check out the Y2K section of your manufacturer's Web site. Once there, you will be able to determine if your PC BIOS is Y2K compliant, or if you need to update them before the new year.

• Protect Your PC's Data. Your antivirus software is updated. You've checked with your PC's manufacturer and made sure your PC's BIOS is Y2K compliant. If you still feel uneasy, try installing GoBack™ by Wild File, Inc. GoBack allows PC users to back out of a multitude of problems arising from Y2K glitches, system crashes, virus attacks, software installation complications or user error (overwritten or deleted files), by taking a computer back to a time before any corruption occurred - minutes, hours or even days. GoBack Professional offers users two additional features: Auto-revert and Password Protection. The Auto-revert feature allows a computer to automatically reconfigure its hard disk to a pre-defined set point. Password Protection puts the software's data protection and retrieval capabilities solely in the hands of the IT professionals chartered with managing a company's computer network or lab.

• Update Internet Chat Software. If you use Internet chat services make sure you upgrade to the latest versions of the software before the new year to ensure you have the latest security features.

• Protect Your Hardware. Before the ball has been dropped in Times Square indicating the beginning of a new century, take a few minutes to unplug your PC before you go out for the night. And when you boot up your PC to see what damage, if any, has occurred, don't get too carried away and spill your glass of champagne on your keyboard! Then you will find yourself faced with a mess that may or may not be repairable.

Editor's Note: For more information on GoBack visit www.goback.com. For an evaluation copy, please contact Tracy Kohn at tracykohn@wildfile.com or (612) 551-0881 extension 7240.

Ameritech Y2K ready but fears busy circuits at 12:01 Jan. 1, 2000

Despite the fact that almost 1,500 Ameritech employees have been working since 1996 to insure Y2K readiness for the communications giant, spokesman Dave Pacholczyk would not predict clear sailing into the next century for the nation's phone, pager, fax and other customers.

If everyone decides to wish a Happy Millennium to friends and relatives at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 1, 2000, Pacholczyk predicted that many will have to hang up and call back later.

Pacholczyk, who likened the millennium to the Bears making the playoffs or Bruce Spragman's coming to town, said Ameritech is encouraging customers to place their millennium phone calls before or after the new year.

No phone company in the world could handle the volume of calls that will result if everyone decides to get on the phone at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 1, Pacholczyk said. He also said that Ameritech is asking business customers wanting to test their lines of communication to test them between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m. Jan. 1. Ameritech has done everything possible to make the transition into the 2000s as smooth as possible, Pacholczyk said. They have tested, retested and are about to test one more time. They have also worked with other telecommunication companies nationally and internationally as well as with state and local officials.

After examining 31 million lines of computer code, upgrading more than 1,500 remote switches, checking more than 50,000 desktop units, phones and faxes in 12,000 buildings in the five-state Ameritech area, Pacholczyk was ready to go on the record in saying Ameritech is ready for the Year 2000.

Concerned customers, both business owners and regular users, have placed more than 100,000 calls inquiring about Ameritech's readiness for the big night. Not to worry. About 400 Ameritech employees will be up and working New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, watching the national and international scene, to forestall any potential problems that may be headed for the Chicago area.

The smallest deed is better than the greatest intention.

Avoiding the hazards of winter

by Dr. Robert Richart

Shoveling snow the wrong way, slipping on icy sidewalks, clambering awkwardly over snow banks, even wearing the wrong kind of clothing can prove hazardous to your health. Combining ice, snow and freezing cold with long-unused muscles can lead to painful injuries. When ice, snow and frigid winds blow into town, chiropractors, nationwide, notice an increase in sprains, strains and back injuries.

Bending and twisting when tossing a shovel of heavy snow can aggravate lower back discs. Hitting an icy spot when dashing off to the mailbox or carrying out the trash can cause a serious tumble. And it's not just the fall that hurts. The quick, jarring motion as you try to catch yourself can strain muscles as much as the actual fall. Simply walking outside in freezing weather without layers of warm clothing can aggravate existing joint problems and cause a great deal of pain.

When sprains and strains affect your ability to function, such as being unable to bend over to tie your shoes or having difficulty getting out of the chair, contact your chiropractor so that these injuries get immediate attention. When caught and corrected early, these conditions respond favorably to chiropractic treatment.

Follow these simple steps to survive the storm:

- Be prepared. Maintain your exercise program year round. Listen to weather forecasts, and rise early so that you have time to shovel before going to work. Before going outside, layer clothing to keep muscles warm and flexible.

- Removing snow. First, do some warm-up stretching. For big jobs, use a motorized snow blower. If you shovel by hand, use a lightweight, ergonomically designed shovel to reduce back strain. Don't throw the snow. Push or walk it to the snow bank. Above all, avoid twisting and turning motions.

- Slow down. Walk carefully. Use handrails whenever possible. Watch out for patches of ice, especially when you're getting out of the car. If you're out of shape or have health problems, take a break every few minutes.

- Keep your back straight. Remember, bend your knees when shoveling. Let your legs and arms do the work, not your back.

- Stop if you feel chest pain, or if you get really tired or feel shortness of breath. You may need immediate professional help.

- If you simply feel sore after shoveling, apply an ice bag to the affected area for 20 minutes. Repeat a couple of times a day for a day or two. If the soreness persists, you may need to see your doctor of chiropractic.

Earn your GED certificate this spring

It's never too late to earn your high school diploma. The Alliance for Lifelong Learning (ALL), the continuing education program partnered by Oakton Community College and area high schools, offers two ways to help you achieve your goals.

Evening High School is open to any Maine or Niles Township resident, age 16 or older, who is not currently enrolled in a regular, daytime high school program. Classes meet two times per week (6-10 p.m. on Mondays/Wednesdays or Tuesdays/Thursdays) and are small enough to allow for individual attention. Students with a high degree of self-discipline and organization may opt for Home Study Classes, which permits study at a personal pace. For more information about Evening High School and its requirements, call (847) 825-7719.

GED Preparation Classes prepare students, age 19 and older, to pass the General Educational Development (GED) Test. The GED is a credential accepted by most employers and schools as equivalent to a high school diploma. The GED Tests cover five subject areas and are administered at the Oakton Des Plaines campus by the Educational Testing Service. To qualify for the GED test preparation classes scheduled in January, students must attend one of these free sessions for placement testing, counseling and registration:

- Session I: On Tuesday, January 4, and Thursday, January 6, from 7-10 p.m. in the school cafeteria at Maine East High School, Dempster Street and Potter Road, Park Ridge.

- Session II: On Monday, January 10, and Wednesday, January 12, from 7-10 p.m. in Room A-100 at Niles North High School, 9800 Lawler, Skokie.

ALL is offering a variety of low-cost pre-GED and GED test preparation courses beginning the week of January 18. In addition to pre-GED classes in English skills, reading comprehension and math skills, classes offered at the GED level review writing, literature and the arts, science, social studies, math, spelling and vocabulary, study skills and the U.S. Constitution.

For more information about the Oakton GED Preparation Classes, call (847) 825-6299. To receive a complete listing of courses offered this spring by the Alliance for Lifelong Learning, call (847) 982-9888, press #3.

Parent irate over Apollo's lack of speech therapists

by Rosemary Tirio

Eva Roberts, mother of an Apollo School first-grader, told the East Maine School District 63 Board of Education at their Dec. 14 meeting that she was furious when she learned her son had stopped receiving speech therapy at the school Nov. 2.

Roberts demanded to know why she had not been notified of the change. She said her son is in need of the special education program, especially because he is experiencing difficulty with learning phonics.

Special Ed coordinator Tracey Schoellhorn apologized to Roberts at the meeting, explaining that the unexpected resignations of two speech pathologists in November had required district personnel to concentrate on finding replacements.

Failure to notify parents that their children were no longer receiving the services of a speech pathologist was an oversight on her part, Schoellhorn said, because she was involved on a daily basis in interviewing candidates for the two vacant positions.

Schoellhorn said that the resignations of the two pathologists were made known at parent-teacher conferences conducted during November, but Roberts contended that that did not constitute proper notification and further complained that when she requested her son's Individual Education Plan which details the special education services he is supposed to receive, she was denied access to them until she charged that her and her son's civil rights were being violated.

About 70 of the school's 450 special education students were enrolled in weekly speech therapy classes before the resignations. The one remaining speech pathologist continues to work with the 35 students assigned to her, according to Michael Johann, district director of personnel and pupil services. The other 35, however, have not been receiving any speech therapy for the last two months.

To make up for the missed speech therapy classes during November and December, Schoellhorn suggested that those students could enroll in an after-school recovery service program beginning Jan. 5. Pathologists drawn from other district schools will provide speech therapy for an hour after school.

Although officials at the school are in the process of interviewing several speech pathologists, Schoellhorn said finding replacements is a difficult process because candidates must hold a master's degree in speech and language as well as being licensed by the state.

A shortage of speech and language pathologists exists throughout the nation, Schoellhorn said.

District Superintendent Robert Varga said he is hopeful the two new pathologists will have been hired by the time classes resume following the holiday break.

Roberts, still angry over the situation, said she believes many other parents of special education student in the district are fearful of voicing their concerns over their children's education. She said she plans to form a parent advocacy group to enhance parents' understanding of their rights and of how they can protect their children in the school system.

Parents interested in participating in the parent advocacy group can contact Roberts through her website: www.woywodroberts@aol.com.
