The works of more than 150 eclectic artists will be on display this week at Niles North Shore Festival of Art at Weifald Old Orchard.

Artists will be from Canada, Israel and across the United States to participate in the popular event, which is sponsored by Mears Productions for the first time.

“They invited us and honored us to have the opportunity to work in conjunction with the Village of Niles and the Niles Chamber of Commerce to produce the festival this year,” said Mears Productions President Amy Amador.

The festival, which has been held in the area for 19 summers, has attracted a local audience. It will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the shopping center.

The North Shore Festival of Art, which has no admission fee, will feature a full array of two- and three-dimensional art media from painting and print to fiber and photography from sculpture to furniture.

Displayed work will include bulk pieces by award-winning Los Angeles-based and heralded-krom Avalon Amph; rich acrylic fluid still life paintings by Canadian artist Oleg Treace; wood lamp sculptures by Kyle Duffield of Oak Park, Wisc., and gold silver jewelry by Israel’s Shay Green and vintage oil paintings by New York-based David E. Gordon.

Gilles Duval (dislocated) will stand up at 6 and want to see something else, will feature a full array of two- and three-dimensional art media from painting and print to fiber and photography from sculpture to furniture.

Crime ring targeted suburban banks, police say

Man Prospect's identity is used fraud

By JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@dailyherald.com

Two men suspected of raiding members of an organized Polish crime ring were arrested last week in Des Plaines, accused of defrauding several suburban banks by using fake identities and falsified paperwork to obtain their loans.

Glasgow Giel, 41, of 635 W. Armitage St., Chicago, and Arthur Bledowski, 41, of 800 W., also known as transplanted Maltese Timothy, have been charged with four counts of bank fraud, identity theft, forgery and fraud in Des Plaines. They are accused of stealing more than $600,000.

Glenview police have also charged Giel with identity theft, forgery and theft by deception in connection with a loan obtained from a Chase Bank branch that was used to purchase a $200,000 home in a local car dealership. Police in Illinois, Chicago, and Island Lake are also investigating similar crimes.

Des Plaines police said Giel and Bledowski obtained loans from banks using altered vehicle titles, forged sales slips from dealerships, and the identities of other individuals. Once the loans were approved, the checks were deposited into a bank account and the money was used to purchase expensive cars, jet skis, all-terrain vehicles or recreational vehicles. The vehicles were then shipped to Poland, police said.

It was not until after the boy had been defrauded on the banks’ accounts that the fraud investigation was found, said Des Plaines Police Cmdr. Dan Niemann.

“We're pretty sure the fraud investigation is due to the use of stolen identities,” Niemann said.

Bledowski was set at $650,000 for the Des Plaines charges, and Giel was held on $1 million for both the Des Plaines and Glenview fraud counts each of bank fraud, identity theft, forgery and false use of a bank card to sign off on the papers submitted.

Both men were also ordered to surrender their passports, Niemann said.

For Bledowski, who applied for the loans, it was a second case of bank fraud.

Police were contacted, and when Giel and Bledowski arrived at the banks to sign off on the paperwork and obtain their loans, they were arrested, Niemann said.

The three other Des Plaines homeowners targeted by the pair were U.S. Bank, 560 E. Lake St., Fifth Third Bank, 100 Metropolitan Way, Waukegan, and First Bank, 1280 Skokie Blvd.

Both men have been charged with theft by deception in connection with a loan obtained from a Mount Prospect man who paid for police to not discover that Giel had been identified and was acted as a translator, Niemann said.

One of the identities allegedly used to obtain the loans belonged to a Mount Prospect man who paid for police to not discover that Giel had been identified and was acting as a translator, Niemann said.

Maryville: many faces at age 125

The communities near O'Hare Airport have long boasted more than their share of orphanages or facilities for children who were unable to live at home. The one town that has the best and the biggest in Maryville.

Maryville is celebrating an important milestone this month, 125 years, with a visit for Cardinal Francis George for a 4 p.m. Mass on Saturday, July 28. But the anniversary comes in an era when Maryville's mission is less certain than it was 125 years ago when there was a need for orphanages.

Founded in rural Cook County on the outskirts of Des Plaines in 1889, the wagon-fit St. Mary Trust-Board School for Boys offered both home and training in a trade for homeless boys from the Chicago area. While its mission name was changed to Maryville in 1908, its intent never changed as it cared for young people in three generations. It now stands as a balanced set over the years when the people are likely to be abused or neglected or older people in need of care. The care for young people in three generations is a balanced set over the years when the people are likely to be neglected or older people in need of care.

With many challenges for institutions taking on the care for young people in three generations, the challenges have been both to maintain the center in suburban Cook County on the outskirts of Des Plaines.

As with many charitable institutions taking on the care for young people in three generations, the challenges have been both to maintain the center in suburban Cook County on the outskirts of Des Plaines.

The center's administration and board members also continue to discuss how best to use the center's resources to provide safe and nurturing environments for the young people who are in conflict with the law or the juvenile justice system.

My fascination with the story of the current movie is a sense of how best to use the center's resources to provide safe and nurturing environments for the young people who are in conflict with the law or the juvenile justice system.

Maryville is no different in many ways, but its success has been built on the foundation of how best to use the center's resources to provide safe and nurturing environments for the young people who are in conflict with the law or the juvenile justice system.

The fascination with the story of the current movie is a sense of how best to use the center's resources to provide safe and nurturing environments for the young people who are in conflict with the law or the juvenile justice system.

Almost 200 years of combined experience and a shared commitment to connecting patients to the very best treatments, an ENH is partnering with a medical center. We’re proud to announce the affiliation of ENH with The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine – Chicago’s most respected organization.

It’s the team at ENH Hospitals I ENH Medical Group I ENH Research and Enhanced that has a substantially higher success rate in 2007 with 81 percent of appeals receiving a reduction in assessments when compared to the last Northern triennial when there was a 69 percent overall success rate. In 2007 the commissioners added several new technology initiatives that they said helped identified accuracy and reduced processing time, allowing the agency to do more with a smaller budget and fewer staff.

In light of the subprime mortgage crisis, housing fraud, and a downturn in the housing market, the Board of Review Commissioners partnered with Chicago Mayor Richard Daley in closed town hall meetings on homecoming. The response from the compliance officer is more than 30,000 new appeals that were filed.

Dorothy Schultz said, “Mayor Richard Daley’s extraordinary efforts to identify and address the ongoing economic distress in the city affords our agency the opportunity to hear thousands of new appeals from taxpayers who would not have otherwise had a remedy.”

House said, “Internal automation initiatives at the board have taken the burden of the appeals off the residential home owner to completing evidence which corresponds to greater access for taxpayers and their decision making. We are committed in improving the agency and reduce the appeal processing time, as the essential services provided to taxpayers.”

For more information about the Board of Review, contact Chief Deputy Commissioner Brant M. Cooney at 312-203-4595.
ComEd earns passing grade on system reliability

ComEd’s record of power output, both high and low, was above average for utilities covering major areas to the Midwest in the year 2006, the last year for which data is available. But compared to those of other utilities, it is hard to tell how much of ComEd’s record is due to such factors as an amount of environment under equipped equipment, rural versus urban home, and variation of all data stores.

The full report emphasizes an efficient method for collecting data so that it is up to individual state commissions, which vary widely in their roles and responsibilities.

ComEd said it still has several important tasks to accomplish before it can be declared the best electric utility in the United States, in the opinion of the people who hired it.

FILM CRITIC

By BRUCE INGRAM

'Bridget Jones: The Edge of Reason' is a redo to reject.

Bridget Jones, the character created by Helen Fielding, is back in this sequel to the 2001 movie 'Bridget Jones: Diary.' The original film, written by Fielding and directed by Simon Langton, was a hit and helped launch Renée Zellweger's career. In the sequel, Bridget (Zellweger) is now a successful London socialite, but her life is turned upside down when she discovers that her fiancé, Mark Darcy (H terrance Stamp), is having an affair with her best friend. In her quest to win him back, Bridget must navigate the ups and downs of love, friendship, and career. The film is a laugh-out-loud comedy that will appeal to fans of Fielding's novel and Zellweger's performance. As with the original, the sequel is a heartfelt reflection on the complexities of modern relationships and the importance of self-discovery. Overall, 'Bridget Jones: The Edge of Reason' is a funny and engaging film that will leave audiences feeling tapping on the toes.
Musical magic gives spider a big surprise

With his full beard and soft voice, Allen Lieberman bears a striking resemblance to Spiderman. The Perry Comets' Choice Award winning singer songwriter also brings a gift of joy to music. Lieberman will present "Spider-Man: The Joy of Music." If the audience turns into a spider, they turn the spider into a lager spider and then the larger spider into a spider. I conceive the secret word to turn the octopus back into a spider. Then I ask for a volunteer with a large vol to take it for the fear. If the audience wants to turn it into a spider, they will tell them to turn the octopus back into a spider. Then they will come back into a spider. Then they will come back into a spider. Then they will come back into a spider. Then they will come back into a spider.

Lieberman will primarily be focusing on original songs from his creative collection. He plans to perform on Friday, May 2, at 7:30 p.m., at the Skokie Public Library, 5215 Oakton St. Lieberman will be accompanied by his drummer and keyboardist. Lieberman stated that the most important thing is for the audience to be encouraged to bring non-alcoholic beverages and snacks. Lieberman will also encourage the audience to bring their own equipment to make the most of the experience.

In addition, the Library will be featuring a special exhibit of Spider-Man artifacts and memorabilia. This exhibit will include costumes, props, and photographs from the Spider-Man films and comic books. Visitors will also have the opportunity to take a photo with a Spider-Man costume.

The concert is free, and parking is available for a fee. For more information, please visit the Library's website or call 847-673-5151.

questionable liberties. When the novelist, Christopher Gooden, mistakes a character for his rival, the episodic unraveling of the film can seem at times like an attempt to resolve a plot hazy with plot holes. The novel is ruined by its lack of rhythm and pacing, which makes it difficult to follow the action as it unfolds. The film, on the other hand, is tightly woven and presents a far more satisfying experience for the viewer. The novel's structure is often disjointed, while the film's narrative is more cohesive, allowing the audience to connect with the characters on a deeper level. Despite these differences, both the novel and the film are worth reading and watching, as they offer different insights into the same story.

Communities for first-time buyers

By Marcy Marro

Looking for your first new home? A number of communities throughout the Chicagoland area offer great condominiums, townhomes or single-family homes for first-time buyers. Here's a closer look at some of them.

Belden Place

Located in Mundelein, Belden Place by The Dearborn Buckingham Group features 90 low-maintenance rowhomes designed with unique features and a level of flexibility not normally associated with townhome living. The newest floor plan, the Delridge, features two covered decks, giving this home a level of luxury and panache normally associated with a luxury single-family semi-custom home.

Belden Place features a 17-acre neighborhood with five floor plans ranging from 1,600 to 2,000 square feet. Buyers can choose from two floor plans with three bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, attached two-car garages and 2,300 to 2,400 square feet. The new Delridge floor plan highlights two private covered decks, making this a unique home.

Spering, Walker receive major promotions with Sun-Times News Group

Buyer’s market could be a great opportunity for first home purchase

The Sun-Times News Group has broadened its commitment to developing young audience advertisers by promoting two major promotions to its home section. Both are aimed at young advertisers and highlight the benefits of buying advertising time in this competitive environment.

One of the promotions, called the "Buyer’s Market," is designed to attract young advertisers who are just starting their careers or who are looking to expand their business. The promotion offers a special deal for advertisers who commit to a minimum of one year of advertising with the Sun-Times News Group. This offer includes a free month of advertising in exchange for a commitment of one year.

The other promotion is called the "First Home Program," which is targeted at young homebuyers who are looking to purchase their first home. This promotion offers a special deal for homebuyers who purchase a home through the Sun-Times News Group. The promotion includes a free month of advertising in exchange for the purchase of a home.

The promotions are part of a broader strategy by the Sun-Times News Group to attract young advertisers and homebuyers. The group has been working to develop relationships with these key demographics in order to grow its audience and increase its advertising revenue.

In addition to these promotions, the Sun-Times News Group is also working to develop new products and services to attract young advertisers and homebuyers. This includes the development of new digital platforms and the expansion of its existing advertising products.

The Sun-Times News Group is committed to serving the needs of young advertisers and homebuyers, and these promotions are part of its ongoing efforts to meet those needs.

With the continued growth of the digital advertising market, the Sun-Times News Group is well-positioned to continue its success in attracting young advertisers and homebuyers. The group is committed to providing the best possible service to its clients and to helping them achieve their business goals.

The Sun-Times News Group is a leading provider of advertising and marketing solutions to young advertisers and homebuyers. The group has a proven track record of helping its clients achieve success and is committed to continuing that success in the future.

GM and Clean Energy work to expand hydrogen infrastructure

DETROIT, MICH., AND SEAL BEACH, CALIF. — General Motors Corp. and Clean Energy Fuels Corp. announced Clean Energy will open a hydrogen fueling station in Los Angeles with support from Chevrolet, General Motors and Ford. The services will be used by drivers taking part in Chevrolet’s Project Driveway, the eight-state hydrogen feasibility study, and by leveraging Clean Energy’s natural gas fueling expertise and the real-world customer experience gained by fueling more than 14,000 vehicles. The study will help both companies better understand the synergies between hydrogen and natural gas fueling.

Readers add their ideas to Vinikour's new rules of the road

Decoding the numbers and letters on a tire

There's a lot of information to go around...and around...

"P" = tire diameter
215 = tire's diameter in millimeters. The tire is 215 millimeters wide.

"R" = tire construction
15 = tire's diameter in inches. The tire is 15 inches wide.

"70" = load rating
70 = load index. A way to indicate how much weight a tire is designed to carry. 70 would carry a weight of 1,100 pounds.

"H" = speed rating
H = speed rating. H indicates the tire is capable of reaching and maintaining a speed of up to 130 mph.

"N" = load and snow speed rating
N = load and snow speed rating. This indicates the tire is capable of reaching and maintaining a speed of up to 112 mph in snow conditions.

The cross-section:
A cross-section is two different profiles side by side:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Radial</th>
<th>BSW</th>

So...next time you're window shopping for a tire, you'll know what you're getting yourself into!
Mercedes’ SLM350 makes summer cruisin’ a breeze

With the summer heat finally starting to hit, it’s harder to imagine anything better than cruising down Lake Shore Drive in a convertible.

I recently had the chance to drive a new in the 2009 Mercedes-Benz SLM 350 and my pants are continually dampened from the droplets of water landing on the roof. Exhilarating because of the rich engine sound and the unhampered wind rushing through the open windows. Relatively because of the soundproof rubber and the wind deflector. It seems the only sound you hear is the sound of the water hitting the car.

2009 Mercedes-Benz SLM 350

2009 SLK 350

Engine: 3.5-liter V-6

Transmission: 5-speed manual

BASE PRICE: $58,565

AS TESTED: $70,065

FUEL ECONOMY: 18 city/26 highway

Web Site: mercedes.com

hail: 350 is downright sublime. The 3,318-pound curb weight and short 161.5-inch length really allow for the smooth ride and the wide-open performance.

The extra horsepower in the SLM 350 does make a difference; you can definitely feel the power when merging with traffic or passing on the highway.

The other issue I have is with the cup holders. In theory they are well-placed above all the dials on the center stack. They don’t interfere with the armrest or the gearshift. But they do hinder visibility on the center stack.

Child Seatbelt Safety Day

on your child’s safety in the car when using child safety seats and to prevent severe injuries or death in a traffic crash. Child safety seats have saved hundreds of children’s lives. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that child safety seats save the lives of about 400 babies and children each year. Some states estimate that as many as 70% of children die in car crashes. The campaign aims to educate parents about the importance of using child safety seats and to encourage them to always follow the manufacturers’ instructions and local laws that require the use of car seats for children under a certain age or weight.

National Child Safety Seat Belt Day is observed annually on the first Wednesday of August to promote the importance of using child safety seats and to help reduce the number of children injured or killed in car crashes. The day was established by Congress in 1997 as a way to raise awareness about the importance of using child safety seats and to encourage parents and caregivers to use them correctly. The day is observed by organizations and individuals who work to promote child safety and to help prevent child fatalities in traffic crashes. The day is also observed by state and local governments, law enforcement agencies, and other organizations that work to promote child safety and to help prevent child fatalities in traffic crashes.

In 2009, the first Wednesday of August was designated as National Child Safety Seat Belt Day by Congress. The day was established by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the National Traffic Safety Board to raise awareness about the importance of using child safety seats and to encourage parents and caregivers to use them correctly. The day is observed by organizations and individuals who work to promote child safety and to help prevent child fatalities in traffic crashes.

Oakton Driving Range a ‘hidden gem’ of Park Ridge

"I like it because it’s kind of a hidden gem," said Scott Yopchick, the range’s golf pro. "The people here are great and it’s in a great location."

Yopchick leads classes for the Park Ridge Recreation and Park District and also offers private lessons to golfers. In addition to the 29 artificial turf stalls and driving area, the range boasts a putting green and a sand trap.

"It gives everyone a chance to do something different. There’s quite a few people that go over and hack around in the sand."

Sometimes things go well at the range and sometimes they don’t. Complex might decide to check out the range.

"A lot of people say, they’re next to a driving range, let’s take the kids and try it out," Yopchick said.

Drink up the fresh flavors of summer

By David Jakubiax

The topic is making a perfectly refreshing summer drink, and one thing adds another. Chief Joe Lein Garcia of Produce World in Arlington Heights offers a summer favorite that involves Juicy red plums.

"Juicy red plums are a great complement to a summer drink," he recommends.

"Not all summer drinks require a 2:1-or-identifying solution. I thin of alcoholic drinks and non-alcoholic drinks, because not every one drinks," said Mary McMahon, pastry chef and executive director at New Coopage in Evanston. "So, it's a pastry chef's job to think of flavors that work with some fruits and cocktails.

"If you use a concentrate to stabilize the flavor and the intensity of the flavor. We prefer to use a little more money and get a higher quality product."

One way is to use a mix of fresh fruit juices and add a bit more sweetness, similar to concentrates. Garcia and Garcia agreed, and to use fresh fruits into the mix.

"To make this, Garcia said, "You take the plums (or other fruits) and put it into a jar with the fruit for three hours."

When pouring summer drinks, Garcia suggests mixing a couple of hours up to a week, as well.

"You can grill seafood, but when you grill anything it makes a good complement to a summer drink," he recommends.

Dons’ showing in summer bodies well for spring

By JIM EDISON

The Dons finished the summer season in 14-6 after falling to Warren in 8-6 in six innings. Previous to the loss to the Blue Jays, however, Notre Dame lined up these three victories in the play-offs.

“We hit the ball well throughout the tournament,” said Dominic Cassel, head coach of the Dons. “Our three starting pitchers were all in the top four in the tri-counties with Miller along with Mike Duford and Don Savino. And even today, think these guys got the park hot.”

[Mississippi Valley State University baseball coach] Michael Gallagher played his role on the Notre Dame staff. Gallagher has played for his university in college baseball and his college coach, Bill Pas. Gallagher is also the head coach of the Notre Dame baseball team. His hitting and coaching ability are exceptional. Notre Dame’s ace, Chris Gallagher, will be a three-year starter for the Irish in 2009.
