Chiropractic and acupuncture, two ways to deal with pain

By Dr. Robert Richart

Chiropractic and acupuncture are two ways to help athletes play at their best. Although most athletes deal with injuries related to overuse, sprains and strains rather than fractures, there are some athletes who seek alternative treatments to minimize pain and aid healing. By helping to correct misalignments in the body, chiropractic care can improve overall health and decrease pain. Acupuncture, on the other hand, is based on the principles of traditional Chinese medicine and can be used to treat a variety of conditions, including pain management.

This condition is often associated with a car accident, where a person’s head and neck are suddenly and violently whipped back and forth. As a result, the neck and back muscles and ligaments may be sprained or strained, leading to pain and discomfort.

Breathe, you can do this. I'm here with you. I'm going to guide you through this process.

First, let's focus on your breath. Take a deep, slow inhale through your nose, filling your lungs with fresh air. Hold for a few seconds, then exhale slowly through your mouth, allowing the tension to dissipate as the air leaves your body.

Repeat this process several times, maintaining a steady rhythm. As you breathe, focus on the sensation of the air moving in and out of your body. Notice the rise and fall of your chest.

As you become more comfortable, start to visualize a peaceful scene. It could be a beach, a forest, or any place that brings you a sense of calm. Imagine yourself standing there, breathing in the fresh air and letting go of any stress or worry.

Now, think about a particular problem or concern you have. As you breathe, visualize the problem dissolving into the background. Imagine the stress of the situation lifting away, leaving you feeling relaxed and refreshed.

Finally, take a moment to appreciate the experience. Acknowledge the calm you've created for yourself. Thank yourself for taking the time to breathe and clear your mind.

Remember, deep breathing is a simple yet powerful tool for managing stress. Practice it regularly to improve your overall health and well-being.

Ni/es Independence Day Parade. In the weeks preceding the parade everyone at Forest Villa worked to prepare the facility for its appearance as this year's float. For 2000 the decorations included a giant eagle, rockets, and Uncle Sam riding high on top of a van. Residents, staff, and families also painted and helped paint and even sold patriotic items at the center.

It's a heart-warming story that demonstrates how Forest Villa Nursing Center's care goes beyond just meeting basic needs. It shows how they take pride in creating special moments for their residents, such as the parade float. The dedication and teamwork involved in creating the float highlight the facility's commitment to providing unique and engaging experiences for their residents. This approach not only enhances their quality of life but also strengthens the bonds between the residents and the staff.

Brushing tips for elderly and handicapped

Keeping a healthy smile depends upon dental hygiene. Old people and those with physical or mental limitations have special concerns regarding oral care. Therefore, the best personal care for your elderly loved one is helpful and encouraging. They may have difficulty speaking clearly, or understanding you clearly. They may also have trouble finding the right words. This can be frustrating for both them and you.

To encourage more effective communication, look for words and phrases that are easy to understand. Try to simplify your speech. Use short sentences and avoid complex words. You can also use gestures and facial expressions to help convey your message. For example, you might show the person an object or point to it. This can be especially helpful if they are deaf or hard of hearing.

The play, written by Craig S. Harris, is about a beauty pageant in which four girls compete for the title of Miss Firecracker.

The four girls are played by NEIU students Lauren Seger, Laura Miller, Julia Bieniek and Emily Elkins. The play is directed by Victor S. Smith, who is also the artistic director of the Stage Center Theatre.

Seger plays the role of Sandy, a girl who is going to be a Catholic nun. Miller plays the role of Marylin, a girl who is going to be a model. Bieniek plays the role of Tracy, a girl who is going to be a teacher. Elkins plays the role of Laura, a girl who is going to be a lawyer.

The play is set in a small town where a beauty pageant is taking place. The four girls are judged on their looks and personality. They are also asked to answer a series of questions about their future plans.

Air conditioners top list of priorities when temperatures soar

Cool ideas in hot weather
You may remember that in the spring when it was pleasant outside, you turned off your air conditioner. Now that the weather heats up, you might consider turning on your air conditioner. Failing to do so may cause your indoor air to become too dry or the temperature to become too warm, leading to discomfort or health issues. To prevent these problems, it is recommended to keep your air conditioner running during the summer months.

Closing costs explained
For a homebuyer, it is important to understand the costs associated with purchasing a property. One of the most significant expenses is closing costs, which are fees charged by lenders and real estate agents to finalize the purchase of a home. These costs can vary depending on the location and type of property, as well as the terms of the sale. It is important for homebuyers to be aware of these costs and budget accordingly to ensure a smooth transaction.

Buy a magazine and help end violence against women & girls
