Amannio said the village’s ethics board now has the power to do more than it ever has before. This includes investigating claims of corruption and enforcing village policies.

In the first instance, the new ethics board issued the “outside appointment” of a village employee.

The new board, which consists of experienced attorneys and independent members, will be a valuable asset to the village.

The new board’s ability to investigate and enforce village policies will be a significant improvement over the previous ethics board.

In the long run, the new ethics board will help ensure that the village is operated in an honest and transparent manner.

The new ethics board will be a valuable asset to the village.

In conclusion, the new ethics board will be a valuable asset to the village.

Notre Dame freezes tuition

By TONY BERTUCA

Notre Dame High School in Niles has announced a tuition freeze for the academic year 2009-2010. The freeze will affect different grade levels.

The actual cost per student at Notre Dame is $10,500, with the difference being made up by fundraising, grants and gifts, according to the school.

"During these tough economic times we understand the struggle that families are facing," said VIOIC President the Rev. John F. Spitzel in a statement to the school. "We hope this tuition will enable families to plan accordingly for the next school year."

The Village of Niles is considering a repeat from last winter's successful experiment - to put down a layer of salt and put down a layer of salt and put down a layer of salt to make it easier to drive, but said there are problems with the resident left behind. Until a cost-effective alternative is found, Callero said he was consulting with the Public Services Department.

"We plan to put our pico salt to save the salt and apply to any village," he said. The Public Services Department hopes to purchase 1,000 tons of salt from Morton Salt Co. for $100.85 per ton, as well as $3,000 tons of salt for Morton Salt at $100.40 per ton.

Jocelyn and her crew are getting ready for more salt.

The village is preparing to experiment with a boiler fuel, an organic alternative to salt, but officials have said the method is impractical and has heavy startup costs. A company did come out and put a layer of salt in the area, but they died out not what it is correctly," he said. "We are waiting for the thaw to resolve this problem but there is a threat now." He plans to buy the fuel and storage for $1,000.

School board race uncontested in District 63

By TONY BERTUCA tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

The race for the Niles school board ended before it even began. Two of three open seats in the Niles District 71 board will not be contested, district spokeswoman Cindy Bli said.

The candidates are: President Jane Wakim, Steve Levy and Walter Sulkin, all incumbent board members, and newcomer Linda Ronne. Incumbent Roger Plasnar will not seek re-election. The elections will be April 7.

District 71

The candidates have filed to be on the April 7 election ballot. The candidates are: Mary Kwong, Matthew Holofecik, Karen Johnson and Rich Patch. Two incumbents, and newcomer Michelle Hansen.

Library board

Three candidates will run to fill three seats on the Niles Library Board in an uncontested election. Library spokeswoman Beth Walsey reported.

Incumbent Margot Pollard will not seek re-election, as will incumbents Chris Bell. Bell was appointed last year when the board had an opening, and Bell will be his first election. Nonconsumer Linda Gross will run for the position vacated by Grace Conroy.

Library Board President Dennis O'Conner will not seek re-election, but will instead run for a seat on the Park District Board of Commissioners.

Sheriff's office describes gang presence in township

There are several street gangs that are active in Maine Township, but the one that is causing the most concern is the Surenos 13 gang. According to Chief of Police Mike Fonseca, the Surenos 13 gang has been especially active in the area near Maine South High School.

The Surenos 13 gang is known for its distinctive symbols, which consist of red and black paint with the number "13" written on it. Members of the gang are often seen wearing red and black clothing or accessories.

In an effort to help residents better identify potential gang members, officers are working to identify each individual gang member in the area. They are also calling on residents to report any suspicious activity or sightings.

The Sheriff's Police Gang Intelligence Team is working within Maine Township, with officers working to identify and deter gang activity and to keep the peace in the community. Officers are also advising residents to be aware of their surroundings and to report any suspicious activity to the department.

How residents can help authorize

- Report any suspicious activity or sightings.
- Be aware of your surroundings.
- Stay vigilant and be observant.
- Report any gang activity or incidents.
- Support the community by being a positive influence.

Comment:

"It's important to be aware of the potential risks associated with gang activity and to take steps to prevent it. By working together, we can help to keep our community safe and secure."

These Valentine’s Day events have real heart

By STEVE PFTELICH Contributor

People have been sending valentines for a long time. Kids will have their own Valentine projects on the first Friday, Feb. 13, at the Park Ridge Public Library, 20 N. Prospect Ave., Park Ridge. (847) 682-1610 or www.parkridge.library.org.

Children will create valentines for their friends and parents to explore the season. The first floor will have our preservation, $3 for children under 12 and $5 for adults. Registration is due on Feb. 13 by 7 p.m. A $3 charge is due on Feb. 11.

Every year we do some kind of simple historic craft that is related to the theme. Children can learn how to make valentines. On Feb. 13, children will be shown how to make valentines for today. The cost is $3 for each child and $5 for adults. Registration is due on Feb. 13 by 7 p.m. A $3 charge is due on Feb. 11.

If you have a question, please call (847) 682-1610.

THE CLASS

The book that most influenced the school's turbulent history, as in favor of the school's administrators over the board of education and the community, is "The Class," by Louis Sachar. This book is about a reformation of a year he spent teaching.

Shannon McClelland and her boyfriend, Stuart Rookwood, on the Carnival Cruise Lines ship Destiny, get ready to sail.

MIAMI - Seeking a getaway despite the downturn, Olivia Gonzalez called her travel agent with an agenda.

"I said, what kind of deals do you have?" said the Miami resident, who is in her 60s, standing outside the Port of Miami. What she found was a six-day, five-night cruise through the Bahamas and Turks and Caicos for $299 a person.

That was all the convincing Gonzalez and thousands of other passengers have needed lately to set sail. Though vacations are disposable when money gets tight, the cruise industry has kept ships full with deep discounts and some itinerary changes to shorter, cheaper voyages.

Norwegian Cruise Line is sailing three- and four-day swings for the first time since 2004. Carnival Corp. is offering free state room upgrades and more Caribbean choices - a quick skip from the Miami port - in 2009 to accommodate demand.

"Consumers are looking for more value for their vacation dollar," said Howard Frank, Carnival's chief operating officer, on a recent conference call with analysts. "And our shorter, less expensive Caribbean cruise products are performing much better than our premium and luxury, longer cruise products. So we are seeing a consumer trade-down to value."

The major cruise lines also are seeing vacationers wait longer to commit. Before the downturn, bookings averaged about six months in advance, maybe eight months for luxury trips, said Bob Sharak, executive director of the Cruise Lines International Association.

"People are deferring their purchases to the last minute," he said. "They're booking, but it causes the operators some degree of agitation, because it takes longer to put that sailing on the books.

"I don't think that's something unique to our cruise business right now. I think all travel is like that."

Carnival is offering three- and four-day trips to Mexico and the...

NEW YEAR IN NYC

'ACULTURAL CENTER' | Stumble upon the unusual in Big Apple's wonderful Chinatown

BY DEB HARRIS

NEW YORK - This year, our family planned a trip to New York City to celebrate the New Year. We were excited to explore the city's vibrant culture and sample its diverse cuisines. We started our day by visiting the iconic Times Square, which was abuzz with the energy of the New Year's Eve celebration.

We spent the afternoon exploring Chinatown, one of the city's most culturally diverse neighborhoods. It was a delightful contrast to the busy streets of Times Square. Chinatown is known for its delicious Chinese cuisine, and we were eager to try some of the local specialties.

We visited a small restaurant near the heart of Chinatown, where we sampled tofu rolls, a dish that originated in China. We were struck by the unique flavors and textures of the food, which were a delightful contrast to the familiar American fare we had been eating.

In the evening, we attended a cultural event at the Chinese Cultural Center, where we learned about the rich history and traditions of China. The center offered a variety of programs, including live music, dance, and theater performances. We enjoyed watching the traditional Chinese dance, which was beautifully performed.

After the event, we decided to visit a place where we could enjoy some good Chinese food. We settled on a restaurant that specialized in Chinese dim sum, a type of food that is typically served as small portions of various dishes.

We sampled a selection of dim sum dishes, which included dumplings, steamed buns, and various types of vegetables. We were impressed by the variety and quality of the food. The dumplings were particularly memorable, with their tender skin and flavorful filling.

We ended our day by visiting the Brooklyn Bridge, where we could see the city's skyline illuminated in the evening. It was a beautiful way to end our New Year's celebration in New York City.

The best part of the day was the experience of exploring Chinatown and experiencing its unique culture. We look forward to returning to New York City and discovering more of its diverse neighborhoods and cultural attractions.
How to avoid brain drain

Eldерhostel | Travel paired with learning is good exercise for seniors

BY NICE SPARRING

As you’ve escaped middle age and are ready for the long calm of retirement. What next? If you spend less time blocking out the Front Porch, will your brain drop into senility? Fortunately for this is educational travel. Visit these splendid places that more only daydreams during your nose-to-the-grindstone years, and learn while you do. Better still, travel with a group of people who share your interests and your age bracket.

The organization pitching in this kind of travel is Elderhostel, which says it is dedicated to making it easy for you to share your interests in travel and learning. Elderhostel is a not-for-profit organization founded in 1975 as a student cooperative at five college campuses. Today Elderhostel says it attracts more than 160,000 participants annually to nearly 8,000 tour packages in 90-plus countries, according to the not-for-profit organization.

Eldеrhostel started in 1973 in five college campuses. Today it attracts more than 160,000 participants annually to nearly 8,000 tour packages in 90-plus countries, according to the not-for-profit organization.

Eldеrhostel offered its first international program in 1981 to its members in the United States and Canada, and in 1981 Elderhostel emphasized a package that was only daydreamed before: a single price without any hidden costs for your trip are covered. Participates provide shared transportation, and comfortable to travel with experts allow you to learn more, cost of programs in the United States.

With respect to changes in educational programs, you can book the flights yourself or have Elderhostel do it. Rates vary widely by destination, and the type of trip. My wife and I paid just under $10,000 to visit my native Haiti paired with study cruise of Antarctica for just over $10,000, a 10-night study cruise of Antarctica, the full-day, full-credit classes, and most other services, field trips, lodging, most meals, and transportation.

Tips for Traveling Abroad. Or starters, go to the U.S. State Department’s travel page, www.travel.state.gov and click on “Tips for Traveling Abroad.” Or check with a travel agent or visit a medical protection agency. Elderhostel offers a Travel Guide to the U.S. for about $10 a person, including medical, travel, and Trip Airfare from the United States. Also on the high end is a 24-hour study cruise of Antarctica, the Parkhotel in Austria, and a nearly 16,000-person trip paid just under $10,000 to visit my native Haiti.

Obama recently directed the Environmental Protection Agency to propose new fuel-efficiency standards that will require automakers to sell more fuel-efficient cars and trucks. The agency has long been looking for ways to encourage consumers to buy more efficient cars and trucks, but the new rules are expected to have a significant impact on the auto industry.

The Bush administration had blocked the efforts by the states, which argued that it was not within the EPA’s authority to make such regulations. The Obama administration has repeatedly said that it would support stronger regulations, but the new rules are expected to have a significant impact on the auto industry.

The industry is in total shambles, and the Obama administration is coping with an economic recession that has hit the industry hard. The new rules are expected to have a significant impact on the auto industry.

The regulation could also be a significant setback for auto makers, who have been working to develop more fuel-efficient cars and trucks. The regulations are expected to be enforced starting in 2011, and they could have a significant impact on the auto industry.

All-new Dodge Ram is the right truck at the wrong time

BY JEFF TAYLOR
autoREVIEW

After driving this big, bold pickup truck, I'm left wondering why it is even in production. Dodge aimed to create a family-oriented hauler, but the results are not promising either.

With the Ram's large frame and block, it's hard to believe it weighs in at just 4,770 pounds. The truck is capable of handling a variety of tasks, from transportingPDF equipment to towing a trailer. However, the overall performance leaves something to be desired.

The 5.7-liter Hemi V8 engine provides adequate power, but the transmission is not as smooth and responsive as expected. The ride quality is also let down by the stiff suspension and choppy bed when unloaded. The interior is well-equipped with advanced features and technology, but the overall design is not as appealing as other trucks in its class.

The Ram is not without its innovative features, such as the rear-seat entertainment system and the hands-free power liftgate. However, these features are not enough to make up for the overall lack of performance and handling.

In conclusion, the All-new Dodge Ram is a fine example of a large, family-oriented pickup truck, but it falls short in terms of performance and handling. It may be a suitable option for those who need a truck for heavy-duty tasks, but for the average buyer, it may not be the right choice.

Presently, builders are offering financial opportunities and support for buyers interested in buying a new construction home. Here are a few of the opportunities being offered by local builders.

In spite of challenging market conditions and cold winter weather, sales have been hot for Libertyville-based Cainbridge Homes, The company reported 2008 sales figures up 25 percent over sales during 2007, and brisk buyer activity is continuing through the first weeks of 2009.

"Contrary to some media reports, there is a definite increase in buyer interest and sales in the numerous Camelbridge Homes new home communities throughout Chicagoland," said Paul Ivers, president of Cambridge Homes. "Some buyers view the historic low interest rates, tax credits of up to $7,500 for first-time buyers, FHA down payments of 3 1/2 percent and attractive incentive programs as persuasive reasons to make the move they may have been delaying. And, Cambridge Homes offers excellence in every aspect of design, construction, community amenities and service that today's homebuyers are looking for."

Mortgage rates fell below 5.5 percent this week.

The benchmark 30-year fixed-rate mortgage fell 11 basis points in the week ending Thursday, to 5.41 percent, according to Bankrate.com, which conducts a survey of lending institutions.

Rates on jumbo mortgages, which are available to those with higher incomes or larger down payments, also fell. The 30-year jumbo fell 17 basis points, to 5.48 percent, according to the Mortgage Bankers Association. The roll rate means fewer homeowners are catching up on their payments, a warning sign that prices are on their way to rising again.

The roll rate skyrocketed to 8.50 percent on Friday, up from 7.00 percent the previous week. The roll rate is calculated based on data from 13,000 mortgage servicers.

The roll rate is an indicator of how many homeowners are falling behind on their mortgage payments. A higher roll rate means that more homeowners are struggling to make their payments, which can lead to a decrease in home prices.

Dan Dowling, a broker for United Mortgage, says homeowners are still waiting for better rates.

"They're seeing an uptick in calls from people who are interested in purchasing a home," Dowling said. "But right now, the rates are still not good enough for many people."

Notre Dame's conference title hopes fade with loss

By Dan Shank
shank@pioneerpress.com

Notre Dame boys' basketball head coach Tom Lesyshen knows winning always tastes a bit better around here.

"Just like the last game, New Trier beat us" by seven. "But that's just fine with us. Just fine with me." Lesyshen said.

Notre Dame was up big at 3-2, 15-11, 27-25 before the Demons rolled off a 22-7 run.

"The two teams played a bit of a poor game. We played pretty poor," Lesyshen said.

Lesyshen pointed out that the team didn't play well towards the end of the first half.

"We had a hard time getting down the stretch," Lesyshen said.

Lesyshen said the team has a hard time when they're notpinning down the defense, but the team's defense was questionable the last two games.

"We played a bit more defense tonight," Lesyshen said.

The team played with a better defensive defense, Lesyshen said, but it was still too late.

"We played a bit better defense tonight," Lesyshen said.

Lesyshen said the team's defense could have been better in the first half.

"We played a bit better defense tonight," Lesyshen said.

The defense was not as good as it could have been, but the team played a better game overall.

OAKTON ROUNDUP

Raiders still second in conference play

Oakton Community College improved to 6-2 in the Illinois Skyway Collegiate Conference with a 76-43 throttling of Morton College on Feb. 12.

With the win, Oakton (0-7 overall) remains in second place in the conference, two games behind Moraine Valley Community College.

Senior forward Antonio Aviles led the conference in scoring, averaging 21.0 points per game.

The Raiders dropped in 85-55 decision to Morton College Jan. 29, leaving
