Education, governor top Silverstein's town hall

By KATHY ROUTLIFFE
kroutliffe@pioneerlocal.com

Illinois budget battles, education, the stalled search for more state revenue and the politics of leadership quarrels kept State Sen. Ira Silverstein, D-8th, on the hot seat at his July 30 town hall meeting.

The Chicago Democrat, who spoke at the Oakton Community Center in Skokie, fielded questions from about 30 constituents, many of them pointedly asking why he and other legislators didn't buck party leadership directives if they disagreed with them.

"I think you're well aware of the frustration Illinois residents feel about our leaders, although I don't think that word applies to the people we have in the House and Senate," Marylou Jelachich said. "Can't (party) caucuses vote these guys out?"

Silverstein, who chairs the Senate executive committee, started the evening by lambasting all three Democratic leaders: "The egos are bigger than the capital rotunda ... The constant fighting between Gov. (Rod) Blagojevich and the speaker of the House (Michael Madigan, D-22nd), as well as the President of the Senate (Emil Jones, D-14th) is extremely aggravating."

He said the state desperately needed to pass a capital works bill, to improve and repair roads, bridges and schools. Gov. Blagojevich and most other legislators had been sidetracked by the Antoin Rezko corruption trial earlier this year, he said, before predicting that most of the $2 billion in budget cuts Blagojevich announced last spring would probably not be overturned.

Audience member Gary Dolino asked why the three Democrats could not negotiate a balanced budget, instead of fighting over it.

"I could understand if it was a fight between Democrats and Republicans," he said, prompting Silverstein to admit, "We used to be able to blame Pate (Philip, the former Republican Senate president), but now we have no one to blame but ourselves."

Dolino, who chairs the Neighbors for Strong Schools organization, also challenged Silverstein to stop backing revenue schemes that depend on casino gambling, and instead support legislation introduced by House Democrat John Cullerton and Independent James Meeks to fund education and other budget needs with a state income tax increase.

He and Silverstein sparred over the efficacy of gambling revenues, but Silverstein insisted he isn't necessarily opposed to an income tax hike.

Teen held without bond in attempted murder in Maine

Shooting victim still hospitalized

By JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

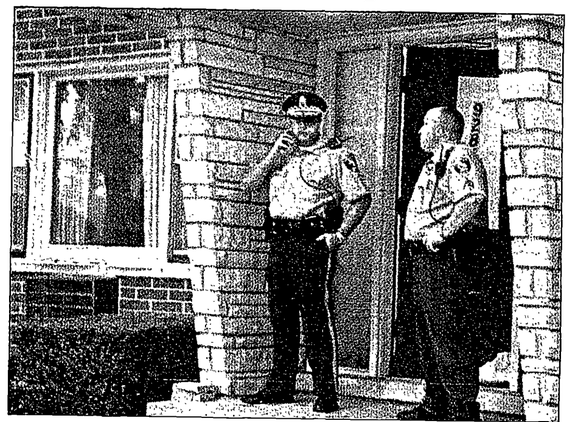
A 15-year-old boy is being held without bond after being charged with shooting a man over an alleged drug transaction in unincorporated Maine Township last week.

Chaseton Walker, of the 9400 block of Dee Road, Maine Township, has been charged as an adult with one count each of attempted murder and aggravated battery with a firearm, according to Cook County Sheriff's spokesperson Steven Patterson.

The shooting was reported at 12:50 p.m. July 31 in the living room of a condo on the 9200 block of Noel Avenue, said Penny Mateck, spokesperson for the Sheriff's Police. The residence is located at the corner of Noel and Sumac Road, just south of Golf Road between Potter and Dee roads.

According to Mateck, the offender came to visit a resident of the condo. Mateck said that the men, who knew each other, got into a dispute over money, and that during the dispute, the offender took out a gun and shot the victim.

Cook County Assistant State's Attorney Gail Vierneisel said the victim, Michael Hart, 21, told police the dispute was over a drug transaction.



ALLEN KALETA/FOR PIONEER PRESS

Cook County sheriff's police guard a condominium building in the 9200 block of Noel Avenue, in unincorporated Maine Township, July 31 after a 21-year-old resident was injured in a shooting.

Vierneisel said Hart claimed to owe Walker $125 for drugs, but only had $15, which he handed over to him inside the condo. When Hart turned to walk away, he was shot once, Vierneisel said. A .22 caliber bullet was later removed from his neck, she said.

Walker was arrested around 3:30 p.m. that afternoon at his home, which is located just a few blocks east of where the shooting occurred. Vierneisel said she did not have information on where police believe Walker obtained the gun.

Hart was taken to Advocate Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. An update on his condition was not available at press time, but Vierneisel said he had suffered paralysis to his right side, and his left side was also partially paralyzed.

Seven arrested in prostitution sting

By JOLIE LEE
jlee@pioneerlocal.com

Seven men were charged with solicitation of a sex act as part of a July 17 prostitution sting on the 2000 and 2200 blocks of Mannheim Road in unincorporated Leyden Township, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

The men were arrested after offering between $20 and $30 for sex acts to an undercover female Sheriff's Police officer, police said.

"There has been, over the years, a propensity for that type of activity in that area," said Steve Patterson, Sheriff's Police spokesman. "We received complaints from the community and each time conducted surveillance."

Carrying out random stings and publicizing arrests help deter the offenses, as will hefty fees to recover towed vehicles, Patterson said. Offenders must pay a towing fee between $75 and $100 to recover their vehicle in addition to a $500 administrative towing fee to the county, Patterson said.

"That's an awfully strong deterrent," Patterson said.

Charged in the sting were: Michael Bradford, 48, of 5326 Blackstone Ave., Chicago; Humberto Gonzales, 39, 1404 36th Ave., Melrose Park; Jose Guerra, 54, of 2211 Lee St., Des Plaines; Antonio Luciano, 43, of 112 Mendel Lane, Prospect Heights; Michael McParland, 43, of 641 Busse Highway, Park Ridge; Cosmin Popa, 29, of 2935 Palmer St., Chicago; and Hilario Rodriguez, 35, of 1428 43rd Court, Stone Park.

The men are scheduled to appear in court Aug. 26.

How Illinois lawmakers voted in Congress

Week ending August 1

Journalists' Sources: Senators failed, 51-43, to reach 60 votes needed to end GOP blockage of a bill to protect the confidentiality of news sources in federal court cases. The protection would be waived for reasons such as guarding U.S. security or solving crimes. A yes vote backed S2035. Sen. Richard Durbin: Yes; Sen. Barack Obama: Not voting

Renewable Energy: Senators failed, 51-43, to reach 60 votes for ending GOP blockage of a bill to extend tax credits for renewable energy, renew research and development tax credits and temporarily fix the Alternative Minimum Tax, among other provisions. A yes vote was to advance S3335. Sen. Richard Durbin: Yes; Sen. Barack Obama: Not voting

One Senator's Blockade: Senators failed, 52-40, to reach 60 votes needed to advance a package of 35 popular bills that have been blocked by Sen. Tom Coburn, R-Okla., on grounds that the $10 billion in spending is not offset. A yes vote was to advance S3297 over Republican objections. Sen. Richard Durbin: Yes; Sen. Barack Obama: Not voting

Product Safety Commission: Voting 89-3, the Senate sent President Bush a bill to expand the Consumer Product Safety Commission's powers, staff and budget. A yes vote was to approve a measure (HR4040) that would nearly double the agency's budget to $130 million in fiscal 2014. Sen. Richard Durbin: Yes; Sen. Barack Obama: Not voting

Higher Education Act: Senators sent the White House, 83-8, a higher education bill that, along with provisions cited above, would seek to hold down textbook costs, raise the value of Pell Grants and penalize states that cut student aid. A yes vote was to pass the conference report on HR4137. Sen. Richard Durbin: Yes; Sen. Barack Obama: Not voting

1. Federal Tobacco Regulation: Members voted, 326-102, to begin Food and Drug Administration regulation of tobacco products. A yes vote was to pass a bill (HR1108) that empowers the agency to regulate cigarette content, require disclosure of ingredients and ban marketing to children.

2. Oil Speculation: Members failed, 276-151, to reach a two-thirds majority needed to pass a bill ordering tougher Commodity Futures Trading Commission oversight of oil-futures speculation, in part by requiring higher margin rules and more transparency. A yes vote was to pass HR6604.

3. Rep. Charles Rangel: Members tabled, 254-138, a GOP bid for House censure of Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., the chair of the Ways and Means Committee, over his personal and campaign use of rent-controlled apartment units in his district. A yes vote opposed the censure bid. (HRes1396)

4. Product Safety Commission: Members approved, 424-1, the final version of a bill to expand Consumer Product Safety Commission powers, double the agency's budget by 2014, ban lead from toys and give legal tools to state attorneys general. A yes vote was to pass HR4040.

5. Higher Education Act: Members approved, 380-49, the conference report on a higher education bill that would hold schools publicly accountable for tuition increases, expand tuition aid to minorities, veterans and others, and partially waive student-loan debt held by first responders. (HR4137)

6. Gender-Based Pay Bias: Members passed, 247-178, a bill to expand the U.S. law against pay bias based on gender. A yes vote was to pass a bill (HR1338) banning employer retaliation and enabling women to sue for recovery of back pay and receive compensatory and punitive damages.

7. Pay-Bias Study: Members refused, 188-240, to make new legal authority in HR1338 (above) dependent on the Labor Department showing the law would not hinder the ability of employers to recruit their workforces. A yes vote backed a federal study that critics said was aimed at killing the bill.

Niles West 50th reunion celebrates, aids students

By KATHY ROUTLIFFE
kroutliffe@pioneerlocal.com

Niles West High School alumni curious about friends and classmates from their time at the District 219 school have a chance this October to reconnect, and celebrate the school's 50th anniversary at the same time.

And, by attending the Oct. 3-5 celebrations now being planned by reunion organizers, alumni will also have the chance to help current financially-needy students across the district.

Organizers of "Niles West: Still Going Strong at 50!" hope to raise $100,000 for the Niles Township High School District Education Foundation for Excellence, spokesman Alyse Burman said.

Burman said planners want to publicize the fall event as widely as possible, not only to attract attendees, but to bring volunteers on board for both the reunion effort and for the foundation: "We want people to start spreading the word."

The proceeds will be helping the entire district, whether the students are from Niles West or Niles North."

A huge banner advertising the reunion already graces the front wall at Niles West, 5701 W. Oakton St., and other signs will go up in Lincolnwood, Skokie and Morton Grove, Burman said.

Reunion events are scheduled to start Oct. 3 with the 2008 Niles West homecoming football game with Glenbrook South. An alumni tent will open at 7 p.m. before the game, and attendees will be able to enjoy fireworks after the game.

The celebrations continue Oct. 4 at the Holiday Inn North Shore, 5300 W. Touhy Ave. A performance by the 1960s music group The Buckingham, featuring 1965 Niles West alumni Nick Fortuna will headline the event, scheduled to run between 6 and 11 p.m.

Burman said proceeds from the tickets ($75 in advance, and $85 after Sept. 15) will benefit the Foundation, as will funds raised through both a silent and a live auction.

On Oct. 5, organizers hope to conduct tours of Niles West, and provide student entertainment at the school. Currently plans call for those events to run between noon and 3 p.m.

To learn more about the reunion, and to volunteer to help organizers, call (847) 626-3959 or visit www.niles-hs.k12.il.us/karmal/NW50th.pdf or www.219foundation.org.

'Niles TV' hits the Web

By TONY BERTUCA
tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

The Village of Niles launched "Niles TV" last week, making it easy for residents visiting the village Web site to access videos from major town events.

Featured videos include the installation of the Coca Cola Community Rain Garden, the Fourth of July Parade, and an introduction to the Niles Teen Center.

George Van Geem, village manager, said the Niles TV project grew out of a desire to communicate with residents as often as possible.

"Video is, in my mind, really a more interesting way to do that," he said. "We want to be as informative as possible and video is way more interesting than a blurb or a blog."

Van Geem said the project is done entirely in-house. Village employees go to local events and create the videos, edit them, and post them to the Web site.

"It might not be as polished as others right away but we are focused on Niles," he said. "Eventually we'd like to have videos about the fitness center, snow plowing, or our other taxing bodies like the library and the park district. It's just another way to communicate with our residents."

Niles TV is available at www.vniles.com.

Board OKs bids, lease renewal

By TONY BERTUCA
tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

The Niles Village Board approved several bids at its July 22 meeting and renewed the lease for the Niles Teen Center at Golf Mill Shopping Center.

Trustees approved $17,711 to LoVerde Construction to remove and dispose of the salt dome roofing structure now at the public services facility. Trustee Joe LoVerde, who voted to approve the bid, reminded the board that he has been divested of LoVerde Construction since 1997.

Last month board members approved a $99,460 bid to replace the public works salt dome structure, which was originally built in 1983. Construction is set to begin within the next few weeks.

Board members also approved a $300,430 bid for the 2008 Water Main Improvement Program. Charles Ostman, director of community development, said the project only involved a single village street and stretched about five blocks. He said the village has not had to improve any water mains for the past two years.

The board also renewed the $735-a-month lease for the Niles Teen Center at Golf Mill Shopping Center for a second year. The lease agreement with General Growth Properties runs from July 1, 2008, to June 30, 2009. The rent at the center has increased from $700 to $735 per month — funding which was mistakenly left out of the 2009 budget, reported Village Manager George Van Geem.

Van Geem told the board he would make the necessary changes to general fund to provide adequate funding for the teen center.

Cops black flag drag racing suspect

By TONY BERTUCA
tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

Niles police broke up a group of drag racers July 14 and were led on a high-speed chase that ended in the arrest of an area psychiatrist, according to a police report.

Christopher Womack, a 31-year-old psychiatrist of 1836 Wildberry Drive, Glenview, was charged with reckless driving, fleeing and eluding police, speeding more than 40 mph more than the posted limit and improper lane use. Womack could not be reached for comment.

Niles police said Womack was drag racing with another driver on the 7400 block of West Caldwell Avenue and reached a speed of 89 mph. The posted limit on that block is 40 mph.

When police arrived to break up the race, Womack allegedly drove away in his car and led an officer on a high-speed chase on Howard Street.

Womack eluded the officer for a short time but his car soon was spotted near the corner of Harlem and Touhy avenues, according to the report.

Police arrested Womack on the 8900 block of Oakton Street as he stepped out of his car to examine damage to his bumper and one of his tires, the report stated.

Womack was released on $2,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Aug. 21.

POLICE BLOTTER

The following incidents were listed among official reports of the Niles Police Department. An arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

DUI

- Philip Kuehn, 22, of 8543 N. Osceola Ave., Niles, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Aug. 3 on the 8300 block of North Olcott Avenue. He was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Aug. 21.
- Theodore Karamanis, 41, of 5050 N. Nashville Ave., Chicago, was charged with driving under the influence of cocaine and alcohol Aug. 2 on the 8400 block of North Milwaukee Avenue. He was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Aug. 21.
- Nicholas Saranto, 25, of 233 Montgomery Lane, Glenview, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Aug. 2 on the 7900 block of West Gold Road. He was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Sept. 10.
- Melissa Taylor, 35, of 5069 N. Higgins Ave., Chicago, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Aug. 1 on the 8100 block of North Milwaukee Avenue. She was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Aug. 21.
- Gayl Przybyslawski, 36, of 6525 Northwest Highway, Chicago, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Aug. 1 on the 500 block of North Waukegan Road. She was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Sept. 15.
- Jimmy Chung, 27, of 9354 W. Golf Road, Des Plaines, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Aug. 1 on the 8000 block of North Milwaukee Avenue. He was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Sept. 10.

THEFT

- Richard Fransk, 23, of 162 Lucerne Court, Wheeling, was charged with retail theft Aug. 2 after he allegedly stole an electric toothbrush from a store on the 2000 block of Golf Mill Center. He was released on $1,000 bond and is due in court Aug. 19.
- A purse containing $120 was stolen Aug. 2 from a store on the 200 block of Golf Mill Center.

District 219 sends ad idea to committees

By KATHY ROUTLIFFE
kroutliffe@pioneerlocal.com

Niles Township High School District 219 school board members have routed the idea of supplementing Niles West and Niles North High School activity funds with new ad revenue to the board's policy and facility committees.

District staff presented a proposed advertising agreement template to the board at its June 30 meeting, board President Robert Silverman said. The language the board's law firm drew up could be used when, and if, companies paid District 219 for the right to display their logos or names on district property.

Such deals might help subsidize activity funds that are currently financed through a district-wide contract with the Coca-Cola Corp., Silverman said.

That money, which comes from vending machine sales, has dropped recently, in part because of new state laws that restrict what can be sold in school vending machines.

The district has a very general advertising policy, which was last reviewed in April, but the agreement staff asked board members to look at would cover situations such as putting names on athletic field fences or other such properties.

"We haven't been too keen on the idea in the past, and if we do it (in the future) we would want to do it with rules in place," Silverman said. The board asked staff to check with other school and college districts to see if some of them are already making such agreements; if so, the committees can look at policy language they use, he added.

Watch for locals in Beijing Olympics

Chicago is still pursuing its bid to host the 2016 Summer Olympics, an event which will benefit the entire metropolitan region. So, as the 2008 Summer Olympics begin Aug. 8 in Beijing, China, Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley shouldn't be the only one checking out what works — and what doesn't work. It takes more than one community to raise an Olympic Village capable of hosting the world.

The Olympics are not just about sports — consider the marathon opening and closing night ceremonies — but they continue to be a place where all nations are encouraged to set aside political rivalries for a couple of weeks, to allow the athletes to participate to the best of their abilities in a spirit of sportsmanship.

For local viewers who want to root for the hometown stars, here are a few from Chicagoland who will compete in China:

■ Jorge Torres of Wheeling will compete for the U.S. in the 10,000-meter race in the track and field events;

■ Brian McBride of Arlington Heights, the longtime soccer star, was named as captain of this year's U.S. Olympics squad (and just joined the Chicago Fire Wednesday);

■ Tom Hoff of Park Ridge is a middle blocker on the U.S. Volleyball team;

■ Jamie Schroeder of Wilmette will attend his second Olympics, competing in rowing in the U.S. men's quadruple scull race;

■ Matt Grevers of Lake Forest, a student and swimmer at Northwestern University, will compete in the 100-meter backstroke for the U.S.;

■ Christina Loukas of Riverwoods will compete for the U.S. in the diving competition on the 3-meter springboard.

In addition, Doug and Kristina Lennox of Evanston will compete on the Puerto Rican swim team.

They join a legion of former Olympic competitors with Chicago area ties who already made their marks in the annals of sports: runners Jesse Owens and Willye White, javelin thrower Nan Gindele Bauman, figure skater David Santee, speedskaters Nancy Swider Peltz Sr. and Ken Henry and gymnast Bart Connor.

This year's games also offer possibilities and inspiration for a new generation of budding young athletes — the ones who may be testing their muscles now but will be the right age in another eight years to compete if the games come to Chicago.

"It takes more than one community to raise an Olympic Village capable of hosting the world."

1000 WORDS

This week's episode of ... 'Things that don't work right'

JIM POKIN

Everybody hears about big product recalls and food scares, like when tomatoes had salmonella (but really didn't). It's easy to miss the little recalls reported every day on the Consumer Product Safety Commission's Web site.

That might be a good thing. If people read about every recall, they might not buy anything and our economy would be in awful shape.

Wait a minute — people already can't afford to buy things and the economy is awful. So go to cpsc.gov and read; knock yourself out. Or, use some of the products listed there, and they might knock you out.

Here's a sampler of things that don't work right.

July 29 — New England Ropes reports it sold about 530 "dynamic climbing ropes" that might break. They were sold nationwide for about two years, at dynamic prices of between $180 and $262.

No rock climbers have been reported hurt yet, but are we sure Sherpas read English? If you're afraid of fraying, check the date and UPC codes on the rope's original packaging, which I'm sure most climbers keep in their backpacks. The location for New England Ropes? Fall River, Mass.

July 24 — Cost Plus Inc. recalls about 8,600 Santorini chairs. These are $50 black, metal, outdoor stacking chairs, made in Taiwan and sold in Cost Plus and World Market stores nationwide earlier this year. It's only the ones with the welds on the sides that can break.

Falling while in a collapsing Santorini chair seems less risky than having your rope break on a mountain — unless the person in the Santorini chair is somebody like my late, South Side Irish grandma, who might have crowned you with an ashtray if you ever let something like that happen to her. So if you have these chairs, you'd better take them back to the store before your next cookout.

That gives you an idea of the treats in store (and in stores) for you at cpsc.gov.

Next time on "Things that don't work right": Cuddly Comfort Pillows — 120,000 pillows sold at Costco, containing small metal fragments as a result a mechanical breakdown in the manufacturing process in China ... Sleep tight.

Pictures meant to raise awareness

Recently, the Pro-Life Action League visited Niles as part of our ninth annual Face the Truth Tour, during which we lined major intersections with large signs showing the victims of abortion. For the most part, residents who saw our signs were receptive to our message, although some became angry enough to shout obscenities and otherwise indicate that we and our pictures were not welcome.

We realize that it is shocking to most people to see pictures of the mangled bodies of aborted babies. It is a national tragedy that this evil is allowed to exist. One of the sad facts about a society that permits abortion is that innocent people suffer, including our own children who are growing up in a culture of death that does not respect human life.

Some people are outraged that while we are displaying the graphic pictures along a road for drivers to see, young children may see them too. Adults should explain to these children that these aborted babies have been hurt, and that we are trying to prevent this from happening. If we continue to hide these unborn victims of abortion from sight with the excuse that children shouldn't have to see such violence, we fail in our mission to tell the truth and protect human life.

We urge all Niles Herald-Spectator readers to learn more about abortion and about the alternatives to abortion, and to become involved in the fight to restore respect for human life at all stages. For information, call (773) 777-2900 or visit our Web site at prolifeaction.org.

Room to grow

Builders offer wide range of options for growing families

By Marcy Marro
SPECIAL TO SUN-TIMES NEWS GROUP

Most growing families reach the point at which it's time to move up from their current house to a larger, more spacious one to accommodate the children and all of their toys. These Chicagoland communities offer a wide variety of floor plans and plenty of space for those families looking to move on up to a larger home.

Historic home for growing family

Built in 1898, this landmark home in the Evanston Historic District has all of the character and warmth of a notable residence with updates to please today's homebuyers. In addition, it's perfectly suited for family living. The home, located as 1225 Ridge Ave., has 16 rooms to accommodate a growing family while offering both open gathering spaces and quiet, private spaces.

The home's traditional floor plan features a large foyer and reception area. Large-scale living and dining room are perfect for entertaining, and a library includes built-ins and the original stained glass windows. A sunroom/family room provides a wonderful family gathering space in close proximity to the kitchen, while a wall of windows overlook the terraced yard with ample space, mature trees and two playhouses.

1225 Ridge Ave. is a landmark home in the Evanston Historic District. It has sixteen rooms to accommodate a growing family.

The second floor features the master suite with private bath and adjoining sitting room, three bright bedrooms with large closets and a hall bath. A charming screened sleeping porch overlooks the yard, while the third level offers every family member additional personal space. An office has extensive built-ins, while three additional rooms — and one with an adjoining playroom — leave ample room for the kids to play.

Affordable vacation lifestyle

Gerstad Builders is making it possible for everyone to enjoy a vacation lifestyle at its newest community, Bailey Estates, nestled in the Williams Bay community along the north shore of Geneva Lake.

Situated between three lakes and hundreds of acres of protected wetlands and mature woods, Bailey Estates is a secluded community featuring homes ranging in size from 1,800 to 3,197 square feet. Homes are base priced from $239,990 to $307,990 and are ranch or two-story homes set on half to one-and-a-half acres.

The semi-custom homes will offer three, four or five bedrooms, two to two-and-a-half baths, spacious kitchens, breakfast areas, living rooms, family rooms, formal dining rooms, dens per plan, master-bedroom suites and attached two- or three-car garages.

Bailey Estates' decorated model/sales center is located on Theatre Road, approximately three-four this-mile south of Highway 50 and is open Saturday, Sunday and Monday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, please call (262) 245-9750 or visit its Web site at www.gerstadbuilders.com.

Easton Park Townhomes continue to attract buyers

Easton Park, Lakewood Homes' townhome community in Carol Stream, has become the neighborhood of choice for buyers looking for convenience, style and an outstanding location. The community features 270 English row-style townhomes starting at $299,990.

Buyers have the choice of three different townhome floor plans. Each group of homes has English style architectural details. With Tudor-style exposed wood beams, arched window openings and copper roofs over select windows and doors, each home includes a rear-loading or side-load two-car garage to give the neighborhood an attractive streetscape.

Homes range in size from almost 1,900 to close to 2,500 square feet. They may also include two to four bedrooms, up to three-and-a-half baths, lofts, living and dining rooms plus large family rooms that open to eat-in kitchens. All priced from $299,990.

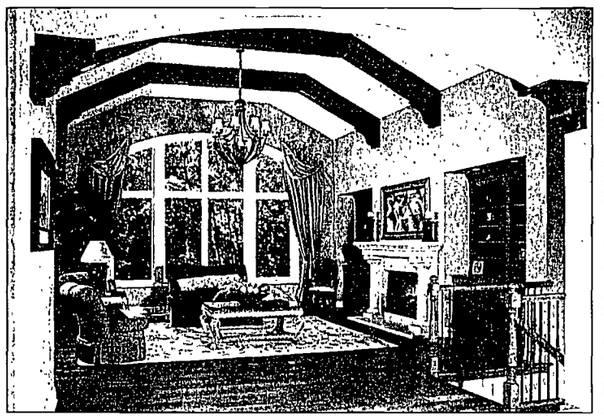
Currently Lakewood is offering buyers attractive incentives on both quick delivery and to-be-built homes, including interest rate buy-downs, free options, down payment assistance and more. Complete details are available at the sales center.

Fully furnished and decorated models are open for tours everyday. The community is located at 369 W. North Ave. in Carol Stream. The sales center is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (630) 665-0531 or visit www.lakewoodhomes.com.

New model introduced at Thousand Oaks

KLM Builders Inc. has unveiled a fully furnished and decorated Brentwood ranch model at Thousand Oaks in Spring Grove, its newest community of 74 single-family, semi-custom homes. The Brentwood offers buyers the convenience of single-level living with room to spread out and all the luxury features they desire.

Buyers at Thousand Oaks can select from more than 20 different floor plans, including two-story, ranch and first-floor master bedroom designs. All home sites feature plentiful, mature trees. Most sites are heavily wooded, while some back up to scenic wetlands. Each home features three to five bedrooms, two-and-a-half to four baths, wood-burning fireplace, vaulted, trey and 10-foot ceilings per plan, rear deck, oak trim and stair rails, three- to four-car garage per plan, full basement with 9-foot poured walls and a 10-year structural warranty. Homes range in size from 2,300 to 3,775 square feet. They are priced from the $470s to the low-$700s.



The Brentwood model at Thousand Oaks features an array of impressive amenities, including this lavish great room.

Thousand Oaks is located on Winn Road with easy access to Route 12 (Rand Road). Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. For more information, call (815) 675-0011 or visit www.klmbuildersinc.com.

Prime lots now available at Benck's Farm

Dream homes can now be built on prime lots at Benck's Farm in Manhattan, courtesy of Crescenzo Construction. New home shoppers can either purchase one of Benck's Farms 127 home sites and select the builder of their choice, or have Crescenzo Construction craft a custom home built to suit. All sites are quarter-acre or larger and most will accommodate three-car garages. While some back up to the scenic lake, others are situated in cul-de-sacs or adjacent to open space, according to Chuck Crescenzo, owner of Crescenzo Construction LLC.

Benck's Farm spans approximately 70 acres and features a charming path ideal for walking, biking or horseback riding, throughout the property. Home sites are priced from $95,000 to $145,000, while semi-custom or custom homes can be built from $300,000 to $600,000, including the home site.

Anyone purchasing a new home from Crescenzo Construction will receive a $5,000 rebate check at closing from the Village of Manhattan. Offer is valid until July 2009 or for the first 200 new homes sold in Manhattan, whichever comes first. Also, the first 15 buyers who build new with Crescenzo will have their utility bill paid for 10 years, not exceeding $150 a month, a value worth up to $18,000.

Benck's Farm is located just north of Smith Road, off Route 52. Call (815) 478-5191 for more information.

Two new plans at The Trails of Dawson Creek

Gerstad Builders has introduced two new two-story plans at The Trails of Dawson Creek in Poplar Grove. The addition of the 2,844-square-foot Madison and the 3,177-square-foot Georgian brings the number of floor plans to 12. With partial basements, the Madison is base priced at $270,990 and the Georgian at $285,990. The three- or four-bedroom homes can be customized to meet the buyer's desires and will be set on a quarter-acre home site.

Dawson Creek has 200 single-family homes with basements. It offers four additional two-story plans providing 1,921 to 3,177 square feet of living space base priced from $223,490 to $246,990. Six ranch homes with 1,560 to 2,170 square feet are also available, base priced from $192,490 to $289,990.

The Georgian features a basement, four bedrooms and two-and-a-half baths. The Madison is a three- or four-bedroom two-story home with two-and-a-half baths and a two-car garage.

The Trails of Dawson Creek is located on the north side of Orth Road, approximately 1/2 mile east of Route 76 in Poplar Grove. The sales center is open Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, please call (815) 547-0800 or visit www.gerstadbuilders.com.

Family purchases second home from Gerstad Builders

When it was time to buy a new home, Aimee and Bill Oeffling went back to the builder of their current home in Pebble Creek in McHenry. The family purchased the Georgian, a 3,177-square-foot two-story home in Gerstad Builder's new Liberty Trails community, also in McHenry.

The Oeffling's new home features four bedrooms, a full basement and three-car garage.

"We are as pleased with our new home as we were with our previous Gerstad home," Aimee said. "We are so impressed with Gerstad Builders that we told two sets of friends to check them out and they ended up buying homes in Liberty Trails as well."

The Liberty Trails community offers 1,693- to 3,177-square-foot ranch and two-story plans base priced from $241,990 to $327,990.

The Liberty Trails' sales center is on Lincoln Road, about one mile west of Chapel Hill Road and north of Route 120. Models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, please call (815) 385-4495 or visit www.gerstadbuilders.com.

School Street District Brownstones act as beautiful natural bridge

The village of Libertyville targeted the open area along School Street, east of Milwaukee Avenue and south of Newberry Avenue, as a natural site for residential development as the village's commercial center continued to evolve along Milwaukee Avenue.

The challenge was to retain the natural setting of the neighborhood while incorporating residences that would reflect the timeless Victorian character of the village center. Approximately two years ago, the village turned to The Hummel Group, Ltd.

Hummel, known throughout the area for their town center developments, to bring the idea of the School Street District development to fruition.

"The challenge was to retain the character of the village and this awesome natural setting in a contemporary development," said Jason Majerczak, vice president of marketing for Hummel. "The natural setting was there — old growth trees like oaks, maples, and elms, that needed to be preserved within a design that met the needs of the community."

To achieve this, Hummel turned to architect Jeffrey Pathman.

"While this is a relatively urban site, the concept behind the School Street District Brownstones was to bring old world elegance into this classic setting in a way that preserved and enhanced the distinguishing characteristics of Libertyville," Majerczak said. "Jeff Pathman's design achieved this goal."

According to Pathman, the design and hearing process held before the village assured they met the high specifications required. Natural, old world materials were chosen for the residences — brick and stone masonry — and all efforts were made to save the trees on the site.

To visit this community

The School Street District Brownstones model is located at 173 School St., east of Milwaukee in downtown Libertyville. For more information call (224) 513-5500 or visit www.thehummelgroup.com.

"We were as detailed and accurate as possible to reflect the old world, early American aspect that the Village strongly desired," Pathman said. "I think the brownstones have achieved that turn-of-the-century feel."

Phase One of the School Street District Brownstones has been completed, and according to Majerczak, everyone who has seen them has been pleased.

Pathman agrees: "I'm very pleased with the first building, and as the final buildings are completed they will set a tone ... of a beautiful, powerful, and influential neighborhood. Being so close to downtown Libertyville, they will be a natural magnet to people there."

The development is bounded by Milwaukee Avenue on the West, Newbury Avenue on the North and East, and Cook Avenue on the South. The brownstones (4000-plus square feet with full English basement, three bedrooms, 2½ baths), which line the quiet, secluded School Street, list in excess of $800,000 per unit.

"There is no question that the School Street residences are among the most desirable in Lake County," said Majerczak. "The brownstones are classically designed, adding to the rich architectural heritage that already exists in Libertyville. The neighborhood is like a quiet haven, with huge original growth trees providing natural beauty and shade, yet only steps away is Libertyville's train station and vibrant downtown, with shops, pubs, restaurants, theaters, and community resources. Those living in the School Street District will have the best of all worlds."

GLADSTONE HOMES

Grand sales event at Grande Reserve

$150 grand in savings on remaining homes through Aug. 17

Homebuyers can have a grand time during Gladstone Homes' $150-Grand sales event, now through Aug. 17 at Grande Reserve in Yorkville, when purchasers of any Gladstone Premiere Series home will receive $150,000 in free options and upgrades.

Gladstone's Eaglecrest neighborhood at Grande Reserve is at the center of this master-planned community, adjacent to the private community clubhouse and aquatic center. The neighborhood of spacious semi-custom homes is 80 percent complete.

"This is most definitely the time to buy at Eaglecrest," said General Sales Manager Katie Minott. "Our remaining home sites include high-demand features such as cul de sacs, walk-outs and look-outs. Several back up to the paved bike and walking trails so homeowners literally can walk off their back yards and take a short walk along the trails leading to Grande Reserve Elementary School, clubhouse and aquatic center."

The Eaglecrest neighborhood is at the core of Grande Reserve and features Gladstone Premiere Series homes ranging from 3,221 square feet to 4,043 square feet with Gladstone's signature kitchen-centered, open floor plans.

Standard amenities in their Premiere Series homes include Whirlpool kitchen appliances, Kohler and Moen fixtures, furniture-quality wood cabinets, hardwood flooring in the foyer, kitchen and dinette, and master baths with soaking tubs and separate showers. Each of these homes has four or more bedrooms, a home office or study, a fireplace in the family room, a three-car garage and basement per plan. Select plans offer bonus rooms or outdoor entertainment areas.

The 4,043-square-foot Ashstone is among Gladstone's courtyard plans. Its outdoor entertainment area has entrances to the foyer and a versatile home office or guest room. With $150,000 in free options a family could:

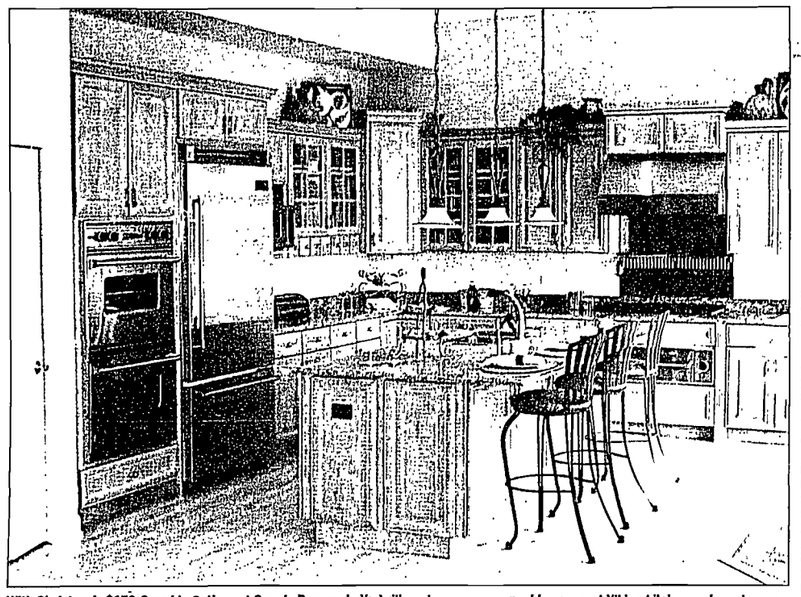
- Expand the first floor powder room to a full bath, creating an in-law or au pair suite with private entry.
- Select granite countertops, specialty finishes or upgraded 42-inch cabinets, and gourmet-quality Viking stainless appliances in the kitchen.
- Choose decorative ceiling features such as skylights in the dinette, tray and vault ceilings in the dining room, the master suite, and the three additional bedrooms.
- Create a master suite with an intimate sitting room and the luxury of an additional fireplace.
- Add a brick cooking hearth to the entrance courtyard to create an outdoor entertainment area, and
- Build a custom deck for even more outdoor living and entertainment space.

All this hardly puts a dent in the $150,000; continue adding decorative touches that create an aura of luxury, such as rounded dry-wall corners, 9-foot ceilings throughout the home, and customized window treatments. Functional upgrades such as a whole-home alarm system, intercom system or central vacuum system, exterior basement stairs or a 4th garage bay also could be added within the remaining incentive amount.

"There are literally hundreds of choices a family could make to personalize their dream home," said Minott. "The incentive makes it possible to have a home beyond what many families ever dreamed."

Grande Reserve offers a nearby conservation area, six miles of biking and walking trails, seven neighborhood parks and quick, easy access to I-88. The clubhouse includes recreation rooms and meeting space, and the aquatic center features three pools. It also is just minutes away from the brand new Raging Waves waterpark, Illinois' largest waterpark featuring wave pools, family raft rides, waterslides and more.

"This is a wonderful place to live," said Sales Manager and Grande Reserve Homeowner Betsy Roos, whose family of six lives in Eaglecrest. "Our neighbors are multi-generational, ranging from families starting out in their first homes to empty nesters, and also include homeowners who have moved up from smaller homes or, like my family, relocated to the area."



With Gladstone's $150-Grand in Options at Grande Reserve in Yorkville, a homeowner can add a gourmet Viking kitchen and much more at no extra cost. The incentive is available now through Aug. 17.

To visit this community

The Eaglecrest at Grande Reserve sales center is located at 2811 Cryder Way in Yorkville and open daily from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. through Aug. 17. For information, call (630) 553-5588 or www.gladstonehomes.com.

Housing bailout to aid cash-strapped homeowners

Don DeBat
ON THE HOME FRONT

Uncle Sam's financial muscle is being directed to the impending bailout of the home-loan industry because the nation's housing market is the wellspring of the U.S. economy, experts say.

To ease the greatest housing crisis since the Great Depression, Congress has approved a multi-layer $300-plus-billion dollar bailout plan to aid 400,000 families facing mortgage foreclosure — including 8,157 Illinois families losing their homes.

After initial opposition, even President George W. Bush now agrees the sweeping plan is necessary. Too bad the fix took so long.

The key provisions of the plan, which essentially will bail out Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, along with troubled mortgage companies, which funded risky sub-prime loans, calls for:

- Giving a modernized Federal Housing Administration (FHA) $300-billion in new lending authority to provide affordable fixed-rate 30-year mortgages to 400,000 debt-ridden homeowners. Any losses would be covered by an affordable housing fund financed by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac.
- Keeping mortgage-finance giants Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac afloat at a potential $25 billion cost to taxpayers. The plan also would raise the loan limit on mortgages purchased by the agencies to $625,000 in high-cost areas.
- Providing $15 billion in housing tax breaks, including aid to low-income housing. Under the bailout legislation, single homeowners who do not itemize will be allowed a new $500 deduction for property taxes; married couples filing jointly that do not itemize would receive a new $1,000 deduction for property taxes.

Under the new legislation, low and middle-income first-time buyers purchasing a primary residence will be eligible for a federal tax credit of $7,500, or 10 percent of the purchase price of a home, which ever is smaller. There is a catch. Buyers will have to pay back the credit over the next 15 years in equal payments on federal taxes.

- Granting $4 billion to states to buy and rehab foreclosed homes. With many of the Chicago foreclosures clustered on the South Side and West Side, the rehab money would prevent further neighborhood decay, experts say.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, the total cost to taxpayers for the bail out plan is expected to reach $41.7 billion, including $4.6 billion for first-time home buyers, $5.3 billion for more affordable housing, $729 million for home-loan insurance, and $210 million for counseling for homeowners facing foreclosure.

While apartment industry officials commended Congress on its passage of a housing stimulus package, the National Muti-Housing Council and the National Apartment Association argued for a more balanced housing policy that encourages a vibrant rental market along with a functioning ownership market.

"A wide variety of housing analysts have been warning as far back as 2004 that the nation would likely pay a high price for its 'homeownership at any cost' housing policy," said Jim Arbury, NMHC/NAA senior vice president of government affairs. "Now we are seeing the consequences of that misguided policy."

The Home Front, Don DeBat's weekly real estate column syndicated by DeBat Media Services, unravels the complexities of home buying, mortgage shopping, homeownership, renting, building, renovation and remodeling. For more homebuying information visit his Web site at: www.dondebat.net.

Even President Bush agrees the plan is necessary. Too bad the fix took so long.

Say goodbye to gas guzzlers, hello to public transit

By Marcy Marro
SPECIAL TO SUN-TIMES NEWS GROUP

This summer has been a real challenge for those of us who need to drive to work each day. With soaring gas prices, the cost of driving keeps on going up. While there may not be much relief at the gas pump, these Chicagoland communities offer locations that are close to public transportation, allowing buyers to give their cars a rest and take the train or bus to get to where they need to go.

Strong sales at The Emerson at Village Centre

Norwood Builder's The Emerson at Village Centre, a community of 52 upscale condominiums and duplexes located in downtown Mount Prospect, is enjoying strong sales and recently opened on-site retail shops. Already 60 percent sold, this luxury building is becoming the hub of the vibrant downtown Mount Prospect district.

"The Emerson is proving to be a strong attraction to shoppers in the market for new construction condominiums in a desirable downtown suburban setting — one within walking distance of the train, the library, favorite shops and restaurants," said Bruce Adreani, president of Norwood Builders.

Located within The Shops at The Emerson are Vino 100, a fine wine store; Elements Diet and Fitness; Aqua Nail; and Canta Napoli Pizzeria. Less than a block away, Caribou Coffee, Oberweis Dairy, TCF Bank, Le-Peep Restaurant, European Jewelers; Halo Hair Salon and Unique Cleaners are all located at The Shops of Village Centre.

"The community's convenient proximity is one of The Emerson's best loved features by its residents," Adreani added.

The Emerson is designed in a contemporary prairie-style brick exterior and appealing curvilinear architecture on the top floor. Buyers can select from 23 distinctive floor plans, including one-, one-plus-den, two-, or three-bedroom units, with one to two-and-a-half baths, balcony and/or terrace per plan, and 866 to 1,606 square feet. Four two-story duplex style residences are available in three different floor plans ranging in size from 1,250 to 1,700 square feet, featuring two bedrooms, one-and-a-half to two-and-a-half baths, oversize balcony and/or terrace. Base prices range from $277,900 to $535,900.

The Emerson at Village Centre is located at 100 S. Emerson in Mount Prospect. The sales center is open Noon to 6 p.m. on Monday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Residences at Seven Bridges ideal for first-time renters Gammonley Group's The Condominium Residences at Seven Bridges features 140 luxury condominiums in an attractive 12-story curved green glass and concrete condominiums that is part of the Main Street at Seven Bridges master-planned development. Within walking distance are a number of retailers, a fine jewelry boutique, hair salon and a bank. The Cinemark IMAX theater and Edward Health and Fitness Center are right next door, while the Seven Bridges Ice Arena, Greene Valley Forest Preserve, downtown Naperville, and the Bolingbrook Promenade Mall are all within close proximity.

The Condominium Residences at Seven Bridges in Woodridge offers more for less in terms of renting versus owning. While renters may prefer to not being tied to a long-term mortgage, the perks of owning your own residence greatly outnumber the advantages of renting, according to Deborah Chiet, director of sales and marketing for The Gammonley Group, based in La Grange.

Buyers can choose from seven different one-, one-plus-den, two-, two-plus-den or three-bedroom designs, with some available for immediate to 60-day delivery. There are also two penthome units available. Every home includes an indoor parking space; a 6-foot by 12-foot balcony; storage units; and a kitchen with granite countertops, GE stainless steel appliances, a washer and dryer. Floor plans range in size from 1,018 to 1,759 square feet and are base priced from $276,575 to $507,997.

"We're adjacent to a number of preferred retailers and a scenic 18-hole championship public golf course," Chiet said. "Our community lives like a town within a town and provides a lifestyle of upscale convenience. Virtually everything you desire is either located on site or within walking distance or a short drive of the property. Our building features an elegant lobby staffed by a 24-hour doorperson, a swimming pool that faces the golf course, his and her changing rooms, bike storage, and a third-floor rooftop terrace with an adjacent events room. What's more, homeowners enjoy underground parking, which is a real plus in inclement weather — unlike renters who typically have to park outside or in an open garage."

Located at 6420 Double Eagle Dr., The Condominium Residences at Seven Bridges sales office and models are open Monday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from noon to 5 p.m. on Thursday and Sunday, and closed on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Live close to Metra at The Crossings at Morton Grove

The Crossings at Morton Grove, an enclave of 65 charming rowhomes within an established neighborhood offers buyers a chance to be near the Metra for easy access to downtown and O'Hare. Priced from the mid-$300s, The Crossings is attracting buyers of all ages that want a low-maintenance lifestyle.

Morton Grove was chosen as one of the ten best towns for families by Family Circle magazine because it combines big-city opportunities with suburban charm in a location that offers an ideal blend of affordable housing, good jobs, top-rate schools and wide-open spaces.

Designed to seamlessly meld into Morton Grove's historical urban environment, each of the nine buildings will have an individual look since buyers can choose their own exterior elevations.

Toll Brothers is currently offering four Quick Delivery homes that are available within 30 or 60 days. Available floor plans include a Sedgwick, two Oaktons and a Henning, priced from $339,975 to $439,975.

Buyers have a choice of four floor plans ranging in size from 1,450 to 2,050 square feet, with two or three bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, full basements and two-car garages. Some homes have options for a third bedroom. All homes are on three levels and include living room/dining room combinations, kitchens with breakfast areas, street-level family rooms and more.

In addition to being within walking distance of the Metra, The Crossings at Morton Grove also provides easy access to Chicago via the Edens Expressway. Fine restaurants, entertainment venues and great shopping are all within walking distance.

The Crossings at Morton Grove is located at 6337 Hennings Court in Morton Grove. The sales center is open Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call (847) 581-0888 or visit www.thecrossingsatmortongrove.com for more information.

The Crossings at Morton Grove features red brick buildings adorned with limestone accents, wrought iron detail and individual arched brick entries, all combine to create curb appeal.

The 2009 Kia Borrego is the one of several large-vehicle launches on the horizon for 2009. Also on the agenda we have vehicles like the Hummer H3T, the Dodge Ram and the Ford F-150. I don't know what you're thinking, but the question on my mind is: What are they thinking?

Easier asked than answered, I suppose. But part of the answer is the planning. Five years ago when these vehicles were just ink blots on a sketchpad, the national average for gasoline was in the $1.75 per gallon range. Who could have imaged that prices at the pump would more than double by the time these gas-hungry vehicles became a reality?

So, given the current economic climate, it was with a fair share of skepticism that I attended the Kia Borrego press preview. Luckily, this seven-passenger midsize SUV has a great story to tell.

So, we'll jump right in with the most pressing issue: fuel economy.

The Borrego isn't a miracle SUV that will get city and highway economy topping 30 miles per gallon. But it pretty much beats Kia's key competitors in the midsize SUV segment, namely the Ford Explorer, Nissan Pathfinder, Jeep Grand Cherokee, Honda Pilot and Toyota 4Runner.

The Borrego offers two engine options and two drivetrains. On one end of the scale, we have the two-wheel drive V-6 that gets 17 miles per gallon in the city and 21 on the highway. On the other end, there's the four-wheel drive V-8 that gets 15/20.

While V-6 mileage numbers overlap with its competitors, the V-8 Borrego blows the competition out of the water. The 2WD Borrego with the V-8 gets city/highway mileage of 15/22. Compare that to the Grand Cherokee (13/19), the 4Runner (15/19), the Explorer (13/20) and the Pathfinder (13/18). The Pilot doesn't currently offer a V-8 model.

In this rough climate, higher mileage estimates are a huge selling point in a segment that has plummeting sales numbers.

The best value, the best fuel economy, the best equipment, the best overall package. That's the argument Kia makes for the Borrego.

Tim Chaney, director of marketing, said that he thinks the content and quality of the Borrego will offset the SUV concerns.

Although I remain skeptical, after spending some quality time in the vehicle I have to say that Chaney just might be right. I was stunned by the number of "luxury" amenities that are standard on the base Kia Borrego.

While the LED turn signals on the side mirrors, integrated towing hitch, third row and three-row side-curtain airbags are nice additions to the standard list, there are three other standard items that are particularly surprising: rear parking sensors, hill start assist control and downhill brake control.

The Borrego, in addition to being a value proposition, is a proving ground of Kia firsts. In an effort to move its way up the food chain, Kia is now offering features like navigation, a rear backup camera, smart key access and Bluetooth connectivity. This is also the first time Kia is offering a V-8 engine in one of its vehicles.

The up-level 4.6-liter V-8 is the same Tau engine offered in the new Hyundai Genesis; it delivers 337 horsepower and 323 pounds to feet of torque at 3,500 rpm. With this engine, the towing capacity is a class-leading 7,500 pounds.

The base engine is a 3.8-liter V-6 engine that delivers 276 horsepower and 267 pounds to feet of torque. This model can tow up to 5,000 pounds and comes equipped with a five-speed automatic transmission. The V-8 is mated to a six-speed automatic transmission, which happens to be the same six-speed in the BMW X5.

I had the opportunity to drive both the V-6 and the V-8 models during the preview. My first time in the driver's seat was a brief stint on the highway behind the wheel of the V-6. The vehicle was comfortable and quiet. Road noise was minimal and cruising speeds were easily achieved. I did notice a little sluggishness during hard acceleration, but it was nothing out of the ordinary for a V-6 engine and it wasn't off-putting.

The V-8 model, however, was more responsive during aggressive acceleration and it was easier to pass and merge with highway traffic.

I spent an equal amount of time in the driver's seat and the front passenger seat, and I found both positions to be comfortable. For a larger vehicle, the Borrego's controls and gauges were easy to see and reach. I like the looks and layout of the interior. The brushed silver trim is an elegant touch, and the leather seats included with the convenience package ($1,200) were firm yet supportive.

The standard third-row seat is surprisingly roomy if not entirely comfortable. Entry into the third-row is relatively easy with a quick slide of the second-row seat. However, settling into the seat was a little like sitting on the floor. With my feet planted flat on the floor, my backs of my knees were raised off the seat.

The exterior of the Borrego has a familiar shape, but the bold blocky headlights and angular lines help set it apart. While the exterior isn't stunningly original, it is attractive in its own right. Inside and out, I think the Borrego is a nice vehicle that has the potential to beat the pants off its competitors in terms of amenities and fuel economy.

The one thing that's going to hurt the Borrego is the pricing. It's pretty well stocked at $26,995, but Kia is still building brand equity in the United States. So, even with all the extra standard features, I think a base price of $27,000 going to be a hard sell.

The Borrego is just now hitting dealers and is currently available as base LX ($26,995) and up-level EX ($28,745) models. Later this fall, a top-of-the-line Limited model will be available.

If you are in the market for a midsize SUV, the new Kia Borrego should top your list of vehicles to test drive. It handles well and offers standard features that cost extra on other vehicles in this segment.

Automakers could access federal loans to modernize their assembly plants

WASHINGTON – Automakers could receive up to $6 billion in direct loans to modernize their assembly plants to build gas-electric hybrids and advanced vehicles under an agreement reached last week by Senate budget leaders.

An additional $300 million would help research and develop advanced batteries critical to plug-in hybrid vehicles, said Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich., who has sought the funding.

Stabenow said the provisions would be included in an economic stimulus package expected to be considered in September. Michigan lawmakers have sought the federal aid as General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler LLC have announced reductions in salaried workers and plant closures amid a difficult economic period.

Credit agencies have maintained a negative outlook for automakers, making it more difficult for the companies to borrow money. Domestic automakers have outlined plans to revamp their factories to build more fuel-efficient vehicles instead of large trucks and sport utility vehicles.

"This is about supporting our industries to retool in Michigan," Stabenow said.

The supplemental spending plan would include $1.5 billion for energy efficiency and renewable energy programs and a large portion of the money would be directed toward manufacturing.

Under the agreement, $900 million would be set aside in case of a loan default to provide up to $6 billion in low-interest loans for the industry. Officials said the loans could be used to modernize all domestic plants, but older plants would receive priority.

The $300 million funding for advanced battery technology would attempt to address long-term, cost-effective storage systems to help bring plug-in hybrids or plug-in electric vehicles to market.

GM is developing an extended-range plug-in electric vehicle called the Chevrolet Volt, which it hopes to bring to market in 2010. Toyota Motor Corp. says it will bring out a plug-in hybrid with lithium-ion batteries by 2010 that it will target toward leasing customers.

Ford has a demonstration fleet of 20 plug-ins through a partnership with Southern California Edison. The companies are studying ways to accelerate mass production of the hybrids.

"It's very encouraging to hear of the support and partnership of government with the U.S. manufacturing industry," said Ford spokesman Mike Moran.

Kotowski opposes legislative raises

This is no time for a legislative pay raise.

Too many Illinois families are facing financial hardships where one person has a job, but there isn't enough income to pay for basic expenses like the mortgage or rent, utilities, gas to get to work or health care.

Private sector wages have declined almost 4 percent over the last year alone and as many as three in every 10 workers can't save a dime for retirement.

In the midst of these difficulties, we in the public sector have a special responsibility to manage state government efficiently and effectively, while doing all we can to improve the quality of life for the people of this state.

That is why I opposed the legislative pay raise from the beginning, cosponsored a resolution (along with state Sen. Susan Garrett) to stop it and donated a portion of my salary for an educational scholarship.

Establishing and maintaining public faith in state government requires that we in Springfield hold ourselves to a higher standard of accountability.

That means leading by example and demonstrating to the people of my district and beyond that I understand the plight of working families and small businesses.

I will continue to stand up and oppose the pay raise as long as Illinoisans are struggling and the services they need are being cut.

Dan Kotowski
State Senator, 33rd District

Taming summer's dog days

Today's media bulge with How-To's. About everything. From baking to grilling, from good martinis to good marriages, from finding a job to finding yourself. But not one of these gurus has ever come up with a 12-step program for taming the dog days of summer...!

Make no mistake, they'll be here soon. The tender greens of June, the Fourth of July and the All-Star Game are all behind us. That means the languid, yellowing days of August loom. What to do?

There may not be 12 steps, but at least five come to mind. A funny thing, too, for each of them has to do with watching those giggling, summertime kids out there (although preferably someone else's, so you can watch without being responsible):

■ Reach for each new day like a one-of-a-kind pinata. Don't even think of marking it on a calendar or in your BlackBerry. With summertime kids there are no calendars, the BlackBerry was never invented and clocks all fail to tick.

■ As your pinata opens, notice the flurry of butterflies suddenly yours for the day. Sights, sounds, smells just waiting for you right up ahead. Not to hold or to squeeze, mind you, but to cup in your hand for just as long as each one lets you.

■ Then while each one flutters there, notice the delicate promise of its many colors, tremble just a little with the anticipation of its many possibilities. As every summertime kid knows, right now all the universe is within your reach.

"But," you interrupt, "there's no time for enjoying butterflies when you gotta earn a living!" And of course that's true if what you think of are paychecks and bills while fat summer moons play hide-and-seek with the clouds. Or when you slip your hand into the one waiting next to you. Or when you watch your first-born child graduate.

Chances are, though, you don't then.... so why now?

■ The best part of any pinata is not only what bursts open, but especially what you can share with those who count in your life. Just as a single hand can't clap, a single heart can't harmonize.

■ One more step in taming the coming dog days of summer. It's what we all knew intuitively when we were summertime kids. That some someone was somehow making this daily pinata possible. And that this someone somehow was responsible for every new morning of pinatas. So — unless your adulthood has totally anesthetized your childhood — live this day as the cosmic gift that it is.

Five steps for taming the dog days of summer! For anyone, that is. still young enough not to have grown too old.

French students deserved a choice too

Am I the only Park Ridge parent to be appalled at the School Board's impulsive and short-sighted decision to drop French from District 64's elementary schools? Why did a small group of strident parents wearing "Adios to French" buttons have their way? Why did the rest of us parents have no say?

Is it not in keeping with every principle of fairness and decency to have EVERY parent of a child in the program vote on whether to drop it?

Who speaks for the children who have already begun French? Why put a stop to this group of children's progress in French? What was the reasoning behind abruptly wiping out the French program rather than phasing it out?

Why must the parents of children who have been studying French now be penalized with the costs and inconvenience of after-school programs simply to have their children continue with French?

Whatever happened to choice?

What makes offering Spanish in schools irreconcilable with offering French?

SCHOOLS DIGEST

District 64

The Elementary Learning Foundation of Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 announced the recipients of education grants for the coming school year at the May 27 Board of Education meeting.

Fifteen projects were selected to share $42,014 of funding, ranging from $300 for a reading partner program to $11,000 for a weather-tracking station.

Proceeds of the "Oceans 64" casino night fund-raiser in January helped finance the current grant cycle.

The new projects enhance a wide cross section of the District 64 educational program.

Elementary students will learn about blood flow and the functioning of the human heart through the "Heart Adventure" obstacle course. Middle-school students will learn CPR with self-directed training kits.

Math and logic skills will be reinforced for intermediate-grade students in the district-wide "Math Mania" event, while young artists will be featured at a new community exhibit at a local restaurant.

A Food Network-style cooking program by chef Dave Esau will help Field School students make better nutritional choices.

The district's environmental initiative will get a boost at Lincoln Middle School with a student-run vermin-composting system that uses worms and other decomposer organisms to process organic waste from students' lunches.

To help literacy Roosevelt students will use the "Fluency Farm" interactive tool to boost reading skills. Jefferson students will visit a real "Story Bus" to make literature come alive through hands-on experiences.

Students at Washington and Franklin schools will monitor their learning through the "Study Island" computer diagnostic program.

Emerson Middle School students will partner with community "book buddies" to read a book simultaneously and journal via e-mail.

Roosevelt and Field schools won grants for document cameras, which are more advanced versions of overhead projectors that allow teachers to share learning examples immediately with their classrooms. Washington School also received funding for students to produce digital photo books.

All elementary-school teachers have a chance to attend the "On the Write Track" conference to learn new techniques to improve student writing skills.

Pith prized in 6-word memoirs

By TONY BERTUCA
tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

A literary form has finally arrived for amateur autobiographers who are pressed for time — really pressed.

On July 30, Niles Public Library hosted a seminar on six-word memoirs where anyone who had ever sought to sum up their life in a single noun or verb could rejoice in five extra words.

"It's just fun," said Dodie Frisbie, an outreach librarian running the seminar. "It's easy; anyone can do it, and it changes by the minute."

Frisbie offered her own: "I clean books while nobody's looking."

The short, short story — or flash fiction, as it is sometimes called — has a rich literary tradition.

Legend has it that Ernest Hemingway was challenged by his colleagues to create a complete story in only six words. It is assumed they paid up after he penned, "For sale: baby shoes, never worn."

The minuscule work was praised because it communicated so much with so little.

Six-word storytelling experienced a resurgence recently when Larry Smith and Rachel Fershleise, editors from Smith Magazine, an online literary publication, compiled the book, "Not Quite What I was Planning," showcasing six-word memoirs from authors both "famous and obscure."

A well-known entry comes from celebrity chef Mario Batali: "Brought it to a boil, often."

Frisbie, who planned the seminar, offered a few tips to would-be memoir writers.

"It's just a slice of life so don't think too much," she said.

Other Niles Library employees offered their own six-word memoirs, including:

■ "The imagines me lives in Ireland," by Barb Kruser, adult fiction and AV supervisor.

■ "Each day, one of a kind," by Linda Weiss, library director.

■ "Traveled internationally, found treasure in Niles," by Sue Wilsey, spokeswoman.

Free childseat fittings Saturday

BY IRV LEAVITT
ileavitt@pioneerlocal.com

You may be able to massage a spreadsheet, build a treehouse or do your own taxes, but if you're like 80 percent of Americans, you can't install your kid's car safety seat right.

And in case of an accident, a properly fitted seat could mean the difference between a few bruises and a serious injury.

"We know people's intentions are good," National Highway Transportation Safety Administration spokeswoman Elly Martin said. "But it's surprisingly complicated."

And increasingly, it's harder to get help fitting the seats properly. Because of staffing issues, many local police departments no longer hold regular child safety seat events where parents can have their seats refitted by trained technicians.

That's why the Illinois Tollway and Illinois State Police District 15 ramped up their drop-in events to fill the breach. They lacked a location around the north and northwest suburbs, however, so Pioneer Press recently offered its Glenview headquarters, 3701 West Lake Ave., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Kohl's Children's Museum will provide a supervised kids' craft area. Starbucks is handling the refreshments, and businesses including Wilmette's Bobtail Ice Cream are passing out coupons. Everything is free — including a Pioneer newspaper, if you want one.

The Glenview Police Department will provide traffic control.

State Police Sgt. Jim Jenkner, who manages the events, said he's found a variety of mistakes parents make, ranging from not heeding seat and car manufacturers' warnings to installing the seats too loosely.

Sometimes, the odds are against parents.

"In some Pontiacs, for instance, the seat is sloped down at such an angle that the base of the child seat won't lay flat no matter how you push on it," he said.

Some parents stuff towels under the seats, but that loosens too easily. Technicians find the best solution is properly cut and fitted "pool noodles," the tubes kids use to float in the water.

But don't try that at home. At least five certified technicians will be able to do it for you at Pioneer Press Saturday.

For more about the Tollway initiative, check www.illinoistollway.com.

To learn more about the laws governing child seats, see the Secretary of State's Web site at cyberdriveillinois.com.

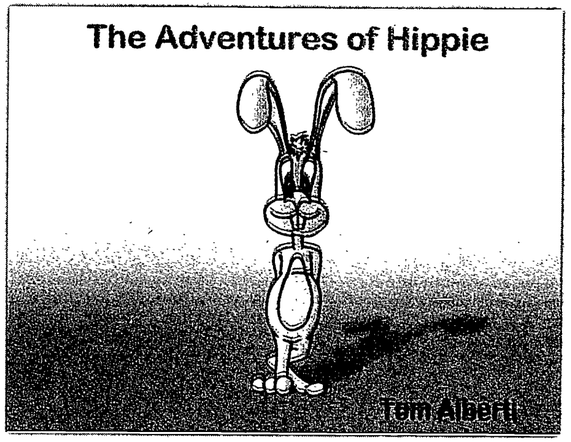
Bunny's tale a lesson for kids



By MYRNA PETLICKI
Contributor

Tom Alberti of Des Plaines has always enjoyed telling stories to children.

Tom Alberti made up stories for the enjoyment of his son and daughter when they were young. At least, that was the plan. The Des Plaines resident laughingly revealed, "My daughter would listen. My son walked away after the first sentence. He said, 'It was punishment.'"

Alberti's "kids" are now 28 and 29, but Alberti hasn't abandoned his love for creating children's stories. After all, he has a new audience of three grandchildren, and anyone else who likes a silly tale with a serious moral.

Alberti is widening his sphere of influence with The Adventures of Hippie (AuthorHouse, 2008, $13.99, available at www.amazon.com). The softcover, rhyming, book is illustrated by the author's sister-in-law, Josephine Alberti, with a cover design by Alberti's son-in-law, David Koppe. "I made it a family project," Alberti said.

Bad bunny

It's a charming story of the travels and travails of a little bunny that disobeys his mother, and learns the consequences. The meter isn't perfect and the text-to-illustration ratio is off for a picture book, but the story is engaging and the illustrations are fun.

Alberti revealed that The Adventures of Hippie started out as a story that he wrote in 2001. "Then, gradually I put it in the form of poetry," he said.

"Hippie wanted to go out and play with the other bunnies and his mother wouldn't let him," Alberti related. "While his mother was on the phone, he snuck out." But once outside, he discovered that the other bunnies didn't want to play with him.

"He meets up with a frog who no one wants to play with either," Alberti continued. "So the frog and him go on an adventure." It's a pretty scary experience, involving a man with an axe, a vicious dog and a fall down a well. But everything turns out okay at the end, and Hippie learns a lesson. Next time, he will wait until his mother is finished with her work and let her accompany him outside.

Inspired by nature

The story was inspired by a real bunny that became trapped in a window well by Alberti's house. "Then my imagination ran away with me," he said.

Illustrator Josephine Alberti of Gurnee studied art with the late Estelle Fedelle for around 40 years, as well as with the late Charles Vickery. She has had work in juried shows and has won awards for creations in oil, watercolors and pastels.

Josephine admitted that she didn't read the book before she created the colorful, playful illustrations using craypas. "I did them so quickly," she said. "I never expected them to go into print. Tom told me what he needed."

Josephine's bunnies move like humans and have distinctly people-like expressions on their faces, which makes them particularly endearing. The frog pops up in most of the pictures; when Hippie is crying at the bottom of the well, we see two green eyes shedding sympathy tears.

Writing therapy

Alberti, who retired in 2005 from his job as an X-ray technician with the state of Illinois, has always enjoyed writing children's stories. He took a few writing courses when he was in school and has had some stories published. "In the mid-1970s, I wrote an article on finding a job for the handicapped," said Alberti, who has cerebral palsy.

In 2005, Tom Alberti's wife, to whom the book is dedicated, contracted bone cancer. "She was sick, and during the night I went back to the book," Alberti said. "In 2006, she passed away."

Alberti, his voice choked with emotion, added, "I used (the book) as a form of therapy."

Currently, Alberti is writing short stories and outlining a book. "It's about a girl who ran away at 13," he revealed. We're guessing she is going to have some exciting adventures — but be glad to make it home again.

Kids' extravaganza Wiggles into Rosemont

BY MYRNA PETLICKI
Contributor

The Wiggles live show includes comedy, music and acrobatics.

Anthony Field is looking forward to eating multicultural food and hearing wonderful music while he is in Chicago. But Field is most excited about entertaining thousands of preschool fans as Blue of The Wiggles. The wildly successful Australian children's band, which has a TV series, presents, "Pop Go The Wiggles Live!" 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 9 and Sunday, Aug. 10, at Allstate Arena, 6920 N. Mannheim Road, Rosemont. Tickets are $18-$38.

"It's the best job in the world," Field declared. "With it, is some responsibility because you're in people's living rooms quite a lot." It helps that Field and two other members of the 17-year-old band studied child development in college.

"We always try to do good, positive messages," Field said. He added, "Our shows, in the last two years, have really become big production numbers with lots of acrobats and circus performers. We have all the songs that the kids know and new songs as well, and lots of fun skits. It's a really good time." Favorite friends will be there, including Captain Feathersword, Dorothy the Dinosaur and Wags the Dog.

For details, call (312) 559-1212 or see www.ticketmaster.com.

Series disappears

It seems appropriate that the Skokie Park District is ending its Magical Merry Go Round weekly series of children's concerts for this summer with a magic performance. Magician Gray Kantor will captivate all ages with his amazing feats at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 13, at Schack Park, Coyle and Laramie.

For details, call (847) 674-1500.

Charmed, I'm sure

Life as a cartoon princess isn't what you might expect. Sure, you may be loved by a handsome prince, but it's possible that his cruel stepmother will banish you to New York, where you will turn into a live person. You'll see that happen to Amy Adams' character in "Enchanted," from 2-4 p.m. or 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Park Ridge Public Library, 20 S. Prospect Ave.

For details, call (847) 825-3123.

Triple treat

Everybody's favorite aardvark has three adventures in "Arthur Goes to Hollywood," 11-11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Prospect Heights Public Library, 12 N. Elm St. You'll watch the beloved star of Marc Brown's books and TV show, and his friends, in the Morgan Youth Services Activity Room.

For details, call (847) 259-3500.

Read their hips

Your family can take a stay-cation in Hawaii for a couple of hours during "Wilmette Aloha Night" with the Barefoot Hawaiians, 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, at Starlight Theatre, Wallace Bowl, Gillson Park, Lake Ave. and the Lake, Wilmette. This is the 31th year that the company has performed this concert. Sit on the rock stairs of the bowl or bring lawn chairs for closer viewing.

For details, call (847) 256-9787.

MUSIC

Skokie piano teacher Rick Cinquemani with 10-year-old student Gabe De Sagun of Naperville.

Tenacity is the key to playing piano

By JACK BESS
Contributor

For Skokie piano teacher Rick Cinquemani, it all began at a very early age with a handshake agreement with his mother.

On Friday nights at their Milwaukee home, family members would get their musical instruments and gather around the battered old piano that his father had repaired and taught himself to play. The youngest of the household, Cinquemani — whose Italian surname means "five hands" — couldn't play anything. But he wanted to get at that keyboard.

So when Cinquemani was 6, his mother offered a deal: He could start lessons, but once he began, he couldn't quit until eighth-grade graduation.

He recalled, "A couple months into it (piano lessons), I'm like, 'OK, I'm done' and I remember my mom shaking her head and saying, 'Remember that day we had that big agreement?'"

As Cinquemani started to realize, piano playing touches on a number of themes, including a desire to make music, the necessary drudgery of practice, parental involvement, and the commitment to oneself and to others. This hard-won knowledge informs his work today as teacher and owner of Five Hands Piano Studio, 5200 W. Mulford, Skokie.

He bought the studio about a decade ago, after earning a degree in music theory and composition from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and a stint playing keyboard in Chicago, beginning in 1991, with Uncle John's Band, a Grateful Dead cover band.

Serial piano teachers

But before all of that, he drifted in and out of piano lessons, taking instruction from as many as 10 teachers. Cinquemani wasn't clicking with his instructors. He preferred improvising on a piece instead of following the sheet music and though he might block out four hours to use the piano practice room at school, the time was not used efficiently, he said.

"I didn't realize," he said with a laugh, "that talking to the girl in the next room didn't count as practice."

So it was particularly galling when, despite Cinquemani's talent for improvisation, people took more notice of another young musician, he said.

"A guy I knew took piano for two years and everyone was raving about what a bright guy he was," he said. "In two years, he was playing rings around me. But I was not disciplined. I didn't have the knowledge of skills and chords that this other kid had."

Finally, he took lessons from a classically trained pianist, who challenged him to document how he was using his practice time. That began a process of self-examination and scrutiny of his practice habits that has served him well.

Those "life lessons" form the foundation of his teaching philosophy and his advice to parents who are shopping around for piano lessons for their children.

Sound advice

Cinquemani offers the following tips:

■ Find a teacher who uses a well-known piano curriculum, like Faber & Faber, that stresses music theory and the building blocks of music, such as scales and chords. Learning this material is like mastering basic grammar in order to write a sentence, he said.

■ Look for a "dedicated learning environment" such as a studio. Lessons given in the home are open to numerous distractions.

■ Make sure the teacher offers a variety of repertoire. Kids don't easily relate to classical pieces, but this material is key to learning music theory, he said. You don't want a teacher who will teach only pop songs or whatever the student wants to learn, he added.

■ Look for classes that include ear training (recognizing differences in pitch and rhythm) and sight reading (being able to read music at first glance).

■ Visit the teacher's studio and talk with other parents and students. You will also have the chance to observe how well the teacher and students get along during lessons.

■ Check if the teacher holds occasional recitals and group classes. Watching other children play can be a good motivator for kids, Cinquemani said.

■ Check the teacher's credentials, education, membership in professional associations, and so on.

■ Be committed to your child's piano lessons. Cinquemani said parents will take the unrealistic attitude of "They can take lessons as long as they feel like it." He added, "I thank my mom, as she told me I would, that she made me stay with it, even though at the time you couldn't have told me that I'd ever keep doing it."

BRUCE INGRAM
FILM CRITIC

Pineapple Express

Imagine Cheech and Chong wandering, completely blitzed, into a hyperbolic action movie directed by John Woo or Michael Bay in his "Bad Boys" phase, and you'll have a pretty good idea of how "Pineapple Express" is going to play out.

What you might not get, unless you've already formed an idea of what to expect of a typical film from the Judd Apatow comedy factory ("The 40 Year Old Virgin," "Knocked Up," "Forgetting Sarah Marshall"), is that "Pineapple" is smarter and funnier than you'd have any right to hope from anyone else making a similar sort of movie. It's also a lot more extreme when it comes to capitalizing on the exploitable elements within its genre — in this case swapping raunchy sex for over-the-top and sometimes grisly violence.

In other words, think twice about watching this movie if you're not comfortable with seeing someone's foot blown off by a shotgun.

"Pineapple Express" was written by Seth Rogen and Evan Goldberg, who also wrote the Apatow-produced teen sex comedy rave-up "Superbad," and it has the same sort of basic structure. Two guys go through a grueling odyssey that tests their friendship. Just substitute two randy boys trying to buy booze and score with their high school dream girls for a couple of stoners trying to survive when a murderous drug lord decides to waste them.

Rogen, who was featured in "Superbad" and also starred in "Knocked Up," plays Dale, a borderline-obnoxious slacker who lives for weed, dreams of being a talk-radio host and dates a barely legal high school girl. Dale's the kind of guy who really enjoys his job as a process server. Enough said. His partner in misadventure is Saul (James Franco; much better used here than in the "Spiderman" movies), Dale's emotionally fragile pot dealer, who dreams of someday designing septic tanks for children's playgrounds. No kidding.

Dale barely acknowledges Saul's overtures of friendship, even when Saul offers him a sample of the rare, ultra-potent Pineapple Express — a strain of marijuana so splendiferous that Saul says it's a shame to smoke it: "It's like killing a unicorn."

Fleeing under the influence: James Franco and Seth Rogen in "Pineapple Express."

The killer chronic costs them, though, when Dale drops a roach at the site where he happens to witness a murder by a drug kingpin with severe anger issues (Gary Cole) — who traces it back to Saul.

Soon they're both on the run with a corrupt policewoman (Rosie Perez) and a couple of bickering hitmen on their trail and a backpack full of Pineapple Express to keep them sharp and focused.

It's a definite plus that "Pineapple" was directed by indie darling David Gordon Green ("Snow Angels"), who brings out surprising textures in the film's characters and its overall look. But the key thing about this movie is that it's often extremely funny, and not just in the way you might anticipate from a doper comedy. There's plenty of scrambled stoner logic and there are more than a few post-movie quotables ("The monkey's out of the bottle, man"), but the real humor comes from the general weirdness of Rogen and Goldberg's take on things and from the basic idea of a couple of the most ill-equipped guys imaginable trying to deal with insane car chases and epic gun battles. On that level, Rogen and Franco get a major comedic assist from Danny McBride of "The Foot Fist Way" as a backstabbing drug middleman with a high tolerance for bullets.

Best of all, like all the Apatow comedies, "Pineapple Express" is essentially good-natured, despite all the mayhem.

That's another way of saying that the righteous prevail — or, at least, the righteously stoned.

OPENING THIS WEEK

BOTTLE SHOCK

A California winery owner (Bill Pullman) throws the wine industry into an uproar when his chardonnay competes in world-championship tastings with the most exalted French vineyards. (110 min.) Rated PG-13 for brief strong language, some sexual content and a scene of drug use.

BOY A

After committing a terrible crime as a boy, a young man (Andrew Garfield) tries to reenter society. (100 min.) Rated R for language, sexuality, some disturbing content and brief drug use.

HELL RIDE

Just so we're clear: If you're not the sort of person who has a soft spot for hard-core exploitation movies, stay far away from this sick puppy. On the other hand, if you're in the mood for an insanely violent, outrageously oversexed throwback to the trashy biker movies of the 1960s, "Hell Ride" should do quite nicely. Larry Bishop (who no doubt appalled his father Joey Bishop, a member in good standing of Sinatra's Rat Pack, by appearing in said biker extravaganzas) wrote, directed and stars as the bug-eyed, Satan-bearded Pistolero, leader of The Victors – a gang of almost-good-guy outlaw bikers. The plot of "Hell Ride" is fairly complex, involving revenge for a long-ago murder, a lock box full of stolen drug money, and grudging motivation by true love, honor, loyalty and brotherhood, but it essentially boils down to a bloody territorial battle between the Victors and the truly evil 666ers, led by the homicidal maniac Billy Wings (Vinnie Jones) and the enigmatic Deuce (David Carradine, in what amounts to a cameo role). All of it taking place in a desert landscape where there's no evidence of anyone else on earth but the Sixers and the Victors and the women who wriggle for them and nothing to get in the way of their ultra-macho grudge match. Maybe Pistolero says it best, while lying in the desert with an arrow sticking out of his belly: "It's a nihilist dream." Executive-produced by Quentin Tarantino, naturally. (BI) Rated R for strong violence, sexual content including graphic nudity and dialogue.

MAN ON WIRE

Phillipe Petit's 1974 high-wire walk between the twin towers of the World Trade Center is the subject of this documentary. Winner of the Audience Award at the Sundance Film Festival. (90 min.) Rated PG-13 for some sexuality and nudity, and drug references.

Two stoners (Seth Rogen, James Franco) run from a killer drug dealer in this action comedy. Reviewed in this section. (BI) (111 min.) Rated R for pervasive language, drug use, sexual references and violence.

THE SISTERHOOD OF THE TRAVELING PANTS 2

Three years after discovering the magical jeans that fit – and unite – them all, four young women (Amber Tamblyn, Alexis Bledel, America Ferrera, Blake Lively) move on to college. (117 min.) Rated PG-13 for mature material and sensuality.

STILL PLAYING

THE DARK KNIGHT

★★★ 1/2

You can't trust that Joker character. He's a vicious, amoral, psychopathic, murdering maniac and, given half a chance, he'll steal your movie. Jack Nicholson did it in the 1989 "Batman" and Heath Ledger most definitely does it in the generally excellent "Dark Knight," though their approaches to the character couldn't be much more different. Nicholson camped it up, but Ledger took the Joker seriously – and found a way to make the demented character seem uncomfortably, almost disturbingly, real. Writer/director Christopher Nolan ("Memento") returns with star Christian Bale after "Batman Begins" with the Big Bat suffering more angst about his moral ambiguity while cleaning up Gotham City as a dark vigilante. "The Dark Knight" looks fantastic and the adrenaline-pumping action sequences are spectacular, but it's Ledger's powerfully strange performance that makes it a must see. If he doesn't get an Oscar nomination, it'll be a bigger crime than the Joker ever dreamed of. (BI) (152 min.) Rated PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and some menace.

Superman. Drunk, burned out, sleeping off a hangover on a park bench. Really annoyed by the whole superhero thing. Wishing the world would go away and leave him alone. Not much chance that's going to happen. That's the great high-concept idea at the heart of "Hancock," which starts strong, looks destined for great things, and then disappoints. Badly. If you're looking for a good-time movie, it might not be a complete waste of time to check out this Will Smith action comedy, but savor the fun stuff in the first half. That's all you're going to get. And be warned before taking the kids: The PG-13 rating on this baby should be taken seriously. (BI) (92 min.) Rated PG-13 for some intense sequences of sci-fi action and violence, and language.

I have to admit that I'm one of those grumps who break out in a rash whenever I hear a song by the insistently upbeat '70s supergroup ABBA. Even so, this infectiously fun musical romp, which draws on the hits and the back catalog of the Swede popsters to tell a story of young love, not-so-young love and a big happy wedding on a sun-drenced Greek island resort, managed to win me over. For the most part, Meryl Streep (obviously having a blast), plays a middle-aged former nightclub chanteuse, whose daughter (Amanda Seyfried) invites the three men who might possibly be her father (Pierce Brosnan, Stellan Skarsgard and Colin Firth) to her impending nuptials. (BI) (108 min.) Rated PG-13 for some sex-related comments.

THE MUMMY: TOMB OF THE DRAGON EMPEROR

An American explorer (Brendan Fraser) combats a resurrected Chinese emperor (Jet Li) who wants to take over the world. Rob Cohen ("The Fast and the Furious") directed the latest entry in the action undead franchise. (112 min.) Rated PG-13 for adventure action and violence.

STEP BROTHERS

★★ 1/2

If you want a sophisticated plot and deep character development, rent "Talladega Nights." This one's strictly for laughs. Will Ferrell and John C. Reilly and writer/director Adam McKay reportedly had so much fun and made so much money with "The Ballad of Ricky Bobby" that they decided to get together and do it again. This time, Ferrell and Reilly play a couple of developmentally-stunted 40-year-olds who become step-brothers (and mortal enemies) when their parents get married. There's not a lot going on beneath the rude and raunchy surface in "Step Brothers" – in fact, this premise is so thin I'm not even sure it has a surface – but, until it run out of momentum three-fourths of the way through, it's often ridiculously funny. (BI) Rated R for crude and sexual content, and pervasive language.

SWING VOTE

Politicians meet their worst nightmare: An actual American voter. That's the basic situation in "Swing Vote," the story of an apathetic, uninformed, small-town redneck (Kevin Costner) who becomes The Decider of a tied presidential campaign. Unfortunately, co-writer/director Joshua Michael Stern is less interested in milking it for political satire (though he does get in a few good shots here and there) than whipping up a Capra-esque fable about a common man who becomes the voice of the people. And tugging the heartstrings as good-ol-boy Bud's smart, idealistic, perpetually disappointed fifth grade daughter (Madeline Carroll) realizes that her lazy, hard-drinking dad's big chance to do something that matters will probably result in disappointment on a much larger scale. "Swing Vote" isn't bad by a long shot. It would have been nice, though, if it could have been a little tougher a little more often. We have to make do with just a few memorably scathing moments, like campaign manager Nathan Lane's instruction to his immigration-friendly Democratic candidate (Dennis Hopper) when he gets the idea that Bud is worried about Mexican workers stealing American jobs: "You want to win? Go out there and rip the Statue of Liberty a new one." (BI) Rated PG-13 for language.

A treasure. If you've been wondering when PIXAR's winning streak is going to come to an end, the answer is: Not this time. Oscar-winning writer/director Andrew Stanton, who's had a hand in roughly half of the animation production company's best efforts, most notably "Finding Nemo," has created what amounts to a classic silent comedy (with a few lines of dialogue here and there) for the 21st century. Wall-E is a faithful little trash-compacting robot, still diligently cleaning up planet Earth hundreds of years after its inhabitants, having thoroughly mucked up the place, have abandoned it and headed for the stars. It's a lonely existence until a robot scout named EVE (for Extraterrestrial Vegetation Evaluater) arrives, discovers the little green plant Wall-E keeps in a boot that looks a lot like the one Charlie Chaplin devoured in "The Gold Rush," and heads back to mankind's mothership to report the news – with the love-struck little robot right behind her. "Wall-E" is fast-paced, action-packed and funny (it's sharply satirical at times and some of the sight gags are inspired), but, best of all, it manages to be touching without being mawkishly sentimental. Chaplin, most likely, would be impressed. (BI) (103 min.) Rated G.

THE X-FILES: I WANT TO BELIEVE

FBI agents Fox Mulder and Dana Scully (David Duchovny, Gillian Anderson) return in another stand-alone story updating the enormously popular TV series mixing mystery, sci-fi and unexplained phenomena. Co-written and directed by series creator Chris Carter. (105 min.) Rated PG-13 for violent and disturbing content and thematic material.

Lovers of the Great American Songbook — the classic songs composed by such masters as Gershwin and Berlin — sometimes talk as if the songbook snapped shut once the era of rock 'n' roll began.

But new pages and chapters continue to be written. Whether they find their inspiration in contemporary pop, rock and folk or in the enduring songs of Broadway and Tin Pan Alley, today's tunesmiths build on American musical tradition with an infusion of new spirit.

Both tradition and new spirit will be celebrated at the Johnny Mercer Songwriters Project, a series of events at Northwestern University. Cosponsored by the Johnny Mercer Foundation and Northwestern's American Music Theatre Project, the weeklong series of master classes and three public events includes an Aug. 15 showcase for 14 young songwriters. Among them are Elk Grove native Sabrina Chapadjiev and Lake Bluff resident Will Buck, whose music can be heard on their respective MySpace pages.

Variety works

"I'm open to all different types of music," said Chapadjiev, 30, now a Brooklyn resident. "I think contemporary forms of music are the American songbook. (Rock band) Green Day has as much of an anthem quality as Rodgers and Hammerstein. (Rapper) Mos Def writes great American songs and that's the popular tradition today. If it's accessible, then it's going to be reaching and affecting a lot of people."

Also a playwright and spoken-word artist, Chapadjiev is the daughter of immigrant parents — an Ecuadoran mom and a Bulgarian dad — who met in a class where they were learning to speak English. She began classical piano at age 5 with great encouragement from her mother, who took her to piano competitions throughout her youth.

Gradually, Chapadjiev's musical horizons expanded, thanks to her songwriting sister and to Jerome Swanson, a choir teacher at Elk Grove High School who had students perform such songs as Ellington's "Mood Indigo."

"I was a Towne Crier, which is a wonderful show choir," she said. "Mr. Swanson was phenomenal and a huge inspiration to me as far as just loving songs and loving performing music."

Among Chapadjiev's biggest influences are singer-songwriters Ani DiFranco, Randy Newman and Paul Simon, but she describes herself as "a bit of a chameleon" musically. Her music ranges from a folk tune accompanied by a bass ukulele to a theater piece scored for bassoon, marimba and voice, and she describes her current work as "ragtimey piano songs."

Johnny Mercer

Heather Headley and Andrew Lippa will perform at the Johnny Mercer Celebration Concert Aug. 16 at Northwestern.

Classic influences

In contrast, Will Buck says his music is often described by friends as having an old-fashioned sound, which reflects his early exposure to his parents' record collection. He played Sondheim's "Into the Woods" and Jason Robert Brown's "Songs for a New World" over and over.

"My mom especially is a big musical theater fan," said Buck, 20, who starts his junior year at Northwestern this fall. "It spoke to me in an interesting way and I really came to love it much more than they expected. When I started writing, they were like, 'What are you doing? Where is this coming from?' Not that they disapproved! The fact that I'm writing these show tunes is still a little befuddling to them."

Buck wrote his first song in the summer before his senior year at Lake Forest High School, where he sang in the concert choir and in the chorus for school musicals. At Northwestern, he has contributed songs to the Waa-Mu Show, the annual student revue. Buck looks forward to the Mercer Songwriting Project and the opportunity to present his songs in master classes led by prominent Broadway composers such as Andrew Lippa and Craig Cornelia.

Performing changes

The master classes will be attended by Buck, Chapadjiev, along with Mike Mentzer of Northbrook and 11 other songwriters from around the country. It's valuable seasoning for a young songwriter, Buck said, adding that his Northwestern experience has taught him that performers can have a "transformative" effect on songs.

"When I first started writing lyrics, I was self-conscious about it," Buck said. "Even now, I'll write a lyric and think, 'This is so bad, why am I writing this?' But then you give it to an actor. They do their actorly magic on it and figure out how to play it, and suddenly it all comes together and it works. That's really gratifying."

A PIONEER PRESS SPECIAL SECTION AUGUST 7, 2008

Keep on thinking

It's a time to fly

If you're a high school student applying to college, this article will bestow some good advice unto you.

by Tracy Evans
Special to Pioneer Press

Somewhere out there, a new senior is soaking in those last bittersweet moments of summer before returning to high school. Whether she hopes to follow her dreams near or far, discover herself on a city block or in the middle of a grassy quad, every senior must first endure a challenging journey on the path to selecting their college.

Time to reflect

By the end of junior year, most students have already experienced a full-fledged SAT or ACT. Many have a general idea of what type of school is right for them. Nevertheless, the process has only just begun.

Spring of junior year is really the time to begin the college process, according to Fred Galluzzo, a college advisor who has worked with students at Oak Park River Forest High School for 14 years.

"The reason why we plan our college nights as early as March of junior year is to get families already thinking that whenever they go on the road to vacation or see a relative, they also have the opportunity to visit a school in the area," Galluzzo says.

By weaving college visits and conversations into a future senior's life, the decisions in the next year hopefully will become a little less daunting. Early into senior year, after checkpoint meetings with their counselors, students are expected to finalize all necessary test scores and contact at least two teachers to write application reference letters. Because many teachers require a minimum of a month to contribute a letter, Galluzzo encourages his students to begin thinking about favorite junior year teachers far in advance.

Next, students should reflect on exactly what they hope to get out of their collegiate experience. This process lays the groundwork for their application essays and can also help eliminate applying to too many schools, which is a costly mistake.

Galluzzo suggests no more than nine schools, including four matches as well as some safety and reach options.

"With too many schools, there gets to be a lot of duplication," Galluzzo says. "Students should first focus on the important things, the most prominent aspects that distinguish schools, whether the climate or a football team. Make the application process about those things."

Deadline days

Believe it or not, students are met with application deadlines only halfway through senior year. Early decision deadlines begin around November 1. However, Galluzzo cautions against leaning on these opportunities, especially if the school is not the student's only priority choice. Less than a third of the freshman class at any college is selected through this pool.

The majority of deadlines fall between January 1 and February 15. While college advisors will generally offer to read essays for clarity or answer questions about high school transcripts, students should keep a personal timeline for gathering materials long before the arrival of third semester. Students are responsible for their own applications, particularly because many high school counselors are juggling the concerns of several seniors at any given time.

The big wait

Once applications have been submitted, seniors should spend their third semester enjoying time with friends and the precious memories of being high school leaders, team captains and role models. Most importantly, even for those students who have been accepted early, grades should still be on the radar.

"The only thing you have going for you is that proof on paper," Galluzzo cautions.

He keeps a pile of old letters, with student's names blacked out, from schools that have rescinded their offers mid-summer based on seniors failing to uphold their academic standards. Usually, that's enough to do the trick.

Decisions, decisions

By April, students will begin to see activity in their mailboxes. Once acceptances and rejections roll in, students face perhaps the most difficult decisions yet. While a variety of factors might make an ultimate decision difficult – waitlists, friends, boyfriends, girlfriends or even family influences – Galluzzo breaks it down more simply.

"There are only two things to answer: are you going to be comfortable at that school and is the same school going to help you achieve what you want in the future," Galluzzo says.

He encourages students to consider the decision as an empowering one and to not be bogged down with waitlists. If you want to place your life on hold, he adds, you are selling yourself short.

So, when it comes time to open that envelop and check the box 'yes' for fall enrollment, seniors should be proud of their past accomplishments and look forward to the many more to come.

Maximize the effect of your MBA

by Tracy Evans
Special to Pioneer Press

In today's workforce, many high-level executives consider a graduate degree in business a must. Maximizing the return on your investment requires students to make the most of the resources available.

1. Don't simply rest on the laurels of a top-ten MBA school to help you climb the corporate ladder. Work on developing your personal brand and constantly update your resume throughout your candidacy. At UIC, a course called Improvisational Leadership uses Second City certified instructors to demonstrate how to make an impression in only a few minutes to set you apart from the crowd.

2. Develop your long-term career goals even before applying to business school. By the end of the first semester, most full time MBA candidates are interviewing for internship opportunities. "You have to start your career efforts the second you walk in the door," says Michele Dorvil, assistant dean of the Liautaud MBA Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago. "It's important to specialize within your industry. Finance MBAs looking to work at the Board of Trade look a lot different than financial analysts who plan to join Sara Lee."

3. Conversely, don't be afraid to be open-minded throughout graduate education and seize the opportunity to take classes for a potential career switch or entrepreneurial venture down the road. In addition to new experiences, don't underestimate the value of lectures, workshops and events offered to MBA candidates. Attend a few of each along with your courses each semester.

4. While doing so, remember to build your network. Use business school as an opportunity to interact with other established professionals. Dorvil says the way you forge new relationships should be with an open mind. "You should not be saying 'how can this person get me a job' but rather, you need to put enough information about yourself out there, who you are and what you're seeking, to everyone you know so that when the right opportunity comes about, contacts immediately think of you."

5. Consider studying abroad for a portion of business school, using the unique opportunity to better understand the global culture and forge international business relationships. In today's world, executives are often required to interact with colleagues and clients on a world economic scale.

6. Don't find something you like? Create it. Many business schools draw from their student body to grow as a relevant educational resource. Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern encourages students to propose experimental courses, which can be introduced into the curriculum in as little as two weeks. Some examples that became popular options include media management, global citizenship and biotechnology.

7. Delay your graduate education. The average, Dorvil says, is around five years of experience going into graduate school. The more real world experience you have, the more attractive you are to top business schools and because classroom structure is often based on narratives and case studies, the more you can bring to the table.

I GOT IT AT NLU

"Kids know you're a good teacher because you care about them. I feel if I can get my students to know that I care about them, and connect with them, and be a part of their lives, I can teach them anything."

BID NOTICE

2008/2009 ALLEY PAVING PROGRAM

The City of Park Ridge will accept sealed bids for the 2008/2009 ALLEY PAVING PROGRAM, Section 08-00145-00-RP, in accordance with the plans, specifications and contract documents now available for inspection at the Office of the City Engineer.

The work consists of construction of six (6) public alleys including approximately 4,233 square yards of Portland cement concrete alley pavement, 468 square yards of alley approach pavement, 1,872 feet of 24" concrete storm sewer, 708 feet of 12" PVC storm sewer, 2,530 cubic yards of trench backfill, and all related work.

Plans and specifications for bidding may be obtained at Park Ridge City Hall, 1st Floor, Cashiers' Desk, 505 Butler Place, Park Ridge, Illinois for a non-refundable deposit of $35.00 per set. State IDOT pre-qualification is required prior to receiving the plans and specifications. The City of Park Ridge reserves the right to deny plans and specifications to any contractor for previous unsatisfactory work.

Bids will be accepted at the Office of the Purchasing Agent, 505 Butler Place, Park Ridge, Illinois until 11:00 AM on Tuesday, August 19, 2008, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read.

A bid deposit is required, which must be in the form of a bid bond or certified or cashier's check payable to the City of Park Ridge. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a Contract Bond for the full amount of the contract and a Certificate of Insurance prior to beginning the work. The successful bidder will also be required to pay prevailing wage rates in accordance with state and local laws.

The City of Park Ridge reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

NEW

2008-24Z - 8756 Avers Avenue
A request by Ricardo & Maria Gomez for a variation in order to construct a frame, 18' x 20' detached garage, approximately 6.15 feet away from the principal building rather than the 10-foot minimum as required by Section 118-73 (f) (1) (a) (3) of the Skokie Village Code in an R2 Single-Family district.

2008-25Z - 9323 Kedvale Avenue
A request by Fredrick and Deborah Zimmerman for an exception in order to install an air conditioning condenser unit less than 10 feet away from the south side lot line rather than the 10-foot minimum as required by Section 118-91 (c) (2) of the Skokie Village Code in an R1 Single-Family district.

2008-26Z - 3606 Grove Street
A request by Dov and Laurie Pinchot for a variation in order to continue one off-street parking space rather than provide a second off-street parking space as required when a room addition is constructed that includes a bedroom as required by Sections 118-201(2) and 118-218 (1) of the Skokie Village Code in an R1 Single-Family district.

2008-27Z - 7817 Babb Avenue
A request by Jay and Swati Trivedi for a variation in order to continue one off-street parking space rather than provide a second off-street parking space as required when a room addition is constructed that includes a bedroom as required by Sections 118-201(2) and 118-218 (1) of the Skokie Village Code in an R2 Single-Family district.

BENEFITS

The annual Misericordia Family Festival will be from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 7 at Misericordia's Campus, 6300 N. Ridge Ave., Chicago. The event is for all ages and will include food, live entertainment, children's games and shopping. The main-stage master of ceremonies will be Frank Mathie from WLS-TV. Live entertainment will include Dayna Malow (2008 Country Music Award for Country Artist of the Year recipient), Pirates Over 40 (a Jimmy Buffett tribute band), the Misericordia Heartbreakers dance troupe and the Heartzingers choir. The new international tent will feature music from the Shannon Rovers and the Emerald Society bagpipes, Finbar Fagan Irish music, Music Company (Polish music) and a Mariachi band. Also appearing will be Lou "Mr. Fix It" Manfredini in a Q-and-A session. Other highlights will include children's theater, the Jesse White Tumblers, Frisbee dogs and Rainbow Dogs Pet Therapy, silent and live auctions, bingo, craft booths, children's games and rides. Tickets purchased in advance are $5 per adult and $3 for seniors and children. To order call (773) 273-2766. Tickets bought at the gate are $7 per adult and $4 for seniors and children. Free parking is available at S&C Electric (just east of Ridge). All proceeds will support Misericordia's programs for children and adults with developmental disabilities.

Sister Fest '08 will be held Aug. 9 on the grounds of Maryville Academy, River Road and Central Avenue in Des Plaines. The event will feature Classic Cars from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. along with bingo, crafts, refreshments, children's games and more. Music will be provided from 3 to 10 p.m. by The Class of '68, American English and Rick "Elvis" Saucedo. Suggested donation for a musical trip down memory lane is $5; parking is free. The event will benefit the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth. For more information, call (847) 298-6760, Ext. 137 or see www.csfn.org.

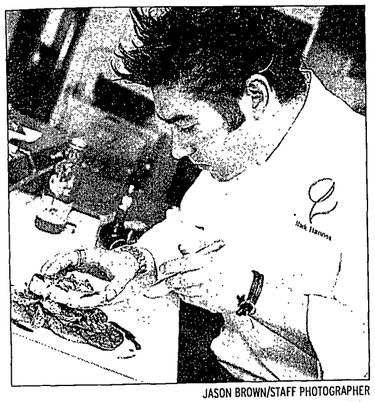
Up on the roof

Quince grows its own greenery for flavor and color accents



JASON BROWN/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Mark Hannon, executive chef at Quince restaurant at The Homestead in Evanston, creates a halibut dish with heirloom tomatoes, olive oil and balsamic vinegar.

Cooking from handy containers off your deck or patio brings the freshest ingredients to summertime dishes.

Chef Jeffrey Sills advances this technique a few steps further — up two flights of fire escape stairs to his rooftop garden atop Quince restaurant at The Homestead in Evanston where three 15- by 3- by 2-foot plywood boxes house assorted flowers, vegetables and the very delicate microgreens.

No seasonal dish leaves the kitchen at Quince without its requisite microgreen garnish. Chef Mark Hannon's Grilled Halibut with Heirloom Tomatoes, Arugula and Aged Balsamic waited patiently on its colorful plate for a just-so baby carrot, celery and radish topping.

"It makes sense, when radish garnishes run $30 a bunch, to grow your own produce," Sills said.

For Sills' cool seasonal desserts, he's concocted two vegetable-based sorbets. His Red Bell Pepper Sorbet uses the fresh raspberries that he says we've inherited from Swedish cuisine, and a Strawberry-Basil Sorbet adds an herb accent. "Basil, related to the mint family, is particularly easy to grow," he said. Quince grows many varieties from seed on the building's rooftop.

Beginning in February and March, seeds germinate under grow lights until they are ready to weather Evanston's nippy spring temperatures. When rooftop ready, young plants are bedded down in a mixture of topsoil and in compost that is "anything biodegradable from the kitchen, excluding fat and meat," Sills explained.

You can prepare these recipes from your own produce source — wherever it might be.

Bright red herb peppers, a cross between a bell and a jalapeño, thrive on the rooftop garden at Quince.

Red Bell Pepper Sorbet

Simple Syrup:
400 g (about 14 oz.) water
400 g (about 14 oz.) granulated sugar
10 red bell peppers
Salt
2 pt. good raspberries

For the simple syrup: In a pot over high flame, bring the water and granulated sugar to a boil until mixture is clear. Cool to room temperature, and then put in the refrigerator until chilled.

For the sorbet: Remove the seeds, pit and stem from the peppers and cut them into large pieces. Juice the pepper pieces in a juicer or purée them in a high speed blender and strain through a fine mesh strainer. You should have about 400 g of pepper juice.

Blend 400 g of the juice with 400 g of simple syrup in a high speed blender and season to taste with salt.

Freeze in an ice cream freezer according to manufacturers instructions. Serve with lots of raspberries.

Strawberry-Basil Sorbet garnished with wild strawberries, from Quince restaurant at The Homestead in Evanston.

Strawberry-Basil Sorbet

Simple Syrup:
400 g (about 14 oz.) water
400 g (about 14 oz.) granulated sugar
400 g (about 14 oz.) fresh strawberries, cores and leaves removed
30 g (about 1 oz.) fresh basil leaves
Salt
Juice from 1 lemon

Combine basil leaves, strawberries and simple syrup in a high speed blender and purée until smooth. Strain through a fine mesh strainer and season with salt and lemon juice. Freeze in an ice cream freezer according to manufacturers instructions.

Grilled Halibut, Heirloom Tomatoes, Arugula, Aged Balsamic

4 (7-oz.) portions of halibut
4 medium heirloom tomatoes
4 heads arugula, cleaned and trimmed
Olive oil
Aged balsamic vinegar
Lemon juice

Remove core from tomatoes and slice into 4 or 5 pieces. Lay the tomatoes onto a baking pan or large plate. Dress with olive and balsamic. Season with salt and pepper. Let marinate for the remainder of the time until you are ready to serve (up to 30 minutes).

Heat the grill up to medium high. Liberally oil the grill and coat the fish with a little bit of oil as well. Season with salt and pepper. Cook fish to your desired temperature.

Lay the tomatoes out on a plate. Dress the arugula with some lemon juice, olive oil, salt and pepper. Place the arugula on top of the tomatoes. Place the fish on top. Drizzle with olive oil and balsamic for garnish.

An On-Site Health Monitoring Program sponsored by Advocate Health Care will be from 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 19. Screenings for cholesterol (LDL, HDL, Triglycerides), glucose, BMI calculations, height, weight, blood pressure and medical flexible spending may be used. Results will be immediately available. A health consultation will follow the screening. A fast for 12 hours is required prior to the test. This program will be held every third Tuesday of the month. The cost is $38. To schedule an appointment call 1-800-323-8622.

A day trip to see the Dancing Horses at Delevan, Wis., will be from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Aug. 24, and features an array of horse breeds that perform alongside trainers with a backdrop of lights and fountains. A buffet lunch is included. Participants also may visit the Baby Animal Barn and the wildlife zoo. The cost is $73 for members; $78, guests. All day trips depart from Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

AARP's Driver Safety Program will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Aug. 25 and Aug. 27. This class helps drivers update their knowledge of age-related changes and Rules of the Road. Upon completion participants' automobile-insurance company could offer a discount. Make checks payable to AARP for $10, due the first day of class.

A White Pines Dinner Theatre Trip to Mount Morris, Ill., will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 24. The trip will begin with leisurely time to walk the beautiful grounds and visit the gift shop. Lunch will be served before the show featuring the fabulous home-cooked buffet. Stay in the same seat and enjoy "Yes, Gentlemen do Prefer Blondes," a new musical retrospect paying tribute to some of the great sirens of song. The cost is $50 for members; $55, guests. All day trips leave from Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

A Starved Rock State Park Tour & Cruise will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Sept. 26. The day will begin with lunch at the lodge for a meal of either roast turkey and dressing or home-style pot roast. A "historic" ride through the park will follow before participants board the "Belle of the Rock," an authentic paddle-wheel boat for an hour cruise. Time to shop is included. The cost is $85 for members; $90, guests. All day trips leave from Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

Income-tax counselor volunteers are needed to assist MaineStreamers and low-income township residents in completing simple income-tax forms. Needed are those who have experience in filling out income-tax forms and who have four hours available per week, February through April. Training will be provided. If interested contact Regina Provenzano, (847) 297-2510, ext. 241.

Maine Township is asking for assistance in locating good, reliable handymen in the area. If you know of someone and would like to submit a name, contact Therese Tully, (847) 297-2510, Ext. 260, and she will forward a form to complete.

Maine Township, in cooperation with the Cook County Sheriff's Office, is collecting used cell phones to be converted for emergency 911 use for seniors. Donate phones at Maine Town Hall.

SENIOR CENTER

The Niles Senior Center offers free membership to Niles residents age 62 and older, and their spouses. Only center members may register for classes or trips, or purchase tickets. Drop by the Niles Senior Center, 999 Civic Center Drive, Niles, or call (847) 588-8420, for an application.

The Laughter Club, facilitated by Om Johari, "Certified Laughter Leader," meets from 10:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Research shows laughter has health and social benefits. Call the center for more information.

The social Scrabble group meets at 10 a.m. every Friday in Room 231, and welcomes participants.

SINGLES

Young at Heart Singles Club (ballroom dancers of all ages) will feature a dance at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 8 at the American Legion Hall, 9757 Pacific Ave., Franklin Park. Members pay $7 for each dance; guests, $9. Attire is semi-dressy/dressy. Call the hotline, (630) 415-3499, for more information; for directions, call (847) 678-7068.

The Single Gourmet will enjoy a revolving dinner party (males rotate tables during dinner) Aug. 16 at Costa's West, 1 S 130 Summit Ave., Oakbrook Terrace. Reception begins at 6:15 p.m., with dinner at 7. Cost is $45. Call (773) 772-3535 for information or reservations.

SUPPORT

National Alliance on Mental Illness will present a "Family to Family," a 12-week course designed for relatives of adults (people age 16 and older) with persistent and severe mental illness. The curriculum balances educational materials and skill training with self-care, emotional support and empowerment. The program will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sept. 6 in River Forest; location details are available on request. Admission is free. For more information call Sandye, (708) 848-7873, or Meg, (630) 715-5176.

Weight No More, a friendly weight-loss support group, welcomes new members. Meetings are from 9:15 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. Fridays at Howard Leisure Center, 6676 Howard St., Niles, on the lower level (elevator accessible). Discussions include weight-loss tips, recipes, contests and helpful ideas to help participants reach goals. Participants are charged $5 a month dues, and small fines for weight gains. The member who lost the most weekly weight receives a prize providing he or she was present at the previous meeting. For information call (847) 679-4229, or stop in for a meeting.

Crohn's & Colitis Foundation support group meets from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. every third Thursday of the month at Advocate Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 Dempster St., Room 1063, Park Ridge. The focus is to assist patients with Crohn's disease or ulcerative colitis, their families, significant others and friends in coping more effectively with the illness. For more information call (847) 827-0404.

Resurrection Medical Center sponsors a variety of free cancer-support groups for both patients and their family members. All support groups are free and meet in the Cancer Conference Room (ground floor, Entrance C). For more in-each event.

A Teen Center Open House will be held from 0:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 16. This is a time for parents and teens to share their ideas, concerns or questions regarding the Teen Center and teen programs in Niles. Teens currently in sixth to 12th grades are welcome to become members of the Teen Center.

Protect your bike from thieves by registering it with the Niles Police Department. The Bike Registration event will be held at the Niles Teen Center from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 16. Every year the Niles Police Department accumulates a number of lost or stolen bikes and is forced to sell them at an auction because their owners cannot be identified. By registering your bike, you are issued a Village of Niles Police Department sticker and the information is entered into a national database allowing the Police Department to reconnect you if it is ever lost or stolen.

Get your friends together (sixth through 12th grades) to watch the Schaumburg Flyers baseball team take on the Winnipeg Goldeyes at Alexian Field from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Aug. 15. Cost is $30 for members and $40, nonmembers. Ticket, supervision and transportation are included in the cost. Bring extra money for food, drinks and souvenirs.

The Teen Center is working with the Niles Senior Center to find teenagers willing to help senior citizens with leaf raking, snow shoveling and general yard work while earning money. Complete the Niles Teen Job Connection form available on the center Web site and return it to Mark at the center. Information will be shared with the director of the center and contacts will be made with residents in need of services.

VOLUNTEERS

Porchlight Counseling Services is looking for volunteers to join its 2009 event committee. The group of local women and men donate their time and talents by organizing the annual fund-raising event. The committee meets the first Monday of every month in Wilmette. The atmosphere is friendly and fun. As a result of these efforts many young rape survivors are able to get professional counseling they need to heal and go on with life. For more information about Porchlight go to www.porchlightcounseling.org. For information about this committee contact Executive Director, Laura Sabino, laura@porchlightcounseling.org, or call (847) 864-1557.

Legislation for safer toys, we hope

STEPHANIE ZIMMERMANN
THE FIXER - Chicago Sun-Times

Some good news from Washington: Significant legislation that would strengthen safety standards for toys and infant products is closer than ever to becoming reality. The U.S. House and Senate have passed it. It now goes to President Bush, who hasn't said whether he'll sign it. We sure hope so.

The legislation, H.R. 4040, would require toys and infant products to be tested before sale and to be free of lead and phthalates. It also would give the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission the funding and teeth it needs to crack down on dangerous products.

After all the recent recalls of lead-tainted toys and kiddy jewelry — and who could forget the baby teethers with phthalates — The Fixer really hopes this passes.

The move is supported by a coalition of consumer, public interest and scientific groups, including Kids in Danger and the American Academy of Pediatrics, both based here in the Chicago area. If you're in favor, tell your senators and the White House.

Dear Fixer: DISH Network was called to our home because of static on one of our TVs. The tech replaced the receiver and we were later billed $100, because they said there was a foreign substance in the receiver.

We have gotten nowhere with their customer service. We're told they can't tell us what the foreign substance was. They just expect us to pay the $100.

We were never told there would be a charge for the technician to come out. We would not have had the receiver replaced had we known about the charge.

Edmund Barnes

Dear Edmund: Team Fixer forwarded the issue to Parker McConachie, who does PR for EchoStar, owner of DISH Network. He promised he'd look into it. Soon after, the heavens parted and DISH gave you a credit for the $100.

As for the foreign substance — we can't say for sure, but we think it was a glob of snafu.

Stretton, William C.
William C. Stretton, age 82, of Savanna, Illinois, died Monday, July 28, 2008, at the Mercy Medical Center North, Clinton, Iowa. A memorial gathering will be held from 1:00 – 3:00 p.m., Sunday, August 3, 2008, at the Savanna Moose Lodge, Savanna. According to his wishes, William will be cremated and his cremated remains will be scattered. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be given to Loon Watch, C/O Sigurd Olson Environmental Institute; Northland College; 1411 Ellis Avenue; Ashland, Wisconsin 54806-3999 or the Carroll County Humane Society; P.O. Box 93; Mount Carroll, Illinois 61053 in William's memory. Online condolences and memorial tributes may be sent to the family at www.lawlonesfuneralhome.com
William was born on December 11, 1925, in Oak Park, Illinois, the son of Robert F. and Violet (Burley) Stretton, Sr. William attended Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, where he played baseball. William served his country in the United States Air Corp at the end of World War II. He married Anne Marie Janggan on August 14, 1948 in Chicago, Illinois. Anne died on November 29, 2007 in Clinton, Iowa.
William spent his childhood in Oak Park, Illinois; Plymouth, England; County Laois, Ireland; and Williams Bay, Wisconsin. In his younger years, William played baseball for various minor league teams for the White Sox Organization, before beginning his career as a teacher. William taught math at Lyons Township High School in LaGrange, Illinois, before he joined the faculty at the College of Dupage. After retirement he moved to Savanna and enjoyed summers at his cabin in Marcell, Minnesota. He also enjoyed bird watching and hiking.
William is survived by one brother, Robert F. Stretton Jr. of Savanna; three nephews, Robert (Vicki) Stretton III and Mike (Tammy) Stretton, all of Savanna, and Jeff (Sandy) Stretton of McAlester, Oklahoma; a niece Kathleen (John) Eaton of Savanna; three great nephews; and two great-great nieces.
William was preceded in death by his wife, Anne; one sister, Lucy V. Singer; one brother, Harry R. Stretton; and sister-in-law, Martha.

Cardinals finish season above .500

By JIM EDISON
jedison@pioneerlocal.com

The final tournament of the year turned out to be a rather tough one for the Lakeside Cardinals baseball team.

Playing against some solid competition at the Indian Breakers Invitational in Chesterton, Ind. the weekend of July 25-27, coach Bill Palmer's squad went 1-3. The Cardinals finished the 2008 campaign with an overall record of 18-16.

Before heading to Indiana, Lakeside defeated the Lombard Lightning 16-7 on July 23 in impressive fashion.

"We fell in a deep hole early in that game," Palmer said. "(Starting pitcher, Mike) Trotta (Notre Dame 2008 graduate) got hit hard and they took a 6-0 lead. Amazingly, we came back strong. We had a nine-run fifth inning and ended up winning."

In that comeback, a number of players sparked the offensive attack. Joe Romano (Notre Dame) had two doubles and two singles, Chris Kontos (Niles West) had a triple and a double and Brendan Ryan (Niles West) tagged a three-run homer.

Lakeside Cardinals' John Boswell contributed to the team's summer campaign, which ended at the Indian Breakers Invitational the last week of July. The Cardinals finished the season with an 18-16 record.

Palmer's team also had a good start to the Indiana Breakers Invite on July 25. The Cards got a solid pitching performance from Kevin Sullivan (Highland Park '08 graduate) and carved out a 5-3 triumph over the Bloomington Gold team. Sullivan helped his own cause with a two-RBI double and Joe Moran ('08 Notre Dame graduate) had an RBI-triple.

Unfortunately for the Cards, things went downhill from that point on in the tournament. On Saturday, Lakeside dropped a hard-fought contest with the local rival Norwood Blues 3-1.

"They threw their best guy, Sean Kennedy (Warren), and we countered with Jack Havey (Loyola) and John Nasshan (Niles West)," Palmer said. "Each of our guys pitched four innings and did well. With the score tied at 1-1 in the top of the ninth inning, though, Norwood came up with a pair of runs."

On Sunday, the Cardinals dropped a pair of games. Palmer's team got crushed by Kalamazoo 14-2 and dropped a close one to the host Breakers 5-2.

"I thought our starting pitching was good this year," Palmer said. "And we will have three good starters back next year. But we need to tighten up on defense. I think (infielders) Kevin Polinski (Hersey) and Cody Stevens (Glenbrook South) will give us a good foundation."

Two losses end Morton Grove Mustangs' season

By DAN CURRIER
dcurrier@pioneerlocal.com

The Morton Grove Mustangs bowed out of the Cook County American Legion tournament, losing two games last week.

The Mustangs dropped a 9-1 game to defending County champion and No. 2 Arlington Heights on July 29 and then lost to Evanston 16-11 on July 30 to end the season at 17-17-1.

"It was a great year and it was gratifying to restart the program," Mustangs coach Ed Toledo said. "We're a young team, with five of the 18 players going into their junior year in high school. We lose three to graduation, so we should come back with a strong group next summer. We couldn't have gotten through the season without the support from Post 134. They were great to us."

In the Arlington game, which was played at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights, Alex Lazara gave up six hits in eight innings with five strikeouts and two walks to earn the decision.

Morton Grove scored its only run when Mitch Dubin doubled to the fence, driving in Tyler Benz from first. Toledo said Dubin's hit should have been a triple.

"He's not the fastest kid on the team," Toledo said. "With two outs, we didn't want to take a chance, stretching it out to a triple. I don't think he would have made it into third."

Charlie Capozzoli and Craig Hoffman were the only other Mustangs to provide any hitting. Capozzoli went 1-for-2 with a single before being injured in the third inning, when his foot was stepped on.

Hoffman, who replaced Capozzoli in center field, had two singles in two at-bats.

The game was scoreless heading into the fourth inning, when starting pitcher Dan Raetzman got into trouble. He walked three batters and hit another as Arlington jumped out a to a 3-0 lead.

Manny Mikhail relieved Raetzman, but he wasn't much better, allowing five runs in 1 1/3 innings. Mark Balow finished the game.

While the defeat to visiting Evanston appeared to be a slugfest, Toledo said it was nothing of the kind.

"Both teams struggled with their pitching," Toledo said. "For this late in the summer, it wasn't up to par."

Morton Grove starter Luke Kalliantasis allowed two runs in the first inning and six more in the second as the Mustangs quickly fell behind 8-0. Evanson held the lead after that, despite several rallies by the Mustangs.

Raetzman had two doubles as the designated hitter as the Mustangs scored three runs in the third inning, two in the fifth and the final four in the ninth inning.

Capozzoli went 2-for-5 with two RBIs and Brian O'Toole hit a single and a double for Morton Grove. Pete Engle also had a single and two doubles for the Mustangs.

The Niles North Junior Vikings baseball team will hold tryouts Aug. 16-17, beginning at 10 a.m. at Niles North High School. The program is open to players 12 and under, 13 and 14 years old. For more information, call Ed Toledo at (773) 852-5502.

MORTGAGE UPDATE

Mortgage rates drop, for a change By Holden Lewis • Bankrate.com

Mortgage rates fell this week, as bad economic news outweighed the good.

The benchmark 30-year fixed-rate mortgage fell 7 basis points, to 6.7 percent, according to the Bankrate.com national survey of large lenders. A basis point is one-hundredth of 1 percentage point. The mortgages in this week's survey had an average total of 0.41 discount and origination points. One year ago, the mortgage index was 6.71 percent; four weeks ago, it was 6.53 percent.

The benchmark 15-year fixed-rate mortgage fell 10 basis points, to 6.22 percent. The benchmark 5/1 adjustable-rate mortgage fell 13 basis points, to 6.35 percent, and the 30-year, fixed-rate jumbo, for larger mortgages, fell 3 basis points, to 7.65 percent.

Rates fell on the news that unemployment claims and existing home sales were worse than forecast. Those two economic reports came out July 31, and rates bounced back a little in subsequent days, but not all the way back.

The lower rates didn't bring out the borrowers, though. According to the Mortgage Bankers Association, applications were down 30 percent last week, compared with the same week a year ago. About one-third of applicants were applying to refinance existing mortgages, and only one in 14 applicants wanted to get ARMs.

New housing law helps first-timers

The biggest news of the week had to do with the passage and signing of the new housing law. Among the most important provisions in the law are a first-time homebuyers' tax credit and a plan to rescue delinquent borrowers by allowing them to refinance into loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

First-time homebuyers will get a tax credit of 10 percent of the purchase price, up to $7,500 (or up to $3,750 each for two homeowners who file their taxes separately). The law defines a first-time homebuyer as someone who hasn't owned a home in three years. In the case of couples, if either spouse or partner has owned a home in the past three years, both are ineligible to take the tax credit.

The tax break is not that generous, anyway -- because the money has to be repaid over a 15-year period. A person who buys a first home this year will get the credit in the form of a refund on her 2008 taxes. The bill comes due two years later, when one-fifteenth of the amount has to be repaid each year for 15 years. For someone taking the maximum $7,500 credit, that's $500 a year.

The credit applies to any qualifying person who buys a home from April 9 this year through June 30 next year.

Underwater homeowners get help, too

Another provision of the law seeks to help people who overpaid for their houses and the banks that goofed by giving those borrowers unaffordable loans. It's targeted toward people who have fallen behind on their mortgage payments, and who owe more than their houses are worth because of declines in property values. Normally, it's impossible for people in this situation to refinance, for two reasons. First, no one will give them a loan for more than the house is worth. Second, it's too risky to give another mortgage to someone who already is behind on their current mortgage.

The law seeks to resolve this problem by encouraging lenders to forgive delinquent borrowers' debt down to 87 percent of the property's current appraised value. In some cases, forgiving the debt might be cheaper than going through with foreclosure. What do the banks get out of forgiving the debt? They get to wipe a problem loan off the books.

The new, refinanced loan under this plan is insured by the FHA. Borrowers will pay higher-than-normal FHA insurance premiums. Ultimately, if those premiums aren't high enough to offset losses, the taxpayers will be on the hook for the difference.
