Property tax cap passes State House
Measure moves to Senate for consideration

BY ANDREW SCHNEIDER
editor@buglenewspapers.com

In a move that could save the average homeowner as much as $1,750, the Illinois State House of Representatives passed SB1498, which would freeze Cook County property tax assessments at 7 percent annually and cap the exemption at $25,000. Other counties in the state can opt into the legislation by passing local ordinances.

The bill, which was introduced to the House last year passed in a substantially altered form last week. Local State Rep. Lou Lang (D-Skokie) was the chief sponsor of the legislation.

"Property taxes in Cook County have been out of control," said Lang. "Some people called this bill a bill for the rich, but some of my colleagues from poorer neighborhoods of Cook voted for the bill because their constituents are being forced out of their homes by the rising assessments."

Village: Residents will have input in MCC accord

BY WENDY ELLIS
welis@buglenewspapers.com

The Village of Morton Grove says there will be no written agreement settling a lawsuit between the village and the Muslim Community Center (MCC), until all segments of the community have been heard.

In a news release issued last week, the village says the Department of Justice Community Relations Service initiated the talks after the MCC filed suit against the village charging violation of their civil rights. The Village Board of Trustees voted last year not to allow the MCC to build a mosque alongside the Muslim Education Center (MEC), an elementary school at 8601 Menard.

The news release says "the objective of the mediation dialogues is to produce a written agreement acceptable to all parties." The village says further talks "will include recognized community representatives and leaders from business, education and religious sectors" of the community.

Mayor Dan Scanlon says the village's goal is to promote a positive image of racial, ethnic and religious tolerance. "We recognize that community healing is important to the resolution of this matter, and we are confident that our continued efforts will bring this result."

Mohammed Kaiserruddin, president of the MCC, added that representatives of the village and the Muslim community have been working hard to resolve their differences. "As dialogue widens, we hope that all concerned will join us in these cooperative efforts."

The MCC lawsuit was the second suit filed against the village over the MEC issue. The Morton Grove Organization (MGO), a group of residents who live near the MEC, filed suit over what it sees as the village's failure to enforce village codes in and around the school, especially during Friday afternoon prayer services. The group recently amended its suit to include conspiracy charges against the village and representatives of the MCC.

Niles Chamber plans ‘Night of Roses’ event

The Niles Chamber will host a “Night of Roses” Saturday, Apr. 17 to recognize members of the community who have made an outstanding contribution. In the words of Katia DiMaria, executive director of the Chamber, the event will honor “unsung Niles volunteers and employees.” The event will be held on at Chateau Ritz.

Awards to will be given in the following categories: Teacher of the Year, Coach of the Year, the Living Legend Award, Youth of the Year, Municipal Worker of the Year, Niles Town Cheerleader Award, Business of the Year, Citizen of the Year, Good Neighbor Award, Honoree of the Night, and the Ken Scheel Chamber Member of the Year.

“We want this to be an event for the community,” said DiMaria. “We want the community at large to nominate those individuals who have made a real difference.” Nomination forms will be available at the Village Hall, the Chamber, the Park District, the Library and the Senior Center. They can be mailed to the Chamber, 7900 Milwaukee, Suite 25B, Niles, or dropped off at the offices of the Chamber or The Bugle.
Foundation, to develop city strategies with the Niles Park District, Mayor Nick Blase. "It involves not just the local School Districts, the Niles Library District, and local police and fire departments. Adequate parking for those who drive to the event must be available, although the village has already contacted the Morton Grove Train Station."

Mayor Nick Blase said that the event will "clearly be a huge success," but that it is "very important that the event be beneficial to all parties involved. It will help to ensure that the Morton Grove police know what to expect, and the number of people coming, so we have staffed up to that number."

"I think it will go well," he said. "Hopefully, immediately, it will need to be expanded to the point of a mayor's call in order to get the Cook County Commissioner's Office enough time to implement the changes." But lists like that are "real low profile," he added. "The schools will still go as planned," he said. "And the schedule would probably still be up and coming."

Under the new law, when the property is sold, the new owner would be assessed at the full value, instead of the capped assessment. "We're afraid of the impact of this new law," he said. "We hope the help from the NLC can do great things and with the guidance of the NLC, I believe we can get to the top." "We're excited about the new opportunity," he said. "We've been looking forward to it." The future bridegroom is a graduate of Western Illinois University at Macomb where he received a degree in Law Enforcement and Justice Administration. He is a political officer. His fiancee is a graduate of Truman State University in Kirksville, Missouri, with a degree in Communications. She is a Sales Representative with G&K Services. A fall wedding is planned.

"One of the important things is considering this bill was to find a way in which it wouldn't hurt the schools," and Lang.

Morton Grove Chamber seeks new director

BY ANDREW SCHNEIDER

The Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce is looking for a new executive director. Former Director Kate Diblit left the Niles Chamber last year, and a new director can be hired, the Morton Grove Chamber Executive Committee will be filling the position. "We're hoping to fill the position in the next month," she said. "We're open to that idea right now, but it's not a guarantee."

"President Tracy Linton is leading up the search for a new director," she said. "She said we are not yet married."

Antique advertising still persuasive

webabucklightnewspapers.com

I t was the picture of a pig that caught the eye and the imagination of David Hirsch, and led him to a hobby that didn't pay in retirement anything but slow. Hirsch, owner of his own commercial design firm, retired last year after 45 years in the field and has since found a new love in antique advertising. Everywhere is Saturday," says Hirsch, whose area of interest was for the unusual in antique advertising. "He made his Metro (now considered a hippie) sign, a found object, a house, antique advertising signs, and just about anything else that carries a company logo of old.

"Nothing that has a history," says Hirsch, "It's eye appealing and meaningful." A bit of it has long gone, or absorbed by bigger and better known names, long since gone, or absorbed by the unusable in antique advertising.

"Anything that has a history," says Hirsch, Whatever it was worth, he didn't wonder what our pig is worth?" I thought, ten dollars just for the ad! I got it, but I put it in a closet." Then, "I got it, but I put it in a closet." Then, after 40 years as a designer and commercial designer, stirred last year to a hobby that makes his bugle newsmen.

"Everyday advertising still persuasive," says Hirsch, "I have friends who've written books on cigar boxes. They thought, seven dollars just for the ad! I got it, but I put it in a closet." Then, "I got it, but I put it in a closet." Then, after 40 years as a designer and commercial designer, stirred last year to a hobby that makes his bugle newsmen.

"What is fun is the hunt." says Hirsch. "It says Squire's Meat and it's a cartoon character. They actually evolved from the one pound tobacco to cigarette which were found with handles. Once dad was done with the tobacco, the kids took their sandwiches to school in the company of their sigla." I saw a picture of a girl in school eating her sandwich, with a Nine Queen Tobacco box sitting next to her," said Hirsch.

“Whether it's garage sales, flea markets, trade shows, or eBay, there are plenty of places to look for these lost treasures, including your own home. There are treasures in your attic you just don't know about," said Hirsch, who will have several items from his collection on display in the Lincoln Avenue entrance to the Morten Greens Library throughout the month of April. He will also give a presentation of his collection on Saturday, April 24 at 2 p.m. and the antique advertising items to a limited number of people. "I don't know anything about antiques, like Rosewood or Enamels," said Hirsch, but if it's a name on it I can help." Hirsch says, "I can really just see "unusual value," what you think it would be worth to a collector, because the more you get involved in this hobby, the more you realize you don't know. That's what keeps a meaning.
The following items were taken from official reports of the Morton Grove Police Department for the week ending Feb. 26, 2004.

Morton Grove Blotter

1. Desperate

   (Dempster)

   A 20-year-old Chicago man was arrested Feb. 11 after security workers caught the man in a Valentine's Day card, CDs, and a bottle of his liquor. He was cited and ordered to leave the Walmart in the 6700 block of Touhy. The theft amounted to $33.49.

2. Sees a lotee

   (Dempster)

   A 20-year-old Chicago man was arrested Tuesday, Feb. 10 after security workers caught the man in two cases of liquor in the pockets of his jacket. The stolen items were valued at $19.71.

3. No way to a sea

   (Dempster)

   A 19-year-old Chicago woman was arrested for shoplifting Saturday night, Feb. 14 after security workers caught the woman and another 20-year-old man making a total of 11 sports jerseys and two fitness tops in the same dressing room together. Store security said when they stopped the couple outside of the store, they were found wearing three jerseys over their clothing and the woman was wearing two. Police said the woman had another six jerseys in her purse. Police said when they searched the couple’s car, they found a shoplifting kit in the passenger seat. The couple had four more jerseys which the police said had been stolen from the same outdoor clothing store. The couple car was impounded.

4. Desperate

   (Dempster and Osage)

   A 56-year-old Oakbrook Terrace man was charged with DUI, Open Alcohol, No Insurance, Improper Backing, Improper Lane Use, Failure to Reduce Speed, and No Seat Belt after the man was involved in a three-car accident at Dempster and Osage, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15. According to the report, the man turned northbound off of Dempster onto Osage and struck a motorcycle. The man then lost control of his car and hit a tree. He then, according to witnesses, tried to back up off the lawn and in attempting to do this, he forced another southbound car to take evasive action to avoid hitting the third car. However, jumped a curb and a sidewalk that was covering a large storm. The driver of the third car was able to see how the driver of the first car was and that he was wearing a strong odor of alcohol coming from the man’s breath. Furthermore when the man asked the driver of the first car if he had been drinking, the man said “About a Fifth”. Police recovered a bottle of Southern Comfort from the car and the man was transported to Lutheran General Hospital.

5. Armed Robbery

   (Dempster)

   A 19-year-old Chicago man was arrested Feb. 12 after he robbed a customer in a tanning salon in the 6700 block of Dempster. The man jumped over the partition into the next booth. The customer came to try the door, to steal a free tan and when the clerk surmised the man had tried to break in, the customer directed to room #1 at the back of the salon. From there, he found the door locked. The customer went to the front door, opened it, offered free tans. The clerk said “About a Fifth” (Dempster and Osage). About a Fifth was used to break into a tanning salon in the 6700 block of Dempster. A 20-year-old Great Lakes Naval Base police officer stopped the man’s car after observing the man reversing in the northwest lane on Dempster. After stopping the car, the driver identified the police officer by showing him his field Sobriety Test, and the man claimed he was a Great Lakes Naval Base police officer. The driver identified all the tests and a further check revealed he was not a Great Lakes Naval Base police officer. The man was arrested and ordered to leave the salon.

Maine East students attend Model UN

Ivy Lynn Chaplik, a former Maine West student, recalled the comments through her unique sensitivity, compassion, and respect for the students, who must bring proof of age and obtain their permit by March 12. Students who are not accepted will be notified by March 16. Applications and forms will be accepted on weekdays during school hours.

District 219 Officers

Lynn Chaplik Humanitarian Award

The Lynn Chaplik Humanitarian Award will be presented at the Niles West District 219 Officers'Dinner on Thursday, February 26, 2004. The award is presented to a student who demonstrates sensitivity, compassion, and respect for others and the community. The nominees are:

- Mili Udesh, a senior at Maine East
- Shama Mathew, a senior at Maine East
- Matthew Wydra, a senior at Maine East
- Mithun Sheth, a senior from Glenview
- Kuvadia Marilyn, a senior at Maine East

The dinner is sponsored by the Niles West Student Activities. The dinner will be held at the Niles West High School cafeteria, and the cost is $350.00, which includes tax, tip, and a full meal.

Model UN

The Park Ridge Park District board approved an amended reservation fee for the 2004-2005 Model UN season. The fee will be $15 per student, up from $10 per student in previous years. The board also approved the appointment of Andrew Scheidner as the new Model UN advisor.

The park district received several applications for the Model UN position, and the board was impressed with Scheidner's experience and qualifications. He is currently a junior at Maine East High School, where he participates in the Model UN club and has attended several Model UN conferences.

Scheidner will be responsible for organizing and coordinating the Model UN program, which includes planning meetings, writing speeches, and representing the United Nations in various scenarios. He will also be responsible for selecting and training the students who will participate in the program.

The park district board members were pleased with the quality of the applications they received and were impressed with the diversity of the candidates. They believe that Scheidner is the best choice for the position and that he will be able to lead the Model UN program to new heights.

The park district board members also emphasized the importance of education and stated that the Model UN program is an excellent way to help students develop critical thinking and communication skills. They believe that the program will benefit students and the community as a whole.

Scheidner was interviewed by several park district board members and was asked about his experience and qualifications. He was able to answer all of their questions in a knowledgeable and confident manner. The board members were impressed with his professionalism and enthusiasm and were confident that he would be able to lead the Model UN program to new heights.

PASSING THE "DUCK TEST"

By Chuck Lockwood

Remember the duck test? If it looks like a duck, and it walks like a duck, it’s probably a duck. It’s a sad thing for me to have to apply a parallel test to the ‘‘independent’’ alderpersons seated in the Park Ridge City Council by the ‘‘reformers’’ April 2003 local election in which the independents turned out first elected HomeOwner Party candidates, candidates of the party that has ruled Park Ridge for over thirty years.

Well, the ‘‘new independent’’ alderpersons pass the duck test. They look like HomeOwners, they think (wouldn’t you like HomeOwners), they talk (quake) like HomeOwners. In all outward appearances and from most results, they’re ‘‘probably HomeOwners.’’

I guess that was to be expected. They were picked from the same pond the HomeOwner ducks swim in, probably living right next door to some of those HomeOwners.

But that doesn’t mean they have their campaigns; and that’s how everything else except prevented them.

They ran as people independent from the HomeOwners. (Wouldn’t that lead you to believe they’d be different?) Not at all. They’re not from their routes.

The only difference from the HomeOwner ‘‘party line’’ (in, all fairness, not an insignificant way) they’re even, if it wasn’t obvious (or obvious on the City Council meeting issue for the Suburban O’Hare Committee) is that in their ‘‘parking’’ issues, they’re not what that’s driven our most recent ex-Mayor out.

But what about everything else? Locking?

Oh, there’s been some posturing from the independents. But subtractive. Nada, nix, nil.

I would have preferred (your expected) that the independents would open up the governance process in Park Ridge to that we could real

Well, you’re looking at me, going on, as well as our it over all these years of (and survive).

Oh, they get the EDC to hold its first open meeting – but they extended that of the EDC by time-wasting it off of taxpayer funding. (They do that any way, but that’s way the other for another.

But subtractive. They’re used to the tone of false and fiction and corruption and no public output. They’ve posted the ducks (of HomeOwner ducks).

While are the conditions on Uptown Redevelopment? Right behind the HomeOwners. Just like in nature, you can’t tell one duck from the other without a constant speed and build. With that’s where the HomeOwners would do.

Where are the independents on ‘‘7 I have to stop.

If you want to know where the independents are, come to a City Council meeting yourself. (I’m getting a little bit of being there not the non-official citizen there.)

Spend and build.

It’s a sad thing for me to have to talk.

In all fairness, not an insignificant way, we should be ashamed of what we can do in Park Ridge, folks?

Medsforall.com: Pfizer crackdown slows supply of drugs from Canada

The dear on era over the price of prescription needs – the people who buy cheaper alternatives from other companies who would then resell them across the border. (Located within Wisconsin, with a single, ground level access.

It’s a sad thing for me to have to talk.

In all fairness, not an insignificant way, we should be ashamed of what we can do in Park Ridge, folks?

Is this the beat we can do in Park Ridge, folks?

When you need quality therapy, where do you go?

Ice Dons win quarterfinal match, advance to state playoff

The Notre Dame Ice Dons won their quarterfinal match of the Metro Central League, with their 4-3 victory over the Schaumburg Spartans on Monday, January 26th. The Dons led 3 to 1 after two periods. In the third period, the Saxons began an aggressive playing style. Dons defender Anthony Murphy kept repelling the Dons attack with his hard checking in front of the net. The Saxons’ John Kozak scored an unanswered goal by sliding the puck in among defenders, Pat Pagani. The Dons picked up a second goal on a backhanded shot from the Dons defenceman Resendez, and the Saxons scored their final goal on a fanned shot in front of the Dons goalie. The Dons won 4 to 1 and advance to the next two periods.

The Dons have qualified and will continue to the semifinals in the upcoming competition. The Saxons, however, will be eliminated from the playoffs.

Ice Dons state playoff game

The Dons state playoff game against New Trier White will be held on Monday, March 1st.

Maine South's Fallico finishes season strong

Maine South's Nick Fallico headed to the 148 lb. class for the state tournament. He compiled a 42-3 record (all 3 losses in Mike Pinto of Highland Park; amassed 156 points enroute, won 21 individual tournament championships. "Nick has become an excellent wrestler and has many records at Maine South and in the state could last a long time. But we are most proud of his exceptional attitude. He has loved every minute of his high school wrestling career and has been a positive example for our whole program," said Coach Greg Fallico upon reflecting on the weekend and his son's career. Nick now sets his sights on becoming a double All-American this summer (both Greg and Frankie) and on his college wrestling career at Michigan State.

At Champaign things were just as good for Rick Laser and Kevin McMahon as they lost early and were knocked out of the competition. As juniors they are hungry and determined to return with a strong desire to improve on the 2004 performance. Rick finished with a 23-1 record while Kevin McMahon ended up 32-19.
